"Buzz! buzz!" went the hornet. So it would have sounded the day before. Now Andy knew he said, "Come with me, and I'll introduce you to the other hornets."

So, off they went, further down toward the peach orchard. There the family had built themselves a very enviable house. It served as a temporary lodging house for themselves, and was the place where new eggs were deposited, whence the hornets of the future sprang into life.

Andy remembered looking at this house, from a distance, only a day or two before. Now, to fly right into it was very funny! All the hornets came to look at him. All buzzed and talked so fast that he could hardly understand a word they said.

He was offered a blue-bottled fly for refreshment, and as he shrank from the proffered dainty, they all buzzed louder than ever.

Later his friend took him to a peach tree, and they regaled themselves on a ripe peach, which was much more to Andy's taste.

That night he slept on a limb of the same tree—it seemed so stuffy in the hornet house.

The next day all assembled in their house, and each received orders from the head of the colony. Each had to kill so many flies and bring them home, to be stored up for the next generation of hornets. Some remained at home to put the finishing layer to their house.

Andy was among the latter, to learn their trade. Hard work, too, it was. Beginning at early dawn to chew up paper, moisten it with glue, and smooth it on the outside of the hornet house, was no joke. All day long he worked. No rest, except two or three short visits to the peach-tree, to refresh himself.

Then to see all the other hornets come home, each laden with a fly, sometimes only half dead, still at tugging in the grasp of its captor, was to Andy disgusting in the extreme.

Three or four days dragged wearily on, and he was beginning to wish that he could be a boy again, and run errands, when one morning Andy was sent out with the others.

He flew with his old friend a little way, and then they separated. Andy saw a large fly on a window and made after it. The fly took refuge in the horse, and he flew in also.

How familiar that room looked! It was the nursery—yes, to be sure it was! There was the baby in the crib. Just then Susie said:

"Oh, nurse! a horrid hornet!"

Nurse was after him. Oh, dear! he should be killed right in his own home!

"Buzz! Buzz!" Would they never understand?

"Get out of this, you rascal!" cried nurse.

I'll catch him, nurse, in my apron, and then kill him."

"He'll sting you, Susie."

"Buzz! Buzz!" No, he wouldn't. He'd rather die than sting his own sister.

He screamed!

"Don't you know me?" and awoke to find nurse really standing over him, minus the peach tree.

"Why, Master Andy, did you ever go to sleep on the grass? I am afraid you've caught your death of cold. Come with me, and let me give you something hot."

"Why, nurse," Andy tries to explain, "I've been a hornet. You took me out in the orchard, sleeping in a tree over their nest."

Nurse tells him that she has been hunting for him for hours, and was in despair when he was discovered in the peach orchard.

Andy goes slowly home, too relieved to be a boy again to argue the matter with nurse.

"To be sure," he adds to himself, "days do have a hard time, but hornets have a harder."

And he believes he would not change places with any other of God's creatures, but stay on a hay until time changes him into a man.—Golden Days.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Which Loved Best?

I love you, mother," said little John;
Then, forgetting his word, his cap went on
And he was off to the garden swing,
And left her wood and water to bring.

"I love you, mother," said rosy Nell;
"I love you better than tongue can tell."
Then she teased and pouted full half a day,
Till her mother rejoiced when she went to play.

"I love you, mother," said little Fan;
"To-day I'll help you all I can;
How glad I am that school doesn't keep!"
So she rocked the baby till it fell asleep.

Then stepping softly she brought the broom,
And swept the floor and tidied the room;
Ere long the baby was fast asleep,
Helped and happy as child could be.

"I love you, mother," again they said—
Three little children going to bed.
How do you think the mother guessed
Which one of them really loved her best?

A Little Peace-maker.

They were hunting for May-flowers in the pasture one day, Daisy and Mae and Addie.

There weren't a great many in blossom; but once when Addie and Mae were looking together under the rusty-green leaves on the sunny side of an old stump, they found a single bunch, spicy-sweet and pink like a rose; and they both spied it at exactly the same minute.

"See what a lovely one I've found!" cried May.

"I saw it first!" cried Addie; "and it's mine."

"I pick!"

"It is, I say!"

So Addie snatched, and Mae snatched; and between them both the pretty pink blossoms were pulled in pieces.

"You mean thing!"

"I'll never, never, say way!"

O dear! wasn't it too bad, when the day was so sunny, and had begun so pleasantly, that it should be spoiled by black looks and cross words?

Daisy thought so; and presently she said out:

"O girls, just see what beauties! And there is one apiece. Don't let's we get cross."

So, after a minute, Addie smiled a little; and then Mae smiled a little more; and before long they were very good friends again. For the May-flowers were beauties, truly, and the girls found a good many more there in the shelter of the gray old bowlder.

Wasn't Daisy a little peace-maker?—Youth's Companion.

About Hornets.

Andy was in disgrace, and in a very bad humor as well. Ordinarily he was such a pleasant, bright-faced boy, that one would hardly believe that the little, cross-looking chap with the deep scowl over his eyes could be he.

When mamma went off to the seashore, for a few weeks of change and quiet rest, her only trouble had been about Andy. Susie and the baby, nurse could take care of, she knew; but Andy, since he had grown to the dignity of a schoolboy, was not as tractable in the nursery as he had been, and nurse had more patience with babies and little girls than she had for much orchard.

However, the doctor said mamma must go, and leave them all at home. So, nurse was carried her off, almost against her will.

Andy made so many promises to be good and mind nurse that she was persuaded that he would try to keep his word. And so he did. But nurse was unreasonable, and no boy likes to be called off from making a kite to run errands. Such "confounded" long ones, too the adjective is Andy's own. I should have said no boy, but Andy's species is rare, when he was only making paste for the beloved kite. I have it snatched away from him!

True, he was mixing it in a cut-glass goblet; but what matter? Due glass was as good as another; indeed, if it had been handy, he would have preferred a tin cup.

Altogether he was a much abused boy! If it were not for a girl either! I would have serious thoughts of running away. What a lark it would be to have old nursey flying around, with her apron strings floating in the air, dodging up to neighbors to hunt for Master Andy!

"I wish I was not a girl!" says Mac, the hardest time of anything in creation! I don't want to be a niminy, piminy, fol-de-rol girl either! I wish I were a bird; they don't have to mind. Yes, I'd even like to be a hornet! Look at that chap hunting flies over there! He has no nurse, and I'll bet does just as he loses a mind to."

These words, uttered aloud, were scarcely out of the little boy's mouth when, wonderful to relate, the very hornet he had been envying flew up to him and said:

"Would you really like to be one of us? Remember, a hornet's life is not all pleasure. He must work hard for his living, like all the rest of the Master's creatures. Think before you decide."

"Do you have nurses?"

"No."

"Then I'll be a hornet!"

How strange! At once he felt himself growing smaller and smaller. Now—see, he could fly! It was a delightful sensation to feel himself floating through the air.

"Buzz! buzz!" went the hornet. So it would have sounded the day before. Now Andy knew he said, "Come with me, and I'll introduce you to the other hornets."

So, off they went, further down toward the peach orchard. There the family had built themselves a very enviable house. It served as a temporary lodging house for themselves, and was the place where new eggs were deposited, whence the hornets of the future sprang into life.

Andy remembered looking at this house, from a distance, only a day or two before. Now, to fly right into it was very funny! All the hornets came to look at him. All buzzed and talked so fast that he could hardly understand a word they said.

He was offered a blue-bottled fly for refreshment, and as he shrank from the proffered dainty, they all buzzed louder than ever.

Later his friend took him to a peach tree, and they regaled themselves on a ripe peach, which was much more to Andy's taste.

That night he slept on a limb of the same tree—it seemed so stuffy in the hornet house.

The next day all assembled in their house, and each received orders from the head of the colony. Each had to kill so many flies and bring them home, to be stored up for the next generation of hornets. Some remained at home to put the finishing layer to their house.

Andy was among the latter, to learn their trade. Hard work, too, it was. Beginning at early dawn to chew up paper, moisten it with glue, and smooth it on the outside of the hornet house, was no joke. All day long he worked. No rest, except two or three short visits to the peach-tree, to refresh himself.

Then to see all the other hornets come home, each laden with a fly, sometimes only half dead, still at tugging in the grasp of its captor, was to Andy disgusting in the extreme.

Three or four days dragged wearily on, and he was beginning to wish that he could be a boy again, and run errands, when one morning Andy was sent out with the others.

He flew with his old friend a little way, and then they separated. Andy saw a large fly on a window and made after it. The fly took refuge in the horse, and he flew in also.

How familiar that room looked! It was the nursery—yes, to be sure it was! There was the baby in the crib. Just then Susie said:

"Oh, nurse! a horrid hornet!"

Nurse was after him. Oh, dear! he should be killed right in his own home!

"Buzz! Buzz!" Would they never understand?

"Get out of this, you rascal!" cried nurse.

I'll catch him, nurse, in my apron, and then kill him."

"He'll sting you, Susie."

"Buzz! Buzz!" No, he wouldn't. He'd rather die than sting his own sister.

He screamed!

"Don't you know me?" and awoke to find nurse really standing over him, minus the peach tree.

"Why, Master Andy, did you ever go to sleep on the grass? I am afraid you've caught your death of cold. Come with me, and let me give you something hot."

"Why, nurse," Andy tries to explain, "I've been a hornet. You took me out in the orchard, sleeping in a tree over their nest."

Nurse tells him that she has been hunting for him for hours, and was in despair when he was discovered in the peach orchard.

Andy goes slowly home, too relieved to be a boy again to argue the matter with nurse.

"To be sure," he adds to himself, "days do have a hard time, but hornets have a harder."

And he believes he would not change places with any other of God's creatures, but stay on a hay until time changes him into a man.—Golden Days.

Zealous Men the Successful Ones.

As far as natural endowments determine, the zealous men are par excellence the successful ones. But they have a besetting sin, which, being intrinsic, is their force, perhaps not quite a sin dignity. Except in the case of great creative minds, it is necessary to be somewhat partial in order to succeed in affairs. Broad culture is seldom efficient in any immediate way; narrower, intense purpose accomplishes the hard enterprises of the world, and is everywhere at a premium among those who are interested in getting things done.

I have a respect for bigots and partisans, and believe that the world owes a great debt to intolerant, one-sided men. It must have them; it could not push its reforms, or get its rough, unpleasant work done else. Narrow men are edged men, men of single and determined purposes; and in their purposes they are apt to succeed.

The liberal, the spirits of insight, really rule all; they are not always seen or heard, but they create the thoughts that direct the world's forces. But they turn over their thoughts to armies of stirring partisans, who adjust by forces of arms the claims of opposing truths. The philosopher would prefer to wait for evolution, and let things settle themselves quietly; but the reformers cannot wait for this. So they organize boards, wage religious wars, and piously burn the witches. There is a sad waste of force in these proceedings; but men promise to become wiser in course of time, and meanwhile the machine creaks slowly along, and some progress is made.—Titus Munson Coan, M. D.

Not All Alike.

Nearly all the heterodox men I have seen believed all men were coming to the same destination. Tom Paine and Whitefield, Jezebel and Florence Nightingale, Charles Guiteau and James A. Garfield, John Wilkes Booth and Abraham Lincoln, side by side! If this be true, I turn from such a heaven with loathing.—Rev. Dr. Talmage.

IT is better wisdom to fix things than to take them as they come.

Adobe Houses.

The Mexicans, says an exchange, make adobes thus: The sand of the Western and Southern Texas, Mexico, Arizona, and the Southern States of Mexico is highly charged with argillaceous. It is usually found so that if it be moistened and pressed into a mass, and allowed to dry, it will not crack or be crushed. It is this binding qualities of the clay or loam that holds the particles of sand together while the sand itself is prevented from crushing. A suitable place is selected and a man with any digging implement begins by forming a small hole in the earth, digging in a circle around it. He continues the heap, the circle and the depth of the digging. When the heap is sufficiently large to make a circular opening in the remaining the earth outside of the circle. This is a water-like heap, over which the man spreads a quantity of straw, hay, or manure, and then a large proportion of long fine grass then adds water, mixing the whole into a stiff, tenacious mud, and makes adobes. The molds are of various sizes—sixteen inches, by sixteen inches, by twenty-four inches, by twenty-four inches, etc. The smaller sizes are used for house walls and the larger sizes for fortifications, walls, etc. In cases rarely protect their walls, build them from one to three feet thick, the road, none of which is considered very thick. The adobes are made of a suitable timber and chinks are provided to carry off the water. The adobes themselves are of the same mold of which they are made in the countries where they are found and are free from attraction and thawing, adobes make good durable houses, delightfully cool in summer and warm in winter. The old church at Paso del Norte, over years old, is built of adobes, and the walls are, and always have been exposed to the weather, and the roof are made of the same material. The Mexicans have for centuries been making these excellent and durable. Houses of adobes are in American style, with roofs and floors of wood, and the interior is exceedingly handsome. They are pencilled to represent either stone or brick.

He Knew the Failing of the Girl.

Mr. Scott was an eccentric man who lived many years ago. He traveled about the country on horseback, and was one of the celebrated characters in the days when journeying, and methodical conduct, joined to form diligence, he gradually made a large fortune. For a great part of the year the proprietor of his hotel he frequented knew to a day and the very hour he would arrive. One time before a gentleman on a journey in the stopped at a small hotel to dine. He was waited on by a girl with whom he did not approve of, observing a fine duck roasting before the fire, said, the gentleman cannot, sir, said the landlady, is for Mr. Scott, of Exeter. Mr. Scott very well, joined the gentleman, "and not in your house." "True," said the landlord. "but if he says, when he sees her, he ordered a duck to be ready this day precisely at 2 o'clock to the minute, and if he does not see all the gentle man jogging the yard about five minutes before he pointed time.—The Eye.

Ginger Jars.

The ginger used in preparing crystallizing in the big London establishments all comes from China. An amusing story regarding the ginger jars and white stone jars is told. Chinese made a very large price, but some years they were prevailed upon to make a second size for the rich. The ginger. In time a third size was requested, but here the genius of Celestial rebelled. Their ordinary character regarded any new innovations as sacrilege. "And, sir," Superintendent, "we have never made in English patterns for our Chinese ginger. So the jars are genuine Chinese, but the jars are

Not Re-spinable.

The following conversation between two ladies at the Austin Opera House was overheard by an elderly man, who gave it away:

"Mrs. Plimbottle called on me yesterday."

"I haven't had anything to say to Plimbottles for several years. Before that I was quite intimate with them, and I must say they were very proper people, and I never knew a questionable person to associate with them."—Texas Siftings.

With Coats Wrong Side Out.

At the battle of Manassas the 33d regiment of the First Louisiana Brigade of Confederate Infantry was ordered by their Confederate regiment, to attack them for the enemy, fired upon them. An order was immediately given by the Louisianians to smoke their coats, put them on inside out, and the same spectacle of 800 men with the coats all turned wrong part on each other being, to the pomp of war was the first "grand reverse" that the Louisiana troops in the war.—Neville Courier-Journal.

DR. DEEMS says that kissing is not an American habit.

HE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

ARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

ABBOTT writes in Science that he found a full-grown chipmunk in the stomach of a bullfrog; in another the same species (Rana Catesbyana) and an eighteen-inch garter snake had been swallowed by the frog the snake was in the act of swallowing a mouse. The snake could not get itself while it had a mouse in its and the frog took advantage of it. Of course, no one will find very difficult to swallow.

ast letters of Horace Walpole, just ished for the first time, give ge pictures of the London of his favorite morning diversion was to ender the heads of newly hung ait at Temple Bar, where people g a male of letting spyglasses at a ecora look. Another fashionable ement was seeing prisoners dogged Newgate Bridewell, where men and e, stripped to the waist, were ht one by one to the whipping Atlanta Constitution correspondent says: "The other night while in Senator Brown I noticed a of rabbit fur protruding above his . I asked him if he wore a rabbit about his neck. 'No,' he replied I do wear a rabbit skin on cast. A lady commended it as best possible protection against cast. 'I use the rabbit skin, cut off and, tying the two legs together with a ribbon. I find the skin my neck. It has worked like a ent once heard Walter Scott tell husband what made him become . He reminded her that when years earlier she had visited Scott's "Lessora." This she had Dugald Stewart. "Yes," said repeated all he could remember ng and this, madam, was what saw in a poet. I remember that ed the more regular kinds of without success, but here was ing I thought I could do."

ress Field: Mr. Sanderson, the tendent of the Government ketching operations in Benguela speaks with more authority ny other experience than any other states that "there is not, nor ver, such a creature as a white e, in the ordinary acceptation of The so-called sacred white nts of the Kings of Burmah and ordinary elephants, possessed ain" analogous to those which the sperm-whale is now in the In that one the pinkish color of all over the trunk half way up head, and the same marks are the tips of the ears.

new Italian penal code abolishes capital punishment. 1867 to 1877, when the application death sentence in fact ceased, ing number of capital sentences pronounced: In 1866, 81 were condemned to death, but were executed. In 1867, 7 persons were executed out of 75 condemned, condemned, and only 7 executed; in 1870, 102 condemned, 1 executed; in 1871, 122 condemned, 2 executed; in 1872, 2 executed; in 1873, 54 condemned, 5 executed; 1874, 87 condemned, 3 executed. During the following the capital sentences were in number, but no one was ex-

ES Kingsone of the oldest sea captains United States, died recently ven, N. J., at the age of 104 years. to sea on a sailing vessel at the of 7 years, and when 20 years old master of the ship. He continued position for more than a century, and in all that time lost vessel, the Mary Ann, of Philadelphia. That was about seventy years ago although the captain was then many years of ago he managed himself, while several of the were drowned. In 1821 when on from Middle to Philadelphia taken prisoner by a pirate, who specie that the captain had on board, but the latter took means to conceal his treasure in of rock, and although the crew made solemn bind to the most fearful tortures he refused to reveal the hiding place and was at length permitted to go on. A remarkable point in his life is that for four generations there was not a death of any of his relatives until within the last two years, in which time his wife and three grandchildren have died.

A BELIEVER in the chameleon's diet once undertook to train his horse to live on next to nothing, and then complained that when he had reduced the daily dietary to a single straw the awkward quadruped spoiled the experiment by dying. Dr. Vessamayer, an English vegetarian enthusiast of Belfort House, Sydenham, has been afflicted by a kindred disappointment. This amiable theorist maintained the doctrine of living on a regimen representing a penny farthing a day, and had the honesty to try it on himself. He began toward the end of November, and after the first week published an exalted account of the wonderful intellectual clearness and sense of physical lightness and elasticity produced. But his penny farthing paradise turned out an illusion. He is now at death's door, with three regular M. D.'s attending him.

THE excavation of the St. Gothard Tunnel cost many lives. On coming out of the tunnel the men described the sensation as being like a sudden plunge into icy cold water. The hot, humid air affected the digestive organs very much, and produced intestinal worms, which caused the death of a great number of workmen. Horses were similarly affected, and died rapidly. Several eminent doctors who studied these peculiarities pronounced them as being due to the want of aeration and the poisonous gases evolved from the blasting operations. And they reported that during the working hours the men were always in a high state of fever, which was successful, when the work was done for the day, by cold shivers and collapse. With these experiences to guide them, the engineers of the Simplon have necessarily made the question of ventilation one of serious and anxious study.

At the Physio-Medical Journal, of Indianapolis, Dr. White tells of a magnetic healer who had been flecing the people of that city. The charlatan billed the town with statements that he was "indorsed by the crowned heads of Europe and Mr. Vanderbilt," and a spirited woman at Shawnee Mission met him at the depot on his arrival, and at the "beck and call" of the "healing gentleman on a journey in comfort" stopped at a small hotel to dine. She was waited on by a girl with whom he did not approve of, and, observing a fine duck roasting before the fire, said, the gentleman cannot, sir, said the landlady, is for Mr. Scott, of Exeter. Mr. Scott very well, joined the gentleman, "and not in your house." "True," said the landlord. "but if he says, when he sees her, he ordered a duck to be ready this day precisely at 2 o'clock to the minute, and if he does not see all the gentle man jogging the yard about five minutes before he pointed time.—The Eye.

LABOR.

The Reduction of Wages Under High Protective Tariff Dodges.

[Philadelphia Record.]

In many of the protected industries the reduction of wages is still going on, while it is observed that there is no corresponding reduction of the wages of skilled workmen who are indebted to the tariff for nothing but burdens. In a portion of the anthracite coal regions the wages have been cut down to what the miners describe as a starvation rate. Since the beginning of the year the reduction of wages of factory hands in New England has varied from 10 to 15 per cent. Bradstreet's review, quoted in the Record not many days ago, shows that in the rolling mills, the steel works, and the nail factories of the East an almost general reduction has taken place in the rates of wages, while there has been a partial reduction of the wages in those industries in the West. While there has been a large increase in the nail-making capacity, a general strike against reduced wages prevails in the nail works of New England. In the window-glass trade production has been resumed after a long strike, and will continue until oversupply induces another reduction of wages or another strike. In other protected industries there has been little variation from the downward tendency in wages. These reductions of wages, with strikes and loss of employment in many quarters, it need not be said, have been accompanied by much distress among working people.

In connection with this condition in the field of protected industry it is noted that greater reductions of wages have taken place in the East than in the West. The manufacturers of the East are on the outer edge of the home market, while the tariff clears the foreign markets to them, and they are therefore the first to feel the effects of over-production. Cost of freight does not permit them to take their products far inland before they are met by the competition of the West, and cost of raw materials through the tariff will not let their products out. They are thus between two fires, and when the crisis of over-production comes they must meet it with a reduction of wages. Hence a removal of the heavy taxes on the raw materials of industry is fast becoming a crying necessity with the manufacturers as well as the workingmen of the East, and all the sophistries of protection will not silence it. While busy manufacturies in the rear to supply the home market, it is of small advantage to dwell on the ocean front when a blind legislative policy will not permit the teeming products of Eastern skill and industry to reach the markets of the world.

Another significant fact in this reduction of wages is that it has not affected in the least the earnings of the skilled workingmen who are outside of the so-called protected industries. The carpenters, blacksmiths, masons, plasterers, and many other guilds of skilled mechanics have suffered no loss of wages, but, on the contrary, some of them are moving for an advance in order to protect themselves against the enhanced cost of the necessaries of life now imposed upon them by the tariff. Protectionists nobly assert that their wonderful system has raised the rate of labor, and yet it can not keep up the wages of that labor which is made its special care. If by that sophistry it can be pretended that a system which cannot prevent the wages of ironworkers, coal-miners, glass-workers, shoemakers, and the hand in cotton factories from declining to starvation rates, is the glittering asset that keeps up the wages of stonemasons, carpenters, blacksmiths, butchers, and bakers?

In a general financial and industrious crises like that of 1857 or 1873, reductions of wages, loss of employment, and depression are experienced in all industries and nearly all pursuits. But in this partial disturbance of trade the depression runs along a certain line of industries that are under the protection of high rates of duty, while outside of this line there are no signs of stagnation or weakness. How do the Protectionist champions account for the singular phenomenon? In the comfortable belief that the "home market" is a healthy tariff stimulus the workingmen in the protected industries are the chief sufferers, and yet it is in their behalf that this benevolent system was devised. The manufacturers can reduce wages, and thus obtain their commodities at cheaper rates, while waiting for a rise in the market. Whatever may become of their laborers, they at least are protected to a considerable extent in a market in which scarcity as well as overproduction is caused by law, if they can only wait until demand overtakes supply. But the workingmen, who cannot wait for a better market, must sell their labor for what it will bring, or starve. If they strike, with the market glutted with products under the tariffsmiths, they are in many instances doing what their employers desire. While the strike continues, production is diminished, and the tariff at the same time protects the manufacturers from competition. In this situation the workingmen are "protected" by the tariff from all but starvation. Hence a removal of the heavy taxes on the raw materials of industry is fast becoming a crying necessity with the manufacturers as well as the workingmen of the East, and all the sophistries of protection will not silence it. While busy manufacturies in the rear to supply the home market, it is of small advantage to dwell on the ocean front when a blind legislative policy will not permit the teeming products of Eastern skill and industry to reach the markets of the world.

Another significant fact in this reduction of wages is that it has not affected in the least the earnings of the so-called protected industries. The carpenters, blacksmiths, masons, plasterers, and many other guilds of skilled mechanics have suffered no loss of wages, but, on the contrary, some of them are moving for an advance in order to protect themselves against the enhanced cost of the necessaries of living imposed upon them by the tariff. Protectionists nobly assert that their wonderful system has raised the rate of labor, and yet it can not keep up the wages of that labor which is made its special care. If by that sophistry it can be pretended that a system which cannot prevent the wages of ironworkers, coal-miners, glass-workers, shoemakers, and the hand in cotton factories from declining to starvation rates, is the glittering asset that keeps up the wages of stonemasons, carpenters, blacksmiths, butchers, and bakers?

In a general financial and industrious crises like that of 1857 or 1873, reductions of wages, loss of employment, and depression are experienced in all industries and nearly all pursuits. But in this partial disturbance of trade the depression runs along a certain line of industries that are under the protection of high rates of duty, while outside of this line there are no signs of stagnation or weakness. How do the Protectionist champions account for the singular phenomenon? In the comfortable belief that the "home market" is a healthy tariff stimulus the workingmen in the protected industries are the chief sufferers, and yet it is in their behalf that this benevolent system was devised. The manufacturers can reduce wages, and thus obtain their commodities at cheaper rates, while waiting for a rise in the market. Whatever may become of their laborers, they at least are protected to a considerable extent in a market in which scarcity as well as overproduction is caused by law, if they can only wait until demand overtakes supply. But the workingmen, who cannot wait for a better market, must sell their labor for what it will bring, or starve. If they strike, with the market glutted with products under the tariffsmiths, they are in many instances doing what their employers desire. While the strike continues, production is diminished, and the tariff at the same time protects the manufacturers from competition. In this situation the workingmen are "protected" by the tariff from all but starvation. Hence a removal of the heavy taxes on the raw materials of industry is fast becoming a crying necessity with the manufacturers as well as the workingmen of the East, and all the sophistries of protection will not silence it.

Tax highway to perfect methods is paved with mistakes.

has not been decided as yet which shall have custody of the partnership at Chicago. If it is Foster he will be required to double, in view of the experience four years ago, to give heavy bonds.

A BASE FABRICATION.

Exposure of a Vile Attempt of the Republican Members of the Copiah Committee to Manufacture Political Capital by Circulating a Wretched Lie.

A week or two ago the following dispatch was sent out from Washington, and has been printed in nearly all the Republican papers in the land:

Republican members of the Copiah committee say that at one of the balls given in New Orleans, at the Mardi-Gras, Jefferson Davis, with his daughter, the daughter of Gen. Lee, Gen. Longstreet, and some other noted Confederate generals, sat in a box which was draped with Confederate flags, that a floral sword, decorated with the Confederate colors and addressed simply "To the President," was presented to this noted ex-Confederate party in the box, and was accepted, "And," said one of these exponents, "I did not think that Davis looked very much like exonerating himself, and in the minds of the civilized world it would be called treason."

The New Orleans Times-Democrat, one of the most conservative journals in the South, comments upon the above as follows:

We doubt if there be a single truthful sentence in this whole telegram. It is true that the daughters of Gen. Lee were there, but not that the daughter of Gen. Longstreet was with them. It is also true that the box was draped, but not true that it was draped with Confederate flags. It is true that Mr. Jefferson Davis was in the box, but it was also true that Admiral Cooper, of the United States navy, was, with his wife, in the box with him. It is true that a floral sword was presented, but it is not true that it was presented to Mr. Davis. It is true that the sword bore a legend, but utterly and absurdly false that the legend read: "To the President." The simple truth is, that the presentation was made more than a minute of respect and affection from Gen. Lee's soldiers to Gen. Lee's daughters. It bore the inscription, "The sword of Lee," and possessed no earthly significance beyond that which appeared upon the surface. It was designed to tell the ex-Confederates of a brave and honorable gentleman that his old comrades held his memory in love and reverence. The honors were duly acknowledged, and no disrespect to a dead-and-buried cause was implied or intended. We believe all three of these patriots and gentlemen were invited to the ball, and, therefore, the one who gave the alleged information had the opportunity, at least, of knowing that it was utterly and unqualifiedly false both in substance and intention.

These ladies sat in the box with a distinguished leader of the new deal and buried Confederacy, and with an officer of high rank in the federal navy. The box was draped in red, white, and blue, and the circumstance presented to the daughters of Lee was the emblem of a sword which was never sullied by any reason or misdeed—but a simple and touching testimonial to their father's fame, and wrought in flowers which are now as withered as the memories they embalm. It is not an idle notion heart-on the day that such pure emblems were once entombed some nineteen years ago.

Just one week after the Mardi-Gras ball and the event which caused it, Jefferson Davis died, and the Misses Lee stood under the rotunda of the United States Capitol as the funeral procession passed. They were among the few who were invited to the house of which statesman-in-bud-down in order that they might be present at the ceremonies there, and to which they accepted the tribute to the dead statesman's memory.

The whole tale rather we have quoted is a mean and contemptible fabrication from beginning to end. There is not a shred of truth in it except the names and dresses. If any of the three Republican senators present in New Orleans at the time mentioned will make a clean breast of the matter, he is unworthy to touch the hand of an honest man. North or South, Republican or Democrat, who values the integrity of his record or loves the white raiment of his honor.

For the Benefit of the Workingman.

John Roach is a great protectionist. He has used his influence for many years at Washington to perfect the system of taxation under which he holds a virtual monopoly of his business of building ships. It is never for his own interest that he advocates high taxation. Not at all. It is for the sake of the dear workingmen. In this strain we find him defending the duty on iron ore before the Tariff Commission:

Here are mines in the United States now in the mines undeveloped and depend on foreign ore to supply a material of so vast importance to us, and with no other reason to give only that we have been able to degrade and crush labor?

But, alas for human consistency! We find the same John Roach testifying before the Ways and Means Committee that he had had imported 30,000 tons of Spanish ore. This is the reason he gave for the course which, in the above remarks, he had so fervently denounced:

Mr. Hewitt—What is that ore worth in Spain?

Mr. Roach—It is not worth in Spain more than $5.50 a ton.

Mr. Hewitt—Then its cost (that is at $5.50) is nearly freight with it.

Mr. Roach—I do not care what it is, it does not go into the pockets of the workingmen in this country.

Mr. Hewitt—As none of it goes into the pockets of the workingmen of this country will you tell me why you import ore?

Mr. Roach—My answer is that I can get it, I say it because it is the cheapest.

The New York Herald was quick to detect this hypocritical discrepancy and to hit Mr. Roach with it. He replied that the quantity of ore he had brought was not "sufficiently large to affect the market and was to ridiculously small" to help the re-election of American labor. But he is not to get off so cheaply as this. Our census returns show that each man employed in the mines produces 251 tons a year. The 30,000 tons of Spanish ore imported by Mr. Roach would have kept 240 men busy for a year. Counting four people as dependent on each miner for support, the importation of Mr. Roach took the living out 1,200 American people was the first. This incident is a capital illustration of the thorough inconsistency of the professions by which the bosses feed the workingmen into believing that protection is maintained for their benefit.—Chicago Tribune.

The Literature of Advertising.

Business men find it very hard sometimes to write even a simple little three-line advertisement in the strict technical phraseology which is the only style allowable in the newspaper columns, and some houses employ a clerk especially for this work. Others leave it to the publisher to see that it comes out in good shape, and often the best talent upon a paper is brought into requisition to write out the virtues of a patent medicine in a sufficiently laudatory manner. Not long ago a man stood absorb

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at Waltz's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
O. M. BARNES, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Riot in Cincinnati.

Last Friday afternoon at Cincinnati, Wm. Berner, who had been tried for murder and found guilty of manslaughter, was sentenced to the penitentiary for 30 years, and to pay all costs of the prosecution. The prisoner had confessed the murder, and the verdict and sentence was not satisfactory to many people in that city. An indignation meeting was held in Music hall, Friday evening, at which many addresses of an exciting nature were made, and loudly applauded. After the meeting, the better element went to their homes, but many of those easily excited remained on the street and discussed the matter further. This body of men began to move toward the jail where the prisoner was confined, and the officers becoming alarmed called the whole police force of the city to help guard the building and prisoners. The presence of the police transformed the large body of citizens into a howling mob, without leaders or organization, and with an avowed determination to hang every one of the forty murderers confined in the jail awaiting trial. An assault was made on jail without effect. At one o'clock fire was applied to the jail, and the fire department prevented from extinguishing it. Gun and ammunition stores were pillaged, supplying an additional horror. This continued until daylight Saturday morning. The excitement was intense all day Saturday, but the mob did nothing until night. At ten o'clock fire was applied to the court house. The militia had been called out but were powerless to do anything effectually, and the firemen could no nothing to save the court house. The mob gained possession of four cannon, and threatened to turn Music hall and blow up the jail if the prisoners were not delivered to them. The fight continued until morning, many good citizens being among the killed, though taking no active part on either side.

Sunday night 3,000 soldiers failed to disperse the mob and the fighting continued until midnight.

On Monday 48 were reported killed and over 200 seriously or fatally wounded. The loss by fire will be over a million dollars, besides valuable records.

"That Ohio Man."

The new editor of the Charlotte Leader replies in a most ungentlemanly manner to our notice of the lack of harmony in the statement concerning his motto, and the changing of the age of his paper. The language used is unfit for a respectable newspaper, consequently we must omit it. As to the argument: When a new paper is founded on the ruins of one lately deceased, as was the case with the Leader after the Argus had suspended, if there be any desire to connect the two, it is usually done by giving the old number as well as the new at the time of the change. But in this case there was an avowed breaking away. The Argus was a losing business for months before it suspended. at least that was talked freely at the time, and not until Mr. Johnson and his associates broke loose from the old order of things, and obliterated it as much as possible from the new and improved, was it possible for the paper to thrive. And there has been no connecting of the two papers until now, when the present editor attempts to give the paper a little additional age by going back to the first establishment of the office in which it was printed. But really age has little to do with the present value and influence of a newspaper. Something else is necessary, as the new manager of that paper will find before he lives in Charlotte a year. As to the personal allusions to the editor of the JOURNAL: If our residence of three years in Charlotte is not sufficient to convince fair minded people that the epithets are insulting and uncalled for, all we can say at this distance will have no effect.

The silk weavers of Patterson N. J., 500 strong, have at last got their eyes open regarding the tariff and have a powerful organization working for free trade. They say their condition is getting worse all the time, wages are going down, while the necessities of life are as high as ever, and they notice that while their employers can always produce statistical evidence of hard times, when their employes want more wages, their mills increase and enlarge every year, and every year the houses of the manufacturers become more magnificent; every year the wives and daughters of the monopolists approach nearer and nearer the magnificence of "Solomon in all his glory," every year the scions of these manufacturing millionaires spend more and more money, yet they toil not, neither do they spin. Any working man in any line of labor, who will go to work and investigate the subject without predjudice cannot help being convinced that free trade is the only hope of salvation on earth. Cheboygan Democrat.

Not Results.

The Evening News sums up the Cincinnati riot as follows:

1. The 40 murderers against whom it was originally directed are safe and comfortable in their cells.

2. About 40 to 50 citizens, soldiers and police are killed.

3. About 200 more are wounded, some of whom will die.

4. Over a million dollars worth of property has been destroyed, which the taxpayers will have to make good.

Notes and News.

Kalkaska reports trade increasing.

Elk Rapids will have one steamboat from Chicago each week this season and possibly two.

Cameron Bros.' mill at Torch Lake will start soon. They have about 3,000,000 feet of logs on hand.

The bill to extend the bonded period of whiskey was killed in the house March 27, by a vote of two to six.

The editors of the Manistee Herald and Alba Record are now publishing highly creditable and elegantly illustrated biographical sketches of each other.

The Kalamazoo Telegraph of the 30th gives a cut and description of the new court house to be erected in that city, at a cost of $60,000.

A defective flue was the cause of a fire in Kalkaska's court house recently. It was extinguished with a loss of $200, covered by insurance.

The Traverse Eagle began volume 20 last week. It is a good paper, and is doing good service for the people in the fight against ring rule and monopoly.

Wm. G. Thompson, of Detroit, has consented for tariff reform, and lower taxes. He has left the republican party and we will not soon find plenty of new friends, even if they have voted generally with the democracy.

A bill is under discussion in congress providing for the redemption of the trade dollar at its face until Jan. 1, 1886. If it passes, it will be a measure to relieve bankers who are collecting and hoarding this coin for some such legislation

Ten car loads of hardwood square timber arrived here from the south last Friday. It, together with considerable that has been hauled by teams, is for the European market, and will be sent by way of from here to the St. Lawrence river. We understand there is to be considerable more to be delivered here.—Traverse Bay Eagle.

In the spring nature intends that the human body should be relieved of the impurities that have been allowed to accumulate during the winter months, and the very best medicine for accomplishing this object is Parmelee's Pocket Purifier. It will cleanse and purify the system and drive out all humors and impurity safely and quickly. Price $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Scientific investigation has proved that nothing but a direct application can cure the many forms of Piles, that we trouble all classes of mankind. In all forms of Piles, immediate and careful attention is needed. By faithfully following the directions given with each box of "Parmelee's Pile Suppository" a cure is certain. Warranted to give immediate relief. Price 25c per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

"That Ohio man," who assumes, through the Charlotte Leader, to correct Eaton county democrats to "Ohio ideas," does not maintain the high standard of excellence to which Mr. F. A. Ells had brought the paper. We recollect of "another Ohio man" who undertook to revolutionize the newspaper business in Charlotte, in 1856, discharged all his old help in mid-winter, imported a new lot who knew nothing about running machinery by steam, and at the end of six months put himself on record as a miserable failure to quietly moving back to Ohio and returning the office to the former proprietor.

Still booming. The daily average circulation of the Detroit Evening News for last week was 41,886. This does not look like ruin.

Coughs and colds are the inevitable results of sudden changes in the weather. Immediate attention should be given them so that they may not become established and result in Bronchitis, Congestion, Inflamation or even consumption. Hamilton's Cough Balsam soothes the irritated membrane, and assists in removing phlegm and mucus, thus, by its adhesion to the membranes, causes violent coughing. Great relief is received by even those in the last stages of consumption. In croup and whooping cough it is unequaled. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

—Scientific engineers say that the bridge over East River is the last long bridge that will ever be erected, and that, had engineers known as much in 1870 as they do now, this bridge would not have been erected. Tunnels are to take the place of bridges.—N. Y. Tribune.

—The Rio Grande Sugar Company Cape May County, N. J., have now 1,300 acres of sorghum under cultivation. They have more than doubled the capacity of their works, and look forward to a very prosperous season. The cane is growing finely, and an excellent crop is anticipated.

—A "Comulsion," presumably of experts, appointed by the French Society of Hygiene, has studied the condensed milk question, and reports that when it is diluted with twice or four times its weight of water it may in some cases be useful as a food for infants, but is always to be considered "unquestionably inferior to good cow's milk."—Health Monthly.

—The dredging of South Carolina rivers for phosphates is a new industry of considerable importance to the territory surrounding Charleston. Some of the crude rock is shipped to Europe, but most of it is ground at home before it goes to market. At the present time the demand is great, and all the companies are working on full time.—Chicago Herald.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year old mare with colt, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, cart, buckboard, and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of A. A. Bacon, on north shore of Pine Lake. 30tf

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND.

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, 10x20 in.; Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in. diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms to suit. Enquire of S. M. SEE.

Or of Washburn & Ackers, at the Machine shop. 33tf.

FOR SALE.

A FINE

Pair of Oxen

Yoke, Chain, and Sled, for Cash. Come Early.

J. BILO EATON.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

New Goods.

At Cost

FOR CASH

For the Next 30 Days.

MISS L. SPAULDING,

Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes

LATEST STYLES.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition

L. B. Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix

WILL M. GILBERT,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.

PIMPLES.

I will mail, free the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful. Also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, Dr. VANDELF & CO., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, CREEPING OF DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. ODGEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, HOOPING COUGH, and all throat and lung affections. The only object of the advertiser in sending the prescription, will be to relieve suffering. Address, REV. E. A. WILSON, Bible Prem. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.—State of Michigan. The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix. The Fourth National Bank of Grand Rapids vs. William T. Addis. Notice is hereby given that on the 5th day of January, 1881, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, at the suit of the Fourth National Bank of Grand Rapids, plaintiff, against the goods, chattels, moneys and effects of William T. Addis, the above named defendant, for the sum of one thousand one hundred and seventy-five dollars, which said writ was returnable on the fifth day of February, 1881. Dated this 5th day of February, 1881.

BLAIR, KINGSLEY & KLEINHANS,
Attorneys for plaintiff.

32-38

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.—State of Michigan. The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix. Lewis Brigham, Walter Brown, plaintiffs, vs. John Ambrose, James Matthews, defendants. Notice is hereby given that on the 6th day of January, A. D. 1881, a writ of attachment was issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, at the suit of Lewis Brigham and Walter P. Brown, who are doing business as co-partners under the firm name of Brigham & Brown, as plaintiffs, against the lands, tenements, goods and chattels, moneys and effects of John Ambrose and James Matthews, the defendants above named, for the sum of six hundred and seventy-five dollars, which said writ was made returnable on the 5th day of February, A. D. 1881.

Dated February 6th, A. D. 1881.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for plaintiffs.

32-38

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of charlevoix, at A. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 111 acres, six miles from Boyne City, on main road. Soil, clay loam. Good frame house, and two frame barns; 40 acres cleared, balance good hardwood timber. About 20 rods fruit trees bearing; one-half mile from school and one mile from church. Three thousand seven hundred rods of fence; less than two thousand stone. Inquire on the premises. For further particulars address DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix.

NOTICE OF SALE OF ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss.
County of Charlevoix. }

In the matter of the estate of FRANK CHALOUPKA, Minor

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned, Guardian of the estate of said Frank Chaloupka, by the Judge of Probate, for the county of Charlevoix, on the 3d day of March, A. D. 1881, there will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Lewis's hotel, in the village of Charlevoix, in said state, on Saturday, the 9th day of April, A. D. 1881, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day (subject to all incumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of the following described real estate, viz: The north east quarter of the south west quarter of section thirty-four (34), in township forty (40) north of range eight (8) west.

CHARLES CHALOUPKA, Guardian.

STATE OF MICHIGAN.—Three months in circuit, in chancery. Joseph Ambrose, Mary H. Wood, defendants. To the defendant above named: You are hereby notified that a bill of complaint has been filed against you in the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, at Charlevoix, on the 15th day of January, A. D. 1881. In this cause it is made difficult on file, that the defendant, Joseph Ambrose, is not a resident of this state, but is at Ellensburg in the state of New York, and that the said defendant, Joseph Ambrose, cause her appearance to be entered within four months from the date of this order, and in case of your appearance that you cause your answer to the complainant's bill of complaint to be filed and a copy thereof served on the complainant's solicitors, within twenty days after service on you of a copy of said bill and notice of this order; and that in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed by you. And it is further ordered that within twenty days the said complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Sentinel, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Charlevoix, and that such publication be continued in said newspaper in each week, for six weeks in succession, or that he cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendant at least twenty days before the time prescribed for her appearance.

OSCAR E. MAYNARD,
Circuit court commissioner.

CRUICKSHANK & GRIER,
Complainant's solicitors.

A true copy, attest: OSCAR E. MAYNARD,
Circuit court commissioner.

32-38

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 3, 1884.

Business Announcements.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crenter.

For a good bargain in Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, or Clothing, try Byron See's.

The best oysters of the season, go to the hot cakes, at Upright, Emrey & Co.'s.

Upright, Emrey & Co. have just opened a choice lot of English Breakfast Mackerel, the finest sample ever offered to the trade.

A $10 Suit for $7, and everything at such low prices, all will buy at Byron See's.

Upright, Emrey & Co. are noted for their Fresh Groceries and Flavoring Extracts.

Fresh Coffees, Teas, Spices, Crackers, Oysters, Foreign and Domestic Dried Fruits, and Canned Goods received this week. Upright Emrey & Co.

DINNER. Do you know that you can relate to attacks of Dyspepsia and all kinds of stomach derangements? Yes, worse still, to the result of kidney and liver disorder that is known as diabetes or possible Bright's disease, they are often fatal and that in a very short time. Loss of appetite, sour stomach, dizziness, nausea, dizziness, pains in side and back and many others, are but symptoms of disease. Be wise in time. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is the sovereign remedy. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO. general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl., $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
BUCKWHEAT FLOUR, per cwt., $4.50.
CORN MEAL, per cwt., bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.90.
HAY, per ton, $8@9.
OATS, per bu. 50c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt., $1.65.
APPLES, per bu., $1.40.
POTATOES, per bu., 30c.
ONIONS, per bu., $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb., 22c.
EGGS, per doz., 20@22c.
LARD, per lb., 11@12c.
HAMS, 16c; Shoulders, 12½c.
SALT PORK, 12c; Beef, 9c.
MACKEREL, per 3, 10c.
CHEESE, 20c.
WATER-WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

MEAT, beef steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½@ 15c; mutton, 12½@15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12½c.
TALLOW, 6½@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Personal Gossip.

Mrs. Dr. Crrlstein started for Chicago yesterday.

H. Lee Iddings is in Albion this week, visiting friends.

I. Stauffer, of Carpenter, gave the JOURNAL a call on Monday.

T. E. Foggs, of East Jordan, gave the JOURNAL a call yesterday.

R. W. Kane has returned from Kalkaska and other points south.

E. P. Cook is building a barn on the lately purchased of Mr. Houghton.

Eli Tomlonson got up steam enough Tuesday to blow the whistle of his tug Fred Smith and Al. Washburn returned on Thursday from their visit to Flint.

L. D. Bartholomew returned home from Florida yesterday. He reports a pleasant trip.

Capt. Thompson will try to run the fish tug to Boyne next Sunday, if the ice continues to soften.

Miss Flora Nelson, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. J. Grier, returned to Chatham last Tuesday.

Mrs. Wm. Tower, of Charlotte, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. J. Grier, returned home yesterday.

Mr. W. Wilson, of Boyne, visited Charlevoix last Friday and Saturday, the guest of the JOURNAL.

Tip Miller, on Main of the life saving station at St. James, spent a few days in Grand Traverse on his way to his station.

Dr. Lewis recently came to town to professionally, making the trip from Charlevoix here in one and a half hours.—Enterprise.

Mrs. Sarah McLean, dressmaker, will a few days be established in the rooms formerly occupied by D. W. Smith, on Church street.

Rev. J. T. Iddings will address a Good Templar meeting at the M. E. church next Sunday evening, under the auspices of the C. T. U.

F. F. Cole, of Boyne Falls, our former town's man, gave the JOURNAL a call on Thursday. He has charge of Smith's livery and stage barn at that place.

Ames Fox has sold his stock of hardware and rented his store to J. L. Hurd, of Detroit, who will take possession as soon as the spring rains are over.

E. B. Lapham is getting ready to build on his lots on Main street. His building is to be three stories in height, and covered with brick.—Rockford Register.

News Brevities.

Storm signals resumed April 1.

Don't forget to register next Saturday.

Norwood is to have a new town hall.

Geo. Miller's new hats go off like hot cakes.

An addition has been built on Cooper's store.

Will Ferguson has a new awning over his restaurant door.

Upright Emery & Co., display a fine line of new crockery.

Union temperance meeting at the M. E. church Sunday evening.

The steamer Gazelle will run on the same route she did last summer.

Since Geo. Miller's new hats were opened nearly everybody wears one of them.

Work has commenced on a new church for the M. E. society of Norwood.

A large stave factory is one of the possible manufacturing enterprises at East Jordan.

Z. N. Garbutt, attorney at law, Boyne City, favors the JOURNAL with a business card this week.

It is rumored that Amos Fox will build two stores on the vacant lots south of his present building.

The Charlevoix resort will have a pavillion and roller skating rink the coming season.—Evening News.

The present bad roads and the difficulty of getting in freight, is a forcible reminder that we need a railroad.

The light-house keepers at Waugoshance and Skillagalee are at their posts after four months vacation.—Ex.

It has been intimated by M. C. R. R. officials that they may build a branch to Charlevoix.—Evening News.

The tug Bob Stevenson has been thoroughly overhauled and repaired, and is about ready for a big summer's work.

A cow broke through the ice foot of Mason street last Thursday, and was pretty nearly exhausted before she could be got out.

J. Milo Eaton has begun the erection of a building opposite E. H. Green's residence, to be occupied by himself as an office.

The Charlevoix iron works have a new whistle, and its sound morning, noon, and night, is an improvement on the old order of things.

A. E. Pickard, will erect a store building on State street, East Jordan, 28x45, two stories high, the work on which will be commenced at once.

A citizen of Charlevoix wants the News to inform its readers that there are openings at that place for a merchant tailor and a dentist.—Evening News.

Geo. A. Leonard & Co. have their brush handle factory about ready to run. The lathes are not all here yet, but part of the saws may be started next week.

On April 1st there was a change of management in Eaton's livery stable, Geo. Durance retiring, and J. Milo assuming the entire management for the present.

The managers of the Charlevoix summer resort are beginning to prepare for the coming season, and Charlevoix will be made more attractive than ever.—News.

D. Sherwood is building a handsome miniature church for a yard ornament, the outside covering of which is bits of colored glass stuck with putty to the frame.

A move is now being made toward a survey from Elmira to this place for a railroad which may be secured at an early date, if our citizens will take hold and work zealously.—Enterprise.

One great need of this town is more store buildings. There is not a vacant store in Charlevoix suitable for a stock of dry goods, or anything of that nature, if anyone wanted to come here.

We have probably seen the worst of the dull times, and may look ahead with a reasonable degree of assurance that in the near future all our best industries will be in a highly flourishing condition.

The new council propose to work for the best interests of the village by seeing to it that the streets and sidewalks are kept in good condition and that the laws in regard to good order are strictly enforced.

Next to Antrim county, Charlevoix county is one of the best counties in Grand Traverse, and as having a steady and substantial growth. It has also some of the best people to be found anywhere.—Progress.

A committee has been appointed at East Jordan, Charlevoix county, to see about water supply for villagers use and for fire protection. The place is booming; will have another hardware store, April 1st, also a shingle mill. It already has an excellent foundry and machine shop, but sighs for a first class grist mill.—Evening News.

East Jordan, Charlevoix county, sighs for summer resorters the coming season to catch the speckled trout in Jordan river and otherwise disport themselves. There will be five steamers running there during the season.—Evening News.

When new-comers arrive in our midst and buy village lots or farms, and you know it, then let the printer know it, and the JOURNAL will let every one else know it. Let the outside world understand that we have a goodly share of new home-makers.

We are prepared to print election tickets neatly and promptly. Send or bring in your orders. Remember one thing, however, and that is to have all names written plainly, and then you may be reasonably certain that errors will not occur.

Ed. Bedford has built within a few days a new residence on Antrim street and is now finishing the inside. From present indications the building business will boom lively as soon as navigation opens, so that the necessary material can be procured cheaply.

Five new machines have arrived for the manufacturing company, which are being set up this week. More are on the road, and expected daily. As soon as they can commence running, building operations will increase rapidly. Carpenters will then be in good demand.

The Pine Lake house of Boyne City, is represented in our advertising columns this week. There have been numerous improvements made to this house since last season, and we are assured that the traveling public will find excellent accommodations and reasonable rates.

Mr. I. Stauffer, a real estate dealer at Carpenter, Emmet county, recently sold to Julius Fromm, of Batavia, N. Y., forty acres of farming lands, partly improved, in Evangeline township for $700. Mr. F. will continue his improvements and next spring will bring his family here and settle.

At the meeting at the M. E. church last Monday evening, plans for enlarging and improving were submitted by architect Kirpatrick and approved, and the work will progress as soon as the necessary means can be raised, the lack of ready money being the only reason for not beginning work at once.

We have been informed that the stock of the manufacturing company is being "centralized" rapidly, and in order to boom the grist mill project, the proper thing to do is for the gentlemen most interested in the site to come and head a subscription list with five to eight thousand dollars, and it is thought the balance will soon follow.

From good authority we learn that a new hardware store will be opened in the building recently vacated by Chamberlin & Parmelee. The name of the firm is D. C. Loveday & Co., who are now in Detroit purchasing their stock. H. H. Barker, of St. Louis, one of the firm, is one of the best posted hardware men in the state.—Enterprise.

There is a probability now that L. D. Bartholomew will soon move his hardware stock to the rooms now occupied by J. Milo Eaton's real estate office. A large warehouse and tin shop will be erected on one of the vacant lots between the Odd Fellows' hall and the harness shop. This change is made necessary by Mr. B.'s increasing business, and a desire to get down to this end of Bridge street.

"The Foster" ten party at the Central M. E. church Friday evening was a decided success, as predicted beforehand. That the building was completely thronged is an evidence of its success. The receipts of the evening show that over $54 was added to the treasury.—Lansing paper. This supper, like many others during the past few years, was furnished by the ladies of the society, and served from 5:30 to 9 o'clock for 10 cents a ticket. They have been popular from the first. Being held in the basement of the church, convenient to the business portion of the city, they are patronized by all classes. They afford a substantial supper for the mechanic, and an hour or two of social chat if he chooses to remain and enjoy it. The rules of our churches cannot provide entertainment that will produce better results socially and financially.

"Words that Burn" is the title of a book now being introduced to our citizens by B. F. Bisbee. It purports to give the best thoughts of the best authors, upon almost every subject of life, and contains also a biographical index of authors. This last feature is alone worth the price of the book. The book is well indexed, contains 50 full-page engravings besides many smaller ones, and is well bound, making a valuable addition to any library.

The coming year will be a booming one for Charlevoix; all outward and external appearances point directly toward it, and internal signs and symptoms are favorable. Business in all branches begins to pick up and the people generally are settling down into a spirit of confidence that dull times will soon be a thing of the past; property is changing hands, real estate is moving more briskly than for many years, and newcomers are looking for locations in our midst.

The following from the Elk Rapids Progress will apply to some extent to Charlevoix, varying, perhaps, the amount of freightage: "If Elk Rapids never gets a railroad, it will be because she will never give a bonus to bring one here. Our freightage here is considerable, say 70 tons a day, and this would be increased probably to 100 tons a day should a railroad touch here. All of the products manufactured during the winter are stored, waiting for navigation, to be taken to the various markets."

When a person is far away from home, there is nothing that brings so much gladness to the heart as a letter from a loved one. Now a newspaper is nothing more than a letter—a large budget of news—and every person having friends at a distance should gladden their hearts by sending them a copy of the home paper each week. It will be a present that carries joy with it, awakens old and familiar recollections, more firmly cements friendships, and proves a well spring of satisfaction on both the donor and recipient.

"I look for a good season for vessels men," said a well known vessel owner on Saturday, "and I think boats will make more money than they did last year. There is now more grain in Chicago than there ever was before. The lumber centers are crowded with stock that will have to go forward when navigation opens. The wharves at Cleveland are almost bare of iron ore, and it is said that at the opening of navigation there will be scarcely a ton of ore at the furnaces. Last spring the furnaces were well stocked when navigation opened. There is also about double the amount of coal to be shipped this year, and taking all things into consideration, I don't see why vessel men should feel any alarm about the coming season."—Cheboygan Tribune.

Business Enterprise.

W. J. Lewis, of Boyne City, is building what is claimed will be the finest meat market north of Grand Rapids. The building is to be brick, and the furnishing of the salesroom alone will cost over six hundred dollars. There will be two large meat racks, and all counters, scales, shelves, etc., with which the meat will come in contact while waiting for sale, will be covered with marble. Other furnishings will be uniform in style with this. The walls of the building are to be completed in about two weeks, and the inside work will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

Historical Society.

Reported for the Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. Ainslie entertained a large audience of the historical society last Tuesday evening.

Mr. John Nicholls presided and called the meeting to order, when the evening's program was presented. Kate Smith and Chara Ainslie rendered an instrumental duet. Miss Stephens gave a choice reading. Fred Smith and Al. Washburne sang "Dreamy eyes that haunt me still," as an encore to an April joke. Mr. John Nicholls in the historical paper of the evening evinced a careful thought, and in arrangement, pleased all. A quartet by Mrs. Mayne, Mrs. Dr. Graves, Messrs. Carlstein, and W. A. Smith was a most appreciated feature of the evening's entertainment. The society will meet on Tuesday evening next, at the parlors of the Bridge Street house, which meeting will close the winter's term.

Burgess.

Next Saturday is registration day.

One of Mr. Norman's horses is sick.

John Hewstead has lost a valuable cow.

Sugar making has commenced early.

Tom. Seroggy, is sick with pneumonia.

Capt. Bennett has a nice span of ponies.

Whitford's saw mill is laid up for repairs.

Wiggins 26 of March storm did not materialize.

Dot. Baker was visiting at her father's last Sunday.

Lots of people looking for land in Hayes about these days.

Thos. Murray, Esq., is going to put in 10 acres of peas this spring.

E. H. Burgess has his contract for telephone poles nearly filled.

Log hauling is about finished, and log rolling is about to commence.

W. T. Drake is to remain as foreman for E. H. Burgess this summer.

Dr. Lewis commenced logging on his farm Monday morning, March 31.

Miss Mary Ross intends to go to Scotland with her uncle the coming season.

Mr. Josiah Gibson who has been visiting in Louisville, Ky., is expected home soon.

Elder Robinson has an appointment at Whitford's school house, every two weeks.

Charlevoix was full of Hayesites last Saturday, with quite a sprinkling from other adjacent towns.

The friends of Mrs. W. T. Drake will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from her serious illness.

People's caucus for nominating town officers at Gibson school house, Friday, April 4th, at 2 p. m. By order of committee.

Loren Hamlin is home again from his winter's job and is making preparation for completing his residence which he commenced late last fall.

Willet C. Arnold has a brother visiting him from Ionia county, who is so well pleased with this county that he intends to locate here at no distant day.

Alex. Ross, Esq., would be the proper man for commissioner of highways, and if he would accept the nomination he would be elected by a rousing majority.

Charles Ganson, who came from the south part of the state, to visit relatives, was so well pleased with the place that he remained all winter, and intends to stop this summer.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by CRUICKSHANK & GRIER, real estate abstracters.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, April 1, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Samuel Clark and wife to Ole Jensen Lynkilde 40 acres, Keeler, $320.

E. W. Danner to Tilla Danner, n w ¼ of s e ¼, and s ½ of s w ¼, and n ½ of n w ¼ 32-34-8, $100.

J. L. Forncher and wife to Jesse Chamberlin, 4½ of lot 4 Block 3, South Lake, $250.

Jesse Chamberlin and wife to J. L. Parmelee, 4½ of lot 4 Block 3, South Lake, $250.

Louis Deline and wife to Samuel A. Brown, et al, s ½ of n e ¼ 29-32-7, $100.

A. E. Upright et al, to Oscar Upright, lot 70 Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $200.

Oscar E. Upright and wife to Oscar Upright, lot 9 Block 1, Upright's addition, $100.

A. E. Upright et. al., to Phebe Smith, lot 256, Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $175.

James R. Wylie and wife to Winfield S. Quinton, s ½ of n e ¼ 25-33-5, $200.

Benjamin V. Willis to William H. Olds, w ½ of lot 1, Sec. 6, $325.

Martin Wood to Martin Wood, n ½ of n w ¼ 35-34-6, $1,000.

Henry A. Martin and wife to Jos. F. Watson, und ½ of lot 8 Block 1, South Lake, $300.

William H. Wallace and wife to Julius Fromm n ½ of n e ¼ 28-34-8, $200.

Isaiah W. Austin to Isaac R. Smith, 23 ½ acres, n e ¼ of s e ¼ 25-34-8, $200.

Society Election.

The annual election of the Ladies Christian Union of the M. E. church was held last Wednesday, and the following officers elected:

President—Mrs. E. H. Green.

First Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Iddings.

Second Vice President—Mrs. Hawkins.

Secretary—Miss Esther Buttars.

Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Dr. Crouter.

Treasurer—Mrs. D. C. Loveday.

Married.

STEWART—LYNN—On March 31, 1884, at the bride's parents in Charlevoix, by J. T. Iddings Mr. John Stewart, of Marion, and Miss Lavina Lynn, of Charlevoix.

NOWLAND—BILLINGS—On March 29, 1884, at Boyne City, Mr. Abner Nowland and Mrs. Edith Billings, both of Boyne City.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Crenter.

WE SHALL KNOW.

When the mists have rolled in splendor
From the beauty of the hills,
And the sunshine, warm and tender,
Falls on you and me and the rills,
We may read love's shining letter
In the rainbow of the spray;
We shall know each other better
When the mists have cleared away.

We shall know as we have known,
Never more to walk alone,
In the dawning of the morning,
When the mists have cleared away.

If we err in human blindness,
And forget that we are clad,
If we miss the mark in kindness
When we struggle to be glad,
Snowy wings of peace shall cover
All the pain that caused our way,
When the weary watch is over,
And the mists have cleared away.

We shall know as we are known.
Never more to walk alone,
In the dawning of the morning,
When the mists have cleared away.

When the silvery mists have veiled us
From the faces of our own,
Oft we deem their love has failed us,
And we tread our path alone;
We should see them near and truly,
We should trust them day by day,
Neither love nor blame could sully
If the mists are cleared away.

We shall know as we are known,
Never more to walk alone,
In the dawning of the morning,
When the mists have cleared away.

When the mists have risen above us,
As our Father knows His own,
Face to face with those who love us,
We shall know as we are known.
Love, beyond the Orient meadows,
Flings the golden wings of day;
Heart to heart we bide the shadows,
Till the mists have ris'n and gone.

We shall know as we are known,
Never more to walk alone,
When the day of light is dawning,
And the mists have cleared away.

HE BROKE UP THE SCHOOL.

"That is the new schoolhouse, is it?" inquired Miss Alice Ray, the "new teacher," as the farmer's plodding little team passed by a little white house standing endwise to the road, inclosed in a rather dilapidated fence.

"Yes, that's where you'll hold forth," remarked Uncle Zeke Woodburn, "but I'm afeered you won't hold out long, fur we've got the toughest set of boys in the State," and Uncle Zeke gave a kind of cackling little laugh as he thought of the timid, demure little damsel at his side controlling the boys of Bear Creek School.

"But don't the directors expel them when they are beyond the control of the teacher?" asked Alice, her heart beginning to sink at the prospect before her.

"Expel 'em! no, we never expel nobody; if a teacher can't boss the school we just let it boss him; it ain't our fight, an' the school here generally bosses the teacher, and that's been some pretty good men licked in that schoolhouse by the boys.

"I did not know the school was so unruly," said poor Alice, wishing heartily that she had hired out as a washerwoman instead of trying to teach the savages of Bear Creek.

"Oh, well, mebbe it won't be so bad this winter; that's Jim Turner, he's one of the toughest of 'em; he'll be 21 in a month, and you'll get rid of him; but that's the Brindley boys, they're mighty apt to be bad."

Poor Alice listened with a sinking heart. The cold, hard duties before her were dreary enough at best; but to go alone and unknown into a strange neighborhood to teach her first school, and to be met at the outset by such dark prophecies, made her feel homeless indeed. She was naturally a timid, shrinking little thing, and if she had possessed any where on the whole broad earth a roof to shelter her she would have turned back from Bear Creek school even then. But she had no home. Her mother had died when she was but 14, and she had kept house for her father two years, when he died, leaving her alone. Before he died he advised her to expend the little sum he would be able to leave her in fitting herself for a teacher, and Alice had faithfully filled his directions so literally that when she had completed her course of study at the normal school she had hardly $10 left, and when she paid Uncle Zeke for hauling her and her little trunk from the nearest railroad town to the district where she was to teach, she had but $5 left.

On Monday morning as she started for the schoolhouse she felt as if she was going to the scaffold. Her course of pedagogics in the normal institute had included no such problem as this school promised to be, and if it were not for very shame she would have given her single $5 bill to any one to take her back to the railroad and pay her fare to L., the town where she had attended school.

When she arrived at the schoolhouse about twenty or thirty pupils were grouped around talking, but a spell of silence fell upon them as she walked up and saluted them with a "good morning" which was more like the chirp of a frightened bird than anything else. As she unlocked the door and entered what she had already begun to regard as a chamber of torture, two or three shouts followed her into the room, and, depositing their books upon the whittled desks, took seats, and fixed their eyes upon her with a stare that did not help to strengthen her nerves.

All the rules and regulations of her "Theory and Practice of Opening Schools Upon the First Day" seemed to vanish and leave her head whirling in dizzy helplessness. She tried to think of some cheerful remark, but her brain refused to form the thought and her tongue clove to the roof of her mouth. She could see in the faces of her pupils, most of whom were now in the school-room, that they were aware of her fright and enjoyed it thoroughly. By a strong effort she partially recovered herself and bravely resisted the temptation to lean her head on the desk and have a good cry. She felt that she must do something or faint, so she rang the bell, though it lacked fifteen minutes to 9. She began taking down the names and ages of her pupils, and by the time this was completed she began to feel more at ease. She then began examining the pupils in the different branches in order to assign them to their proper classes. She had finished the examination in all the branches except the advanced reading class, which was principally composed of grown girls and young men, among whom was the terrible Jim Turner, of whom she had been warned.

Several of the members of the class had read, and it was now the turn of Moses Bradley, a lingo, heavy-set fellow, with small, malicious eyes and a general air of ruffianism. When he was called upon to read he did not rise from his seat, but began to read in a thick, indistinct voice from a book held in his lap.

"Mr. Bradley, will you please stand up when you read?" asked Alice.

"I can read just as well settin' down," replied the fellow with a dogged air.

"But it is one of the rules in a reading class to stand up to read," said Alice, her heart sinking with fear as she foresaw the incipient rebellion.

"I reckon you will have to make a new rule for me then," impudently answered Mose, glancing sideways at his companions with a grin of triumph.

"If you do not obey me I shall be obliged to punish you," said Alice, bravely, though she could scarcely stand up.

"I guess all the punishment you could do wouldn't break any of my bones," replied the ruffian, leering at her impudently.

"But I can break your bones for you in half a minute, and I'll do it if you don't stand up and read as the teacher asked you to," said a voice at the other end of the class, and Alice looked in the direction and saw Jim Turner step from the class and face the astonished Mose.

Mose's insolent manner abated in an instant, his face turned pale, and he muttered something about not being "bossed by other boys," but he stood up as he was commanded.

Alice could have kissed her young champion for very gratitude, but she mustered all the dignity she could command, and said:

"Mr. Turner, I cannot allow you to interfere in the management of my school; take your seat."

The youth obeyed without a word, but kept his eye on Mose, as if watching for any delinquency. During the little episode the exercises proceeded without interruption till noon.

Alice had no appetite for dinner. She leaned her throbbing head upon the desk and wondered wearily how long she could endure this.

She was aroused by one of the little girls running up to her, exclaiming: "Teacher, teacher, the big boys are fighting!" She followed the child, exclaiming: "Oh, why did I ever come into such a den of wild beasts!" At the rear of the schoolhouse stood Jim Turner engaged in a hand-to-hand conflict with Mose Bradley and his two brothers, both of whom were grown. As Alice stepped around the corner Jim sent Mose reeling to the earth, and then turned like a lion upon his two remaining assailants. They rushed at him from two sides, but Jim was as nimble as a panther, and, before Bradley fell as if shot, from a left-handed blow, and his brother Tom followed him in the instant. For the first time in her life Alice had a ball bat and rushed upon Jim, but the latter evaded the blow, and, wrenching the bat from his hand, struck Alice's brother Mose headlong with a blow of his fist.

As the discomfited trio arose Jim laughed lightly and asked them "how they liked it as far as they had got," picked up the bat and handed it to Mose, and called out, "Come on, boys, let's have a game of ball."

The combat ended so quickly that Alice had no chance to interfere, but she felt that it would not do to let this open violation of school rules pass unpunished, so she rang the bell. When the pupils were assembled she called the culprits up to the desk, and asked what they had to say about such conduct.

Jim answered for himself. She took up the ruler with a trembling hand and began the punishment. Jim's face never changed color, while the look upon it was one of quiet obedience in which there was no trace of either bravado or sullenness. As Alice inflicted the blows upon the hand so quietly held out to her, the thought rushed upon her mind that she was smiting the only hand that had been raised to befriend her in that lawless region.

Her face grew pale, the blows fell falteringly, the tears began to run down her cheeks, the ruler fell from her hand, she sank into her seat, buried her face in her hands, and burst into a storm of sobs.

Then Jim's countenance changed. His lip quivered, he dashed his hand across his eyes to clear them of unnatural dimness, and the great lump in his throat seemed to choke him. A chuckle from Mose Bradley recalled his self-possession, however, and he took a step or two toward the latter with eyes that fairly blazed with hot indignation.

Mose rapidly retreated a step or two, and his chuckle died an untimely death, and for a full minute silence reigned over the school-room. At last Alice raised her head and in a broken voice dismissed the pupils to the playground.

As the children passed out she heard some say, "So you got a whipping after all, Jim," and Jim's reply, "Yes, and I got enough to pass some of it around if anybody is anxious about it."

At 1 o'clock Alice rang the bell with a feeling of utter despair; but no school ever moved more smoothly than did her school that afternoon. Quiet obedience, study, good lessons, and respectful attention were universal. But Alice had determined to quit the school; she felt as if she would rather be the poorest washerwoman than to be badgered, bullied, and tortured for months at a time by a set of brutal ruffians, whose parents employed her for the sole purpose of enduring this martyrdom.

So when Alice locked the schoolhouse door that evening it was with a mingled feeling of relief and humiliation that she started to offer her resignation to the directors. As she left the schoolhouse she saw Jim Turner a few yards ahead of her, walking rapidly toward home. She called his name, and he stopped and respectfully waited until she had overtaken him.

"Mr. Turner," she said, "I am going away in the morning, and I wish to thank you for your brave defense of me in the school to-day, and to ask your forgiveness for the punishment I so unjustly inflicted on you," and in her earnestness Alice held out her little, trembling hand, and Jim instantly grasped it.

"I have nothing to forgive," said he; "you could not do otherwise, and neither could I; but you are surely not intending to quit the school?"

"Yes," answered Alice, "I would rather die than pass through three months of such scenes as I have today."

"But you will have no more trouble; there is no one in the school that would give you trouble, except the Brindley boys, and as long as I am there I will answer for their good behavior."

At last Jim's eloquence prevailed, and Alice finally consented to teach a week longer, and at the end of that time she decided to stay, for never did a school move along more smoothly. At her request Jim was allowed to remain during the term, and as soon as it closed he went to college.

Alice taught the Bear Creek school successfully for two years, but in the end Uncle Zeke's prediction was verified, for Jim Turner came back and broke up the school.

He married the teacher.

Buzzards in Charleston.

Well do I recall a visit made early in the morning to the city market one year ago, and my surprise to see such a large number of these unsightly hopping about, picking up the scraps. The market-keeper, nothing my interest, communicated to me marvelous stories of their intelligence, and what I then saw was really corroborative in part of his story. The birds were collected on the ridge-pole of the market house, and they did not seem to be in any hurry to come down to the street to gather the scraps of meat which the butchers had rejected. I asked him why they did not—were they afraid? "Oh, no," he said, "they know better." "Why, the inspector, sir. Them buzzards don't dare touch nothin' till he inspects," and ere he had spoke up, "Here he comes," and I looked to see a cured a ball bat and rushed upon Jim, but the latter evaded the blow, and, wrenching the bat from his hand, struck Alice's brother Mose headlong with a blow of his fist.

As the discomfited trio arose Jim laughed lightly and asked them "how they liked it as far as they had got," picked up the bat and handed it to Mose, and called out, "Come on, boys, let's have a game of ball."

The combat ended so quickly that Alice had no chance to interfere, but she felt that it would not do to let this open violation of school rules pass unpunished, so she rang the bell. When the pupils were assembled she called the culprits up to the desk, and asked what they had to say about such conduct.

Jim answered for himself. She took up the ruler with a trembling hand and began the punishment. Jim's face never changed color, while the look upon it was one of quiet obedience in which there was no trace of either bravado or sullenness. As Alice inflicted the blows upon the hand so quietly held out to her, the thought rushed upon her mind that she was smiting the only hand that had been raised to befriend her in that lawless region.

Her face grew pale, the blows fell falteringly, the tears began to run down her cheeks, the ruler fell from her hand, she sank into her seat, buried her face in her hands, and burst into a storm of sobs.

Then Jim's countenance changed. His lip quivered, he dashed his hand across his eyes to clear them of unnatural dimness, and the great lump in his throat seemed to choke him. A chuckle from Mose Bradley recalled his self-possession, however, and he took a step or two toward the latter with eyes that fairly blazed with hot indignation.

Mose rapidly retreated a step or two, and his chuckle died an untimely death, and for a full minute silence reigned over the school-room. At last Alice raised her head and in a broken

HUMOR.

ALL miners are not successful, but many dig in vein.

UPS and downs in high-school life—the stairways.

IS spite of all that can be said in favor of Adam and Eve, they were undoubtedly a shiftless pair.

AN Eastern editor says: "The devil is not as black as he is painted." D'ye suppose Eastern editors are always "pulling" somebody for a reserved-seat ticket.—Newman Independent.

BEWARE, great world, how thou despisest
The humbleness of thy creatures, and look at
With strong eyes upon the sun-scorch battered Hat and much-soiled pantaloons!
If it has stitched in a fourth a patch
That thatch a man wear'n gold cushions,
It yet will hide no coal above worn
An arm will work a fe, and perchance,
Or else he is very mad, a low
Hundred pounds additional.
—Cincinnati Gazette.

A COUNTRY girl, coming from the field, being told by her poetic cousin that she looked as fresh as a daisy kissed with dew, said: "Well, it wasn't my fellow by that name; but it was Steve Jones that kissed me. I told him that every one in town would find it out."

THAT was a fine piece of irony of Pagin's, when he had got out the designs for a magnificent cathedral, to cost £30,000, and the committee of the building fund wanted him to reduce the price to £10,000. "Say 30 shillings more, gentlemen," he wrote, "and have a nice spire!"

"NOW, you must converse in nothing but French," said Monsieur the Professor to his pupils. Silence immediately fell on the class for the space of a quarter of an hour, when the Professor exclaimed, "What? Nothing but silence? Zat is the very opposite of French."

"Ah! did the man get off, Pat?" says his friend. "Shure and he did that," says Pat; "he proved an alibi, ye know." "No! That's that, now?" "Sure he had Mr. Shinny and wash'd he in the alley by Mickey's saloon, all the while, now?" and wasn't in the figit at all, at all!"—The Mastery.

THERE is a luminous paint which renders objects visible in the dark. And now the Chicago belles will begin putting it on their cheeks, as a sort of guide when the gas burns low, so that now when a youth sees two spots of light, almost on a line with his eyes, he knows there is a Chicago mouth between 'em somewhere, and don't need to waste any time, except that required to make a detour about her fairy slippers.—The Hoosier.

A Lesson in Good Breeding.

The following story has its moral: An elderly gentleman started across a broad street. Three young ladies, all abreast, started at the same moment from the other side. The sprinkler had made the pools of mud on either side of the crossing. The old gentleman stepped clear to the edge, but the young woman in front of him literally tore down on him with no idea that he would not plunge his trodapolished cane into the top of her right ear. He met with a sort of well-bred look, as we are not one of the fussy kind, but who have some share in the pride of discovering other people's Dudley Warner, in Harper's.

Novel Use of Gresham's Law.

"What becomes of all the nickels and fifty cents that Dunkees are served their few years of service is a frequent query. A half dollar is the same as all other money useful. What an interesting travels of a greenback, from the time it leaves the press until it comes to the unwearying machine of the average life of a banknote is but few years, perhaps a little more than two in the case of the Athenians in possession of the patent right of discovery, nothing amusing to Peter Funk with which Thought crosses the barriers of knowledge, and interweaving into the notes into fragments. The is conducted under the supervision of the Treasury Department, especially detailed for the purpose. No one is allowed to enter this department without a pass, and then insert its delicate point under the counters, desks, and odorous turkey. To see pinions and several joints, slices of white meat, crown drumsticks, the pope's nose, all showering in separate portions from the carved bird, and to wonder why turkeys didn't have four legs, and a double row of wings, and why the gizzard was always thrown away all the turkey and go without any himself. But when everybody is helped are the tid-bits of the feast. It would be as dangerous an experiment to ask a young man of the present time to carve a turkey as it would be to require him to ask a blessing on the food. He would either sprain his wrist or pick the turkey through the window in an attempt to cut it in two.

RABBITS have been born with one ear and stags with one horn; the rattlesnake has but one fang; both eyes of the thunder and hallibut are on the same side; the claws of the lobster differ, and the valves of the oyster are unequal, yet all the animals and their organs are perfectly symmetrical in the embryo state.

The Right of Bloodshed.

We may take it for granted that civilization dislikes to be "disconcerted" suffer this carries with it a sense of inferiority. There is a certain conceit and assurance act of discovery. It may also make the discovery are less condescend to introduce an circle of the world that Often the discovery is not than an exhibition of the those who make it; but the commendable zeal in this direction is indicated was a few bazards flying toward the market. "That's picked the bird—which flew off to alight on the roof, and the color of his head was different. It was reddish, and I did not see this fellow stop and then down he came to the street, and presently the whole of the flock followed.

The market man, still pointing out the "inspector," suggested to me that if I would buy some meat at a neighboring stall he would be detained sufficiently long to enable me to witness the manner in which Jim Turner, the terrible ruffian, leering at her impudently.

"But I can break your bones for you in half a minute, and I'll do it if you don't stand up and read as the teacher asked you to," said a voice at the other end of the class, and Alice looked in the direction and saw Jim Turner step from the class and face the astonished Mose.

Mose's insolent manner abated in an instant, his face turned pale, and he muttered something about not being "bossed by other boys," but he stood up as he was commanded.

Alice could have kissed her young champion for very gratitude, but she mustered all the dignity she could command, and said:

"Mr. Turner, I cannot allow you to interfere in the management of my school; take your seat."

The youth obeyed without a word, but kept his eye on Mose, as if watching for any delinquency. During the little episode the exercises proceeded without interruption till noon.

Alice had no appetite for dinner. She leaned her throbbing head upon the desk and wondered wearily how long she could endure this.

She was aroused by one of the little girls running up to her, exclaiming: "Teacher, teacher, the big boys are fighting!" She followed the child, exclaiming: "Oh, why did I ever come into such a den of wild beasts!" At the rear of the schoolhouse stood Jim Turner engaged in a hand-to-hand conflict with Mose Bradley and his two brothers, both of whom were grown. As Alice stepped around the corner Jim sent Mose reeling to the earth, and then turned like a lion upon his two remaining assailants. They rushed at him from two sides, but Jim was as nimble as a panther, and, before Bradley fell as if shot, from a left-handed blow, and his brother Tom followed him in the instant. For the first time in her life Alice had a ball bat and rushed upon Jim, but the latter evaded the blow, and, wrenching the bat from his hand, struck Alice's brother Mose headlong with a blow of his fist.

As the discomfited trio arose Jim laughed lightly and asked them "how they liked it as far as they had got," picked up the bat and handed it to Mose, and called out, "Come on, boys, let's have a game of ball."

The combat ended so quickly that Alice had no chance to interfere, but she felt that it would not do to let this open violation of school rules pass unpunished, so she rang the bell. When the pupils were assembled she called the culprits up to the desk, and asked what they had to say about such conduct.

Jim answered for himself. She took up the ruler with a trembling hand and began the punishment. Jim's face never changed color, while the look upon it was one of quiet obedience in which there was no trace of either bravado or sullenness. As Alice inflicted the blows upon the hand so quietly held out to her, the thought rushed upon her mind that she was smiting the only hand that had been raised to befriend her in that lawless region.

Her face grew pale, the blows fell falteringly, the tears began to run down her cheeks, the ruler fell from her hand, she sank into her seat, buried her face in her hands, and burst into a storm of sobs.

Then Jim's countenance changed. His lip quivered, he dashed his hand across his eyes to clear them of unnatural dimness, and the great lump in his throat seemed to choke him. A chuckle from Mose Bradley recalled his self-possession, however, and he took a step or two toward the latter with eyes that fairly blazed with hot indignation.

Mose rapidly retreated a step or two, and his chuckle died an untimely death, and for a full minute silence reigned over the school-room. At last Alice raised her head and in a broken

Bazaars in Charleston.

Well do I recall a visit made early in the morning to the city market one year ago, and my surprise to see such a large number of these unsightly hopping about, picking up the scraps. The market-keeper, nothing my interest, communicated to me marvelous stories of their intelligence, and what I then saw was really corroborative in part of his story. The birds were collected on the ridge-pole of the market house, and they did not seem to be in any hurry to come down to the street to gather the scraps of meat which the butchers had rejected. I asked him why they did not—were they afraid? "Oh, no," he said, "they know better." "Why, the inspector, sir. Them buzzards don't dare touch nothin' till he inspects," and ere he had spoke up, "Here he comes," and I looked to see a cured a ball bat and rushed upon Jim, but the latter evaded the blow, and, wrenching the bat from his hand, struck Alice's brother Mose headlong with a blow of his fist.

As the discomfited trio arose Jim laughed lightly and asked them "how they liked it as far as they had got," picked up the bat and handed it to Mose, and called out, "Come on, boys, let's have a game of ball."

The combat ended so quickly that Alice had no chance to interfere, but she felt that it would not do to let this open violation of school rules pass unpunished, so she rang the bell. When the pupils were assembled she called the culprits up to the desk, and asked what they had to say about such conduct.

Jim answered for himself. She took up the ruler with a trembling hand and began the punishment. Jim's face never changed color, while the look upon it was one of quiet obedience in which there was no trace of either bravado or sullenness. As Alice inflicted the blows upon the hand so quietly held out to her, the thought rushed upon her mind that she was smiting the only hand that had been raised to befriend her in that lawless region.

Her face grew pale, the blows fell falteringly, the tears began to run down her cheeks, the ruler fell from her hand, she sank into her seat, buried her face in her hands, and burst into a storm of sobs.

Then Jim's countenance changed. His lip quivered, he dashed his hand across his eyes to clear them of unnatural dimness, and the great lump in his throat seemed to choke him. A chuckle from Mose Bradley recalled his self-possession, however, and he took a step or two toward the latter with eyes that fairly blazed with hot indignation.

Mose rapidly retreated a step or two, and his chuckle died an untimely death, and for a full minute silence reigned over the school-room. At last Alice raised her head and in a broken

Trees.

God for trees! What gladness diffuse into our lives, and how often are our world! Who would exist where with the inhabitant of bound coast, or shadeless, arid even to have the sole supremacy a region? Better were one lifted within our happier clime, trees form a grateful shelter a voiceless significance is there sylvan friends! Is not the march, the proud and lofty could tell the story of oppan emblem of grandeur and en- And the "snow-loving" pines, bolize the brave, fearless her erect in tempest as in calm angeless pines, clothed in beauty, whether lifting the ir cones, or forming the ges along some far-off mount-charm lies within the soft, lows in a grove of elms, bering beeches, ans and acres apart for lovers' vows, side-spreading chestnuts, so with their snowy blossoms and ume, dodge of whose branches made ed coolshade.

those are the types of repose st content, giving a home-like to each scene, whether it be quiet avenue or the solitary of "its blossom, white and imparts a poetry even to the mantiy."

variety of these forest is infinite, each possessing a beauty! And how we hail our coming, when, after months of ter, and spring's long-lingering ach, we find ourselves in those of woodpaths, where, in the ions of a sweet day-dream, ex- ore more, "Thank God for Exchange.

Spare the Trees.

ees age loses had thousands. ssful walnut trees as over the face of the earth. They rarely cut down and split into ds and rails and sawn into ich was used for all kinds of rposes. Many of those trees ed for $100. The same policy is now being pursued other kinds of timber. Pine ds are fast being cut off, and ntine from each, that in ars will be worth many dol- each. There are many growing in Iowa that if left twenty years would ees. It would be well of these things before they them down. The line of ould be applicable: "Wood- that tree."—Truer (Iowa).

The Friends.

Bentley, a member of the estiof Quakers at Sandy ell, says he was greatly annoyed in his right hand. Mr. el St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain ly is continued use, in a short ompletely cured.

estions for Husbands.

et with your wife upon a which there is danger of her feelings. Remember this ers every word you utter. Do some virtue in another to remind you that you have not reproach your wife with ts, for, if she has sensibilflict a wound that will be ed. Do not trust your wife with in company; it touches and she will not respect you ve better for it. Do not wife in the presence of a ; the sense of your inferiority feelings will prevent your indging her fault. Do not your wife's relations. Every ly accomplishments as those you would have a pleasant ome. Never, never, under your own roof. Do not talent in your own house the public assembly else- Young Ladies' Journal.

An Important Fact.

ny testimony of thousands establishes a fact of vital importance, and deserves the attention of every reader. Hop Bitters is an absolute specific and sure cure for all forms of kidney, liver, stomach, bowel, blood and nervous diseases, especially prescribed for the irritated stomach and bowels, and all of sexes and ages. Hop Bitters is the only medicine that does not contain dangerous or worthless drugs. It is the triumph of medical science, and the best blood purifier, life and health restorer ever known. Don't suffer yourself or let your friends suffer, but use Hop Bitters and be cured. Don't wait until you are sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable use Hop Bitters at once and be happy. Don't delay, your life may depend upon the first bottle. Don't doubt because you are prejudiced against all patent medicines, but use them and be convinced that they are the best medicine ever used. Don't be deceived by worthless stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name, but insist upon having Hop Bitters, and if your druggist, grocer or saloon-keeper says he has something "just as good," or will try to induce you to buy some other preparation, because he can make more profit on it, don't be influenced by him, but show your independence by insisting upon having Hop Bitters, and no other. Take no other. Don't be persuaded to take other. Hop Bitters is the only safe, sure and reliable medicine that can be relied upon. Don't forget this. Remember it. Hop Bitters is the only medicine that will cure you when you are sick. Don't forget it.

The Forgotten Science of Carving.

The Detroit Free Press says: In this busy-man's century the delightful science of carving is almost a lost art. It used to be such a pleasure for a gang of hungry children to sit and watch "pa" sharpen the carving knife, give it that preliminary flourish, and then insert its delicate point under the wing of the roasted and odorous turkey. To see pinions and several joints, slices of white meat, crown drumsticks, the pope's nose, all showering in separate portions from the carved bird, and to wonder why turkeys didn't have four legs, and a double row of wings, and why the gizzard was always thrown away all the turkey and go without any himself. But when everybody is helped are the tid-bits of the feast. It would be as dangerous an experiment to ask a young man of the present time to carve a turkey as it would be to require him to ask a blessing on the food. He would either sprain his wrist or pick the turkey through the window in an attempt to cut it in two.

RABBITS have been born with one ear and stags with one horn; the rattlesnake has but one fang; both eyes of the thunder and halibut are on the same side; the claws of the lobster differ, and the valves of the oyster are unequal, yet all the animals and their organs are perfectly symmetrical in the embryo state.

The Right of Bloodshed.

We may take it for granted that civilization dislikes to be "disconcerted" suffer this carries with it a sense of inferiority. There is a certain conceit and assurance act of discovery. It may also make the discovery are less condescend to introduce an circle of the world that Often the discovery is not than an exhibition of the those who make it; but the commendable zeal in this direction is indicated was a few bazards flying toward the market. "That's picked the bird—which flew off to alight on the roof, and the color of his head was different. It was reddish, and I did not see this fellow stop and then down he came to the street, and presently the whole of the flock followed.

The market man, still pointing out the "inspector," suggested to me that if I would buy some meat at a neighboring stall he would be detained sufficiently long to enable me to witness the manner in which Jim Turner, the terrible ruffian, leering at her impudently.

"But I can break your bones for you in half a minute, and I'll do it if you don't stand up and read as the teacher asked you to," said a voice at the other end of the class, and Alice looked in the direction and saw Jim Turner step from the class and face the astonished Mose.

Mose's insolent manner abated in an instant, his face turned pale, and he muttered something about not being "bossed by other boys," but he stood up as he was commanded.

Alice could have kissed her young champion for very gratitude, but she mustered all the dignity she could command, and said:

"Mr. Turner, I cannot allow you to interfere in the management of my school; take your seat."

The youth obeyed without a word, but kept his eye on Mose, as if watching for any delinquency. During the little episode the exercises proceeded without interruption till noon.

Alice had no appetite for dinner. She leaned her throbbing head upon the desk and wondered wearily how long she could endure this.

She was aroused by one of the little girls running up to her, exclaiming: "Teacher, teacher, the big boys are fighting!" She followed the child, exclaiming: "Oh, why did I ever come into such a den of wild beasts!" At the rear of the schoolhouse stood Jim Turner engaged in a hand-to-hand conflict with Mose Bradley and his two brothers, both of whom were grown. As Alice stepped around the corner Jim sent Mose reeling to the earth, and then turned like a lion upon his two remaining assailants. They rushed at him from two sides, but Jim was as nimble as a panther, and, before Bradley fell as if shot, from a left-handed blow, and his brother Tom followed him in the instant. For the first time in her life Alice had a ball bat and rushed upon Jim, but the latter evaded the blow, and, wrenching the bat from his hand, struck Alice's brother Mose headlong with a blow of his fist.

As the discomfited trio arose Jim laughed lightly and asked them "how they liked it as far as they had got," picked up the bat and handed it to Mose, and called out, "Come on, boys, let's have a game of ball."

The combat ended so quickly that Alice had no chance to interfere, but she felt that it would not do to let this open violation of school rules pass unpunished, so she rang the bell. When the pupils were assembled she called the culprits up to the desk, and asked what they had to say about such conduct.

Jim answered for himself. She took up the ruler with a trembling hand and began the punishment. Jim's face never changed color, while the look upon it was one of quiet obedience in which there was no trace of either bravado or sullenness. As Alice inflicted the blows upon the hand so quietly held out to her, the thought rushed upon her mind that she was smiting the only hand that had been raised to befriend her in that lawless region.

Her face grew pale, the blows fell falteringly, the tears began to run down her cheeks, the ruler fell from her hand, she sank into her seat, buried her face in her hands, and burst into a storm of sobs.

Then Jim's countenance changed. His lip quivered, he dashed his hand across his eyes to clear them of unnatural dimness, and the great lump in his throat seemed to choke him. A chuckle from Mose Bradley recalled his self-possession, however, and he took a step or two toward the latter with eyes that fairly blazed with hot indignation.

Mose rapidly retreated a step or two, and his chuckle died an untimely death, and for a full minute silence reigned over the school-room. At last Alice raised her head and in a broken

HEREDITARY TAINTS.

Some Revelations on a Subject Which Concerns the Welfare of the Race and the Happiness of All.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.]

To any one who has studied the laws of life and especially those which relate to reproduction, an experience such as we are about to relate will come with special force and interest. The transmission of certain mental traits of prominence, and of certain physical traits of equal prominence, are facts which all acknowledge, but which none can understand. The father may be distinguished—the son, an imbecile; or, the parent may be despised and unknown, but the child achieves the highest place possible to humanity. But through it all, there will be certain characteristics, which mark the individual as descending from certain ancestors. Too often, indeed these characteristics are unfortunate, and often of a physical nature.

These facts were strikingly brought out during a conversation, which a representative of this paper recently had with Mrs. Orrin D. T. Swift, who is the wife of one of our most prominent citizens. This lady related that she inherited from her parents certain tendencies, over which she had no control, and which were in the nature of kidney difficulties, assuming the form of rheumatism. Her experience can best be described in her own words. To the writer she said:

"I felt the beginning of this hereditary taint many years ago, in vague pains, which seemed to come unreasonably and without control by times. They were annoying, yet not with which Thought severe enough to cause any alarm. At first, they would be only transient, appearing for a day or two, and then disappearing; then again they would come in fixed, vicious forms, but it was impossible for me to lift a cup to my mouth. Afterwards, my feet and hands swelled so that it was impossible for me to draw on my shoes or gloves without the greatest effort. I realized what the difficulty was, but deemed prevention a remedy, and the only one so bad that I was continued to the house and bed in my most of the time. My joints pained me continuously and my feet swelled to enormous proportions. Knowing that I inherited this tendency, I had almost abandoned hope, when I began the use of a remedy, which was recommended to me by a friend as being specially efficient in cases of a similar kind. To my great gratitude, I found that it relieved me, restored my appetite, and I am able to say that now I have subdued forty pounds in weight, feel perfectly well, and am in the best possible condition, owing, wholly, to Warner's Safe Remedy. I am sure that I owe the remedy I speak of my life."

"No one would ever suspect you had suffered so, Mrs. Swift, to see you know," remarked the reporter.

"That is what all my friends say. Only yesterday, an acquaintance of mine, whom I had not seen for some time, hesitated, before speaking, and apologized by saying, 'Why, I really did not know you, you have improved so for the better since I last met you; how well you do look.'"

"Have you any objection to giving the name of the party who first suggested the remedy to you?"

"Not the slightest. It was Mr. H. H. Furman, the photographer."

The newspaper man, after bidding Mrs. Swift good-day, repaired to the photographic rooms of Mr. Furman, where the following conversation ensued:

"Have you been a sufferer from rheumatism, Mr. Furman?"

"Well, I should think I had."

"For how many years?"

"Twelve or fifteen."

"Did you try to cure it?"

"Yes, I tried everything, and at last went to the Hot Springs of Arkansas, and remained second to do me any good until I tried Warner's Safe Remedy, which cured me."

"And it cured you, did it?"

"Yes, completely."

"And you can cordially recommend it?"

"Yes, indeed, more cordially than anything I have ever known of. It is simply a wonderful medicine. I believe that two-thirds of all cases, both acute and chronic, could be cured as I was cured by the use of this remedy. I know a number of persons who have been in the worst possible condition, and who always struggle if they could buy it, but who have got it now, and would struggle to get them down. The line of could be applicable: "Wood- that tree."—Truer (Iowa).

The Friends.

Bentley, a member of the estiof Quakers at Sandy ell, says he was greatly annoyed in his right hand. Mr. el St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain ly is continued use, in a short ompletely cured.

estions for Husbands.

et with your wife upon a which there is danger of her feelings. Remember this ers every word you utter. Do some virtue in another to remind you that you have not reproach your wife with ts, for, if she has sensibilflict a wound that will be ed. Do not trust your wife with in company; it touches and she will not respect you ve better for it. Do not wife in the presence of a ; the sense of your inferiority feelings will prevent your indging her fault. Do not your wife's relations. Every ly accomplishments as those you would have a pleasant ome. Never, never, under your own roof. Do not talent in your own house the public assembly else- Young Ladies' Journal.

An Important Fact.

ny testimony of thousands establishes a fact of vital importance, and deserves the attention of every reader. Hop Bitters is an absolute specific and sure cure for all forms of kidney, liver, stomach, bowel, blood and nervous diseases, especially prescribed for the irritated stomach and bowels, and all of sexes and ages. Hop Bitters is the only medicine that does not contain dangerous or worthless drugs. It is the triumph of medical science, and the best blood purifier, life and health restorer ever known. Don't suffer yourself or let your friends suffer, but use Hop Bitters and be cured. Don't wait until you are sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable use Hop Bitters at once and be happy. Don't delay, your life may depend upon the first bottle. Don't doubt because you are prejudiced against all patent medicines, but use them and be convinced that they are the best medicine ever used. Don't be deceived by worthless stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name, but insist upon having Hop Bitters, and if your druggist, grocer or saloon-keeper says he has something "just as good," or will try to induce you to buy some other preparation, because he can make more profit on it, don't be influenced by him, but show your independence by insisting upon having Hop Bitters, and no other. Take no other. Don't be persuaded to take other. Hop Bitters is the only safe, sure and reliable medicine that can be relied upon. Don't forget this. Remember it. Hop Bitters is the only medicine that will cure you when you are sick. Don't forget it.

The Forgotten Science of Carving.

The Detroit Free Press says: In this busy-man's century the delightful science of carving is almost a lost art. It used to be such a pleasure for a gang of hungry children to sit and watch "pa" sharpen the carving knife, give it that preliminary flourish, and then insert its delicate point under the wing of the roasted and odorous turkey. To see pinions and several joints, slices of white meat, crown drumsticks, the pope's nose, all showering in separate portions from the carved bird, and to wonder why turkeys didn't have four legs, and a double row of wings, and why the gizzard was always thrown away all the turkey and go without any himself. But when everybody is helped are the tid-bits of the feast. It would be as dangerous an experiment to ask a young man of the present time to carve a turkey as it would be to require him to ask a blessing on the food. He would either sprain his wrist or pick the turkey through the window in an attempt to cut it in two.

RABBITS have been born with one ear and stags with one horn; the rattlesnake has but one fang; both eyes of the thunder and halibut are on the same side; the claws of the lobster differ, and the valves of the oyster are unequal, yet all the animals and their organs are perfectly symmetrical in the embryo state.

THE SURGEON'S KNIFE

Required to Remove a Stone from the Bladder—This Dangerous Operation Might Have Been Avoided by the Timely Use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy (of Rondout, N. Y).

Mr. Simon Tetsell, formerly of Rondout, N. Y., had been treated for seven years by various physicians for what they called Stricture of the Urethra, without benefit. He finally consulted Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who found his trouble to be Primary Calculi, or Stones in the Bladder. The Doctor at once removed the foreign bodies with the knife, and thus gave his great kidney and liver medicine, FAVORITE REMEDY, to prevent their reformation. The entire treatment was eminently successful, and Mr. Tetsell's recovery was rapid and complete.

While FAVORITE REMEDY is a specific in all Kidney and Bladder diseases, it is equally valuable in cases of Bilious Disorders, Constipation of the Bowels, and all the crises of ill-apparently insuperable from the constitutions of women. Don't forget the name and address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. The Doctor would have it understood that while he is engaged in the manufacture of his best cure, FAVORITE REMEDY, he still continues the practice of his profession. He treats all diseases on a strictly scientific principle, and performs all the minor and capital operations of surgery.

A SCENE from still life—A moonshiner's headquarters.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1878 I was taken with bleeding of lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I got a bottle, when, to my surprise, I commenced to get well, and to-day I feel better than for three years."

CHUR

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 3, 1884.

Recent Legal Decisions.

False accusations of adultery constitute such cruelty as will authorize a divorce.—Supreme Court of Texas.

One cannot set up his own fraud as a defense to a contract entered into by him. Public policy will not tolerate such a defense.

A promise made by one person to pay the debt of another, if he does not is void, unless in writing.—Supreme Court of Wisconsin.

A contract made in Michigan which by its terms must be preformed in part on Sunday, is void.—U. S. Circuit Court, Michigan.

Where a man and woman who are doing business as partners marry each other, the marriage works an instantaneous dissolution of the partnership.

A railroad company crossing a public highway is bound to keep the approaches to the crossing in a safe condition for travelers on the highway.

Where a will has once been expressly revoked by a later one, nothing can ever be claimed under it, even though the later one has been lost or destroyed.

The title to a promissory note, delivered upon certain conditions, can not pass, as between the parties, until those conditions have been complied with.—U. S. Supreme Court.

One who has no interest in the life insured, cannot for the purpose of speculation merely acquire by assignment or otherwise a valid title to the policy or the moneys to become due on it.—Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

It is the duty of a railway company in stopping its cars at a station, to stop at such a place where it would be safe for passengers to alight, and if a passenger, using proper care himself is injured by reason of a breech of such duty, the company is liable.

A railroad company which is made liable by statute for injuries occasioned to stock by reason of its failure to properly fence the track, is liable only for injuries occasioned by actual contact and not from those resulting from fright.—Supreme Court of Indiana.

A mortgage given with the intention to defraud creditors, while void as to them may be enforced by the mortgagee where no question as to creditors arises and the mortgagor cannot set up his fraudulent intention as a defense.—Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

A married woman in this state has no general power to make promissory notes or other contracts, and she must be shown to have contracted in reference to her sole property in order to make her liable. She is not liable on a note signed by her with her husband merely as surety.

A gas company is a public corporation and is bound to furnish gas to every citizen who wishes it in those localities where its pipes extend. It may, however, require reasonable surety that the citizen will comply with his contract if the gas is furnished.—Supreme Court of Michigan.

The penalties of the statute regarding the sale of liquor on Sunday are imposed upon those whose saloons are not kept closed on that day, and no other act is necessary to constitute the offense. The intent is immaterial, and it is no defense that the saloon was opened by one in the saloon keeper's employ and not by himself.

A conductor of a train has no authority by virtue of his employment to bind the company by his promise to awake a sleeping passenger when he reaches his station so as to make the company liable if the conductor forgets and carries the passenger past his station. The passenger sleeps at his own risk.—Supreme Court of Georgia.

A woman suing for breach of promise to marry, may show that she has no independent means, and may put in evidence the letters written to her by the defendent before he broke the engagement, and the jury may consider the length of the engagement and give damages for injury to her feelings or reputation and for any other circumstances of indignity.

One who is entitled to the possession of premises may remove property left there by a previous tenant if he exercises such care in doing so as the nature of the case demands; and if he leaves it in such a condition that the owner by reasonable diligence can take it uninjured, he is not bound to house it, or otherwise protect it until the owner sees fit to take possession.

W. W. Johnson, of Forest Home, very properly and justly came to grief on trial of the legality of the tax assessment roll for 1881, at the March term of the circuit court, held at Bellaire, Judge Ramsdell, presiding. Mr. Johnson has been supervisor of Forest Home for several years, and has done a heavy business in taxing non-residents and a light business in taxing residents of the township, thereby sunking himself quite popular with the voters of the township. But the non-residents were dissatisfied with this high handed outrage of taxing wild lands nearly double the amount of improved farms, and some of them paid their taxes under protest. But the Elk Rapids Iron Co. and a number of other parties determined to test the legality of the assessment commenced suit in the circuit court. The case was managed for the complainants by Hon. F. R. Williams and a verdict rendered by the court declaring the assessment roll for the year 1881 in the township of Forest Home null and void. This will be a lesson to supervisors who hanker after an opportunity to get things solid on non-residents.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr Crouter.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-60

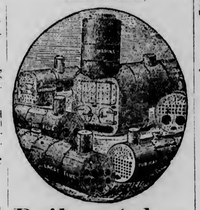
G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

EVERYTHING
IN THE LINE OF
Furniture and Undertakers' Goods
CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF
HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
CHEAP FOR CASH.
Come and See Me Before Buying.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm
S. G. ISAMAN,
South Arm, Mich.
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.
Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,
AT LOW PRICES.
PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.
Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

O. B. WEED & CO.
Are headquarters for
DRUGS
CHEMICALS,
Patent Medicines, all Kinds.
Imported and Domestic Perfumery,
Toilet Articles,
AND FANCY GOODS.
None but Pure Medicines
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Hurlbut-mew's new
Opera Block

JOSEPH HYLAND,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,



Boiler Maker,
Sheet-Iron Worker,
and manufacturer of
Hyland's Patent Fireman.
Dealer in all kinds of
SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.
Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

J. MILO EATON,
DEALER IN
REAL ESTATE
OF ALL KINDS.
Houses and Lots for Sale
IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.
WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FAR
FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.
Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.
Represents the
Best Insurance Companie
OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 187

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICE
—OF—
All-Wool Goods,
Overcoats and Suitings,
Boots and Shoe
I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant
First-Class,
And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or n member. I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are
Big Bargains.
E. M. Clark
Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1881.

THIS IS THE SAME
OLD FOX
OF BY-GONE YEARS.
And he is, this spring and summer, giving the hounds a hard run h him. They are all after him, in full cry, but he distances them
The Old Reliable Establishment in Charl
Is full to overflowing with the most complete assortment o
DRESS GOODS, CLOTHI
Boots and Shoes,
Hats and Caps, Gents' Goo
Ladies' Goods, Crockery, Glassware, Carpets,
Groceries, Provisions, Flour & F
And you can't guess anything we haven't got
FRESH
Our sales thus far this year are far in excess of the same time a and are daily increasing, which attests the popularity of our establ
REMEMBER
We deliver promptly all goods to steamers, stages, private houses or and we give our customers prompt attention and perfect satisfactio
COME AND SEE U
Yours,
AMOS FO

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 39. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
is published every Thursday morning,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office over T. D. Smith's grocery.
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

BERKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Office in Rutters' Block, Charlevoix, Mich. BERKSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of post-office, Petoskey, Mich.

LOVE & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

WILLIS E. PAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. All legal business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

C. A. JESSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office in United States Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

C. L. NEARBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in Iott's new building on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich.

JOHN M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

PORTER, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

CHARLES E. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

E. M. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Savings department. Deposites secured by loans of government bonds, real estate, and good notes for more than ninety months. Money loaned on first mortgages. Foreign and domestic exchange. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sabbath school session, Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7, in the school house.
C. F. VANAKEN, pastor.

EPISCOPAL EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning services. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.
J. T. DOBBINS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX ROUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Tuesday evenings of each month, at the town hall.
R. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

SHEFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humicide Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

MILO EATON, Proprietor. Geo. Durand, Manager. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

A. CHRISTIEN, M. D.
Office at the Ingleside.

LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. GRAVES, M. D.
Office in Lee Block, Charlevoix.

J. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. R.—Baxter Post No. 139, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. U. T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. U. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 260, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

O. L.—Tir. Lines No. 17, meet 2 days by on the 3 Tuesday in Odd Fellows' hall.

A. O. U. W.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 258, meets on or before full moon. Hall over A. R. CROSBY, Recorder.
J. BUTLER, President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,
OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
A general banking business transacted. Money loaned on approved paper at reasonable rates of interest. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.
G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week
AND
WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.
Also Tobacco and Cigars.
Prices reasonable.
W. S. JOHNSON.
Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,
ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, Michigan.
This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Fountain City House,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public. Headquarters for the Peninsular and Elk Rapids Stages.

1672 1884
DR. G. W. CROUTER,
THE DRUGGIST.
Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.
WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY
Full Strength & Fresh Goods
OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS
STRICTLY PURE DRUGS
CAN BE SOLD.
Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,
Portable and Stationary Engines,
Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,
Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.
Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.
WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.
WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

PINE LAKE HOUSE
A. J. HALL, Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
This house is finely located on the Boyne river at the head of Pine Lake. It is carpeted throughout, and is second to none in the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton, - - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,
GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines
CHEAP.
A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.
EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED
D. S. WAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY
has purchased the
Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods
Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER
carries the largest and finest stock of
JEWELRY,
Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH. In the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

O. W. SMITH,
ELECTRO-PLATER,
Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.
Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

FOR SALE.
A FINE
Pair of Oxen
Yoke, Chain, and Sled, for Cash.
Come Early.
J. MILO EATON.

Fresh Oysters
Just Received.
300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.
AT L. L. CARR'S.

Buy note paper and envelopes with name and address on at C. B. Weed & Co.'s. 49

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.
Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 00pm	2 45pm
Richmond	3 37pm	10 32	8 05
Dunkirk	4 11	11 37	11 00
Ridgeville	4 31	11 57	11 23
Fort Wayne, ar	6 15	2 25pm	1 55am
Fort Wayne, lv	6 45	2 50	2 45	8 05am
Kendallville	7 35	3 52	3 52	9 17
Sturgis	8 13	5 11	4 30	10 35
Vicksburg	8 41	6 35	11 48	11 03
Kalamazoo, ar	8 56	6 52		12 20pm
Kalamazoo, lv	9 02	7 00		1 52
Gd Rapids, ar		9 25		3 55
Gd Rapids, lv	1 10am	9 30		4 05
Ionia Junction	2 30	10 55		5 05
Howard City	3 47	11 59		6 22
Big Rapids	4 35	12 40pm		7 15
Reed City	10 17	1 10		8 18
Cadillac	11 25	2 25		9 30
Cadillac, lv		2 30		9 50
Traverse City, ar		4 55
Kalkaska, lv		4 17		12 00am
Manc'ster		5 40		12 58
Boyne Falls		5 47		1 06
Petoskey, ar		6 24		1 14
Porter Springs		7 35		9 45
Mackinaw City		8 00		6 00
St. Ignace		10 00		8 50
Marquette		8 45am		5 00pm
Negaunee, ar		9 12		7 08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv			5 15pm	7 30am
Marquette			8 00	9 50
St. Ignace			5 45am	6 45pm
Mackinaw City			6 00	9 00
Porter Springs			7 30	10 30
Petoskey, lv			7 58	11 22
Boyne Falls			8 18	12 27am
Manc'ster			8 59	2 11
Kalkaska			9 01	2 18
Traverse City, lv			4 30am
Cadillac, ar			11 27	8 20
Cadillac, lv		3 30pm	11 45	5 50
Reed City		4 39	1 12pm	7 16
Big Rapids		5 12	1 41	7 49
Howard City		6 08	2 35	8 47
Gd R & M cross		7 23	3 16	10 05
Gd Rapids, ar		7 40	4 05	10 20
Gd Rapids, lv	6 30am		1 30	12 35pm
Kalamazoo, ar	8 32		6 32	2 24
Kalamazoo, lv	8 37		6 52	2 39
Vicksburg	8 07		7 22	3 09
Sturgis	10 04		8 16	4 12
Kendallville	11 18		9 35	5 31
Fort Wayne, ar	12 30pm		10 52	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv	12 52	5 57am	12 05am
Ridgeville	2 01	7 56	2 75
Winchester	2 28	8 19	2 55
Richmond	2 57	9 07	4 07
Cincinnati, ar	7 05pm	12 50pm	7 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Asst. G. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Grand Rapids Democrat,
DAILY AND WEEKLY.
Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Daily Democrat.—By mail, $8.00 per year in advance, postage paid.
Weekly Democrat.—$1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 10 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,
THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Gen. Chas. G. Gordon,
MORE FAMILIARLY KNOWN AS "CHINESE GORDON."

Over in Soudan, in Khartoum, on the White Nile, this famous general is now threatened with annihilation. As the special agent of the British Government General Gordon was dispatched up the Nile on a mission of conciliation and reassurance to the Soudanese, and for a short time after his arrival in Khartoum and the issuance of two remarkable proclamations declaring that the rights of the natives would be protected and the slave trade again allowed, it seemed to the world that General Gordon, with a handful of men armed with the diplomacy of peace offerings, would prove a conquering benefit against the army and cause of the false-phrophet, El Mhadi. But a reaction occurred and to-day the situation is of the most alarming character for the personal safety of General Gordon. Even while this article is in type the news may be flashed across the continent that Khartoum has fallen, and with it brave "Chinese Gordon."

General Gordon was the youngest son of the late Lieut. Gen. H. W. Gordon, R. A. After receiving a military education at Woolwich Academy he served in the Crimean war with great credit. In 1860 he visited China and by a bold and dashing, yet judicious support of the Chinese emperor in the Taiping campaign he earned great honor and credit from both the British and Chinese government, and henceforth was known as "Chinese Gordon." His reputation now grew world wide. The late Khedive of Egypt, Ismail Pasha, called General Gordon to his aid in abolishing the infamous slave trade and strengthening his decresing power. After a labor of five years on the White Nile, in Darfour and Cardovan, he had partly accomplished his mission and returned to London, as the present Khedive, Tewfik Pasha, was not favorably disposed to him. The present Egyptian complications induced Gladstone to again send General Gordon into that country as a conciliator. His loss would be a calamity to his government. He is at present fifty-four years of age.

The Regulators of Wages.

A colony of twenty-five families on Tuesday left Pittsburg and its smoke to seek homes at Seattle in Washington Territory. The reason given for the move was that foreign immigration gave the employers a chance to reduce wages to a point so low as to make it necessary to change occupations. Several hundred other families are prepared to follow the first ones in case the venture shall prove a success.

This movement is not a novel one. Fall River and other factory towns in New England maintain a steady flow of people to the new lands of the west, and in times of depression the emigrants go in colonies as they have just gone from Pittsburg. It is this resort to farming lands which by lessening the supply of labor tends to keep wages up; but the movement is counteracted by immigration from Europe which floods the labor market.

These two naturally opposing tendencies are the real regulators of wages; while the tariff at best plays only a minor part, and often is altogether inactive. Employers do not give what they can afford to pay but what they are compelled to pay. They buy labor in the cheapest market. Where a tariff raises the margin of profit, laborers, if thoroughly organized, may compel employers to advance wages until competition among producers diminishes profit so that wages have to be cut down. Then the result of the tariff is to place manufacturers on a permanently high plane of cost of production and wages gain nothing whatever.

The only way in which wages can be permanently increased in this country is to make American what England is to-day—the workshop of the world. When we are manufacturing for Mexico and South American, for Australia and China, then there will be plenty of work for all, and wages will rise. But while we are hampered as at present with taxed raw materials our laborers too quickly flood the small domestic market with their productions and then, there being no work for them to do in the factories, they must go to farming. Talk about the tariff diversifying industries! It is every day driving men out of manufacturing.—Detroit Times.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75cents. Sold by Dr Crouter.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-60

Dandy. Do you know that you are liable to attacks of Headache and all Ills of stomach derangement? Yes, worse still, to that result of kidney and liver disorder that is known as dyspepsia or nervous dyspepsia. They are often fatal and that in a very short time. Loss of appetite, sour stomach, dimness of vision, dizziness, pains in side and back and many others are but symptoms of disease. Be wise in time. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is the sovereign remedy. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Coughs and colds are the inevitable results of sudden changes in the weather. Immediate attention should be given them so that they may not become established and result in Bronchitis, Congestion, Inflamation or even consumption. Hamilton's Cough Balsam soothes the irritated membrane, and assists in removing phlegm and mucus, that, by its adhesion to the membranes, causes violent coughing. Great relief is received in even those in the last stages of consumption. In croup and whooping cough it is unequaled. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

FOR SALE.
Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year old mare with colt, one good work horse, two Texas ponies, four years old, well broke, and one five-year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of A. A. Raout, on north shore of Pine Lake.
J. A. RAOUT.

FARM FOR SALE.
Consisting of 111 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Well-fenced, a good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 45 acres cleared, balance good hem'k and maple timber. About 250 fruit trees beginning to bear. Good log house on second and saw mill. Terms: three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than one thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID L. EVANS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.
SECOND HAND
Stationary Engine and Boiler
Side of cylinder, 10x30 in.; Boiler 16 feet long, 42 in diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms to suit. Enquire of S. M. SEE,
Or of Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine shop. 38tf.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss.
County of Charlevoix. }
In the matter of the estate of PENAS CHALOUPKA, Minor

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of an order granted by the undersigned, guardian of the estate of said minor, by the Hon. Judge of Probate for the county of Charlevoix, on the 26 day of March A. D. 1884, there will be sold at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House in the village of Charlevoix, in said state, on Saturday, the 22nd day of April, A. D. 1884, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, subject to all incumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of sale, the following described real estate, to wit: The north east quarter of the north east quarter of section twenty four (24) in township thirty-four (34) north of range eight (8) west, containing forty (40) acres more or less.
CHARLES CHALOUPKA,
Guardian.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

AT Glons, near Liege, Belgium, a young man named Francis Debrus lately strangled his half-paralyzed idiot brother. Francis was in love with a girl who refused to marry him because she said that the idiot (who was dependent on Francis) would be on her hands in the house. This is a story which Balzac could have worked up with fine effect.

KLEIS indicted McCue to drink three pints of whisky on a wager, at San Antonio, Tex. The feat proved fatal. McCue's widow sued Klein for damages, and got a verdict of $5,000. On appeal, the Supreme Court confirms the jury's conclusion. The ruling was that, as the drinker was so intoxicated as to be incapable of consent at the time of swallowing the third and killing pint, the man who made him do it was responsible.

FRANK KENT, says a Monticello (N. Y.) correspondent of the New York Sun, lives in the Sackett's Pond neighborhood, this county. The region is a wild one. Residents of the neighborhood coming to town during the past week have had much to relate about a recent hunting exploit, or series of exploits, of Frank Kent, who, they declare, is no hunter at that. A few days ago, while he was at work in his yard, he saw his dog suddenly make for the woods as fast as it could run. In a few minutes he heard the sounds of a struggle between the dog and some other animal. Kent got his gun and ran to the spot. He found his dog and a large red fox fighting. The fox whipped the dog, and the latter sneaked back home. The fox ran into his burrow, at the mouth of which the fight occurred. Kent dug the fox out and started home with it alive. He had taken a few steps only when a small animal dashed across an opening in front of him, immediately followed by another. Close behind the two bounded a large animal. The first two were raccoons. They were being pursued by a wildcat. The raccoons scrambled into a hollow log. The wildcat, seeing Kent, did not stop until it had gone 100 yards further on. Then it took a position in a chestnut tree. Kent hastily took off one of his suspenders and tethered the fox to a chestnut sapling by both hind legs. He then ran to the hollow log where the coons had taken refuge, and closed up both ends with chunks of wood. The wildcat still remained in the chestnut tree in plain sight. Kent walked toward it, but it showed no inclination to escape. Kent stood under the branch on which the wildcat crouched, not more than twenty-five feet above him. The animal prepared itself to spring upon him, but before it could do so Kent sent a rifle ball into its heart, and it fell to the ground and died almost instantly. Before the report of the gun had died away Kent heard a noise off to his right in the underbrush, and he thought it was a cow that had wandered into the woods. He went into the brush toward the spot where the noise came from, and to his surprise discovered a large bear dragging itself along with both of its hind feet in a heavy steel trap, to which was attached a long chain. Kent was obliged to shoot the bear twice before he killed it. After waiting a few minutes to see whether he would be called upon to kill or capture anything more, Kent went back after his fox. He got there just in time, for by its strategies the fox had freed one of its legs, and would soon have gained its liberty. Kent carried the fox home and placed it in his smoke house. Then he went out and brought the wildcat in. He next took a bag and went to the hollow log in which the coons were imprisoned. He removed the pieces of wood from one end and drew the mouth of the bag over the hole. He shoved a stick in at the other end of the log, and the coons ran out and into the bag. Kent drew the bag out of the log and carried the coons home alive and turned them into the wood-shed. He then went out and dragged in the car ass of the bear. He has not found out yet where the bear and the trap joined company. Kent's exploit consumed fifteen minutes only. But his neighbors insist that he is no hunter.

THE London Times prints a letter from its Russian correspondent giving an extremely interesting sketch of Nechayeff, the founder of Nihilism, or rather of the revolutionary organization which under that name has spread terror from all over the empire. It has generally been supposed that revolutionary societies of this kind date back nearly a hundred years, but it now appears that insurrections previous to 1865 were only revengeful uprisings, without any real organization or any fixed policy. It was not till after Karakozoff's attempt upon the life of the Czar in that year that the Nihilistic revolutionary organization was called into active existence, and Nechayeff was the organizer. His career reads like a romance. He was born in the Province of Vladimir, of very humble parentage, and, showing extraordinary ability, was sent to St. Petersburg, where he taught religion in the Sergius School. He was a self-educated man, studied deeply in German philosophy, and learned French from Rochefort's Lanterne. He first became known to the world as the head of a school for murder, and was associated with a student named Ivanoff, whom he killed because he talked of quitting the organization. He then fled to Switzerland, whence the Russian Government procured his extradition. He was tried for the offense in St. Petersburg and convicted, but for some insexplicable reason the government did not hang him, but sentenced him to Siberia, for fear, it was urged, that he might escape, but confined him in the dungeons of the Fortress Peter-Paul under a sentence of twenty years' imprisonment. It was conceived by the Government that there he would be absolutely secure, and that by approaching him in the right way it would get valuable secrets from him. Never was a Government more completely disappointed. He was visited by several eminent persons who attempted to sound him, but to no purpose. On one of these occasions he had an interview with the Czar himself, to whom he boldly declared that absolutism was out of date, and that the only remedy for the existing difficulties was a constitution. That remedy has been the constant demand presented by Nihilism ever since. Nechayeff was loaded with chains for his offense, and was riveted to the wall in such a manner that he had scarcely any freedom of motion. He was whipped with wire rods, but it had no effect upon him. In his manacled condition he actually made converts of his guards, though they were not allowed to speak to him, and he carried on a correspondence with the conspirators. At last a plan was matured by one deluded, at Nechayeff's instigation, to murder the Czar, and deluded was actually introduced into the dungeon to confer with him about the details of the deed. A spy was also among the Nihilists whether Nechayeff ought not to be released before the murder was committed, and a plot was made to seize the fortress, but the dungeon of earth will be displaced in digging it. An ordinary hole will throw out four times the amount of dirt necessary; he will scatter the dirt all around; and after all the pest may not stand upright in the hole.

The boy that digs his first hole in that way is very likely to be told at the close of the day that he is not wanted the next. He may be set to nailing on pickets, a very simple manufacture; only they must be put on straight, just so far apart, and just so high. A careful boy, by eye and line, will make a fence worthy the eye of an experienced man, will make no other mistake.

The boy who has learn to do easy work well certainly will learn to do hard work; its will at once attract attention, because steadiness and patience are among the very first qualities shown by boys of sixteen or seventeen; and what an employer most wants is men who can be trusted to carry on a piece of work without superintendence.

I heard a carpenter say recently —

"If a young fellow asks me for a job, I look him over first of all, and if I like his looks, I mark two or three boards, give him a saw, and tell him to saw them off. If he saws straight I begin to think there's something in him, and so I do even if I only see that he tries hard to saw straight, though he may not hit it. Everything in our trade is done by trying. When I see a boy that can try, I feel like giving him a chance."

If a young man proves capable of doing the easy work of a carpenter, such as nailing the rough boards on the side of a house, he can earn at once $1.25 a day, which is more than I made for $2.50 in the time he has been at work six months. I am speaking now of average country places, not of large cities like New York and Boston.

In the course of two or three years, a wide-awake young man, handy with tools, and always trying his best, can earn the highest wages ordinarily paid to a journeyman carpenter, $2.50 a day. When he is competent to be a 'jour' foreman, and take entire charge of an important piece of work, requiring several hands, he may receive from $3 to $4 a day, though the latter rate is not common except in cities.

What does carpentry lead to? This is a very interesting question to ambitious youths, who naturally and properly look forward to a fair advancement in life, and wish to spend the evening of their days in peace and dignity. In country towns the most natural issue of carpentry is building and architecture. I know myself a boy who was deliberately placed in a carpenter's shop by his parents as a step toward the profession of architecture, and after working three or four years at plain carpentry (with lessons in drawing) he established himself as an architect in a Southwestern city. He there formed a partnership with a builder, and they soon had their hands full of business.

Many carpenters have invented new tools, new methods, new devices, and thus made their way to a large business. Others invest their savings (eking them out with some credit) in a set of sawchimery for making blinds, sash, doors, sleds, stair-rails, or moldings, and send the product of the same all over the country.

In New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, there are men who began life at the workman's bench, and now have shops in which all such articles are manufactured on the greatest scale and with wonderful economy both of material and power. There is such a shop in Boston, in which 100 men, aided by a steam-engine of sixty-horse power, manufacture as much carpenter work as 5,000 men could accomplish by the labor of their hands alone. It is a museum of wonders. On walking over it I was reminded of a remark made by John Quincy Adams upon returning from a manufactory in Russia.

"I ought," said he "to visit a manufactory once a week in order to learn my own ignorance."

It really takes your breath away to see the rapidity and certainty with which such operations as sawing, mortising, dove-tailing, grooving, and polishing are done by the machines in this establishment, which, I suppose, Carlyle would call an explosion of all the carpentries.

There are not many men in the world who can create, or even continue, an establishment like this, because it requires a combination of faculties and talents such as are seldom found in the same individual.

But in many a quiet country place there are carpenters who take pleasure and profit in their work; who have built for themselves nice little houses, filled them with beautifully made furniture, and established a limited but sufficient business. These are the most fortunate of mechanics and men. They do not reckon their income by thousands, but their wants are few and moderate; they take a holiday when they need one. They bring up their children to be good citizens, and they have an invulnerable satisfaction in doing their work in the best manner.—James Parton, in Youth's Companion.

Insect Life in a Snowflake.

Some of the imaginative and wonderfully learned German scholars tell us that every snowflake is inhabited by happy little beings who are born, lead their revels and live their long lives of happiness and delight, die and are buried, all during the descent of the snowflake from the world of clouds to the solid land. I do not know whether to believe these scholars or not. They are of that same school which tells you that every square foot of air possesses some 12,000,000 or 15,000,000 and more or less perfect little beings, and that at every ordinary breath we destroy a million, more or less, of these happy lives. The sigh of a healthy lover is supposed to swallow up about 15,000,000. They insist that the dust which we, all unknowing, accumulate in the most secure and secret places, is merely the remains of millions and billions of these little beings who have died of old age. All this, of course, is mere speculation. But I do know that the poem in the verses of Mr. Jackson Marion Very is not thickly inhabited. I have seen new snow in Idaho black with little insects. They call them snow fleas. They are lively as possible, and will darken your footprints, walk as fast as you may. They are found only on the high mountains, and only in very high but very deep snow. They, of course, do not annoy you in any way. They are infinitely smaller than the ordinary flea, but exactly the same in locomotion.—Joaquin Miller.

A Robber's Appreciation of Genius.

As the Italian poet, Tasso, whose misfortunes were as great as his genius, was on one of his journeys between Rome and Naples, he fell into the hands of bandits, who immediately proceeded to plunder him and his fellow-travelers. But no sooner did the captain of the band, the celebrated Marco Sciarra, of Tivoli, hear the poet pronounce his name, than, with tokens of admiration and respect, he set him at liberty; nor would he permit his followers to plunder Tasso's companions. A prince of royal or imperial birth confined the poet in a madhouse for more than seven years; the great and wealthy left him to a precarious life, which was often a life of absolute want; the service-men of letters of his day looked him with abusive and most unjust criticism; but a mountain robber by the roadside controlled in his nature the very instinct of his gang, and kissed the hand of the author of "Gerusalemme."—The Eye.

Promise to Pay.

"Why are you moving during such bad weather?" was asked of a well-known citizen.

"Well, you see my landlord insisted that I was promising to pay too much rent. He said that he could rent the house for much less than I had promised to pay. This was quite a high compliment to me, but it has put me to some inconvenience."—Texas Siftings.

BE happy if you can, but do not despise those who are otherwise, for you do not know their troubles.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Growing.

Baby is only one year old,
Fair and sweet as a daffodilly;
Hair as delicate as the crinkled curl
Hid in the heart of a water-lily.

Baby is only two years old.
Tongue like a piping bob-o'-lincoln,
Tells more songs than can ever be told,
Green as the tree would dare to branch on.

Baby is only —— who's been stealing
Out of my arms to lift my locks?
My baby! The eyes were mine kneeling,
And stole my baby away from me.
—Lucy Larcom.

The Carpenter's Trade.

I asked an excellent carpenter, a few days ago, what was the chief quality a boy must possess in order to become a good workman. He answered without an instant's hesitation:

"Aptitude."

"But," said I, "how can you or the boy himself tell whether he has aptitude or not?"

"Well," said he, after duly scratching his wig, "one of the first things a boy wants to do, who has in him the making of a good carpenter, is to hammer, whittle, saw and chop. He likes to watch men who are at work with tools, and he has a great deal of curiosity about the tools themselves. By the time he is 12 years of age, unless all his native sense and ingenuity have been schooled out of him, he will make a very good dog-house, birdcage, and rabbit-trap; put up a very respectable shelf for his mother in the store-room, and knock together a pretty shed or summer-house for his sister in the garden. He has a sort of relish for work and tools."

Such is the boy for a carpenter. The advantages of carpentering are so obvious, and some slight degree of skill in it is so easily acquired, that it continually attracts the wrong boys as well as the right ones. In these days of sharp competition, the man thrives best who can do things which few can do, or can do common things in a superior way.

If, therefore, you do not perceive in yourself any signs of "aptitude" for the carpenter's trade; if you have no "relish" for good work and ingenious tools; if you have not something of the mechanic's peculiar patience, or power of keeping on without feet or sorry, it is better to avoid the bench and try something which does not require these qualities.

Let us suppose, however, that, after proper consideration, you have made up your mind to be a carpenter. How are you to get into the trade?

A boy now, on a country place, on coming out of school at his years of age, gets into carpentering in a very simple way. He stops at a carpenter shop and says perhaps to the master:

"I have worked with carpenter's tools a little. My cousin is a carpenter, and I have been round his shops a good deal. Can you give me a job?"

If it is a busy time, and the master wants hands, he will try him for a day. "See if you can," is the reassuring expression, "to find out what he is made of." He will set the lad to helping a man under a picket-fence, one operation of which is digging holes for posts. Often the first hole the boy digs decides his fate. If he has the "gumption," the lobswill have two qualities which will assure him.

First, it will be straight; secondly, the minimum of earth will be displaced in digging it. An ordinary boy will throw out four times the amount of dirt necessary; he will scatter the dirt all around; and after all the post may not stand upright in the hole.

The boy that digs his first hole in that way is very likely to be told at the close of the day that he is not wanted the next. He may be set to nailing on pickets, a very simple manufacture; only they must be put on straight, just so far apart, and just so high. A careful boy, by eye and line, will make a fence worthy the eye of an experienced man, will make no other mistake.

The boy who soon learn to do easy work well certainly will learn to do hard work; its will at once attract attention, because steadiness and patience are among the very first qualities shown by boys of sixteen or seventeen; and what an employer most wants is men who can be trusted to carry on a piece of work without superintendence.

I heard a carpenter say recently —

"If a young fellow asks me for a job, I look him over first of all, and if I like his looks, I mark two or three boards, give him a saw, and tell him to saw them off. If he saws straight I begin to think there's something in him, and so I do even if I only see that he tries hard to saw straight, though he may not hit it. Everything in our trade is done by trying. When I see a boy that can try, I feel like giving him a chance."

If a young man proves capable of doing the easy work of a carpenter, such as nailing the rough boards on the side of a house, he can earn at once $1.25 a day, which is more than I made for $2.50 in the time he has been at work six months. I am speaking now of average country places, not of large cities like New York and Boston.

In the course of two or three years, a wide-awake young man, handy with tools, and always trying his best, can earn the highest wages ordinarily paid to a journeyman carpenter, $2.50 a day. When he is competent to be a 'jour' foreman, and take entire charge of an important piece of work, requiring several hands, he may receive from $3 to $4 a day, though the latter rate is not common except in cities.

What does carpentry lead to? This is a very interesting question to ambitious youths, who naturally and properly look forward to a fair advancement in life, and wish to spend the evening of their days in peace and dignity. In country towns the most natural issue of carpentry is building and architecture. I know myself a boy who was deliberately placed in a carpenter's shop by his parents as a step toward the profession of architecture, and after working three or four years at plain carpentry (with lessons in drawing) he established himself as an architect in a Southwestern city. He there formed a partnership with a builder, and they soon had their hands full of business.

Many carpenters have invented new tools, new methods, new devices, and thus made their way to a large business. Others invest their savings (eking them out with some credit) in a set of sawchimery for making blinds, sash, doors, sleds, stair-rails, or moldings, and send the product of the same all over the country.

In New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, there are men who began life at the workman's bench, and now have shops in which all such articles are manufactured on the greatest scale and with wonderful economy both of material and power. There is such a shop in Boston, in which 100 men, aided by a steam-engine of sixty-horse power, manufacture as much carpenter work as 5,000 men could accomplish by the labor of their hands alone. It is a museum of wonders. On walking over it I was reminded of a remark made by John Quincy Adams upon returning from a manufactory in Russia.

"I ought," said he "to visit a manufactory once a week in order to learn my own ignorance."

It really takes your breath away to see the rapidity and certainty with which such operations as sawing, mortising, dove-tailing, grooving, and polishing are done by the machines in this establishment, which, I suppose, Carlyle would call an explosion of all the carpentries.

There are not many men in the world who can create, or even continue, an establishment like this, because it requires a combination of faculties and talents such as are seldom found in the same individual.

But in many a quiet country place there are carpenters who take pleasure and profit in their work; who have built for themselves nice little houses, filled them with beautifully made furniture, and established a limited but sufficient business. These are the most fortunate of mechanics and men. They do not reckon their income by thousands, but their wants are few and moderate; they take a holiday when they need one. They bring up their children to be good citizens, and they have an invulnerable satisfaction in doing their work in the best manner.—James Parton, in Youth's Companion.

Insect Life in a Snowflake.

Some of the imaginative and wonderfully learned German scholars tell us that every snowflake is inhabited by happy little beings who are born, lead their revels and live their long lives of happiness and delight, die and are buried, all during the descent of the snowflake from the world of clouds to the solid land. I do not know whether to believe these scholars or not. They are of that same school which tells you that every square foot of air possesses some 12,000,000 or 15,000,000 and more or less perfect little beings, and that at every ordinary breath we destroy a million, more or less, of these happy lives. The sigh of a healthy lover is supposed to swallow up about 15,000,000. They insist that the dust which we, all unknowing, accumulate in the most secure and secret places, is merely the remains of millions and billions of these little beings who have died of old age. All this, of course, is mere speculation. But I do know that the poem in the verses of Mr. Jackson Marion Very is not thickly inhabited. I have seen new snow in Idaho black with little insects. They call them snow fleas. They are lively as possible, and will darken your footprints, walk as fast as you may. They are found only on the high mountains, and only in very high but very deep snow. They, of course, do not annoy you in any way. They are infinitely smaller than the ordinary flea, but exactly the same in locomotion.—Joaquin Miller.

A Robber's Appreciation of Genius.

As the Italian poet, Tasso, whose misfortunes were as great as his genius, was on one of his journeys between Rome and Naples, he fell into the hands of bandits, who immediately proceeded to plunder him and his fellow-travelers. But no sooner did the captain of the band, the celebrated Marco Sciarra, of Tivoli, hear the poet pronounce his name, than, with tokens of admiration and respect, he set him at liberty; nor would he permit his followers to plunder Tasso's companions. A prince of royal or imperial birth confined the poet in a madhouse for more than seven years; the great and wealthy left him to a precarious life, which was often a life of absolute want; the service-men of letters of his day looked him with abusive and most unjust criticism; but a mountain robber by the roadside controlled in his nature the very instinct of his gang, and kissed the hand of the author of "Gerusalemme."—The Eye.

Promise to Pay.

"Why are you moving during such bad weather?" was asked of a well-known citizen.

"Well, you see my landlord insisted that I was promising to pay too much rent. He said that he could rent the house for much less than I had promised to pay. This was quite a high compliment to me, but it has put me to some inconvenience."—Texas Siftings.

BE happy if you can, but do not despise those who are otherwise, for you do not know their troubles.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

Some of Its Peculiarities and Curiosities.

NO bureau of the Government in Washington paper, except the Patent Office. From the start, it has been self-sustaining, and now has a handsome balance to its credit, $2,560,000. This money is the fees paid by inventors for patents which protect their rights. The pressure of work in this office has become so great that it is further in arrears than ever before. The inventive genius seems to have a large number of applications for improved watch and clock movements. Two troubles with the Brooklyn bridge are about equally divided between fruit in the Patent Office. Every week brings forth new patent grips, and the bridge has not yet been heard from. Should improve severe enough to stop all labor in the rural districts this spring will usher in an army of grips that will leave an enormous lumps, and check-reins in the background. When it happens to keep a portion of the laborers inside doors, its ordinarily apparent in the Patent Office records.

One would hardly think that anything is so thoroughly worn out as the Patent Office, that there is anything that would excite interest from its records. But this is a sober, thoughtful man, and one might almost be brings his applications and spend a month in the office, where they are received, investigated by a staid and systematic manner; and one might almost expect to get a comic song or a toaster as to look for funny specimens of the cranks and cogs of the human mind in the examination of the applications. Reveals some curiosities in the way of names and the patents for that are quite amusing. For instance, Mr. Churn Dasher, of Allwood, for a barrel plug; Mr. Brown, for a refuse objector; Mr. Crush, and Mr. Bell, for a plaster; J. Christopher Jacobs; Irene Cook, for a churn; Mr. Crofut & Knapp, for felt hats; Mr. Carpenter, for a car-heater. Mr. Peck has served Fish for inventions for vessels, and Lazarus Fridlander for toy watches. F. F. Fastnacht is properly applied for a patent for boots and shoes; H. Goodnow, for horse-shoes; C. J. Glover, for a pile, N. Y., for a glove fastener; Mr. Cruft, for a dumping-box; Mr. Lightsinger, for a harmonica-stop; Mr. Bang, for a hand mop; J. D. Mracky, a Bohemian, for a churn measure; Mr. Green, a corn harvester; Mr. Hayward, an ox-bow; J. E. Mustapha, for a pen; A. North, a refrigerator; Perry Prettyman, of Indiana; Mr. Farm, Oregon, a lamp-burner; Mr. Peck, a measure—probably a quart; E. B. Tarnipseed, a churn; J. Whitecar, an oyster dredge; Will Wink, a car-signal.

Of other peculiar names are: W. B. Argue, William Mackerelly, A. Barney, who gets Mr. Candy John, A. Calderhead, Forrester, S. Cornfield, O. Peabody, Charles Adam Joseph D'Arlincourt, A. Doll, Cook, V. C. A. P. D. G. Comte de Beaumont, Leo Louis, Alice Elie, Theodore, E. T. Earlywine, D. Goodenough, E. W. Gossling, W. H. Gunn, Sampson Goliah, J. C. Hobbs, Thomas Jackson Marion Very, Dr. Hagenfritz, E. Kiss, M. J. Lazarus, S. Laughinhouse, Mucha Machan, of Zagreb, Egypt, Jonathan May, Church & Cathcart, Roy McGregor, A. Morrison, A. Moon, Jerome Boggs Outhouse, Plugge, L. Scurlock, R. Shoemaker, Scattergood, W. S. Shanks, Shortsleeves, Laberty Walker, Dr. Witt, and Twentyman Wood.

Where Wisconsin Asserted Itself.

A Government agent, who was sent to Wisconsin to look up the Indians on Government lands, was surprised to find that the Indians had a whaling away at some choice timber on one of Uncle Sam's sections.

"Any land for sale around here?" queried the agent.

"Well, that might be," was the reply.

"I'd like to buy a whole section."

"Have ye the cash to pay?"

"I have."

"I mought sell you this."

"Can you give a clear deed?"

"Clear as a whistle, stranger. Soon enuh, and I'll deed ye it before sundown."

The agent coolly unrolled a map, spread it out on a log, and said:

"You will see by this map that Sam owns this section. Now, how can you give me a deed of it?"

"See hyar, stranger," said the Indian, after a long pause, "mought be one of these chaps as Uncle Sam is a bigger man than any feller citizen of old Wisconsin? Reckon ye jist threw mistns in sight."

The agent wanted only to see the lime on walls to be papered, a coating of paint must be given. To make it stick up, a pound of glue; put it on with a brush; let it dry for a few hours, until it has swollen up to twice it until it is melted; put it on and give two coats. Then put on the paper in the usual way, with rye flour

E JOURNAL

CHAS. J. STRANG.

VOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

position introduced in the e of Representatives, asking ner to consult with the s of other States in regard to ing of a convention in Dec consider matters pertaining ern divorce law throughout d States, has attracted favor- in a large number of spapers.

SHUTER, a Birmingham who presented Mr. Gladstone s, has received the following Mr. Gladstone desires me to you his best thanks for the ceipt of the making of the you kindly presented to him. Mr. Gladstone is loath to de- tish in any degree, he feels ontemplate making a trial order to see the effect of an olely of stool."

ATION is to be made in Ger- ds long-suppressed memoirs ble poet and cynic, which it confidently declared were ed dead in 1856, after have n and destroyed portions of graphy, in which he sarcas- ted his near relatives, his ersaries, and mankind in d it now seems that he be- ng new memoirs in 1884, and have been sold to a publisher.

CORDES" states that when ys see fossil their mouths d the gastric secretion is reased. A manufacturer of aking advantage of this fact ery pigs into a pen where a filled with food, tempts the ough a wire screen prevents g it, and thus absorbing the ained in the peptic glands. gs are killed, and the yield comparatively large. Take or, alive or dead, home or great American hog is railroad facilities of India nerate with her wheat pacities, she would be a very npetitor of the West. As gradues from 25,000,000 to ntners every year, and well qualified to judge re there adequate means of ne, this amount could be ded. The wheat is good, heap, but transportation is ntstanding this serious ndia has more than trebled xport during the last five assumed proportions in ds as no one dreamt of a ago, and the invention of uitable for ladies gave it a there has been a most ble manufactures, the best article, and it is ds that has now been attained have arrangements with cer- throughout the country to ve them at exceptionally low most favorite route out of the old Irish coaching road, of its smoothness, for it the roads are of a quality American rider very envi-

ll the recent Premiers of e enjoyed the advantage ll gives of great devotion to whose tender care and their ambition they have ifelderled. The devotion ess of Bassell, who is still the Duchess of Beaconsfield, of romance. Mrs. who is nearly the sausage ge, accompanies her hus- Lady Beaconsfield, every- frequently remains in the ty to the close of the Lord Palmerston, more ntrusted first Minister, ed for his position ntenance to his wife, who ly and mentally a remark- up to her death in 1869, ve after he husband, she ifferent classes, and talked ge stage of a woman of is reported to be on ndoling official nobility. ther king has lately ve the style "High ," because, since he be- ngdom, and his consorts ughters and lieutenants ecessities in active service, and army officers not be-

THE REVENUES.

Who Pay Them—An Interesting Exhibit.

St. Louis Republican: The imports to the United States for the calendar year 1883 free of duty were to the value of $205,114,304, against $214,036,390 for the year 1882—a falling off of $8,922,086. This large amount of imports free of duty came under about sixty headings, but is made up mainly of the following:

Articles, the growth of manufacture of the United states, returned	$ 6,874,439
Crude tartar or argal dust	6,986,941
Ite ite	3,537,017
Straw of soda	3,801,278
Sulphur or brimstone	2,171,212
Tobacco	46,74,098
Yeast	2,325,814
Undressed furs and fur skins	2,315,982
Hides and skins, other than furs	24,140,522
Crude India rubber and gutta percha	16,286,373
Rags, other than wool	4,589,464
Raw silk, or as reeled from cocoons	12,122,019
Tea	15,346,909
Tin in many forms	8,105,351
Wool, manufactured	4,0?5,472
Brown sugar	7,0?4,879
Total	$152,332,817

The sixteen headings embrace three-fourths in value of the goods brought into the country free of duty.

The amount of dutiable imports for the calendar year 1883 was $481,960,-362, against $658,807,117 in 1882—a falling off of $56,846,755. The total decrease of free and dutiable imports for the year was $85,708,861, compared with 1882. The dutiable articles imported came under 129 headings, of which the following are the principal:

Live animals	$ 5,543,629
Barley	6,986,941
Buttons and button materials	3,537,017
Crude opium	3,801,278
Watches and watch materials	2,171,212
Coal, bituminous	46,74,098
Cotton cloth	2,325,814
Cotton Knit goods	2,315,982
Clothing and other cotton goods	24,140,522
Earthen, stone, and china ware	16,286,373
Fancy articles, perfumeries, etc	4,589,464
Flax and linen manufactures	12,122,019
Fruits and nuts	15,346,909
Manufactures of flax, jute, etc	8,105,351
Fruits and nuts	4,0?5,472
Fur dressed on skins	7,0?4,879
Glass	3,543,879
Glass plate or lazzara tiles	1,975,783
Various manufactures of tin	13,855,659
Hosiery	3,590,818
Leather	7,228,409
Gloves, kid and leather	3,240,653
Silk, dress and piece goods	16,621,441
Silk, clothing, laces, ribbons, etc	18,290,457
Brandy	2,946,526
Molasses	6,290,046
Sugar, Dutch standard in color	87,74,?83
Leaf tobacco	12,?23,?13
Cigars, cigarettes, and chewing	5,055,770
Wine in casks	3,092,955
Wine in bottles	2,507,193
Wool	44,?90,818
Wool, unmanufactured	11,811,625
Woolen cloth	12,?52,?53
Women's and children's woolen goods	17,685,289
Woolen goods unspecified	3,0?5,?58
Total	$380,150,771

These thirty-six headings embrace more than three-fourths of the dutiable commodities brought into this country. It will be observed that by far the greater portion are articles of prime necessity. Sugar, cotton goods and cotton clothing, woolen goods and woolen clothing, manufactures of flax, tin, and manufactures of glass, all manufactures of iron make up much the larger part of the goods upon which duties are imposed. These are articles indispensable in every household in the land. These enter into the life of every human creature. The duty on these articles is from 40 to 50 per cent. It is not stating the case too strongly to say that on the six articles we have just named the laboring classes pay annually over $100,000,000 tax to the Government, or $2 to each person, and $10 to each average family. There is, of course, taken no account of the amount they pay to protect home industries which does not go into the Treasury. This amount is indefinite, but is variously estimated to reach three times the amount, or more than is paid to the Government—more nearly five times, or $50 per family; that is to say, $8 to each person, and $30 to each family in the United States. If this tax were levied direct on the people the present tariff would not stand a month. It falls on them none the less severely, and is much less equitably distributed than are direct taxes, but so disguised as to excite no general protest. It is only by discussion that the truth can be brought home to the people who bear the burdens.

Garfield Knew.

One very interesting fact appeared in the testimony heard by the Senate Committee. When the tabulated summary of the expedited Star Routes, showing just where the plunder went, was exhibited to Gen. Garfield at the White House, he expressed surprise. It was in April or May, 1881, that Gen. Garfield was astonished by the revelation of Dorsey's wickedness. Yet that same tabulated statement had been seen and examined by Gen. Garfield a year earlier, while he was still a member of the House of Representatives and before his election as President.

It seems, then, that Gen. Garfield knew all about Dorsey's wickedness when he was leaning on Dorsey for support during the canvass of 1880, when he was looking to Dorsey for help in closing the breach between the two wings of the party, and when he was turning to Dorsey for advice as to the make-up of his Cabinet.

The late President was already in the possession of the facts about the Star Route plunder when he telegraphed from Mentor to Dorsey, at Cleveland, in 1880:

"Can't you see me somewhere on your return before reforming with your committee work?"

He had already seen and studied the table of the misdeeds the expedited routes when he wrote, later in the same month:

"I rely greatly on your calm coolness, which has shown itself so often and so well in others."

Garfield already knew the exact extent of the operations of the Dorsey combination when he wrote to the Senator in October, 1880, just after the Indiana election:

"I especially congratulate you upon your masterful management of the campaign, and the thoroughness with which you have watched all the details and incidents of the fight. Let me counsel you to take some much-needed rest, and save yourself for the final struggle soon to come on. We shall need all our powers during the last two weeks of the contest; but just now go to bed and sleep two or three days, and when you are sufficiently rested come here and make me a visit, or better still, come here and sleep. Swaist joins me in kindest regards."

Garfield already had read in cold figures the story of the star route plunder when he wrote to Senator Dorsey:

"I want you to know how absolutely I rely on your earnest desire to do the best for the cause, and how eager I am to aid your efforts."

He knew all about the expedited routes when he wrote, in January, 1881, regretting that he could not attend the Dorsey banquet at Delmonico's:

"DEAR SENATOR: I am glad you are to be congratulated by such gentlemen. I wish it were possible for me to be present, but I cannot."

Finally, when Garfield and Dorsey parted company on March 5, 1881, with expressions of mutual esteem, the President was not less well-informed on the subject of Dorsey's connection with the Star Route business than he was a few weeks later when he announced his heroic resolve to probe the affair to the bottom. The parting was on the morning of the day when the names of the new Cabinet were sent to the Senate. The incident has been described by Dorsey himself. He had been advising Garfield not to nominate James and MacVeagh:

"General," said Dorsey, "it is there no way to prevent this mistake—a mistake that I know will wreck you?"

"Steve," he said, and the honest, kindly heart beat, I know, with emotion—"Steve, my mind is made up. I've got to do it. I wouldn't hurt your feelings for the world, but I must. I cannot help myself."

There was something in his words I see now, and I said, patting him on the back: "Go ahead, old man. I know you believe you are right. God bless you and your work."

There is one man living who, in all probability, could go upon the stand and give to the Springer Committee the secret of the Star Route prosecutions. He was a member of Garfield's Cabinet, but he was not Postmaster General nor Attorney General. Nor is he likely to present himself before the committee in order to communicate the information which he possesses.—New York Sun.

GOOD ENOUGH.

Nine Reasons Why Young Men Should Vote the Democratic Ticket.

1. Because the leaders of the Republican party in the campaign of 1882 were composed of Star Route thieves, and received the money, knowing it to be stolen to buy poor men's votes with.

2. Because every man who cries down with a solid South is a stupid, lame Republican, and dare not face a cannon in the hour of our country's needs, but now cries out "Solid South."

3. Because every man who objects to the giving of a disabled soldier a pension is a Republican.

4. Because every man who bought Government bonds when gold was worth $2.80, and voted ever since not to pay the soldier in the bonds from the full value of his contract, but to pay him in a depreciated currency, is a Republican.

5. Because the man who assassinated President Garfield was a Republican—a "Stalwart of the Stalwarts."

6. Because the man who would destroy the religion of our forefathers by decreeing there is a God is a leader of the age, and a Republican.

7. Because the men who are to be honorable and whose position is such as to inspire the people that a claim before them would be decided according to law and evidence, and who were to be contested electoral votes made in 1876, no difference what the evidence was, to seat his fraudulency, Hayes, as President, were Republicans.

8. Because every one who votes for protection is a Republican.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

John Logan's Syntax—Singular Grammatical Construction.

(Washington Cor. Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

The Presidential fever does not appear to have improved Gen. Logan's syntax. On Monday last he introduced in the Senate, and of which the following is an exact copy:

He is empowered, any time and after the passage of this act, at which this act is an amendment, it shall be matter be lawful for the surviving soldier or sailor or officer, who shall have been killed in the line war of the rebellion, or who shall have died in the military service of the United states from wounds received in said service, or from disease contracted in said service, or who shall have died since the war from wounds received in said service, or disease contracted from said service in time of duty, shall hereafter be entitled to a pension without regard to his or her dependent upon said deceased soldier or sailor for support; but the said soldier or sailor from no result of having died said soldier or sailor in discharge of duty in said war of the rebellion in case of said soldier or sailor, without regard to their being dependent upon said deceased soldier or sailor for support. This act of which this act is an amendment to section 4,716 of the Revised Statutes of the United States is hereby repealed. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

THE Chicago Journal says: "The more free trade we have for all sorts of grain the worse it is for the American farmer." That is to say, the fewer consumers a man has and the smaller the demand for his products the more he gets for them. Why, then, all this fuss about the European production of American pork? The American farmer is not the fool this Chicago paper proclaims him.—Detroit Free Press.

WOMEN AT THE POLLS.

BY BILL NYE.

There have been many reasons given first and last why women should not vote, but I desire to say, in the full light of a ripe experience, that some of them are fallacious. I refer more particularly to the argument that it will degrade women to go to the polls and vote like a little man. While I am not and never have been a lowler for female suffrage, I must admit that it is much more of a success than prohibition and speculative science.

My wife voted eight years with my full knowledge and consent, and to-day I cannot see but that she is as docile and as tractable as when she won my trusting heart. Now those who know me best will admit that I am not a ladies' man, and therefore what I may say here is not said to secure favor and grateful smiles. I am not attractive and I am not in politics. I believe that I am lowlier this winter than usual. There are reasons why I believe that what I may say only subject will be sincere and not sensational or selfish.

It has been urged that good women do not generally exercise the right of suffrage, when they have the opportunity, and that only those whose social record has been tarnished a good deal go to the polls. This is not true.

It is the truth that a good full vote always shows a list of the best women and the wives of the best men. A bright day makes a better showing of bad voters than a bad one, and the weather makes a more perceptible difference in the female vote than the male, but when things are exciting and the bottle is red hot, and the tocsin of war sounds anon, the wife and mother puts on her armor and her sealskin sacque and knocks things crosseyed.

It is generally supposed that the female voter is a pantaloonate, a half horse, half alligator kind of woman, who looks like Dr. Mary Walker and has the appearance of one who has risen hastily in the night at the alarm of fire and dressed herself partially in her own garments and partially in her husband's. This is a popular error. In Wyoming, where female suffrage has raged for years, you meet quiet, courteous, and gallant gentlemen, and fair, quiet, sensible women at the polls, where there isn't a loud or profane word, and where it is an imbiedy more proper place to send a young lady unescorted than to the postoffice in any city in the Union. You can readily see why this is so. The men about the polls are always candidates and their friends. That is the reason that neither party can afford to show the slightest rudeness toward a voter. The man who on Wednesday would tell her to go and sook her head, perhaps, would stand bareheaded to let her pass on

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 10, 1884.

Business Announcements.

C. C. Michaels, the Fort Wayne chimney sweep, will be here till Friday next week, and will sweep chimneys for 75 cents and $1.00.

Overcoats at cost at E. M. Clark's.

Wanted 5,000 doz eggs for foreign markets. Highest prices for farm produce. Upright, Emery & Co.

For a good bargain in Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, or Clothing, try Byron Snow's.

E. M. Clark has a fine line of cloth dress which he offers at bottom prices.

A fine line of gents furnishing goods, notions, &c., received at Upright, Emery & Co.'s Tuesday.

Fresh Coffees, Teas, Spices, Crackers, Oysters, Foreign and Domestic Dried Fruits, and Canned Goods received this week. Upright, Emery & Co.

Great bargains in Boots and Shoes at E. M. Clark's.

The balance of our stock of clothing to be sacrificed the next ten days at 20 per cent below cost. Upright, Emery & Co.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

Upright, Emery & Co., are giving away clothing to make room for their spring stock of Boy Goods and Gents' Furnishings.

23 lbs C sugar for One Dollar at E. M. Clark's.

Extracts of every description received to-day. Upright, Emery & Co.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMERY & CO., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
BUCKWHEAT FLOUR, per cwt, $4.50.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.90.
HAY, per ton, $8.00.
OATS, per bu, 50c.
GROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.75.
APPLES, per bu, $1.00.
POTATOES, per bu, 50c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 20@25c.
LARD, per lb, 12@15c.
HAMS, 16c; Shoulders, 12c.
SALT PORK, 12c; Beef, 8c.
MACKEREL, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 20c.
WATER-WHITE OIL, 25c
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

MEAT, beef steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½@15c; mutton, 12½@15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12½c.
TALLOW, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Personal Gossip.

Al. Cooper is home again.

Allen Potter was elected mayor of Kalamazoo.

J. Milo Eaton's office will be two stories high.

Miss Cherrie is now postmistress of Ironton, record is dressed.

Mrs. Howard, of Saline, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Clark, of Charlevoix.

Owen Miller, of Hudson, has just been elected to his sixth terms supervisor.

Addia Sinclair of Ellsworth, Antrim county, was among the JOURNAL callers yesterday.

Mrs. Maggie McCabe, wife of John McCabe, of Charlevoix, died at Petoskey, last week.

Mr. C. M. Barns, who has had a clerkship in Traverse City since Jan. 1st is home again.

Mrs. A. S. Abbott, wife of the editor of the DeVaice Breeze, died last week of consumption.

Miss Celia Nicholls expects to visit friends in Trempeleau, Wis., as soon as navigation opens.

L. D. Bartholomew brought from Florida several varieties of canes as souvenirs for his friends.

Geo. Durance, late of the livery stable, has gone to Ironton, and will have charge of the furnace there.

Miss Martha O'Neil, has engaged a school in Eveline township, and will go next Saturday to begin business.

Mr. B. Van Auken, of Potterville, Eaton county, is visiting his brother, Rev. C. F. Van Auken, of Charlevoix.

W. P. Brown has our thanks for Cincinnati papers containing a full account of the recent rain in that city.

D. H. Francis has rented his farm for the season, and will build a residence and move his family to Charlevoix soon.

W. A. Brown starts to-day for Newcastle, Ind., where Mrs. B. is now visiting. They will return to Charlevoix early in May.

Chas. Williams, Med. Houghtlin, and Wm. Livingston, of Boyne, attended the I. O. O. F. encampment in Charlevoix, Monday evening.

Chas Kelly was down to Ironton county last week. He reports that spring work is no further advanced there than here, and the weather not much warmer.

Prof. M. L. Smith's rendering of the "Mockingbird" at the "Eisteddfod" Tuesday evening, shows him to be master of the organ he informs us that it is his own composition and arrangement.

T. H. Corson, of Salem, Mich., visited Charlevoix with the intention of locating in the millinery, dress-making, and fancy goods trade, but could not find suitable rooms. A few more store buildings would pay pretty well.

Prof. M. L. Smith, late of Tilsonburg, Ont., has been in town a short time busking up for a location to engage in teaching vocal and instrumental music, and the encouragement offered is sufficient to induce him to remain here.

Mrs. Meeda DePue will return to Charlevoix this week to take charge of the millinery work the coming season for Mrs. L. Spaulding. She has been spending several weeks in the city attending the openings and getting the latest styles, and will be able to give the ladies of Charlevoix something new in the way of hats and bonnets. Mrs. DePue is an experienced trimmer, and cannot fail to please the most fastidious.

News Brevities.

Light snow Tuesday.

New hoods for E. M. Clark.

Frank Wood has a new ice box.

That bean soup was hard to beat.

The melodious chimney sweep is in town this week.

The Sea Gem has been given a new covering of deck-plank.

Preaching at Black's school house, April 19th at 2:30 p. m.

Our correspondents will confer a favor by writing names distinctly.

Bean soup and johnny cake is a simple yet substantial fare, and is easy to take.

Fifty families from Ireland are about to settle on Beaver Island.—News.

It is intimated that the teacher of the Hilton school is preparing a sweet feast for some one.

If you don't want to pay the tax on your dog, kill him before the assessor makes his annual visit.

The Congregational Sunday school will give an Easter concert next Sunday evening, at the school house.

In Hayes township, one ticket had one man's name for every office. Our informant did not give the name.

The Ladies, aid society of the M. E. church, will meet with Mrs. Hawkins next Wednesday at 4 o'clock p. m.

An incipient fire in Wm. Cross' residence was discovered and extinguished about 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Easter service at the M. E. church next Sunday at 10:30 o'clock. Easter concert by the Sunday school in the evening.

The G. R. & I. R. R. guide to the summer resorts of Northern Michigan has been issued. We shall give it a more extended notice later on.

The teachers of the M. E. Sunday school are making an effort to give an Easter concert to surpass anything of the kind ever given in Charlevoix.

Fire started near the stove pipe in Johnson's boarding house Sunday afternoon, but was extinguished before the department could get there.

All the teachers examined at the late session of examiners in Charlevoix were granted certificates, including Prof. Allen's advanced normal class.

The Gazelle is being thoroughly painted, inside and out, she will have seven different colors when completed. Messrs. Price and Newman have the contract.

Capt. Gallagher, of Beaver Harbor, has traded the schooner Willard A. Smith with John Day for a half interest in the schooner Fisher, of the same place.

We must not complain about a little cold wind or snow storm, when our neighbors in the southern, central, and western states are being destroyed by cyclones.

Rev. Mr. Iddings' temperance lecture at the M. E. church Sunday evening was a sensible and practical exposition of the facts of history and the needs of the present.

April 24th has been appointed Arbor Day by Governor Begole. Do not fail to plant a tree that will stand as a monument to your memory, and a blessing to your fellow men long after your own body has been laid away to rest.

The Northern Michigan Line of lake propellers announce that it is now prepared to receive freight at its new dock, rear of 126 to 132 Market street, Chicago. Extensive repairs and improvements have been made on the propellers Champlain and Lawrence, and they will run on the same route as last season, carrying freight and passengers.

From the Chicago Newspaper Union we have received the "Illustrated Chicago Guide," a hand-book of its sights, amusements, history, and commerce. To the person visiting that city for the first time on business or pleasure it is valuable aid. It embraces a map of the city, a brief history of the more important places of interest to the sight seer, a street guide to find on the map any place in the city, besides much other valuable information.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The Season of 1883-4 Closes with a Banquet at the Bridge Street House.

At the Bridge Street house last Tuesday evening was held one of the most enjoyable meetings of the historical society ever held. There were present 105 members and friends.

President John Nicholls called the audience to order, and an interesting programa was opened by music by Prof. G. M. and Miss Lillie Bice and Miss Aggie Miller, with violin, organ, and cornet.

Mrs. C. Y. Cook then read a pleasing selection entitled "Grandmother's Trust," after which Mrs. Dr. Graves rendered a beautiful vocal solo entitled "When the Swallows Return."

Miss Maud Loveday gave a touching recitation entitled "The Two Pictures."

Fred. Smith and Al. Washburn sang the popular duet entitled "Fairy footsteps gently falling."

Robert O'Neil gave a choice reading, being a selection, with criticisms, from Lalla Rookh.

Mrs. F. W. Mayne gave a most charming vocal solo, and Ed. F. Parmelee a recitation.

The first named trio again gave a stirring selection, which closed the exercises of the parlor.

An intermission of ten minutes was allowed, during which time the audience were aroused by the violent ringing of a dinner bell. President Nicholls then announced as an explanation that a banquet (the plan of which was original with and had been prepared by the executive committee) was awaiting the audience in the room below.

THE BANQUET.

After being seated, grace was asked by Rev. J. T. Iddings. The viands were then indulged in, especially that delicious beverage known in French as soupe de la fere. Gateau du matis and coffee shared the same fate.

TOASTS.

R. W. Kane, master of toasts, introduced that order of exercises.

The first was as follows: "The Charlevoix Historic Society, the pride of our village; first in culture, first in social quaffing, and first in bean-soup banquets." Responded to by President John Nicholls in an able manner, giving a synopsis of the work accomplished, and a pleasing prophecy of the work to come.

"The heritage left us by our revolutionary forefathers; bought with their blood, and dear to us as life itself." E. H. Green gave a stirring response, calling up memories of the fathers who gave their lives that we might enjoy peace and liberty.

"Camp life in the revolution; tough but glorious. Let the laurels of those who endured it never wither." Byron See responded to this by summarizing the struggles, privations, and calamities endured by the brave boys and patriots around the camp fires.

"The lawyers; where were they during the revolution?" Fred. W. Mayne, in a dignified yet spicy manner vindicated the profession, and won laurels for himself as an orator on occasions like this.

"The ladies of the revolution. In purity and nobility of character, and in personal charms, their equals are only found among the ladies of the Charlevoix Historic Society." Responded to by Robert Miller in an appropriate manner, paying due homage to the ladies who took to arms during the revolution.

The toasts were interspersed with music as follows: An instrumental, with violins and organ, by Messrs. Wheat, Carr, and M. L. Smith; a vocal solo by Miss Aggie Miller; an instrumental, "The Mockingbird," by M. L. Smith; a vocal duet by Dr. Carlstein and W. A. Smith, translated from the Swedish for this occasion; a violin duet by Messrs. Wheat and Carr; and a comic vocal by M. L. Smith.

The society gave a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Miller for their hospitality, and the use of the house for this meeting; also to Messrs. Wheat and Carr, and M. L. Smith, for the music kindly furnished by them.

The next meeting of the society will be held the first Tuesday evening in October.

Friends in New Orleans have sent J. Milo Eaton an illustrated comic paper called Figaro, which gives two delicious pages known as French suggestive full-page cartoons. On the first page is an old gentleman labeled "democracy," slipping and falling by reason of a banana skin labeled "tariff," dropped by a small boy labeled "public opinion." On the last page a Louisiana planter is waylaid and robbed by three masked figures, one holding him by the throat, a second at one pocket marked "free sugar," and the third at another pocket marked "free rice." The whole is evidently a republican campaign document.

Ironton.

Ice in the Arm and Pine lake continues to stay.

Last Thursday Charlie Wheaten broke through the ice on the Arm, and was rescued with difficulty.

The smile on the face of James Hanegan is caused by a bouncing baby girl at his house.

The night foundryman at the furnace, returns to his home in Green Bay this week.

John Otis superintends both the Ironton and Musculonn furnaces.

There are more than five thousand tons of iron in the yard at this place waiting the opening of navigation.

Richard Lake and Ammon Beers are bondsmen for A. M. Tally.

The brewery will be in operation about May 1st.

Religious services at the school house last Sunday, conducted by Mr. Seel.

School commences first Monday in May, J. M. Harris, teacher.

Religious services at the Ironton school house next Sunday at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. C. F. VanAnken, of Charlevoix.

Burgess.

An old landmark gone; the old log house near Burgess postoffice was burned one day last week, it was formerly occupied by Wm. Burns. No insurance.

Pete Campo who has rented Wm. Gibson's place, has his spring wheat sowed and nearly all his spring plowing done.

Moses Cooper and family were visiting up in the center of Hayes last Sunday. "Mose" knows where to go about sugar-making time.

Logging-bees are beginning to swarm, and splendid weather for them.

Edwin Hale made 100 pounds of sugar last week from 75 trees.

John Struthers and Tom Barrett ran away from home one day last week, and have not been found up to the present writing. [The former has since been found near Vanderbilt.—Ed.]

One of the inhabitants of Hayes who has been spending the winter in the south part of the state, upon returning home found his house occupied by a tramp.

How to Study Music.

Dear reader do you wish to gain a knowledge of this grand and glorious science, which the all-wise composer has placed before you, namely music; then my earnest request to you is this: Study the fundamental principles which underlie the science. Many people are taught to be carried away with the broken dance and sham notions of man; and so, but rather the gift of God. We find that through this bounteous nature has given us such an adequate supply, that every inch of the pure atmosphere we breathe is teeming with music. For a clear proof of this, we herebut because we are so accustomed to hear it intelligently, when, like an over-laden fruit tree, ripe to the harvest, it is ready to shower down its fruit on all who come beneath its branches. When we consider the fact that the science of music is the gift of God, we cannot fail to comprehend that it is governed by laws as unchangeable as the All Wise Creator Himself. Merely learning to play a few pieces, or to read readily at sight, although this is a fine accomplishment does not constitute the science of music. You may now ask, the question what is the exact amount that I must use in studying music? My answer is this: First study and learn to analyze perfectly all of the intervals of music, the harmonies of intervals, and the formation of intervals into chords, and the progression of chords according to certain fixed rules in music. The teacher who is not capable of imparting to his pupils a knowledge of this at the very outset is unfit to teach. If I should tell one of my pupils that C, E, and G formed the chord of C and that I knew nothing more of it, would be an incomplete an answer, as it would when you were asked to give a description of a certain book to describe it by spelling it-o-o-k. Trusting dear reader that you will take the right course in this grand and glorious cause. With these few lines of advice I remain.

Yours Respectfully,
PROF. M. L. SMITH.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crozier.

Married.

LYNN—PHIPENNEY—In Charlevoix, April 7th, by Rev. J. T. Iddings, Mr. Robert A. Lynn and Miss Gladdis G. Phipenney, both of Charlevoix.

Notice Miss L. Spaulding's new card this week.

The Elections.

Monday was a fine day for [illegible] and a good deal of hard [illegible] done; the result in many places big surprise to both candidates and voters. Throughout the state [illegible] democratic gains are reported.

It was impossible to get [illegible] plete vote of townships in the [illegible] and in some cases we are able [illegible] only a partial list of offices [illegible] The following are all we have [illegible] at hour of going to press:

CHARLEVOIX.

In this township there [illegible] tickets, republican and [illegible] latter was successful in all [illegible] treasurer, and defeat here [illegible] mainly to a wickedly false [illegible] "trading" votes.

Supervisor—Orlando Blair. [illegible]
Clerk—H. S. Harsha ..... [illegible]
F. W. Mayne..... [illegible]
Treasurer—Geo. W. Miller. [illegible]
H. C. Cooper.. [illegible]
Justice—A. J. McLeod..... [illegible]
Justice, vac'y—L. E. Allen. [illegible]
H. Hall ..... [illegible]
Inspector—W. C. Newman. [illegible]
H'g'y com'r—J. Weyburn. [illegible]
D. C. Nettleton [illegible]
Constables—A. R. Colgrove [illegible]
Gurley Beak.. [illegible]
M. Bence..... [illegible]
D. McNeil..... [illegible]
A. Gilgar..... [illegible]
Geo. Pappin.. [illegible]
T. Nowland .. [illegible]
Geo. Bates... [illegible]

One-third of one per cent [illegible] way tax, and $1,000 for [illegible] fund. N. Ainslie was elected [illegible] seer of highways in district [illegible] and O. D. Wood in district [illegible]

HAYES.

In Hayes township there [illegible] tickets, republican and [illegible] former was successful by [illegible] ranging from 10 to 47, as follows:

Supervisor, E. H. Barges, [illegible] clerk, Wm. Gray, 45; treasurer, [illegible] Whitford, 10; commissioner, [illegible] Newson, 36; justice, Wm. [illegible] inspector, B. H. Whitman, 2[illegible] commissioner, C. Howe, 12; [illegible] bles, Jack Saunby, Thos. [illegible] Cook, W. Whitford.

One-half of one per cent [illegible] tax; $500 special highway [illegible]

MARION.

In Marion there was but [illegible] tor ticket, but slips were [illegible] on several candidates, [illegible] ent successful results. We [illegible] figures are given there was [illegible] sition.

Supervisor, John Ward, [illegible] W. D. Thompson; treasurer [illegible] Adams, 18; inspector, Wm. [illegible] highway commissioner, John [illegible] 9; drain commissioner, Joseph [illegible] justice, John Newman; constable [illegible] M. Pierce.

One-half of one per cent [illegible] way tax. Cattle not to run [illegible]

In Eveline there were two [illegible] and that staunch democrat [illegible] Smith was defeated by only [illegible] The following is the ticket [illegible]

Supervisor, H. Frezell; [illegible]
Bedwin; treasurer, H. Shelle[illegible] missioner, M. J. Straley; justi[illegible]
Hammond and A. Beers.

SOUTH ARM.

The fight in South Arm was [illegible] temperance issue, and "[illegible] got left. We are not advised [illegible] any other issue was made. [illegible] lowing is the ticket elected:

Supervisor, W. F. Parmenter; [illegible]
Lanway; treasurer, H. B. Hig[illegible]
Missioner, W. F. Empey; [illegible]
B. Palmiter; inspector, Jos. [illegible] constables, J. C. Glenn, Sam[illegible] ford, J. W. Rogers.

Two hundred and fifty dollars [illegible] voted for the state road scand[illegible]

NORWOOD.

In Norwood there was but [illegible] as follows: Supervisor, Wm. [illegible] clerk, D. R. Bennett; treas[illegible] Trimble; justices, Wm. Harg[illegible] C. Chamberlin; inspectors, [illegible] ton and G. V. Nash; constables [illegible] Mobo; constables, R. Trimble, [illegible] Pearl, Geo. Gaykes, and Fred [illegible]

It was voted to build a [illegible] hall.

EVANGELINE.

This township elected the [illegible] people's ticket, except highway [illegible] missioner. It was headed by a [illegible] democrat, although we are [illegible] that politics entered into the [illegible] The temperance element here [illegible] where were defeated. The [illegible] were elected: Supervisor, [illegible] clerk, W. J. Lewis; treasurer, R. Cadwell; justice, F. C. Heidee; [illegible] missioner, John Crane; inspector, [illegible] E. Martin; drain commissioner, [illegible] Hayward; constables, J. Howie, [illegible] Hartenstine, C. S. Hendee, M. [illegible]

HUDSON.

Supervisor, Oren Miller; clerk, Jos. [illegible]; treasurer, J. H. Ackerson; inspector, H. A. Fisher.

WILSON.

Supervisor, Geo. Bailey; clerk, Geo. [illegible] Mills; treasurer, W. R. Norton.

BOYNE VALLEY.

Supervisor, F. P. Myers.

BEAR LAKE.

The entire union ticket in this township was elected. Supervisor, E. C. Stephenee; clerk, John Kilborn; justice, D. H. Herrington; treasurer, Frank Jones; highway commissioner, Krause.

BEAR CREEK.

Supervisor, James Buckley, republican; balance of ticket democratic.

BANKS.

Supervisor, L. M. Kanagy; clerk, M. Coulter; treasurer, Nelson W. [illegible]; justices, E. B. Marshall and [illegible] Williams; highway commissioner, [illegible] White; drain commissioner, Geo. [illegible]

Notes and News.

Senator Payne denies the report [illegible] is not a candidate for the presidency.

The election in Chicago April 1st, [illegible] estimates that city is overwhelmingly [illegible]

Last Sunday's Free Press was a large sized, and contained 60 columns of advertisements.

If the government, instead of collecting its tax at the custom houses, should station gatherers at the door of the merchant, requiring each customer to pay separately the [illegible] upon his cloth, his leather, his salt, sugar, silk, or whatever else he bought, the only of the federal taxes would be disclosed [illegible] ease, and the country would rise in universal [illegible] at the extortion which goes on under the [illegible] of necessary taxation.—Philadelphia Record.

LIVERY STABLE.

MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages Kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.—The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, Frederick H. Hatch, Circuit Judge, presiding. Notice is hereby given that on the eighteenth day of [illegible] A. D. 1884, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of [illegible] in the state of Michigan, at the suit of [illegible] Frederick B. Jackson, the above named plaintiff, against the land, tenements, goods and chattels, moneys, and effects of William H. Condon, the defendant above named, for the sum of two thousand ninety dollars, (2090), which said writ was returnable on the first Monday of [illegible] A. D. 1884.

Dated April 8th, A. D. 1884.

CHRISKRANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

and cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (free) the recipe for a simple vegetable BALM that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES, and leave the skin clear, soft and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, MRS. VANDELL & CO., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, &C. Parties wishing the prescription will please address Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, 162 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,
DEALER IN
Hardware,
FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.
Charlevoix, Mich.

AN OCEAN DISASTER.

THE STEAMER DANIEL STEINMANN WRECKED.

OUT OF 130 PERSONS ONLY NINE SAVED.

A DREADED COAST.

BOSTON, Mass., April 4.—Intelligence was received late this afternoon of the wreck of another Atlantic steamship on the dread Nova Scotia coast. The steamer is the Daniel Steinmann, of Antwerp, and she sank last night off Sambro head, eighteen miles from Halifax harbor, carrying down about 120 persons.

The disaster occurred in the same locality which in April, 1873, proved fatal to the White Star steamer Atlantic and 546 of her passengers and crew, and not many miles from the scenes of the wrecks of the Arctic in 1854, with 562 souls, and the Hungarian in 1869, with 205.

The Daniel Steinmann is a well known vessel and has, since her building in 1875, plied between Antwerp, Halifax, New York and Boston. Her tonnage was 1,311, and she last sailed from Antwerp March 21, bound first for Halifax and then to New York. Capt. Schoonhoven was in command.

Her passengers, it is supposed, were all immigrants, probably Germans.

STRUCK A LEDGE.

A Journal special from Halifax says that the vessel struck a ledge between five and six miles off Sambro at about 10 p. m., and sank with all on board. The gale had prostrated the wires leading to the signal station, so that it was 2 p. m. to-day when news of the wreck was received by Chipman Bros., agents of the White Cross line, to which the steamer belonged.

An immense hole was knocked in her bottom. She filled and within a few minutes went down. At high water the only thing visible is the topsail-yard.

So far as at present is known, but one lifeboat was launched, but how many it at first contained is unknown.

About midnight the men at Sambro Island observed a boat making for the shore, and guided it around with torches to Calin cove, where the occupants, seven in number, landed. They were five of the crew and two passengers.

After daylight broke two persons could be seen clinging to the rigging of the sunken ship, and a boat putting out from the lighthouse, they were rescued from their perilous position. They proved to be Captain Schoonhoven and a boy passenger. About 8 o'clock yesterday morning Charles Martin, of Pictou, N. S., landed at Sambro Island and received the above meagre facts and then proceeded to the mainland with the following message to Chipman Brothers, agents of the White Cross line, in Halifax:

The Belgian steamer Daniel Steinmann, Capt. Schoonhoven, wrecked on the 3d or April, about 10 p. m., on the soil rocks off Sambro. Ninety passengers and thirty-four of the crew drowned. Five of the crew and nine passengers and the captain are saved.

H. SCHOONHOVEN.

After Pilot Marten left the island the sea became so rough that a boat could not reach it again from the mainland, which is three miles distant. Efforts were made all day from Camperdown station to obtain information by the Morse signal system, but the fog was so dense that one station was not visible to those at the other. The names of survivors consequently are not yet known, but there are no women among them.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 7.—The three surviving passengers of the Daniel Steinmann, now in this city, state the vessel struck but lightly twice. The captain then summoned them all on deck and directed them to prepare to enter the boats it such would be necessary. One boat was launched and all made a rush for it, although good discipline was maintained among the ship's crew. The boat was well filled, and being attached to the steamer, by a rope, some of those on board were about cutting the line when the steamer suddenly sank, dragging the boat and the unfortunate occupants with it. The boat turned over and every person in it was thrown out and drowned. When the stern of the vessel sank, the cries and screams of the women and children were heartrending, but lasted only for a few minutes. Capt. Schoonhoven made his way up the forerigging. Two men caught the rigging of the mainmast and endeavored to climb along the stays between the masts. One was washed away. The other, John Neiderman, succeeded by a desperate effort in reaching the rigging, where he was pulled into a comparatively safe position by the captain's assistance. His wife upliffs was broken, and this gave play to the yard, which worked back and forth with the action of the waves, and threatened to tear out the mast. The two unfortunates from time to time cried out for help, but the roar of wind and water drowned their voices. They saw lights burning on the shore and signals, while conscious they were beyond any human assistance. At last daylight appeared. Soon a boat put out from the cove. The captain was by this time so benumbed that his companion had to use force to disengage him from the spar and aid him into the boat. He then followed and both were landed exhausted and taken into the lighthouse, where their needs were promptly attended to.

A white robin was shot at Racine, Wisconsin, Friday, by P. R. Hay.

John W. Fitch, formerly lieutenant governor of Ohio, died Saturday at Cleveland.

A boy of 14 years, named Warner, hanged himself in a cattleshed at Monmouth, Iowa.

William Jones of Washington, who shot at Guiteau through the prison van in bust, is to be tried April 28.

The Michigan saw-works, at East Saginaw, valued at $100,000, were destroyed by fire Thursday evening.

The saw mill and furniture factory of S. B. Anderson, at Bentonsport, Mich., valued at $2,000, was burned Saturday night.

Emil Beling, who was a lieutenant in the German revolutionary army in 1848, died at Hustisford, Wis., in his 76th year.

The governor of Louisiana has appealed to the secretary of war for rations for sufferers by the breaking of the levees.

William Proctor, the soap and candle manufacturer, and Alfred W. Barrett, the caricaturist, died Friday in Cincinnati.

Rev. W. S. Mahan, postmaster of Mound City, Missouri, was found dead in bed Friday morning. He was 66 years of age.

Henry Rose, a colored man, was executed at Osceola, Arkansas, for shooting Dempsey Taylor through a window on a dark night.

Sadie Hays, a negress who killed Police Sergeant Jenks at St. Louis, last October, has been convicted of murder in the first degree.

A revenue cutter and two American ships sailed from Key West, Friday, to assist the Dex in searching for the Cuban filibusters.

Colonel Breckinridge, a bank president of San Antonio, has purchased 2,500,000 acres of land in the Mexican state of Tamaulipas.

Harry Angell, formerly paymaster of the Valley railroad at Cleveland, who embezzled a considerable amount, was captured in Chicago.

Forest fires are doing vast damage among the plantations and pine trees in the Carolinas. The flames extend over six counties in each state.

Lorenzo Dunick, of Buffalo, formerly junior partner in a marine insurance firm, has been held in $80,000 bail for diverting funds of the insurance companies.

J. A. Broadhead, an army paymaster, suffered from thieving employes in Arizona. He recently returned to Boston in an insane condition, and died of pneumonia.

Sandy Spencer, a prominent saloon keeper of New York, who recently served a month's imprisonment for selling liquor on Sunday, has made an assignment.

A passenger train on the Chicago and New Orleans road was badly wrecked near Duck Hill, Mississippi. Several passengers and three trainmen were seriously injured.

At the funeral of Mrs. Oswald Ottendorfer, in New York, Carl Schurz delivered an address and the Liederkranz club sang a hymn. Samuel J. Tilden was in attendance.

William A. Hall, formerly chief clerk in the comptroller's office at Newark, New Jersey, has been sent to the state prison for twelve years for forgery and embezzlement.

Two murderers and three thieves cut a hole in the partition wall of the jail at Fort Wayne, and only had the window bars to cut when the plot was discovered by Sheriff Schefer.

The ting Peter Smith, of Cleveland, with two mad screws in row, burst her boilers and sank off Vermilion, Ohio, on Sunday. The captain, fireman, and one passenger lost their lives.

Judge Caldwell, of Arkansas, decimes to appoint a receiver for the Memphis and Little Rock road, but has ordered its sale within thirty days unless the mortgage fees be paid.

John Young, who died in a Philadelphia hospital with a knife-blade imbedded in his skull, claims to have been injured in Chicago last January, by a man named Valentine Downey.

An express train on the Grand Trunk road jumped the track near Wales, Ontario, early Friday morning. The engineer and fireman were killed, and twelve passengers were injured.

The steamer Newcastle City, which sailed from Halifax for Boston Friday morning, struck a squall in the bay, and her work were so rapidly that the captain ordered her to be run on the beach.

The Northwestern road is to swallow the Sioux City and Pacific and the Elkhorn and Missouri Valley leased lines, 800 miles of track, assuming their bonded indebtedness of $18,000,000.

Dey M. Bough, a young and active member of the Detroit board of trade, has been wrecked by the drop in wheat. He paid his losses as far as his means went, and yet owes several thousand dollars.

Colonel Breckinridge, a bank president of San Antonio, has purchased 2,500,000 acres of land in the Mexican state of Tamaulipas.

One death has resulted from the railway wreck at Belleville, Illinois, Friday night, and twenty of the injured passengers are being cared for at the expense of the company. All these people were on their way from Virginia to Kansas, to establish a colony.

The iron-workers in the furnaces at Sharpsville, Pennsylvania, have struck because of a reduction of from 10 to 15 cents per day in the wages of laborers, carriers, and fillers. Stone-cutters in the quarries at Coalsville, Pennsylvania, demand an increase of 20 per cent.

S. W. Bruce, who two years ago embezzled $2,000 from a grocery house in Philadelphia, was captured in Chicago Sunday. His whereabouts was unknown until he told his story to a woman. She circulated it quietly among her friends until it reached the detectives.

Samuel J. Walker, the most reckless real-estate operator ever known in Chicago, who is said to be slowly wasting away from cancer in the face, is urging his right to a discharge in bankruptcy on $5,000,000 of obligations. A bank in Ohio, with a claim of $10,000, is the only objector.

In the criminal court of Chicago a woman who had stolen goods from three dry goods houses undertook to turn state's evidence against her pals. She testified that with two indictments hanging over her, and her counsel demanding a retainer of $100, she had to make a third raid to secure funds for her defense.

The Bar association of Cincinnati, with a determined purpose to replace the burned library, has assessed each member $100, and many lawyers have contributed money and books in addition thereto. Three insurance policies, aggregating $30,000 were forfeited by a client declaring there should be no indemnity for riot.

The failures in the United States for the past week were 193. Geo. W. Clay & Co., notion dealers, of Pittsburg, have suspended payment, with liabilities of $22,000. C. N. Holst, a private banker at New Holstein, Wisconsin, who offered 8 per cent. for deposits, has reached the end of his rope, owing $30,000 to working people.

Farmers in the vicinity of Hillsboro, Ills., claim that winter wheat has been greatly damaged by the recent changes in the weather, the roots being generally exposed. On the contrary a Milwaukee grain exporter has received advices of the excellent condition of the growing crop in half a dozen states, with some slight damage in Michigan.

Forest fires have broken out in various sections of North and South Carolina through the attempts of the farmers to clear the planting grounds by burning the "brush." The fires have spread with alarming rapidity. Hundreds of farmhouses and outbuildings have been destroyed. Berkley and Chesterfield counties have suffered severely.

The farmhouse of Charles Schultz, near Tawas, Mich., was during Friday night visited by three masked men who battered down the front door with a fence rail. They secured nearly $3,000 in German gold coin, and brutally assaulted the family. As the latter fled towards a neighbor's the villains fired upon them, killing a young son of Mr. Schultz.

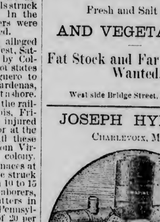
On the Chicago board of trade, Friday, prices were thoroughly demoralized. Wheat fluctuated 4 cents per bushel, closing at 83¾ cents for May, and 220,000 bushels were sold for export. Over $700,000 in margins was deposited in a single tank. Pork for May closed at $16.25, and live hogs at the stock-yards fell 20 to 50 cents per hundred pounds.

A most destructive and frightful cyclone swept over north Alabama and Georgia Wednesday night. The full effect of the storm can only be surmised, as most of the country traversed is miles from a railroad. But enough is known to characterize it as the most fatal yet reported. In the vicinity of Collinsville, Ala., and in Datee county, Ga., it seemed to be at its worst. The storm was not over three hundred yards wide, and seemed to consist of numberless whirlwinds revolving within each other at a furious rate, and moving over the earth with lightning-like rapidity. The swath of the storm was like wheat before the scythe, and its track was outlined by the total ruin and destruction which marked it. Many houses throughout that section were demolished, and many of the inmates killed.

On Tuesday the village of Oakville, south of Muncie, Indiana, was in almost an instant converted into a confused mass of debris. Dwelling houses, barns, sawmills and storehouses are scattered beyond repair. The wind came from the northward, and persons who saw the approach of the cloud describe it as one of peculiar color and movement. When within two miles of the place it came to one ground and played havoc with everything in its way. It struck the town, and though its force was spent in from three to five minutes, out of thirty-five or forty buildings but five stand as before. Seven people were killed instantaneously and three have since died from their injuries. At Lamar, 3 miles east of Collinsville, William Lines, and family of seven were seated in the house, when the house was destroyed to pieces and instantly killed, while the others escaped without a scratch. Four miles west James Sanders, a negro and his wife instantly killed by the collapsing house down.

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

JOSEPH HYLAND,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.



Boiler Maker,
Sheet-Iron Worker,
and manufacturer of
Hyland's Patent Fireman.
Dealer in all kinds of
SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.
Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

O. B. WEED & CO.
Are headquarters for
DRUGS
CHEMICALS,
Patent Medicines, all kinds.
Imported and Domestic Perfumery.
Toilet Articles,
AND FANCY GOODS.
None but Pure Medicines
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Barhyte-Howard's new

Opera Block

NEW GOODS.
I am pleased to say that my
Spring Stock
is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the
LATE STYLES,
AND
Price to Correspond With the Times.
GEO. W. MILLER.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

THE HEROINE OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

THIS STYLE CHEAP.

A pretty little blue-eyed maid,
Ah, maid!
Threw knick her shoulders, and she said
Some unkeen Bible verses
About people who go in hearses,
Where dead!

And when the girl had got all through,
All through,
They gave her a ticket painted blue,
All blue!
Then she went home and went to bed,
With throbbing brow and aching head,
Ah, boo!

The Mongol heathen sat and spirt,
Ah, spirt!
Upon the Superintendent's shirt,
Clean shirt!
That he hadn't got a heavy swell,
When he should stand straight up and tell
How that girl died in doing well,
Oh, cert!

And the Mongol heathen lives on yet,
Lives yet,
And figures the Superintendent's debt,
Wash debt!
And so the Superintendent lives,
And still the Mongol heathen lives,
While the world is running short of wives,
You bet!

—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE LAST MAN.

BY A SEAFARER.

A small iron, full-rigged ship was in latitude 10 degrees south of the equator, outward bound for a New Zealand port. The sun would be setting in an hour; already his disk was cayless and of a dark and angry gold, and his reflection lay in a broad and waving dazzle upon the western swell. A pleasant draught of air, blowing softly over the port quarter, had kept the lighter canvas sleeping all the afternoon, but the lower sails hung up and down, and, as the ship leaned upon the gentle undulations, the tender swinging of their folds wafted cool currents over the feverel decks, as though some gigantic punkah-wallah, perched aloft, were fanning the ship. The deep blue of the sea, scarcely wrinkled by the breeze, stretched around, and the water-line was like an azure picture clasped where the glory of the sun hung, by a plate of gold; but over the side the water was of an exquisite transparent green, in which you could see the metal hull of the vessel wavering till a bend hid it, and it was enough to possess a man, half-blinked with the heat that came off the brassy glare under the sun, with a calenture to look into the glass-like emerald profound, and to think of the coolness and sweetness to be got by a lazy floating in the serene surface of that fathomless depth. All the afternoon it had been blowing a soft air, with now and again a stronger fold that came out of the northeast with a parching taste in it that might have made it pass for the expiring breath of a rush of atmospheric heat from some blast furnace hidden behind the sea; but one felt that the draughts could not long outlast the sinking of the sun, whose ardency was slowly sucking out all life from the air. Already to the south the water-line ruled the deep violet of the sky with a burnished surface, beyond which and the heavens there was a trembling of heat in which the blue swam to a height of four or five degrees, and where that treacherous appearance was you saw a shining speck, the topmast sails or a ship disconnected by refraction from the rest of the fabric; then it looked through the glass like kites flying in the air; and if there was anything in this world to emphasize the vast expanse of the ocean, it was those tiny points of canvas, when one came to think how small a bulk of matter and of needful to sink the big vessel out of sight, to render invisible a hull full of people, parrings, and loaded with a cargo of a value sufficient to render a thousand poor families happy and independent for life ashore. Still the breeze continued blowing softly as the sun sank. There were wrinkles round the stem of the little iron clipper, and the surface of the green clearness over the side was strewn with bubbles that gleamed like emeralds and diamonds and rubies between the shadow of the ship and the light off the sea as they veered slowly a term into the languid, ridescent wake. It was a pretty sight to peer from under the short awning to up aloft, and mark the stunsails spreading further and further as they descended, till the reflection of the great white squares of cloth stretched by the swinging-boom shone like a sheet of silver under the black spars; and when-ever the ship lifted to the swell, there would come from aloft a sound of pattering reef-points, and the quiet beating of huntlines, and the low clatter of rope against rope, which, with the rush of the brook-like murmur of the rippling water at the bows, might have passed for a string of fallen leaves disturbed in their shady place by a momentary passage of winds to twist the dark trunks of trees and over the cool turf.

It was the second dog-watch. No work was doing, and the heat was too great for any kind of diversion. One saw a number of coal-begrimed, mossy-bearded seamen overhanging the forecastle rail, pipe in mouth, with drowsy eyes deeply looking away into the blue distance, while a bow, throaty murmur of voices chatted all round forward, where the black cook, standing in the galley door, was arguing with Dutch Frank. There was a forward group of two, of nursing hens, mixed with the roosting, grubbing grunt of a pig or two, and a strange Eastern lord, secured by the leg, was chasing a gin back and tail one moment down a fifth or two of forecastle, while in a hoarse sea-note he'd sing out now and again: "Sail ho! bless my eyes! look a hand! sail ho!" Right astern the quarter deck, visible from the weather side of the forecastle under the lifted claw of the mainsail, stood the helmsman gripping the wheel, and gnawing upon a quid in his cheek, with many a roll of his gleaming eyes aloft and then into the compass-bowl and then upon the sea; the brightness came off the water in a scarlet tremble upon his figure, and often he would tip his Scotch cap on the back of his head to pass the length of his arm from the wrist to the elbow over his streaming brow. The captain, a red-faced man in a straw hat, with a Manilla cheroot in his mouth, paced the deck from the mizzen-rigging to the taffrail; the chief mate, who had charge of the watch, walked in the gangway, and the second mate, seated on the main hatch, was emptying his third and last sooty pipe. Slowly the sun sank, brightening out the heavens to far beyond the zenith into an amazing glory of scarlet and red and orange, melting into a sulphurous tinge that died out into a delicate green sky, which, in its turn deepened into blue and violet and indigo where the ocean met it in the east, with a star or two glistening where the lovely hue was deepest. A tropical evening, indeed; and you saw the silver speck of the hidden ship's sails trembling above the horizon and entering the farewell ray of the setting luminary, whose light went slipping level to it from the brow of one swell to another, until it was like the red lamp of a distant light-house, though the aspen western shadow closed down upon it swiftly, and melted it into thin gray air, while the loftiest of our own clipper's sails were still on fire with the rich hectic of the west, and the ropes, like gold wire, and the greased topgallant and royal masts, and whatever else showed a polished surface up aloft, twinkling with ruby stars. Darkness swiftly follows the descent of the sun in these parallels; there was no twilight, and the night lay in a dusky, spangled fold in the east ere the sun had fairly trailed the skirts of his golden robe off the low-down western sky.

The moon would not rise for another two hours; but the darkness and the coolness were wonderfully sweet after the long spell of roasting daylight. The dew fell till the stars hung pearly flakes of it upon the rails and skylights; and the gentle breeze still blew, though with an ever-waning breath. The ripples now ran in lines of fire from the ship's bow, and strange green shadows, like the vapor rising from melted tin, brightened and dimmed in changing forms in the skirts of the inky swells, and you saw tendrils and stalks and leaves of phosphoric radiance drifting in the holes of the ship's wake, and glimmering along the lines which marked the breadth of the swaying path of the following wave. In armies, the stars overran the velvet-black heavens, with planets shining in their midst, and dropping points of quicksilver into the calm water, while above them the glittering dust of countless worlds lay thick as sand, and often a narrow space of the vast dome would flash out in radiance to the bursting of a meteor, whose momentary bright shining would seem to find an echo, so to speak, in a dim violet glare of lightning down in the southeast.

Two bells—9 o'clock—were struck: one heard the ringing chimes hollowly down downward out of the sails, dead calm, had fallen, the ship lay in a deep shadow upon the gently breathing bosom of the ocean, and nothing seemed awake but the drowsy helmsman. Not above four miles had been measured since the darkness came down, and now that the night was broadening, with a threat of cat's-paw—on no account to be neglected—on either bow and all round, the captain gave instructions for the sternsails to be taken in and stowed away out of the road of such headlamps of the yards as might be necessary. This made the ship lively for awhile with the running about and clambering aloft of naked-footed mariners; but presently all was silence again, the captain below taking a glass of grog, the second mate pacing the deck aft, the watch coiling down forward for a snooze, a single figure erect on the forecastle, and the sea like a mirror full of starlight, yet so like a sheet of lead that it was like looking through a haze at the luminaries over the water-line. Three bells were struck, and scarcely had the last vibration died when the second mate hailed the forecastle: "Forward there! Is there anything amiss in sight, now?" "Nobody singing here, sir," comes back the answer promptly. "Nothing to report, sir!" "There's some one singing somewhere below forward, I tell you! Put your head into the scuttle and listen." "There was a voice just breezed back came the reply. "All's still in the forecastle, sir. There's no singing in this part of the ship." The second mate walked up to the fellow at the wheel: "Did you hear a man's voice singing just now, before the bell was struck?" "Yes, sir." "Didn't the sound come from forward?" "It seemed like it," answered the helmsman. "Hush! there it is again," cried the second mate, raising his hand and stretching his head forward, with his ear held toward the forecastle. The sound was did not enough—it was that of a husky voice singing: but at a distance that made the notes mushy and vibratory as the twanging of a jew's-harp heard from afar. It ceased, and was followed by a faint, mournful laugh, that broke out at the moment, when a sudden shivering ripple of the canvas up in the darkness seemed like a shudder passing through the ship. "There's some one singing and laughing away out aloft here, sir!" shouted the man on the forecastle, in a voice that made one suspect he felt his loneliness at that moment. "What the dickens can it be, and where does it come from?" exclaimed the second mate, stepping to the rail and looking over. He peered and peered, but the night lay dark upon the water, spite of the starlight, and no deeper shadow stood anywhere upon the gleamy surface to indicate the presence of a vessel in the neighborhood. "Forward there!" he shouted; "do you see anything?" "Nothing, sir." The watch on deck, aroused by this hailing, and gathering its import, clambered on the bulwarks to look around, and the captain, hearing the second mate's voice, came up from the cabin. "What's the matter?" he asked. "There's been a sound of singing and laughing following—coming from somewhere ahead, sir," responded the second mate. The captain went to the side and took a long look. "Pooh! pooh!" he exclaimed, "it must have been your fancy, sir. Singing and laughing! Why, were any vessel near enough for us to hear such noise, we should be bound to see her." He was walking over to the compass. "There, sir, I don't think it is my business to think. But d'ye s'pose," replied the old man, "that my mortal being with human kindness in it, such as you and me's got, 'ul turn to and sing songs—and I dessay comic songs, for what should we find ourselves to be hopen boat at this here hour of the night, 2,000 or 3,000 miles away from land? You bet odd Bill knews what he's a talkin' about when he says they ain't what's come across in that there boat turns out metal he'll swallow the biggest pair o' sea-boots that's known about the forecastle." Awed by the old sailor's prophetic croaking, which even of rum and hard weather had communicated a forbidding aquilonal note, the others fell into a deep silence, gazing their eyes in the direction of the boats. A half-hour passed before they approached the ship, during which the sounds had been startled by many hoarse and dreadful cries proceeding from the advancing boats, interspersed with mirthful and savage laughter, and wild shouts delivered in accents the mariners could not make a head or tail of. "Well," cried the captain, when the boats were within hail, "what is it you have come across, Mr. Burton?" "A raving lunatic, sir," answered the mate. "He's a Spaniard, I think. There's a dead boy in the bottom of his boat that I reckon to be his son. He's been pretty wicked apparently, and there's nothing to eat or drink along with him that we can find." It was now seen that two of the crew were on the midmast boat holding him. As they drew alongside the wretched maniac began to rave fearfully, sometimes breaking off to sing some weird, tuneless song, then bursting into screams full of horror breaking entirely, and afterward wrestling furiously with the two men who kept him from leaping overboard, with his ear held toward the forecastle. The sound was did not enough—it was that of a husky voice singing: but at a distance that made the notes mushy and vibratory as the twanging of a jew's-harp heard from afar. It ceased, and was followed by a faint, mournful laugh, that broke out at the moment, when a sudden shivering ripple of the canvas up in the darkness seemed like a shudder passing through the ship. "There's some one singing and laughing away out aloft here, sir!" shouted the man on the forecastle, in a voice that made one suspect he felt his loneliness at that moment. "What the dickens can it be, and where does it come from?" exclaimed the second mate, stepping to JINGLES.

INTERVIEWED BY HORTA.

His nose was noble, yet it scowled
With a cheerfulness he was not used to;
Nose sattle adorned his cheeks and brow,
His nose had seen a hornet's nest.

—J. O'Neill.

HOW TO GET ON.

A nobby prehoscis you wish, perhaps,
To tell you the best way it grows?

Get one of your foes
To give you good blows
Right in the middle of your nose, and Then young sunday
If your nose ain't sizable,
I haven't told the right way. Logan.
—Puglist.

DISTINCTION AND DIFFERENCE.

But yesterday I spoke of Jones.
Poor Toad! His back was always bent.
"Oh, yes!" said Brown, in carelessness,
"He's an unlucky dog, old pard."
"Just so!" said I, nay quite to hit it.
"Dogs in any give the lick a name."
"Guess not," said Brown, "can't even see
I think you'd better let him skip."

Yesday again I mentioned Jones.
And said he hadn't been around.
Yes, yes!" said Brown, in eager tone,
"I wonder where he can be hid?"
I wish he'd happen now this way!
He's just the man I want to meet
You haven't heard? Why, wavering
He made a pounding pile on wheat" —Chicago News.

A FAN SONG.

Fan me to rest, for sleep-time sweet
And soft so tired I am of scrape
The grateful opiate of thy sacred breath
Only can charm me into dreaming ease
Fan me, love, fan me, love, and
Fan me to rest.

Dead! the dark scene, death's wings
Into the land of odd to
Fan me to rest.

Love, do you hear the fast fans to Drifting this-way-ward from the
Beneath it o'er to me, and sing it low-
Low as a ling of whisper-duty song
Fan me, love, fan me, love, gently
Fan me to rest.

Gone the weird hatred—perfume
To-morrow I've got fifteen dollars love.
F-f-fan me to rest
—Edward Wark, in Puck.

HOW HE GOT IT.

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WILL M. GILBERT,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 10, 1884.

We ask the indulgence of advertisers for the crowded condition of this page, occasioned by the non-arrival of material necessary for an enlargement.

To Those Going to Dakota—Don't.

Great efforts are being made in some parts of Michigan to persuade the people of this State to move to Dakota. For a few months in summer or fall Dakota is said to be a delightful State to live in. Between the tornadoes and cyclones of July, August, and September and the blizzards of December there is some exceedingly tranquil and charming weather. Along in December set in the winter hurricanes which is the real name of the blizzard, with snow and hail, instead of rain and lightning as lieutenants and aides-de-camp.

A Dakota correspondent of the New York Sun says that no one will ever know how many perish from exposure and cold in that region. The news papers make as little mention of it as possible, and, as every man, woman and child in Dakota is a landowner, they, too, naturally say little about it. They always assure you that the air is so cold and dry that "you don't feel it," which, after you begin to stiffen, is undoubtedly true. The bones brought to light by the thawing of the snow tell a different story from the real estate agents and the newspapers which are "booming" their little settlements, their towns and their Territory. People disappear as mysteriously as they do in a large city, but it causes no excitement. "Probably perished in the storm of last week," they will say. Perhaps if the census should be taken early in the spring after a winter of blizzards instead of in the fall, Dakota would never have population enough to entitle it to admission as a state. But by systematically drumming up recruits from Michigan and other states in the summer they contrive to show up quite a lively figure before the blizzard snows them under and brings down "the dennition total" to its lowest terms.

What elsewhere is a snowfall for good sleighing is a demon in Dakota. The blizzard comes up suddenly and without warning like a tornado. It has the driving force of a tornado. It takes up the dry, hard flakes and impels them in clouds of solid crystals against all obstructing objects, cutting the flesh like razors. In spite of the whiteness everything is obscured. It grows cold rapidly—freezing to death is one of its terrors. Nothing will prevent one's losing his way; no amount of clothing will save him from perishing. The nostrils and tongue are congealed; the eyes ache to their sockets; there is a ringing noise like the ringing of the telegraph wires; a roar like steam escaping from a thousand locomotives.

If new settlers are poor, they find it difficult to buy fuel enough to provide against the rigors of winter. If their stock fails during the blizzard season, they are helpless. They dare not leave their houses and shelter long enough to procure more fuel lest they be caught in a blizzard, which comes without warning. One family this last winter becoming dependent for fuel on its straw stack half a mile from the house, perished while engaged in bringing more straw to the house. The blizzard swept over them and they were gone, scattered like lost sheep on the prairie, and frozen to death. The wind is so fierce that even after the clouds have passed and it has stopped snowing, the air is still full of the flying snow, so dense that no one exposed to it knows that the storm is over, even though on looking up he catches glimpses of the clear sky.

Dakota may be a fine state to live in, but, according to all accounts, it is nowhere as compared with its advantages as a good state to die in. Every Michigan citizen going there needs to be a good, pious, prudent person, prepared to leave this world at any minute, and having all his affairs arranged for a sudden summons.—Free Press.

Upright, Emrey & Co. have just opened a choice lot of English Breakfast Mackerel, the finest sample ever offered to the trade

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1870

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at as low as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. As a member, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

THIS IS THE SAME

OLD FOX

OF BY-GONE YEARS,

And he is, this spring and summer, giving the hounds a hard run for him. They are all after him, in full cry, but he distances them all.

The Old Reliable Establishment in Charlevoix

Is full to overflowing with the most complete assortment of

DRESS GOODS, CLOTHING,

Boots and Shoes,

Hats and Caps, Gents' Goods,

Ladies' Goods, Crockery, Glassware, Carpets,

Groceries, Provisions, Flour & Feed.

And you can't guess anything we haven't got

FRESH

Our sales thus far this year are far in excess of the same time last year, and are daily increasing, which attests the popularity of our establishment.

REMEMBER

We deliver promptly all goods to steamers, stages, private houses or elsewhere, and we give our customers prompt attention and perfect satisfaction.

COME AND SEE US

Yours,

AMOS FOX

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 40. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. B. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX. MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

DURKHANK & ORRIER, Attorneys at Law, Office in Hutters' Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. STRANG. O. ORRIER.

GRANT & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents, Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

ORRIER & ORRIER II, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

GEO W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, at Law. Pension business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

C. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office in United States Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

T. J. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building, entrance on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich.

O. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

WILLIAM EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

PORTER, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

CARL F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

S. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Savings department. Deposits secured by deposit of government bonds, real estate, and good notes for more than above amount. Loans on first mortgages. Foreign and domestic exchange. HAYNES & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7, in the school house.
C. F. VANARSEN, pastor.

THIRD EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.
A. T. HODGES, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX ROUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Thursday evenings of each month, at the town hall.
R. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

SCITHLD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

L. SHIELDS, teacher of Music and Composition, and Thorough Bass. Class or private, at all times. Inquire at residence of Geo. W. Lord, on Garfield.

LIVERY STABLE.

HOUGHTON, Proprietor. Only first-class horses and carriages kept. Good saddle horses a specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

A. CARRISTEN, M. D.
Office at the Ingleside.

LORIN M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office over the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. GRAVES, M. D.
Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix.

W. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

GRACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. E. Reuter Post No. 188, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. C. T., Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. C. T., Round Lake Lodge No. 260, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

G. L. True Blues No. 67, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

GRANGE—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over store.

A. BITTLES, President. A. R. LEIBIGHT, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money loaned on approved paper at reasonable rates. Deposits received. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.
G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars

Prices Reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON,

Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House.

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Daily sample room in connection.

Buy note paper and envelopes with your name and business card. For sale at Ward & Co.'s drug store.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CURTIS, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED
D. S. WAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ELGIN WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods sold or repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

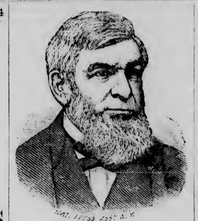
Electro plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. ALCATE AND JASPERS cut to order.

ERRORS OF YOUTH

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Premature decay, the effects of youthful indiscretion, solicits sufferers to send him a self-addressed envelope, and he will send them a recipe that will cure them, free of charge. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Address, JOHN B. OGDEN, Station D, New York City.

PIMPLES

I will mail (free) the recipe for a simple vegetable remedy that will remove blackheads, flesh worms, and pimples, leaving the skin clear and beautiful; also the only preparation ever used that will restore gray hair to its original color. Address, inclosing stamp, C. H. CLARKE, Box 1500, Quincy, Ill.



HON. MORRISON R. WAITE.

CHIEF-JUSTICE OF THE UNITED STATES.

Morrison R. Waite presents a subject for a more extended biography than our space will permit. Fulsome eulogy would be unworthy the character and office of the chief-justice. On the other hand the record of such a life belongs to the public he has served and is still serving with so much ability.

In the quiet old rural town of Lyme, Connecticut, still stands the house where Morrison Remick Waite was born, November 29, 1816. Mr Waite entered Yale college at the age of seventeen and graduated with honor in 1837 in a class which included Wm. M. Evarts, Edward Pierrepont, Prof. Silliman and others who have become distinguished men. He then began the study of law in his father's office in Lyme, but finished his studies in the office of Samuel M. Young, then a prominent attorney in Maumee City, Ohio. In 1839 his preceptor took him into partnership, and in 1850 the firm of Young & Waite removed to Toledo, Ohio, and established a large and successful practice. A few years after, Mr. Waite's younger brother was admitted to the bar and a partnership was formed consisting of the two brothers, which continued up to the time of the former's appointment to his present high position by President Grant, January 20, 1874.

Politically Mr. Waite is a republican but he was always too deeply engaged in his profession to become much of a partisan or party leader. To all the war measures of the government he gave earnest and effective support. In 1849 Mr. Waite was elected to the Ohio legislature as a whig. In 1862 he was reluctantly a candidate for congress but was defeated by Edwin M. Phelps. Thereafter other nominations and appointments were tendered him but he refused to accept any of them.

Mr. Waite was a conspicuous character in the great Geneva tribunal as one of the United States counsel and he performed his arduous task to his great credit and to the entire satisfaction of his government. He thereafter returned to Toledo and resumed his practice, and in 1873 was chosen president of the Ohio state constitutional convention. Upon the death of chief justice Chase there was intense interest throughout the United States to know who would be his successor. After the successive nomination of Hon. Geo. H. Williams and Hon. Caleb Cushing and the withdrawal of their names, President Grant then selected Mr. Waite and his appointment was confirmed by a unanimous vote in the senate. It is the glory and severity of a nation to have its highest place of justice filled by men, who, like chief justice Waite, add to the loftiest official character that purity of life, urbanity of manners and generous beneficence, which distinguish him.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	N	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.			7 45pm	7 45pm
Richmond			11 25	11 05
Winchester			11 49	11 29
Ridgeville			11 57	11 37
Fort Wayne, ar.		6 35	2 55pm	1 55am
Fort Wayne, lv.			3 15	2 50
Kendallville			3 55	3 32
Sturgis			4 15	3 55
Vicksburg			4 31	4 15
Kalamazoo, ar			6 52	6 52
Kalamazoo, lv			7 02	7 02
Grand Rapids, ar			9 02	8 52
Grand Rapids, lv		7 45am		9 00
Ionia & Stevens		7 59		9 05
Howard City		8 47		9 53
Big Rapids		9 15		10 20
Reed City		9 37		10 42
Cadillac, ar		10 30		11 35
Cadillac, lv				11 45
Manton				12 30
Mayfield				12 45
Traverse City, ar				1 30
Traverse City, lv				2 30
Kingsley				3 05
Kalkaska				4 05
Grayling				4 55
Roscommon				5 17
Houghton Lake				5 45
Prescott				6 30
West Branch				7 15
Bay City, ar				8 30
Bay City, lv				8 40
Saginaw, ar				9 00

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Saginaw, lv			5 45pm	7 30am
Saginaw, ar			6 00	7 50
Bay City, lv			5 50pm	8 15pm
Bay City, ar			6 00	8 25
Mackinaw City			8 00	10 15
Harbor Springs			7 00	11 20
Petoskey			7 45	12 05pm
Boyne City			8 15	12 35pm
Mancelona			8 40	1 01
Kalkaska			8 55	1 18
Traverse City, lv			8 55pm	2 30
Cadillac, ar			11 37	5 26
Cadillac, lv		3 30pm	11 45	5 50
Reed City		4 20	12 42pm	7 16
Big Rapids		5 12	1 14	7 49
Howard City		6 08	2 05	8 47
Ionia & Stevens		6 57	2 48	10 05
Grand Rapids, ar		7 15	3 05	10 25
Grand Rapids, lv	6 25am		4 02	12 50pm
Kalamazoo, ar	8 32		6 52	3 34
Kalamazoo, lv	8 37		6 52	3 39
Vicksburg	9 07		7 22	4 06
Sturgis	10 01		8 16	5 12
Kendallville	10 18		9 35	5 31
Fort Wayne, ar	12 20pm		10 52	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv	12 52	5 57am	12 05am
Ridgeville	3 08	7 46	2 51
Winchester	3 28	8 16	3 55
Richmond, ar	4 27	9 17	4 55
Cincinnati, ar	7 40pm	12 50pm	7 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Act'g. G. P. Act., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat—By mail, $8.00 per year in advance, postage paid.

Weekly Democrat, $1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

Also Stone and Pine

FILLED TO ORDER.

Protecting American Labor.

"High tariffs are intended to protect American labor." "I am in favor of protecting American industry," is the only response many protectionists will make to the free trade argument. It is the stereotyped formula that is relied on to meet all objections to high tariffs, or high taxes, on the necessaries of life for the benefit of capital. No free trader has aught to say against American labor. It is the source of national wealth and power, and the declaration in favor of protecting it against foreign competition has a pleasant sound. The strength of the proposition is in this pleasant sound rather than in any substantial reality. Let us analyze the declaration and see what it means. Does it mean that all American labor is protected? No! It cannot mean that. It simply means that certain kinds of labor, chiefly that of manufacturing is protected. Farm labor is not protected. It is pretended they are, but the pretense is without foundation. Are carpenters protected? Is anybody taxed for their benefit? Not a bit. Everything they use, tools and materials, is taxed to protect other industries. Are blacksmiths, bricklayers, plasterers, painters, coopers, printers, tailors, seamstresses, stone masons, millers, bakers, tinners, wagon makers, glaziers, cabinet makers, and butchers protected? No—none of them. No goods can be imported to compete with them. Foreign labor, which comes freely to our shores, is the only kind of competition they encounter. They pay taxes on commodities but receive no protection. The idea exists gave the number of persons engaged in various industries, viz.:

Agriculture	7,670,493
Professional and personal services	1,074,068
Trade and transportation	1,810,256
Manufacturing, mechanical and mining	2,837,112

Total unprotected workers, 13,391,929

This leaves in round numbers, one million persons, including bosses and operatives, engaged in the high protected industries above enumerated and in many others amounts to over two and three quarter millions. And not only are these mechanics, workers on the farm, professional men, tradesmen, common laborers, and others not protected, but they are taxed on all the goods they use, the materials they work up, the clothes they wear, the food they consume, and on some food they eat, for the benefit of the comparatively few persons engaged in the protection industries.

When this whole matter of "protecting American labor" is sifted we find that the only labor that has even the show of protection is that which is the poorest paid in the United States—that which finds employment in the enormous establishments at the east in the cotton and woolen mills, iron works, and other large factories. As President Arthur stated in his message revision, it is the cotton, woolen and iron industries that receive most protection, and for them the heaviest taxes are laid. And we all know that in these industries scarce most of the labor troubles lockouts, strikes, reduction of wages, unsteady employment, poverty and crime—troubles occasioned by insufficient markets for goods and over production. Even before the recent lowering of wages, during the very prosperous season of your, 1880, wages were lower in these highly protected industries than the were in the unprotected industries which shows plainly that the million of dollars paid, in the form of protective taxation to sustain them, is mainly into the pockets of the manufacturing capitalists and not into the hands of the workers. Tariffs, we invented for the benefit of capital and not for the benefit of labor. Detroit

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE occupants of the reading room of the British House of Commons on the evening of Feb. 8 were somewhat alarmed by the electric light going out without the least warning. The whole place was thrown into total darkness, and honorable members are said to have "rushed from the room under the impression that something dreadful was about to happen."

A DESERTER was arraigned in a London Police Court, the other day, when it appeared that, on the 14th of January last year, the prisoner, along with a corporal, a bombardier, and three gunners, stationed at St. Helena, absconded to sea in a boat, on the chance of being picked up by some passing ship, and after enduring many hardships they were picked up by a whaler.

THE annual rainfall in this country, according to the Weather Signal, is lowest in New Mexico (13 inches) and California (18 inches), and highest in Oregon (49) and Alabama (56). The annual rainfall in the British Islands among the mountains is 41 inches; on the plains 25 inches; 45 inches of rain falls on the west side of England, 27 on the east side.

CAT-REFINING is being taken up actively in England, not only for the comfortable cloak linings its fur affords, but as an article of food, the fecundity, quick growth, and really palatable properties of our familiar heartth-ey friend pointing out a staple resource. The remembrance of this and the present activity in the cat market are suggestive. It has long been suspected that among the millions of rabbits imported from Ostend, a few stray ones have known in their time how to make night hideous.

AN English newspaper prints illustrations of Gen. Gordon's two speeches. When he enters Cairo upon his duties as Governor-General of the Soudan it was expected that he would make a long address, but he dismissed the assembly with the single sentence, "I will try to hold the balance even." When his victory on the Soudan appeared in the columns of a newspaper it was remarked, "A short has been fired." When he was sent to the Soudan he said, "I have received orders to cut the dog's tail off, and I will do it."

A MAN in Lexington, Ky., made a wager that he could name one hundred words in that town each of whose letters three Mrs. Langtry. He wrote out the list, and took it to the editor of a newspaper there. The editor said that if he published it his side would be literally riddled with bullet holes. "Why," said the other, "every word of description appended to each name is highly respectful and complimentary." "You misunderstand me," said the visitor. "It's on account of the names not mentioned at all that I would be murdered if I printed your list."

MRS. HOLMES GREELEY had an antipathy for kid gloves she would never put them on. An correspondent remembers a bout she had with Margaret Fuller on the subject. We will not enter the street, and instead of saying "good morning" or some such human salutation, Mrs. Greeley bared Margaret's hand with a little shudder, and said, "Skin of a beast! Skin of a beast!" "Why, what do you wear?" in injured the astonished maiden from Maine. "Silk," said Mrs. Greeley, holding out her hand. Margaret just touched it, and shuddered, crying, "Entrails of a worm! Entrails of a worm!"

THE art of stump-speaking has just begun in England. As soon as the last session of Parliament ended, Parliamentary leaders were invited hither and thither to make political speeches. Every sort of an occasion served as a pre ext. "The land was literally flooded with talk," said Robert Laird Collier; "the voice has been raised on high; the whole United Kingdom is one frothed with stump oratory. Yet there has been no election on. There has been nothing much out of the common run. But never before has Parliament out of session been so wholly given over to speech-making."

THE Liverpool rowdy has a peculiar style of dress. The jacket, vest, and trousers are made of a thick, undressed cotton cloth called nobbydun, which has something of a velvet smoothness and softness on its right side. The jacket reaches just below the hips and buttons to the throat over a scarf or muffler, and the number of buttons is great. The trousers fit tight to the knee, from whence they hang with a rak'sh looseness and nearly cover the boot. Crowning all is a round worsted cloth peak cap, with a little round knob on the top, that makes a very suitable finish to the whole man.

ACCORDING to Dod's Parliamentary Companion, which may be accepted as authority, as it receives its information each session from the members themselves, the House of Commons now contains, independent of the Irish Home Rule representatives, 332 Liberals and 242 Conservatives. Of the sixty-two Home Rulers the Parnellites, as shown by the late division, number thirty-nine, thirty-four votes being recorded, and Mr. O'Kelly absent in the Soudan, the two Redmonds in this country, and Cork City and Meath County being vacant. There are twenty-three Home-Rulers who vote on critical questions with the Liberal party. So that Mr. Gladstone's majority over all the combined opposition may be safely set down as fifty.

VISITORS at the Crystal Palace, London, are now amused and instructed with a giant electric microscope and a powerful electric light installation, which show a large number of familiar articles, such as snuff, lace, cheese, vinegar, water, and beer. A drop of water presents the most extraordinary monsters imagination can conceive. Serpents, crocodiles, worse dragons than St. George had to deal with, whirl about through their liquid element, striking terror to the hearts of all beholders. Salt and sugar are exhibited as densely populated, and even the most carefully filtered water is filled with black specks, which dart rapidly about, giving an occasional eddying whirl which suggests vitality.

THE great fifty-ton hammer in Krupp's works at Essen gained its name, "Unser Fritz," and the inscription it bears, "Fritz, let fly!" in the following manner: When, in 1877, the Emperor William visited Essen, this steam-hammer attracted his attention. Krupp presented to him the machinist, Fritz, who, he said, handled the hammer with such nicety and precision as not to injure or touch an object placed in the forging of the balls. The Emperor at once put his diamond-studded watch on the spot indicated, and beckoned to the machinist to set the hammer in motion. Fritz hesitated out of consideration for the precious object, but Krupp urged him on by saying, "Fritz, let fly!" Down came the hammer, and the watch remained uninjured. The Emperor gave it to the machinist as a souvenir, and Krupp added 1,000 marks to the present.

THE work just published by Prince Bismarck's private historian, Dr. Moritz Busch, entitled "Our Chancellor," contains a story which, presented by a writer who is known to be honored by Bismarck's confidence, cannot but be accepted as true. A fortnight before the declaration of war by Prussia against Austria, the supposed author of that war carried a proposition to be made to the Emperor Francis Joseph, by which Austria and Prussia—the former taking command of all the troops in South Germany, the latter of all the troops in North Germany—should unite their forces and declare war against France. The political object of the war was to be the consolidation of Germany under the joint leadership of Prussia and Austria, Austria's ablest, the military object, the reconquest of Alsace for Germany as a whole. France, according to Prince Bismarck, was unprepared for war; and as France 20 years before had taken Strasburg by surprise, so Germany, he argued, might fairly retake it by the same means.

Plantation Philosophy.

Young man, stick to your cause. Forked lightnin' ain't no sign of rain.

De fool nebber tries to hide de nakedness ob his mine by de fig leaves ob larnin'.

A smart man has more ter worry him dan a fool has. De brightes' plow wars de mos' rust.

No man ain't so great airter we once knows him. De dull frawg bellers de loudes' when we hain't see him.

Fallin fools sorry ter be leavin' feller when it is smart befo' his time. De tree-es what blooms de soonest is de soonest ter die.

De laugh what doan' come machul grate—mighty harsh on de human year. De dry, hoarse laugh o' de owl makes a chicken feel naughty uneasy.—Arkansaw Traveler.

SCIENTIFICALLY is the surest lever to move certain people.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

The Two Men o' Cologne.

A long time ago, there lived, in Cologne,
Otto von Hiller and Rupert Van Tonc;
An Otto whose taste
Just Rupert made haste—
The very best table that ever was known!
So said every sensible man in Cologne.

"Friend Rupert," said Otto one fine, one day,
"Come, tell me the wonderful reason, I pray,
Why men call you rich
When, really, you never Professe to have very much learning, you know?"
And I—well, in truth, I've enough for a show!

"I'm master of Latin, I'm famous in Greek,
I can French and Italian fluently speak;
I could talk for the year
Of our nation's career;
Yet, somehow, me less said—to life shame be it known—
That I am the stupidest man in Cologne!"

Said Rupert Van Tonc: "If you'll promise to keep it,
I'll tell you the secret—I've learnt to keep quiet.
But I've so much to say!"
I won't speak in a way
Who lets his tongue run like your clever driver,
Stands very small chance of being called clever."

Perhaps I've so much to say," thus Otto von Hiller;
"I've none to be judge, and none to be talked;
He'd nip me without warning,
And they all the morning.
Till he longer would stab as he left, 'What a dreary!
He is truly the stupidest man in Cologne."

But Rupert Van Tonc worked up at his trade;
He listened and thought, but his words he well weighed;
He'd money in plenty;
He'd money in plenty;
And frequently gave of his purse his mansion
As the home of the cleverest men in Cologne.
—Samuel C. Hall's Legends.

Be Glad.

"Oh, dear, dear," sighed Bertie Hunt, dolefully, flattening his nose and chin against the window pane, "I don't see what the old rain wanted to come for, any way."

"But the ground is very dry, dear, and the trees and plants in the country are dying of thirst."

"Well, why couldn't it rain in the country then, and keep pleasant in the city? There is nothing here but a lot of dried up vines and dry grass."

"How would you get any fresh water to drink?"

"Why, from that big lake off in the hills, mamma. Don't you see that Uncle Joe won't come if it don't clear off, and I can't go ride, and my back hurts awfully, sitting here and my legs—and"——Here poor little Bertie broke down and sobbed, in his misery.

If you had looked at Bertie, you would not have seemed very hard to you, I think. It was a pretty room, with warm brown and red furnishings, and a bright fire was crackling in the grate, the table was littered with storybooks, and in the rocking-chair beside it sat Bertie's mother, whom you would have loved in a minute for her sweet face and her lovely dress. She had been sick with a sort of easy fever for two or three weeks, and had just reached what my nurse—another name for the nurse-in-waiting—which was considered very encouraging, but at the same time very unromantic for the nurse.

I thought Bertie and mother seem to get over his disappointment, and he sat with undiscernible face until it was bedtime, and he laid his head wearily on the pillow.

"Good-night, dear," said his mother, cheerfully, as she kissed the weary little face in; "I shall be in the next room, with the light burning and the door open between. If you want anything, or are wakeful."

So she kissed him on the forehead, and took it once again beside the fire, with a little tired look in her eyes. In a few minutes the sick boy, worn out with the long, dreary day, fell asleep. He had not fairly been in a dream, however, when he was aroused by a queer, buzzing noise. His first impulse was to cry out and call his mother, but at the same moment that the light was out in the next room. So he concluded the sound have come to be ill. His sleep refreshed him so much that he was brave enough not to waken her, but just lie still and listen.

"Buzz—z—z—hum—um—um—m—" the noise continued, louder than ever. It was plainly outside his window, and he could not resist the temptation of jumping out of bed and running over to see what the cause could be.

The rain had ceased, and the moon was shining brightly, so that the telegraph wires looked like long, shining threads of her silver hair, spread out to dry between the house-tops.

"Hum—m—m" went the noise, louder than ever, as Bertie pressed his face and put his hand out, forgetting all at out his fever. To his surprise, the air was soft and warm, although it was November. He could now see that the wires overhead were quivering like harpstrings, and the strange sound proceeded from nothing else than the telegraph wires itself.

"Ho!" said Bertie, half aloud, "I've heard that noise enough times, in the daylight. It's just the wires —" But before he could get any further he was astonished to catch words and even parts of sentences, and the hum-ming that filled the air like a swarm of bees.

He hesitated no longer; but, glancing up and down the street to see that no one was looking, and that the police-man wasn't near, he climbed out on the sill and down the vine-trellis to the front steps, and from there to the side walk. It took but a moment to reach a new pair, and you can guess how eager-ly he listened, as he had his ear against the cool, wet wires. Messages were flying to and fro on the wires overhead, and after a little he could hear them quite plainly.

"Come because ne-ed ow-es." Of course he had to spell them all out. "Poor Bertie took a bad cold."

"Dear me!" thought Bertie; "I wonder if its papa's bank! Poor man! he could hardly feel the one that gets that message!"

The next words he heard were worse still. "Ba-by is no bet-ter. Do-c-t-o-r s-a-y-s s-h-e-w-i-l-l n-o-t g-e-t w-e-l-l."

Bertie felt a lump rising in his throat as he thought of his little 2-year-old sister safe in her crib up stairs.

The next was a dispatch to a newspaper. He could not make out all of it, but he heard "plenty of water now—splendid shower—shutter wheat—springs filled—the poor saved from great suffering."

It began to be a little cold about Bertie's toes, and he knew he ought to run back to his room. Still he could not help listening to one more. There was a pause, then came the words, faster and faster. The boy's heart almost stopped beating, as he spelled them out.

"Your—mother—died—this—morning—at—four—funeral—to-morrow—"

Bertie waited no longer. He turned to the familiar steps, clambered up the trellis almost faster than he had come down, and closing the window behind him, cuddled up in his bed again, sobbing. "Mamma—dear, dear mamma! What should I do?"

But there was mamma already, with her arms around her boy's neck, and her cool, soft hand on his forehead.

"What's the matter, darling?" she whispered, stroking back the tangled heaps of hair. "The door's been open and the gas burning all the time. Did you have bad dreams, or were you thinking about the rain again?

The cheer little face snapped and laughed and threw its flickering light through the open door; from a distant room came the soft sound of a baby singing in her sleep. On the pretty carpet by his bedside the moonbeams shyly crept up to the fire-glow, and danced around it at mamma's feet.

To this day Bertie is not quite sure about the events of that wonderful night. He has often heard the humming of the telegraph wires, but has never been able to understand what they said. One thing is certain, that he has learned a content and cheerfulness that is fast bringing his mother's look into his face. And if he should grow to be like her, and so have in him a beautiful womanliness as well as true and strong manliness, why, I guess you'd like to know him, wouldn't you? I should.—Golden Rule.

Shot Through the Heart.

A great battle was in progress, when a large division under Gen. Gary came to the field. He reported to Gen. Thomas. All day the tide of battle had turned, first in favor of the North, and then of the South. Gen. Thomas pointed to a certain pass, and said: "I want your men to hold that. If they can do it victory is ours. They formed, and there they stood. Like animated granite. Time and again the rebels rose at them but could not break the line. At length Gen. Gary sent word, "Up, and at them boys!" and with a shout the Union men charged down on the flying rebels. Then Thomas heard the shout of victory and waved their feeble arms. In the evening the officers and privates were congratulating each other, and there was a call for Gary, who saved the day. At last he was found sitting pale in his tent, and to the messenger who came to summon him to receive the congratulations of the General, he said: "I am shot through the heart; you must excuse me."

"But I thought you had escaped without a scratch."

"Without a word Gen. Gary drew aside the flap of his tent, and there lay the body of his boy, who had been pierced through the heart by a bullet while making that charge.—Mary A. Livermore.

Planting Small Forest Trees.

Mr. A. L. Whitney, of Franklin Grove, who has devoted more attention than almost any man in the country, gives these directions about planting forest seedlings: Always prepare your ground the season before you plant. Plowing of forest trees in the spring and as early as the ground can be got in good condition. Use two or one or three years from the seed according to the variety. To do the work to the best advantage requires the help of three men and a good team. Two of the men with a spade each, and let the third one carry the trees. The men with spades take a row each and prepare the holes for the trees. Where the rots are small, as they naturally will be in trees of this age, the men may thrust in the spade at an angle of about 45 degrees, spring or hit the spade upward, and by the exercise bring in the roots so that the collar of the tree will be covered two or three inches lower than it stood in the nursery. If the soil is dry and porous, and new soil is always more open than old soil, press it down compactly about the roots. This is an important point to remember. If the soil is wet, the opposite should not be practiced, mental efforts with the aid of repeated doses of strong stimulants will again remove earlier, will always work for several years, and will first—the just as his rival sea-ed himself and brightest, as young as he is, still sits in the office.—Philadelphia Record.

Cole in Horses.

One of the best remedies for colic in horses is the following, which it is worth while to keep on hand. Take aromatic spirits of ammonia, one ounce; sulphuric ether, one pint; sweet spirits of nitre, one pint; a half pints; gum opium (made thin), four ounces; gum camphor, four ounces; asafœtida, four ounces. Mix all together and shake thoroughly for ten or fifteen days, strain through flannel, and it is ready for use. The dose is a tablespoonful in water every thirty minutes.—Thurston News.

MONKS and nuns are forbidden to reside in France in communities.

Old St. Louis.

It is curious to remember, though the early constituents of St. Louis, so long as it was a mere settlement, was especially French, but for an extremely short time under any legal French government. It made a part of the province of Louisiana, and published in 1765 by a fur-trader, Laclede Ligueste, under appointment from the Governor-General at New Orleans, and was massed after that grandiloquence sovereign, Louis XV. It was precisely in 1765 that Louis XV, terminating by the treaty of Paris the astrous conflict known in France and Seven Years' War, and known as the French War, was obliged to cede Spain all of the French possessions on the west bank of the Mississippi, together with New Orleans, and Britain those on the east bank.

The new domination, however, became began at once, not by any resistance to it, but for reasons connected with the sparsity of people, the vast distances to be traversed, the lack of physical ability in the French colonists to manifest itself for years afterward, or to any Spanish soldiers under Riosa, Leonis and completed the work, and it was not till 1780 that a small Spanish Governor, Pedro Piernas, installed. Meanwhile, many settlers had established themselves in a line of posts on the other side of the river, along a trail kept open by the Canada, preferring, after the fall of New France, a Latin domination at first to that of Great Britain, had crossed and joined their compatriots in small numbers, but in such force as to control the settlement. Laclede, who had come to the site in person, had selected it, and had left in charge of it his step-son, Auguste Chouteau, a youth of fourteen years of age, who had accompanied his father from Fort Chartres, near where he was born. Auguste Chouteau was now stands. He brought with him a few soldiers of his garrison. He was posted at St. Louis with the consent of both military and civil authorities, to retain it, or something like it, by his personal influence, long after it was nominally superseded. A great power, among other things, in the Indian tribes, and made the Pontiac his intimate personal friend.

The Spanish regime continued fully under some five or six years, down to 1803, when the whole of it, having first been retroceded to France after the victories of Napoleon to the United States, in Jefferson's Presidency, $15,015,000.

The Indian tribes in these days an important auxiliary ever wars of the Europeans. Just at Pittsburgh, the British brought Indians on the French settlements still. Laclede and Chouteau, on the contrary, sought to keep the Indians on the French side, and succeeded in doing so. Their influence was especially French, but for an extremely short time under any legal French government. It made a part of the province of Louisiana, and published in 1765 by a fur-trader, Laclede Ligueste, under appointment from the Governor-General at New Orleans, and was massed after that grandiloquence sovereign, Louis XV. It was precisely in 1765 that Louis XV, terminating by the treaty of Paris the astrous conflict known in France and Seven Years' War, and known as the French War, was obliged to cede Spain all of the French possessions on the west bank of the Mississippi, together with New Orleans, and Britain those on the east bank.

The new domination, however, began at once, not by any resistance to it, but for reasons connected with the sparsity of people, the vast distances to be traversed, the lack of physical ability in the French colonists to manifest itself for years afterward, or to any Spanish soldiers under Riosa, Leonis and completed the work, and it was not till 1780 that a small Spanish Governor, Pedro Piernas, installed. Meanwhile, many settlers had established themselves in a line of posts on the other side of the river, along a trail kept open by the Canada, preferring, after the fall of New France, a Latin domination at first to that of Great Britain, had crossed and joined their compatriots in small numbers, but in such force as to control the settlement. Laclede, who had come to the site in person, had selected it, and had left in charge of it his step-son, Auguste Chouteau, a youth of fourteen years of age, who had accompanied his father from Fort Chartres, near where he was born. Auguste Chouteau was now stands. He brought with him a few soldiers of his garrison. He was posted at St. Louis with the consent of both military and civil authorities, to retain it, or something like it, by his personal influence, long after it was nominally superseded. A great power, among other things, in the Indian tribes, and made the Pontiac his intimate personal friend.

The Spanish regime continued fully under some five or six years, down to 1803, when the whole of it, having first been retroceded to France after the victories of Napoleon to the United States, in Jefferson's Presidency, $15,015,000.

The Indian tribes in these days an important auxiliary ever wars of the Europeans. Just at Pittsburgh, the British brought Indians on the French settlements still. Laclede and Chouteau, on the contrary, sought to keep the Indians on the French side, and succeeded in doing so. Their influence was especially

E JOURNAL

CHAS. J. STRANG.

VOIX. - MICHIGAN.

ey, Pa., Thos. Avery, while now out of his yard, discov- in the snow a hen which ho d for ten days. She had now down and made a room a lished basket. Beyond the incident to the long fast is unharmed.

old envelopes, newspapers, and scraps of paper which in the Treasury Department are carefully saved in ild the waste-paper room. ghse is sorted out by men , and sold to one firm in The receipts amount to some little sum.

HAYARD, in his younger until very lately, held nris- awe. Apropos of this, used to tell, when ever on the occasion of their firs g the Duke of Newcastle together from the Garrick e translated Hayward with asement by taking out a ole hall at Portman Square, e capacious dinnings, and ess up for who should pay ck on a recent evening a leman observed a valise e near the starting point of ellows, and supposed that passenger had laid it down minute. Finding it there er, he took it to the police stained wearing apparel, 1,000, a purse full of gold, ny valuable jewelry. The cy circumstance is that no have touched it during as to public a place.

Eagle: "Promise me, said the fair-haired girl, ptive to kiss her lover (a atesman of Columbus), promise me that you will nomination for President Arkansas at pain and disap- upon his Alpine brow. ed if by a mighty effort ly: "I am an Ohioman, Muskin, but my love for er than my ambition. I ponded John Sherman picture-dealer put in his ass of the feudlar pirate, ha's sparseness through ecessful has lured dreamed ation as this produced. ances of the city angrily ; others crossed the ; others sexes to remove the the dealer took in the ligation continued. discussed at several ne preacher based a

We swear not by the moon as in the day once Dian's fickle fame. Swear not at all, Lover mind Variable—

Prefer not to be re- ation. "Trust him not, His capacities for limitless as the possi- Mr. DePauw distinctly ing legitimate profits of his busi- nature of wages which he claims to be in excess of wages paid in Europe. He persuades Congress to levy a tax on plate glass for his special benefit, and with the money thus extorted from the people he pays the excess of wages. He adroitly compels the people to pay an enormous tax on plate glass that he may make annual fortunes on his investments. He says, and has caused others to say, that he has invested $500,000 in the plate glass business, but my capital don't pay me, I want to be helped out of the sad consequences of my mistake. Now, if you will compel the people to pay me 120 per cent. more than the article is worth, I can increase my profits. I can make money; if not, I shall have to abandon the business." Congress responds, and Mr. DePauw begins to make money for himself. Let us see about this plate glass business. In 1882 the United States imported "plate glass above 24x30," 1,455,218 square feet, valued at $801,663. The tariff tax on this glass amounted to $737,009, more than double its appraised value, in round numbers $1?8,906 more than it was worth. This $737,009 tax was imposed on $801,663, the value of the glass, to help Mr. DePauw get rich. This plate glass outrage ought to be thoroughly understood simply for the reason that it illustrates a number of other outrages perpetrated by the Republican tariff. We will suppose that Mr. DePauw had in the New York market a lot of plate glass 24x60, worth $801,- 663. We will suppose that the amount named is the actual cost of production, and, if he sells at the valuation named, he makes no money. We will say Mr. DePauw ought to make a profit of 25 per cent. on the lot, $601,663. This would amount to $1,0,415. He finds it difficult to sell at that profit, because of foreign competition. He asks Congress to interfere in his behalf. He bemoans his fate. He is profoundly interested in his workmen; self is scarcely considered at all. While Mr. De Pauw's plate glass waits for a customer, a ship centers the port of New York with plate glass on board, amounting in value to $801,663. Congress makes a note of the fact, and says the imported class shall pay a duty of 120 per cent., or $737,009, and the moment that Congress so decides, Mr. De Pauw's lot of plate glass, valued at $601,663, advances until it is held on the market at a valuation of $1,339,672. Congress has not only given him 25 per cent. profit, but almost five times 25 per cent. Congress has taken the $737,009 out of the people's pockets and placed it in Mr. De Pauw's pocket, and yet Mr. De Pauw's organ remarks that foreign manufacturers "pay the duty on plate glass." When Mr. De Pauw and the editor of the Journal had succeeded in constructing the article in question, and had arrived at the conclusion that foreign manufacturers paid the tariff tax on glass and other imported commodities, they must have been in a condition to contemplate each other in speechless admiration.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Fitz John Porter.

The maps, diagrams of marches, and other illustrated testimony that have been called in evidence by the enemies of Fitz John Porter, will materially aid the historian in proving the incapacity of the man whose head-quarters were in the saddle, and the bravery of the soldier who did his best to defend his flag under the most adverse circumstances possible. Commenting on these proofs the military editor of the New York Herald says:

Whatever reply Ingersoll, A. B. Williams or myself have to make before the commission will be made on oath, and I fancy the facts will come out. "Bradlee's men" will be the falsehood of fools will be stamped out. I never knew a work more unpardonable than an attempt to contradict liars. If you could convince them of a falsehood one day they would produce ten the next. Today on the same subject and probably on a larger scale. Now who try to hide behind the monument of a martyr can only be found to be base wretches hunting the chirping birds that even a boy with his first pocket-gun would not shoot at. The man who has deceived the Government out of so many millions of dollars, and who has, in order to cover his tracks, accused an officer of the man in whose favor fraud was perpetrated, is much the best qualified to call about frauds; being engaged in these all his life, he understands them, being at present in with one hand in the bank vaults stealing the funds of widows and orphans, the other always ready to rob the dying, with a voice screaming reform in behalf of preservation of the public treasury and of public morals.

STEPHEN W. DORSEY.

Plate-Glass Outrage.

Mr. W. C. DePauw has furnished the Journal a tabulated statement showing that the wages of men and women engaged in the manufacture of plate glass in the United States are higher than are paid in France, Germany, Belgium and England. As a matter of course Mr. DePauw would have it understood that he went into the plate glass business and stays in it for the benevolent purpose of paying his working men and women higher wages. The Journal says that "the plate-glass business, after years of precarious existence, during which hundreds of thousands of dollars were sunk, has begun to pay, and since 1879 capital has invested has begun to realize a small return. Who has the manufacture of plate-glass "begun to pay?" The people? By no means. It has only "begun to pay" the monopolists who have invested their money and have been able to persuade Congress to extort from the pockets of the people the money required to make it "pay." It is useless to attempt distinctly that Mr. DePauw don't pay out any legitimate profits of his business on account of wages which he claims to be in excess of wages paid in Europe. He persuades Congress to levy a tax on plate glass for his special benefit, and with the money thus extorted from the people he pays the excess of wages. He adroitly compels the people to pay an enormous tax on plate glass that he may make annual fortunes on his investments. He says, and has caused others to say, that he has invested $500,000 in the plate glass business, but my capital don't pay me. I want to be helped out of the sad consequences of my mistake. Now, if you will compel the people to pay me 120 per cent. more than the article is worth, I can increase my profits. I can make money; if not, I shall have to abandon the business." Congress responds, and Mr. DePauw begins to make money for himself. Let us see about this plate glass business. In 1882 the United States imported "plate glass above 24x30," 1,455,218 square feet, valued at $801,663. The tariff tax on this glass amounted to $737,009, more than double its appraised value, in round numbers $1?8,906 more than it was worth. This $737,009 tax was imposed on $801,663, the value of the glass, to help Mr. DePauw get rich. This plate glass outrage ought to be thoroughly understood simply for the reason that it illustrates a number of other outrages perpetrated by the Republican

DORSEY'S VENOM.

He Empties a Few Vials of Wrath on James and MacVeagh—A Vigorous Defense of Ingersoll, and a Hint of Facts Yet to Be Disclosed.

In reply to an editorial paragraph quoting ex-Postmaster General Thomas L. James as saying, "If Gen. Garfield had taken a lower view of his duties, he would not have fallen a victim to the assassin's bullet," the Santa Fe (N. M.) Revie recently published the following communication from Steve Dorsey:

My answer, if worth while to answer at all to a creature like James, is that while Gen. Garfield may have been very low in his view on some points, as all men are, he struck the lowest ebb of low tide when he appointed James Postmaster General and MacVeagh Attorney General. He caught the evil-hound crew in one case and the devil-fish in the other. These appointments were against my most earnest protest, which was writ on at the request of the President-elect and which was published long ago. I didn't know James or MacVeagh, except by sight, at the first scout or the first sight was sufficient. I knew enough of them to know that they were not fit representatives of two great States, which they came to represent. I once said that the only credit Mr. Garfield ever lived to win me the fact that he was the litle son-in-law of a great father-in-law. The product of the best points generally results in a vicious and vapid type. The moment the power of great men bosses its effect in the course of transmission.

In writing this to you, my chief purpose is to reply to statements made by James and MacVeagh in respect to that Ingersoll. As a lawyer, as a man, as a friend, and as the head of a family he has my love, and more he have, as equal in this or any other country. As an orator his peer never stepped on the rostrum. The intimation or that read between that Ingersoll had in some way a part in the assassination of Garfield by furnishing the assassin money to buy a piece-paper represents the abhorrent character and the idiocy of James as well as surprising men. It would be an insult to the vilest professional witness at the Tombs to say that James contradicts him. It seems to me that many persons are born liars, without judgment to conceal their lying, and many others whose capacity is equal in falsehood have the cunning to conceal it. Both classes are adorned by James and MacVeagh. A man who defends Ingersoll against a charge of this kind would be a greater fool than the man who made the charge. The man whose intellect has one lightened every nation called civilized, and most of those called barbaric; whose charitable sayings are repeated in every household of the world where language will permit repetition; a man whose genius is recognized in Canton, Moscow, London, as well as in New York, possesses a power the world likes to feel. When a century produces a great man the man produced makes the century great.

Whatever reply Ingersoll, A. B. Williams or myself have to make before the commission will be made on oath, and I fancy the facts will come out. "Bradlee's men" will be the falsehood of fools will be stamped out. I never knew a work more unpardonable than an attempt to contradict liars. If you could convince them of a falsehood one day they would produce ten the next. Today on the same subject and probably on a larger scale. Now who try to hide behind the monument of a martyr can only be found to be base wretches hunting the chirping birds that even a boy with his first pocket-gun would not shoot at. The man who has deceived the Government out of so many millions of dollars, and who has, in order to cover his tracks, accused an officer of the man in whose favor fraud was perpetrated, is much the best qualified to call about frauds; being engaged in these all his life, he understands them, being at present in with one hand in the bank vaults stealing the funds of widows and orphans, the other always ready to rob the dying, with a voice screaming reform in behalf of preservation of the public treasury and of public morals.

STEPHEN W. DORSEY.

Lincoln's Religious Belief.

"I have often been asked what were Mr. Lincoln's religious opinions. When I knew him in early life he was a skeptic. He had tried hard to be a believer, but his reason could not grasp and solve the great problem of redemption as taught. He was very cast-on never to give expression to any thought or sentiment that would speak against the Christian's God or Christian's ear. For a sincere Christian he had great reverence, often said that the most ambitious man ever knew was still amazingly ignorant. He understood that he went into the plate-glass business and stays in it for the benevolent purpose of paying his working men and women higher wages. The Journal says that "the plate-glass business, after years of precarious existence, during which hundreds of thousands of dollars were sunk, has begun to pay, and since 1879 capital has invested has begun to realize a small return. Who has the manufacture of plate-glass "begun to pay?" The people? By no means. It has only "begun to pay" the monopolists who have invested their money and have been able to persuade Congress to extort from the pockets of the people the money required to make it "pay." It is useless to attempt distinctly that Mr. DePauw don't pay out any legitimate profits of his business on account of wages which he claims to be in excess of wages paid in Europe. He persuades Congress to levy a tax on plate glass for his special benefit, and with the money thus extorted from the people he pays the excess of wages. He adroitly compels the people to pay an enormous tax on plate glass that he may make annual fortunes on his investments. He says, and has caused others to say, that he has invested $500,000 in the plate glass business, but my capital don't pay me. I want to be helped out of the sad consequences of my mistake. Now, if you will compel the people to pay me 120 per cent. more than the article is worth, I can increase my profits. I can make money; if not, I shall have to abandon the business." Congress responds, and Mr. DePauw begins to make money for himself. Let us see about this plate glass business. In 1882 the United States imported "plate glass above 24x30," 1,455,218 square feet, valued at $801,663. The tariff tax on this glass amounted to $737,009, more than double its appraised value, in round numbers $1?8,906 more than it was worth. This $737,009 tax was imposed on $801,663, the value of the glass, to help Mr. DePauw get rich. This plate glass outrage ought to be thoroughly understood simply for the reason that it illustrates a number of other outrages perpetrated by the Republican

John Bradley.

No night was so dark, no wintry blast so cutting that John Bradley refused to leave his bed to attend the band of charity. A poor man, in a worthly sense—and indeed living monuments of unblemished sympathy nearly always are—yet in the richness of good deeds he was a millionaire. I well remember the first time I ever saw him. I can never forget the last. The first time he was standing over a burly man whom he had knocked down for speaking lightly of a lady who passed along the sidewalk. The last time—well as faithfully as a hand can execute an honest effort I will relate the facts, gloomy as their very recollection makes me feel.

One day, while in a neighboring town, I met Bradley. He had come out to point a church, and was on his way to the building. After exchanging a few words, I passed, and had gone but a short distance when a loud cry of "Fire" out of my way!" caused me to turn back into the main street. People were hurrying from the thoroughfare and seeking refuge in neighboring stores. I soon discovered the cause of the panic. A team of horses attached to a wagon were madly down the street, and bounding above the side board the head of a child was seen. Some one rushed from the sidewalk, and seized one of the horses by the bridle. I knew in an instant that Bradley was the man. He struggled with the strength of a hero, and had succeeded in turning the team toward a wall, when he was lifted from the ground, thrown down, and run over by the wagon. The horses stopped. The crowd rushed up. Poor Bradley was fearfully mangled. One of the horses had planted his iron hoof on the brave man's breast. Life was almost extinct when we took him up, and when we had him on a bed he muttered something and said, "Poor Mary." These were his last words.

His friends brought a coffin from the city, and I went back to town on the train that carried his remains. I have nothing of his domestic relations, and ever now I wish there had been no relation. I knew not where his family lived, but as I passed along a lonely street a hearse stopped at a door. Held by the force of a strange awe, I stopped to see the wheels of the vehicle racked against the stone curbing with an ominous grind. Several men slowly approached, and then with a piercing shriek a woman came out. One of the men gently took her arm, led she bore away from him, and, wildly swaying her arms, exclaimed:

"My God! why hast Thou forsaken me?"

Women with their gentle tones came, and with soft words tried to hush the wild cries of the heart-broken widow, but she threw her arms wildly around. Striking the chilin, she grasped the clothes-covered repository of death and pressed it to her breast, as a child will went up from her soul; the, opening wide her lueeless eyes, she pressed her forehead against the glass that covered the dead man's face. A man turned to me and said:

"Poor poor woman is blind. She has not seen her husband for five years."

Her wild notions were then explained. She was feeling for the coffin, and, finding it, tried to force away the darkness with the mighty effort of despair.—Texas Siftings.

Made It Out West.

"Been out West, have you?" I said to a smart looking young man who sat in the seat beside me.

"Yes, sir; been out there for ten years."

"Where were you located?"

"No place in particular. Changed around a good deal."

"Make any money?"

"Yes, made a fortune. Am now going East to enjoy it. Shall live in a big stone mansion at one of the prettiest towns in New York State. Don't suppose you will believe it, sir, but it's a fact. I shall have 150 to 200 servants to wait on me. I shall keep my own physician right on the premises. I shall entertain hundreds of guests from all over the State of New York and a few from the Territories."

"Now, that will do," I interrupted. "I'm not a greeny; no use to tell such stories to me."

"It's a fact though," he replied, "and here's the proof of it." And he held up his hands and exhibited a pair of handcuffs adorning his wrists.

"Yes, sir; he's my prisoner, and I'm taking him from Montana to Auburn," said a keen-eyed, bearded man behind him. "A misunderstanding between you and the special agent in regard to the hen-roosts of some registered letters, wasn't it, Jim?" —Train Talk, Chicago Herald.

The Source of the Thames.

Great rivers, like some of our greatest men, have humble origins. Glouces-tershire and Wiltshire have both done battle for the honor of having rise to the Thames. The question has never excited anything like personal interest to that of the source of the Nile, or the natal city of Homer, but it has had its controversialists. A fence, however, has now since arranged between the two counties, and, indeed it may be, perhaps, justly called a settled peace. The Thames, without doubt, has its birth in Gloucestershire, but it is not until it reaches Wiltshire that it is navigable. Gloucestershire, therefore, is also over its infancy. Wiltshire sets all its sturdy legs and lusty arms to work, and, flowing through London, it commands the admiral thou "Father Thames."—Farmer's Magazine.

NOTHING can be great without being founded on goodness.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Greenback County Convention.

There will be a mass convention of the national greenback party of Charlevoix county, at Boyne City, on Friday, April 25th, at one o'clock p. m. Hon. W. D. Fuller, chairman of the greenback state committee, and C. S. Hampton, of Harbor Springs, will be present and address the people.

By order of the national greenback county committee.

T. J. HILL, Chairman.

April 15, 1884.

A county convention will be held at Bellaire, Antrim county, on Wednesday, April 23d, at one o'clock p. m., to choose delegates to attend the national labor party state convention at Kalamazoo April 30th. By order of committee.

H. W. REACH, Chairman.

American Newspapers in 1884.

From the edition of Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory, now in press, it appears that the newspapers and periodicals of all kinds at present issued in the United States and Canada reach a grand total of 12,402. This is a net gain of precisely 1,000 during the last twelve months, and exhibits an increase of 5,618 over the total number published just ten years since. The increase in 1874 over the total for 1873 was 403. During the past year the dailies have increased from 1,138 to 1,254; the weeklies from 9,062 to 10, 028; and the monthlies from 1,091 to 1,499. The greatest increase is in the Western states. Illinois, for instance now shows 1,009 papers in place of last year's total of 904, while Missouri issues 604 instead of the 523 reported in 1883. Other leading western states also exhibit a great percentage of increase. The total number of papers in New York state is 1,523, against 1,399 in 1883. Canada has shared in the general increase.

NEWS DIGEST.

Oil has been struck at Roscommon, Michigan, at a depth of 500 feet.

At Fresno, California, Friday, a cyclone demolished several buildings.

Senator Malone's condition is such that he has left Washington for Petersburg.

John Dillman, who murdered his wife, was hanged Tuesday at Easton, Pennsylvania.

Judge D. T. Cowen, who was lieutenant colonel of the 52d Ohio volunteers, died at St. Clairsville.

A belt containing $2,300 in gold was stolen by a negro from a gypsy's wagon at Metropolis, Illinois.

At Las Vegas a cowboy assassinated Juan B. Patson, ex-Speaker of the New Mexican Legislature.

James Lake, who was chief quartermaster under General Rosecrans, died Monday at Rockford, Ills.

J. T. Pierce, city marshal of Mitchell, Dakota, was murdered by a saloonkeeper whom he attempted to arrest.

Adam Badeau sent to Secretary Frelinghuysen a cablegram tendering his resignation as consul general at Havana.

H. C. Atkins, assistant general superintendent of the St. Paul road, fell in the streets of La Crosse, from a stroke of paralysis.

The Elisha Graves house at Northampton, Mass., which was over two hundred years old, was burned Thursday.

J. G. Cotton, a bank cashier of Newton, Iowa, is defaulter to a considerable amount, and has fled to the territories.

The late Mrs. A. W. Rollins, of Des Moines, Iowa, bequeathed $75,000 to the American Home Missionary Society.

The grand jury at Fort Wayne, Ind., was instructed to investigate Sunday base ball playing, but failed to return an indictment.

A fight between gangs of Irish and Italian railway laborers at St. Thomas, Ontario, resulted in several men being severely wounded.

The Mexican government secured peace with the mercantile class by agreeing that only goods actually sold shall be stamped.

Seventeen firms engaged in the manufacture of paper stocks, with a capital of $1,500,000, have formed a combination to equalize prices.

The leading creditors of Brown, Bonnell & Co., of Youngstown, Ohio, have matured plans to place that extensive iron-works on its feet.

J. B. A. Brique, an extensive contractor for water-works in the Canadian towns, has been compelled to suspend with liabilities of $150,000.

A blast in the Calumet and Hecla mine of the Lake Superior (Mich) region killed Thomas Trembreth and seriously injured Nicholas Johns.

There is not a saloon in Douglas county, Ills., and the Tuscola council has passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor at drug stores.

The executive committee of the Gould and Wabash systems has ordered a reduction of 10 per cent. in all salaries of $100 per month and over.

In the United States last week there were 175 business failures, and in Canada 29. In both countries the week previous the failures numbered 212.

Robert H. Hunter, a railroad ticket agent at Mingo, Ohio, has absconded, leaving a deficit of $7,000, which is wholly chargeable to speculation.

Marine engines in Buffalo have been given new life by the chartering of all the coal-carrying vessels in the harbor for cargoes to Chicago at 75 cents per ton.

The Canadians express alarm over the magnitude of the emigration to the United States. A party of 325 left one burial, last week, 200 of them to remain permanently.

Burglars obtained money packages to the amount of $1,000 at Allegheny City. They were frightened away by the watchman when about to blow open the safe.

A special grand jury, composed wholly of leading business men, has been impaneled at Cincinnati, to investigate the riot and the burning of the court house.

Sixteen mutilated bodies were on Friday taken from the reopened Pocahontas mine, near Lynchburg, Virginia, but only six of them could be identified.

The Calumet and Hecla Mining Company has for the first time in seventeen years passed its dividend, causing the stock to drop in the Boston market from 225 to 200.

Sheriff Hawkins, of Cincinnati, has returned the colonelcy of the veteran regiment, whose members refused to obey his order to help guard the jail during the riot.

The republicans of the District of Columbia selected Postmaster Conger and Perry Carson as delegates to Chicago, and voted down a resolution instructing for Logan.

Frank James, the Missouri bandit, when arraigned at Huntsville, Alabama, pleaded not guilty to the Mussel Shoals robbery, and his trial was set for Wednesday next.

Bail in the sum of $20,000 each has been accepted in the cases of Jack Crouch and Dan Holcomb, the alleged murderers of the Crouch family at Jackson, Mcdigan.

A. J. Hamlin, of Shelbyville, was nominated for congress by the republicans of the Fifteenth Illinois district, and L. E. Payson was renominated in the Sixth district.

Theodore A. Hurd, of Leavenworth, has been appointed associate justice of the supreme court of Kansas, to succeed D. J. Brewer, who was called to the federal bench.

The track of the Southern Pacific road has been washed away at several points, and many passengers who started eastward by that route have returned to San Francisco.

Wheat seeding is already in progress in southern Minnesota and Dakota, a week in advance of last year. There will be a substantial increase in the acreage of the territory.

The adjutant general of Ohio has placed under arrest Colonel Mott and Lieutenant Colonel Pullings, of the 14th regiment, for misconduct while on duty at the Cincinnati riots.

Fast-mail service across the continent will be inaugurated next Tuesday, when the Central Pacific road will put on a train to run from Ogden to San Francisco in thirty-nine hours.

Mrs. Anna Schoch, who was manager of an industrial home near Chicago, has been convicted of cruelty to eight little ones in her charge and can be sentenced to two years in jail.

The bulls took the lead in the Chicago markets Wednesday, and speculation was very active. May wheat advanced to 84¼ cents, and pork rose 35 cents to $14.62½ above the prices of Tuesday.

The grand jury at Ottawa, Ontario, called attention to the fact that an American citizen charged with murder had for thirty months lain in jail without trial, during five sessions of court.

The Denver and Rio Grande stockholders left Colonel Dodge out of the board of directors, filling his place with D. N. Moffat. The annual report shows a surplus of $150,000 over fixed charges.

The strike of unpaid employes of the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis road extends from Dayton to Cincinnati, and is daily gaining force. None but mail trains are allowed to pass Dayton.

In the federal court at Indianapolis, Matilda C. Wingate was awarded $5,000 damages against the Ohio and Mississippi road for the killing of her husband on a train by a drunken passenger.

Victor W. Clough, of Geneseo, Illinois, made one hundred miles on roller-skates in five minutes less than ten hours. When he left the track the muscles of his legs were swollen and numb.

The democratic state convention of Pennsylvania appointed sixty Randall delegates to Chicago, but left them uninstructed. W. W. H. Davis, a country editor, was nominated congressman-at-large.

A delegation of congressmen from the Pacific coast has started for New York, having arranged for an interview with Mr. Tilden to obtain a positive declaration whether he will accept a nomination for the presidency.

Henry's bank, at Mineral Point, Wis., which held deposits at $75,000, closed its doors Saturday. Mr. Henry died last year, and his widow became embarrassed by the leasing upon assets in the probate court.

The governor general of Cuba telegraphed to the Spanish consul at Key West that Aurelio Mayoll had sailed with the avowed purpose of killing him. When the would-be assassin reached American soil, he was arrested.

John A. Logan seemed the delegates in the Fourth, Ninth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth Illinois congressional districts Friday. The Missouri delegation is said to stand 11 for Blaine, 9 for Arthur, 7 for Logan and 5 for Edmunds.

Entrance has been obtained to the Pocahontas coal mine in Virginia, and the bodies of seven victims of the recent disaster were seen. Thirty-six coffins have been provided, and the corpses will soon be removed.

The jail at Cincinnati is now guarded by fifty extra policemen, who have charge of the Gatling gun. The manager of the dramatic festival says many persons are actually afraid to visit the city, for fear of being shot.

The democrats of Cincinnati elected their entire ticket, with the exception of clerk of the police court, by majorities of from 400 to 800. In Cleveland the republican candidates were elected by an average majority of 3,000.

William H. Vanderbilt, in a card to the stockholders of the Rock Island road, declares H. H. Porter unworthy of a directorship, and asks for proxies to be used in the election of John Kean to fill his successor on the board.

The train-load of corn donated by the Butler county (Kansas) farmers for the relief of the Ohio flood-sufferers reached Cincinnati Friday. The corn will be sold and the price distributed in accordance with the wishes of the donors.

Seven hundred and ninety-five reports from 999 townships in Michigan indicate that the winter wheat crop and the clover crop will be about 95 per cent., apples about 90 per cent. and peaches but 50 per cent. of an average crop.

John T. Cramer, a clerk in the treasury department, was called into the corridor by a Washington grocer and badly pummeled, for writing insulting letters to a lady. Soon afterward Secretary Folger ordered Cramer's dismissal.

Dr. L. U. Beach, of Altoona, Pennsylvania, has been placed in jail for killing his wife. She swallowed morphine Monday morning with her head almost severed from her body, and meanwhile her lay two large knives and an amputating cleaver.

The steamer Grecian landed at Boston 386 immigrants who were assisted from Galway by the Take fund to the extent of from $5 to $40 each. Nearly all have started westward. Most of them have been evicted from Irish estates.

Solomon Froman, an old and wealthy citizen of Painsville, who since October has become too feeble to move about, has sued for divorce on the ground that his wife had confessed making several attempts to poison him, and had finally fled.

The will of Mrs. Oswald Ottendorf, of New York, covering property valued at $5,000,000, bequeaths $25,000 for distribution to employes of the Staats-Zeitung, and scatters about $75,000 among charitable and educational institutions.

F. S. Kirkland, a lawyer of Philadelphia, and three Canadian accomplices, have been committed for trial at Toronto, on charge of attempting to bribe members of the liberal government. Kirkland fainted in the court-room on hearing the announcement.

H. C. Atkinson, assistant superintendent of the St. Paul road, who was recently paralyzed at LaCrosse, has since burst a blood-vessel in his brain. He is said to have lately lost his property in wheat speculations, and has transferred his $10,000 residence in Milwaukee.

A coal operator well known throughout the United States, interviewed in Chicago, stated his belief that anthracite will sell at from 25 to 50 cents a ton less during summer than last, as the pool has but little strength. Soft coal is cheaper, and the production is increasing.

A flaming paragraph about the sale of relics from the scaffold on which Oswatomie Brown was hanged calls out a statement that the original stencils was mislaid and carried off piecemeal by General Patterson's command in the latter part of July, 1861.

The youngest daughter of ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, was last June married to his private secretary, Fred D. Mussey. He was sixteen years older than his bride, and their unhappy relations have led to a final separation, the lady returning to her parents at Fostoria.

At the republican congressional convention for the Albany district, after the election of a presiding officer, a mob made a rush for the platform and threw all the chairman and secretary. A scene of wild disorder was followed by the appointment in the same room of rival delegations to Chicago.

Dr. S. W. Madden, of Scranton, Pa., was arrested on complaint of a young lady of Lancaster that he had chained her in a room for seven weeks. He states that it was agreed that he should obtain a divorce and that the complainant should marry him, but that she undertook to break her contract.

In the Sharon divorce case at San Francisco, Colonel Sharon was undertook to draw a revolver on one of the counsel, and in reason made a similar attempt. Judge Sullivan declined to hear further testimony unless the policemen at the entrance to the court-room would certify that no one present was armed.

A man calling himself Dr. Cross recently came from Chicago to Sir John Macdonald that he could unveil a plot matured in the United States to destroy the Canadian parliament buildings with dynamite. Cross was invited to visit Ottawa, where he is said to have given satisfactory evidence to sustain his charges.

The funeral of C. M. Fleetwood and wife, who were murdered at Ashmore, Illinois, was attended by a vast number of people, who made threats of lynching the suspected man. In Wilmington's room have been found a pair of his pants with the left leg bathed in blood. He is in jail at Charleston.

L. B. Redmond, the famous illicit distiller of South Carolina, is to be released from the penitentiary on the 4th of May. He is a native of Auburn penitentiary, where he is serving a term for killing revenue officers. Senator Butler secured the chance by showing that the prisoner is a cripple, carrying seven bullets, and is dying by inches in a cold climate.

Fifteen prisoners in the Milwaukee jail, mostly burglars and highwaymen, have been locked in their cells for an attempt to escape. Jailer Walsh was called to furnish coal, and as he unlocked the general door he was struck in the face and blinded by ashes. He sprang back and pushed the bolt in time to retain the prisoners.

James McHenry, the English railway magnate, was arrested by a federal marshal on board a steamship about to leave New York, on account of a judgment obtained years ago by the Erie road. Rather than be delayed, he turned over to President Jewett bonds and stocks aggregating $1,800,000, with a written promise to pay the remainder.

The straight republicans of Virginia will send to Chicago a delegation instructed for Blaine, while Malone will allow no personal choice to embarrass him. Among the representatives of the Old Dominion in the democratic national convention will be Hon. J. S. Barbour, Major John W. Daniel, Richard F. Belrie, and Major Page McCarty.

The members of the western whisky ring convened in Chicago, Friday, and induced the disgruntled distillers of Pekin to withdraw their suits for damages. H. B. Miller states that the Western Export association is perfectly solvent; that after May 1 production will be reduced to 20 per cent. of the running capacity, and the price of whisky will be left at $1.15 per gallon.

Thomas Scott, a well-known thief, lying in jail at Jackson, Michigan, spoke to the mayor and nine leading citizens surprising statements in regard to the Crouch murders. The prosecuting attorney then offered him $5,000 in cash, a pardon from the Governor, and a ticket to Liverpool, if he would divulge the name of the murderer. His refusal to do so stamps him as a liar.

B. T. O. Hubbard, the defaulting bank cashier of the First National bank of Monmouth, Ills., died during Wednesday night. He had been allowed his liberty on promise of signing papers of importance. His shortage at the bank is found to be $114,702.79, and the parties have already reported the loss of $100,000 intrusted to him for investment. The bank has been paying semi-annual dividends of 10 per cent.

Havana advices are to the effect that a battalion of regular troops has been sent to Vuelta Arriba, and that fears are entertained that the Cuban refugees in San Domingo are preparing to return surreptitiously. The Spanish minister of the colonies made another loan of $3,000,000 in Barcelona at 94 per cent. per annum, pledging the customs revenue of Cuba. Panic reigns in the markets at Havana, and bills of exchange are almost unsalable.

Mr. Joseph Agate, a retired merchant worth $5,000,000, chiefly in real estate in New York and Yonkers, shot himself through the head on Thursday evening at Yonkers, and died soon after. The suicide was not discovered until Friday afternoon, and as Mr. Agate had registered under the assumed name of John Aken, of Sing Sing, it was not until several hours later that accidentally was clearly established. The body was identified by Mr. Agate's son, who had come from Yonkers.

Joseph Marley, democrat, was elected mayor of Jackson, Mich., by 230 majority over a temperance candidate. The liquor interests of Keokuk, Iowa, elected Judge Jaeger mayor. The democrats carried Niles, Mich., giving Beaver 111 majority for mayor. O'Donnell was elected by the democrats of Dubuque by 1,600 majority. The republicans were victorious at Battle Creek, Mich., by 1,200. E. S. French was chosen mayor, and the democrats elected R. A. Bury mayor at Adrian.

Two prominent citizens of Suspension Bridge, named Van R. Pearson and Thomas Vedder, brothers-in-law, drove over to Goat island, Wednesday evening. At midnight the corpse of the former was discovered, with a bullet-hole in the head, but the only trace of the latter was a pair of his clothing. The horse was found tied to a tree covered with frozen spray. Pearson had of late become so much unbalanced in mind that preparations had been made to place him in an asylum. Vedder's body is believed to have gone over Niagara falls. Nothing is yet known as to the cause of the tragedy.

GENERAL MARKETS.

CHICAGO.

WHEAT—Higher: April, 79½@79¾c; May, 83½@83¾c; June, 85@85¾c.
CORN—Lower: May, 44¾@44¾c; June, 46¾@46¾c.
OATS—Lower: April, 28@28c; May, 31½@31¾c; June, 31½@32c.
PORK—Moderately higher; April, $17.25@17.35; May, $17.40@17.55; July, $17.80@17.90. Lard—Steady; April, $9.45; May, $9.55@9.57½; June, $9.60@9.65.
CATTLE—Market steady. We quote: Choice to fancy steers.....$4.30@5.00
Good to choice steers.....4.75@5.00
Medium to fair steers.....4.75@5.50
HOGS—Market firm. Sales ranged from $6.10@6.60 for heavy; $5.50@6.25 for light.
BUTTER—Steady. We quote: Choice to Fancy Creamery at 28@31 ¥ lb; ordinary to good do. 25@27c; good to fair Dairy at 20@26c; common to fair do. 18@20c.

NEW YORK.

WHEAT—Higher: No. 2 April, 88¾@88¾c; May, $1.00¾@1.01c; June, $1.02¾@1.03c. CORN—Quiet; Mixed Western Spot, 49@50c.

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—Steady: April, 83½c; May, 87¾c; June, 89½c. Corn—Firm at 38½c for No. 2. OATS—Firm; No. 2 White, 25½—Rye—Strong; 59¾c for No. 1. BARLEY—Higher at 68¾c for No. 2.

CINCINNATI.

FLOUR—Fair demand: Family $4.20@4.75. WHEAT—Firm at $1.05. CORN—Strong at 52c. OATS—Firm at 26½c. RYE—Steady; 69½c. PROVISIONS—Pork steady at $17.00. Lard firm at $9.25@9.50. Bulk Meats $6.50@8.00. Bacon $7.75@8.87½.

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—Higher: No. 2 Red April, 81 @81½; May, $1.00@1.00¾; June, 81@ [illegible]
CORN—Higher: No. 2 April, [illegible]; May, 44½@44¾c; June, 46¾@47c.
OATS—Lower: May, 30¾c; June, 31¾c.
RYE—Quiet: No. 2, 68c.
BARLEY—Steady at 70@85c.
PORK—Higher; April, $17.50. Dry Salt Meats—Firm at 5½@6c; May, 6¼@6½c; June, $6.37, 9.50. Lard—Lower; $9.30 bid. Whiskey—Higher; light, $1.06@1.07; heavy, $1.08. Hogs—Lower; $5.75@6.30.

BALTIMORE.

WHEAT—Western blisher; No. 2 Red Spot and April, 99@99¾c; May, $1.00¼@1.00¾c. CORN—Western Mixed Spot and April, 49½@50c; May, 50@50¾c. OATS—Western White, 30@30½c; Mixed do. 28@28½c. RYE—Higher at 65c.

BOSTON.

WOOL—Dull; Michigan fleeces being and delaine 37@40c.

G. W. JEFFERIES
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Me
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLE
Fat Stock and Farm Prod
Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevo

Millinery, Fancy, and La
Furnishing Goods.
MISS L. SPAULDI
Has just received a
New and Elegant St
of Spring Goods,
And cordially invites the La of Charlevoix and Vicini to call and examine before pur ing elsewhere. Dress and C
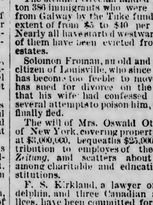
Making done in the best
Two Doors South of Post
MRS. M. DePUE, Millin

JOSEPH HYLAND
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.



Boiler Make
Sheet-Iron Worker
and manufacturer of Hyland's Patent Firem
Dealer in all kinds of
SECOND-HAND MACHIN
Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and ing of Boilers promptly attended to.

O. B. WEED & C
Are headquarters for DRUG
CHEMICALS
Patent Medicines, all K
Imported and Domestic Perfume
Toilet Article
AND FANCY GOODS
None but Pure Medic
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by compet
and with fresh and pure drugs. Ca
We will use you well. Our store is town's new Opera Blo
JOHN NICHOLL
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
Manufacturer of and Deal
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBE
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Bl
WACON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ET LUMBER SAWED AND FILLED TO ORDE
Old Newspapers for Sa

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 17, 1884.

Business Announcements.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers who can are requested to pay us something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe. Paper bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

Headquarters for wagons at Nettleton's warm shop. The "old reliable" wagons, and narrow tire, on hand. ——— &c.

Upright, Emery & Co. will have a large lot of dry goods next week, consisting of dress goods, ginghams, flannels, Cutleus, Sheeting, Ladies' Neckwear, etc.

Allen Chamberlain's stallion, Young Joe, will make the season of 1884, commencing April 11 and ending July 1st, at Charlevoix, Norwood, Torch Lake, Elk Rapids, Wilson's, Round Lake, Spencer Creek, Munson, Bellaire, Central Lake, and Charlevoix, making the round trip every two weeks. For terms, dates, places, terms, and other particulars see posters.

A fine line of ladies' and gents' shoes just received this week. Upright, Emery & Co.

A platform weighing 600 lbs, for setting tires upon, was cast by Washburn, Ackert & Co. in C. Nettleton, last Saturday.

O. D. Wood's stallion, Young St. Clair, will make the season of 1884, commencing May 8th and closing in July, at the following places each week: Monday at Eaton's Corners, Charlevoix; Tuesday at barn of Truman Case, in Hayes township; Wednesday at Boyne City; Thursday at Case's barn at Charlevoix; Friday at barn of C. & A. Case, Central Lake; Saturday at Blakely's barn, Torch Lake. For terms and other particulars, see posters.

The Lawrence is expected this week from Upright, Emery & Co.'s spring stock of Dry Goods and Provisions.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Wednesday evening by UPRIGHT, EMERY & Co., general dealers.

FLOUR, per bbl, $5.00, $5.50, and $6.00.
GRAHAM FLOUR, per bbl, $4.50.
BUCKWHEAT FLOUR, per bbl, $4.50.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.75.
HAY, per ton, $8@9.
OATS, per bu, 35c.
BARLEY, per cwt, $1.75.
POTATOES, per bu, 75c.
BEANS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 20c.
EGGS, per doz, 10@12c.
LARD, per lb, 12@13c.
HAMS, 16c; Shoulders, 12c.
SALT PORK, 12c; Beef, 8c.
CHICKENS, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 9c.
APPLES-WHITE BIU, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand

Fresh Meats from the Market.

BEEF, best sirloin, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½@ 15c; mutton, 12½@15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12c.

VEAL, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Personal Gossip.

Chas. Cebo, has returned to Charlevoix to remain the summer.

John Otis, of Mancelona, registered at the Fountain City house on Monday.

Charles Ely returned home yesterday. His family will return a month later.

P. A. Rabour has been commissioned postmaster at Boyne. Good for Phil.

Joseph Hunt, of Kalkaska, died on Sunday last. He was the father of A. S. Abbott, who was buried on Tuesday last. Ex.

Mr. D. Bakely, the Eastport miller, who has been visiting in northern Michigan a short time returned home last Friday.

Rev. C. F. Van Auken has been ill for the past week and unable to officiate last Sunday, but it is expected he will by next Sunday he will be able to conduct the services.

Prof. M. L. Smith announces that he is prepared to take pupils in instrumental music. For further particulars inquire at the residence of Mrs. W. Ball, on Mason street.

Capt. Roberts, of the tug Higgie, returned from his Dakota farm last Friday, to prepare for the towing season. The season there is sufficiently early for him to finish sowing wheat and oats before leaving.

W. J. Armstrong, of Cheboygan, visited Charlevoix a few days this week. He is senior of the firm of Armstrong & Chisholm, lessees of Lemon's meat market, and will doubtless visit us frequently the coming summer.

Miss Jessie Smith, of Flint, sister of Fred Smith, of the Charlevoix postoffice, starts soon on a tour through the west and south with a concert company. Miss Smith has just eighteen years old, yet she goes as a star in vocal, piano, and cornet solos. In this latter accomplishment she received instructions from Prof. Gardner, of the famous "Gardner's Flint Band," and her performances elicits the highest praise from all who hear her. The route selected embraces California this summer, and the southern states next fall.

Messrs. G. C. Barber, of Central Lake, Antrim county, and Edward Clark, of Chase, Lake county, made the JOURNAL a call on Saturday. The latter gentleman is looking around for a business opening, and expresses an opinion very favorable to this region.

News Brevities.

Navigation open.

Arbor day—April 24th.

Rain last Monday and Tuesday.

The Mockingbird is to have a new minimast.

O'Neil Brothers commenced fishing operations on Monday.

The tug Bob Stevenson was launched on Monday afternoon.

Henry Lake, of Boyne City, is now employed in Eaton's livery barn.

Wesley Cross will fish near shore for the local market this summer.

A number of sail boats were cruising on Round lake last Sunday.

Read the interesting business announcements of Upright, Emrey & Co.

First arrival—on Tuesday afternoon, the tug Kitty Smoke, from Muskegon.

The "Beatty farm" is advertised for sale in another column. Inquire of J. Milo Eaton.

Greening & Geiken made two trips to lake Michigan on Monday, and set nearly 400 nets.

Jas. Hastings is repairing his bakery, and expects to open for business early next week.

Upright, Emery & Co., advertise three horses and a mule for sale, in another column.

O. W. Smith may now be found with his lapidary over D. C. Nettleton's wagon shop.

A platform for setting tires was cast by Washburn, Ackert & Co. for D. C. Nettleton last Saturday.

The tugs L. S. Payne and J. L. Higgie are receiving repairs at the machine shop this week.

Allen's pile driver began business last Monday morning, on the Manufacturing company's dock.

The North Star is ready to make her daily trips to Boyne as soon as the ice in Pine lake will permit.

Boy wanted, to learn the printer's trade. One who means business, and will serve four years apprenticeship.

J. L. Hurd & Co., successors to Amos Fox, are invoicing this week, and expect to open next Monday, the 21st.

The manufacturing company started one planer on Monday. Other machines are nearly ready for business.

The Congregational society will hold services in the opera house, commencing next Sunday, until their church is completed.

Capt. J. J. Bennett will run the Wright as a passenger steamer, on the Charlevoix and Petoskey route this summer.

Extensive repairs have been made to the boilers and machinery of John Nichols' mill, and it will be ready to run in a few days.

The building now occupied by Rev. J. J. Kanagy as a paint shop is to be rearranged, fitted up, and occupied for a "fair," in the near future.

Levi Blanchard is making improvements on the north end of his lot, with the intention of starting grass, shrubbery, etc., to prevent the drifting of sand.

Charlevoix people are getting ready to entertain the throng of tourists who annually while away the summer days in the glorious climate of Michigan.—Fremont Indicator.

E. B. Hodge, of Traverse City, has purchased the harness shop of J. E. Weed & Co. Mr. Hodge is expected here some time this week, when he will take personal charge. Mr. Weed will remain in town till some time in the summer, when he expects to start on an extended visit through the south.

Numerous improvements and additions are being made to McCabe's livery outfit, including more horses, new buggies, and a hack, the latter to be brought in as soon as the roads will permit.

It is announced that Charlevoix is to have a roller skating rink, 40x100 feet in size, to cost about $1,000. An ice cream parlor will be run in connection. Mr. E. E. Starr, of Battle Creek, will have the management.

The young ladies of the M. E. church are preparing to give a social at the opera house next Friday evening, to be known as a "Gipsy Garden." A good time is anticipated. Ice cream and cake will be served for fifteen cents.

Our readers will miss from the columns of the JOURNAL the familiar advertisement of "the same old Fox." Mr. J. L. Hurd, of Detroit, having taken possession of the business. But Mr. Fox will not be idle, and we may expect to hear from him again from time to time.

Notes and News.

The Harrisville Review is offered for sale.

The office of the Lake City Leader burned April 3d.

Oil has been found in paying quantities at Roscommon, and the town is full of strangers, wild with excitement.

The spring number of the Chicago Specimen, (Marder, Luse & Co., type founders) is freighted with good things, and makes the printer wish his pocket book was a national bank.

The Poultry Keeper is a handsome illustrated 16 page monthly magazine just started by W. V. R. Povis, publisher of Farm, Field, and Fireside, 89 Randolph St., Chicago. Send five cents for a sample copy.

"The St. Joseph canning factory paid out $60,000 for produce and $300 to $500 per week for labor, last year." The same results can be had here in a few years, if the people will take hold of it and push it lively.

An unusual sight was visible at Cross Village, Emmet county, recently The land on the north shore of the straits, and Beaver island and several houses, including the Catholic church on the island, were plainly visible with the naked eye.

The Living Church, published in Chicago, issued a 12 page Easter number, on tinted book paper, with the first page handsomely decorated with emblems, etc., appropriate to the season. Published weekly at one dollar per year—a good paper for the price.

Last Friday morning, at 12:20 the office of the Detroit Times, with two or three job printing offices, were burned, but through the generous offer of the Evening News a half-sheet was issued. On Saturday morning it was issued full size and form. This is enterprise.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette of the 31st contains the following excellent argument for prohibition: "Along Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth streets, and on Vine street, was quieter at 11 o'clock last night than it has been for several years. It was not difficult to find the cause—the saloons were all closed."

The planting of trees near our homes appears so strongly to our selfishness, by its added comfort and pecuniary profit, that its neglect is properly regarded as an indication of shiftlessness and lack of thrift. The decoration of "God's acre" rests on higher grounds appealing to our better nature and purer instincts. Let us ask that on Arbor day 1884, a special effort be made to beautify with trees and shrubs, our rural cemeteries. A day spent among the last resting places of our departed ones cannot fail to revive precious memories and tender recollections.—Gov. Begole.

Liberal Club.

On Monday evening, April 21st, at the Opera House, will be held the last meeting of the season. The program will be one of the best ever presented in Charlevoix. The lecture will be by B. F. Bisbee. Subject: Paganism, heathenism, and spiritualism. The Charlevoix cornet band will be present to enliven the occasion with some of their choicest music. Professors Bice and Smith with Messrs. Wheat and Carr, assisted by some of the best vocal talent in town will furnish the music. A leading feature of the program will be flute solos by Samuel Cokley. W. C. Newman will give a choice recitation, and many other features will be added in to make the entertainment complete. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

ROBERT MILLER,
Chairman of Committee.

Easter Concerts.

The M. E. church was crowded last Sunday evening to listen to a concert and praise service by the Sunday school. The various classes carried their parts well, and great credit is due to the superintendent and teachers. The class of "little folks" received many commendations.

At the school house the Congregational Sunday school had an excellent program, followed by appropriate remarks by W. P. Brown.

Navigation Open.

Last Sunday morning a south wind drove the ice part way out of the bay, but the wind shifting to the north, it came back. During Sunday night the wind shifted again to the east, and on Monday morning the bay was was clear, and navigation has practically been open since. The first arrival was the tug Kitty Smoke, on Tuesday afternoon. The steam barge John Otis is expected from Chicago this week. It was reported on Monday that the Lawrence was trying to reach Glenn Haven that day, and we may look for her here soon.

Burgess.

April showers about these days and are much needed.

Mr. Crum, of Undine, visited with his aunt, Mrs. Hamlin, last Sunday.

The musical frog, has put in his first appearance. Soon will come the festive mosquito.

The making of garden, was begun in Hayes last week.

George Howe, who has been quite sick, is getting better and hopes to be able to go sailing as soon as navigation opens.

Mr. and Mrs. Salter, postmaster and mistress of Burgess, were up to Mr. Frank Kane's, to eat warm sugar on Sunday.

E. H. Burgess is going to start his mill this week.

"There's a time to dance and a time to sing," and also a time to eat warm sugar, and that is just about these times. "Yum yum."

Several new inhabitants are expected near the centre of Hayes the coming week.

South Arm.

The weather continues quite cool and windy. Wild flowers were seen April 12.

Maple sugar is of an excellent color and flavor this season. It is also being made in large quantities by those engaged in it.

Although the "until license" men "got left," they managed to keep 102 votes, which was not so bad after all.

Davis & Dean had a break in their dam, which cost a week's work to repair.

John Crawford and Francis Sinclair launched out on the sea of matrimony, recently. May their voyage be long and prosperous.

J. R. Vance moved his house from Geo. Allen's premises to his own, opposite, on Saturday last.

Samuel Walton, of Boyne, is making preparations to return to Mitchel, and run the sawmill there this summer.

The orchards as far as we can discern, promises an abundance of fruit.

The exhibition given by the school near Echo sawmill, was a success. A party of young people from Central Lake were present. We believe the district has secured Miss Ogletree's services for the coming summer.

Chicken thieves were ravaging through Echo recently. D. McMillan and H. C. Scofield were minus a few fowls which they prized highly.

Ironton.

Town meeting is over. Those that were beaten took up their line of march up salt river. It being full of ice they had to go on foot.

The Pine Lake Iron Co. are improving their front street, stumping it down to the water which improves the place very much. It is to be set out with trees.

County surveyor Robinson is surveying the town into lots. When completed they will be for sale. There is also to be a new brick church built this summer on Front street.

A great curosity came into town last Friday. Two chimney sweeps and a pony, from Charlevoix. The pony was sober although he went crooked, but that was owing to the load whiskey he had on his back.

The barge John Otis left Chicago on Monday of this week, for Ironton, coming by way of Manitowoc. She has a new coat of paint which improves her appearance very much.

The Pine Lake Iron Co. sold one of their teams to Mr. Abbot, of Mancelona. The consideration was $150.

Mr. Abbot has the job of taking the cinders away from the Mancelona furnace.

Rev. G. W. Bell will preach at Ironton Sunday, at 3 o'clock, and Rev Mr. May in the evening.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Pearsall Bros. real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for two weeks ending Tuesday evening, April 15, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Orvis D. Woodland wife to Henry Bennett, lots 2, 3, and 8, in block 2, and lots 4, 5, and 7, in block 3, Norwood. Also lots 1 and 2, in block 21, and lot 15, in block 22 in Newman's addition to Charlevoix, $2,000.

Andrew Mortensen and wife to Samuel Clark, pt. w. ½ of sec. 1, in 32-7-8w, $400.

L. E. Boynton and wife to Fox, Musselman & Loveridge, part of lot 2, sec. 2, in 34-6-8w, $126.

L. H. Pettyjohn to Northern Manufacturing company, part of lot 2, sec. 2, in 34-6-8w, $600.

Frank E. Chisholm and wife to J. M. Crowell, lot 2, in 4-34-6-8w, $285.

Sophia J. Shoemaker to Chas. Johnschenk, 20 acres, 32-34-8w, $100.

Thomas Reed to Mary H. Wood, 2 acres of lot 67, and lot 2 of School Outlot, in Ironton, $250.

William Seiler and wife to Geo. H. Palmer, et. al., pt. w. ½ of s. w. ¼ 2-35-8, $1,000.

M. E. Church.

Morning service April 20, subject: "Our Future Recognition." Evening service, subject: "Women's Rights in the Temperance work." All invited.

DIED.

BRAY.—At his residence two miles south of Charlevoix, on April 14th, Mr. Josiah GRAY, of illness. Funeral at M. E. church yesterday at 10 o'clock, under the auspices of the society of Orangemen. Discourse by Rev. J. T. Dobson.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emery & Co.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 114 acres,

JOHN BROWN'S LEGS.

The Poet Laureate begs
A boon for John Brown's legs
Those lacerated Pegs,
Cut and carved about the knees,
Which I swore I'd tell to sea.
What service they have done,
What royal errands run!
Now crossed with gore,
Alas! no more
They chase the lion and find the freshest cops,
Those fallible legs, those lacerated legs.

Dressed in his Highland rig,
His plaided bonnet and bright checkered limb,
A lancer, braver lad
Than dear brown Jack I guessed a jig
Upon the library lodge of Balmoral.
Sadly he capers upon the lawn;
Maidservants are the pipers of kornak.
His mighty legs he scornfully has cut, kilt shone,
As a new-slight tubsk meet.
And sent a thrill of pleasure down one's back!

Ah! no more
On Scottish hillsor by the salt sea shore
Those legs will now be seen
Gay gam oching o'er the green,
Nor fluttering now my Wapping gate shall see
Thote, thin but supple, wanting the regiment;
For cruel steel cut and scarred,
By lines adverse, marred,
The service of those weary Shin-Weeks,
Those lovely, lean, snake-legs.

On such a pair of legs Antaeus stood
In a contemporary! It is inscribed his blood;
Such Leonidas, who, hunting for a view,
The hunch-paved Xerxes into fury drew;
And on such legs the valiant Samson strode
When he carried off the gates of Gaza
And as Leonidas stood the loved Welsh,
And hurled them in their native mountain roof;
When the with the jaw bone of an ass
He made a clearance and a heap
Of Philistines, and in a trice
Cast the bone away, for more
Convenient slaughter he did use
Those legs. O legs! O legs! Dear compers!
O happy ones, who in Jove's loved limbs rose!
Now sweetly flowed in, in silky windings,
Now nobbing sang! so much as canary birds
Sturdied and with cotton-wool mishop was stood

Miller the legs of Leigh delivered
In case of sounding notice; for the loss
No heart was sad by folly or timid mien
As Leonard, who, without legs, was lowered
Where rain will rot the cooper wood to him
Sunlight or moonlight, in rain or twilight dim!
It seem'd to me, the presidency
Over his dead mere swiftly petitioning by;
Even the small moving on his track,
Hearing he's lonesh in goods upon his back,
Stare stump-gazers that he life-saying,
Five O. the thrill pin some Connection bog.
Most help'd me and stilly,
Ah, not his sweetness well.
Those Dr. who saw Bacon, it could not see his legs,
Those manly and limitable legs.

Mourn, Albion, then, alone thy regret shore,
And Britannia! but regret has sad exertion,
And bid her fulfil her mourning part
For never, never will the brown moon Shine on the lake its locks and tides among Upon the waters, in wet sandals, and cull, and pass
Those legs whose purposes I have fairly sung.
Those legs! Ah, those
For others the just legs
That in the time I sing, those legs of faithful service,
Which in the times's own pages,
Shall live in all immortality
Of all historic fame the legs of most renown.

DOLLY'S LAST FLIRTATION.

I am Kitty, and Dolly is my twin-sister. I was always sedate, mother used to say; but Dolly was giddy, and fond of flirting.

When we were 17, Dolly became engaged, with our mother's consent, to Frank Wilmot, a young fellow of 21, son of a banker, nice and cheery in demeanor and disposition. He was very indulgent to Dolly, for he felt so confident of her love, and was himself so loyal and sincere that the admiration she excited was his triumph; the freedom with which she received and encouraged it never pained him, though mother and I used to watch her with serious anxiety.

Sometimes our mother would say a few impressive words; then Dolly would throw her arms round her, and with kisses assure her she would be a better girl, or she would pout a little, with tears in her bright blue eyes. She would be very demure through two balls, and at the third worse than ever; scarcely could Frank get one waltz for himself.

One evening he brought to our house a cousin of his, a barrister, a man some years older than himself. He was rather famous, though only 30, being an acute lawyer, and consequently looked up at the bar.

Dolly owned to me that evening that Frank had confided to her that I was Jack Dacre's ideal woman.

"So did Ethel say so naughty, darling," said she, "for it would be the most delightful arrangement. He is Frank's ideal man and beloved friend. It would be the happiest thing for us all." And Dolly gave me a hug and a kiss and ran off to bed.

Mr. Dacre came very often after that one visit, and I soon found that he was my ideal lady, for he, although reserved in manner, both in manners and his chat, from courtesy to women, as well as in appearance, it was with a chill at my heart that I was the first to make the discovery that he was falling in love with Dolly—he, the soul of honor, so mind bewitched by the charms of his bosom friend's affianced wife. I knew it before he did, for of course you believe Dolly, who knew it, was merrily detecting every symptom, however obscure, of dawning love, either in her own case or another's.

My mother and Frank were utterly blind to the danger. I was very unhappy, and exceedingly sorry before Dolly, for Frank, for Mr. Dacre, and, I own it, for myself; for, though I had not fallen in love with Frank's cousin, I am sure he was the only man I had seen whom I felt I could fall in love with.

An accident brought matters to a climax.

We were sitting in the drawing-room after dinner one evening, when a cousin in the street drew us to the window. The pole of a carriage had entered the chamber of a cab-horse. Dolly fainted and I had quite enough to do between Mother, who was at her side, I knew his arm was round her to prevent her falling. He laid her on a sofa and stood aside as Frank drew long her; but from that night he came no more. He and I had had open the ball, and that was all. By had I missed from Frank, had evidently a the impression on her face, had seen in her vivid breast.

From that evening she became cold, petulant, teasing to Frank. At first he laughed, then was hurt, and finally the engagement was broken off. This is soon told, but what my mother and I suffered must be imagined. I dared neither to tell her the truth nor to hint to Dolly that I knew to whom her heart was given, though I loved her so dearly and I felt so sure that this was the first true love of her life. This determined, decided, somewhat stern and reserved to claim our little butterfly, if she noticed him at all.

Mother and I arranged that Dolly should go away on a short visit. Frank was to come one evening to return the letters Dolly had sent him. They would not feel the abruptness of this rupture so much as if they were placed personally by him in my hands; and I had his letters also to give to him. Mother was quite unequal to seeing him, for she loved him dearly, and the task was for me. I was not sorry, for I felt I could say all that was likely to comfort him, loving both of them so deeply.

So poor Frank produced his sorrowful little packet, received the one I had for him, and stood leaning against the chimney-piece, while I sat quite mutely to utter a word, but with tears dropping quietly from my eyes. At last he told me that he knew Dolly had been faithless to him. He felt sure she and Jack Dacre loved each other, and he spoke so humbly of himself, and as if it was quite to be expected that his cousin should be preferred above any other man, that I was greatly touched, and my tears fell faster and faster.

"Jack is the soul of honor, Kitty; but I must make it clear to him that he is free to do as his heart dictates. His and her happiness must not be wrecked. I will get my father to send me to our branch house in India, and will not return till they are married. Jack is rich enough to marry at once. I shall cancel my journey."

Then he charged me with tender pleas ings for Dolly, and, at his request, I went to ask my mother to bid him farewell. Presently she glided in, pale as death. She held out her trembling hand in silence, but Frank folded her in his arms, and she sobbed on his breast. I stood by, weeping bitterly, and, when we were calmer, Frank embraced us both finally, and, placing me in my mother's arms, left us. Poor fellow! how brave he was, how gentle and patient!

In a month from that time Dolly was affianced to Mr. Dacre, and the marriage was arranged to take place at the beginning of the long vacation. We were by this time convinced that it was the best thing that could happen. No one could see Dolly and doubt for a moment that this was the only man she had loved. His calm, intense character suppressed her; his great talents awed her; and her pretty, innocent pride in her manly lover, her meekness and quiet graces were most promising symptoms of happiness in her married life.

Dear mother was so sorely happy! I was very fond of my new brother; he was such a power for good and peace in our home that we never had been so contented before. Frank wrote lovely to us—manly, patient letters, full of unselfish interest in all around him. His sorrow had sweetened, not embittered, his character. He had set himself to alleviate his anguish by doing good, and his first act on reaching his destination had been to use his large commercial gifts for the welfare of the widow and children of an officer of the army, and, at the cost of time, talent, and energy, to rescue her small fortune from unsafe hands and invest it profitably. His letters were filled with similar incidents, naturally and simply told, and our affection increased for this truly brave man.

Dolly's godmother took it into her head that it was her goddchild's duty to buy her a trousseau worthy of her marriage. Though, as she had never troubled herself much about us, we were rather startled at this demand; all thought it would be best to accept the invitation—for my sister was not looking well—and it was settled that she should go and spend a month with the old lady in her lovely North County home. Mr. Dacre was pressed to go as often as his professional engagements would permit; so Dolly left us in pretty good spirits, in charge of the elderly servant who was our substitute for a regular lady's-maid.

She wrote to tell us how she was enjoying the repose and beauty of the country. Mr. Dacre had managed to run down from Saturday till Monday at the end of the first week, and had of course made a great impression, for even before Dolly, who knows terms for merrily detecting every symptom, however obscure, of dawning love, either in her own case or another's.

Brantwood, July 26—Dearest Kitty: I hope you will be thankful to hear I have become head of household. I mean a lovely little note to Lady Milicent North. Such a charming woman a widow about 28 years old. She governs Brantwood, and let her have no fear now and as for you and as her darling, and as for me, I am completely spoiled, but that one subject, my darling, I am not sure we shall not be one out of the Brantwood house. I have never been, for the past three days at all, and we drop our mail letters into the hall box as we go into dinner. I expect the post every minute. This paper is heavy, and my fingers are sore. Darling is the dearest—. Darling. Your own DOLLY.

I felt uneasy concerning this letter. I was sorry Dolly should have left her godmother's quiet home to visit a gay young widow just the age she was herself, with a fascinating Baronet; and I knew Jack Dacre would not go permit, never pardon Dolly the gayest selection of flirting. He had answered her dejection to get her letter by Thursday; but of course I should hear from Jack on Wednesday. I dreaded every ring, every postman's knock. All day Wednesday passed and no letter arrived from my sister or her lover.

On Thursday morning I ran down when I heard the usual welcome sound. On the table lay a thick letter addressed in Dolly's handwriting. I ran up to mamma and gave her the one I found inclosed in it for her; then I sat down to read mine, after fortifying myself with a cup of coffee. I must give every word of it:

"You are well aware that a catastrophe has happened through my heedlessness. The best thing will be for me to describe fully the whole consequences of that misfortune. On our return from the garden party on Tuesday I found a telegram awaiting me from Jack.—"Shall be with you by 7:30." Of course this awoke no fears in my mind, for I knew Jack might run down at any moment the trains permit. Lady Milicent sent me off at once to be dressed by her artist-maid. What she made of me you must have seen when I descended. Kitty, I would not look at myself! I'm sure the dress was complete; and, when I glanced in the long glass, I was really amazed at what I saw. It was the result, I now know, of many dissensions between Lady Milicent and this gifted young person. You may imagine how I exulted in the thought that Jack would see me here as he had never seen me look before, for I am so improved in health that my whole appearance is altered. Well, the bell rang. Lady Milicent received Mr. Dacre in the morning room, and came to me down the corridor.

"I ran down with my heart bounding. I entered the room. I noticed Jark give one start; but he received me in such a very un-Jack-like manner that I was terrified. 'Mamma—Kitty?' cried.

"Quite well when I left them,' said Mr. Dacre; but when he placed me in a chair, and took one opposite to me, I felt matters were desperate. 'What is wrong?' I gasped. 'Dearest Jack, pray speak!' 'Only an address,' said he, and put the unfortunate envelope in my hands. This contained a letter for your sister, which I, perhaps fortunately, read before I perceived the notabene. I have just seventeen minutes before I leave for the return train; so, if you wish to say anything, let me beg of you to speak at once.

"I sank back in my chair and covered my face with my handkerchief, trembling with agitation. Will you hear me? Did this reconcile you were engaged?' I covered my face again. To hear Sir Charles North called a scoundrel was too much for me. I did not speak for several minutes; but time was flying fast, and Jack said, 'Dolly, this is in truth our last meeting; grant me one favor; say that you will before I tell you what it is.' Of course it is a reasonable, honorable request that I wish to make; but I own it is one you will not like to grant.' He paused a moment, then said, 'I will not bother you on that ask you to see Sir Charles North.' He winced, but bowed silently. I left the room to fetch Baronet. I found him in his smoke-house and set it afire, and that pa and me went off on a wild expedition.—The Judge.

"Keep your eye on your money is a sign conspicuously displayed in several Northern restaurants. At first sight, good advice; in most effective plan would be to hands on the fellow who steals other your coat.—Texas Siftings.

THERE are about fifty Postmasters this country who receive a salary of a year. It's worth that to a man has nothing else to do but to study man nature and chew tobacco. If nothing of the fun he'd have in it letters in the wrong box.—Texas Siftings.

"WHERE shall we bury?" asked a cantile writer. Did you ever hear earth? That is considered a suitable appropriate place by many people to be examined by a competent ge. The tendencies to deafness ended if taken in time. ove cases there is a thickening the membrane tympana (ear-drum) which thickening tends to in each every new cold; or some of er inflamed surfaces grow to- ch the action of the ear is in- with, or the Eustachian tube be- osed. Sometimes the ear-drum ated, the inflammation giving suppuration.—Health and Turkish Man on the Jury.

Jan Shook, of the Union Square is a curious compound. He ng if not loyal to his friends. If ing or personally he cannot he his faults or tolerate adverse

Some one spoke of Charles in Shook's presence as "one of ect sticks." Shook was in- a rage, and began to denounce ge as "one of those ——twelfth ket." "Exactly." "Potatoes ecap, and the price is low." "Duckwheat is a shade finer there is no panic. Corn was but the supply is all we need. While better feed and cheaper can be had at lower prices than ruled for years. Sinapou I do not count on a meal, for it is a mere trifle." "My dear sir" plied the other, "you are grazer ic. If left the premises would consume, but if it is the first paper napkins have advanced 15 per thousand. Please secure us a vance."—Wall Street News.

THE DEATH OF THE BEE.

Who killed the Dude?
"We with our pen," said the new-paper men, we killed the Dude;" Who, " " saw him die?" I, " " " " and O'Brien " " " his burier, " " saw him
Who caused his " " the act?"
reason," was that " " the needle his blood." Which " " gave

"I," said the ladies, "for I was the ladies' fan who killed the Dude." "I," said the dude, "I killed myself." Who killed the gentle Dude?
"I," said the barber, "for I was the ladies' fan who killed the Dude." "I," said the dude, "I killed myself." Who killed the gentle Dude?
"I," said the tailor, "for I was the ladies' fan who killed the Dude." "I," said the dude, "I killed myself." Who killed the gentle Dude?
"I," said the dude, "I killed myself with a dagger." "I," said the grave, "I buried him." "I," said the earth, "I received his body." "I," said the worms, "I ate his flesh." "I," said the critic, "for I was the ladies' fan who killed the Dude." "I," said the dude, "I killed myself." Who killed the gentle Dude?

Principal Meridians.

The first meridian west of the Mississippi River is the fifth, which begins at the mouth of the Arkansas River and governs surveys in Arkansas, Missouri, most of Minnesota, and Indian Territory. The second is the sixth of the meridian of Greenwich, 26 minutes west, and extends from the 37th degree of latitude to the North Pole. It has most of the valley of the Red River and governs surveys in Nebraska, a part of Dakota, Wyoming, and Colorado. West of this are the New Mexico meridian, the Gila and Salt River meridian, the Boise, the Mount Diablo, the San Bernardino, the Humboldt, the Willamette, the Montana, and the Indian meridian governs surveys in Indian Territory.—Chicago News.

The Plumber's Bill.

Some rude persons pretend to be found a plumber's bill, which ran Fixing up Smith's busted pipes Fixing up Smith's busted pipes to go to the job, $1; making for tools and help, $2; finding the $1.50; sending for more help, $2; going back for subber fernishin', $1; bringing the solder, $1; ——— ger, $3; lost my tobacco, $0 every ing to work $3; getting my ment to work, $2.50; fixing the pipes, $2.50; going home, $2.50; time I was over and hear our boots, overalls and other clothing, $3; total, $33.38.—Detroit Courier-Journal.

HUMOR.

A MATTER of course—the razor.

DRUNKENNESS is a reed suicide.

EARLY at the ball—a quadrille.

CHARITY warmed over is no comfort.

THE Chicago Ledger is publishing a serial story entitled "The Diary." Advertising for engineering tickets, eh?—Newman Independent.

WHAT room would one expect to find in a castle in the air? A "brown study," to be sure.

Pulmonary Consumption.

DEAR SIR—I received the trial bottle of your White Wine of Tar Syrup which you sent to my address. My wife has been troubled with a lung disease for more than eighteen years, and was pronounced to be last January in the last stages of Pulmonary Consumption. She commenced taking your valuable medicine and received relief after using two bottles since and is now using the fourth, and her health is better than for many years. We cheerfully recommend it to all afflicted with any trouble of the throat or lungs. We now get our medicine through John Potter, our merchant at this place.

Yours respectfully, Rev. J. B. Fry,
Brooklyn Station, Mo. Sussex Pay.

A Cure for Pneumonia.

Mr. D. H. Barnaby, of Oswego, N. Y., says that his daughter was taken with a violent cold which terminated with pneumonia, and all the best physicians gave her case up and said she could live but a few hours at most. She was in this condition when a friend recommended Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and advised her to try it. She accepted it as a last resort, and was surprised to find that it produced a marked change for the better, and by persevering a permanent cure was effected.

Carbo-lines.

The gray-haired man never shall grieve
The signs of coming age,
For Carbo-line can both retrieve
And fullest griefs assuage.

BEN'S URBAN BALM is doing wonders. I advise sufferers from Catarrh to try other remedies aside. I believe it is the only remedy that will cure this terrible disease, for I have suffered nearly one year. CHARLES GARDAMANT, Shoe Merchant, 885 Broad St., Newark, N. J. (Price 50 cents per bottle.)

FOR DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, depression of spirits, and general debility in their various forms; also, as a preventive against fever and ague, and other intermittent fevers, the "Ferro-Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya," made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., of New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness it has no equal.

HAVING used Ely's Cream Balm for Catarrh and cold in the Head I can unhesitatingly say it is a positive preparation and would recommend it to any one afflicted.—R. W. CARPENTER, Editor Herald, Clinton, Wis. (See adv't.)

For a cold in the head, there is nothing so good as Piso's Remedy for Catarrh.

Dr. Sanford's Liver Invigorator will cure liver diseases when other remedies have failed.

Be afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 75c.

BEWARE of the incipient stage of Consumption. Take Piso's Cure in time.

"Rough on Rats" clears out Rats, Mice. 15c.

Mother Swan's Worm Syrup, tasteless. 25c.

"Rough on Coughs" Troches, 15c; Liquid, 50c.

Wells' Man-Apple (Liver) Pills, 10c.

"Rough on Toothache," instant relief. 15c.

"Buchu-paiba," Great Kidney and Urinary Cure. $1.

"Rough on Corns," for Corns, Warts, Bunions. 15c.

Wells' Health Renewer cures Dyspepsia, Impotence.

The "Rough on" Tooth Powder, elegant. 15c.

WRITE TO-DAY AND SECURE FREE
A. E. BICKNELL & CO., Brockton, Mass.

ALDEN'S MANIFOLD CATALOGUE.
OVER 200,000 copies and 3,000 Dealers use it. Has the first one hundred thousand names ever published. A grand local opportunity for Agents. Sample copy, 25 cents. Catalogue free. Rates per thousand names furnished on application. Address JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 15 Vesey St., New York.

CATARRH
ELY'S CREAM BALM
CATARRH CREAM BALM
HAY-FEVER
ELY'S CREAM BALM
Quickly Absorbed. Gives Relief at once.
A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents; by mail, registered, 60 cents. ELY BROTHERS, Owego, N.Y.

SHARP PAINS
Medical Profession, Ministers, Invalids, Actors, Singers, Nursing Mothers, Athletes, Everybody, prize lecturer upon Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Sore Throat, Lame Back, Kidney Pains, Pain in the Chest, and all pains and aches in either locality or any part of the system, pronounce Hop Plaster the only pain-killing, strengthening, and curative agent. Over 5,000 testimonials from druggists and physicians in the United States and Canada. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents; five for $1.00. Mailed on receipt of price. Hop Plaster Co., Boston, Mass. Beware of imitations with similar names.
HOP PLASTER

DR. FOOTE'S Original METHODS Made New without disturbing diet or change of climate. Cured without operation. Cured without restraint. Cured without exposure. No pain, no confinement, no interference with business. Debility, etc.; cured. Consultation and medical treatment FREE. Pamphlets of all kinds—pamphlets on painless, safe cure. HOME CURE! Address Dr. F. E. FOOTE, Pox 788, N. Y. City.

MONEY. $100 Per Month guaranteed to every full and reliable man who will work for us during the time or spare hours. No capital required. Address at once, with stamp, for particulars, which will convince you. Address HUNTINGTON & CO., 1 Barclay St., New York.

Consumption Can Be Cured.
DR. WM. HALL'S
FOR THE LUNGS. BALSAM
Cures Consumption, Colds, Pneumonia, Influenza, Bronchial Difficulties, Hoarseness, Soreness, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough and all Diseases of the Breathing Organs. It soothes and heals the Membranes of the Lungs, inflamed and irritated by the diseases, and prevents the night sweats. It relieves instantly the distressing paroxysms of Asthma, which accompany this terrible disease, and by its use many permanent cures have been effected. Sold by druggists. Price 25 cents and $1.00.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND IS A POSITIVE CURE FOR
All those painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best FEMALE POPULATION.
Price $1 a bottle, pill or lozenge form. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail, in the form of pills or lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box. Letters of inquiry cheerfully answered. Pamphlet mailed free. Address as above. Mention this paper. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
"It is my purpose to publish for the benefit of the afflicted, thousands of testimonials, voluntarily received, certifying to the wonderful cures of Nervousness, Prostration, Headache, Backache, Kidney Complaints, Bearing-down Pains, Inflammation, Ulceration, Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and especially Leucorrhœa, for which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recommended to be the best remedy the world has ever known." Extract from Mrs. Pinkham's letter.

$65 A MONTH and board for 3 live young men or ladies, to sell a staple article to consumers. Salary paid weekly. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., Chicago, Ill.

Simple copy of the Pearl's Friend, and its grand list of premiums, sent free to any address. Send no money. Address as above. Publishers, 10 Barclay St., New York.

MOST RELIABLE FOOD for INFANTS and CHILDREN
BRIDGES FOOD
THE BEST DIET for INVALIDS and INFANTS
ASK FOR HOPS & MALT BITTERS
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER
Liver and Kidney Remedy,
Compounded from the well known Curatives Hops, Malt, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, Sarsaparilla, Cascara Sagrada, etc., combined with the agreeable Aromatic Elixir.
THEY CURE DYSPEPSIA & INDIGESTION.
Act upon the Liver and Kidneys.
REGULATE THE BOWELS,
They cure Rheumatism, and all Urinary troubles. They purify the blood, nourish, strengthen and quiet the Nervous System.
As a Tonic they have no Equal.
Take none but Hops and Malt Bitters.
FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS.
Hops and Malt Bitters Co.
DETROIT, MICH.
TON IC

SAMARITAN NERVINE
NEVER FAILS.
"You claim too much for SAMARITAN NERVINE," says a skeptic. "How can one medicine be a specific for Epilepsy, Dyspepsia, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Weakness and many other complaints?" We claim it a specific, simply, because the virus of all diseases arises from the blood. Its Nervine, Resolvent, Alterative and Laxative properties meet all the conditions herein referred to. It's a known world wide as
THE GREAT
HERVE CONQUEROR
It quiets and composes the patient—not by the introduction of opiates and drastic cathartics, but by the restoration of activity to the stomach and nervous system, whereby the brain is relieved of morbid fancies, which are created by the causes above referred to.
Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all those whose employments of the mind causes nervous prostration, disorders of the blood, stomach, bowels or kidneys or who require a nervine, appetizer or stimulant, SAMARITAN NERVINE is invaluable. Thousands proclaim it the most wonderful invigorant that ever assisted the sinking system. $1.50. Sold by all Druggists.
SEE U. S. Professional circulars and statistics.
Dr. J. H. MCLEAN MED. CO., Proprietors,
ST. LOUIS, MO.
Lord, Stoutenburgh & Co., Agents, Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS WANTED for the best and fastest-selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices reduced 33 per cent. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

PENSIONS To soldiers and heirs. Send stamp for pamphlet. DAVID L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D.C.

EGGS How to Test Them. Sent free. Address, with stamp, Reliable Incubator Co., Little Falls, N.Y.

HOW TO LIVE THEM. Sent free. Address, with stamp, Reliable Incubator Co., Little Falls, N.Y.

DEAFNESS & HEAD NOISES CURED by Peck's Patent Improved Cushioned Ear Drums. Invisible, comfortable, always in position. Whispers heard. Write for book of proofs of cures. F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York.

TO SPECULATORS.
B. FINDLOM & CO. N. G. MILLER & CO.
Members of all principal Produce Exchanges in Chicago and New York. Will execute orders for Grain or Provisions for cash or on margin. Private telegraph wires between Chicago and New York. Will furnish reliable quotations and information. Correspondence solicited. Circulars containing full particulars, BOND, LINDLOM & CO., Chicago.

MUSTANG
Survival of the Fittest.
A FAMILY MEDICINE THAT HAS HEALED MILLIONS DURING 25 YEARS!
MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.
A BALM FOR EVERY WOUND OF MAN AND BEAST!
THE OLDEST & BEST LINIMENT EVER MADE IN AMERICA.
SALES LARGER THAN EVER.
The Mexican Mustang Liniment has been known for more than thirty-five years as the best of all Liniments, for Man and People. Its sales being now larger than ever. It excels when all others fail, and penetrates skin, builds up and imparts a healthy vigor to every bone. Sold everywhere.

PATENTS NO PATENT, NO PAY! Full instructions and Hand-Book of Patents sent free. E. G. SIGGERS & CO. Patent Attorneys, Washington, D.C.

FRAZER AXLE GREASE!
BEST IN THE WORLD. 1P Out the Genuine. Sold Everywhere.

CONSUMPTION.
There is positively no remedy for the above disease so effectual as Piso's Remedy for Consumption. Thousands have been cured. Indeed, we can say in all honesty that it has never failed in a single instance to give perfect satisfaction when directions were followed. Every bottle is warranted. Sold by druggists throughout the world. 25 cts.

MONEY TO LOAN
On Improved Farms in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. Interest 6 per cent. Principal payable at end of loan. Borrower can pay interest annually and principal at any time before due. Loans made promptly. Abstracts furnished. Correspondence solicited. Address BEN TOD SNYDER CO., Kinmundy, Ill.

Young Men LEARN TELEGRAPHY and earn $60 to $100 per month. Situations furnished. Circulars free. Valentine Bros., Janesville, Wis.

30 DAYS' TRIAL
DR. DYES
THE VOLTAIC BELT AND ELECTRIC APPLIANCES are sent on 30 Days' Trial TO MEN (Young or Old) suffering from Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality, Lost Manhood, Rheumatism, and many other diseases. Also for Piles, Kidney Troubles, Female Weakness, and many other diseases. Speedy relief and complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. Send at once for Illustrated Pamphlet, free.
Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Mich.

THE MAGIC REVEALER
Makes the Dim Eyes Clear as of Youth. Sent by mail for 25 cts. Address
CHICAGO BOOK CO., Box 3207, CHICAGO, ILL.

PISO'S CURE FOR CATARRH
Easy to use. A certain cure. Not expensive. Three Months treatment in one package. Mailed for 1.00 by the Hazel-Atlas Co., Wheeling, W. Va.

"WORK AND WIN."
A NEW STORY BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.
Commences next week in the ARGOSY. It is one of the most thrilling, interesting and delightful stories Mr. Alger has ever written, and delightful will all the readers of the ARGOSY be to learn that EVERY ONE SHALL BE PLEASED.

WHAT SUBSCRIBERS SAY.
I cannot speak too highly of the ARGOSY, my boys are very much pleased with it.—MRS. WINCHELL, Ohio.
THE ARGOSY has been so good this year I must have it another year.—MRS. H. BOWEN, Worcester, Mass.
I have taken a number of papers, but I never had one that I was so pleased with. I read it before I give it to the children, and I find it to be just as represented. I know of no better paper for children.—MRS. S. A. LOCKWOOD, Richland, Mich.
I subscribed for the ARGOSY another year if I had to all my nights's rest earn the money to pay for it in some way.—MRS. ED. L. TAMERSON, Ashe, N. Carolina.
I am so deeply interested in the ARGOSY I should not continue your name.—MRS. JOHN BRYANT.
I have been a reader of the ARGOSY for two years, and cannot now do without it. In fact could not when I have once read it.—MRS. ANNIE E. HOWARD, Ohio.
THE ARGOSY is the very best paper of the kind published. I have taken it for two years.—MRS. MARY STARR, Rockford, Ill.
I prize the ARGOSY above all publications. It is the best paper for boys published. Success to it. Long may it live.—MRS. H. S. HAMILTON, Chicago, Ill.

NOTICES FROM THE PRESS.
The GOLDEN ARGOSY is handsomely printed on tinted paper, and is filled with the choicest literature for the family circle.—Boston Journal.
Sparkling and pure, interesting and high-toned, the GOLDEN ARGOSY is a welcome visitant to the fireside.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.
The GOLDEN ARGOSY is a paper we would place first among all we have examined for the family circle.—Rev. E. Winchester, D.D., Editor Christian Witness.
Full of life and vim. It commends itself to those desiring a first-class paper for the family circle.—Rev. Dr. Hatfield, Christian Standard.
Fairly free, fun and frolic, and yet full of instruction in the reading publications.—Christian Union.
The publishers evidently understand what is required to make a first-class family paper.—Christian Intelligencer.
The GOLDEN ARGOSY is clever and bright, and will be welcome to the fireside.—Christian Advocate.
The GOLDEN ARGOSY is a first-class paper, full of interesting reading matter for young and old.—Rev. Dr. Deems, Editor of the New York Observer.
The GOLDEN ARGOSY is as far removed from the sensational literature of the day as the poles are asunder, and is a welcome visitant to the home circle.—Rev. Dr. Talmage, Editor Christian Herald.
The GOLDEN ARGOSY is a publication of the highest character, and is a welcome visitant to the family circle.—Rev. Dr. Vincent, Editor Sunday School Journal.

A FREE SUBSCRIPTION TO YOU. If you will Cut this Advertisement out and send it to us with your name and address, we will send you the ARGOSY for six months and you can read it and see for yourself what a splendid paper it is. We do this because we know that after you have read the ARGOSY for six months you will not be without it. Cut this out and send it to us at once. Address
THE ARGOSY PUBLISHING CO.
81 WARREN STREET, NEW YORK.

GIFTS! GIFTS! GIFTS! Take Notice! Take Notice! Take Notice

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., April 17, 1884.

A woman doesn't consistently use profane language, but the way she says "gracious" when she slips down is full of suitable meaning and inherent force.

The holders of vacant property on Bridge street will find business seeking other streets soon, if they do not build and give some one a chance to occupy.

There seems to be a sort of common supposition that northern Michigan will come to the front this year with a good crop of wheat, corn, oats, vegetables, and most all kinds of fruit. Should it prove so, look out for very much better times next fall and winter.

All over the state we hear of "hard-wood factories" being established. With its splendid timber and mineral resources Michigan will, in a few years rank first in the Union as a manufacturing state, and northern Michigan will lead in the great enterprises.

"A big Sunday loafer who made a nuisance of himself on the streets at Charlevoix was soundly thrashed by a indignant citizen. That man could make a fortune by hiring himself out as a special Sunday policeman in various Michigan towns and it would be a great help to public morality, too." Free Press.

There are business men and others who do not seem to know that the law makes it necessary for all dissolutions of partnerships to be advertised in a newspaper six weeks. See Howell's annotated statute, 1882 p. 621, § 2350. Also new partnerships formed, must be advertised as above. See § 2350, same page.

The benefits of manufacturing enterprises are beautifully illustrated in the case of Owosso in this state. Five years ago she gave a bonus for a manufactory, and now, although devoid of water transportation, she has 20 different kinds of enterprises of the character alluded to, and during that time they have increased her population over 2,000 souls.—Lumberman's Gazette.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and lose up the system you will find Parmelee's Oriental Horse Powders unequelled. Full pounds 40 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-66

Speaking of high tariff, it occurs to us that Mr. Henry George is deemed a thorough going, logical, clear headed and man-spoiled by the workingmen of the United States. Yet he teaches that our so-called protective system is a colossal device for plundering the wage-earner. Must we conclude that Henry George, too, is "bribed with British gold?"—New York Star.

In the spring nature intends that the human body should be relieved of the heavy stagnant humors which always accumulate during the winter months, and the very best medicine for so enobling the object is Parmelee's Blood Purifier. It will cleanse and purify the system and drive out all humors and impurity safely and quickly. Price 75c per large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-66

A revival of lynching will not do in large cities, however well it may be adapted to primitive rural communities where there is no well organized police or militia whose duty it is to fire upon any mob, no matter how good its motives. The only way in civilized communities to stop murder is to provide legal machinery which will strike terror into the hearts of the murderers. N. Y. Evening Post.

DANGER. Do you know that you are liable to attacks of Dyspepsia and all kinds of stomach derangement? Yes, worse still, to that result of kidney and liver disorder that is known as diabetes or possible Bright's disease. They are often fatal and that in a very short time. Loss of appetite, sour stomach, dizziness of vision, dizziness, pains in side and back and many others, are but symptoms of disease, to wise to time. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is the sovereign remedy. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Stress may be laid on the fact that the majority of the house have declared merely for the passage of a bill for the reduction of duties and war tariff taxes." The bill may not go a great way. The Morrison bill itself, as we have often pointed out, does not go very far. But so far as it does go, it goes in the right direction. On this line of march, moving steadily forward, we must reach at last complete success. Two thirds of the democratic party in congress have declared for revenue reform. If two thirds of the democratic party in the Chicago convention repeat the declaration, and if the people affirm the decision at the November polls, who can doubt that the battle is substantially won? Brooklyn Eagle.

Coughs and colds are the inevitable results of sudden changes in the weather. Immediate attention should be given to them, lest they may become established and result in Bronchitis, Congestion, Inflamation or even Consumption. Hamilton's Cough Balsam soothes the irritated membrane, and assists in removing phlegm and mucus, that, by its adhesion to the membrane, causes violent coughing. Great relief is received by even those in the last stages of consumption. In croup and whooping cough it is unequaled. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

We have endeavored to accommodate as many as possible during the winter, realizing that times have been hard, by waiting on many of our delinquents. Now we are in such a condition that the favor can be returned, and we hope all in arrears will cheerfully accommodate us by making prompt settlements, thereby saving us the necessity of personal solicitation for the amounts due. Especially let our foreign subscribers remit the amounts due before we are compelled to send out bills. It takes money to run a newspaper, and the past winter has witnessed close times. We have enough standing out to settle all claims against the office, and there is no reason why we should not have the amounts due us. It is true they are small, but in the aggregate they amount to a considerable sum.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one section of land more with cultivation. One good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, and broke to come and go over old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine Lake. J. A. BACOT. 35tf

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 cts. a Can.

A. L. CARR.

GEO. W. MILLER,
DEALER IN CLOTHING,
GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,
ETC.
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

Is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,
A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

WILL M. GILBERT,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING.

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Co[illegible]any

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.
ADVANCE, MICH.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1873

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition

L. B. Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings

Boots and Shoes

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at prices as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm.

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 41. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

(Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

BUCKMANK & GIBER, Attorneys at Law, Rooms in Buttars' Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
C. CRUCKSHANK. C. J. GIBER.

STRONG & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

STRONG & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

EDWARD W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

CHAS. J. JESSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office in United States Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

CHAS. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building, entrance on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich.

WILLIAM A. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

STRONG, SEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

CHARLES F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

JOHN GARECUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX—Capital $50,000. Deposit department. Deposits secured by first class real estate, and notes for more than above amount, and loans on first mortgages. Foreign and home exchange. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7. In the school house.
C. F. VANAKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning services. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.
J. T. HOUGHTON, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX ROUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Thursday evenings of each month, at the town hall.
B. C. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

J. C. PITFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Specific Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

A. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, Thorough Bass. Classes forming and hours at residence of Geo. W. Bell, on Bridge street.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. D. EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class horses and carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

C. C. CHRISTENSEN, M. D.
Office at the Ingleside.

WM. M. D. Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. C. GRAVES, M. D.
Office in See Block, Charlevoix.

J. H. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

WM. N. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agent, Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

Star, Lodge No. 198, meets second and fourth Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 297, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

Beaver Island Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Saturday evening, in their hall.

Pine River No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets Monday on or before full moon. Hall over Bank.

A. E. DURAND, President.
Vice President.

Charlevoix Banks' & Farmers' Bank, OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money loaned on approved paper at reasonable rates. Collections given careful attention. Remittances made promptly.
G. S. TIDMAN, Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Reasonable.

On Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

HERBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Boyne paper and envelopes with Charlevoix, at H. R. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

☞ WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE. ☜

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CHILLS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

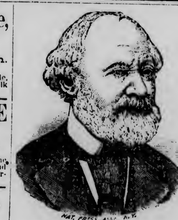
Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

PIMPLES.

I will mail, (free) the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES, and blackheads, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also, positive cure for pruriginous or scurfy growth of hair on face, hands or smooth faces. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, DR. VANDYE & CO., 7 Barclay St., N. Y.



MAT. PRATT & SON, N. Y.

CHARLES READE,

The Deceased Novelist.

Charles Reade, the eminent English novelist, who died in London, April 11, was born in 1814, at Ipsden house, Oxfordshire, England. His father was an eminent scholar, and his mother a lady of unusual intellectual strength. He was educated at Magdalen College, Oxford. After graduation he read law, gained a Vinerian fellowship at the University of Oxford, in 1842, and was called to the bar the year after. He never practised law, but adopted a literary life, occupying its earlier years in writing for newspapers and magazines. His first novel was "Peg Woffington," published in 1853. "Christie Johnstone," issued the same year, was well received. "It is never too late to mend," produced in 1856, dealt severely with certain abuses of prison discipline, and created great excitement. Henceforward every work from Mr. Reade's pen was welcomed eagerly. The list of his works includes, in addition to those already mentioned, "The Course of True Love," "Jack of All Trades," "Love Me Little, Love Me Long," "White Lies," "The Cloister and Heurth," "Hard Cash," "Griffith Gaunt," "Put Yourself in His Place," and "A Terrible Temptation." His pen has proved exceptionally powerful, dealing incidently with social wrongs, and severely condemning their perpetrators.

Few writers, if any, have covered a wider range than he in the variety of fiction originating in the view of motives and impulses arising from other passions than that of love.

Charles Reade was a successful dramatist. He published "Gold" in 1843, the first of his plays. "Masks and Faces," "Two Lovers and a Life," and "The King's Rival," followed at intervals. Several of his stories have been dramatized, notably "Griffith Gaunt," by Augustin Daly. American readers will remember Mr. Reade's suit against the New York Times because it had characterized "Griffith Gaunt" as an immoral production. Six cents damages were awarded the irate novelist by the jury sitting on the case. The deceased writer was a man of great force and originality of character. He loved and hated with vehemence. His pen was far from being squeamish, for it wrote the truth, and he was unquestionably a great master of the knowledge of human nature.

No Cards for Phil.

"Card room, eh?" remarked a reporter as he glanced into Phil Milligans little office under the stairway.

"Well, I should say not," replied the genial manager with considerable emphasis. "I fairly hate the sight of a card. I should rather have a rattlesnake in my hand than a card, for I could take the rattlesnake up to the museum and make him of some use to me, but I've no use for cards."

"You must have played 'em up high some night when the other fellow held the best hand," said the reporter inquiringly.

"No, it wasn't poker that made me hate cards, but only a quiet game of seven-up. Shortly after the close of the war my partner and myself had a nice place in Philadelphia and were doing a big business. We had a habit, whenever business was slack, of sitting down in the office and playing a game of old sledge for the beer or cigars. I used to drink beer in those days, but I quit it long ago. One day he and I and a man who worked for us were playing a game for the cigars—three for a quarter. It was very close, and at the end I had it in my power to give the game to either one of them. I thought my partner could stand it better than the fellow who was working on a salary, and so I stuck him.

"Well, sir, he got mad and abused me so that I got mad and chucked the cards into the stove. That made him madder still, and before night we had dissolved partnership, I paying him a big bounu to get out. Then he went and rented a place next door, and started in opposition to me, and we went to running each other. He thought he could run me out, and I thought I could run him out, and we kept thinking so until we both went broke. The sheriff sold me out—didn't even have the mermaid left. I haven't played a card since I played that game in Philadelphia. They're altogether too expensive a luxury."—Detroit Free Press.

The Triumph of Paste.

A man was busily engaged in pasting patent medicine advertisements on the posts supporting the awnings in front of a block of stores in Eighth avenue at 1 o'clock the other morning.

"Why do you work at this time of night?" he was asked.

"So's the owners of the stores won't see me. A good many of them object to our sticking bills upon their property. In the day time we have to ask permission. In the night nobody sees us. There was an old fellow in Tenth avenue who had some big posts in front of his grocery. I wanted to stick up some bills for a variety show, and went and asked him if I might. He was a pious old chap—a deacon, I've heard—and he got awful mad when I told him what the bills were. He came as near swearing as a deacon could—said 'by Godfrey,' if I remember rightly—and said I ought to be ashamed of myself to be pasting up such things. He talked pretty mean, and I got riled. Thinks I, old fellow, I'll stick up these bills on your old shebang if I died for it. He had heavy board shutters on the windows, and, of course, they were swung back in the daytime. I slipped around when there wasn't anybody looking and pasted one of the best pictures on the back of every shutter. When night came they pulled the shutters to from the inside and went away without noticing the bills. The next day was Sunday, and if it wasn't a circus to see the boys around that building looking at the pictures. There wasn't another building like it anywhere in the neighborhood, and it drew well all day. I heard the deacon nearly burst a blood vessel when he got around the next morning. He had to have the shutters all taken off and soaked in hot water before the bills would peel off. Dry work talking, ain't it?"

Sound Doctrine.

Every physician and every scientist who has made a study of the physical and mental organization of man will tell him that no man can violate any of the laws of nature without taking something from himself something which he can never get back. This is true of the physical, mental and moral man. No matter what a man's religious belief may be, there are certain rules of morals which, if he violates, he pays the penalty for, and no matter what his ideas of physical life may be there are rules governing just as inflexible, the violation of which brings penalty just as certain. The indomitable ambition and the wonderful will of Napoleon impelled him to labor when he should have slept, and he died young. An unusually strong constitution may enable a man to eat or drink too much for years, but he pays the penalty in a shortened life and a premature old age. A man may drink so much beer a day and live to be 100, without it he would have lived to be 150.—Toledo Blade.

The Darwinian Man.

A lady fair, of lineage high,
Was loved by an ape in the days gone by.
The maid was radiant as the sun,
The ape was a most monstrous one.
But it won't do,
It won't do, do,
For the modern touch has brought formal shape,
Expressed each terror
At his monstrous error,
That he stammered an apology and made his 'scape.

The picture of a disconcerted ape.

With a view to rise in the social scale,
He shaved his whiskers and docked his tail.
He grew mustaches, and he took his tub—
And he's a regular fixture in a toilet club—
But it won't do, do,
For subsequent research through,
For the maid was brought to Fairest Queen,
With gowns in fashion
Like a real princess's,
While the ape, despite his razor keen,
Was the ugliest ape that ever was seen.

He bought white ties, and he bought dress suits,
He crammed his feet into bright light boots,
And to assist his life on a fixed new plan,
He christened himself Darwinian Man!
But it would not do,
His scheme fell through—
For the maiden was fair, from the monkey craved,
Was a radiant being,
With a brain for seeing,
While a shaved monkey, though well-behaved,
At best is only a monkey shaved.

Gilbert & Sullivan's new opera, "Princess Ida."

Mr. Irving Tells a Good Story.

The queen, as he who wishes may read, has often made visits both of pleasure and policy, to her estates in Scotland, being at such times more than heartily welcomed by the canny Scots, who, almost without exception, highly reverence her and indorse all that she does.

On one occasion, shortly after a visit to her castle in the outskirts of Balmoral, (diesel aptness), Mr. Irving, who was traveling through the country met an old Scotchwoman with whom he spoke of her Majesty.

"The Queen's a good woman," said he.

"I suppose she's gude enough, but there are things I canna bear."

"What do you mean?" asked Mr. Irving.

"Well, I think there are things that even the Queen has no richt to do. For one thing, she goes rowin on the lak on Sunday—and it's not a Chrestian thing to do!"

"But you know the bible tells us—"

"I knaw," she interrupted angrily. "I've read the bible since I was so high, an' I knaw every word in't. I knaw about the Sunday fishing and a' the other things the good lord did, but I want ye to know, too, that I don't think any the more o'en of Him, for aboun' it."—Boston Cor. N. Y. Graphic.

It is a mistake to suppose that the Princess of Wales is the leader of fashion in London. Were she so, crinolettes, high shoulders, and inordinately high heels would never have been seen, nor loud combinations of color and elaborate head gear. The Princess is celebrated for being always dressed in quiet and perfect taste. She goes in for a rather severe article of tailor-made garments just now. Of course she is imitated. If she appears in a gray or pink hat, many are the gray and pink hats to be seen; but for one who will follow the Princess' quiet, lady-like style, twenty will follow the lead of some eccentric or celebrated actress.

They Shook.

At Toledo a sharp-looking young man boarded the Detroit-bound train, and after looking over the passengers in one of the coaches, he took a seat beside a traveler with a face as honest as a four-dollar bill. Just as the train was about to start the young man suddenly said:

"My friend, I am on my way to Detroit to see my mother die."

"Eh! that's too bad."

"I haven't got any money with me, but I'll give you my watch for security if you'll lend me $20 until we reach Detroit."

"Let's see the ticker."

The watch was a galvanized affair, worth about fifty cents per pound. The man with the four-dollar face examined it, shook it, and put it in his pocket. Then he slowly drew a $20 bill from his vest pocket and handed it over to the young man. The latter simply glanced at it, and then the two smiled. Then they shook hands. Then the watch and the bill changed back.

The watch was a dead swindle and the bill a counterfeit; and both belonged to the "profesh."

Character.

The only drawback to enthusiasm in any good cause is that it may so absorb us as to prevent us from recognising something else equally needful. We were large enough to include both; the more zeal we possessed the better; but, as we are limited in power, we should beware of exhausting it in a single direction. It may be considered at least questionable whether, in our rightful desire to promote intellectual education among our people, we are not in some danger of forgetting the education of character. We do not, because we cannot, overrate the importance of the former, but we may, and probably do, greatly underrate the value of the latter.

Five hundred artists now have studios in New York City.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

FOREIGN brokers are making heavy purchases in this country of the silver trade dollar at a discount of 10 per cent or more. There are now about 7,000,000 trade dollars in this country, a large majority of which are held by merchants

ROSTOV, Russia, enjoys the horrible distinction of being the only city in the world containing a society for the murder of children. Its method is to poison them with narcotics, and it is said that its members have been investigated to it by a fanatical woman, who says: "It is every woman's duty to spare the evils of life to as many children as possible, and to make them share in the bliss of heaven before the earth has contaminated their souls."

THAT cats were ever designed for any useful end people have often expressed a doubt. It looks now, however, as if the cat had found its true position. They are being used by Paris milliners as ornaments for hats and head-dresses. Small stuffed kittens are the most fashionable trimmings for broad-brimmed hats. Thus far only one cat to a hat has been used, but as the raw material for this sort of trimming is unlimited the wealth of the wearer can only be represented by increasing the number of the ornaments.

THE farmers of New York State are making the most serious charges of butter adulteration against the farmers of the West and the butterine manufacturers of Chicago. But we notice that the Adulteration Investigating Senate Committee of that State are flishing up some damaging testimony against those same New York farmers themselves. Thus, Dr. E. W. Martin, a chemist, testified, among other things, that in one factory at Chester, Orange County, he discovered that the cheese made consisted principally of pure lard, the parts being in the proportion of 75 per cent. lard to 25 per cent. butter. He also said that of thirty samples of butter purchased of various retailers in New York and Brooklyn, all of which were sold as pure, all were more or less adulterated, there not being more than 10 per cent of pure butter in them. Dr. E. G. Love, a chemist who analyzed the samples, said it ought to be required that on each package of such spurious butter its constituent elements should be declared.

IN France surgeons like to manufacture little pleasantries to show the uncertainties of medicine, and the doctors delight in doing the same thing for surgery. The doctors are now telling the following: The victim of an explosion was pierced through and through by an iron drill. The surgeon felt his pulse. "You are wounded, sir," said he; "you have fever." "I know I'm wounded," said the patient; "you threw feet of iron in my stomach." "Do these accidents often happen in your family?" "Not very often." "Have you ever had such a trouble before?" "First time I ever had it." "It must embarrass you to lie upon your back." "Yes, sir." "And upon your stomach." "Very much so." "You would be easier on your side." "Yes, slightly." "Very well. You have a drill through your body; two courses are open to you—leave the drill where it is and die of inflammation, or extract it and bleed to death. Science will do its best, but you must choose for yourself and take the responsibility as to your life; all at our patients do that."

THE proposition to celebrate, in 1892, the tenth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus Co-lumbus excites opposition, although it is idea of the king of Spain, that the ceremonies ought to be held in his country, is not at all objected. The Independent has somewhat to say on the subject. Admiral Porter, of New York, "the metropolis of commerce, arts, and science, and the great emporium of all that is wonderful on this continent," seems to be the proper person. Mark Hopkins, however, says that any celebration is needed, but this city is the best site for one. Chauncey Wentworth Thogmorton favors a procession of ships from the landing place of Columbus, if anybody can identify it, to New York harbor. Charles Dudley Warner would like to see Columbus' remains removed to this country; but he confesses a lukewarmness as to glorifying a man who "never saw America, and never believed he had found it." S. Ireneus Prime advises a world's convention in the interest of universal peace.

GIVING up seats to women has almost entirely gone out of fashion in the elevated cars. Whether or not the reason is the cushioned comfort which must be relinquished in order to obey the old custom, or that there is a general decline in practical tenderness toward the gentle sex, the correspondent does not explain. No matter how young or handsome a woman may be, he asserts, or how well dressed, she is usually left standing in a crowded car. Wall street brokers, professional men on their way home from down town, merchants with excellent manners—all these now sit complacently while women stand at their very knees. Old women are an exception to this new rule of city railroading, and there is one other, according to an observer. During the hours of the late afternoon, when the cars are full of mechanics and working women, mixed in with shoppers in finery, the men in the garb of labor will relinquish their seats readily to those whose dress similarly betokens toil, but never to those who are arrayed for leisure.

A EUROPEAN journal relates that a few months since, workmen employed on some constructions on the bank of the River Dnieper, in Central Russia, employed the electric light to enable them to prosecute their labors at night. The brilliant rays of the light attracted so many millions of nocturnal moths, beetles, and other insects, that from time to time it was necessary to stop work and set all hands to destroying the clouds of winged victims that frequently obscured the light. This suggested the idea of employing the light to destroy nocturnal insects prejudicial to agriculture, and experiments in that direction are to be tried next spring. Not only to insects, but to fish, the light proved fatally attractive. Its rays, directed to the surface of the water, drew together vast quantities of all the fishes found in the Dnieper, and when within the charmed field of illumination they lay crowded together in masses, seemingly blinded and stupefied. The workmen, improving the opportunity made a notable haul of fish.

THE capture of a thief under very exceptional circumstances is reported from Paris. He contrived to gain admission to a set of chambers during the absence of the lawful occupant, and proceeded to lay hands on everything of value he could find. In the midst of this operation it occurred to him that his wardrobe was in urgent need of renewal, and he therefore took off his clothes with a view of replacing them by others he found in the room. Scarcely, however, had he reduced himself to the garb of primitive man, when he heard a step outside, and promptly hid himself under the bed. Some one entered the room, and the thief lay noiseless for several minutes. At length the newcomer departed, and he ventured to leave his hiding place. But, much to his disgust, he discovered that the visitor had been a gentleman in his own way of business, for not only was everything in the chamber carried off, but even his own suit of clothes had disappeared! He was therefore compelled to await the return of the owner of the property, who handed him over to the police.

IN most of the States a belief in the existence of a Supreme Being is necessary to constitute a person a competent witness in a court of law. How far a witness' religious faith can be required into became a question recently decided by the Supreme Court of New Hampshire. The court said there was never law in a referee's refusal to allow a man to be asked, on cross-examination, whether the spirit of Daniel Webster was present aiding him in the trial, and whether he had been assisted by departed spirits in obtaining information. Our scientific men have been an error of law to allow those interrogatories. It was a question of fact how far the proposed inquiry could usefully go for the purpose of discovering the credit of the witness. "A man is competent to testify who believes in the existence of God," he said, "and that divine punishment either in this life or the life to come will be the consequence of perjury. No judicious tribunal is bound to inquire whether a witness be a Protestant or a Romanist, Mormon, Jew, or Gentile, a Spiritualist or a Materialist."

CONCENTRATION is the secret of strength in politics, in war, in trade; in short, in all management of human affairs.—Power.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Baby's Letter.

Here in this casket you may behold
Something more precious to me than gold,
For the crumpled scrap of paper there,
Enclosing a lock of soft, bright hair.
And pe'haps you'll be as charmingly,
Is my own grandson's letter to me,
Where not in vain did his Babyhood
Struggle to make himself understood.

A world of odors, and light, and song,
Such as to fancy belong,
Seem part of this letter; for, don't you see,
He is just as sweet as a baby can be.
To think the darling—you needn't laugh—
Hurried there like this in a year and a half,
With his blessed own little disrupted hand,
And sent them to me—oh! oc Babyland.

His words still few, he scarce has met
The fitting one for his purpose yet,
But the love in his all-loving heart,
Beyond expression, is here expressed.
There's round circles and awkward angles,
And tabbed lines, like thread in tangles,
Are riddles—riddles that grandma can guess
To be stories of chokingly close caresses.

And what was ever more plain than this
Uncle Jack making love, "I kiss"—
A prophecy of love's new romance,
Bringing the old to remembrance.
This letter shines clear as a heavenly ray
The angel side of my mortal way.
And, ryhme, I, herself my grandboy stand
On the sunnies summit of Baryland.
—Wide Awake.

Purpose, and No Purpose.

"Look here, Alf, I've got something to amuse you. Don't bother any longer with that tiresome stuff."

"Thank you, Mark, but I'm interested in this thing, and I want to finish the job this afternoon."

"O, comn on! To-morrow'll do just as well. I've got a box of dominos. Let's have a quiet little game. The crash is of no account, any way."

It was a very humdrum piece of business that the two boys—Alfred Reed and Mark Prince—were talking about. The scene was the basement of the dry goods jobbing house of Wigan, Bonnet & Co. Alfred had just opened a bale of Russian crash, and was proceeding to "take the inwards" for comparison with the number charged in the invoice. It was a rainy afternoon in the dull season. The senior partner was the only member of the firm on the premises, and he was reading the paper in his office upstairs. The older clerks and salesmen were lounging here and there, or making pretexts of business in the other departments of the store. Mark flourished his long legs contemptuously at Alfred's face; but the boy was firm, and continued to tell off the yards to himself with provoking deliberation. At length he hastily jotted down some figures upon a bill of paper and compared them with the memorandum. A shade of annoyance appeared upon his face. He turned to his comrade:

"Now, Mark, you have badgered me into a blunder. Please leave me alone for the present. If you like, I will come to your house this evening and try a hand at dominos. The dentist is at billiards. But just now I have something more important at hand."

At this appeal Mark turned away, muttering to himself what a solemn old stick Alf Reed was.

And here, let us look at this point a minute and see what sort of a "stick" Alf might truly be called. The two boys were fair samples of two sorts of clerks that may be found in almost every commercial house—the former in the employ of Wigan, Bonnet & Co., about six months before this date, Mark being then just "in," or junior clerk. The task of sweeping out the store, dusting the counters and tills, and arranging the goods, was divided between the two—the direct goods and woolens falling to the charge of Mark, and the white goods and domestics to Alfred. It did not take long for young Reed to discover that Mark was a thorough shirk. He had a bustling and obsequious manner in the presence of his employers, but when out of their sight he did as little as possible.

On the contrary, Alfred entered the store, as he said, to work, and to learn the business. Consequently, he never wasted a minute, but did all his duties promptly and thoroughly. He had not held his position many weeks when Mark proposed that they should do their work of both. By way of compensation, Mark offered him one-half of his pocket-money, which, as those boys yielded quite a handsome amount of pocket money to the boys. Alfred accepted the offer, and thereafter made his appearance at the store one hour earlier than before, while Mark lounged in just in season to escape detection by his superiors.

The members of the firm had not failed to notice the superiority of the new boy over his predecessor, and but a short time previous to this date had shown him a special mark of confidence. He was permitted to take the store keys to his own home at night, whereas shabbies Mark had been compelled to make a long journey out of his way to leave them at the house of the junior partner.

Now to return to the humdrum matter of the crash. It was required of the boys, that in opening packages of goods they should examine the contents and compare them with the invoices. But Mark had always hooked upon crash as a special bore. To begin with, the pieces were chalked with mysterious symbols, which denoted Russian measures of length; these had to be translated into English yards, and so marked on the goods. This being accomplished, Mark had fallen into the lazy habit of omitting to test up the total.

"Oh, crash is of no cause pounce!" he said, and so proceeded without mic to check the bill as corrected.

It happened that the crash which Alfred was opening was a sample lot from a new manufacturer. Mr. Domett had flattered himself that in buying it he had done a good thing. After Mark walked away, Alfred became absorbed again in his examination. His first looking of the yards had proved incorrect. As soon as he was left to himself he went over them again. To his surprise, he found the figures agreed with his former total, being about fifty yards over the invoice amount. He again reviewed his work with the same result.

"Perhaps the wrong yards are entered for this bale," he muttered to himself; "I'll try another."

He opened a second bale, and an examination revealed a similar discrepancy. Alfred was puzzled, and again carefully compared the bill and the marks upon the bales. There could be no mistake. The goods were short. Then a new idea struck him. He seized a yardstick and began measuring the pieces. As he had begun to suspect, every piece fell short.

"Ah, Mr. Russian!" Alfred chuckled, "did you think you were going to take W., D. & Co. in?"

He started up stairs in search of the book-keeper, and met Mr. Wigan, who was making a tour of inspection about the store. In reply to an inquiry what he was doing, Alfred related his experience with the crash. Mr. Wigan at once became interested. He went below with Alfred and superintended a fresh examination, which gave the same results as the former one. Then he ordered a third bale opened, but this proved to be as short as the others.

"Hm, Ks," muttered Mr. Wigan, as he slowly returned to his office, "put that crash aside. Read, till further orders."

"By Jove!" cried the jolly Mark, who had happened around just at the time, "you have made a ten strike with old Wigan, Alf, and he won't forget it. He does hate dreadfully to be cheated."

Now the upshot of this humdrum crash affair, which was too petty altogether for lofty and lazy Mark, was this: The goods were speedily returned to the agent, and, as the invoice was a heavy one, the firm was spared no little loss and vexation.

A few days afterward, Mr. Domett, who was standing near the woolen counter, beckoned to Alfred.

"Reed, see her," he said, "are you a judge of woolen goods? Can you tell which of these is the best?"

Alfred, rather hesitatingly, expressed a preference for one of the pieces.

"Yes, yes; you are correct," said Mr. Domett; "that's as good a piece as we have in stock. Just cut off enough for a coat-pattern, will you, and find something to match it for vest and trousers. Take anything you like. I owe the suit made up at Smithers's and charged to the firm. I think, Alfred," he added, slowly, "that you are a very likely boy." And, after this wonderful outburst of commendation from the dignified Mr. Domett, that gentleman walked away, with an approving nod of the head.

It is not the object of this narrative to trace the subsequent career of the two boys in detail. The thoughtful reader can easily guess how they came out. But if you want to see Mark to-day, you can find him in the army of clerks and inefficient drudges that crowd once a certain unimportant grade. And, furthermore, if you care to meet Alfred Reed, you will go respectfully to a well-known office, over the door of which his name figures in a firm that is held in the highest honor in all commercial circles.—Golden Argosy.

Balwer's Gipsy Love.

The recently published autobiography of Edward Bulwer-Lytton furnishes some interesting facts about that peculiar character. Before leaving Cambridge he had exercised his experience with some vacation adventures, including an encounter with a highwayman, a night in a lonely cottage where an attempt was made to murder him, and an amour with a pretty young gypsy, in whose camp he spent five or six days of romantic dalliance.

"One morning she was unusually silent and reserved. I asked her, reproachfully, why she was so cold.

"'Tell me,' she said abruptly, 'tell me truly, do you love me?'

"'I do, indeed.' And so I thought.

"'Will you marry me, then?'

"'Marry you? Jerical ughast. 'Marry? Alfred would not deceive you—that is impossible.'

"'I don't mean,' she cried impetuously, but not seemingly hurt at my refusal—'I don't mean as you mean—marriage according to your fashion; I never had a thought of that; but marry me as we marry.'

"'How is that?'

"'You will break a piece of burnt earth with me—a tile, for instance, into two halves.'

"'Well?'

"'In grandmother's presence. That will be marriage. It lasts only five years. It is not long,' she said pleadingly. 'And, if you want to leave me before, how could I stay you?'

"'Poor, dear child—for child, after all, she was in years and in mind—how charming she looked then. Alas! I went farther for a wife and fared worse."

Rusty Marriages.

Hasty marriages of young persons increase. Parents do not seem to be able to prevent it. The trouble is far back of marriage, and even of its acquaintance. Girls never were left more to themselves than now. Family connections and history are not inquired into. Late hours are allowed. Parties, picnics, church fairs, and all sorts of entertainments are visited without supervision. Sunday school acquaintances are not always safe. Parents should not put too much trust in their children's judgment. Novels and daily papers stimulate the love of adventure. Strain restraint will not suffice. The mother must be more of a companion to her daughter; the father, the confidential friend to his son.—Christian Advocate.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

The Webster-Parkman Case.

Witnesses.

One of the most remarkable cases that ever occurred in the criminals was the Parkman murder, which took place in Boston, on Nov. 23, 1849. Early in the day, Dr. Parkman, a man of wealth and standing in his profession, left his home's mane has a list of things wanted. They are strapped on his back. The animal never nibble grass, but goes the nearest to a brisk trot.

Charles Dickens was in America the first time he dined at the house of the Harper brothers, well-known publishers. A little time after came to the table. Dickens was on his knees, and said a very fine boy, indeed; you are one of the greatest pirate on

EDWARD, Prince of Wales, will have a large fund of good humor, in this respect differs from his father Guelph that ever lived. In accomadating himself to the and accepting a position on the occasion of inquiry into the condition of the poor, he has displayed much tact. His action in this matter will certainly increase his the time fish story. Last year, April 4, Mc., there were taken about 47,400 barrels of mackerel, 1,000 barrels of herring, and 7,000 barrels of shad. This gave employment to 2,920 men. There were also 2,000 quintals of codfish and 1,000 barrels of lobsters, and 1,000,000 pounds of haddock were taken and sold. The more the reader thinks of this, the more it will think that a much "1,000,000" is, the fish look like a fish story.

Recently railway, M. De Lesseps, the first compartment at 9 o'clock drops into the first vacant seat. Then he scrutinizes the passengers sharply. If he can find no conversation with one of them in front, he folds his arms, shuts up and only wakes up when the train is reached. At sea, he is both, fast asleep, all the while at his meals. On a train from Marseilles to Alexandria, 120 hours, he spent 107 hours in bed. He has given up lemonade, but still takes much horse-

The opening ceremony took place at Durham, England, recently, on one of the "home-coming" of a Hall after twenty years' absence for wife murder. Many of the people, it is stated, met the railway station and gave the enthusiastic reception, greeting the returned with cheers until he was driven away with his relatives. These signs of sympathy and esteem must have appeared hollow. Twenty years ago, locked in a cell, awaiting rather serious offense, even in the case of Hall, it was a murder circumstances of extenuation.

Kansas school-boys are dangerous. One of them, named Gold, spent a short vacation in the country lately, and while operated the affections of a farmer that she took poison to die when he failed to answer. She said she wanted to die "like Fitz Edward St. Maur in Ten Nights in a Bar Room." Her father had pumped out and her life was saved. She then wrote to the youth who had caused her to ought to be ashamed of himself. He would come up to that school again some time to relish his within an inch of his own that second visit occurs he will have aged by many

The population of Cochin China is reported to amount to about a million and a half. Of these only 1,825 were Europeans, and 4,193 were Annamites, and these. A book lately published by Messrs. Boulmin, Government official in Java & Paulus gives a very account of the Annamites. They are a treacherous race, and to be readily called a people who others whom every opportunity. Its existence has been traced back to the days of Edward. The wood is very hard and solid. The back and sides were formerly of the same colors, and the seat is made of a rough-looking sand-stone 26 inches in length, 17 in breadth and 10 in thickness, and in this stone lies the grand peculiarity of the chair. Numberless legends are told in connection with it, the truth probably being that it was originally taken from Ireland to Scotland and served as the coronation chair of the early Scottish kings.—Pall Mall Gazette.

E JOURNAL

CHAS. J. STRANG.

VOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

nuel Chenworth, who lives ge of Cowboy, Kan., owns hich he sends to a store three nt for provisions. A note ittle fine, he did not the case of the Harper brothers, known publishers. A little me to the table. Dickens on his knees, and said: very fine boy, indeed; you es of the greatest pirate on

EDWARD, Prince of Wales, have a large fund of good humor, in this respect differs from his father Guelph that ever lived. In accomadating himself to and accepting a position on the occasion of inquiry into the condition of the poor, he has displayed much tact. His action in this matter will certainly increase his

the time fish story. Last year, April 4, Mc., there were taken about 47,400 barrels of mackerel, 1,000 barrels of herring, and 7,000 barrels of shad. This gave employment to 2,920 men. There were also 2,000 quintals of codfish and 1,000 barrels of lobsters, and 1,000,000 pounds of haddock were taken and sold. The more the reader thinks of this, the more it will think that a much "1,000,000" is, the fish look like a fish story.

Recently railway, M. De Lesseps, the first compartment at 9 o'clock drops into the first vacant seat. Then he scrutinizes the passengers sharply. If he can find no conversation with one of them in front, he folds his arms, shuts up and only wakes up when the train is reached. At sea, he is both, fast asleep, all the while at his meals. On a train from Marseilles to Alexandria, 120 hours, he spent 107 hours in bed. He has given up lemonade, but still takes much horse-

The opening ceremony took place at Durham, England, recently, on one of the "home-coming" of a Hall after twenty years' absence for wife murder. Many of the people, it is stated, met the railway station and gave the enthusiastic reception, greeting the returned with cheers until he was driven away with his relatives. These signs of sympathy and esteem must have appeared hollow. Twenty years ago, locked in a cell, awaiting rather serious offense, even in the case of Hall, it was a murder circumstances of extenuation.

Kansas school-boys are dangerous. One of them, named Gold, spent a short vacation in the country lately, and while operated the affections of a farmer that she took poison to die when he failed to answer. She said she wanted to die "like Fitz Edward St. Maur in Ten Nights in a Bar Room." Her father had pumped out and her life was saved. She then wrote to the youth who had caused her to ought to be ashamed of himself. He would come up to that school again some time to relish his within an inch of his own that second visit occurs he will have aged by many ites to the brutality with which they have been governed. Their chief defects are a lack of perseverance and of gratitude. France has only had this colony about twenty years.

The population of Cochin China is reported to amount to about a million and a half. Of these only 1,825 were Europeans, and 4,193 were Annamites, and these. A book lately published by Messrs. Boulmin, Government official in Java & Paulus gives a very account of the Annamites. They are a treacherous race, and to be readily called a people who others whom every opportunity. Its existence has been traced back to the days of Edward. The wood is very hard and solid. The back and sides were formerly of the same colors, and the seat is made of a rough-looking sand-stone 26 inches in length, 17 in breadth and 10 in thickness, and in this stone lies the grand peculiarity of the chair. Numberless legends are told in connection with it, the truth probably being that it was originally taken from Ireland to Scotland and served as the coronation chair of the early Scottish kings.—Pall Mall Gazette.

DR. SAVORY says in the British Medical Journal that among the chief causes of injury to the health from gambling, is the prolonged mental strain which becomes necessary to the maintenance of self-control during extended periods of intense excitement. He cites the case of a lady who had lately returned from Monte Carlo much broken down in health, and greatly weakened by the severe fits of exhaustion from which she invariably suffered after an hour or two at the gaming table. She said that her ability to continue the game was determined by the extent of her power to sustain an aspect of indifference in the presence of spectators.

ATLANTA Constitution: The committee in charge of the matter has selected for the late Senator Hill's statue the following inscriptions from his writings: "He who saves his country saves all things and all things saved do bless him; who lets his country die lets all things die—dies himself, ignobly—and all things do curse him." On the reverse side: "The Constitution should know no section, but should know all the States." On one side piece: "We are in our father's house, our brothers are our companions, and we are here to stay, thank God, forever." On the other side will be a brief record of the Senator's public and professional life. The statue is rapidly approaching completion.

IN full season millions of dollars were often turned in one night at Crockford's celebrated gambling club in London. The net profits of the season were $750,000, and yet the weekly expenses averaged $5,000. The fitting up of the house cost nearly $250,000. Crockford's was ostensibly organized as a club, and the committee elected the members, but any one who had a fortune to lose could easily obtain admission. The Duke of Wellington was an original member, but was never known to enter the hazard-room. For ten years before Crockford's was started there was very high play at Watier's (the principal frequenters of which were hopelessly ruined), at Brookes', and also at White's, where the late Lord Granville was the great player. He is said to have been nearly a million to the bad at the end of his career, although at one time he had won $550,000. Lord Granville once lost $415,000 at hazard at a single sitting of seven hours, and $50,000 at one night's whist.

Forty-seven years ago three men, Mr. Miller, Mr. Dorr, and Mr. Merritt, went to settle in a Pennsylvania village, Miller built a tavern and sawmill. For forty-four years Miller ran the tavern and sawmill; for forty-four years Dorr boarded in the tavern; for forty-four years Merritt sawed in the mill, the three never missing a day's work, Miller making a fortune. The sawmill had of late years cost $400 per year more than it could make. Mr. Miller had decided his property to his son, and not long ago this son sold the tavern and mill, against his father's wishes, who was 75 years old, and whose one great wish it was to die in that tavern where he had so long lived. Mr. Miller took to his bed and died immediately. The next morning his old friend and champion, Dorr, was found dead with his face in the brook; he was 80 years old, and very strong, mentally and physically. The next night after that the alarm of fire was heard in the village for the first time. The sawmill was in flames, and burned to the ground. It was fired by Merritt, the sawyer, who on the following day paid the purchaser the value of the mill, saying that he had turned the water on the wheel the first time and had sawed every log sawed in the mill. Merritt left the village forever. He had never been away before since he first came there.

England's Throne.

The throne of England, so splendid when covered with silk velvet and gold, is, in fact, only an "old oak chair," over eight hundred years in use for the same purpose. Its existence has been traced back to the days of Edward. The wood is very hard and solid. The back and sides were formerly of the same colors, and the seat is made of a rough-looking sand-stone 26 inches in length, 17 in breadth and 10 in thickness, and in this stone lies the grand peculiarity of the chair. Numberless legends are told in connection with it, the truth probably being that it was originally taken from Ireland to Scotland and served as the coronation chair of the early Scottish kings.—Pall Mall Gazette.

High Protective or Revenue Tariff.

["Norval," in Indianapolis Sentinel.]

The gross value of manufactured products in the years 1850, 1860, 1870 and 1880 were as follows:

		Gain per cent. in each ten years.
1850	$1,019,160,616
1860	1,885,861,676	85.05
1870	4,232,325,443	124.42
1880	5,369,579,191	26.87

The valuation for 1870, as is well known, was made on an inflated currency, the average premium on gold having been about 25.03, or, as stated in the census tables, about 20 per cent. discount on the paper. Hence to get a correct basis for 1870, to compare with 1850 and 1880, the census tables of 1880 give the following as the correct basis for manufactured products in the years mentioned:

		Per cent. of gain in ten years.
1850	$1,019,160,616
1860	1,885,861,676	85.05
1870	3,385,860,354	79.54
1880	5,369,579,191	58.59

Thus it will be clearly seen that our greatest increase in manufacturing took place in the free trade decade from 1850 to 1860, and this fact of itself should convince all workingmen, farmers, and business men that a revenue tariff and not high protection is the true policy for this country.

Again, the census tables give the net value of manufactures in 1860 and 1880, what they were worth after deducting the cost of the materials consumed. Still deducting 20 per cent. from the inflated values of 1870:

	Net Value.	Per cent. of gain in ten years.
1850	$ 463,930,276
1860	851,256,584	83.52
1870	1,785,185,560	64.3
1880	1,972,755,643	9.40

Again the free trade year of 1860 is in advance.

The increase of capital invested in manufacturing in 1860 over 1850 was 89.38 per cent., 1870 over 1860 was 67.80 per cent., and in 1880 over 1870, 61.66 per cent. Hence, it is clear that capital was not afraid to engage in manufacturing in a free trade period as 1860 is still in advance.

The increase of wages paid in 1860 over 1850 was 69.03; in 1870 over 1860 was 83.76; and in 1880 over 1870 it was 52.78 per cent.

In this comparison 1860 is a trifle behind on the advance increase in total wages paid, but so little as to cut no figure, but when we compare the cost of living in 1880 with 1850 or 1860 it is clear beyond a doubt, that the mechanics and laborers of 1860 were much better paid, considering the purchasing power of the dollar in 1860.

The census show that a large increase in wages from 1860 to 1880 has taken place, and yet the laboringmen of our country are not as well paid to-day as in 1860, when we take in account the vast increase in the prices of commodities, rents, and other necessary expenses. In my own city, houses which rented in 1860 for $5 or $6 per month now bring $10 and $12, and these are on old streets where but little change has taken place.

Workingmen in those days got board for from $2 to $2.50 per week, including lodging, while railroad men and other organized boarders get their meals at from twelve and a half to fifteen cents, and at many terminal points lodging thrown in.

Let us take the expenses of a railroad brakeman in 1860, counting thirty days a month:

Ninety meals at 15 cents	$13.50
Thirty lodgings at 12½ cents	3.75
Total expenses	$17.25

Wages paid to brakemen in 1860, $30 per month, and after deducting $18 board and lodging we find the brakeman of that period would have $12.75 per month left.

Now let us take a brakeman of the present. His board costs him 25 cents per meal and lodging 35 cents per night:

Ninety meals at 25 cents	$22.50
Thirty lodgings at 35 cents	10.50
Total expenses	$33.00

Railroad men are now paid by the trip, based upon 100 miles for a local man's day's work; the trips going up, of course, as the distance is greater. I find the average for through and local brakemen on such a run is 245 for twenty-seven days work in 1883.

Brakeman's wages	$44.00
Board and lodging	29.00
Balance after expenses	$15.00

Here we find that the brakeman of 1883 has $15 left for clothing and incidentals, as against the same class of men's $12.75 in 1860.

Is there a man in all this land so stupid as not to see that $12.75 in 1860 would buy one-half more that $15 in 1883, of the general necessaries. Or if the brakeman had a family and lived at one end of his "run" and was compelled to board and lodge at home half the time, his financial matters would stand thus at the end of each month away from home in 1860:

Board half-month, 45 meals at 15	$ 6.75
Lodgings half-month, 15 at 12½ cents	1.87
At home, house rent per month	5.00
Total	$13.62
Wages per month	30.00

Here we find that the brakeman of 1860, after paying his board away from home, and house rent at home, would still have $16.37 for provisions and clothing for self and family, and, when we take into account the prices of the allows articles in that year, it is well known that the family of a young man could live comfortably on that amount.

Now let us take the same man in 1883:

Wages per month	$75.00
Board at half-month room rent
and same meals at 25 cents	11.25
Fifteen meal incidentals	3.75
Home rent per month	5.00
Total	$20.00 $ 55.00

Here we find that the brakeman of 1883 would have $20, or just $8.63 left more than the brakeman of 1860 had, for provisions and clothing, and the most ignorant man in this land knows if he has any knowledge of prices in 1860, that $16.37 in that year would buy as much provisions and clothing as $30 will buy in 1880 or 1883.

The wages of 1860 are based upon a daily run of a hundred miles. Of course if the man did "more running, or doubled the road," he was paid for the extra work at the same proportion, viz., $30 per month. The wages of to day are based on a daily run of a hundred miles on freight also, but I am aware that men often draw more pay, but they do more work for it in "doubling the road."

The prices of meals and lodging are based upon actual payments made in this class of men in 1860 and in 1880-3. The house rents are based upon actual payments made in each period, and in the same cities and towns in the States of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The above scales of wages will apply equally to passenger brakemen and baggage-masters, with slight variations on different lines.

We will now take a local freight conductor in 1860:

Wages per month	$50.00
Meals away from home, 45 @ 25 cts	$ 6.75
Fifteen meal incidentals at 25 cts	1.88
House rent at home	5.00
Total	$13.63 16.63
Balance left	$33.37

Conductors, getting more salary, lived in better locations or houses, and hence, in 1860, as now, paid higher rent, and we find that the local conductor of that year, after paying board and lodgings away from home and house rent at home, had $33.37 left to buy provisions and clothing for his family.

We will now take the local freight conductor of 1880 and 1883:

Wages per month	$62.00
Meals from home, 45 at 25 cts	$11.25
Fifteen lodgings, at 25 cts	3.75
House rent at home per month	15.00
Total	$30.00 $0.00
Balance left	$32.00

Here we have a clear proof as to the permanency in which production protects the workingman. In revenue tariff 1860, and the year of the lowest tariff in this country, the hard-worked local freight conductor had, after paying his board away from home and house rent at home, $33.37 left to buy provisions and clothing for the month, while the equally hard-worked conductor of 1883 has but $25 left for the same uses; and yet it is a well-known fact that the $33.37 of the 1860 conductor would buy as much in the way of provisions and clothing as $50 would in either period a larger mileage will secure more salary, while the house rents for both periods are based upon actual payments made.

Why Clothes Are So Dear.

The New York Times (Rep.) publishes as a comparison of the difference in the prices in New York and London of men's clothing, which no fair minded reader can consider without acknowledging the injustice of the outrageous system that makes such a difference possible.

For instance, a broadcloth dress suit which costs $50 in New York, costs only $22 in London.

A dress business suit which costs $30 in New York costs but $13 in London.

A spring-cape overcoat which costs $20 in New York costs but $8.50 in London.

A winter beaver overcoat which costs $25 in New York costs but $14.00 in London.

A silk hat which costs $5 in New York costs but $3 in London.

These articles altogether cost in New York $140. In London they cost but $70. The man who buys these clothes, therefore, in New York pays $70 more for them than he could buy them for in London.

What causes this difference in the prices of the two cities?

Our tariff.

No one will dispute that, with the tariff removed, the same goods could be purchased as cheaply in New York as in London, at least as cheaply plus the freight rates between the two cities.

If the man who pays, therefore, $140 for clothes in New York really pays $61 worth of clothes, on which he pays $70 in taxes.

And where do these taxes go?

If the goods are manufactured in this country no one receives the Treasury. It is simply $70 taken by law from the man that buys $61 worth of clothes and given to the man who grows wool and the man who makes cloth.

If the goods are manufactured abroad, $70 goes to a Treasury which does not need it, and can raise all the revenue it requires on whisky, tobacco, and articles of luxury.

In either case the purchaser of the clothes gets absolutely nothing for the $70 which he spends.

If on buying the clothes he had to pay $4 to the clothier and $70 directly to the collector, how long would the stand such extortion?

In result there is not a particle of difference between that system and the present tariff system, according to which he is thus unnecessarily and avoidably taxed, not only on his clothing but on nearly every other necessity of life.

How long will the people of a country which claims to be free submit to this legalized robbery, which thus shamelessly and gross fat upon it, are pleased to call a "protective tariff?

Sunlight and Human Health.

For some considerable times past the astronomer royal and his assistants have been weekly reporting the significant fact that the recorded sunlight during the seven days has been, upon an average, nil. Prima facie it is only photographers who need be affected by this intelligence. What can it possibly matter to the world at large if there is not sunshine enough to discolor a piece of sensitivized paper? As a matter of fact, however, the discoloration of sensitivized paper is but one of the many processes due to the chemical energy of the sunlight. And a prolonged absence of sunlight is a very serious matter. Its effects upon the health are direct and perceptible. We got no sense, and we become dull and listless, as if we had been sitting up all night. When thus out of tone and below par, we are consequently deficient in that vital energy which would otherwise enable us to shake off any ordinary ailment. Nor is this all. Absence of sunlight for any considerable period is almost invariably followed by epidemic outbreaks. When the sun is active, fifth of all kinds putrefies as it collects. When there is no sunshine the filth collects, accumulates in masses, and ferments. These fermented accumulations are a source of positive danger as soon as the sun resumes its activity. Decomposition under a bright sun is comparatively harmless. Slow decomposition in the dark is especially feasible to health. We need no chemist to tell us all this; but at the same time, it is as well to bear the chemistry of common life in mind. When the astronomer royal reports a total absence of sunshine we ought to be especially careful, and, it may be added, children suffer more from the absence of the sun's rays than do adults. Adults have only to keep alive; children have to keep alive and to grow, which entails a double amount of chemical work. Now, if there be no sunshine, we can best supplement its absence by exercise. And yet, strange enough, the absence of sunshine is regarded by most mothers as a sufficient ground for keeping children within doors. It is, on the contrary, the very reason why they should be sent out and kept out as much as possible.—London Observer.

Cause and Effect.

Centuries ago, Hafiz, the Persian poet, sang at Shiraz his odes in praise of wine. His grave, standing in a large cemetery, outside of the city, is marked by a monument of white marble. About it gather increasing companies to drink wine; for in spite of the rigid prohibition of the Koran, the people of Shiraz indulge freely in the fermented juice of the grape.

They are fond of pleasure, and pass a large portion of their lives in merry-making. The poor mechanic, the official, and even the priests, begin their wine-drinking as soon as evening sets in. They have a proverb which says: in paradise are streams of rivers of wine, and there is no headache or any other evil consequence.

But an observer is impressed by the fact that this merry-making, wine-drinking people are extremely excitable and irritable. In no other city in Persia are there so many deeds of violence committed in passion. Everybody carries a long steel-curved poniard in his girdle, ready to use it on the slightest provocation, even if a man should differ from him in argument.

A European traveler, who visited Shiraz, describes a brutal scene he saw, one day, which shows the temper of these lovers of wine and pleasure. He says:

"I saw a richly dressed Persian walking superciliously along the narrow sidewalk of the bazar while another Persian came from the opposite direction.

"The latter in his hurry did not know exactly which side to take in order to pass the former, and, as is usually the case on such an occasion, danced before the irate Persian from right to left.

"The latter, who evidently belonged to the better classes, drew his poniard without another word, and mortally stabbed the innocent man. This happened in broad daylight, and in the presence of thousands of people."

The irritability which characterizes the Shiraz people is largely due to their wine-drinking.—Youths' Companion.

Books for Girls.

"There is," remarked a leading bookseller, "a singular fact connected with the publication of juvenile books, and that is that books for girls, publications which every mother might safely place in the hands of her daughter, are growing more scarce from year to year. It seems as if no new authors in this branch of literature enter the field of competition, and the old authors shrink from the task at once so difficult and thankless. Authors like Miss Alcott and Mrs. Whitney, Sophie May and Susan Coolidge, have nothing now for young lady readers this year, while the number of new publications for boys is simply legion. Undoubtedly the girls are themselves to blame in the first place. There seems to be an unnatural longing for a class of literature that would not be healthy for a grown woman. Good, solid mental food is thrown aside, and thus the authors revere little or no encouragement except by favorable notices in the press, and that, as you well readily concede, does not pay the publisher unless it is accompanied by a good sale."—Chicago Herald.

THEY who are most weary of life, and yet encounter meekly its duties are such who have lived to no purpose; who have rather breathed than lived.—Clarendon.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 14th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
M. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Greenback County Convention.

There will be a mass convention of the national greenback party of Charlevoix county, at Boyne City, on Friday, April 25th, at one o'clock p. m. Hon. W. D. Fuller, chairman of the greenback state committee, and C. S. Hampton, of Harbor Springs, will be present and address the people.

By order of the national greenback county committee.

T. J. HILL, Chairman.

April 15, 1884.

Notes and News.

An enterprising Cadillac photographer made a picture of the school house recently burned there by the light of the fire itself.

The surveying party of the Chicago & West Michigan extension have reached Manistee river at a point in Wexford county.—Evening News.

High license in Chicago makes an apparent decrease of nearly 900 places for selling liquor in that city, 2,810 licenses being taken this year against 3,700 last year.

The passenger business from northern Michigan to Indianapolis, Louisville and Cincinnati, over the Chicago & West Michigan, is rapidly increasing.—Evening News.

Lansing pays about $20,000 a year for her religion, and $40,000 for whiskey and beer. She is having more fun in this world than she will in the next.—Lansing Torpedo.

The Eaton Rapids Times is a newsy six-column folio, and this week comes out with both sides printed at home. Its editor W. W. Ashley, was our instructor during three years of our apprenticeship. Success to you, boys.

The rapidly increasing circulation of the Detroit Times renders faster machinery necessary, which is now being built. Bryant Weed, newsdealer, says its circulation in Charlevoix is increasing faster than any other paper he carries.

Roscommon is about 700 feet higher than Bay City, and a pipe line to this place could be constructed, the same as in the Pennsylvania oil country, should it be decided to erect a refinery here. If the Roscommon well can be successfully worked it would prove a bonanza for Bay City.—Bay City Tribune.

An amorous dude of Muskegon annoyed a married lady of that place and fearing that her husband would kill the scamp, she put her brother on to him. The brother put on the lady's wraps and sallied forth in the gloaming. The dude "bit" and the brother gave him a thumping that he will remember for many a day.

The Saginaw City Times opened Saturday what promises to be a hot fight against the "Funeral Directors Association of Michigan." This association has recently advanced the price of caskets and coffins and "boycott" every factory that sells to dealers who are not members of a would-be outrageous monopoly.

A. M. Switzer, a Bay City lumberman, told a Detroit Journal reporter that more lumber has been sold in Bay City during the past two weeks than at any time during the same period for two years. "Nearly all the desirable stock on the docks," said he, "is sold. Prices have been well sustained, and in many instances at a slight advance on last fall's figures. The outlook for the Saginaw lumbermen is most gratifying. In fact everybody is agreeably surprised."

Among the touching incidents of the late flood in the Saginaw valley is related the noble self-sacrifice of a Saginaw girl who saw a family of seven persons struggling in the water. No help was near, and a boat large enough to hold eight persons was not at hand. Without a thought for her own comfort, this benevolent girl took off her shoe, mud, holding it by string, let it flont out to the drowning family. The seven floaters scrembled into it and were drawn to the shore.—Evening News.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by UPRIGHT BROS., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, April 22, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Amanda Munroe to J. C. McFellin, lot 58 Boyne, $300.

Samuel Horton to Fox Musselman & Lovelidge, $120.

Nancy d. Long to J. C. McFellin, s e ¼ of s e ¼ 36-33-6, $400.

James Pearson and wife to Martin J. Pearson, n w ¼ of n w ¼, 23-33-5, $200.

James Pearson and wife, to William J. Pearson, s ¼ of s w ¼ of s w ¼ and s ½ of s e ¼ of s w ¼, 21-33-5, $200.

Joseph Gray to Jane Gray, s e ¼ of s w ¼, 33-34-8, $100.

George C. Randall to Maria V. Dyer, 175 acres, 32-34-6, $667.

George D. Palmer et. al. to William Mellor, n w ¼ of n w ¼, 2-32-6, $500.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

In the spring nature intends that the human body should be relieved of the heavy stagnant humors which always accumulate during the winter months, and the very best medicine for accomplishing this object is Parmelee's Blood Purifier. It will cleanse and purify the system and drive out all humors and impurity safely and quickly. Price $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Coughs and colds are the inevitable results of sudden changes in the weather. Immediate attention should be given them so that they may not become established and result in Bronchitis, Congestion, Inflamation or even consumption. Hamilton's Couch Balsam soothes the irritated membrane, and assists in removing phlegm and mucus, that, by its adhesion to the membranes, causes violent coughing. Great relief is received by even those in the last stages of consumption. In croup and whooping cough it is unequaled. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

DANGER. Do you know that you are liable to attacks of Dyspepsia and all kinds of stomach derangements? Yes, worse still, to that result of kidney and liver disorder that is known as diabetes or possible Bright's disease. They are often fatal and that in a very short time. Loss of appetite, sour stomach, dimness of vision, dizziness, pains in side and back and many others, are but symptoms of disease. Be wise in time. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is the sovereign remedy. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year old mare with colt, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, well broke, and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. BACOT, on north shore of Pine Lake.

2m3 J. A. BACOT.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on south road. Soil, clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 25 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 250 fruit trees beginning to bear. One half mile from school and one mile from church. Price three thousand seven hundred dollars, will not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. EVANS, Charlevoix, Mich.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT—The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix. Frederick B. Jackson versus William H. Condon. Notice is hereby given that on the eighteenth (18th) day of March, A. D. 1884, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, at the suit of Frederick B. Jackson, the above named plaintiff, against the land, tenements, goods, and chattels, moneys, and effects of William H. Condon, the defendant above named, for the sum of two hundred and ninety dollars, ($290.00), which said writ was returnable on the first (1st) day of April, A. D. 1884.

Dated April 8th, A. D. 1884.

CHURCHSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new

Opera Block

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes

LATEST STYLES.

WILL M. GILBERT,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.
ADVANCE, Mich.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

THE MOST USEFUL BOOK EVER PUBLISHED

A Book that should be in Every House.

The press, teachers, and professional men throughout the country pronounce it to be the BOOK OF BOOKS. It contains upwards of 50,000 WORDS, with their definitions and pronunciation, according to Webster and other recognized authorities; a large number of additional words and definitions in general use. It contains a mine of information for everybody. Printed on handsomely bound in cloth, containing 542 Pages. Profusely Illustrated. We propose to send you one of these valuable books, by mail, all postage charges prepaid, to any address, on receipt of only ONE DOLLAR.

Address M. STOLZ & CO.,
26 Park Place, New York.

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

FOR SALE

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, 10x20 in.; Boiler 12 feet 6 in diameter, 46 flues. The engine is thoroughly overhauled, and is now in as good as new. Price and terms to suit purchaser.

Or of Washburn & Ackert, at the Advance shop.

JOHN NICHOLLS

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Car Blocking,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND FILLED TO ORDER.

THE JOURNAL.

Charlevoix, Mich., April 24, 1884.

Business Announcements.

A few spring styles in prints at J. Hurd & Co.'s.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers can are requested to pay us something on description, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

Strickles coffee, 20 cents at J. L. Hurd & Co.'s.

The attention of our readers and dealers in particular is called to the approaching sale of the far famed Drs. K & K, U. S. Medical and Surgical Association, of Detroit, Mich. Their unequalled skill, unrivaled experience, and extraordinary success, have placed them at the head of "The Healing Art," in this or any other country. Those who wish to consult them free of charge will find them at the Fountain House, Charlevoix, on Thursday and Friday, April 24 and 25. Call on the most successful physicians of modern times. Don't let prejudice or the jealous ones persuade you, but call on them. It will cost you nothing, cannot harm you, and may be the means of giving you valuable benefits.

Potatoes from Upright Emery & Co.

Oats, Timothy, and Garden Seeds of all kinds. Farm produce taken in exchange. We have a due line in Fur and Plush, which we offer at cost to make room for a full assortment of the latest styles.

A special invitation is extended to the Ladies of Charlevoix, to call and examine our new line of Printzy Cottons, Hosiery, Motions, Ribbons, Hair Nets, Corsets, Bustles, &c. We will be opened next week.

Provision Market.

Small prices to consumers, as corrected every Thursday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & Co., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
GRAHAM MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.75.
MEAL, per ton, $18.00.
FEED, per ton, $18.00.
MIDDLINGS, per ton, $18.00.
CHOP FEED, per cwt, $1.75.
POTATOES, per bu, 50c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 20@22c.
LARD, per lb, 14@15c.
HAMS, 16c; Shoulders, 12½c.
SALT PORK, 11c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 9c.
MACKEREL, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 20c.
CRACKED WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

BEEF, best steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½@ mutton, 12½@15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12½c.
TALLOW, 6½@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Personal Paragraphs.

H. B. Chapman, of Bay Springs, is in town today.

Hon. Lewis Reynolds has a fine lot of Durham cattle.

Jos. Dyer, of the Advance Lumber Co., was in town Friday.

A. J. McLeod has been "under the weather" for a few days.

Mrs. Dr. Graves is visiting friends at Kalamazoo this week.

Capt. J. J. Bennett had another attack of paralysis last Thursday.

Dea. E. Bardeen, Secretary of the Odeon resort, is in town this week.

H. Dougall, of Kalamazoo, registered at the Fountain City hotel this week.

Geo. Budd, a former employee of Strahlendorf's, has returned to Charlevoix.

Harry Tucker, formerly of this city, shipped on the Hercules Monday morning.

Miss Mamie LeRoy, teacher at the Odeon school house, is sick this week, attended by Dr. Lewis.

Prosecuting attorney Norton, will occupy the front rooms of the Batters block after May 1st.

Peter Polson, a young farmer, who is a mechanic, from near Petoskey, has obtained employment in the factory, and becomes a citizen of the village by buying a lot and building a residence on the Mason addition.

J. F. Burdge, in charge of the view department, and H. H. Glassford, the artist, for the history of the Traverse Region to be published by H. R. Page & Co., are in town this week in the interest of their department. The prospect for a representation in that work, of Charlevoix citizens, as well as residences and places of interest.

Dr. H. P. Snyder, dentist, of Traverse City, is making arrangements by which he will be in this city Charlevoix the last week of every month during the summer, for the practice of his profession. Dr. S. being a former resident of Charlevoix, our citizens are well acquainted with his work, and the arrangement will doubtless be satisfactory to both doctor and patrons.

Ground was broken last Friday for Bartholomew's new warehouse, on the vacant lot south of the opera house.

The pancake and molasses social at the opera house last night netted the good templars over $13.

New residences are being built on the south terrace for J. A. Voght, D. H. Francis, Peter Polson, and Ed. Preston.

Quite a number of Boyne citizens came down on the North Star, Tuesday evening to attend the Masonic banquet.

L. E. Allen has driven piles this week for 32 feet additional dock in front of the manufacturing company's property.

Some maple syrup brought to this office by Mr. S. Minier, of Hayes township, is the finest we have seen this year, being very thick and clear. He disposed of over 40 gallons last Friday.

Another drug store in Charlevoix is announced, to occupy the rooms adjoining Carpenter, Bartholomew & Co's store. Mr. Frank Hine, now with Dr. Crouter, will have the management.

Oscar Lewis has established himself in the boot and shoe business at Ironton. He is reported to us as a first-class workman, and in both new work and repairing will guarantee satisfaction.

A. P. Coupher, Boyne City, has raised a parsnip four feet and one inch in length. This is another proof that northern Michigan is destined to be one of the best farming countries in the west.—Alba Record.

Wm. Evans has been re-appointed bridge tender for this season. So far as we can learn, Mr. E. has been faithful in the past, and there is no reason to doubt that his re-appointment will prove satisfactory to those most interested.

Next Sabbath, at the M. E. church, the pastor will speak, in the morning upon "Christ and him Crucified." At the evening service, "Business men and clerks," will be particularly had in mind, while all will, we trust, be blessed. Come and hear for your self.

J. L. Hurd & Co., successors to Amos Fox, have a card on this page announcing a special discount sale of dry goods, clothing, furnishing goods, etc. The firm is composed of live young men, and we have no doubt they will make trade lively in their lines.

Amos Fox, the pioneer merchant of Charlevoix county, who has been continuously in trade since Charlevoix was an Indian trading post, has sold out his stock, and leased his store, warehouses, and dock to J. L. Hurd, late from the firm of Farrington & Co., Detroit.—Evening News.

A large and patient audience attended the meeting of the Liberal club at the opera house Monday evening. For 35 minutes Mr. B. F. Bisbee discussed the subject of paganism, heathenism, and spiritualism, which elicited but little adverse criticism. The musical part of the program was excellent. The poem was entirely too long for the occasion.

Prospectors for coal and oil, will do well to look over Charlevoix county before locating elsewhere. Pieces of coal have been picked up in the woods south of the village, a specimen of which can be seen at Bellinger's jewelry store, and we have heard of several places where oil has gathered on ponds and low places sufficiently thick to burn readily on top of the water.

Last Saturday afternoon, at the factory, Chas. Gotham, while running a rip-saw, got his middle finger on the left hand entangled in the teeth of the saw in a manner to mutilate both flesh and bone to the second joint, rendering amputation necessary. He will doubtless be laid up with it for some time. We understand that the band, of which he is a member, will give an entertainment for his benefit in the near future.

The committee having the management of the "gypsy garden" social, especially in the arrangement of the program of literary exercises, made a most happy hit. The selections were excellent, and consisted of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc.; each part was executed to the apparent satisfaction of the audience. Ice cream and cake were served. The net receipts of the evening amounted to $28.56.

Amos Fox, Charlevoix's pioneer merchant, has sold out. Mr. Fox is not only a Charlevoix pioneer but one of the pioneer merchants of northern Michigan and he will be missed from business circles.—Statesman.

Attention is called to the card of M. V. Dyer, Advance, Mich., in this paper. In connection with the Advance Lumber Co., the proprietor designs to meet the wants of that community in the matter of groceries provisions, and other supplies, at lowest cash prices, taking in exchange wood, ties, tan bark, posts, etc.

W. F. Orrell writes the JOURNAL from Chicago, under date of April 20, as follows: To-day spring overcoats are at a discount, and heavy ones are in demand. Last evening the wind started in cool from the N. E. and kept increasing until this morning when it blew a gale. It has been snowing nearly till day, and forming an abominable slush in the streets. The lake is very rough. The Lawrence left on Wednesday last, and is the first boat to attempt to pass through the straits. The Champlain is not out yet. The Western Transportation steamers, Commodore, Chicago, and Montana, have wintered here, and show no signs of getting out. I will send you their schedule of time as soon as I can get them.

Miscellaneous Marine.

The Wright is receiving repairs at Washburn's yard this week.

The schooner Lottie Mason received another coat of paint last week.

Beaver and Skillagalee lights shone very bright and clear last Friday evening.

The Sea Gem and Hercules, laden with ties and posts were the first sail vessels to clear from this port.

The tugs Kitty Smoke, L. S. Payne, and J. L. Higgie pool their business with the J. H. Martin as the only opposition.

The steamer Lou A. Cummings is in the harbor to-day. She tried to reach Harbor Springs, but was prevented by the ice in Little Traverse bay.

The Lawrence had among its freight, 150 barrels of salt for fishermen on Beaver Island. From the Island she will return to Chicago without trying to reach Cheboygan this trip.

Monday afternoon the tug J. H. Martin went out to open water outside the bay, breaking ice 18 inches thick. After making an opening the tug towed out the Sea Gem, loaded with railroad ties, which was the first sail vessel to clear from this port.

On Monday morning the scows Hercules and A. R. Upright, in tow of the tug Kitty Smoke, made an unsuccessful attempt to go through the ice in the bay to the open water outside. Later in the day the ice softened sufficient to permit a passage out.

The steam barge John Otis, arrived outside last Thursday forenoon, slowly making her way through floating ice. The tugs Kitty Smoke and Bob Stevenson went to her assistance, and she passed up the channel about 3 o'clock, and on through Pine lake to Ironton. The ice in the latter lake offered little resistance.

The Clara Belle, which was thoroughly overhauled, repainted with two coats of paint, and made as good as new, was launched last Friday. She is ready for business, and is now only waiting for the ice to leave Little Traverse bay. Capt. Bennett will no doubt make her very popular with the resorters this summer.

The Algonah is entirely helpless again. In attempting to cross the straits Monday, she got fast in the ice near Mackinaw City, and had her rudder smashed to pieces, bent her shaft, and is entirely helpless. Eight een passengers on board had to walk ashore, owing to a lack of provisions. The tug Saugatuck has been ordered to try and release her, but there is danger of a total loss.—Cheboygan Democrat.

A steamboat is now being built at Bay City, which will be the largest wooden steamer on fresh water. Her extreme length is 305 feet, length of keel 285, breadth of beam 40, depth of hold 22, lower hold 12, between decks 10. About 1,500,000 feet of white oak and 300,000 feet of pine will be used in her construction. She will be able to carry 3,000 tons of iron ore, 100,000 bushels of corn, or 2,000,000 feet of lumber and will cost $150,000.

The large and powerful tug Jas. H. Martin, Capt. H. S. Stevens, master, from Chicago, arrived last Friday evening. She was thoroughly rebuilt at Milwaukee during the winter, and comes well prepared for a season's campaign. The engineer, Andreas Blaser, brought his family and household goods, and has settled here with an expressed determination to stay. These gentlemen own the boat, and express themselves prepared to meet any and all opposition which may be given,—in short, that they have come to stay and become citizens with the rest of us. Whether there is business for all is to be determined, but we admire the grit and wish them success.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, April 22:

April 18—Prop. Lawrence, light, to Chicago.
19—Prop. John Otis, 400 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.
19—Schr. Sea Gem, 2,500 railroad ties, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.
22—Scow Hercules, 2,400 railroad ties, A. Fox, to Milwaukee.
22—Scow Mackinghird, 2,500 railroad ties, Upright, Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.
22—Scow Lottie Mason, 50 cords wood, E. M. Clark, to Milwaukee.

Death of Mrs. S. M. Moore.

Mrs. Elizabeth Davidson Moore, wife of S. M. Moore, died at the family residence, No. 324 West Monroe street, Saturday morning, of paralysis. She was born in Manchester, N. H., the daughter of James N. Davidson, who removed to Ohio, and later to Chicago. Nearly all of her married life was spent in Chicago. To her family Mrs. Moore devoted her first care. Outside of her family she loved her church, the missionary and the temperance work, the Bible work, the various charitable organizations. In all of these she bore an active part. She was remarkable for her daily living as if in expectation of the summons that should call her to the home above. Three little ones have preceded her. She had lived to see two daughters grown to womanhood, and less than one year ago stand at the altar together and take the marriage vows. One remains at the home to cheer the stricken father, the other is in a foreign land, the wife of a missionary.—Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Moore will be remembered by our citizens as a prominent member of the Chicago resort, and by her active interest in local church work. She took the lead in various enterprises to advance the financial interests of the Charlevoix Congregational church, and made frequent donations from her own purse for this purpose.

Council Proceedings,

CHARLEVOIX, April 17, 1884.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called; quorum present.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

A report of the street commissioner was read, accepted, and placed on file.

Bill of C. J. Grier, $2.00 for one day on board of registration, was presented and allowed.

Trustee Eaton moved that the saloon bonds be placed at $3,000. Trustee Crouter, moved to amend by making the amount $4,500. Trustee Newman, moved a further amendment making the amount $4,000. After some discussion, Trustee Newman's amendment prevailed, and the original motion as amended was carried.

The druggist's retail liquor bonds were fixed at $2,000.

A ballot for village marshal resulted in the election of Harrison Berdan, Gurley Bonk was appointed chief engineer of the fire department, and Dr. W. M. Preston was appointed health officer.

A ballot for president pro tem resulted in a tie between trustees Crouter and McLeod. After some discussion it was decided by lot, Trustee Crouter being successful.

The engineer was instructed to procure a screen for the suction pipe of the fire engine.

The saloon liquor bond of Gellick & Ingalls, with N. Ainslie and T. D. Smith as sureties, was presented, accepted, and approved.

On motion council adjourned for one week.

Announcement.

Having purchased the business of Amos Fox, at an immense sacrifice, we take pleasure in announcing a

SPECIAL DISCOUNT SALE,

Commencing with last MONDAY, April 21. The entire stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Cloths, etc.. at prices that will move them.

We want to form your acquaintance, and are prepared to make figures that will repay you for coming. Buy Fall and Winter Goods now and save money.

J. L. HURD & CO.
Successors to A. Fox

Ironton.

The steam barge John Otis arrived here last Thursday with a load of groceries and provisions for the Pine Lake Iron Co. She returned to Chicago with a load of iron on Friday. She has a new crew commanding her.

The Ironton school will commence May 5th, with Mr. Harris for teacher.

Our enterprising merchant, J. G. Peterson, is enlarging his store, seven teen feet to the length, and 14 by 40 on the side. He expects a large trade this summer.

Ironton has four new dwelling houses in progress, and county surveyor Robinson has the town surveyed into lots. There will be more in the same way.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hall lost their little girl on Friday. The funeral services were held on Sunday. They have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Mr. O. Lewis, of Boyne Falls, has rented the building formerly owned by Chas. Ely, and will set up a boot and shoe store here, a thing very much needed in Ironton. He is a first-class shoemaker, and a single man, and we hope that none of the young ladies in Ironton will make a "mash" on him, for the old saying is "a shoemakers wife has to go barefooted."

Burgess.

Mr. McDermont lost a child one day last week of congestion of brain.

Sam Omey, Indian, lost his wife. She was buried last Tuesday.

Mrs. Ganson and her brother were visiting their sister, Mrs. Edna Kane, last Sunday.

Chas. Ganson and G. Webster were out hunting one day last week. The latter shot a wild goose that weighed 12 pounds.

Jack Sunday thinks he has the best span of horses in Hayes.

L. S. Webster had a logging bee last Saturday, and we hear that it was a success.

Everyone is busy in putting in their spring crop.

Married.

VAN DEUSEN—BOWDISH—At the Congregational parsonage, Charlevoix, April 16, by Rev. C. F. Van Anken, Mr. William Van Deusen and Miss May Bowdish.

SOLITUDE.

BY ELLA WHEELER.

Laugh, and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone:
For this old earth must borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own.
Sing, and the hills will answer;
Sigh—it is lost on the air.
The echoes bound to a joyful sound,
But are slow to voice your care.

Rejoice, and men will seek you;
Grieve, and they turn and go;
They want full measure of all your pleasure,
But they do not need your woe.
Be glad, and your friends are many;
Be sad, and you lose them all;
There are none to decline your nectared wine,
But alone you must drink life's gall.

Feast, and your halls are crowded;
Fast, and the world goes by;
Succeed and give and it helps you live,
But no man can help you die.
There is room in the halls of pleasure
For a large and lordly train;
But die by one we must all die on Thro' the narrow aisles of pain.

WILKES BOOTH.

The Man Who Carried Food to the Assassin Tells the Story of the Escape.

The actor, John Wilkes Booth, shot President Lincoln about 10 o'clock on Friday night, April 14, 1865. Near midnight he and his misdirecting road mates, David E. Herold, called at Surratt's tavern, about ten miles southeast of Washington, and obtained the arms, field glass, etc., previously prepared for them there. Shortly afterward they were at Dr. Samuel A. Mudd's, twenty miles farther on, where Booth's broken ankle was set and a crutch made for him, and that evening the two fugitives were guided in a roundabout way to the point of Samuel Cox, a prosperous Southern sympathizer, about fifteen miles southwest.

The last witness in Maryland ended here. The Government, in its prosecution of the conspirators, took up the fugitive next at the crossing of the Rappahannock River, in Virginia, the 24th of April, having failed to trace Booth a single step further in Maryland, although he did not cross the Potomac until Saturday night, April 22. A whole week remains unaccounted for, and for the first time the missing links of the connection are here made public. Probably not half a dozen people are alive who ever heard the narrative fully told.

Near Pope's Creek, in Lower Maryland, lived Thomas A. Jones, and, as his place was peculiarly well situated for easy intercourse with Virginia, he became the ferryman of people who wished to cross the Potomac, and for this offense served a term in the Old Capitol Prison. He was released in 1865, but continued to aid the Confederate cause in every possible way, being always in full sympathy with the South. Jones, who is still alive, is a man of hardly medium height, dim and wiry, with one of those thin, mournful faces common to tidewater Maryland, with high cheek bones, gray-blue eyes, no great height or breadth of forehead, and thick, strong hair. The tone of his mind and intercourse is slow and mournful, somewhat complaining, as if the summer heats had given a nervous tone to his views, which are generally instinctive and kind.

About the third year of the war Jones understood that a very important act had been agreed upon — namely: to seize the President of the United States in the city of Washington and by relays and forced horses take him to the west side of Port Tobacco Creek, about four miles below the town of that name, and dispatch him across the Potomac a prisoner of war. I possess the names of the two persons on Port Tobacco Creek who, with their sons, were prominent in this scheme; but the frankness with which the whole matter was given to me persuades me not to print them. A person already named, in Washington, was in the conspiracy, and it was given out that "the big actor, Booth," was also "in it." Jones heard of this about December, 1864. It was not designed that he should take any part in the scheme, though he regarded it as a proper undertaking for time of war. From the time this scheme was proposed until the very end of the war the belief was that to carry Mr. Lincoln off was kept ready, and the cars and men were ever near at hand to dispatch the illustrious captive.

That winter was unusually mild, and therefore the roads were particularly bad in this region of clay and marsh, and did not harden with the frost—a circumstance which perhaps spared Mr. Lincoln the terrors of such a desperate exposition. Inquiries were made from time to time as to when the thing was to be done, and it was generally answered that the roads were too heavy to give the opportunity. The idea Jones has of this matter is that Mr. Lincoln was to be seized, not on his way to the Soldiers' Home, which is near the Navy Yard, and gagged quietly, and the carriage then driven across the Navy Yard bridge or the next bridge above, while the captors were to point to the President and wave their hands to the guards on the Pikes, saying: "The President of the United States." When we consider that he was finally killed in the presence of a vastambience, and that his captors then crossed the same bridge without opposition and without pomp, the original scheme does not seem extraordinary.

Jones heard of the murder of Lincoln Saturday afternoon, April 15, at or near his own farm of Huckleberry. Two Federal officers or cavalrymen came by on horseback, and one o them said to Jones: "Is that your boat a piece above here?" "Yes," said Jones. "Then you had better take good care of it, because there are dangerous people around here who might take it to cross the river." "That is just what I am thinking about," said Jones, "and I have had it pulled up to let my black man go fishing for the shad which are now running."

The two horsemen conferred together a minute or two, and one of them said: "Have you heard the news from Washington?" "No." "Our President has been murdered." "Indeed!" said Jones, with a melancholy face, as if he had no friend in the world. "Yes," said the horseman; "President Lincoln was killed last night, and we are looking out for the men, who, we think, escaped this way."

Sunday morning, the 16th of April, about 9 o'clock, a young white man came from Samuel Cox's to Jones' second farm, called Huckleberry, which has been already described as about two and a half miles back from the old river residence, which Jones had been forced to give up when it appeared probable that the Confederate cause was lost. The Huckleberry farm consisted of about 500 acres, and had on it a one-story-and-garret house, with a low-pitched roof, end chimneys, and door in the middle. There was a stable north of the house, and a barn south of it, and it was only three-quarters of a mile from the house to the river, which here runs to the north to make the indentation called Port Tobacco Creek or river. Although Jones, therefore, had moved some distance from his former house, he was yet very near tidewater. The new farm was very much retired, was not on the public road, and consisted of clearings amidst rain-washed hills and deep gullies, almost impenetrable short pines, and some swamp and forest land. Henry Woodland, the black servant, who was then 27 years old, was still Jones' chief assistant, and was kept alternately farming and fishing.

The young man who came from Cox's was told if stopped on the road to say that he was going to Jones' to ask if he could let Cox have some seed corn, which in that climate is planted early in April. He told Jones that Col. Cox wished him to come immediately to his house, about three miles to the north. The young man mysteriously intimated that there were very remarkable visitors at Cox's the night before. Accustomed to obey the summons of his old friend, Jones mounted his horse and went to Cox's. Cox's property, called Rich Hill, made an agreeable contrast to the somber short pines which are the great distance seemed to cover the plain almost as thickly as wheat straws in the grain-field.

Taking Jones aside, Cox related that the previous night the assassin of President Lincoln had come to his house, in company with another person, guided by a negro, and had asked for assistance to cross the Potomac River; "and," said Cox to Jones, "you will have to get him over, which here runs to the north to make the indentation called Port Tobacco Creek or river. Although Jones, therefore, had moved some distance from his former house, he was yet very near tidewater. The new farm was very much retired, was not on the public road, and consisted of clearings amidst rain-washed hills and deep gullies, almost impenetrable short pines, and some swamp and forest land. Henry Woodland, the black servant, who was then 27 years old, was still Jones' chief assistant, and was kept alternately farming and fishing.

The young man who came from Cox's was told if stopped on the road to say that he was going to Jones' to ask if he could let Cox have some seed corn, which in that climate is planted early in April. He told Jones that Col. Cox wished him to come immediately to his house, about three miles to the north. The young man mysteriously intimated that there were very remarkable visitors at Cox's the night before. Accustomed to obey the summons of his old friend, Jones mounted his horse and went to Cox's. Cox's property, called Rich Hill, made an agreeable contrast to the somber short pines which are the great distance seemed to cover the plain almost as thickly as wheat straws in the grain-field.

Taking Jones aside, Cox related that the previous night the assassin of President Lincoln had come to his house, in company with another person, guided by a negro, and had asked for assistance to cross the Potomac River;"

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

FOR HER HE SINNED.

Philip Grayson was a young man in good business, and, until he made one serious mistake, had bade fair to be industriously successful.

His first false step was being taken captive by the bright eyes of Helen Clay, his next door neighbor, and for Helen had been reared in a magnificent home, and, during her infancy, childhood and girlhood, not a want had been left ungratified. Consequently, after her marriage she was selfish with out knowing it.

Had Phillip been sensible enough to tell Helen the extent of his income before becoming her partner in the picturesque and attractive wedding procession which one day drew a goodly portion of the city to witness and admire as it swept up the broad aisle of the church, their union might have resulted differently, for even the giddiest butterfly of fashion sometimes develops most wonderful womanliness and good sense when a chance is given her.

But Phillip's pride sealed his lips so effectually that, up to the date of our story, Helen had remained in complete ignorance of his circumstances.

The young couple had just arisen from the dinner table, when Helen said, as she held a lighted taper towards her husband so that he could light his cigar:

"Oh, Phil, I saw just the loveliest wrap in Arnold's! Every bit of the lace on it is real! It will look lovely with my brocade dress with jet trimmings. I told the salesman to send it with the bill, as I had no money with me."

"How much is it, Helen?"

"Only fifteen pounds."

Phillip opened his pocket book, and assumed a look of surprise. Then, forcing a smile, he turned to his wife and said:

"My pocket book is in the same state as yours, Helen. I forgot to replenish it when I left the store."

"I don't suppose it will make any great difference, Phillip. The wrap will be sent as directed, of course. But no one is ever worried about our little bills. It is only poor people that the tradesmen hesitate about trusting. By the bye, did I tell you that madam's ball gown is ruined?"

"No, I don't remember you speaking of it. But I must hurry away." said Phil, assuming his watch. "For I have a few more engagements."

Nor did Phillip put on extra steam one evening for his own wife" and Helen was by no means quick for Phillip's expected fees.

But he took his pretty face between his hands and kissed it, as he did his cigar case, and was about to put on his hat, when Helen said:

"Phil, you have not told me what you have been doing with yourself all day. Have you been to see Mr. Crawford?"

"Yes, I have been to see Mr. Crawford, and I succeeded in my object. I have brought the old man's heart to relent, and I have got a promise from him that he will see you and Helen to-morrow."

"Oh, Phil, I am so glad! And now, dear, I must go and dress. Mamma will be here in a few minutes, and I promised to go with her to the opera. Will you be home early?"

"Not very early, Helen. I have a few more engagements to make to-night."

"Good bye, then. Now, let me see you start off in a cheerful frame of mind. Remember, you have a wife who loves you dearly, and who is very proud of her husband. Now, Phil, dear, you must not look so sad. Smile, and say you will be home early."

With a kiss, Phillip left the room.

"Oh, what a fool I am!" he muttered, as he walked rapidly down the street. "Why did I not tell her the truth? Why did I not tell her that I am a ruined man? Why did I not tell her that I have not a penny piece in my pocket? Why did I not tell her that I have not a penny piece in my pocket? Why did I not tell her that I have not a penny piece in my pocket

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

SAMUEL W. BAKER, the African explorer, is quoted as saying that camels will cross a desert with a load of 400 pounds at the rate of thirty miles a day, in the burning heat of summer, and require water only every third or fourth day. In the cooler months the animal will work seven or eight days without water, and, if grazing on green foliage, without labor, will only drink once a fortnight.

THERE is a place in the Blue Ridge Mountains in West Virginia where snow melts as fast as it falls, and where the temperature of the ground never reaches the freezing point. Vegetation is always a month ahead of the surrounding sections. There is about one acre of this warm area. The State Geologist is of the opinion that there may be a volcano slumbering a few hundred feet below the surface.

COL. BURNABY, of the "Blues," who is one of the remarkable figures of London, standing six feet four, holds four somewhat widely differing appointments at present, being Lieutenant Colonel commanding the Horse Guards Blue, Silver Stick in Waiting, special correspondent of the Morning Post, and acting commandant of a levy of raw Soudanese and Egyptian troops. He figured in the front in the recent battles.

PRINCE NAPOLEON'S sneer at the Orleans Princes—"I have not the gold of the Orleans Princes; I am poor, and I am proud of it"—has recoiled on himself. Several newspapers reminded him that during the empire he received 37,078,000 francs besides 4,953,000 francs for fitting up the Palais Royal and Meudon. M. de Lavedan remarks that France had nothing in returns but the questionable part taken by the Prince in the Crimea, Italy, and the war of 1870.

AN Omaha preacher is the last pulpit pounder to try and put a stop to Sunday night courting. That preacher would meet with greater success by fighting a cyclone with a snow shovel. This Sunday night courting business is as sure to come as death and the tax collector. It is an old established industry, which has been going on since the beginning of time, and it is sure to continue to the end. It is about the only industry that don't ask for a protective tariff, as the more foreign competition it has the better it thrives.

THE following official statistics, compiled for the Brewers' Journal, show the production and annual per-capita consumption of beer in the various beer-drinking countries of the world:

	Production in casks of 36 gals. each.	Consumption per head.
Bavaria	10,000,000	32 gals.
Wirtemberg	2,750,000	28
Belgium	3,000,000	23
Great Britain	56,000,000	20
German Empire	47,500,000	16
Baden	900,000	15
North Germany	16,750,000	14
Austro-Hungary	18,000,000	11
Bohemia	4,000,000	11
Denmark	1,000,000	11
Austro-Hungary	11,750,000	8
Netherlands	1,250,000	6
Switzerland	500,000	6
France	6,000,000	4
Russia	2,000,000	2
Norway	250,000	2
Sweden	375,000	2
Servia	75,000	2
Italy	1,000,000	1
Other States, about	2,000,000	1
Total	135,000,000	U. S. bbls.

THE Queen of Tahiti, who passed so secretly across this country some weeks ago, tells the people of Paris that she was struck with the perpetual hurry of Americans. Her Majesty kept herself in such seclusion while she traveled that her knowledge of Americans must have been wholly confined to the people she saw at the railway stations, and that being the case she would be struck by their hurry. But it would be a mistake to suppose that everybody in this country is overworked. The impression has largely grown of a happy faculty we have of making ourselves and others think we are chuck full of business. Her Majesty should give herself no anxiety about us. We answer her that beyond a weakness for catching the first train this country is not overdoing itself.

IN the North American Review, Judge J. A. Jameson, of Chicago, has a paper captioned "Shall Our Civilization Be Preserved?" The Judge is clearly of the opinion that our civilization is in great peril. It is environed with enemies, and is still more in danger on account of the enemies who are operating within. The Judge is of the opinion that after the lapse of a few thousand years the world will experience the recurrence of an age of ice, which, unless great efforts are made to preserve the records, will sweep away every trace of our civilization. In view of such a calamity the writer suggests that it would be well to do some engraving on stones, after the fashion of the early Egyptians, or that it might be better to select the bald head of some mountain for records, so that when the ice had melted, if any poor mortal succeeded in living through the ice age he might find somewhere some pointers as to aid him in reproducing our civilization for the benefit of those who may people the earth after the ice age had spent its force, thawed and disappeared. The writer thinks "rich and powerful nations of the earth" might preserve the best part of the treasures of their civilization.

A PHILADELPHIA boy had made up his mind that a human being could fly as well as a bird, if he went about it in the right way, and he thought he knew the way. He persuaded his young sister, who had great confidence in him, to become his assistant. Having laid his plans before her, and convinced her that dying was a very simple matter, after all, she consented to make the first attempt. He took her up to the second story porch, and, having brought out a big pair of turkey wings, an old umbrella and some stout cord, he began to rig up the two-unwilling victim for the great trial. He bound one wing to the outside of each of her arms, and fastened the outspread umbrella to her body by putting the handle behind her head and passing the cord around just below her shoulders. The umbrella was to act as a parachute, about which he had read just enough to make his knowledge dangerous, and he quieted the girl's misgivings by saying that this arrangement would "let her down easy." When the little girl stood completely arrayed for the trip the boy told her that all she had to do was to jump and flap her wings, and she would fly like any bird. Five minutes later the family doctor was sent for in great haste to mend a broken leg, and the youth, when upbraided and punished for his cruel folly, insisted that if the little goose had flapped her wings as he told her to, she would have been all right.

Not in the Securities Business.

Senator Cullom, of Illinois, received from the Secretary of the Senate a promise that one of the soft berths in the Democratic ship of state would be placed at his disposal. The Senator was in high glee, and for hours and hours he walked and ruminated over the delicate problem of his designation for appointment to the promised place. At last he hit upon a politician of prominence, the editor of a influential newspaper who had served his country in the high office of clerk of one of the branches of the Legislature. The gentleman was sent for. He was received by the Senator with great cordiality, and invited to come to the Capitol as soon as he had recovered from the fatigues of his journey, to assume the easy and important duties that awaited him. He was a man of fine address and imposing presence, and when he presided in his Senator, he walked into the Secretary's room to receive his commission a stranger not acquainted with the facts would have been puzzled to point out which was the Senator and which the expectant officer. The Secretary handed out the appointment with a deprecatory air, remarking apologetically that it was the best he could do. The Senator read the appointment over and discovered to his horror that the salary only amounted to a thousand dollars per annum.

"Mr. Secretary," said he, in a tremor of rage, "this is outrageous. We couldn't think of accepting so insignificant a place. My friend here would scorn to occupy so inferior a position."

"Hold on, Senator," said the Western editor; "I'm not in the scorning business this morning. This place is not what I expected, but the weather is very cold, and I don't care to go home and give the boys a lunge at my expense. A thousand dollars isn't much, but it will do to start in on. Mr. Secretary, I am ready to go to work."

And to work he went. He occupies the important position of—but no, he is an editor, and for the honor of the craft we will not give him away.—Buckingham Hatchet.

RUSSIA is to try to use petroleum refuse as fuel on her black Sea fleet. The success of the failure in previous attempts are said to have been overcome by improvements effected by M. Bathoue in the apparatus employed for combustion. At Batoum the refuse can be delivered for less than forty cents a ton.

IT is said that at the Court Opera at Vienna they incandescent lamps, suspended by fine swinging wires, give the effect of swarms of fireflies flashing and flitting about in a tropical forest. By switches the current is turned off and on at the pleasure of the operator, and the effect is electrical in other than a literal sense.

THERE are a great many men in this little world who always talk cheese, but who live chalk.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

"All The Same."

I know a darling baby girl—
Miss Tittie is her name;
She has the cutest little way
Of saying anything she'll say
With three words—"All the same."

We left her shoes an angel child,
That wouldn't trust heaven's care came;
She'll listen, wandering the while,
And then she'll answer, with a smile,
"I'm Clytie, all the same."

Again she's naughty, and we scold:
She meekly lays our blame—
Feels not a little, bids her face,
And, ere it meets, with matchless grace,
"You love me, all the same."

Sometimes we laugh when we should frown—
I own it, to our shame.
I tell her to put down my pen:
She minds, but says, "Please day again
I'll take it all the same."

All sweetness and all mischief both
Dwell in her girl's frame,
And anything she ever may do—
Alas! I think she knows it, too—
She's sure of me, "all the same."
—Harper's Young People.

White Mice.

When Johnny and Nannie went into the country for the summer, they carried a great care with them in the shape of two white mice and six little baby mice, a small wire trap.

Think of taking pet mice to Aunt Ann's house, with its great, old-fashioned, rambling rooms, its worn sills that left wide spaces under the doors, its closets, its cracks and crevices, its knot-holes and mouse-holes.

If the mice ran away, there was no getting them back again; the children must have that fact to begin with, mamma said.

"I'm going to sell the young ones as soon as they are big enough, for twenty-five cents apiece," said Johnny, "so I can buy a scroll saw."

"But half the money will be mine," Nannie reminded him.

At first they set the trap on a high shelf, and the old mice climbed out of their round window and ran about for exercise, but did not dare jump off. This answered very well till one of the baby mice climbed out too, and fell to the floor. It did not come to any accident, and the children grieved over it really.

After this Johnny brought an old bird-cage out of the garret, and set it on a small round table for the mice to live in.

It is true they could slip between the wires, but they found so much entertainment in running up and down the sides and over the top, that they did not seem likely to leave it.

The little mice grew fast, and soon climbed as well as their parents, and one and all they were afraid to jump from the table.

But one day, on returning from a long drive, the children found one young mouse missing. In the midst of their lamenting, another little mouse—which Nannie was holding slipped from her fingers and scampered up sofa as a flash right under the wainscot.

There was no use hunting for them, they were not even name like the old ones, but with as any little gray mouse that ever fled from the heels of a cat.

By this time Johnny's dreamed of a scroll saw were growing dim.

Hardly a day passed without some new excitement about the mice.

Once one of the old mice got away, but he was grayer enough to dark around in the moonlight. Johnny, after three days he was lured back to his family by dining in the dark hours of the night a sliced cherry draped so that one end lay on the floor, and the other on the table with some crackers and cheese just beyond. He seemed delighted to get home again.

The very next afternoon, Minnie Fay, a little girl from across the lots, came to play with the children. Johnny was upstairs most of the time arranging his Noah's ark, but the little girls ran up and down, in and out, and did everything they could think of.

"There's no harm, mamma, that used to be mamma's," said Nannie, pulling the bureau out of a closet, and setting it in the sewing-chair. "Come see the things in it, Minnie."

"In a minute," said Minnie. "Show me first how this doll's hat goes on."

Then they left them off to have a tea party under the apple trees, and after that they ran over a pile of shingles for the fun of hearing them rattle.

"Hold on, Senator," said the Western editor; "I'm not in the scorning business this morning. This place is not what I expected, but the weather is very cold, and I don't care to go home and give the boys a lunge at my expense. A thousand dollars isn't much, but it will do to start in on. Mr. Secretary, I am ready to go to work."

And to work he went. He occupies the important position of—but no, he is an editor, and for the honor of the craft we will not give him away.—Buckingham Hatchet.

RUSSIA is to try to use petroleum refuse as fuel on her black Sea fleet. The success of the failure in previous attempts are said to have been overcome by improvements effected by M. Bathoue in the apparatus employed for combustion. At Batoum the refuse can be delivered for less than forty cents a ton.

IT is said that at the Court Opera at Vienna they incandescent lamps, suspended by fine swinging wires, give the effect of swarms of fireflies flashing and flitting about in a tropical forest. By switches the current is turned off and on at the pleasure of the operator, and the effect is electrical in other than a literal sense.

THERE are a great many men in this little world who always talk cheese, but who live chalk.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

"All The Same."

I know a darling baby girl—
Miss Tittie is her name;
She has the cutest little way
Of saying anything she'll say
With three words—"All the same."

We left her shoes an angel child,
That wouldn't trust heaven's care came;
She'll listen, wandering the while,
And then she'll answer, with a smile,
"I'm Clytie, all the same."

Again she's naughty, and we scold:
She meekly lays our blame—
Feels not a little, bids her face,
And, ere it meets, with matchless grace,
"You love me, all the same."

Sometimes we laugh when we should frown—
I own it, to our shame.
I tell her to put down my pen:
She minds, but says, "Please day again
I'll take it all the same."

All sweetness and all mischief both
Dwell in her girl's frame,
And anything she ever may do—
Alas! I think she knows it, too—
She's sure of me, "all the same."
—Harper's Young People.

White Mice.

When Johnny and Nannie went into the country for the summer, they carried a great care with them in the shape of two white mice and six little baby mice, a small wire trap.

Think of taking pet mice to Aunt Ann's house, with its great, old-fashioned, rambling rooms, its worn sills that left wide spaces under the doors, its closets, its cracks and crevices, its knot-holes and mouse-holes.

If the mice ran away, there was no getting them back again; the children must have that fact to begin with, mamma said.

"I'm going to sell the young ones as soon as they are big enough, for twenty-five cents apiece," said Johnny, "so I can buy a scroll saw."

"But half the money will be mine," Nannie reminded him.

At first they set the trap on a high shelf, and the old mice climbed out of their round window and ran about for exercise, but did not dare jump off. This answered very well till one of the baby mice climbed out too, and fell to the floor. It did not come to any accident, and the children grieved over it really.

After this Johnny brought an old bird-cage out of the garret, and set it on a small round table for the mice to live in.

It is true they could slip between the wires, but they found so much entertainment in running up and down the sides and over the top, that they did not seem likely to leave it.

The little mice grew fast, and soon climbed as well as their parents, and one and all they were afraid to jump from the table.

But one day, on returning from a long drive, the children found one young mouse missing. In the midst of their lamenting, another little mouse—which Nannie was holding slipped from her fingers and scampered up sofa as a flash right under the wainscot.

There was no use hunting for them, they were not even name like the old ones, but with as any little gray mouse that ever fled from the heels of a cat.

By this time Johnny's dreamed of a scroll saw were growing dim.

Hardly a day passed without some new excitement about the mice.

Once one of the old mice got away, but he was grayer enough to dark around in the moonlight. Johnny, after three days he was lured back to his family by dining in the dark hours of the night a sliced cherry draped so that one end lay on the floor, and the other on the table with some crackers and cheese just beyond. He seemed delighted to get home again.

The very next afternoon, Minnie Fay, a little girl from across the lots, came to play with the children. Johnny was upstairs most of the time arranging his Noah's ark, but the little girls ran up and down, in and out, and did everything they could think of.

"There's no harm, mamma, that used to be mamma's," said Nannie, pulling the bureau out of a closet, and setting it in the sewing-chair. "Come see the things in it, Minnie."

"In a minute," said Minnie. "Show me first how this doll's hat goes on."

Then they left them off to have a tea party under the apple trees, and after that they ran over a pile of shingles for the fun of hearing them rattle.

"Hold on, Senator," said the Western editor; "I'm not in the scorning business this morning. This place is not what I expected, but the weather is very cold, and I don't care to go home and give the boys a lunge at my expense. A thousand dollars isn't much, but it will do to start in on. Mr. Secretary, I am ready to go to work."

And to work he went. He occupies the important position of—but no, he is an editor, and for the honor of the craft we will not give him away.—Buckingham Hatchet.

RUSSIA is to try to use petroleum refuse as fuel on her black Sea fleet. The success of the failure in previous attempts are said to have been overcome by improvements effected by M. Bathoue in the apparatus employed for combustion. At Batoum the refuse can be delivered for less than forty cents a ton.

IT is said that at the Court Opera at Vienna they incandescent lamps, suspended by fine swinging wires, give the effect of swarms of fireflies flashing and flitting about in a tropical forest. By switches the current is turned off and on at the pleasure of the operator, and the effect is electrical in other than a literal sense.

THERE are a great many men in this little world who always talk cheese, but who live chalk.

paper, but the two little mice were gone utterly.

Suddenly Nannie exclaimed,—

"I thought I saw a tail! I do believe they're under my little bureau in that chair!"

They lifted the bureau. No mice were under it, however; they pulled out the lower drawer there, among shells and pebbles, lay, crowded and cowering, a dusty little trembling mouse! And when they pulled out the second drawer, there crouched mother, just as dusty and trembling, among some cards.

Mamma caught them carefully and put them back into the cage, where the old ones seemed rejoiced to see them, and where they began to eat bread and milk as if they were almost starved.

"They might have died in there," she said. "I suppose Minnie put them there to keep till she went home, and forgot them."

It was a great relief to have this excitement well over and the mice safe in their cage again, for mamma had really expected to have to send to Minnie's house, for fear she had the mice in her pocket, and might forget and sit down on them.

The night passed tranquilly, the next day dawned fair, and no more mice were missing. It seemed good not to think anything about them, but to feed them.

But early after breakfast, Minnie Fay was seen coming up the yard in a very business-like way, with a small box in her hands. Nannie ran to meet her, but she walked right past her.

"Here, Johnny," she said, "here's your white mice. Mother won't let me keep them. She says money wouldn't hire her to have them in the house; and besides, our cat would get them."

Johnny stared in amazement, and opened the box. There were two little white mice, looking so cunning it was a wonder Mrs. Fay didn't want them. But where did they come from? He had just left three upstairs.

"Why, I thought you left them in Nannie's bureau!" he said, confused.

"I didn't touch her bureau," answered Minnie. "I put them in my pocket, and laid my handkerchief down over them."

"Why, then those are the first mice! the first mice!" cried Nannie. "They have been hiding in the bureau, and that's why they looked so dirty and ate so much."

Then the whole family had to go upstairs to look at the mice, to count them, and to compare them. Yes, there certainly were the same number in one particular chair and at one particular table every night until 11 o'clock. Then he stalks off to bed. He is a one to 60 years of age, and is said to be the last barber in New York. He gets his own prices for his work, and probably has older customers than any other barber in the world. He shaved Fernando Wood thirty years.—New York letter.

A NEW religious sect has arisen in England which worships Mother Eve. The daughters of Eve are worshiped by all sects.

THE LIME-KILN C

Some Sage Advice by Bro

"My frens," began Bro in a voice so carefully s a single lamp was up spoke to you on de de man who has trus armed wid a sledge
over a leu-acre lot,
Up to de beginnin' of century truth was hi
'mong all nashuns, bu hundred yahs de bigges de cake. While de lie tolerably well for a fe reach de pint of hol hit' in de same street master, de mills of grindin' away, an' all gits a drap an' an
bod. When you can man says you have him.

"I see befo' me to-sons who am probably en as a frend to stop an' man what you
reputashun fur candor can't buy his postage an' dem to pay his sit on de jury twice has selected to pass bleshun an' fair hope dat ebery
Cookin' was nashuns, swoop he was knocked las' week. Ben Butler an' to-day he would be ept fur de pickers of bacco packages. De rizens say one of you makes you sigh for hivent' new enthrons oratory from de Speak
Congress, you am a good can't be still tep. Dar some roots an' hicks.
may also off a leetle no fust to be damaged in
"One of de evils of de ashuns am its pronesse de peanicake deck, whe de pilot-house above the captain crying, 'Star
Starboard! and steer shore.'
ly used freckle-faced co and blue eyes, weight ty-five pounds, is a blue eyes, black hair, small hands and nose on left shoulder. Has the baby anywhere? Have the properly prepared burial, and sent to H. 5, Cleveland.

"I was 'K,' and they were hunting for my body to prepare it for burial. My friend came back, but found me gone. I refused to move, but, being much stronger, he compelled me to get up and go. Arriving at the house, he dragged me unwillingly along. My farmer met us and almost carried me across the fields to a low two-roomed log cabin. In the smaller room, containing two beds, I was at last permitted to lie down. The long, black neck of a bottle was inserted between my lips and I drank and drank until it was gently removed. The draught warmed me.

"I alternated between consciousness and unconsciousness, but remembered much that passed about me. A large man with a tall hat, black satin vest, and heavy gold chain came in and lay down on the other bed. He certainly had not been in the room before, and I was positive he had been saved in a boat. A man in the next room was exclaiming about the drowning.

"'Mine Gott! Mine Gott! My monish is all gone. Mine monish is all gone. Mine wife is gone, mine son is gone. Oh, mine Gott, mine monish is all gone!'

"Again and again that inconsolable wail went up. Then I heard the tall man call out wrathfully:

"'Can't some one kill that d——d Dutchman?'

"Then I dozed off again. When I awoke more people were coming in, hearing a woman, and they were saying she was the only woman saved. I heard them say that eight men swam ashore, and that they were saved in a boat. Only twenty-eight saved out of over four hundred! Toward evening they put us all in a heavy lumber wagon, on a bed of straw, to take us, they said, to 'Lloyd's Tavern, three miles away.' Jolting along over a rough road, the pain in my chest and limbs became unbearable, and I remembered nothing more.

"Days afterward I awoke from what seemed a long sleep. I found myself lying on a bed in a strange room alone. The sound of voices came in through the open window and from the halls, where people were constantly passing to and fro. They were talking of a great disaster, of dead bodies laying in heaps on the sand waiting to be claimed, of makes you sigh for a leetle while, of lumber being used for coffins, of carpenters working overtime, and of others being buried in a trench. There was something about county lines, of coroners quarreling over fees, of thieves in boats at night stripping the drowned bodies and bearing rings from fingers and ears. Those monotonous voices were forever talking about that one thing.

"Well, what if they are dead? The dead were at rest. What had I to do with that shipwreck? Why did not some one come to me? What was I doing here in this strange room? Why was I so stiff and sore, so full of pain, so weak I could not move? I fell asleep again, and when I awoke still the same voices were talking about poor drowned bodies, thieves, coroners, and lands; and then came a dim recollection that I had known something about that ship wreck. It all came back to me clear and distinct.

Soon afterward a man came with broth, and nourishing food, of which I ate with a relish while he answered my questions. This was Saturday, and I had left Buffalo on the Sunday preceding. Lloyd's Tavern was fifteen miles from the city of Cleveland. I must get up. How could I be here? I must get into the air. I must go home. Home? Why, at home doubtless they mourned me as dead. I had been dead for days to them. I begged the man to bring me some clothes. He brought me some old garments much too large for me, with an old black shocked hat, and helped me to dress, for I was too weak to stand alone. He then placed me comfortably in an easy chair, and told me to rest awhile. At length, feeling rested and stronger, I arose and moved slowly across the room toward the open door.

"I saw a gray-headed old man coming toward me, poorly dressed, with an old hat in hand, and a stubby beard on his face. I thought that perhaps he was one of the shipwrecked. I spoke to him kindly, but he did not reply, and still advanced. I stopped; he stopped also. We stared at each other. I spoke again. His lips moved, but not a sound left them. I drew forward a chair and sat down. He sat down also, staring half fearfully at me. Great God! was that myself? That white hair—could it be mine? No, it was my wig. Some one was playing a joke upon me. I put up my hand. No, it would not come off.

"I went back and lay down upon my bed, very weak, utterly disheartened. Later I was driven slowly down to the beach, and I saw all that was left of the steamer—a few blackened spars and the charred hull. Many people were examining, either from curiosity or for identification, the bodies as they were brought in. There were a long trench in the sand, in which were placed those not identified. It appeared that the steamer had been wrecked on a county line, and two coroners' juries there quarreling over the bodies and claiming their fees.

"My friend helped me out of the wagon, and seated me on a rock close by—a most forlorn and unkempt figure I must have presented. Two men stood near whom I sat and one of them spoke of having received another telegram from Cleveland inquiring if the body of the man K— had been found. A cold chill ran down my back. Producing the telegram, he read the description:

"'Twenty-eight years of age, 5 feet 9 inches in height, weight about 160 pounds, dark hair, blue eyes, black hair, small hands and feet, nose on left shoulder. Has the body been found? Have it properly prepared for burial, and send

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Gleanings.

It is a positive calamity to the consumer in this country to have anyone discover an additional product in this rich land. What should be a good gift of Providence is at once perverted into a burden. The product which may have been cheap before is immediately taxed, and the consumer made to pay for it. And this is called protection.

The wages of labor are not protected by the tariff. Wages in this country are higher than elsewhere because a man is worth more here than anywhere else in the world. He is worth more here because we have in this country free soil, free schools, a free press and various other details of freedom. He would be worth still more if we had free trade.—Boston Herald.

Wages have been materially reduced under protection. The importation of cheap foreign labor by the ship load has pressed down the rate of wages in the protected coal and iron mines to sixty-five cents a day. Free traders have not done this. It has been the work of protectionists. The latter have imported masses of cheap labor, under contract, for the sole purpose of reducing wages, and they have succeeded in accomplishing their purpose.—Jackson Patriot.

"How mildly they talk of swindles and frauds nowadays," said a republican politician to a democratic friend. "They don't say 'steal,' they say 'speculate' and 'defalcate' and 'appropriate!'" "Yes," added the democrat, "and sometimes, after a presidential election, they say 'seven-eight!'" "Ah, yes; ahem!" said the other, "I don't remember now exactly to what you refer. Something about the famous fifteen puzzle, wasn't it? Yes, that last quite a run at one time." And he bade him good morning.—Free Press.

The Flint Journal says the alleged interview with Governor Begole by a representative of the Detroit Journal "was couched in language so grossly inaccurate that the governor failed to recognize it as coming from him when we showed him the paper and asked as to its reliability." The governor, it adds, "is to a certain extent in favor of free trade, and he said as much to the interviewer. But the language used and many statements originated only on the fertile brain of the representative of the Post and Tribune's evening supplement, the Detroit Journal."

A man who is thorough master of a trade carries his capital in his head. He is independent, and should be self reliant, as his services will be always in requisition, unless, perchance, he has drifted into some portion of the world where trade and manufactures are in a state of decadence. It may be an excellent thing to endow a youth with a splendid education, but often we find such young men failures in a business way. But there is no excuse for a first-class mechanic or engineer ever being found in an unfortunate plight. The man possessing a good scientific or mechanical education who cannot make his way successfully through life must be composed of very poor material.

The attitude of Manitoba presents an opportunity to the Irish patriots on this side of the border to strike a blow at the "perfidious Sassenach" sooner than all the dynamite they could ship in 10 years. They will have to explode nothing more dangerous than their mouths, a form of detonation they are peculiarly elocutant. Let them move to Winnipeg, become citizens there, and vote the pro-issue of the Dominion and into the Union. All Canada could be wrested from Great Britian in this way if the Irish chose to do it. Half the Irishmen in New York city could improve their own fortunes and annex everything between lake Superior and Alaska by simply moving north of the 49th parallel.—Evening News.

When the smoke clears away from all these petty contests over the republican and democratic nominations, the form of Ben Butler will appear rising like an unbottled afrite from the political chaos. The grandest convention of Maine yesterday fired the first shot for him, and the reverberant tone thereof will soon be heard in nearly every state in the Union, echoed back from knights of labor conventions, greenback conventions, anti-monopolist conventions, and finally in the national conventions of those elements at Chicago and Indianapolis. There will be a million votes in closely divided states behind these various movements, and the democratic party may have the alternative presented to it of choosing between the cock-eyed Son of Destiny and certain death.—Evening News.

"Protection" does not increase the wages of the employe, but it does greatly increase the cost of every article he has to buy. His woolen clothes cost him almost double, carpets a third more, dress goods for his wife and family almost 76 per cent more, woolen shawls 80½ per cent more, worsted shawls 69½ per cent more, etc. And if he builds a little house, he is fined $2 a thousand on lumber, 50c per cent on common glass if less than 10 by 15 inches, 20½ per cent if over 10 by 15 and less than 16 by 24, and 40 per cent on glass from 16 by 24 to 24 by 36 inches. He is also instructed exhorbitantly on nails, bolts, locks, paints, oils, and in fact nearly every article that goes into the building. And then, when he comes to furnish his house he is forced to pay from 35 to 55 per cent on ironware, 35 to 50 on table cutlery, and 40 to 50 per cent on earthen and glassware. But, if he wishes to indulge in diamonds and other gems, the tariff-tax on these is only ten per cent. If, even, he wishes to erect a slab over the grave of wife or child the tariff-tax on the marble is 65½ per cent ad valorem. O, yes; protection is a grand thing for the workingman. —Grand Rapids Democrat.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parmelee's Santonine Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Peevishness, sudden starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Be wise and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Drive dull care away. Be cheerful, be pleasant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parmelee's Blood Purifier, it acts upon the liver and kidneys, it regulates the bowels and purifies the blood, it acts upon the digestion, it carries off the old blood and makes new, and is acquiring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all skin diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

A much-needed work has just made its appearance, in time for the use of the intelligent American citizen during the great political events of this year. It is entitled THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL, 1884, and its contents comprise 150 sketches of eminent persons, of whom American statesmen are the majority, each title illustrated by a recent and authentic portrait. In addition are portraits and sketches of the leading men and women engaged in every department of public life, in this and other countries. Published at one dollar, the work under review is remarkably cheap as well as very convenient, entertaining and valuable. New York: L. Klopsch & Co., 32 White street.

Burgess.

A. W. Chew is census enumerator for Hayes township.

Wm. Gray and F. J. Smith are the board of review.

Jos. Lewis, Jr., raised a large barn on Monday.

Peter Kane has been very sick, but is recovering.

There seems to be a difference of opinion in regard to the location of our church.

E. H. Burgess' saw mill is running on full time.

Owing to continued ill health of Josiah Gibson, his family will remain in the south where they have been all winter.

Elder Robinson has returned from Mt. Pleasant, where he was called to bury his wife.

Sunday school commenced at Maple Grove school house last Sunday, at 11 o'clock a. m., Rev. D. H. Pierce, superintendent, John Brown, assistant.

Chas. Howe has lumber on the ground to build a residence.

Ezra Ferguson has rented the Geo. Cook place for the coming season.

Ironton.

R. M. Cherrie and John Otis arrived in town Saturday.

The prop. John Otis brought merchandise, beef, pork, and potatoes, for the iron company; also one hundred cars for their wood business. She loaded with pig iron and returned to Chicago on Thursday.

The Champlain came on Sunday and loaded with pig iron, leaving for Chicago on Monday morning.

Preaching at the school house last Sunday afternoon, by Rev. G. W. Bell; in the evening by Rev. Mr. May.

Oscar Lewis, who proposed to open a shoe store here, renting a house, buying wood, etc., has left town, leaving an unpaid board bill.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by CROCKET BROS., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is and is not $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, April 29, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Allen F. Sherman to Charles Todd, lot No. 3 and s e ¼ of s e ¼, 18-33-5, $400.

Charles Johnescheik to Sophia Johnescheik, 20 acres, 31-34-6, $100.

N. M. Card to Eliza A. Card, w frl ¼ of n e ¼, 8-35-5, $1,000.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Carry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

Plantation Philosophy.

De shrewd man ain' de bes' citizen. De sparrow-hawk is mighty keen, but he' a awful rascal.

De bes' work what a man does is alius slow. De co'n sprout doan rush its way through de clod.

De hos' man sometimes shows dat he is outer humor. De gentlest hoss sometimes tries ter bite yer when yer buckles on de saddle.

When a coward takes up de notion o' fightin', he kin whup a brave man. De snappin' dog what backs inter de fence co ner is awful.

When a 'oman comes ter me an' tells me dat one o' de neighbors is bad, I knows dat one o' dem is bad, but de 'oman what does de talkin' is de one.

De man what am allus at work ain' no sign dat de neighborhood kain do widout him. De suck-aig dog is pokin' roun' while de fox houn' is er sleep.

De prospecks o' man is allus greater den de track what follows. De fish pulls mighty hard fore yer git him onten de water an' yer think dat a ounce eat fish weighs ten poun's.—Cync P. Heald.

A Grand Stairway.

Baron de Thomsen to a New York interviewer: The Calvario Hill, just west of the city of Caracas, the scene of the battle between the Spaniards and the patriots in June, 1821, has been made into a beautiful park. Going up the mount is what I believe to be the most magnificent stairway in the world. I have never seen anything approaching it in stateliness and beauty in Europe. It is of sandstone, 190 feet wide and eighty feet high. The park cost $2,000,000. The crest is 600 feet higher than the level of the city, and is surmounted by a statue of the "Great President," Guzman Blanco, the "Illustrious American" as he is called, who has done so much to pacify and build up the country. He may have made money during this working, but the people certainly have the improvements. He is worth about $15,000,000.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also seventy-two rods more with every good wood lot on it. Has a double door yard, well, cistern and one five year old root for sale. Inquire of J. A. RACOT, on north shore of Pine Lake.

35tf J. A. RACOT.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages interest and instruct young and old. It is acknowledge by the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic, and to the School Boy who longs to lay the foundation of an honest character and make for himself a pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have figured and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.

While preeminently a literary publication, treating principally of EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and sketches of the most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the day.

He pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Ministry, Statesmen, Warriors, Sea-faring, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, National Magnates, Actors, Editors, Historians, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Adventers, Irish Agitators, Gardiners, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Financiers, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES, AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, VILAS, R. McDONALD, HAYMAN, MORRISON, SLOCUM, EDMUNDS, LINCOLN, SABIN, BUTLER, SHERMAN, THURMAN, THOMPSON, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HOADLEY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Of course it contains the names of whether Episcopalians, Presbyterians or Methodists, Baptists or Catholics, Democrats or Republicans, Universalists or Unitarians; THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL takes familiar form the names of which have embraced the names of which have embraced the names of which have embraced CURSE OF LAND MONOPOLY.

The Shameful Way in Which Our Public Domain Has Been Squandered.

Evils of the Land Grant System Brought Up by Hon. William S. Holman.

During the debate in the National House of Representatives on the Post-office appropropriation bill, the Hon. W. S. Holman, of Indiana, exhibited tables, compiled from official reports, showing that in the period embraced between June 30, 1862, and March 4, 1875, the enormous aggregate of nearly two hundred million acres of our public lands had been voted away by Congress in aid of railways, the total length of the railroads for which the grants were made being 20,803 miles. Mr. Holman, in discussing this matter, spoke as follows:

What are the conditions on which these grants were made? What rights has the Government reserved in giving away the enormous wealth of its people? There are some reservations, one of them, treasury and inconsiderable, I admit, but still something. In all of these grants, running through all these years, there are the conditions, varied somewhat in terms but still substantially the same:

"And the said railroad shall be and remain a public highway for the use of the Government of the United States, free from all toll or other charges upon the transportation of any property or troops of the United States."

This is the first right reserved to the Government, and even here in the beginning is a fraudulent purpose. Undoubtedly Congress understood by these terms that the railroad should transport the "property and troops" of the United States free of charge, but you observe a slight ambiguity in the language, and under this ambiguity the Supreme Court has decided that the Government has the right to put its own locomotives and cars on these railroads and by its own employés transport its property and troops free (which of course is impracticable); but if the railroad transport the Government's property and troops then the Government shall pay the railroad company 50 per cent. of the usual rates of transportation. This was decided in the case of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad company vs. The United States, and yet the land grant to that company was made four years after Congress had, by a joint resolution I had the honor to introduce in 1852, declared that the meaning of the terms employed in that reservation was that the railroads corporation "should transport the property and troops of the United States free of charge."

The other right reserved in all these grants is in less ambiguous language and is of the same in substance:

"The said railroad shall transport the mails of the United States at such price as Congress shall by law direct."

Now, these two provisions cover all the rights reserved to the United States in consideration of these imperial grants. Contrary to the manifest intention of Congress, these corporations have under the most extraordinary decision I have known received millions of dollars from your Treasury for carrying your "property and troops," and are still annually receiving large sums and will for all time. But, as I have shown you, so has the clear and unambiguous public right in the rate at which these land-grant roads shall transport our mails. I can at present, of the amount you pay to railroad companies which built their own railroads a reasonable compensation to be paid by the Government to corporations whose railroads were virtually built by the Government? I think it is and is one than reasonable.

There are other grants which I have not included in either of the foregoing tables, where not a symbol of earth has been dug in the construction of a railroad, for the lands are still drawn from settlement and claimed by the corporations, although the grants were long since forfeited. The forfeiture of these grants will of course be declared, and all of these grants over 100,000,000 acres, including over 15,000,000 this House has already declared lapsed or, are beyond any reasonable question forfeited, and the 200,000,000 acres of this forfeiture by Congress is demanded by the blazest consideration of public policy, common honesty, and justice to the people. Even to the extent these land-grant railroads enumerated in the first table were completed, you paid them, as I have shown, last year $1,111,2.91 for using them to carry your mails. This bill would as to these roads, to the extent they are entitled to the lands granted and including the Pacific system, save to the Treasury annually, I believe a million of dollars, perhaps more; but the restoration of the forfeited grants to the public domain is of far greater assets to the people than any such monetary consideration; so that this bill confirming and declaring that none of the provisions "shall be construed to waive or impair any right now existing in favor of the United States." While these corporations generally without the shadow of a pretense for their lands to avoid local taxation, and are in the main holding their lands until the Government almost shall be exhausted, they still had taken out patents, up to June 30, 1875, for 47,745,931 acres. It is in the interest of the vast grants they obtain over 50,000,000 more it will be because incorporated wealth is so stronger in controlling our affairs than the sense of justice and public duty which constrains this Government in maintaining the rights of its people. So pirates have of right issued up to June 30, 1875, date of last special report, for 47,745,931 acres, a territory in the aggregate as large as the two great States of Indiana and Ohio combined and nearly a half a million acres more, which this is already done. In the last admirable report of the Commissioner of Public Lands we are told that during the last year twelve additional patents, covering 124 pages of record, were issued. Yes, sir; and instead of these vast fields being covered with cheerful homes and a great multitude of prosperous and independent citizens, a handful of men, mostly the proprietors of landed estates dwarfing the landed power sizes of Europe. Have the audacious who defend this policy ever considered how surely under this policy, if it be persevered until the completion of the railroad republican simplicity of our institutions will give place to a spendid government controlled and supported by corporate power and concentrated wealth?

But the fact must at once be apparent that no demands which the Government can make on the five corporations for free transportation of the mails, property, and troops, now and for all time, could recompense this Government and its people for the lands it has granted. The people who own the land own the true money value of the land granted, enormous as it is. Take a very superficial view of the subject. Had the value of these vast millions of acres been granted in money from the public treasury or expressed in bonds issued by the Government payable in money, the only evil to our free institutions would have been the granting of great bounties by the special favorites of power, and it would be a portion of the people at the expense of their fellow citizens. All monarchies present examples of this policy. The evil, great as it might be, would not go beyond this, and an honest and earnest vicinage of the people would sift and in the progress of time correct it. But the giving away in vast tracts to the favorites or Congress of the fertile lands which, on any just conception of our free institutions, of right to be the freeholds of our people, advancing the price of these lands beyond the reach of the laboring and landless men of the present period and early future, is an evil that admits of no remedy except revolution. To make these grants on the pretense of progress and opening up the wilderness is to teach a despotic power of labor, to give labor a chance, is to invite to our shores the theory of the Middle Ages, baronial estates, baron and serf, the power of the one to shelter the feebleness of the other. Was it through imperial grants the great country from the Atlantic ocean to the Allegheny range was settled, and thence onward to the Mississippi, with a prosperous people, remarkable for the rugged virtues of their manhood, but still more remarkable than any nation in ancient or modern times for general equality in their material power sloue? Here was seen the natural outgrowth of our free institutions. Is the new theory of grants through baronial grants producing such fruits?

But the evils of this system are not limited to the withdrawal for all time from the great body of our laboring and landless people of more than 200,000,000 acres of public domain in territory in the aggregate equaling in extent the whole States as Indiana; nor in creating corporations so great and powerful that they pervade every department of your executive, tampering with official authority and claiming the benefits of every decision, putting the Government itself at defiance; nor in the multiplication of millionaires, but even more terrible than all these is the fact that the railroad grants are not reasons like for two of the purposes set forth in the preamble to each one of the public land: I admit

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 1, 1884.

How the Wool Grower is Not Protected.

The fact that the wool growers through the wool growers association have petitioned congress more vociferously and more constantly than any other class of protectionists is well known; as well known among farmers as any other class. This is true although it is not as well known that the association is run in the interests, not of the wool growers, but in the interest of the woolen goods manufacturers. Farmers ought to know this. The present tariff is as nearly what the wool growers association demanded as could be obtained from congress. To what extent it acts to the benefit of the farmer and to what extent to the manufacturer is very clearly shown by the following excerpt from the Berrien Springs Journal:

Blankets valued at not exceeding thirty cents per pound are taxed ten cents per pound, specific, and thirty five, ad valorem. Thus a foreign blanket weighing eight pounds, valued at New York at thirty cents a pound would be worth $2.40 cents; adding the duty of ten cents per pound would make eighty cents, and to this add the thirty five per cent ad valorem, which would be eighty-four cents, and a total tax of $1.04, making our highest cost $4.04. Now it is easy to see how much the wool grower is protected. Blankets are manufactured from wool of the second class, such as our wool growers do not produce in Michigan. The tariff on that class of wool is two and one-half cents a pound, which, if the blanket is all wool and consumed eight pounds of raw material, would be a tariff of twenty cents. So that if our Michigan farmers produced that kind of wool they would pay out for protection to the blanket maker $1.64 and would receive back 20 cents protection for their wool industry. But as our wool growers do not raise that kind of wool we will make another example to show how their protective tariff theory works. We will suppose that one of our farmers purchases a cloak, sdunna, jacket, talma or an ulster that would weigh eight pounds. The present tariff on that class of goods is forty-five cents a pound and forty per cent ad valorem. The article, we will say, cost $20 if made of wool of the first class raised in Michigan. The tariff on eight pounds would be $3.20, 40 per cent ad valorem would be $8, making $11.20 tariff on the articles imported. The tariff on wool of the first-class is 10 cents a pound, which would be for eight pounds eighty cents. While our Michigan wool grower is protected eighty cents to encourage him to raise sheep, the wool grower in his generosity gives to the manufacturer of the goods mentioned $11.20 to encourage him to manufacture his eight pounds of wool into a dolman or cloak.

WIT AND HUMOR.

A band of Italian brigands captured a Duke recently and held him for thirty days. Any American heiress can do that, and hold him longer.

The facility with which American girls are caught by foreign nobles, and, after being entertained with talk of marriage, are abandoned, is marvelous.

In Philadelphia etiquette a newly-married lady ceases to become a bride when she has sewed a button on her husband's clothes, and is then simply the wife.

Such is the advancement of science that vegetables and fruits can now be grown without the light of the sun, honey made without bees, and butter without cows.

"No," said the man who looked on with unconcern at a fight at the Philadelphia board of aldermen, "that seems nothing to me; I've run an opera company."

The report that a canal-boat Captain on the United States man-of-war which is now in view to using it on the canals, is not true. He did not buy it; he said it was unenamorthy.

Mr. Platt has written a poem to show that the only happy woman is dead. It may be possible that the only happy man living is her husband, but he shall not write a poem to prove it.

The varnish on the heads of cheap canes is depopulating the east of dudes. They suck it off, get sick, and pine away. Let a subscription list be started at once to furnish these canes free.

"Why did you put that nickel with a hole in it in the contribution box?" asked one man of another. "Because I couldn't put the hole in without the nickel, and I had to put in something."

"Yes, my dear," said Mrs. Ramsbottom, spanking of her invalid uncle, "the poor old gentleman has had a stroke of parenthesis, and when I last saw him he was in a state of comma."

Little Jenny belonged to a fashionable set. "Here, Jenny," said her father, "here's a new doll." "Oh, father, that's no good; take it away. They haven't worn those things for a month."

The sarcastic paragraphist of the New York Commercial Advertiser remarks: "Several young ladies in Chicago are studying law in order that they may attend to their own divorce cases in after life.

A missionary says the tallest people on the globe are to be found on the northeastern island of Terra del Fuego. A collector says the "shortest" people on the globe may be found right here at home when a bill is presented.

"Your fare, young lady," said the stage driver, as a pretty miss stepped from his vehicle, and was about tripping away. "Oh, thank you!" responded the absent-minded little beauty; "I think your mustache becomes you real well, too." She got her ride free.

The bar-room loafers are, to credit their talk, the most broad-minded and comprehensive financiers we have. They pay the national debt daily leaning against lamp-posts, and settle tariffs and other great problems with great ease sitting on dry goods boxes.

"Do you think your horse has a soul?" a Somerville philhippist asked a brother hippologist the other day as the two met in Union Square. "I don't know whether he's got a soul or not," was the reply, "but I'm pretty certain he's got the hoaves."

The Henderson (Ky.) Times longs for the time when every man will tell the truth because it is right, be honest because it is right, and live soberly because it is right. It strikes us that for a Kentucky editor this is saking a good deal.—Boston Post.

A country newspaper's weekly market report contains the item: "There has not been enough country butter in town this week to grease a gimlet." These country newspaper people have odd ways about them. Now, what in the world do they want to grease their gimlets with butter for?

When a Cottage Hill little girl was taken to a dentist to have a tooth extracted, she noticed that her mother referred to the operation as "pulling" and the dentist as "extracting," and she, fearing a double torture, inquired plaintively of the dentist: "Doctor, shall I have to have my tooth extracted after it is pulled?"—Oil City Derrick.

"What is a pharmaceutical association?" asked a little damsel who had carefully spelled out the long name in the paper, and the old gentleman, aroused from a perusal of the stock list, answered: "Farmers' cuticle association? Some of those fellows who go around talking in the school house, I suppose. Why don't you read something easier, my dear."—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

First detective—"Hist! I have a clew." Second D.—"Hush! Don't speak so loud. What is it?" First D.—"Are we observed?" Second D.—"Nay, we are alone, but speak low; no person can hear us. Where did you find your clew?" First D.—"In this paper. Here it is, right in the beginning of this piece of poetry. List! 'There is blood upon the moon.'"—Philadelphia Call.

A concert by a Chinese band was given in New York on Monday evening. There were no encores. From the fact that a member of the audience, as he left the hall, heartlessly remarked that if capital punishment was ever abolished he would advocate treating murderers to a serenade by a Chinese band, it is inferred that he was not overwhelmingly pleased with the concert.—Scarritown Herald.

Love is a strange affair! Why, we once knew a man who was dead in love with a fair young woman. He loved her so devotedly that he never told her that he was suffering from epilepsy, shingles and divers other diseases, or so much as lisped that his ancestors on both sides for three generations back had died in the lunatic asylum. He was too generous to pain the fair creature.—Boston Transcript.

A truce is called for metropolitan jealousy. "Love your neighbor as yourself," Philadelphia is not "a sleepy old town;" Boston's heart is not a can of baked beans, and she is not a city of sluggers and affected people who say "culchaw;" Cincinnati is truly musical, and her people are not swine; Chicago ladies have as small feet as the daintiest, and St. Louis is not a dirty French settlement. "Let us have peace."—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

A young attorney of this city has for a client a lady who resides on L. street, and is possessed of considerable real estate. A few days since she called at the office of her attorney and informed him that she desired to secure the services of Judge "Dennison" to assist in certain litigation. The young attorney objected; said she could hire the services of Judge "Dennison" as advisory counsel, but he would not give up the management of the case. "However," he remarked, "if you do not think I have ability enough to conduct your case I will step to one side, and you can employ Judge 'Dennison.'" "La me," she replied, "I have every confidence in your ability; I was only afraid you did not know enough."—Sacramento (Cal.) Union.

A gentleman in a street-car, while reading a newspaper, discovered a paragraph which struck him as particularly funny. "Here is something good," he said to his neighbor, and read the item to him. A tired look swept over the gentleman's face, but he never smiled. Presently the reader came across another paragraph that belonged to the story. "I will try him with this one," he said. He did so, and a tear actually welled out of his neighbor's eye and coursed slowly down his cheek. "Heavens, man!" was the exclamation, "what's the matter with you? have you no sense of humor? What do you do to pass away the time, anyway?" Looking mournfully out of the window the stranger replied: "I am a proof-reader on a comic weekly."—Philadelphia Call.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv...		7 40am	7 15pm
Richmond.....	2 37pm	10 32	9 30
Hagerstown.....	3 01	11 22	11 00
Ridgeville.....	3 11	11 35	11 12
Fort Wayne, ar.	4 45	2 25pm	2 50
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 45	2 50	8 05am
Kendallville...		3 05	3 30	8 37
Sturgis.....		3 33	3 51	10 35
Vicksburg.....		4 13	4 13	11 48
Kalamazoo, ar.		4 54	4 55	12 50pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 02	7 12	1 00
G'd Rapids, ar.		9 05	9 22	3 07
G'd Rapids, lv	7 15am		9 50	4 45
D G H & M cros	7 30		10 05	5 05
Howard City....	8 47		11 20	6 27
Big Rapids.....	9 43		12 10pm	7 22
Reed City.....	10 17		1 12	8 18
Cadillac, ar.....	11 25		2 21	9 30
Cadillac, lv.....			2 30	9 50
Traverse City, ar			6 55
Kalkaska, lv....			4 17	12 00am
Manistique.....			1 40	12 55
Boyne Falls.....			5 47	2 20
Petoskey, ar.....			6 24	3 14
Harbor Springs.			7 15	9 45
Mackinaw City.			8 00	6 00
St. Ignace.....			10 00	8 50
Marquette.....			T 00am	5 00pm
Negaunee, ar			9 12	7 08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv....			5 15pm	7 30am
Marquette.....			6 00	8 30
St. Ignace.....			7 40am	6 15pm
Mackinaw City.			9 30	8 15
Harbor Springs.			7 00	4 20
Petoskey, lv....			7 38	5 00
Boyne Falls.....			8 15	12 27am
Manistique.....			9 10	2 11
Kalkaska.....			9 51	2 58
Traverse City, lv			5 45am
Cadillac, ar.....			11 37	5 20
Cadillac, lv.....		3 30pm	11 45	5 50
Reed City.....		4 26	1 12pm	7 16
Big Rapids.....		5 12	1 44	7 49
Howard City.....		6 08	2 35	8 47
D G H & M cros		7 28	3 18	10 05
G'd Rapids, ar.		7 40	4 05	10 25
G'd Rapids, lv	6 52am		4 20	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, ar.	8 32		6 32	2 24
Kalamazoo, lv.	6 37		6 52	2 29
Vicksburg.....	8 07		7 22	3 01
Sturgis.....	10 04		8 16	4 12
Kendallville...	11 18		9 35	5 21
Fort Wayne, ar	12 52pm		10 52	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 52	5 37am	12 05am
Ridgeville.....	1 09	7 56	2 30
Winchester.....	1 26	8 16	2 55
Richmond, ar..	1 47	9 17	4 05
Cincinnati, ar.	7 05pm	12 50pm	7 30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Ass't G. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS.

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Barhoite Bros.'s new

Opera Block

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD $100 $100

We manufacture and sell it with the positive guarantee that it will cure any Case, and we will forfeit the above amount if fail in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION as sometimes. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1870.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L.B.Connor

Opposite Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 43. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

CHURCHILL & GRIBBLE, Attorneys at Law. Office in Bates' Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

CHURCHILL & CHRISHANK. C. J. GRIBBLE.

CHRISHANK & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

BRIGGS & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

C. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

CARL L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building; entrance on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich

H. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

CORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

C. V. GARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Savings department. Depositors secured by pledge of government bonds, real estate, and personal notes for more than above amount. Loans to be on first mortgages. Foreign and domestic exchange.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., in opera house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in the school house.

C. F. VANALKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.

J. T. HOLMES, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX ROUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY now the first and third Thursday evenings of each month, at the town hall.

R. F. BUSBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

J. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

L. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, and Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times. Inquire at Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class horses and carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

A. CARLSTEIN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. BEAVES, M. D. Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

ISAAC S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Ag't., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. R.—Baxter Post No. 149, meets second Tuesday in each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 357, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. & A. M.—Temple Lodge No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 363, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

A. BUTTARS, President. A. H. UPRIGHT, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money loaned on approved paper at reasonable rates. Drafts sold. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

E. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

FARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. S. HUDSON,

Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its proximity to the steamboat docks and railroad depot insures it a liberal share of the traveling public's patronage.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and keep up the system you will find Pierce's Cure Powders unequalled. Full pounds 25 cents. For sale by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-39

THE JOURNAL

Is published every Thursday morning,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

CHURCHILL & GRIBBLE, Attorneys at Law. Office in Bates' Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

CHURCHILL & CHRISHANK. C. J. GRIBBLE.

CHRISHANK & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

BRIGGS & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

C. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

CARL L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building; entrance on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich

H. M. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

CORTON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

C. V. GARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Savings department. Depositors secured by pledge of government bonds, real estate, and personal notes for more than above amount. Loans to be on first mortgages. Foreign and domestic exchange.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., in opera house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in the school house.

C. F. VANALKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.

J. T. HOLMES, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX ROUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY now the first and third Thursday evenings of each month, at the town hall.

R. F. BUSBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

J. SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

L. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, and Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times. Inquire at Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class horses and carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

A. CARLSTEIN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

LEWIS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. BEAVES, M. D. Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

ISAAC S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Ag't., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. R.—Baxter Post No. 149, meets second Tuesday in each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 357, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

F. & A. M.—Temple Lodge No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 363, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

A. BUTTARS, President. A. H. UPRIGHT, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A general banking business transacted. Money loaned on approved paper at reasonable rates. Drafts sold. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

E. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

FARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. S. HUDSON,

Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its proximity to the steamboat docks and railroad depot insures it a liberal share of the traveling public's patronage.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and keep up the system you will find Pierce's Cure Powders unequalled. Full pounds 25 cents. For sale by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-39

1872 — 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery,

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my work and prices.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best Time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Plater.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (free) the recipe for a simple vegetable pain that will remove tan, pimples, freckles, and blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also a receipt for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3 cent stamp, Box 3, CANTON, Conn. 8-39-3m

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT. The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, Frederick B. Jackson versus William H. Condon. Notice is hereby given that on the eighteenth (18th) day of March, A. D. 1884, a writ of attachment was duly issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, at the suit of Frederick B. Jackson, the above named plaintiff, against the land, moneys, goods, and chattels, moneys and effects of William H. Condon, the above named defendant, for the sum of four hundred and ninety dollars, for which said writ was returnable on the first (1st) day of April, A. D. 1884.

Dated April 8th, A. D. 1884.

CROUTER & GRIBBLE, Attorneys for Plaintiff.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 111 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Soil, clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 55 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 250 fruit trees beginning to bear. One acre of raspberries and one acre fall. Terms: three thousand seven hundred dollars, will not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

Lieut. Adolphus W. Greely.

LOST IN THE ARCTIC REGIONS.

At last, the first vessel of the Greely relief expedition, the "Bear," has sailed for the Arctic regions on its humane mission of rescue. Two other vessels, the Thetis and Alert, will soon follow, and if Lieut. Greely and his party are still survivors, they may yet be rescued and returned to their country and friends.

It will be remembered that the Greely expedition set out in midsummer nearly three years ago, to man one of the polar stations in the north, established for scientific purposes, by the leading governments of the world. The party left the ship "Proteus" at Lady Franklin bay and proceeded northward. Nothing was heard of Greely and his followers for some time, and then reports were received at the war and navy department, that the party were in distress. An expedition was immediately sent for their relief, which was compelled to return without accomplishing its purpose, or even being able to obtain any reliable information in regard to the fate and whereabouts of the missing party.

The details of the organization and equipment of the present expedition by congressional action are fully known to our readers. We publish an excellent likeness of Lieut. Greely, who was born in Massachusetts, and is about forty years of age. He is not a graduate of any of the military academies, and he entered the war as a private. His military record is highly honorable. From private he was promoted to corporal and first sergeant in company B, of the nineteenth Massachusetts infantry. On the 18th of March, 1863, he was made second lieutenant in the eighty-first U. S. colored infantry and in April, 1864, he was promoted to first lieutenant. He was breveted major on the 13th of March, 1865, for "faithful and meritorious service." He was made captain of the eighty-first colored infantry on the 4th of April, 1865, and on the 22d of March, 1867, he was honorably mustered out.

Upon the reorganization in 1869, he was assigned to the fifth cavalry, and became first lieutenant in 1873, which is his present rank.

Protection to Labor.

There is now a bill before congress which we hope to see dismissed far and wide and then passed and strictly enforced. This is a bill to prohibit the importation of hordes of foreign laborers brought here in gangs under contracts precisely similar to the Chinese coolies, and placed in direct competition with American workingmen. These miserable paupers are in reality slaves who contract to work at figures which possibly might afford them a bare subsistence at home, but which place them at the point of starvation here. Ignorant of our language, ignorant of nearly everything, they are quite at the mercy of their inhuman masters for when they are obliged to toil under their contracts in the hope of returning at the end of a period to their homes. But the worst feature of their advent in this country is the displacement of American workingmen by those European coolies.

About a week ago several ship loads of Hungarian coolies were brought over under contract to work in the coal mines of Pennsylvania at specified prices for a term of years. The figures at which they agree to work would reduce any decent laboring man to starvation, and the poor coalies themselves are finding out that even they cannot support life in this country upon their miserable stipend. Yet they are forced to remain by their contracts, because they imagine in their ignorance that they can do nothing else and have no rights or remedies. The Pennsylvania miners are clamoring because the Hungarian coolies are depriving them and their families of bread. The fifth, degradation and brutish ignorance of these imported slaves has alarmed the communities to which they have been brought, and there have been already several incipient riots, with the probability of more serious troubles yet to come. The Pennsylvania episode is found repeated in other parts of the country. A great railroad in the state of New York has just been built by droves of wretched Italians, imported under a contract system precisely similar to the other coolie arrangement we have mentioned. These Italians herded together in huts and box cars, filthy, degraded, quarrelsome, and ignorant, and by their pauper labor deprived hundreds of intelligent American workmen of their daily bread. It has been shown before a congressional committee that the cotton manufacturers of New England have also been guilty of importing European coolie laborers under contract the same way. It was only a short time ago that some large corporations doing business at points on the great lakes summoned to their employes and the long shoremen working for them that they had sent to Europe for several hundred Italians, who would work for less than half the wages which the long shoremen's union consented to recognize as just and adequate.

These cases illustrate the deplorably selfish tendency that animates many of our largest employers of labor, who in their blind greed, fail to see that they are undermining the pillars which uphold the peace and welfare of this country. Americans will not submit to the importation of either Chinese or European slave labor to this country to depress the wages of intelligent and free workingmen below the starvation point. These foreign wretches do not come over like ordinary immigrants to settle down in various places throughout the country like independent men and citizens about to be. They come over as beggars and slaves, and return to Europe in the same condition. Not one of them ever becomes a citizen of this republic or gains any foothold as an independent laborer.

It is high time that the general government put a stop to these importations by law. The happiness and welfare of the masses at large is of superior importance to the increased wealth of a few large employers of labor. The democrat party has pledged itself in its platforms, both state and national, to guard the interests of the man who works for his day's wages equally with all other classes citizens. It must redeem that pledge by guaranteeing to the workingman an opportunity to win a comfortable subsistance, for himself and his family. Justice, humanity, and the stability of our institutions demand that the intelligent American workman be protected against enforced competition with coolie or slave labor in any form.—Peoria Transcript.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous condition. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side, constipation, excessive flow of urine, insatiable thirst, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness, for they not only cure Diabetes, Beliefe's disease, &c., but prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00, sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

A RATHER handsome young lady in Pittsburgh called on a physician the other day and complained of a slight dullness of hearing, which interfered with whispered conversations. A shoemutton was found in one of her ears and a couple of beans in the other. She supposed they had been poked in there by her lover as a joke.

A NEW YORK car doctor says there is a butcher in that city who comes to him regularly two or three times every summer to have the fleas taken out of his ears. Sometimes there will be as many as half a dozen in each ear. When they get to playing leap frog on the tympanum he says it is worse than the beating of a thousand snare drums.

A LITTLE boy was buried at Meridian, Miss., the other day, and behind the hearse in the funeral procession walked his pony, with its saddle draped with crape. Strangers even looked with moistened eyes upon the little fellow's pet, upon which he had been often seen to ride through the streets but a little while ago.

THE bill prohibiting the landing of Chinese in British Columbia is to be carried immediately into effect. A steamship with 500 Chinamen is now due from China, and, in reply to the Provincial Secretary, Premier Smythe telegraphed recently, that, under any circumstances, the Chinese must not be allowed to land.

GRANT smokes a medium strength cigar, which he imports from Cuba. He talks while smoking, never lets a cigar go out, and smokes the stub on a wooden toothpick. Sherman smokes nervously, and is always relighting his cigar. Sheridan enjoys a quiet smoke, but can't do anything else while he is smoking. Butler rarely lights a cigar, but carries the wrong end in his mouth. Logan smokes only at long intervals, but when he smokes at all it is incessantly.

ESTHETIC London is paying a pilgrimage to the lodgings of the late Mrs. Oscar Wilde. The shrine where the unpaid garment is exhibited is the show room of a fashionable French dressmaker in Regent street. The dress is rather plain, the color worn by Greek maidens on their marriage day, and is adorned with pale violet trimmings, which Hellenic brides would probably hardly countenance. Miss Lloyd's headgear will be of sunflowers.

MR. VILLARD is seldom seen on the street in New York now. He appears rarely at the opera, and spends nearly all of his time when he is in New York in his residence on Madison avenue. If he leaves town for a month or a week it attracts no attention. He has sunk out of sight. He still keeps up his superb establishment on the Hudson River, besides his city house, and lives in the style of a millionaire. The stories about the abject poverty of Villard are no longer heard in New York. He is very comfortable.

A GREAT work was completed recently in Paris. In all the chief streets and squares there were huge maps painted in scrolls of blue and white, with a board in the middle announcing the event; the advertising column of every journal on the boulevards were full of it, and the Figaro had a four-page supplement describing in full detail the nature of the great work completed. The work in question was a gigantic Bon Marche establishment which a certain M. Jahuzé has erected close to the Western Railway terminus. The establishment is not very different from many others both in Paris and London, but in one respect M. Jahuzé's enterprise was unique. He had made arrangements with the Western Railway Company for free excursion trains on the occasion of his opening ceremonies, and all day long provincials from Havre and Rouen flocked in by thousands.

THE prevalent idea that the wooly interior of Madagascar is clothed with immense forests must give way before the recent discovery of M. Grandidier, a young French explorer, which have been communicated to the French Academy of Sciences. The above idea has been propagated by erroneous charts ever since the rudiest appear. Grandidier finds that the whole eastern part of the Island is covered with a tract of highlands, extending over some two-thirds of it. These hills rise to a height of 7,000 feet or 8,000 feet, and are intersected by narrow glens mud dried up lake beds. They are bare of trees, and for the most part covered with grass or tufts of trees. A belt of timber encircles the whole island near the coast, and trees and grasses fringe the shores. The water courses which traverse the plain take their rise near the eastern side of the island.

A CURIOUS case occurred in the auditing of the British army accounts for last year. The Comptroller and Auditor General found that the pensions included one granted to "the widow of a Roman Catholic chaplain." On inquiry it was found that the Roman Catholic chaplain had been actually married, though under an assumed name, to the lady in question, and that on this ground the War Office people granted her a pension. But Sir Henry Dumbar pointed out that the fact of the chaplain being a Roman Catholic precluded him from marrying. It was, therefore, impossible for the Auditor General to recognize the lady in question as a Roman Catholic chaplain's widow, and the pension was disallowed.

WASHINGTON letter: "Uncle Bob Smalls," the well-known colored man who was in the last Congress and the one preceding it, is in Washington again as the successor of Congressman Mackey. "Uncle Bob," as he is called in his district, is very popular in South Carolina. He is quite well off financially, and a person of considerable education. He retains all the affection of slave days for his old master and mistress. Not long ago his old master died, and in the course of events it transpired that his wife became quite destitute. Uncle Bob, who had quietly kept an eye on her, went to her and told her to make his house her home as long as she liked, and insisted upon her going there, occupying the best rooms in the house, and making herself as much at home as if she were in her own house. His horses and carriages were always at her service, and his wife waited upon her as carefully and promptly as she was attended upon twenty years ago.

FOREIGNERS in China, according to the Pekin correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette, make a great outcry about the stupidity of the Chinese in lording out against railways. Chinese do hold out against railways, and they are quite right, he says, in doing so. They feel that to introduce railways at present would be to flood the country with foreign engineers, contractors, managers, machine mechanics, engine drivers, etc., and once there the Chinaman fear they would never leave, but get a hold on the country, and that China would become a second India and pass under foreign rule. Rather than have the foreigner they go without the railway, and bide their time. Railways and all the rest will come as soon as they can make and control them without danger. Coming up to Pekin from Tientsin he was surprised to look out of his boat and see telegraph poles stretching along the country, and learned that there had been a telegraph established between Tientsin and Tung Chun a place fifteen miles from the capital. It was erected under foreign supervision, but is worked entirely by Chinamen. China feels herself competent to work a telegraph, and has it, not only from near Pekin to Tientsin, but from Tientsin southward almost near Shanghai. As soon as China feels that she can work a railway the railway will come. A great deal that is said about China being ready for railways is premature. There is hardly a place in the north of the empire where a railway would pay. What China wants first is good roads. After some ten or fifteen years of good roads an intercommunication traffic will spring up which will call for railways, but at present no such traffic, except perhaps, on one route, has been developed, and a railway, if built to-morrow, would stand rusting its rails in idleness.

THERE is a good deal of talk nowadays about the strength of paper. We are told that a Bank of England note properly folded into a cove will sustain a 3,9 pounds. We shall next hear that our millionaires have had fireproof safes made of this material. We, of course, refer to the fires of this world. There is button thing more to be done, and then we rich people can sit up the sleep of innocence at night undisturbed by alarms, and that is to make paper money which will be burglar-proof as well as fireproof.

AFTER all there is only one fit for solitude who life is lonely, are like nobody, and are fitted by nobody.—Emerson.

ESTHETIC London is paying a pilgrimage to the lodgings of the late Mrs. Oscar Wilde. The shrine where the unpaid garment is exhibited is the show room of a fashionable French dressmaker in Regent street. The dress is rather plain, the color worn by Greek maidens on their marriage day, and is adorned with pale violet trimmings, which Hellenic brides would probably hardly countenance. Miss Lloyd's headgear will be of sunflowers.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Three Little Robbins.

Oh! where is the boy, dressed in jacket of gray,
Who climbed up a tree in the orchard to-day,
And carried my three little birdies away?
They hardly were dressed
When he took from the nest
My three little robbins, and left me bereft.

O wrens! have you seen, in your travels to-day,
A very small boy, dressed in jacket of gray,
Who carried my three little robbins away?
He had light-colored hair,
And his feet were bare.
Ah, me! he was cruel and mean, I declare!

O butterfly! stop just one moment, I pray.
Have you seen a boy dressed in jacket of gray,
Who carried my three little birdies away?
He had pretty blue eyes,
And was small of his size,
Ah! he must be wicked and not very wise.

O bees! with your bags sweetly nectarine, stay.
Have you seen a boy dressed in jacket of gray,
And carrying three little birdies away?
Did he go through the town?
Or go sneaking around
Through hedges and by-ways, with head hanging down?

O boy with blue eyes, dressed in jacket of gray!
If you will bring back my three robbins to-day,
With sweetest of music the gift I'll repay.
I'll sing all day long
My merriest song,
And I'll forgive you this terrible wrong.

Robobinks, did you see my birdies and me,
How happy we were on the old apple tree,
Until I was robbed of my young, so you see?
Oh! how can I sing,
Unless you will bring
My three robbins back to sleep under my wing?

A Pillow Fight.

We've been staying at the seashore for a week, and having a beautiful time. I love the seashore; only it would be a great deal nicer if there wasn't any sea; then you wouldn't have to go in bathing. I don't like to go in bathing, for you get so awful wet, and the water chokes you. Then there are ticks on the seashore in the grass. A tick is an insect that begins by biting you, and never stops till you're all eating, and then you die, and the tick keeps on growing bigger all the time.

There was once a boy and a tick got on him and bit him, and kept on biting for three or four days, and it eating the boy till the tick was almost as big as the boy had been, and the boy wasn't any bigger than a tick, and he died, and his folks felt dreadfully about it. I never saw a tick, but I know that there are lots of them on the seashore, and that's reason enough not to like it.

We staid at a boarding house while we were at the seashore. A boarding house is a place where they give you pure country air and a few vegetables and a little meat, and I say give me a jail where they feed you as if they do keep you shut up in the dark. There were a good many people in our boarding house, and I slept in a room with a third story with two other boys, and they were two years older than me, and I slept up stairs on the third story with two other boys, and they were two years older than me, and I slept up stairs on the third story with two other boys, and they were two years older than me, and I slept up stairs on the

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 9th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
Secretary.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

BAY SPRINGS.

H. B. Chapman's "Tourists' Home," Nearly Ready for Occupancy.

"Have you been to Bay Springs lately?" was asked of the scribe by a business man one day last week. A reply in the negative elicited the information that Chapman's mammoth hotel was about finished, and it would make a good item go and write it up. We went.

Taking the popular steamer, North Star, last Friday afternoon, we were in good time landed at Boyne, and one of the first persons met was H. B. Chapman, with his pony and buggy, apparently waiting for some one to ride with him.

Our errand being made known, he signified his willingness to "show us through," not only the hotel, but the whole of Bay Springs if we wanted. During the past year some 70 or 80 acres have been cleared, sown to wheat and seeded down. Streets are staked out, the tract platted, and lots are now for sale.

It is a well known fact that the old gentleman hopes some day to see the county seat located at that place, and he exhibits his enthusiasm most when pointing out the advantage of the place for the capital of the county. On the highest point he has reserved one square, as he says, for the future court house. The soil is a coarse gravel, and the view of the surrounding country is most excellent. Boyne, Advance, and the fine agricultural land to the south for miles seems right at one's feet. The land slopes gradually to the east, the south, and the west, making, on the whole, an excellent place to build a town.

About half a mile from the "court house square" is a little lake surrounded by gradual slopes, the land on the beech being hard enough to build a mile race track, with a place on the east side just suited to the purpose of a grand stand, the whole especially appropriate for a driving park. On this land the young and thrifty trees have been left, to save replanting, when the place is finally selected for that purpose. Near the "park" is a mineral spring, said to be equal in medical qualities to the famous springs in other parts of the state. In front of the hotel he is building a dock 12 rods front, extending to water deep enough to carry the largest vessels in northern waters. This is built of cedar, and with a view to permanency.

Having noted the "lay of the land," we went to the hotel, to see its "hidden beauties." The main entrance is on the west side, by a few easy steps. Double doors with ground glass lights, open into a broad hall, leading to the center of the building, thence turning to the right to the ladies' parlor, through another hall to the office and to the front varands, to the left into the dining room, or down a flight of stairs to the basement. The ladies' parlor is 18x20 feet, and fronts the west and south.

The office is 24x28 feet, and fronts the south. The counter was only partly finished, but when completed will be an ornament to the room, having an appearance of richness and solidity, and showing the vast resources of the town by being built of native wood.

East of the office, also facing the south, is the reading room 14x18 feet. The wash room is in the rear of the reading room.

East of the reading room is a suite of three rooms, reserved expressly for the use of Mr. Chapman and his wife, which, when finished and furnished, will make as cosy a home as one could ask.

Returning again to the hall we enter the dining room, 28x30 feet, north of which is the kitchen, pantry, and store room, containing all modern conveniences in the interest of comfort and economy.

Returning again, we go down an easy flight of stairs to the basement. Here we find several rooms fitted up for special uses, chief among them being a barber shop, sample rooms, a suite of rooms for offices, with a large fire proof vault with fittings from the Detroit Safe Co.

There is also a laundry-room, a large cellar, a cistern with a capacity of 170 barrels, and perhaps other features which have escaped our memory.

Returning to the "grand stairway," we ascend to the second story. Here we find four suites of rooms, facing the south and west, designed for the use of people with abundant means. They will be furnished luxuriously, and contain all modern conveniences.

The building is L-shaped, and a broad hall runs its full length, east and west, and north and south. On the inner side of the building, the rooms are designed for single bedrooms. At the extreme east end there is a suit of rooms designed as a "bridal chamber," which will be finished and furnished with the best the country affords. At the extreme north end, where everything will be as quiet as anywhere on the premises, a large room will be fitted up for a hospital. On this floor are several large closets for extra bedding, etc., besides the usual small closets with each bed room.

Ascending to the third floor, we find the east wing with rooms similar to the floor below. But a surprise awaits us at the west wing. Instead of rooms, we find a hall 28x90 feet, with stage, dressing-rooms, etc., all complete. From the ceiling project gas-pipe, from which will be suspended four fine chandeliers. The hall will be seated with camp chairs, 300 of which have already been ordered. Whenever found desirable to convert this into a dance hall, the extra chairs may be folded up and stored in a room provided for that purpose. There are still other uses which may be made of this room if found desirable, provisions for which became part of the plan of construction,—but this will be made apparent later on.

A fine piece of timber, well finished, is the hand-rail of the main stairway. The beauty of color, grain, and polish, deserve special mention, but must be seen to be appreciated. Mr. Chapman takes special pride in this feature, and thinks it cannot be duplicated in this region.

Besides the main stairway, there is a stairway at each end of the building especially serviceable in case of a fire, or panic of any kind.

Every room in the building will be supplied with gas-light, which will be made on the premises.

Around two sides of the building, on both first and second floors, are broad varandas,—360 lineal feet altogether,—besides that in the rear of the building. This will make an excellent promenade for resorters during summer evenings.

The wainscoting will be an interesting feature of the finish of the building, being made of native wood, oiled.

From samples shown, the furnishings of the rooms will be first class throughout.

Connected with the house is a large barn, for the accommodation of travelers with teams.

Amid all his busy days, laying plans and superintending the construction, Mr. Chapman has not lost sight of ladies and children. In fact their comfort and pleasure has been studied throughout the whole work. But in no way is this so plainly manifest as in the laying out and cultivation of a flower garden, which is already well started, and the flowers in bloom. The front yard is graded, planted with trees, and seeded to grass, making it in time an excellent playground or promenade as required.

Notwithstanding all the croakings of chronic and jealous faultfinders about "Chapman's elephant," this gentleman can figure out a clear and brilliant future for his embryo city. In fact, with the means at his disposal, it is only a question of time, and not a very long time, either, when he will begin to realize some of his many hopes and anticipations. He expects to have the house open to to the public some time in June, after which his plans and purposes will be more apparent to people outside of his particular field of operations.

Cloves.

If you will look on your map of Oceanics, in the division of Malaysia, you will find a group of tiny islands nestled in between Colebes and Papua, known as the Molucca or Spice Islands, from the great quantity of cloves, nutmegs, and mace obtained from them. Although they look so small to you, they are of great value on account of the spice trees.

The Portuguese and Spaniards both found them about the year 1521; but Antonio de Brito, a Portuguese navigator, took possession of them in the name of his king, and that nation held them until the Dutch (assisted by the natives) drove them out in the first part of the seventeenth century, and took possession of them themselves. This they have held until the present time, with the exception of a brief preiod in 1796, when the English conquered them from the Dutch, but soon restored them.

The clove-troo was found on only five islands in its native state, and on the Island of Amboyna, where the natives had begun to cultivate it. As soon as the Dutch obtained possession they began to destroy all the clove-trees except on the island of Amboyna, in order to make the spice scarce, and so increase the price. Every year, until 1824, an expedition of soldiers and laborers were sent from Holland to the Moluccas with orders to destroy every clove-tree there except those on Amboyna.

During the short time the English held possession of the islands, they carried clove-trees to Bourbon and Mauritius. In 1830 they were planted on the islands of Penaba and Zanzibar, and from the latter island about 7,000,000 pounds are exported every year; these are worth over $400,000. They are also raised in Sumatra, Malacca, Cayenne, and Brazil; but the best still come from Amboyna.

The clove-tree is from fifteen to forty feet high. It has a perfectly straight trunk, covered with a smooth, olive-colored bark. From where the branches begin, it has the form of a pyramid; the leaves are a dark green, and very glossy; the flowers grow in clusters, and are of a reddish hue; the fruit is about the size and shape of an olive, perhaps not quite as large, and when ripe is dark red. The part that we use as spice is the flower-buds, which are gathered just before they open. They are dried by the smoke of wood fires, or by being exposed to the rays of the sun. By drying they are changed from red to a deep brown. They look so much like a nail with a round head that both the Portuguese and Spaniards gave them a name which meant nail in their language, and which has since become our English word, clove. The French called them fragrant-nail, on account of their delicious odor. All parts of the tree are fragrant,—bark, leaves, flowers and fruit. Cloves are used in cooking, in medicine, or for embalming or preserving bodies from decay. An oil is also obtained from them, which is much used in perfumery.

She Kept it Out of the Paper.

There is an old lady by the name of Cushing residing in that portion of the city bounded by Walnut, Hunter and Wollington streets who is a living confirmation to the assertion that a woman cannot hold her tongue.

The old lady in question is a widow, and supports herself and family by the sale of the milk from four cows. She is not ambitious to shine in the social world. Her chief objects in life are to live contentedly and keep her name out of the papers, and this she has generally managed to do.

A few weeks ago, while attending to her duties in the stable, she was attacked by one of her cattle, an angry bull, knocked down and trampled upon. Two of her ribs were broken, and she was severely bruised withal. Paramount to every other consideration, however, at this time came the thought that if the accident became known the sanctity of her home would be invaded by newspaper prowlers, and her private affairs paraded before the world. She therefore resolved to keep the secret locked in her own breast, and not even to her own daughter did she tell the particulars of the accident. To the doctor who attended her she merely stated briefly that she had slipped and fallen.

None but those of her own sex can appreciate the heroism of the old lady. Friends visited her and inquired for particulars of how it happened; not a word. Her own children were solicitous, but their questions elicited not a word.

"There is nothing hidden which shall not be revealed," but of the manner in which this story came to be known, deponent sayeth not.—Hamilton Spectator.

Mr. T. Matsudera, a Japanese, has been elected to the office of chief engineer of the city of Bradford, Pa. He is probably the first representative of Japan ever elected to any civil office in the United States.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN CHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings

Boots and Shoes

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at less as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or member, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.
ADVANCE, MICH.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes

LATEST STYLES.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW

DEALER IN

Hardware

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition

L. B. Conno

Custom Work and Repairing to Order.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 8, 1884.

Business Announcements.

Children's School Shoes, a large ... just received. Manufactured in Chicago ... for my grade. Call and see them before ... buying. L. B. CONNOR.

Oranges and Lemons cheap, at E. ...'s.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale ... week's drug store.

New Clothing just received at E. M. ...'s.

Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At ... Emery, & Co.'s

One hundred suits clothes at $7.00, ... $9.00, at E. M. Clark's.

Prints, Cottons, Collars, Skirting, ... goods, etc., at Upright, Emery & Co.

14 pounds C sugar for $1, at E. M. ...'s.

Shingles for the million at Upright ... & Co.

14 pounds granulated sugar for $1, ...

Mrs. Belle Bigelow is advertised for a lecture under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. at the opera house tonight.

Jos. Hyland went to Chicago on Monday to inspect some new boilers to be put in F. J. Meech's mill at South Arm.

Robert O'Neil went to Cheboygan on Monday to take the position of engineer on Dexter & Noble's steamer Gracie Barker.

Benj. Rice, who has been visiting in Macomb, and St. Clair counties for the past two months, returned home last Friday.

The Detroit Sunday Times in its new dress is the handsomest newspaper in Michigan. And its news department is not far behind.

O. T. Booth, of Hayes, commenced a dock on lake Michigan, last week.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS.

Patent Medicines, all Kinds,

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Barth Dewey's new

Opera Block

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to A. Fox.

Having completed their inventory, find that they have over $6,000 worth of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Knit Goods, Notions, Ladies and Gents Underwear, Woolens, Satinets, Furnishing Goods, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Crockery and Glassware, Groceries and Provisions, etc. etc.

Bargains in Everything.

These goods were bought at a great sacrifice, many of them have been placed in stock during the past three months and are fresh, desirable goods but must be moved to make room for spring stock.

Going out of Clothing. Over 150 men's and boy's suits in medium and light weight goods, well made and excellent styles, offered at an immense discount

...0 suits at $14, $18 suits at $13, $10 and all others goods equally low. Re...t most of these goods are of the latest best make. Step in and compare the ...rices.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Clover Seed, Feed, &c., on hand. Sole Agents for ...toskey Lime.

THE JOURNAL.

NO. 43. SUPPLEMENT. MAY 8, 1884.

The following plank in the platform made at Kalamazoo last week, will strike a responsive chord in many a workingman in this state this fall:

Resolved. That the policy of restricting the liberty of commerce by taxes designed, not for government revenues, but private advantage, is in violation of the fundamental law of liberty and equality. That it is injurious to the farmer, the price of whose products are regulated in a foreign market, and are now, in spite of tariff, forced down by foreign competition almost to the level of their cost, while all of his necessities are increased in price by taxation; that it is ruinous to the laborer, to compete with whom it admits a horde of pauper laborers from Europe while it rigidly excludes the cheap necessities of his life; that it builds up colossal fortunes for the few rich and crushes the many poor under a deeper load of degradation, want and squalor; that it favors illegitimate speculation, and discourages steady and solid business by aiding to bring about alternate periods of wild activity and depressed stagnation; therefore, we favor an immediate beginning in a reform of this system, which, without too sudden changes, shall tend gradually to commercial liberty.

Gold in Michigan.

Rich gold diggings have just been discovered near Shelby, in Oceana county. That the ground where it was first discovered is rich there is no doubt, but how extensive the gold producing area is has yet to be determined. It was discovered in the sand pumped from a drive well at a depth of eighty feet, and from the pile of dirt about a cubic yard, upward of $20 in value was obtained, in coarse flakes. The metal was subjected to the usual tests, and even then the finders were in doubt, but the former on whose land it was found refused large offers for his land. A specimen was sent to Detroit and pronounced the genuine article. There is, of course, considerable excitement over the find, and scores of fortune hunt the sleeping and waking hours of the dwellers of the locality. Muskegon News.

Destroying the Lake Fish.

The Toledo Commercial Telegram says that the steamer Morning Star caught up four or five tons of fish on Sunday from the pounds in the bay. There were but very few pickerel among them, perhaps 500 pounds. There was probably half a ton or more of catfish, large and small, and the remainder were principally suckers and perch, a very large per cent of the latter. The great bulk of these fish were full of spawn, taken while attempting to reach their spawning beds in the river.

Fifteen persons were buried with the Van Buren county poor-house last week. Others were injured.

The Kalamazoo platform favors the submission of constitutional prohibition to vote of the people.

The T. S. Faxton has been nicely repainted on the outside and Mr. F. J. Lewis with a gang of men is now at work on the inside and it is expected to have the boat ready for business and that she will start out on her first trip Thursday morning. The same officers have charge of her this season as last with the exception of Wm. Smith, who takes the place of Mr. Brinkman as clerk. The boat will run on her old route between Traverse City and Harbor Springs, touching at intermediate points. Eagle, 2nd.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages ... and instruct young and old. It is also ... reference to the Farmer, Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Professor, the Mechanic, the Merchant and in fact to honest character and seeks for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly 200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have executed and are still executing potent influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication, ... ing prominent ... EMINENT ASTRONOMERS, ... ENTISTS, ... ENTISTS and ... of the ... its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent, crowned and uncrowned Rulers, Members of Cabinets, Statesmen, Governors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Editors, Historians, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Cardinals, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, HENDRICKS, HAYARD, MORRISON, LEE, SHERMAN, TILDEN, BENEDICT, BOLTMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HOLDELEY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Can you find a Presbyterian, whether Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Congregationalist, Baptists or Methodist, who recommends the numerous changes ... in the ... THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL many faultless ... of which have ... ordered ... to friends of their fellowmen. The Reason for PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy so ... an universally interesting ... position ... journalism and literature ... to ... and will ... place the reader ... woman ... a noble mission and that she is well able to ... it.

If you would become acquainted with the faces and natures of the men and women whose names have ... so as fame has ... everybody, get a copy of THE

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers,

92 White Street, New York.

...ill, 80 cords wood and 120 ... ey, to Chicago.

...0,000 posts, T. D. Smith, to ...

...2, 450 tons pig iron, Pine ...ago.

...ords wood, T. D. Smith, to ...

...ords wood, Barker, to Chi...

...115 cords wood, Upright ...&o.

...7,000 posts, Upright, Emery ...

...0 ties, T. D. Smith, to Mil...

...tons pig iron, Pine Lake ...

...ords wood, W. H. Downer, ...

...ay, 225,000 feet hardwood ..., Detroit.

...190,000 feet hardwood lum... to Chicago.

...th Arm.

...n on Thursday night ...tery for May but the ...since has made every...spring again.

...reached at the South ...ise last Sunday, for ...since this illness. A ... was also organized, ... superintendent, J. A. ...t.

...d son have moved into ...tenement house.

Phil. Lanway's resi... is progressing. ...fr. Cummins and Jno. ...e improving their lots ...fences around them.

...at, has gone to Bellaire ...

...en and John R. Vance ...cently.

...John Munro, Sr., again ...

...sor, W. F. Palmiter is ...perty in this township. ...e Enterprise expressed ...cently, that township ...be of four years durad did that thought strike ...e getting into office? ...t made its appearances ...irst time May 3d. We ...e regular boats. ...essels loaded here last ...are now loading, besides little tugs that ply our ...

...state Transfers.

...Journal by UPRIGHT BROS., ...ers.

...ng is a list of transfers ...in Charlevoix county, ...nsideration is $100 or ...week ending Tuesday ...6, 1884, as recorded ...f register of deeds:

...lewman to L. D. Bartholomew, ... addition to Charlevoix, $125.

...parts of Hayes, mostly diphtheria and scarlet fever.

Loren Hamlin is to have a logging bee on Thursday and dance in the evening.

Frank Kane has been hunting for a cow since Saturday.

Geo. O. Scott is nearly through his spring seeding.

MARRIED.

WHEELER—COOPER.—In Charlevoix, May 1st, by Rev. J. T. Hollings, Sherman H. Wheeler, of Mancelona, and Elizabeth E. Cooper, of Charlevoix.

GUYER—ARCHER.—At the residence of the officiating clergyman, in Charlevoix, May 6th, by Rev. C. F. Van Anken, Mr. Herman Guyer and Miss Lucy Archer, both of Eastport.

DIED.

VAN DRUSEN.—At his residence in Norwood, May 4th, Avery Van Drusen, aged 58 years.

Mr. Van Drusen moved to Charlevoix county sixteen years ago, and settled on the farm where he died. He has been industrious and prosperous, and leaves a comfortable home for his large family. He was buried on Tuesday, the funeral being largely attended by the old residents of the county. The services were held at the family residence, Rev. C. F. Van Anken officiating.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 41

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay us something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

...has been estimated that 20 new ...es will be built on the Upright ...dition this summer.

...nother large piece of machinery ...this planing mill arrived on the ...ith Monday morning.

...a D. Tillo, representing the ...ago Newspaper Union, gave the ...ual a call last Monday.

...W. Skinner, who has been laid ...about four weeks with a sprained ..., is able to be out again.

...ecourse at the M. E. church next ...day morning, on "future possibili...." In the evening "the bible in ...schools" will be the subject, by ... pastor. All who can come are most ...dially invited.

...is the property of her son, D. M. Colby, of this township.

L. D. Bartholomew has moved his hardware stock into the opera block, in the room formerly occupied by J. Milo Eaton's law and real estate office. The south and west sides have been fitted with shelving, counters, etc., and additions to the stock will be made to meet the demands of this community. The stock already on hand shows to much better advantage than it did in the old place. O. I. Wheat, with a corps of assistants made short work of the refitting.

The American newspaper directory for 1884 is a volume of 1255 pages. It gives an alphabetical list of newspapers in the United States and Canada, by states and towns, by states and counties, and lists devoted to religion, agriculture, medicine, education, amusements, secret societies, commerce, finance, science, mechanics, law, trades, sporting, music, fashion, etc. The population, business, and location is given for every town in which a newspaper is published.

The lecture of W. G. Puddefoot last Sunday evening was a great improvement on temperance lectures generally, dealing with facts just as necessary to a temperate life as any heretofore discussed. Among other things he outlined the work of young women, showing where they may influence young men if they will, or at least avoid the snares into which many of them fall, by refusing to marry a man who tampers with liquor. If a woman cannot reform a man before marriage, she certainly ...reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, May 6:

...ay 1—Sc. B. P. Royce, 213 cords wood, W. S. Strip to Chicago.

...30—Sc. America, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, and 35,000 feet hemlock lumber, Glen & Porter to Chicago.

...30—Sc. Lapetite, 130 cords wood, P. Thorp to Milwaukee.

...May 1—Sc. Lookout, 180 cords wood, C. W. Sutton, Kenosha.

...1—Sc. Fleetwing, 300 bu. potatoes, Geo. Herton to Saginaw.

...1—Sc. Japan, 120 cords wood and 40 cords bark, Upright, Emery & Co. to Chicago.

...1—Sc. A B C F M, 137 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

...1—Sc. Lottie Mason, 56 cords wood, A. E. Pickard to Milwaukee.

...1—Prop. John Ellis, 460 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

...2—Sc. Eagle Wing, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stoepel & Co., to Chicago.

...3—Sc. Wakesina, 150,000 hardwood lumber, Rose Warne, to Chicago.

George F. Lee to John C. Bardin, s e ¼ of n w ¼, 12-32-4, $200.

Daniel DeLong and wife to Adelbert B. Rowley, s w ¼ of n e ¼, 18-32-6, $400.

Daniel D. Paine and wife to Chas. W. Datcher, n w ¼ of n w ¼, 27-33-5, $120.

A. J. Batchelder and wife to A. A. Watkins, lot 12, Clarion, $900.

A. R. Upright and wife to Mary A. Crouter, lots 10, 11 and 12, blk 9, Charlevoix, $900.

S. J. Farmer and wife to John Clark, s e ¼ of n e ¼, 10-32-5, $100.

Burgess.

A. W. Chew has bought part of the place formerly owned by Wm. Burns.

Miss Celestie Baker who has been very sick with the diphtheria is getting better.

Mrs. Ferguson is visiting among her friends in Hayes.

Considerable sickness in various

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

BAY SPRINGS.

H. B. Chapman's "Tourists' Home," Nearly Ready for Occupancy.

"Have you been to Bay Springs lately?" was asked of the scribe by a business man one day last week. A reply in the negative elicited the information that Chapman's mammoth hotel was about finished, and it would make a good item go and write it up. We went.

Taking the popular steamer, North Star, last Friday afternoon, we were in good time landed at Boyne, and one of the first persons met was H. B. Chapman, with his pony and buggy, apparently waiting for some one to ride with him.

Our errand being made known, he signified his willingness to "show us through," not only the hotel, but the whole of Bay Springs if we wanted. During the past year some 70 or 80 acres have been cleared, sown to wheat and seeded down. Streets are staked out, the tract platted, and lots are now for sale.

It is a well known fact that the old gentleman hopes some day to see the county seat located at that place, and he exhibits his enthusiasm most when pointing out the advantage of the place for the capital of the county. On the highest point he has reserved one square, as he says, for the future court house. The soil is a coarse gravel, and the view of the surrounding country is most excellent. Boyne, Advance, and the fine agricultural land to the south for miles seems right at one's feet. The land slopes gradually to the, on the south, and the west, making, on the whole, an excellent place to build a town.

About half a mile from the "court house square" is a little lake surrounded by gradual slopes, the land on the beech being hard enough to build a mile race track, with a place on the east side just suited to the purpose of a grand stand, the whole especially appropriate for a driving park. On this land the young and thrifty trees have been left, to save replanting, when the place is finally selected for that purpose. Near the "park" is a mineral spring, said to be equal in medical qualities to the famous springs in other parts of the state. In front of the hotel he is building a dock 12 rods front, extending to water deep enough to carry the largest vessels in northern waters. This is built of cedar, and with a view to permanency.

Having noted the "lay of the land," we went to the hotel, to see its "hidden beauties." The main entrance is on the west side, by a few easy steps. Double doors with ground glass lights, open into a broad hall, leading to the center of the building, thence turning to the right to the ladies' parlor, through another hall to the office and to the front veranda, to the left into the dining room, or down a flight of stairs to the basement. The ladies' parlor is 18x20 feet, and fronts the west and south.

The office is 24x28 feet, and fronts the south. The counter was only partly finished, but when completed will be an ornament to the room, having an appearance of richness and solidity, and showing the vast resources of the town by being built of native wood.

East of the office, also facing the south, is the reading room 14x18 feet. The wash room is in the rear of the reading room.

East of the reading room is a suite of three rooms, reserved expressly for the use of Mr. Chapman and his wife, which, when finished and furnished, will make as cosy a home as one could ask.

Returning again to the hall we enter the dining room, 28x30 feet, north of which is the kitchen, pantry, and store room, containing all modern conveniences in the interest of comfort and economy.

Returning again, we go down an easy flight of stairs to the basement. Here we find several rooms fitted up for special uses, chief among them being a barber shop, sample rooms, a suite of rooms for offices, with a large fire proof vault with fittings from the Detroit Safe Co.

There is also large cellar, a ci of 170 barrels, an tures which have

Returning to t we ascend to the we find four sui the south and w use of people wi They will be fu and contain all m

The building broad hall runs and west, and n the inner side o rooms are desig rooms. At the ex is a suit of rooms al chamber," wh and furnished country affords. north end, where as quiet as anywh a large room will hospital. On thi large closets for besides the usual each bed room.

Ascending to t find the east wing to the floor belo awaits us at the w of rooms, we find with stage, dressi complete. From t gas-pipe, from whi ed four fine chan will be seated with of which have alre Whenever found vert this into a extra chairs may stored in a room purpose. There a which may be mad found desirable, pr became part of the tion,—but this will later on.

A fine piece of tin is the hand-rail of t The beauty of color, deserve special men seen to be appreciat takes special pride and thinks it cannot this region.

Besides the main a stairway at each e especially serviceabl or panic of any kind

Every room in th supplied with gas-li made on the premis

Around two sides on both first and broad varandas,—36 gether,—besides thi the building. This excellent promenade f ing summer evening

The wainscoting w ing feature of the fi ing, being made of n

From samples sho ings of the rooms will be first class throughout.

Connected with the house is a large barn, for the accommodation of travelers with teams.

Amid all his busy days, laying plans and superintending the construction, Mr. Chapman has not lost sight of ladies and children. In fact their comfort and pleasure has been studied throughout the whole work. But in no way is this so plainly manifest as in the laying out and cultivation of a flower garden, which is already well started, and the flowers in bloom. The front yard is graded, planted with trees, and seeded to grass, making it in time an excellent playground or promenade as required.

Notwithstanding all the croakings of chronic and jealous faultfinders about "Chapman's elephant," this gentleman can figure out a clear and brilliant future for his embryo city. In fact, with the means at his disposal, it is only a question of time, and not a very long time, either, when he will begin to realize some of his many hopes and anticipations. He expects to have the house open to to the public some time in June, after which his plans and purposes will be more apparent to people outside of his particular field of operations.

Cloves.

If you will look on your map of Oceanics, in the division of Malaysia, you will find a group of tiny islands nestled in between Celebes and Papua, known as the Molucca or Spice Islands, from the great quantity of cloves, nutmegs, and mace obtained from them. Although they look so small to you, they are of great value on account of the one sincere resolved to keep the secret locked in her own breast, and not even to her own daughter did she tell the particulars of the accident. To the doctor who attended her she merely stated briefly that she had slipped and fallen.

None but those of her own sex can appreciate the heroism of the old lady. Friends visited her and inquired for particulars of how it happened; not a word. Her own children were solicitous, but their questions elicited not a word.

"There is nothing hidden which shall not be revealed," but of the manner in which this story came to be known, deponent sayeth not.—Hamilton Spectator.

Mr. T. Matadaira, a Japanese, has been elected to the office of chief engineer of the city of Bradford, Pa. He is probably the first representative of Japan ever elected to any civil office in the United States.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES

THE JOURNAL.

Charlevoix, Mich., May 8, 1884.

Council Proceedings.

CHARLEVOIX, May 1, 1884.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called; quorum present.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

A petition to open a street on the north side from Bridge street to the lake, signed by Amos Fox and others, was presented and referred to committee on streets.

A petition asking the council not to license any more saloons was ordered filed with the clerk.

The bill of G. W. Crozier of $12.87 for blank books and stationery was referred to finance committee.

The committee on sidewalks reported favorably on petitions for sidewalks on south line of Antrim street, between State street and state road, also in favor of building certain sidewalk by laying plank lengthwise instead of crosswise.

Report accepted and adopted.

The committee on streets reported unfavorably on petition for sidewalk on west side of Grant street.

The clerk was instructed to have notices for building sidewalk inserted in one of the newspapers of the village.

The marshal was instructed to have the alley in block 7 cleaned.

The finance committee reported favorably on bills of George H. Hill $21, and R. Cooper $50. Report accepted and clerk instructed to draw orders for same.

The marshal was instructed to notify tug captains to modify their speed when running through the channel.

The marshal's salary was fixed at $100 per year.

The clerk was instructed to divide the village printing between the two papers now here, such work to be done from time to time as needed.

The druggists bond of G. W. Crozier was presented and approved.

The druggists bond of O. B. Weed & Co., was presented and laid on the table until the next meeting.

Adjourned one week.

A state of over a million and a half of people have been tortured by a slow process of law on the Cronch murder case. It looks as though a little vigilantes work would be more profitable.—Cadillac Times.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

EVERYTHING.

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

Smuggling Coolies Across The Line.

Although little has been said recently about the smuggling of Chinese into Wasaington Territory from British Columbia, the business of running coolies over the border is still being carried on. This is the headquarters of the trade on the American side, and Victoria and Westminster are the points from which the little companies of Chinamen, varying from eight to forty in number, with one or two pilots or guides, set out. Little is heard now of the business, because it is so well organized, and the silent passing of the coolies across the line is unnoticed. In this town there is a Chinese company organized to smuggle coolies into the country. This fact is well known to the custom house officials here, but the limited force at the disposal of Collector Bash makes it impossible for him to break up the illicit trade.

The Coolie Smuggling Company here employs daring and reckless white men in Victoria to bring canoe or sloop loads of Chinese across the Sound to Dungeness, Point Discovery or Point Wilson. The distance is only about thirty miles, which can easily be covered during the night. The company has its outlooks along the coast between these points, and signals are given to the approaching boats in case of danger. When once landed the coolies pass into the logging camps, and as it is impossible for most persons to distinguish one Chinaman from another, the presence of the new comers excites no suspicion. The private smuggling company pays per head varies from $15 to $20, which is in part paid till the coolies are safely put ashore. The favorite boat for transporting them is the Indian canoe. There are a great many of these here at Victoria, built, or rather hewn, out of a solid log by the Indians. From five to seven coolies, with two smugglers, enter a canoe at nightfall, and with the aid of the tide cross to Washington Territory before morning. There are some signs that the trade will be carried on more extensively in the spring than ever before.—San Francisco Chronicle.

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Custom Work and Repairing to Order.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 8, 1884.

Business Announcements.

Children's School Shoes, a large line just received. Manufactured in Chicago especially for my trade. Call and see them before buying. L. B. CONNOR.

Oranges and Lemons cheap, at E. M. Clark's.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weeds' drug store.

New Clothing just received at E. M. Clark's.

Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At Upright, Emery & Co.'s

One hundred suits clothes at $7.00, worth $10.00, at E. M. Clark's.

Prints, Cottons, Collars, Skirting, Dress Goods, etc., at Upright, Emery & Co.

14½ pounds C sugar for $1, at E. M. Clark's.

Shingles for fine million at Upright Emery & Co.

11 pounds granulated sugar for $1, at E. M. Clark's.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, as corrected every Saturday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & Co., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
GRAHAM MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, $1.75.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, $1.75.
FEED, per ton, $20@.
OATS, per bu, 30c.
SHORTS AND BROUND FEED, per cwt, $1.75.
APPLES, per bu, $1.40.
POTATOES, per bu, 50c.
ONIONS, per bu, $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 10c.
LARD, per lb, 14@15c.
HAMS, 16c; Shoulders, 12½c.
SALT PORK, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 8c.
MACKEREL, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 20c.
WATER-WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

BEEF, best steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½@; mutton, 12½@15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12½c.
TALLOW, 6½@7c.

Local News Brevities.

Notes and News.

The Frankfort Express returns to tated outside.

Miss Spaulding expects more new oods next week.

The mail at Cadillac averages 260 ounds per train.

The new machinery at the planing ill works nicely.

A. R. Colgrove is again in Henry ooper's furniture store.

R. Ross, of the Petoskey Democrat as in town last Thursday.

O. Conner has an invoice of school ooks from Chicago this week.

The office of the Fountain City ouse has been brightened up.

Wm. Mears and Frank Myers, of ayne Falls, were in town Monday.

Mr. Chas. Williams, of Boyne, ade the JOURNAL a call on Monday.

W. A. Brown and wife returned rom Newcastle, Ind., last Friday.

If you want something nice in inistery goods go to Miss Spauld ngs.

Rev. W. G. Puddefoot preached to crowded house at Barnard Monday evening.

Regular monthly meeting of fire epartment to-night. Full attendance requested.

E. M. Clark has placed a new counter with drawers along the center of the salesroom.

Mrs. A. Beers, of Advance, was in own Saturday, the guest of Miss Martha O'Neil.

W. F. Lance writes from Orlando, la., that he will be in Charlevoix bout May 20th.

A. R. Upright commenced the foundation of a barn 30x50 feet on the bluff near his house.

It has been estimated that 20 new houses will be built on the Upright addition this summer.

Another large piece of machinery for the planing mill arrived on the Easton Monday morning.

Chas. D. Tillo, representing the Chicago Newspaper Union, gave the JOURNAL a call last Monday.

L. W. Skinner, who has been laid up about four weeks with a sprained ankle, is able to be out again.

Discourse at the M. E. church next Sunday morning, on "future possibili ties." In the evening "the bible in the schools" will be the subject, by request. All who can come are most cordially invited.

Mrs. Belle Bigelow is advertised for a lecture under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. at the opera house tonight.

Jos. Hyland went to Cheboygan on Monday to take the position of engineer on Dexter & Noble's steamer Gracie Barker.

Benj. Rice, who has been visiting in Macomb, and St. Clair counties for the past two months, returned home last Friday.

The Detroit Sunday Times in its new dress is the handsomest newspaper in Michigan. And its news department is not far behind.

O. T. Booth, of Hayes, commenced a dock on lake Michigan, last week, but the storm of Thursday night took it away before it could be finished.

McCabe's hack line is represented in our advertising columns this week. With the new hack, drays, rigs, etc., his barn is sure to become popular.

The Sentinel begins volume 16 this week, with a prosperous appearance. It is a much better paper than one year ago. So much for competition.

Rev. W. G. Puddefoot will remain and occupy the Congregational pulpit next Sunday morning and evening, giving a chalk talk for the Sunday-school.

L. L. Carr is squaring up the front of his store building, to give it a better appearance, making also a generous awning for the protection of goods placed on exhibition.

O. W. Smith commenced a building 14x28, yesterday morning on the lot between D. C. Nettleton's wagon shop and Wm. Ferguson's restaurant, to be occupied by himself as a lapidary.

On May 1, J. Milo Eaton moved into his new office. He occupies the whole lower floor, which is divided into three rooms, connected by large double doorways. When fully finished, he will have a fine office.

C. S. Hampton, of the Harbor Springs Independent, was made a delegate-at-large at the greenback convention, at Kalamazoo, April 30, to attend the national greenback convention to be held at Indianapolis.

The East Jordan band gave an excursion on the Clara Belle, last Tuesday evening, from East Jordan to Charlevoix. A number of young folks accompanied them, and all seemed to enjoy themselves when here. Come again.

Wm. J. Stevenson advertises his wagons this week. He makes a heavy wagon for the use of farmers and lumbermen, and guarantees first-class work, warranting every wagon sent out. A first-class article is always the cheapest in the end. He has also an excellent reputation as a horseshoer and blacksmith.

A letter from R. W. Kane announces his marriage with Miss Flora Hart, at the Baptist church, Ionia, Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. R. C. Mosher, of Dexter, assisted by Rev. Dr. VanAlstine, pastor of the Ionia Baptist church, were the officiating clergymen. Mr. and Mrs. Kane go to Chicago via Grand Haven and Milwaukee, and will be in Charlevoix some time next week.

The notice of the feather wreath, in the JOURNAL last week, was incorrect in the matter of the making. The collection of feathers was made by Mr. Calvin Willey, of Niagara county, N. Y. during a visit of 15 years in South America, and the work was commenced by him but finished by Mrs. Tryphena Colby, in 1864. It is the property of her son, D. M. Colby, of this township.

L. D. Bartholomew has moved his hardware stock into the opera block, in the room formerly occupied by J. Milo Eaton's law and real estate office. The south and west sides have been fitted with shelving, counters, etc., and additions to the stock will be made to meet the demands of this community. The stock already on hand shows to much better advantage than it did in the old place. O. I. Wrent, with a corps of assistants made short work of the refitting.

The American newspaper directory for 1884 is a volume of 1253 pages. It gives an alphabetical list of newspapers in the United States and Canada, by states and towns, by states and counties, and lists devoted to religion, agriculture, medicine, education, amusements, secret societies, commerce, finance, science, mechanics, law, trades, sporting, music, fashion, etc. The population, business, and location is given for every town in which a newspaper is published.

The lecture of W. G. Puddefoot last Sunday evening was a great improvement on temperance lectures generally, dealing with facts just as necessary to a temperate life as any heretofore discussed. Among other things he outlined the work of young women, showing where they may influence young men if they will, or at least avoid the snares into which many of them fall, by refusing to marry a man who tampers with liquor. If a woman cannot reform a man before marriage, she certainly cannot afterward. There is work for all, and all should work together.

Miscellaneous Marine.

The Wright has a new coat of green on her hull.

The steamer Lou A. Cummings was in port Friday and Saturday.

The City of Grand Rapids arrived yesterday noon on her first trip.

The steamer City of Traverse arrived at Traverse City from Chicago last Thursday.

The revolving colored light in the Breezy Point cottage was in operation Monday evening.

The Faxton arrived last Saturday on her first trip. She has been thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. Orrell writes from Chicago that the Western Transit Co.'s steamers will not stop at any port on the Lake Michigan shore.

The Nellie Booth made an extra trip last Tuesday evening, bringing from East Jordan a number of masons to attend their banquet here.

Last Saturday E. H. Green took the measurement of Capt. Tulloch's new schooner, the Florence M. Smith, in order to ascertain her tonnage

O. D. Muson is building the yawl for Capt. Tulloch's new schooner, the Florence M. Smith. It will be 13 feet long, and 4 feet 8 inches wide.

The master of the Sea Gem is a skillful sailor. On Monday he sailed into the inner harbor through the dense fog, without the assistance of a tug.

The City of Grand Rapids is being fitted out and will probably sail for Chicago about the middle of the week, when she will go into dry dock to have her hull caulked. On her return she will enter upon her season's work between Traverse City and Mackinaw.—Eagle, 29th.

It was reported last fall that the new scow built by Jas. Washburn for Haines & Willis, went ashore on her first trip. This was doubted by Mr. Washburn, and he has since had a party on the lookout. A few days ago they found her safely hid near one of the Skow islands. It is hoped Mr. W. will get her back, or get his pay for building.

Navigation opened at Charlevoix with a rush, 18 vessels coming in for freight and passengers in the first 24 hours after the port was open. Some vessels have already made their second trip to Chicago and Milwaukee. More than double the amount of wood, bark, lumber, iron, posts, and ties waiting shipment than ever before. Five steamers make daily trips, and some two trips a day, between Charlevoix and East Jordan, on Pine Lake.—News.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, May 6:

April 30—Sc. E. P. Royce, 213 cords wood, W. S. Strip to Chicago.

30—Sc. America, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, and 35,000 feet hemlock lumber, Glen & Porter to Chicago.

30—Sc. Lapotite, 150 cords wood, P. Thorp to Milwaukee.

May 1—Sc. Lookout, 180 cords wood, C. W. Sutton, Kenosha.

1—Sc. Prestwing, 500 bu. potatoes, Geo. Horton to Saginaw.

1—Sc. Japan, 130 cords wood and 40 cords bark, Upright, Emrey & Co. to Chicago.

1—Sc. A. H. C. F. M, 437 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

1—Prop. John Otis, 460 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

2—Sc. Eagle Wing, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stowell & Co., to Chicago.

3—Sc. Wakesha, 180,000 hardwood lumber, Rose Warne, to Chicago.

3—Sc. Charlie Marshall, 80 cords wood and 120 cords bark, W. F. Empey, to Chicago.

3—Sc. J. A. Holmes, 6,000 posts, T. D. Smith, to Chicago.

5—Sc. George Steele, 450 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

5—Sc. Surprise, 300 cords wood, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

5—Sc. Stafford, 200 cords wood, Barker, to Chicago.

5—Sc. Mockingbird, 115 cords wood, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

5—Sc. John Rader, 7,000 posts, Upright, Emery & Co., to Chicago.

6—Sc. Sea Gem, 2,200 ties, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

6—Sc. Melvina, 470 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

6—Sc. H. Ross, 170 cords wood, W. H. Downer, to Chicago.

6—Sc. Grace Murray, 225,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stoepel & Co., Detroit.

6—Sc. Evening Star, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Olds & Burgess, to Chicago.

South Arm.

The snowstorm on Thursday night looked quite wintery for May but the refreshing rain since has made everything look like spring again.

Eld. Blake preached at the South Arm school-house last Sunday, for the first time since this illness. A Sunday school was also organized. Mrs. J. A. Kent, superintendent, J. A. Vance, assistant.

Mrs. Boise and son have moved into S. G. Isaman's tenement house.

The work on Phil. Lanway's residence and store is progressing.

We notice Mr. Cummins and Jno. Munro, Jr., are improving their lots by putting new fences around them.

James A. Keat, has gone to Bellaire on business.

James Holben and John R. Vance traded farms recently.

We notice John Munro, Sr., again on our streets.

The supervisor, W. F. Palmiter is assessing property in this township. By the way, the Enterprise expressed its opinion recently, that township offices should be of four years duration. Query: did that thought strike the editor since getting into office?

The Faxton made its appearance here for the first time May 3d. We now have three regular boats.

Four sail-vessels loaded here last week and two are now loading, besides the numerous little tugs that ply our waters.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by UPRIGHT BROS., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, May 6, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Elizabeth H. Newman to L. D. Bartholomew, lot 149, Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $175.

George F. Lee to John C. Bardin, s e ¼ of n w ¼, 17-32-6, $200.

Daniel DeLong and wife to Adelbert B. Rowley, s w ¼ of n e ¼, 18-32-6, $400.

Daniel D. Paine and wife to Chas. W. Butcher, n w ¼ of n w ¼, 27-33-5, $120.

A. J. Batchelder and wife to A. A. Watkins, lot 12, Clarion, $800.

A. E. Upright and wife to Mary A. Crozier, lots 10, 11 and 12, blk 9, Charlevoix, $400.

S. J. Farmer and wife to John Clark, s e ¼ of n e ¼, 10-32-5, $100.

Burgess.

A. W. Chew has bought part of the place formerly owned by Wm. Burns.

Miss Celestie Baker who has been very sick with the diphtheria is getting better.

Mrs. Ferguson is visiting among her friends in Hayes.

Considerable sickness in various parts of Hayes, mostly diphtheria and scarlet fever.

Loren Hamlin is to have a logging bee on Thursday and dance in the evening.

Frank Kane has been hunting for a cow since Saturday.

Geo. O. Scott is nearly through his spring seeding.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to A. Fox.

Having completed their inventory, find that they have over $6,000 worth of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Knit Goods, Notions, Ladies and Gents Underwear, Woolens, Satinets, Furnishing Goods, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Crockery and Glassware, Groceries and Provisions, etc. etc.

Bargains in Everything.

These goods were bought at a great sacrifice, many of them have been placed in stock during the past three months and are fresh, desirable goods but must be moved to make room for spring stock.

Going out of Clothing. Over 150 men's and boy's suits in medium and light weight goods, well made and excellent styles, offered at an immense discount to close. $20 suits at $14, $18 suits at $13, $10 suits at $6 and all others goods equally low. Remember that most of these goods are of the latest styles and best make. Step in and compare the goods and prices. J. L. HURD & CO.

Timothy and Clover Seed, Feed, &c., on hand. Sole Agents for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

MARRIED.

WHEELER—COOPER.—In Charlevoix, May 1st, by Rev. J. T. Iddings, Sherman O. Wheeler, of Mancelona, and Elizabeth E. Cooper, of Charlevoix.

GUYER—ARCHER.—At the residence of the officiating clergyman, in Charlevoix, May 4th, by Rev. C. F. Van Aiken, Mr. Hermon Guyer and Miss Lucy Archer, both of Eastport.

DIED.

VAN DEUSEN.—At his residence, in Norwood, May 4th, Avery Van Deusen, aged 68 years.

Mr. Van Deusen moved to Charlevoix county sixteen years ago, and settled on the farm where he died. He has been industrious and prosperous, and leaves a comfortable home for his large family. He was buried on Tuesday, the funeral being largely attended by the old residents of the county. The services were held at the family residence, Rev. C. F. Van Aiken officiating.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 13

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay us something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

KEY WEST has eighty-one cigar factories, employing 5,000 hands, and during the year ended June 30 manufactured 75,000,000 cigars.

WE hear of an economical dressmaker of this city who has bought a gold thimble from the proceeds of basting thread she picked out of dresses and sold. It is now time for the young man to reappear who bought a house with the money he received for the cigar stumps collected by him in the streets.

THE relation between death rates and sewerage conveniences or water supplies has a curious significance. The average death rate of St. Petersburg is about 35 per 1,000. The city has no sewerage system, properly so called: hence the Neva, its only source of water supply, becomes contaminated and ill-health results. Cairo has a death rate of 37 per 1,000; it has no sewers, and the Nile water supply is constantly contaminated. The death rate of Perkin is 50 per 1,000; its sanitary works would not be thought sufficient for a small English village.

THE drink statistics of Belgium have a certain amount of interest. The population of the kingdom, now amounting to about 5,500,000, consumes annually alcholic liquors to the value of 480,000,000 francs, which is 95 per cent. more than thirty years ago. Compared with forty years ago, the number of the insane has increased by 104 per cent., of suicides by 80 per cent., and of condemned criminals by 135 per cent. In 1850 the number of places where alcholic liquors were retailed was 55,000; it is now 130,000.

A WRITER in the Chicago Sanitary News describes the "Moorish room" in Mr. J. H. Jewett's house of that city. It is very luxurious, with its geometrical ceiling, broad divans, and Oriental carpets. The wall space on one side is filled by a genuine Cairo lattice window, brought here after a service of 200 years in the picturesque Egyptian city. The latticed panels swing outward, and its spindles, circles, and squares are as perfect as they were two centuries ago. The cedar wood is dark with age, but still retains its delicate spicy fragrance.

A REMARKABLE case has just been decided in Brockville, N. Y. A young woman of unimpeachable character and great personal attractions, named Susan Horner, had her likeness taken at Addin F. Bradley's photograph gallery. Miss Horner's father died recently, and she supported herself with her needle. When her photographs were finished they were so very unlike her that she refused to take them. Bradley was very angry, and revenged himself by adorning one of the photographs with a mustache and painting a cigar in the mouth. A second he decorated with a large pair of red spectacles, and in the third he gave the face a blotched and disgusting appearance. The defaced copies of the three pictures, wrote some disagreeverses under them, and hung them outside of his studio. The villagers gathered around, and much scandal was the result. Bradley went further, and circulated disgracefully embellished photographs of the girl among the young men of the place. The direct result of all this was a lawsuit, by which Miss Horner recovered $200 damages.

WITH reference to the early life of Osman Digma, the Suakim correspondent of the London Times writes that he was originally a broker and trader, and principally a slave trader in Suakim and Jeddah, where he received a severe financial blow when, some six years ago, a British cruiser captured two slave dhows full of victims, on the way to Jeddah. Osman Digma's trade then fell from bad to worse, his house property in Suakim was all mortgaged, and he became hopelessly involved. Being of no great distinction by birth, his selection by the Mahdi to lead a religious rebellion is attributed to the accident that Osman Digma, in one of his incursions far south for slaves, met the Mahdi, who formed a high estimate of his ability and his influence acquired through successful trading. If history be trustworthy, passions for other objects than holiness are the keynote of Osman Digma's character and motives, and it is against all probability that he will exhibit the goods and his profits under the guise of holiness of battle. He is an ignorant fanatic, and he can not himself believe the myths which he multiplies in order to control his followers.

PORT WINE only came into vogue in England in the reign of Anne after Lord Methuen's treaty with Portugal. The port which then made its appearance was for the most part a rough red wine, not produced in the present port wine district, which a hundred years ago was well nigh a wilderness of dwarf oak, heather, and broom. This district is pear-shaped, like Louis Philippe's head. It extends east and west for twenty-seven miles, the thinner end tapering toward the Spanish frontier. The peace of 1815 was the first blow to the port wine interest, so many people began to drink claret. Douglas died early in the war; Buchanan lived to see the war ended and died in 1868; Breckenridge died soon after the failure of the Confederacy; Lincoln was murdered in 1865, just after he had entered upon his second Presidential term; Greeley died in 1872, before the Electoral College had recorded his overwhelming defeat, and Garfield shared Lincoln's fate when four months in office. Of the living candidates, Fremont, who made the brilliant contest against Buchanan in the first Republican ballot, lives in New York; McClellan, who unsuccessfully contested Lincoln's reelection, is living in New Jersey; Seymour, who carried New York against Grant in 1868, is residing on his New York farm; Grant has many homes, but prefers New York, and is regarded as a resident there; Tilden is resting at Greystone, just outside of New York City; Hayes is cultivating economy at Fremont, Ohio, and Hancock is enjoying the victories of peace in the New York forts. Of the candidates for Vice President in the same period, Breckenridge, Blair, Dayton, Herschel V. Johnson, Andrew Johnson, Law, and Wilson are dead, and all the living are out of place, except Pendleton, who is about to retire from the Senate, and Arthur, who is now President. Brown still vegetates in Missouri; Hendricks and English are still wrestling with party factions in Indiana; Hamlin is perched in Maine; Colfax is happy in the lecture field, and Wheeler is forgotten and doubtless trying to be forgetful in New York.

THE poor are only they who feel poor, and poverty consists in feeling poor. The rich, as we reckon them, emerge from the very rich, in a true search would be found very indigent and ragged.

WOMAN GOSSIP.

At the Masquerade.

She was masked, but yet I know
That her fair face
Rivaled rosy dawn in hue,
And the grace
That her presence fair instilled,
And my raptured senses thrilled,
Grew apace.

Oh, the batteries of her eyes
Thrilled me through
With their fire, like the skies,
Azure blue!
How I trembled when she glanced,
Charmed, bewildered, crazed, entranced—
So would you.

Why do bright dreams ever fade,
Leaving chills?
Why are bitter doses made
Sugared pills?
Why so near and yet so far,
Almost through the gates ajar,
When it kills?

While I urged my love to dare
The with me,
Came her cutting answer there,
Stung me free:
"George, you are the silliest fool
Ever escaped from woman's rule!—
'Twas my wife!

A Rash Man.

"Yes," said Pogg, "Dr. Pillroller is a brave man, no doubt, but he carries his bravery too far. He is foolhardy, sir; never saw so rash a man. Called him to see Mrs. P. to-day, and he actually asked her to let him see her tongue! Fact, sir. I wouldn't have believed that any living man would have had the courage to meet that tongue of hers."—Boston Transcript.

Truly Vindictive.

"Oh, you dear, good mother!" chirped Birdie McHennepin, "do you really mean to say that I can marry Gus De Smith?"

"I do," replied Mrs. McHennepin. "You have my full consent."

"But, mama, you said only yesterday that you couldn't bear him," pursued the daughter.

"Well, I have got something like an eighty-one-ton grudge against him, and for that very reason I have concluded to become his mother-in-law."—Texas Siftings.

No Rhombic for Her.

A young lady in St. Louis sent the following application for a position as bookkeeper: "Sir — Having noticed your advertisement in yesterday's paper I hasten to reply. I am 22 years of age; have had four years' experience in bookkeeping, and for two years past have been employed at $75 a month. I should expect an office nicely carpeted, with two or three easy chairs, morning and evening papers, and not to go to work before 8:30 a. m., have an hour and a half at noon and quit work at 5 p. m. My present place is unexcelled, and I never made a mistake in my books yet. Can give all the references you can reel. Hoping that I will suit, and in the expectation of being engaged by you, I remain, most respectfully yours."

"Shoopgee," said an experienced floorwalker, "is to a considerable extent a habit, and I know many instances in which it has grown into a passion. The remark is often made that women come into these large general stores and compel our saleswomen to show them whole lines of goods out of pure wantonness. I do not think that such is generally the case. The purchasers are seized with the buying mania, that is all; and if they happen to be out of ready money they feel obliged to make believe buy. I know those customers tolerably well, and can pick them out if I can only get a sight of them in the doorway. They will enter sort of castdown, but brighten right up as soon as they get their eyes on the goods. The sight seems to act on them somewhat as a cocktail operates on a man—it's a regular morning stimulus. Women haven't the head to stand against a genuine mark-down, and if they can't buy themselves they are bound to see other people buy.

"A man whose wife deals pretty largely here told me last summer that she had bought seventeen dress patterns in two months, and had only had three of them made up. He said that the habit ran in his wife's family. Her sister, it seems, had about two dozen pair of new shoes of all kinds on hand last winter, and only stopped buying when her husband told her a yarn about a woman being sent to a private asylum for doing such things. A dozen pair is not very strong, but two dozen beats even Napoleon III., who had twenty pair of boots when he was trapped at Sweden.

"No, I do not think the buying mania is stronger than kleptomania, but it is quite as strong, and, in my opinion, a good deal more genuine. Cases of true kleptomania are rare."

"Is not kleptomania a result of what you call the buying mania?" asked the reporter.

"Not by any means. The two cases are entirely different. The chronic shopper has the habit of buying; that's all; I have seldom known one to steal anything. The true kleptomaniac, however, acts from an irresistible impulse which usually breaks out occasionally. There are bogus kleptomaniacs—'magpies,' we call them—who tuck away anything they can lay hands on, but they are nothing more then thieves. People exaggerate somewhat as to the number of shoplifters detected in stores; we watch people closely nowadays.

"The worst cases among those who have the buying mania well developed are the specialists. A man came to see me from here who would buy six dozen handkerchiefs at once, and even repeat the act on the following week. I understand that she is an excellent lady, who is greatly beloved by her husband. He once sent her a present of a dozen pocket handkerchiefs purchased by her at auction, and his wife did not miss them. It is likely that he is a very wealthy man. As for the stocking rage, they all have it. Gloves used to be the great articles for a run, but stockings of all sizes are now the craze. This has been the case for a long time, but this year it is stronger than ever. I do not think the average woman is ever so entirely happy as when she is buying those articles. The trade runs in streaks on stockings; when we marked down those lisle thread, silk-finished stockings from 50 to 15 cents this house was screwed. We have about nine hundred varieties, varying from 20 cents to $8.50 a pair. There is a grade at $12, but we sell few at that price. The affection for stockings is very general among women. The rich buy three or four dozen or a half-dozen varieties, but I have known plenty of women who were hardly able to buy anything at all to pay 75 cents or $1 for a single pair of stockings. I would be willing to make a small bet that if a woman felt her janitorial call proof that they respect and understand each other. We necessarily cherish a feeling of contempt for that spirit in man or woman which forbids us to converse, or to be on terms of friendliness without fear of drawing allegiance from the chosen object. There is a vast difference between contempt and sociability; a difference that should be better understood than it is.—Exchange.

A New Pair of Shoes.

When a woman has a new pair of sheepskin home she performs altogether different from a man. She never shoves her toes into them and yanks and hauls until she is red in the face and all out of breath, and then goes stamping and kicking around, but pulls them on part way, carefully eases them off again to take a last look and see if she has got the right one, pulls them on again, looks at them decently, says they are just right, then takes another look, stops suddenly to smooth out a wrinkle, twists around and, surveying them sideways, exclaims: "Mercy, how loose they are," looks at them again square in front, walks a few feet around, says they won't hurt her quite so much, takes them off, looks at the heel, the toe, the bottom, and the inside, puts them on again, walks up and down the room once or twice, remarks to her better half that she won't have them at any price, tilts down the mirror so she can see how they look, turns in every possible direction and nearly dislocates her neck trying to see how they look from that way, backs off, steps up again, takes thirty or forty farewell looks, says that they make her feet look awful big and never will do in the world, puts them off and on three or four times more, asks her husband what he thinks about it, and then pays no attention to what he says, puts them off in all haste and, finally says she will take them. It's a very simple matter indeed.

Women Who Buy for the Sake of Buying.

"Shopping," said an experienced floorwalker, "is to a considerable extent a habit, and I know many instances in which it has grown into a passion. The remark is often made that women come into these large general stores and compel our saleswomen to show them whole lines of goods out of pure wantonness. I do not think that such is generally the case. The purchasers are seized with the buying mania, that is all; and if they happen to be out of ready money they feel obliged to make believe buy. I know those customers tolerably well, and can pick them out if I can only get a sight of them in the doorway. They will enter sort of castdown, but brighten right up as soon as they get their eyes on the goods. The sight seems to act on them somewhat as a cocktail operates on a man—it's a regular morning stimulus. Women haven't the head to stand against a genuine mark-down, and if they can't buy themselves they are bound to see other people buy.

"A man whose wife deals pretty largely here told me last summer that she had bought seventeen dress patterns in two months, and had only had three of them made up. He said that the habit ran in his wife's family. Her sister, it seems, had about two dozen pair of new shoes of all kinds on hand last winter, and only stopped buying when her husband told her a yarn about a woman being sent to a private asylum for doing such things. A dozen pair is not very strong, but two dozen beats even Napoleon III., who had twenty pair of boots when he was trapped at Sweden.

"No, I do not think the buying mania is stronger than kleptomania, but it is quite as strong, and, in my opinion, a good deal more genuine. Cases of true kleptomania are rare."

"Is not kleptomania a result of what you call the buying mania?" asked the reporter.

"Not by any means. The two cases are entirely different. The chronic shopper has the habit of buying; that's all; I have seldom known one to steal anything. The true kleptomaniac, however, acts from an irresistible impulse which usually breaks out occasionally. There are bogus kleptomaniacs—'magpies,' we call them—who tuck away anything they can lay hands on, but they are nothing more then thieves. People exaggerate somewhat as to the number of shoplifters detected in stores; we watch people closely nowadays.

"The worst cases among those who have the buying mania well developed are the specialists. A man came to see me from here who would buy six dozen handkerchiefs at once, and even repeat the act on the following week. I understand that she is an excellent lady, who is greatly beloved by her husband. He once sent her a present of a dozen pocket handkerchiefs purchased by her at auction, and his wife did not miss them. It is likely that he is a very wealthy man. As for the stocking rage, they all have it. Gloves used to be the great articles for a run, but stockings of all sizes are now the craze. This has been the case for a long time, but this year it is stronger than ever. I do not think the average woman is ever so entirely happy as when she is buying those articles. The trade runs in streaks on stockings; when we marked down those lisle thread, silk-finished stockings from 50 to 15 cents this house was screwed. We have about nine hundred varieties, varying from 20 cents to $8.50 a pair. There is a grade at $12, but we sell few at that price. The affection for stockings is very general among women. The rich buy three or four dozen or a half-dozen varieties, but I have known plenty of women who were hardly able to buy anything at all to pay 75 cents or $1 for a single pair of stockings. I would be willing to make a small bet that if a woman felt her janitorial call proof that they respect and understand each other. We necessarily cherish a feeling of contempt for that spirit in man or woman which forbids us to converse, or to be on terms of friendliness without fear of drawing allegiance from the chosen object. There is a vast difference between contempt and sociability; a difference that should be better understood than it is.—Exchange.

A New Pair of Shoes.

When a woman has a new pair of sheepskin home she performs altogether different from a man. She never shoves her toes into them and yanks and hauls until she is red in the face and all out of breath, and then goes stamping and kicking around, but pulls them on part way, carefully eases them off again to take a last look and see if she has got the right one, pulls them on again, looks at them decently, says they are just right, then takes another look, stops suddenly to smooth out a wrinkle, twists around and, surveying them sideways, exclaims: "Mercy, how loose they are," looks at them again square in front, walks a few feet around, says they won't hurt her quite so much, takes them off, looks at the heel, the toe, the bottom, and the inside, puts them on again, walks up and down the room once or twice, remarks to her better half that she won't have them at any price, tilts down the mirror so she can see how they look, turns in every possible direction and nearly dislocates her neck trying to see how they look from that way, backs off, steps up again, takes thirty or forty farewell looks, says that they make her feet look awful big and never will do in the world, puts them off and on three or four times more, asks her husband what he thinks about it, and then pays no attention to what he says, puts them off in all haste and, finally says she will take them. It's a very simple matter indeed.

Women Who Buy for the Sake of Buying.

"Shoopgee," said an experienced floorwalker, "is to a considerable extent a habit, and I know many instances in which it has grown into a passion. The remark is often made that women come into these large general stores and compel our saleswomen to show them whole lines of goods out of pure wantonness. I do not think that such is generally the case. The purchasers are seized with the buying mania, that is all; and if they happen to be out of ready money they feel obliged to make believe buy. I know those customers tolerably well, and can pick them out if I can only get a sight of them in the doorway. They will enter sort of castdown, but brighten right up as soon as they get their eyes on the goods. The sight seems to act on them somewhat as a cocktail operates on a man—it's a regular morning stimulus. Women haven't the head to stand against a genuine mark-down, and if they can't buy themselves they are bound to see other people buy.

"A man whose wife deals pretty largely here told me last summer that she had bought seventeen dress patterns in two months, and had only had three of them made up. He said that the habit ran in his wife's family. Her sister, it seems, had about two dozen pair of new shoes of all kinds on hand last winter, and only stopped buying when her husband told her a yarn about a woman being sent to a private asylum for doing such things. A dozen pair is not very strong, but two dozen beats even Napoleon III., who had twenty pair of boots when he was trapped at Sweden.

"No, I do not think the buying mania is stronger than kleptomania, but it is quite as strong, and, in my opinion, a good deal more genuine. Cases of true kleptomania are rare."

"Is not kleptomania a result of what you call the buying mania?" asked the reporter.

"Not by any means. The two cases are entirely different. The chronic shopper has the habit of buying; that's all; I have seldom known one to steal anything. The true kleptomaniac, however, acts from an irresistible impulse which usually breaks out occasionally. There are bogus kleptomaniacs—'magpies,' we call them—who tuck away anything they can lay hands on, but they are nothing more then thieves. People exaggerate somewhat as to the number of shoplifters detected in stores; we watch people closely nowadays.

"The worst cases among those who have the buying mania well developed are the specialists. A man came to see me from here who would buy six dozen handkerchiefs at once, and even repeat the act on the following week. I understand that she is an excellent lady, who is greatly beloved by her husband. He once sent her a present of a dozen pocket handkerchiefs purchased by her at auction, and his wife did not miss them. It is likely that he is a very wealthy man. As for the stocking rage, they all have it. Gloves used to be the great articles for a run, but stockings of all sizes are now the craze. This has been the case for a long time, but this year it is stronger than ever. I do not think the average woman is ever so entirely happy as when she is buying those articles. The trade runs in streaks on stockings; when we marked down those lisle thread, silk-finished stockings from 50 to 15 cents this house was screwed. We have about nine hundred varieties, varying from 20 cents to $8.50 a pair. There is a grade at $12, but we sell few at that price. The affection for stockings is very general among women. The rich buy three or four dozen or a half-dozen varieties, but I have known plenty of women who were hardly able to buy anything at all to pay 75 cents or $1 for a single pair of stockings. I would be willing to make a small bet that if a woman felt her janitorial call proof that they respect and understand each other. We necessarily cherish a feeling of contempt for that spirit in man or woman which forbids us to converse, or to be on terms of friendliness without fear of drawing allegiance from the chosen object. There is a vast difference between contempt and sociability; a difference that should be better understood than it is.—Exchange.

THE HORSEMAN.

MARES IN FOAL.—Mares in foal should be allowed the run of an open field or wood lot in warm sunny days that appear early in this season of the year. They need the exercise, and the run is beneficial.

POOR VS. FAT HORSES.—A poor horse is usually a hungry horse, but it is questionable whether a fat horse is more so than an extremely poor one. Especially is this true when the animal is required to perform a large amount of hard labor. While keeping a horse in wholesome food, it should be the fat-producing kinds. The habit of feeding horses by the clock or by the horse owners never receiving their proper allowance of grain is one of the most glaring evils of the present system of feeding horses by the quart or bushel, and it should be changed.

HORSE PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.—In some of the older sections of the country farmers have found it to their advantage to organize for the protection of stolen horses and stock. The rule is for each member to pay $1 yearly, which fund is increased by fines and assessments, and only stopped buying when her husband told her a yarn about a woman being sent to a private asylum for doing such things. A dozen pair is not very strong, but two dozen beats even Napoleon III., who had twenty pair of boots when he was trapped at Sweden.

"No, I do not think the buying mania is stronger than kleptomania, but it is quite as strong, and, in my opinion, a good deal more genuine. Cases of true kleptomania are rare."

"Is not kleptomania a result of what you call the buying mania?" asked the reporter.

"Not by any means. The two cases are entirely different. The chronic shopper has the habit of buying; that's all; I have seldom known one to steal anything. The true kleptomaniac, however, acts from an irresistible impulse which usually breaks out occasionally. There are bogus kleptomaniacs—'magpies,' we call them—who tuck away anything they can lay hands on, but they are nothing more then thieves. People exaggerate somewhat as to the number of shoplifters detected in stores; we watch people closely nowadays.

"The worst cases among those who have the buying mania well developed are the specialists. A man came to see me from here who would buy six dozen handkerchiefs at once, and even repeat the act on the following week. I understand that she is an excellent lady, who is greatly beloved by her husband. He once sent her a present of a dozen pocket handkerchiefs purchased by her at auction, and his wife did not miss them. It is likely that he is a very wealthy man. As for the stocking rage, they all have it. Gloves used to be the great articles for a run, but stockings of all sizes are now the craze. This has been the case for a long time, but this year it is stronger than ever. I do not think the average woman is ever so entirely happy as when she is buying those articles. The trade runs in streaks on stockings; when we marked down those lisle thread, silk-finished stockings from 50 to 15 cents this house was screwed. We have about nine hundred varieties, varying from 20 cents to $8.50 a pair. There is a grade at $12, but we sell few at that price. The affection for stockings is very general among women. The rich buy three or four dozen or a half-dozen varieties, but I have known plenty of women who were hardly able to buy anything at all to pay 75 cents or $1 for a single pair of stockings. I would be willing to make a small bet that if a woman felt her janitorial call proof that they respect and understand each other. We necessarily cherish a feeling of contempt for that spirit in man or woman which forbids us to converse, or to be on terms of friendliness without fear of drawing allegiance from the chosen object. There is a vast difference between contempt and sociability; a difference that should be better understood than it is.—Exchange.

A Much-Occupied Man.

Turnpike is the name of the railroad running through the heart of Western Scotland. It boasts of a good deal of original, busy man. John Bull, the head of the concern, is a very busy man. He has a private office in which he was subjected to the most relentless cross-examination by an active little reporter, who asked him all sorts of questions, and finally wound up with the query: "Oh, how busy you are!" and one, whose face was shaded, reached over and took a pair of scissors from one of my companions into his own. The other ladies looked on in silence. Presently some of my fair sisters, and all carried away to our new homes. The lady that I sisters were with took us to a room on a hill, where we were introduced and our fragrance inhaled. We were doing a tremendous business, and are far behind in our orders. This is the season of the year when people, no matter how strong their constitution may be, feel more or less the pain and indisposition, the headaches, colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, dull pains, sore throats, coughs—all the ills that flesh is heir to, come this time of year, if at all. It is natural, therefore, that we should be very busy. This is especially true of our Safe Rheumatic Cure, and it is growing so very sharply for a new remedy."

"Singular, but I had forgotten that you do not advertise to cure all diseases from one bottle, as is done generally by many other medicine men, but I supposed Warner's Safe Cure was for the cure of rheumatism."

"And so it has been until our remedy, which was especially for rheumatism and neuralgia, was introduced. We have been three years perfecting this new remedy. Study first taught us that a very certain powerful cure was in Warner's Safe Cure, left-r known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, that under wonderful cures in chronic and acute rheumatism, but during our investigation we found of a remedy side cure in a celebrated spring, and put experts to investigate and found that the spring did not contain the mineral properties, but after a course of treatment that was being given there was performing all the benefit. By carefully combining the active principles of this remedy with the Safe Cure, we have produced our new Safe Rheumatic Cure, and the cures it is effecting are simply wonderful, and I do not doubt it will become as popular as our Safe Cure."

"You seem to talk freely in regard to your remedies, and appear to have no secrets, Mr. Warner."

"None whatever. The physician, with his hundred calls and one hundred different cases, is necessarily compelled to guess at a great many cases. We are enabled to follow up and see how our prescriptions operate, and in every case we know whether we have succeeded or failed. The writer happened to be in Rochester at that time and was greatly interested in the manner in which this great establishment was conducted. Every letter was carefully opened, and the contents noted, and in order to say that they were answered promptly, a number of clerks were employed, and in order to say that they were answered correctly, a number of physicians were employed. Every letter was answered by a personal letter, and not by a circular, as is the case with many establishments. Physicians were employed who had made a specialty of the diseases with the ordinary physician, the diseases which they were employed to treat. Where any peculiar case of disease or discovery, he is bound to give it to the other physicians, which, of course, discourages investigation, to a great extent. This is one of the great reasons for the medical science so little progress has been made in diseases and not by physicians, and it is an necessary account for the great value of our remedies, also for the remarkable success of all these doctors who make a practice of only one or two diseases."

"Are you not afraid that you are curing as great a number of people as ever before?"

"Yes, a far greater number. We never sold so much of our medicine as now, and never knew of so many remarkable cures."

The writer departed after the above interview, but was greatly impressed, not only by the sincerity of Mr. Warner, but by the success of all he saw. Mr. Warner's medicines are used throughout the entire South and West in the land, and we should not be surprised to hear of their reality as wonderful as they are related to be.

Two hands generally meet a crisis with reserve.

"A MODEL woman"—The immaculate frame upon which wraps are displayed.

Dairymen Prefer It

Messrs. Wells, Richardson & Co.:

Since the introduction of our Improved Butter Color among my customers, it has given universal satisfaction. You would think by the many men of this section who have used it after it is perfect as ever any other colors, of whatever name or nature.

They are especially pleased with the fact that it does not become rancid, like other colors, and their previous losings thereby.

Yours truly,
H. S. NYE, Druggist.

Cadwell, Vt., April 5, 1882.

"I mean," is the way the cow-boy begins his conversation.

FOOTSTEPS, INDIGESTION, depression of spirits, and general debility in their various forms, also, acute and chronic nervous diseases, are effectively removed by Hop Bitters. Ask your druggist for "Hop Bitters' Almanac," made by Green, Hazard & Co., of New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness it has no equal.

"A DUTY is performed by payment," and money by the organist.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound was first prepared in liquid form only; but now it can be sent in dry forms by mail in pounds where no druggist can readily be found and to those Mrs. Compound it increases and pills but little way to the foreign climes of Europe and Asia.

WHAT a good many have his glass before he can do a day's work. Ayton.

"YOUR Simmons Liver Regulator cured my son's life," writes Mrs. S. M. Parkhurst, of Girard, Mich.

THE more sincere and the hotel-keeper, the greater his anxiety he shows.—Troy Sitting.

ALL pain in the nervous system, wind colic and neuralgia, relieved by Jacobs Liver.

THE Sultan of Morocco has a thousand wives. He has been a very busy man since he came into power, but always received.—Troy Sitting.

FOR twenty-five years I have been afflicted with catarrh so that I have been confined to my room for ten months at a time. I have tried all the remedies in hopes of relief, but to no success until I was sent on my friend who had tried Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and advised me to try it. I procured it in time to please him, and from the first application I found relief. It is the best remedy I have ever tried.—W. C. Mayhugh, Justice of the Peace, Shenandoah, Iowa.

Reminiscences of Rochester.

The Falls of the Genesee and Sam Patch's Fatal Leap—One of Its Business Houses and Its Great Magnitude.

The present floods, which are either devastating or threatening the country in every direction, are justly cause for approbation. No matter whether they come suddenly or by slow degrees, they are, in either case, a great evil and much to be dreaded, and yet America will always be troubled by these spring overflows. Probably one of the most disastrous that was ever known occurred in Rochester, N. Y., about twenty years ago. The Genesee River, just above the falls, where Sam Patch made his final and fatal leap, became completely blockaded by ice, forming an impassable dam, and the water coming down the Genesee River overflowed the principal portion of the city of Rochester. This catastrophe would have been repeated the present year but not the energy and foresight of the city authorities prevented it. The writer happened to be in Rochester at that time and was greatly interested in the manner in which this great catastrophe was averted. Every few minutes, a roar like the peals of thunder or the booming of cannon would be heard, and in order to say the blasting process the writer went to the top of the new Warner Building, which overlooks the Genesee River. From here he was not only enabled to see the process minutely, but also the magnificent building which has just been completed. This is unquestionably the finest building devoted to business and manufacturing purposes in America, being entirely fireproof, eight stories high, and containing over four and a quarter acres of flooring. Mr. Warner treated your correspondent very courteously, and in the course of the conversation said:

"We are doing a tremendous business, and are far behind in our orders. This is the season of the year when people, no matter how strong their constitution may be, feel more or less the pain and indisposition, the headaches, colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, dull pains, sore throats, coughs—all the ills that flesh is heir to, come this time of year, if at all. It is natural, therefore, that we should be very busy. This is especially true of our Safe Rheumatic Cure, and it is growing so very sharply for a new remedy."

"Singular, but I had forgotten that you do not advertise to cure all diseases from one bottle, as is done generally by many other medicine men, but I supposed Warner's Safe Cure was for the cure of rheumatism."

"And so it has been until our remedy, which was especially for rheumatism and neuralgia, was introduced. We have been three years perfecting this new remedy. Study first taught us there were certain powerful cures in Warner's Safe Cure, left-r known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, that under wonderful cures in chronic and acute rheumatism, but during our investigation we found of a remedy side cure in a celebrated spring, and put experts to investigate and found that the spring did not contain the mineral properties, but after a course of treatment that was being given there was performing all the benefit. By carefully combining the active principles of this remedy with the Safe Cure, we have produced our new Safe Rheumatic Cure, and the cures it is effecting are simply wonderful, and I do not doubt it will become as popular as our Safe Cure."

"You seem to talk freely in regard to your remedies, and appear to have no secrets, Mr. Warner."

"None whatever. The physician, with his hundred calls and one hundred different cases, is necessarily compelled to guess at a great many cases. We are enabled to follow up and see how our prescriptions operate, and in every case we know whether we have succeeded or failed. The writer happened to be in Rochester at that time and was greatly interested in the manner in which this great establishment was conducted. Every letter was carefully opened, and the contents noted, and in order to say that they were answered promptly, a number of clerks were employed, and in order to say that they were answered correctly, a number of physicians were employed. Every letter was answered by a personal letter, and not by a circular, as is the case with many establishments. Physicians were employed who had made a specialty of the diseases with the ordinary physician, the diseases which they were employed to treat. Where any peculiar case of disease or discovery, he is bound to give it to the other physicians, which, of course, discourages investigation, to a great extent. This is one of the great reasons for the medical science so little progress has been made in diseases and not by physicians, and it is an necessary account for the great value of our remedies, also for the remarkable success of all these doctors who make a practice of only one or two diseases."

"Are you not afraid that you are curing as great a number of people as ever before?"

"Yes, a far greater number. We never sold so much of our medicine as now, and never knew of so many remarkable cures."

The writer departed after the above interview, but was greatly impressed, not only by the sincerity of Mr. Warner, but by the success of all he saw. Mr. Warner's medicines are used throughout the entire South and West in the land, and we should not be surprised to hear of their reality as wonderful as they are related to be.

Cattle Wanted.

Parties having cattle for sale of any class, please address, giving description, number, price, John C. Abbott, Box 2250, Denver, Col.

MOTHERS, the best dressing for children's hair is Cuticura, made from pure vegetable oils, thoroughly deodorized and delightfully perfumed. It makes the little one's hair soft, silky, and glossy; it is also excellent for dandruff.

PISO'S Remedy for Catarrh is a certain cure for that very obnoxious disease.

USE the Fraser Axle Grease, 'tis the best in the world—will wear twice as long as any other.

Dr. Sanford's Liver Invigorator—Cathartic, Tonic; will cure when other medicines fail.

THE increasing sales of Piso's Cure attest its claim as the best cough cure.

"Rough on Rats" clears out Rats, Mice. 15c.

Mother Swan's Worm Syrup, tasteless. 25c.

"Rough on Coughs" Troches, 15c; liquid, 50c.

WELLS' May Apple Liver Pills. 10c.

"Rough on Toothache," instant relief. 15c.

"Rough on Corns," for Corns, Warts, Bunions. 15c.

WELLS' Health Renewer cures Dyspepsia, Impotence.

"Rough on Dentist" Tooth Powder. 15c.

Sharp Pains in the Chest, and all pains and aches in either head or body, relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing antidote.

Sharp Pains in the Back, Kidneys, Hips, Groins, and Weakness, relieved instantly by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing antidote.

Sharp Pains in the Muscles and Joints, relieved instantly by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing antidote.

Sharp Pains, Aches and Weaknesses, relieved instantly by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing antidote.

Sharp Pains, Aches and Weaknesses, relieved instantly by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing antidote.

Sharp Pains, Aches and Weaknesses, relieved instantly by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing antidote.

Sharp Pains, Aches and Weaknesses, relieved instantly by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing antidote.

Mrs. Ann Latour, of New Orleans, La., writes: "I have a son who has been sick for two years; he has been attended by our leading physicians, but all to no purpose. This morning he had his usual spell of coughing, and was so greatly prostrated in consequence that death seemed imminent. We had in the house a bottle of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, purchased by my husband, who noticed your advertisement yesterday. We administered it, and he was instantly relieved."

My Six-Year-Old Daughter.

DR. C. D. WARNER: Dear Sir—I received the complimentary bottle of Wine Wine of Tar Syrup you so kindly sent me. Our little 6-year-old daughter had a very sore throat, badly ulcerated, and coughed almost incessantly. We gave the medicine according to directions, and she began to improve immediately and soon got well. Please accept thanks. Mrs. Groves and I have recommended it to others. I shall want to get some of it at the beginning of winter, as I consider it a very superior medicine. Yours very respectfully, REV. H. D. GROVES, Clarksville, Mo. Pastor M. E. Church.

"put up" at the Gaslit House.

The business man or tourist will find first-class accommodations at the low price of $2 and $2.50 per day at the Gaslit House, Chicago, corner Clinton and Madison streets. This far-famed hotel is located in the center of the city, only one block from the Union Depot. Elevator; all appointments first-class.

H. W. HOYT, Proprietor.

TALLEYRAND, The first name for private linen paper, is for sale by all stationers in Chicago, N.Y.

BIG PAY to sell our rubber hand stamps. Terms free. Taylor Bros. & Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

TO make money speedily in stocks, $10 and upwards, operate in Wall St. Send for circular. NYMAN & CRAWFORD, Bankers, N. Y.

WRITE TODD'S NURSERY, Fairbury, Neb., for Large Illustrated Catalogue FREE

Young Men learn TELEGRAPHY and earn $50 to $100 per month. Situations furnished. Circulars free. Valentine Bros., Janesville, Wis.

HAIR Wholesale and retail. Send for price-list. WELLS MANUFACTURING CO., Ashaway, R.I.

AGENTS WANTED for the best and fastest-selling Pictorial Book out. Address HUBBARD BROS., Publishers, Philadelphia, Pa.

SEND 10c. IN STAMPS FOR SIXTEEN BEAUTIFUL CARDS and be handsomely remembered by A. CLINTON, 24 Third Ave., Baltimore, Md.

PATENTS. Send stamp for 32-page book on Patents. Patents procured in U.S. and Foreign countries. E. G. SIGGERS, Washington, D.C.

CARPENTERS AND JOINERS, SEND FOR $2.50 Combination Pocket Adjustable Boring Machine. WELLS MANUFACTURING CO., Ashaway, R.I.

THE FRENCH SOCIETY CO., 23 and 25 Thirteenth St., New York, send all kinds of JEWELRY, GEMS and NOVELTIES for lowest cash price. Send for catalogue.

DIRECTORY OF NEWSPAPERS publicly new printed lists of 1,000 papers, with rates, mailed for 10 cents in stamps or coin. Address GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 10 Spruce St., New York.

PAUSE AT LAST, TO KEEP HOGS FRESH ON ice and salt. Send for circular. Address, with stamp, CAPTAIN SPEARMAN, Cincinnati, Ohio.

U.S. STANDARD JONES OF BINGHAMTON

5 TON WAGON SCALES, Best factory made Platform Scale. Price List Sent Free. Don't buy a Scale of any one before you send us a postal. Address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, Binghamton, N.Y.

FREE! CARDS & CHROMOS. We will send free by mail a sample set of our fine Chromo, French and American Cards, Chromo Cards, Floral Cards, with a new list of 50 different styles, and a full sample of our 50 cent Outfit, all for 10 cents. Agents wanted. Address, with stamp, CLINTON BROS., Clintonville, Conn.

CONSUMPTION. I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

THE LIFE LESSON

LEARNED BY A PROMINENT RUDSON ODD FELLOW.

Peters Pet Hudson (N. Y.) Register.

Mr. John Elting, a faithful Odd Fellow Past Grand ("Lindenwald," No. 465, and a member of the Baptist Church, says: "I have been, as most of my acquaintances in Hudson know, a sufferer from dyspepsia for the past. The symptoms of my malady were these which a million other sufferers in the land would recognize as their own. Beginning with indigestion, sour stomach and flatulence, I became so weak that my body became a burden too heavy to carry, and my mind was weighted down by a gloomy despondency. After eating I felt as if I had a ball of leaden iron in my stomach; my abdomen would bloat, and I was afflicted almost constantly with a sick headache. A lady learning of my condition advised me to use DR. DAVID KENNEDY'

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 8, 1884.

Notes and News.

The festive circus has arrived in the state.

The Northwest Farmer for May is on our table.

W. Watson, of Boyne, lost a valuable cow last Thursday night.

The Lansing Journal favors Grover Cleveland, of New York, for president.

Cheboygan disputes with Traverse City the right to the title of "big village."

Charlotte pays George Preston $4,800 for injuries received from falling through a defective sidewalk.

"Died from excessive drinking" was the verdict on nearly 500 cases before English coroner's juries last year.

The planing mill whistle gives a terrible long blast occasionally,—so long, sometimes, that it reminds us of the day of the fire last fall.

Those persons who spend money in other towns for things they could get at home invariably buy at home when they can get trusted.

Mr. E. B Lapham will immediately commence the erection of another store building on the north side of the one he has just sold.—Rockford Register.

Chicago News: It will take more enthusiasm than Blaine can jam into the galleries of the convention to silence the calm, still voice impeaching his record.

Farmers, have you noted any drop in the articles you buy—nails, iron goods, woolens, etc? How does wheat at eighty cents strike you? Is not this "protecting home industries" a terrible paradox?—Niles Democrat.

An evidence of low prices at Weed's drug store is the fact that they bid on filling the medicine chest of the propeller Lawrence, and secured the contract, the captain stating that the price was lower than he paid last year in Chicago.

During his leisure hours last winter, W. Watson, of Boyne, made a violin from lumber grown on his farm, the sounding board being of hemlock, and the sides of curly maple. It is complete in every particular, and makes music, too.

The fish dealers on Little Traverse Bay handled during the year ending April 1st, 1884, only 410,000 pounds which is 100,000 pounds less than was shipped by Connable & Son alone the year before. The fisheries all round the lakes show a similar falling off.

Rev. J. J. Kanagy's "fair," on the corner of Bridge and Masons streets, will be a valuable acquisition to our business interests. The room is now being fitted up with new shelving counters, etc. The walls and ceiling have been covered with a handsome design of paper.

A man never fully realizes his own inferiority, never knows what a poor, weak, sin-burdened, groveling worm of the dust he is, never really understands that he is only one insignificant atom in the great illimitable universe of matter, until he sets out to match a particular shade of zephyr for his wife.

And how come the nail manufacturers and form a pool, with full power to regulate prices and restrict production. At the same time reports show that stocks are light and orders numerous. Over $10,000,000 of capital are represented by this pool, which by a high protective tariff is in this way enabled to prey upon the public in defiance of the law of supply and demand.—Chicago News.

"Well, good boy," said the oyster, as he hurriedly held out his hand to the early strawberry. "Here comes my train and I'm off to the seaside to recruit my shattered energies. Honestly. I have been so lonesome all winter swimming around by myself in a wide billowy sea of church-social soup that it seems as though I should die if I couldn't go away somewhere where I could get a glimpse of old-time friends. Wish I could stay long enough, to see you ship out and roll off onto the floor at the first Sunday school festival just as the gong fol low with the standing collar and oiled hair thinks he has corralled you in the farthest corner of the shortcake. So long, you rascal; give my regards to the picnic ice cream."

It is reported that Michigan furnishes more cedar for telegraph poles, paving, and other purposes than all the other states combined. The business is certainly assuming enormous proportions, and as cedar timber is abundant in the state, the industry is liable to become one of great importance.

C. B. Davis, of Chicago, has been prospecting for agricultural land in this county the past week. If successful in getting the right location he may engage in the wholesale potato trade with Chicago. At least he expresses great faith in northern Michigan potatoes for both table use and for market.

And now it is that the society young lady meandereth about town and, with a sweet, sly twinkle in her eye, casually inquires of the eligible young man what summer resort he will frequent during the coming season, and then she goeth straight home and maketh queer marks in a memorandum. Why is it thus?

The liquor dealers' organ, the Detroit Leader doesn't want Begole. If memory serves us correctly the liquor dealers and their organ did all in their power two years to beat Begole and elect Jerome Governor. If the liquor men have not learned anything since then, they may make up their minds to get left again.—Muskegon News.

This is the season of the year to load your wheelburrow up with a gloomy and eccentric collection of old peuch cans, shoes, hoop-skirts, and other bric-a-brac, and then leave the whole business out by your front gate so that some unfortunate human being may come along in the inky blackness of the night and plunge madly over it.

There will come a time when it will be policy for the greenback party to go alone in Michigan, but we do not believe that time is this year. Changes may occur between now and the meeting of the conventions for nominating candidates that will make it advisable to ignore the democrats, but that is not the present appearance.—Grand Rapids Leader.

It is time for a change. The opportunity to effect it will come in November next. Let the people—not the democrats only, but all men who have at heart the best interests of the country—ponder well the situation, examine carefully the record of the party in power, and join in an effort to bring about a change for the better—it cannot possibly be for the worse. Barry County Democrat.

A bill has been favorably reported in the national senate making it a penal offense to contract for labor in other countries to be employed in this. Looked at upon its individual merits, the bill seems a galloping absurdity; but if protection is right the American laborer is entitled to his share of it, and the bill is logical and just. The trouble with it as a measure of protection to labor is that it does not go far enough. There should be a large tax on the individual immigrant to even up the system all round. —Boston Post.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Platform Freaks.

This year the platform planks have a way of flying up and hitting politicians in the face. The republicans of the great manufacturing state of Massachusetts, for example, call for a reduction of the tariff; and they insist upon a reduction of the customs duties because of the dangerous surplus in the treasury receipts." The only qualification made is that the work of reduction be done in a scientific way; but the point of the plank is that a manufacturing state has called for a reduction that protectionists claim will work harm to our industries.

On the other hand Iowa, that great agricultural state, has put into its republican platform the solidist kind of a protection plank. Inasmuch as the farmer pays a tribute on every pound of iron he uses, every board he puts into a barn or a fence, every suit of clothes he wears and every pound of sugar he eats, it would seem as if a reduction of the duties on necessities should be as desirable to the republican farmers of Iowa as to the republicans of New Hampshire, who demand such a change in the tariff.

The strangest of all strange things, however, is the development of the free trade idea in the greenback party—a party that relies for its support chiefly on laboring people. Unless the protectionists have been greatly mistaken the laboring men are high tariff men. The whole protection movement has been bolstered up by the theory that it was the only salvation of the working man; and now to have him repudiate the doctrine is sad indeed. Yet the delusion could not be expected to last always. It was a good enough Morgan while it lasted, but even Morgan has his day. —Detroit Times.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Ben will be There.

Benjamin F. Butler has been selected to carry the standard of Massachusetts democracy to Chicago; and although the convention was opposed to instructing him to vote for himself as the nominee for the presidency, he will not be the man to leave any stone unturned whereby such a nomination may be secured.

Butler would make a splendid run; there is no denying that fact. The people generally regard him as the friend of the poor man and the enemy of the monopolist; as a sharp and shrewd politician, and as a bit of a knave, perhaps; but not a bit of a fool.

It would not be strange if a man who is on such good terms with Tilden and the New York Sun; who has been baptized into the democratic party by being elected governor of a staunch republican state it would not be surprising if such a man were to find favor with a very large section of the democratic party.

It is not necessary for the democrats to be calling for harmonious as to their policy. They are the opposition to the existing rule; they represent a desire for a change in the management of government, and hence they may be allowed to quarrel and blunder to a certain extent. The trouble is that heretofore they have exceeded their limit for blundering. With a man like Butler as a leader there would be enough audacity to offset a great many blunders.—Detroit Times.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when Dr. Low's Worm Syrup and Lee's Santonine Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Peevishness, sudden starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Be wise and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Drive dull cure away. Be cheerful, be pleasant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parmelee's Blood Purifier, it acts upon the liver and kidneys, it regulates the bowels and purifies the blood, it acts upon the digestion, it carries off the old blood and makes new, and is acquiring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all skin diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

J. MILO EATON

DEALER IN

REAL ESTAT

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sa

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FA

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Compani

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.	..	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan	8.30 a. m.	....	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	9.00 a. m.	....	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m.	....	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.	....	2.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	8.30 a. m.	....	4.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne	9.30 a. m.	....	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	12.00 p. m.	....	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv.	7.00am	Harbor Springs	1.30pm
Charlevoix	9.00am	Petoskey	2.00pm
Petoskey	11.00am	Charlevoix	4.30pm
Harbor Springs	11.30am	East Jordan, ar.	6.30pm

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.	....	7 40am	7 15pm	....
Richmond	2 25pm	10 32	9 52	....
Winchester	3 31	11 37	11 00	....
Ridgeville	4 11	11 55	11 21	....
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 12	2 20pm	1 52am	....
Fort Wayne, lv.	....	2 47	2 00	8 05am
Kendallville	....	3 35	2 52	9 17
Sturgis	....	5 13	5 14	10 55
Vicksburg	....	6 11	6 13	11 48
Kalamazoo, ar	....	6 52	6 52	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, lv	....	7 02	7 12	12 35
Otsego	....	9 02	9 22	3 57
Otsego Junction	2 15am	....	9 50	4 45
Allegan	3 30	....	10 05	5 05
Holland	4 30	....	11 00	6 27
Grand Rapids	5 10	....	12 10pm	7 22
Ionia	6 01	....	1 12	8 18
Portland	6 20	....	1 31	8 36
Owosso	7 30	....	2 36	9 50
Corunna	8 00	....	3 05	10 20
Durand	8 20	....	3 25	....
Flint	9 00	....	4 05	12 05am
Davisburg	9 40	....	4 45	12 55
Holly	10 00	....	5 05	1 15
Milford	10 15	....	5 20	1 30
Walled Lake	10 30	....	5 35	1 45
Farmington	10 45	....	5 50	2 00
Detroit, ar.	11 30	....	6 35	2 45

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv.	....	....	5 15pm	7 30am
Marquette	....	....	9 00	8 30
St. Ignace	....	....	5 45am	6 15pm
Mackinaw City	....	....	6 10	9 15
Petoskey, lv.	....	....	7 00	11 35
Petoskey, lv.	....	....	7 00	11 35
Bay View	....	....	8 15	12 25am
Boyne Falls	....	....	9 19	2 11
Kalkaska	....	....	9 50	2 24
Traverse City, lv.	....	....	....	5 30pm
Cadillac, ar.	....	....	....	8 20
Cadillac, lv.	....	3 30pm	11 45	5 30
Reed City	....	4 39	1 12pm	7 16
Big Rapids	....	5 10	1 44	7 49
Howard City	....	6 08	2 38	8 47
Ionia	....	7 00	3 30	9 37
Grand Rapids, ar.	....	....	4 05	10 25
Grand Rapids, lv.	6 32am	....	4 32	12 30pm
Kalamazoo, ar.	8 32	....	6 32	2 24
Kalamazoo, lv.	8 37	....	6 52	2 29
Vicksburg	9 07	....	7 22	3 00
Sturgis	10 01	....	8 10	3 50
Kendallville	11 18	....	9 25	5 31
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 35pm	....	10 45	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 52	5 57am	12 02am	....
Ridgeville	2 09	7 56	2 33	....
Winchester	2 28	8 15	2 55	....
Richmond, ar.	3 27	9 17	4 00	....
Cincinnati, ar.	7 00pm	12 50pm	7 35am	....

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Act'g G. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure CURE for CONSUMPTION, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

PAY UP.—Delinquent subscribers, who can, are requested to pay us something on subscription, if only a part of what they owe. We have bills for material, stock, etc., which must be paid at once.

FOR SAL

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year-old mare, one good work horse, two Texas ponies 4 years old, swell broke, and one five-year-old. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine River. 39tf J. A. B.

JOHN NICHOLS

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBE

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Our M

LUMBER SAWED AND FILLED TO ORDER

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, E

HALL'S Catarrh Cu

Is Recommended by Phys

$100 REWARD $100

We manufacture and sell it without a guarantee that it will cure Catarrh, and we will forfeit the above reward in a single instance, if it fails to cure. We also guarantee it is taken internally, acting through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces. Circulars free. If afflicted with disease, ask your Druggist what he thinks of Hall's Catarrh Cure. If he does not get it, send to us and we will promptly supply you. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix.

G. W. JEFFER

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured

Fresh and Salt Fish

AND VEGETAB

Fat Stock and Farm P Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Cha

EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE

GEO. W. MILLER

CLOTHING,

FURNISHING GOODS,

HATS AND CAPS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

NEW GOO

I am pleased to say that m

Spring St

Is ready for inspection. Come and when you want a suit of clothes JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES

AND

Price to Correspond with the Times.

GEO. W. M

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, 9x20 in.; Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms to suit. Enquire of S. M. SEE,

Or of Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine shop. 39tf.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat, by mail, $8.00 per year in advance, postage paid.

Weekly Democrat.—$1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

UMBER 44. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1884.—TEN PAGES. $1.50 PER YEAR.

HE JOURNAL

published every Thursday morning,

CHAS. J. STRANG,

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery.

ARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

USINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

RSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, ce in Bittner Block, Charlevoix, Mich. CHRISTENSEN. C. J. GRIER.

R & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate Loan Agents. Lake st., east of post-Petoskey, Mich.

R & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East gan, Mich.

W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Eagle Rapids business promptly attended to. ONEY TO LOAN.

JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at w. Office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and uit Court Commissioner. Office in brick ck, corner of Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich

CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, gan.

LD EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, gan, Mich.

ON, KENT & MARTIN, Attorneys at w. Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne Mich.

R. F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

ARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, gan.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

K OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital 250,000. ings department. Depositors secured by of government bonds, real estate, and ages loans for more than above amount. 10 loans on first mortgages. Foreign and exchange. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., in town house. Sunday school at close of service. Prayer meeting every Thursday at 7, in the school house. C. F. VANACKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning services. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. ROBINSON, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX ROUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet the first and third Thursday evenings of each month, at the town hall. H. F. BISSET, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

CHAFFEE'S Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Specific cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

C. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all Eagles at Newaygo House.

LIVERY STABLE.

ED EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class ses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle s Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

CHRISTEN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

RS. M. D. Eberlan and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

GRAVES, M. D. Office in Seo Block, Charlevoix.

PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

C. S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Ag't, Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

L.—Xavier Post No. 118, meets second Friday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

R. L.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 227, meets 3rd Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O.—Round Lake Lodge No. 203, meets 1st Wednesday evening, in their hall.

L.—Top Rose No. 167, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

K.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets Friday on or before full moon. Hall over

VETERINARY SURGEON.

H. BANCROFT, V. S. Office at Bridge Charlevoix.

BANKS.

STATE, President. A. B. UPHOLT, Vice President.

Merchants & Farmers' Bank, OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Transacting business transacted. Money on approved paper at reasonable rates. Collections promptly effected. Collections given careful attention. Remittances made promptly. G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

Grocery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

S. L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

and cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DEPUE, Milliner.

Old Newspapers for Sale.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

E. T. BROWN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS' AGENTS,

Portable and Stationary Engines,

Boilers, Mill and Wood-working Machinery.

Mill Supplies, Threshers, and Threshing Engines.

Bargains in Second-Hand Machinery.

WRITE FOR PRICE AND CATALOGUE.

WEST BRIDGE ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and roomy, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

Pioneer House,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. V. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

THE OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

JOHN J. KNOX,

EX-COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY.

Mr. John J. Knox, of New York, for seventeen years comptroller of the treasury of the United States, has, after an honored and successful career in the public service, resigned his position to engage in private business. In view of Mr. Knox's long and conspicuous public service we present our readers with an excellent likeness of the gentleman who has so long presided over our national banking system.

Comptroller Knox was appointed deputy comptroller October 10, 1867, and comptroller on April 12, 1872, and thus has had a continuous service of seventeen years in the office. Previous to his appointment as deputy comptroller he had charge of the mint and coinage correspondence, and was sent by secretary McCulloch to San Francisco in 1866 to examine the branch mint in that city. His report was published with a complimentary notice by secretary McCulloch in the finance report of that year. April 25, 1870, he completed a revision of the mint and coinage laws of the United States, which was transmitted to congress with an elaborate report. Upon his recommendation the coinage of the silver dollar was discontinued, and subsequently the bill which he proposed was passed by congress with a few amendments, and is now known as the "Coinage act of 1873."

The comptroller subsequently visited New Orleans and discovered in the office of the assistant treasurer the largest defalcation ever known in the history of the government. The failure of the First National Bank of New Orleans followed, and Mr. Knox remained for some weeks in that city acting as assistant treasurer. He was repromoted comptroller without his knowledge previous to the expiration of his first term, and confirmed by the senate without reference to any committee. He was again appointed to a third term on April 12, 1882.

GARFIELD'S FIRST CHOICE.

It is well known to Senator Sherman and other senators that the comptroller was the first choice of the late president Garfield for secretary of the treasury, and this fact was communicated by the president to a well known gentlemen, to whom the president said that he was only prevented from carrying out his original purpose by political complications which afterward grew up in filling other places in his cabinet.

Mr. Knox has accepted the presidency of the National Bank of the Republic, which owns, jointly with the First National Bank of New York, the "United Bank Building," on the corner of Wall street and Broadway. It is an old institution, originally organized in 1850, and has a capital of $1,500,000 and a surplus of $600,000.

Defeat of the Morrison Bill.

Samuel J. Randall has succeeded in killing the Morrison tariff bill and himself politically.

Forty democrats, the majority of whom are from Pennsylvania and Ohio, states that have not given a majority for the democratic national ticket for over 20 years, went with Randall over to the republicans in the house, and together they gave 156 votes to strike out the enacting clause of the bill, to 151 against it. The democratic representatives from the west and south, and also a large majority of the representatives from New York, stood solidly by the cause of commercial liberty and vindicated the claim of democracy to be the consistent opponent of that "masterpiece of injustice, inequality and false pretenses," the republican tariff.

We take a hopeful view of the result of the recent great contest in the house. It will surely tend to thoroughly solidify the friends of tariff reform in the democratic ranks. It will incite them to make still more aggressive efforts in the direction of forcing the question to a decision at the polls next November. Even democrats who were lukewarm supporters of the bill, will now perceive that the issue is inevitable, and they will accordingly throw themselves enthusiastically into the struggle for freedom of trade. The desire to achieve success for the sake of principle will also nerve democrats to unflagging exertion in every part of the union.

The national convention will unquestionably submit the issue fairly and squarely to the people. And then, with clean candidates and a spirited canvass, the popular verdict may be confidently awaited by the advocates of equal taxation. Lansing Journal.

The Beginning of the Struggle.

Relieved of impediments we enter from an era of conciliation on one of agitation and aggression. It is not simply twenty per cent, it is a thorough, consistent, if you will, radical revision of the tariff. It will not be immediately abolished; it will be revised and the free list greatly enlarged. With defeat comes renewed courage and confidence. We turn from the politicians to the people, from the betrayers to the betrayed. No great movement for the emancipation of any people but what must meet with reverses. We are only in the beginning of the great struggle against the monopolies grown rich by blood money and as arrogant as the old slave masters. Louisville Courier Journal.

The Lansing Journal is inclined to the opinion that the defeat of the Morrison tariff bill will not do away with the necessity of the continued existence of the democratic party as was charged by the Detroit Evening News. The contest in the house has certainly developed one important fact, viz, that a very large and aggressive majority of that party is in favor of immediate tariff reform. It is the only party before the people at the present time that offers any show of a sincere, organized and powerful opposition to the protective system. The only hope of the masses of the destruction of the special privileges conferred by the present republican tariff upon the protected plutocrats of the country, springs from the prospective success of the democracy. No reasonable man doubts for a moment that if the democrats should gain control of the executive and legislative branches of the government they would institute and carry through measures for the relief of the people from the burdens of war tariff taxation. An overwhelming majority of democrats are firmly united in sentiment in regard to the imperative need of tariff reform, and there is no power on earth that can long intervene to prevent them from consummating their patriotic purpose to give the country the benefits of commercial liberty. All the instincts of democracy are against the encroachments of corporate power. It is thoroughly imbued now with the demos kratos principles as in the days of Tom Benton.

Going to be Serious.

This reduction of the tariff is going to be serious business for the republican party before 1890. Reductions which do not reduce, and monkishness about "scientific basis" and other dodges are about exhausted. The party which admits freely the need of reduction, but is always turning up its nose at the method of reduction or itself pursuing methods deceptive and unavailing, is going to be awakened some morning by the shock of a revolution which will throw American from protection into free trade as completely and as suddenly as Great Britain made her great advance under Robert Peel. Once taken, that step will never be reversed. Springfield Republican.

Points for Florida Tourists.

Don't gather palm leaves; they wither.

Don't say that you came from Chicago.

Don't expect the beds in the hotels to stand up and the carpets to lie down.

Don't say that Jacksonville is the dullest, St. Augustine the oldest, and Palatka the most delightful place in Florida.

Don't acknowledge to having eaten frozen oranges until safe in the north.

Don't pay street-car fare. Be transferred, as the darkeys and fliers are.

Don't mistake Yai-la-ha-ai-kaaks (Seminole for sour orange) for Yai-la-ha (sweet orange).

Don't expect alligators to crawl out of the St. John's when called.

Don't look for real live alligators on Bay street, Jacksonville, except in wire cages, or suppose that any but real natives wear them as ornaments.

Don't take a live "gator" home without tying a nice, blue ribbon round his neck.

Don't expect the trains to wait for you, or the steamboats to be on time; and don't be surprised at anything you hear or see.—Harper's Monthly.

Matrimonial Peace of Mind.

"Are you as happy now as you were before you were married?" asked Mrs. Yeast of young Mrs. Crimsonbeak.

"Yes, indeed," replied the lady; "and a great deal happier."

"That's strange," suggested the philanthropist's wife.

"Not at all strange," came from the young married woman. "You see, before I was married I used to spend half my time worrying about the dress I should wear when Daniel called."

"But don't you try just as hard now to look well when your husband returns home at night?" interrupted Mrs. Yeast.

"Well, you see," went on the bride of two summers, "I don't worry any about it now, as I have only one dress to my name.—Texas Siftings.

A Home Market.

Several gentlemen from different States were discussing the merits of their particular homes.

"Kansas is a great State. We raise sixty bushels of corn," said a man from Kansas; "and 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre."

"But have you Kansas people any market for your produce?" asked a man from Connecticut.

"Certainly they have," responded an envious Texan, "they raise enough grasshoppers and potato bugs to eat up ten times the corn and potatoes they can raise."—Texas Siftings.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

WHEN a Western man goes into the fruit business he plants an orchard which deserves the name. A Kansas City paper mentions the departure of one of its citizens to his 1,200-acre farm for the purpose of planting his fruit trees, the first 20,000 of which had just arrived from the East.

A PHILADELPHIAN sent a postal card to his sister in Canada on which he had written 3[illegible] words. She answered with 711 words. Not to be outdone, he crowded in 1,063, which brought manslaughter with 1,526 words spelled out in full and written plain enough to be easily read by persons of ordinary good sight. He thinks he will send her a new spring bonnet and call it square.

THE celestial fraternity is warned against stable diamonds. Ordinary yellow African stones are treated with a greasy fluid, which gives them a brilliant bluish tint when baked in a hot furnace. A stone worth $300 may thus be made to closely resemble one worth a thousand or more. A very common test, extremely handy to editors, is to apply alcohol, when the fraud stands revealed and a week's salary is saved.

THE Presidential Electors to be voted for are equal to the number of United States Senators and Congressmen to which each State is entitled, as follows:

Alabama	10	Mississippi	9
Arkansas	7	Missouri	16
California	6	Nebraska	3
Colorado	3	Nevada	3
Connecticut	6	New Hampshire	4
Delaware	3	New Jersey	9
Florida	4	New York	36
Georgia	12	North Carolina	11
Illinois	22	Ohio	23
Indiana	15	Oregon	3
Iowa	13	Pennsylvania	30
Kansas	9	Rhode Island	4
Kentucky	13	South Carolina	9
Louisiana	8	Tennessee	12
Maine	6	Texas	11
Maryland	8	Vermont	5
Massachusetts	14	Virginia	12
Michigan	11	West Virginia	6
Minnesota	7	Wisconsin	11

BROOKLYN Union: All people who are interested in the overthrow of charlatanism will rejoice to hear that Joseph Cook appears to have ended his course in Boston. His insufferable egotism and his insolent assumption of a censorship of the universe, have at last opened the eyes of his quondam admirers, and they are beginning to perceive what fools the have been of themselves. The balance sheet of his "Monday lectures" course shows only $412 after expenses for the lecturer, and an appeal has been issued for the making up of a $5,000 purse.

A PHILADELPHIA policeman while on his beat the other day found a pocket-book containing $1,000 in bills and a number of valuable papers. He returned it to the owner, who was a stranger in the city, and received a reward of $50. The Paris police are endeavoring to suppress a strange traffic in dead bodies, which they have discovered to exist on the River Seine in and near Paris. It appears that a reward of fifteen francs is given in the Department of the Seine for any bodies found in the river and delivered up to the authorities. In the neighboring departments, if only a few miles away—as, for instance, in the Seine-et-Oise—no such reward is offered. The consequence is that boatmen finding bodies near the aforesaid boundary, instead of giving them up to the police of their own district, sell them to men employed higher up the river, who obtain the reward for them, realizing a profit by the transaction. This custom has become so prevalent that there is a recognized tariff of the fees for bodies purchased in the way.

AN invalid who went to Thomasville, Ga., writes that he found in a local newspaper, alongside the column which the editor's graceful pen applied eloquent with praise of the pine belt, and thence with denunciation of that horse-thief and midnight assassin who upholds the superior climatic and antiques of Aiken, S. C.—soon those latter saw a flaming advertisement, having over it a cut in an engraved frame, and inscribed "The illuminated and illustrated well-cure of metallic coffin and all Lifeless and fashion. chile Leather on in the best cases a modest, but assured, statement from the able editors as follows: "Well, I swan!" said the woman as the crowd moved away, "if that isn't a leadin' light of the best pheromone I ever saw!" "Why, what did you expect?" asked a bystander.

"Expect! Why, I expected a show of corpses. I expected old Time would drop a pod and drown a jay bird in an inner knife, and play a chune on that there instrument at his heel, and that the feller one would sail round and give him one over the left ear, and a bull hoss band would play that Columby, with cartoolum, and it would feel to hear 'n sniff anyhow. If it hadn't been a free show, I'd be madder 'n a wet hoss. Kiss Elphonzo, less go 'n home," and she carried off with her none in the air, and the yellow one at her heels.—United Free Press.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

The First Letter.

"Did you ever get a letter?
I did the other day.
It was in a real envelope,
And it came a long, long way.

"A stamp was in the corner
And some print, too, when it came,
And the one that made the letter
Had put 'Miss' before my name.

"Then there came a letter more within,
I forgot to see which it went;
But it told me of five people
Where I live, I am certain said.

"Don't you s'pose those letter-persons,
Each of 'em's baby and five cats,
Would have enough? I was per a lady
Who was awful particular?

"Pig it looked real big on there,
The outside was black with ink,
So they couldn't know I'm a girl—
I don't think they could. Do you?"

—Youth's Companion.

Johnny's scroll-saw.

Johnny wanted a scroll-saw very much. As often as a fresh advertisement of the Prize Holly or the Demas came out, he fairly burned it by heart, and impressed upon all the family how many things were given extra.

He hinted unmistakably that he would like a scroll-saw in advance for a birthday present. He told said out and out that instead of some pincushions he had been promised he should have "some kind of a saw," and rather have the scroll-saw now and claim the score. He said he could make beautiful things for all the family with it, and also for sale, by which he could earn a great deal of money.

When mamma lamented that she could not afford to buy certain new books, he said in kind tones, "When I get my scroll-saw, mamma, you shall have them."

When reminded that he needed a new overcoat, he replied, with a manly air: "When I get my scroll-saw, I can buy one for myself."

His little sister Nannie quickly caught up the strain, and with mischief sparkling in her eyes, would say to the people:

"We are going to have a piano and a big new house, when Johnny gets his scroll-saw! We are going to Europe, and have ice-cream every day, when Johnny gets his scroll-saw! Papa won't have to go down to his office any more, when Johnny gets his scroll-saw!"

At last one day he did get it. An expressman drove up to the door and handed in a box, lovingly small for the amount contained.

Johnny whistled cheerfully as he ran for the hammer, not nearly so dismayed as his mother was in the fear that the machine was all in parts which would put to bed together.

He studied the directions, picked out each part readily, set them together quicker than you would suppose a little boy possibly could, and with trembling fingers placed a screw here, turned a nut there, and in an hour's time had his scroll-saw complete and was seating himself sitting before it, working the treadle. Papa was truly surprised when he came home to find that Johnny had set the saw together himself.

But Johnny had no wood, so he ran out to the grocery and begged some empty cigar boxes to practice on. They began straight lines and curved lines, and the sun going of tiny saws.

He broke a good many, and found tiny little sawed-off bits while learning; and once he got a hard blow on his forehead, because he was bending too closely over the fitting table when a blade broke. But he was learning all the time.

Nannie watched him with great admiration, and whispered confidently to mamma:

"Johnny's sawin a great deal older, and like a big man to me, now he's got his scroll-saw."

She might well admire him, for he presently cut out arms, back, and seat, for a little chair, and glued it together for her.

But now he wanted wood, holly, walnut, whatever would saw, an eighth of an inch, a sixteenth of an inch, a quarter of an inch in thickness, and made in sheets or in any size for scroll-saws. He studied his patterns over and over, he could do such beautiful things if he only had wood. He was shy about asking for it, for he wanted $2 worth right off.

But mamma only smiled; this want was but forseen, and she went with Johnny from one store to another in search of wood. They had to go away down Fulton street before they found the proper kind.

Then Johnny was led a sheet of transparent paper, and a little invention which was shown him for the purpose, and he was shut from his work. Also a dozen new saw blades, because so many of his had snapped.

"S sure to be, we're getting poorer instead of richer, now Johnny's got his scroll-saw," said his father, sarcastically.

But his first work appeared there. It was a tiny hod-carried corner-bracket for her parlor shelf. Then he made a pair of black-walnut rests for the carving knife and fork, to surprise papa at dinner, and a very pretty matchscaff for the bed-room.

"I love my holly scroll-saw, mamma!" he said, with a fair of face.

Then he found there was a little work basket of wire holly, almost as tasty as fret-work. It had sight sides, and together the two pieces of narrow pink ribbon.

This was the best surprise for Nannie when her birthday came, and he had to work out it very cautiously, hiding the pieces whenever she came into the room.

When it was done he put it in the china closet, up on a pile of soup plates, so she should not find it.

"Oh dear," said Nannie one day soon after, "my Dame Crump book has all fallen to pieces, and part of the reading is lost. Now I don't care for it any more!"

"Will you give me the pictures?" asked Johnny.

"Yes, I remember the pictures are mine," she decided.

"Thank you!" said Johnny; and he picked out the prettiest one and pasted it on a sheet of white wood of the same size. As soon as it was dry he took it to the scroll-saw, and sawed it all up, with irregular, curving lines, so that it fell into more than twenty pieces.

"There, mamma!" he exclaimed, "isn't that just as good a dissected picture as they sell in the toy shops?"

Mamma said she thought it was, and ordered to pay him 50 cents apiece for three similar ones, which she would then send as presents to some little nieces.

"I will put them in pretty pasteboard boxes," she said, "and they will do just as well as the ones that cost 75 cents in the stores."

Johnny felt that business was brightening. He had now four old bo-b-s himself, with just such gayly painted full-page pictures; an if he could get other pictures from each book, and sell them for 50 cents apiece, why, then he would bring him almost $5!

So he whistled cheer ully, and mean-while sawed up the old bits of animal and holly into little palettes, such as ladies use to paint pretty things on for souvenirs. Mamma lent him the pattern, and he sawed out fifteen of them and smoothed the edges with sand-paper.

"Nannie," he said, "if you will go down to the 5-cent store and sell these palettes for 4 cents a apiece, you may have 10 cents of the money."

Nannie was unusually gracious. She grasped up and said, eagerly:

"Yes, I'll go if you want me to, Johnny."

It was wet weather, but she did not mind that. She put on her rubbers and took an umbrella and started out, with the precious palettes done up in a paper inside her waterproof pocket.

In half an hour she came back.

"Did they buy them?" asked Johnny, anxiously.

Nannie was almost breathless with excitement.

"I went there," she said, "and I asked the woman behind the counter if she wanted to buy palettes for four cents apiece. But she said she didn't want any such things at all. But a pretty lady was in there, and she looked and said she thought she would save her going down town to buy them. And she paid me seventy-five cents."

The children were both radiant over this success, and Nannie said:

"Johnny is getting rich now, mamma, isn't he?"

Mamma thought the same, rosy face of the little palette maker, and something to do with the sale; but she said it was encouraging, and now if Johnny would make some larger palettes and some panels, too, with as fine work as he could put on, maybe he could sell them at the rooms near by where there were classes in oil painting.

In a few days more Nannie's birthday came, and she was delighted with the dissected picture, and declared that in exclusives over the lovely work-basket. Johnny was so pleased with her pleasure that he did not notice she was not so surprised as she ought to be.

But in a twilight talk that evening with mamma, Nannie said:

"Mamma, one day I climbed up to the closet to get my pink cup, and I saw that basket—the one I gave you. I was so in hopes that Johnny would give it to me that I have tried to be a good girl to him ever since."

Mamma kissed her and said: "If the scroll-saw brings love and good-will to the home, it is better than if it brought money."

"But it brings money, too!" said Nannie, sturdily.

So it does. It pays its own way at least. Johnny has made no intricate fretwork yet, no wonderful cabinets, no elaborate brackets, but he has sold about a dozen of his dissected pictures, and he finds a steady demand, week by week, for his pretty panels and palettes. This is quite enough, I think, for a boy who is not by any means a big boy yet.—Mary E. L. Bamford.

Is the Eurb-human Superior to the American?

An English baronet who traveled recently in the United States has written an article for the Nineteenth Century Review, in which the cowardice of the English men and women who American women is the disadvantage of the latter. Our women, he declares to him, are not as handsome or as well dressed as those of England, while our men are inferior in physique. This, he says, is due to the greater attention given in England to outdoor sports. The English man is conceived to be more cosmopolitan, practices in books and in society than the American. The latter is absorbed in business. He goes to see a horse ball match by proxy, spends, but rarely plays himself. Then, the average English young man knows how to do far more walking than do our people in the cities of the United States. All educated Englishmen ride, and the fashionable practice of athletics is very considerable. At a recent rural dinner, Sir Charles Dilke, Dr. Wolldonse, Cabin t Minister, gave it as his opinion that "England owed to the practice of physical exercise not only a great deal of its muscle and power, but also a great deal of its success, and, under Providence much of its glory in the world."—Democrat's Monthly.

A SEALSKIN mint and a large brain are seldom united in the same person.

A ROPE ABOUT HIS

Recollections of the Hurried Hanging of Inez Paria in California.

"Yes, I remember the case of Inez Paria in California well enough," said Mr. J. A. Close, of [illegible] to a newspaper reporter. "It isn't true that the rebound as I saw published a [illegible] The woman might not have been hanged at all that she ought to have been robbed. It was quite young, I believe, when she went to California. It was a different one in those days is now. We left New York in 1849, in a ship that [illegible] owned, and in seventeen days reached Rio Janeiro, where we took on fresh water. Rio was in a sailing vessel, and makes the same trip in [illegible] days. We had all read Crusoe and his wanderings between Valparaiso and Rio, consequently were very much interested in the first native of the country we saw. We went ashore in the Island of Juan Fernandez, which, as you know, is where Crusoe lived while he was at work on his fifty-two days in Rio, and it was 20 years since Crusoe left there. We went to San Francisco, then a town of Spaniards—and when she [illegible] the street what reverence they had for Crusoe.

"But to tell you about Inez Paria. It was at Downieville, in the mining district, and in those days no houses, but simply tents where gambling was carried on. The man who had a tent had to pay $25 a month. They used to charge anything from $1 to $5 a game at faro. You know what faro is? Well, it was the game at which was worth about $1,000 a man from Tennessee. I was there in person, and I [illegible] much frequented, and [illegible] Inez Paria was employed in the tents to the miners, a woman attractive than a man. It was [illegible] was played and not [illegible] there in Downieville [illegible] known there at that time [illegible] 1851—I can't remember [illegible] and the gloriously successful [illegible] celebrated in a patriotic [illegible] drunken revelry. One evening Inez went home [illegible] feeling well, leaving her [illegible] with a friend, and went to her home, a little [illegible] and was followed there by [illegible] Cameron made an [illegible] to her, and her hot Spanish [illegible] inflamed, she struck with one blow half [illegible] open, the wound proving [illegible] instantaneously fatal. [illegible] was justified in [illegible] but this woman had a [illegible] knife. The claim [illegible] was a Chilian, a Scotchman living at Lima from Marseille, was a [illegible] Dutch. The court [illegible] take long; she had [illegible] although, perhaps, [illegible] justified in [illegible] to hang. There was a [illegible] Downieville. Dr. Ackerman [illegible] was the [illegible] her sentence consented to [illegible] was insane. The miners [illegible] him for interfering, and [illegible] his life by threatening [illegible].

"There was a bridge [illegible] River leading from [illegible] Virginia City, and [illegible] the place of execution. [illegible] bridge was laid in plank [illegible] which, as you know, is [illegible] Inez Paria was brought [illegible] to cut by two men so as [illegible] proper fall. Inez [illegible] smoking a cigarette. [illegible] Catholic, she was respected. Like all the Mexican women [illegible] a dress, exposing [illegible] ankles, and a straw hat [illegible] ribbons. By ribbon was [illegible] Virginia City and [illegible] them so as to make a [illegible] When everything was [illegible] was cried, and the man [illegible] his rope, but the other [illegible] nervousness or pity, did not [illegible] hang the cigarette [illegible] face, a hard metal pi[illegible] imbedded in the [illegible] soft metal is forced into the [illegible] rubber shield, and the [illegible] bank-cried "Salute." The [illegible] to do his work, fired [illegible] the air, came down [illegible] it, and Inez Paria [illegible] he was dead. [illegible] Inez Paria was [illegible] to the miners, a woman [illegible] tractive than a man. It [illegible] was played and not [illegible] there in Downieville [illegible] known there at that time [illegible] 1851—I can't remember [illegible] and the gloriously successful [illegible] celebrated in a patriotic [illegible] drunken revelry. One evening Inez went home [illegible] feeling well, leaving her [illegible] with a friend, and went to her home, a little [illegible] and was followed there by [illegible] Cameron made an [illegible] to her, and her hot Spanish [illegible] inflamed, she struck with one blow half [illegible] open, the wound proving [illegible] instantaneously fatal. [illegible] was justified in [illegible] but this woman had a [illegible] knife. The claim [illegible] was a Chilian, a Scotchman living at Lima from Marseille, was a [illegible] Dutch. The court [illegible] take long; she had [illegible] although, perhaps, [illegible] justified in [illegible] to hang. There was a [illegible] Downieville. Dr. Ackerman [illegible] was the [illegible] her sentence consented to [illegible] was insane. The miners [illegible] him for interfering, and [illegible] his life by threatening [illegible].

"There was a bridge [illegible] River leading from [illegible] Virginia City, and [illegible] the place of execution. [illegible] bridge was laid in plank [illegible] which, as you know, is [illegible] Inez Paria was brought [illegible] to cut by two men so as [illegible] proper fall. Inez [illegible] smoking a cigarette. [illegible] Catholic, she was respected. Like all the Mexican women [illegible] a dress, exposing [illegible] ankles, and a straw hat [illegible] ribbons. By ribbon was [illegible] Virginia City and [illegible] them so as to make a [illegible] When everything was [illegible] was cried, and the man [illegible] his rope, but the other [illegible] nervousness or pity, did not [illegible] hang the cigarette [illegible] face, a hard metal pi[illegible] imbedded in the [illegible] soft metal is forced into the [illegible] rubber shield, and the [illegible] bank-cried "Salute." The [illegible] to do his work, fired [illegible] the air, came down [illegible] it, and Inez Paria [illegible] he was dead. [illegible]

"Inez Paria was [illegible] to the miners, a woman [illegible] tractive than a man. It [illegible] was played and not [illegible] there in Downieville [illegible] known there at that time [illegible] 1851—I can't remember [illegible] and the gloriously successful [illegible] celebrated in a patriotic [illegible] drunken revelry. One evening Inez went home [illegible] feeling well, leaving her [illegible] with a friend, and went to her home, a little [illegible] and was followed there by [illegible] Cameron made an [illegible] to her, and her hot Spanish [illegible] inflamed, she struck with one blow half [illegible] open, the wound proving [illegible] instantaneously fatal. [illegible] was justified in [illegible] but this woman had a [illegible] knife. The claim [illegible] was a Chilian, a Scotchman living at Lima from Marseille, was a [illegible] Dutch. The court [illegible] take long; she had [illegible] although, perhaps, [illegible] justified in [illegible] to hang. There was a [illegible] Downieville. Dr. Ackerman [illegible] was the [illegible] her sentence consented to [illegible] was insane. The miners [illegible] him for interfering, and [illegible] his life by threatening [illegible].

"There was a bridge [illegible] River leading from [illegible] Virginia City, and [illegible] the place of execution. [illegible] bridge was laid in plank [illegible] which, as you know, is [illegible] Inez Paria was brought [illegible] to cut by two men so as [illegible] proper fall. Inez [illegible] smoking a cigarette. [illegible] Catholic, she was respected. Like all the Mexican women [illegible] a dress, exposing [illegible] ankles, and a straw hat [illegible] ribbons. By ribbon was [illegible] Virginia City and [illegible] them so as to make a [illegible] When everything was [illegible] was cried, and the man [illegible] his rope, but the other [illegible] nervousness or pity, did not [illegible] hang the cigarette [illegible] face, a hard metal pi[illegible] imbedded in the [illegible] soft metal is forced into the [illegible] rubber shield, and the [illegible] bank-cried "Salute." The [illegible] to do his work, fired [illegible] the air, came down [illegible] it, and Inez Paria [illegible] he was dead. [illegible]

A Family Affair.

"Yes," says Mrs. Gadsby, as she spanked the baby in her arms, "it's a perfect shame, you never being me let a real family affair. It's simply ridiculous."

"I think so, too," replied Mrs. Gabbleton, sympathizingly.

"Other people," continued Mrs. Gadsby, as she gave the baby a parting slap, "can go to the magazines till they can't rest."

"There's one," said Mrs. Gabbleton, "that she always reads."

"Oh, yes; a horrid old thing! Full of the fruit interests of Michigan, or that sort of thing. I'm sure I don't remember."

"I went there," she said, "and I asked the woman behind the counter if she wanted to buy palettes for four cents apiece. But she said she didn't want any such things at all. But a pretty lady was in there, and she looked and said she thought she would save her going down town to buy them. And she paid me seventy-five cents."

The children were both radiant over this success, and Nannie said:

"Johnny is getting rich now, mamma, isn't he?"

Mamma thought the same, rosy face of the little palette maker, and something to do with the sale; but she said it was encouraging, and now if Johnny would make some larger palettes and some panels, too, with as fine work as he could put on, maybe he could sell them at the rooms near by where there were classes in oil painting.

In a few days more Nannie's birthday came, and she was delighted with the dissected picture, and declared that in exclusives over the lovely work-basket. Johnny was so pleased with her pleasure that he did not notice she was not so surprised as she ought to be.

But in a twilight talk that evening with mamma, Nannie said:

"Mamma, one day I climbed up to the closet to get my pink cup, and I saw that basket—the one I gave you. I was so in hopes that Johnny would give it to me that I have tried to be a good girl to him ever since."

Mamma kissed her and said: "If the scroll-saw brings love and good-will to the home, it is better than if it brought money."

"But it brings money, too!" said Nannie, sturdily.

So it does. It pays its own way at least. Johnny has made no intricate fretwork yet, no wonderful cabinets, no elaborate brackets, but he has sold about a dozen of his dissected pictures, and he finds a steady demand, week by week, for his pretty panels and palettes. This is quite enough, I think, for a boy who is not by any means a big boy yet.—Mary E. L. Bamford.

Is the Eurb-human Superior to the American?

An English baronet who traveled recently in the United States has written an article for the Nineteenth Century Review, in which the cowardice of the English men and women who American women is the disadvantage of the latter. Our women, he declares to him, are not as handsome or as well dressed as those of England, while our men are inferior in physique. This, he says, is due to the greater attention given in England to outdoor sports. The English man is conceived to be more cosmopolitan, practices in books and in society than the American. The latter is absorbed in business. He goes to see a horse ball match by proxy, spends, but rarely plays himself. Then, the average English young man knows how to do far more walking than do our people in the cities of the United States. All educated Englishmen ride, and the fashionable practice of athletics is very considerable. At a recent rural dinner, Sir Charles Dilke, Dr. Wolldonse, Cabin t Minister, gave it as his opinion that "England owed to the practice of physical exercise not only a great deal of its muscle and power, but also a great deal of its success, and, under Providence much of its glory in the world."—Democrat's Monthly.

A SEALSKIN mint and a large brain are seldom united in the same person.

JOURNAL

CHAS. J. STRANG.

[illegible] - MICHIGAN.

[illegible] contest in a swimming [illegible] Manchester, England, a swam six hundred times [illegible]-house, or a distance of [illegible] while the best swimmer [illegible] boys made but five hun[illegible]er rounds.

WASHINGTON figures in the [illegible]ical Dictionary of the [illegible]ecage," recently published [illegible] the founder of the Re[illegible]ublican States and the first [illegible] Pennsylvania, as the same [illegible]hes, "has a population of [illegible] half millions, the greater [illegible] German. German is the [illegible]uage of the State." The [illegible] further that "in Philadel[illegible]Talcot States Bank build[illegible]g that the Legislature of [illegible]ress a law prohibiting the [illegible]ly school-teachers, or [illegible] a criminal offense for a [illegible]er, or for the teacher to [illegible] said that the schools in [illegible]y are closed the greater [illegible]e, owing to the fact [illegible]ard for teachers and wives [illegible]uating matrimony is com[illegible]y remarkable woman out [illegible] is regarded with suspicion [illegible]s.

[illegible]esident of an Irish newspaper: "I have just heard that Hon. Bernard Coleridge, [illegible]ge's son and heir, that [illegible]ge of marriage to Miss Kate [illegible] was 'declined with [illegible]s may explain the other[illegible]se of the word 'falsifies' [illegible]ppears in Lord Coleridge's [illegible]ne was quite young, I believe, [illegible] went to California. That [illegible] a different one in those [illegible]s is now. We left New York [illegible]849, in a ship that [illegible] owned, and in seventeen [illegible] Rio Janeiro, where we [illegible] take on fresh water. Rio [illegible] was in a sailing vessel, and [illegible] makes the same trip in [illegible] days. We had all read [illegible] Crusoe and his wanderings [illegible] between Valparaiso and Rio, consequently were very much [illegible] the first native of the country we saw. We went ashore in the Island of Juan Fernandez, which, as you know, is [illegible] where Crusoe lived while he was at work on his fifty-two days in [illegible] Rio, and it was 20 [illegible] since Crusoe left there. We went to San Francisco, then a town of [illegible] Spaniards—and when she [illegible] the street what reverence they had for Crusoe.

"But to tell you about Inez Paria. It was at Downieville, in the mining district, and in those days no houses, but simply tents where gambling was carried on. The man who had a tent had to pay $25 a month. They used to charge anything from $1 to $5 a game at faro. You know what faro is? Well, it was the game at which [illegible] was worth about $1,000 a man from Tennessee. I was there in person, and I [illegible] much frequented, and [illegible] Inez Paria was employed in the tents to the miners, a woman [illegible] tractive than a man. It [illegible] was played and not [illegible] there in Downieville [illegible] known there at that time [illegible] 1851—I can't remember [illegible] and the gloriously successful [illegible] celebrated in a patriotic [illegible] drunken revelry. One evening Inez went home [illegible] feeling well, leaving her [illegible] with a friend, and went to her home, a little [illegible] and was followed there by [illegible] Cameron made an [illegible] to her, and her hot Spanish [illegible] inflamed, she struck with one blow half [illegible] open, the wound proving [illegible] instantaneously fatal. [illegible] was justified in [illegible] but this woman had a [illegible] knife. The claim [illegible] was a Chilian, a Scotchman living at Lima from Marseille, was a [illegible] Dutch. The court [illegible] take long; she had [illegible] although, perhaps, [illegible] justified in [illegible] to hang. There was a [illegible] Downieville. Dr. Ackerman [illegible] was the [illegible] her sentence consented to [illegible] was insane. The miners [illegible] him for interfering, and [illegible] his life by threatening [illegible].

"There was a bridge [illegible] River leading from [illegible] Virginia City, and [illegible] the place of execution. [illegible] bridge was laid in plank [illegible] which, as you know, is [illegible] Inez Paria was brought [illegible] to cut by two men so as [illegible] proper fall. Inez [illegible] smoking a cigarette. [illegible] Catholic, she was respected. Like all the Mexican women [illegible] a dress, exposing [illegible] ankles, and a straw hat [illegible] ribbons. By ribbon was [illegible] Virginia City and [illegible] them so as to make a [illegible] When everything was [illegible] was cried, and the man [illegible] his rope, but the other [illegible] nervousness or pity, did not [illegible] hang the cigarette [illegible] face, a hard metal pi[illegible] imbedded in the [illegible] soft metal is forced into the [illegible] rubber shield, and the [illegible] bank-cried "Salute." The [illegible] to do his work, fired [illegible] the air, came down [illegible] it, and Inez Paria [illegible] he was dead. [illegible]

A Family Affair.

"Yes," says Mrs. Gadsby, as she spanked the baby in her arms, "it's a perfect shame, you never being me let a real family affair. It's simply ridiculous."

"I think so, too," replied Mrs. Gabbleton, sympathizingly.

"Other people," continued Mrs. Gadsby, as she gave the baby a parting slap, "can go to the magazines till they can't rest."

"There's one," said Mrs. Gabbleton, "that she always reads."

"Oh, yes; a horrid old thing! Full of the fruit interests of Michigan, or that sort of thing. I'm sure I don't remember."

"I went there," she said, "and I asked the woman behind the counter if she wanted to buy palettes for four cents apiece. But she said she didn't want any such things at all. But a pretty lady was in there, and she looked and said she thought she would save her going down town to buy them. And she paid me seventy-five cents."

The children were both radiant over this success, and Nannie said:

"Johnny is getting rich now, mamma, isn't he?"

Mamma thought the same, rosy face of the little palette maker, and something to do with the sale; but she said it was encouraging, and now if Johnny would make some larger palettes and some panels, too, with as fine work as he could put on, maybe he could sell them at the rooms near by where there were classes in oil painting.

In a few days more Nannie's birthday came, and she was delighted with the dissected picture, and declared that in exclusives over the lovely work-basket. Johnny was so pleased with her pleasure that he did not notice she was not so surprised as she ought to be.

But in a twilight talk that evening with mamma, Nannie said:

"Mamma, one day I climbed up to the closet to get my pink cup, and I saw that basket—the one I gave you. I was so in hopes that Johnny would give it to me that I have tried to be a good girl to him ever since."

Mamma kissed her and said: "If the scroll-saw brings love and good-will to the home, it is better than if it brought money."

"But it brings money, too!" said Nannie, sturdily.

So it does. It pays its own way at least. Johnny has made no intricate fretwork yet, no wonderful cabinets, no elaborate brackets, but he has sold about a dozen of his dissected pictures, and he finds a steady demand, week by week, for his pretty panels and palettes. This is quite enough, I think, for a boy who is not by any means a big boy yet.—Mary E. L. Bamford.

Is the Eurb-human Superior to the American?

An English baronet who traveled recently in the United States has written an article for the Nineteenth Century Review, in which the cowardice of the English men and women who American women is the disadvantage of the latter. Our women, he declares to him, are not as handsome or as well dressed as those of England, while our men are inferior in physique. This, he says, is due to the greater attention given in England to outdoor sports. The English man is conceived to be more cosmopolitan, practices in books and in society than the American. The latter is absorbed in business. He goes to see a horse ball match by proxy, spends, but rarely plays himself. Then, the average English young man knows how to do far more walking than do our people in the cities of the United States. All educated Englishmen ride, and the fashionable practice of athletics is very considerable. At a recent rural dinner, Sir Charles Dilke, Dr. Wolldonse, Cabin t Minister, gave it as his opinion that "England owed to the practice of physical exercise not only a great deal of its muscle and power, but also a great deal of its success, and, under Providence much of its glory in the world."—Democrat's Monthly.

A SEALSKIN mint and a large brain are seldom united in the same person.

MYRA CLARKE GAINES.

Some Facts in Relation to a Remarkable Woman.

Myra Clarke Gaines, the widow of the late Gen. Gaines, has for the past fifty years been trying, through the courts, to prove her right to property which actually belongs to her, and about which the Supreme Court of the United States has decided in her favor, but now comes some technical raw about bonds. The little woman has seen 76 years, but has the appearance of being only fifty, with her fair complexion, bright black eyes, that never look through glasses to decipher the finest print or to use her pen, which she is doing, and the result will be her autobiography, which cannot help but be an interesting work. With all her trouble and opposition, she does not show any vindictiveness or bitterness, is amiable, generous, and a true friend to the poor. While relating to us the experiences of her trials, she would vivify about the room, gesticulating in an amusing manner. She avows that she can outtalk, outlaugh, outwalk any woman under the ninety, and knocks of having monopolized the conversation when Miss Lelyett was of the company, much to the chagrin of that renowned forejuror.

When the question of the illegitimacy of Mrs. Gaines's birth was introduced in court, she pleaded her own cause in the presence of more than a thousand people, which plea brought every member of the jury to her side. She says: "God never repented having made woman, but he saw that man was a decided failure and was sorry that he had created him." She is always a woman's champion, believing in her rights, which she says must come, and the right of franchise, on which subject she has talked in public to thousands of attentive listeners. If," said she, "I had been a man I should have adopted the medical profession, because I think I inherit both tastes and talent." She receives her daughter and family from the South, but has idolized her whole country. Her first benevolent work is to give $1,000 to found a free hospital for the poor, without distinction of color. Her next an orphan asylum, if the greedy lawyers do not "gobble up" all she recovers. She is now in the case that for five fees, stenographers, writs, and counsel fees have already been over $200,000, and this sum is not counted $12,000. It is hoped that the wronged woman will soon secure her rights, as the evidence produced before a court in June 1870, part of the time supporting thirteen persons.—Mobile Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

How the Polar Bear Spends the Winter.

As soon as the winter shuts down, when snow begins to fall heavily and the shortening of the days indicates the approach of the long night which reigns in the frigid zone, the female polar bear seeks some nook where there is a comfortable carpet of moss and lies down supine. She has had a busy summer of seal catching and crunching, and now and under her hide are thick layers of fat. She is thus fattened and drowsy, and stretching herself in her lair on the rock she goes to sleep. Perhaps that very first night the leaden clouds shake their fleecy burden upon her, as for days and days it not once stops snowing; but the bear never looks out to see how deep the drifts are, but composedly is asleep and snoring her paws—so it is said, but I won't vouch for that—and the white pall covers her from sight, and buries a dozen or more feet deep in that dreary mound. But the snow by no means puts a stop to her nap. It would upon a buried log. The heat of her body keeps it thawed for a little distance, but she lies in a unwaking s

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Notes and News.

Even the New York Tribune sees that "the result in the house does not dispose of the tariff issue in the next canvass." Randall and his following have therefore been traitors to their party for nought.—Free Press.

"If the democrats had possessed backbone in those days [1876-7] they might have put Tilden in. They would have had to fight for it, though. Grant had the the troops in readiness. I had a thousand mariners ready in case of emergency." Secor Robeson.

Wesley Reese, aged twenty, son of John Reese, one of the most prominent farmers in Muncie, Ind., committed suicide May 7. He climbed a tree in his orchard, tied a strap around a limb, and put the noose about his neck. Then he shot himself. The suicide was caused by reading trashy literature, which produced insanity.

The following from the Eaton Rapids Times will apply with equal force to many other localities in this state: Our republican friend of the down town paper says: "If the democratic party does not strand itself on the tariff question and will put a first-class man at the head of their ticket and make a fair square fight, the election will be one of the closest ever made." If the democratic party will take the advice of every republican paper in Michigan, it will find itself stranded mighty quick. If there is any cause of the party being stranded on the tariff, why don't our neighbor come out and save it? The democratic party can never elect a president by the aid of republican organs. Organs don't generally work against their own interests.

Harbor Appropriations.

The river and harbor bill as report ed gives Detroit river $100,000, Hay Lake channel, Sault Ste. Marie, $125,000, Saginaw river $50,000, Grand river $25,000, and Michigan harbors as follows: Black lake $15,000, entrance to Pine lake $10,000, Grand Haven $50,000, Lake Huron $75,000, Ludington $10,000, Manistee $10,000, Muskegon $20,000, Ontonagon $10,000, Portage Lake $12,500, St. Joseph $15,000, White river $10,000. Cleveland and Chicago harbors get $100,000 each.

Totals of $2,085,000 are appropriated for Mississippa river improvement; $600,000 for the Ohio river and $250,000 for the Kentucky river. For examinations and surveys of new projects in various states and territories $125,000 is appropriated; for the Hennepin canal, Ill., $300,000. The bill provides for a Missouri river commission; also, that no tolls or operating charges be levied upon vessels passing through any canal or other work for the improvement of navigation belonging to the United States. It appropriates $12,619,100.

A Strange Spectacle.

The attitude of the republican members on the Morrison bill is a very surprising one. With four or five exceptions they voted to kill the bill without further consideration. As no other measure for reducing the tariff can be brought forward at this session, the republican party will go upon record as opposed to any abatement of the war taxes upon the necessities of the people. And this in the face of an acknowledged surplus of over $100,000,000. A more extraordinary position was never taken by any party since the formation of the government. It is all the stranger from the fact that the bill simply proposed to carry out the professed object of the abortive act passed by the republican congress a year ago. Boston Herald (Ind.)

A Living Issue.

The New York Times gets a pretty good grasp of the democratic situation when it says that in the convention "the minority will have no republican allies, and the majority, with anything like the strength which they have in the house, will be able to force their opponents to choose between submission or a complete defeat of the party at the polls." "With that chance facing them," the Times adds, "their responsibility will be very great;" but it takes entirely too much for granted in assuming that their failure to submit means democratic defeat. With a living issue, such as the tariff has become, the democracy will be invincible. It can well afford, if it must, to lose the support of those who have undertaken to betray the party, while it was engaged in the fulfillment of a solemn pledge to the people of the country.—Detroit Free Press.

A Party of Hypocrites.

The Detroit Post is very sad about the "blunders" which the democratic party is committing by stumbling up for revision of the tariff, and so, as it prophesies, inviting defeat at the pools next November. It is something to know what a republican partisan organ considers a "blunder." A politican blunder, according to that paper, is to believe in a principle, to stand by it, fight for it, even when one knows that it may bring defeat and postpone victory. In other words a "blunder" is believing in something and fighting for it until it triumphs. The republican party thirty years ago did not believe that this was a "blunder." Its present attitude shows how power has made it a hypocrite and converted it into a mere patronage broker.—Free Press.

The Lime-Kiln Club.

"It am my solemn dooty to inform dis club," said Brother Gardner, "dat de branch club at Green Bay, known as de White Swan Branch, No. 32, has been disbanded. I returned from dat place las' nite arter an official visit of inspeckshun axed fur by de Mayor, Common Council an' various odder passons. De results of dat inspeckshun am an 18x24 warnin' fur us to go slow in de matter of grantin' charters to branch lodges.

"In makin' applicashun fur a charter it was understood dat de White Swans would start off wid three judges, two elders, six colonels, two trustees, fo' purfessors, an' two or three doctors. Dis kibered dat outer de sixteen charter members dar was only one single passon wid a title. He claimed to be a purfessor, an' he am now in jail on charge of stealin'. Our constitushun says dat no fee shall be charged for initiating members. Dis branch lodge took in sixty-four members at a fee of $2 per head, an' de money was used to pay policy an' buy lottery tickets. Under pretense ob losin' a chartered society, organized fur de good ob mankind in general, it heaped up a debt of $99 in three months; it stole twenty-two hams; it got away wid 600 chickens; it gin cuild'society sich a twist dat de wife of a man airnin' seventy-five cents a day wanted a $22 bonnet or death.

"When I arrove at Green Bay an' called upon de President of de White Swans he almos' convinced me dat all derogatory reports had bin started by jealous-minded white passons. I happened, however, to fall in wid a butcher who had lost six hams an' had sot a trap in his smoke-house to ketch straggelers. I sot up wid him till midnight, at which hour we went out an' found de President of de branch lodge in de trap, wid de Secretary and Treasurer disappearin' in de distance.

"Gem'len, we has rushed too fast. In de fuchur, when a branch axes dis club fur a charter, nuffin' of de sort mus' be granted until arter a moas' rigid investigashun has bin made. We mus' not be satisfied wid weekly reports, but some member of dis club mus' be sent out on a scout. Our cause has received a blow in Green Bay from which it may be y'ars in recoverin', an' I am all our own fault. Let us now parceed to routine business."—Detroit Free Press.

The Oyster to the Strawberry.

A dispdated oyster, that had just completed a winter's round of orgies at church fairs and Sunday-school suppers, met a young and unsophisticated strawberry on its first trip from home.

"I've an eye on you," said the oyster, leering at the strawberry in a way that made it blush. "Come up to 'tend the spring festivals, I suppose?"

"I thought so," said the sir," modestly replied the strawberry.

"Going to take in Chatauqua Lake, Ocean Grove, and so on, mebbe?"

"Yes, sir."

"You're the short-cake feller that goes around with his face tied up in sugar and cream, ain't you?"

"Really, sir, I have seen but little of the world as yet, but——"

"That's all right. Now just you take the advice of an old rounder. I've been through this festival racket. It doesn't pay. It gets people down on you and ruins your reputation. Short-cakes are frauds. You keep away from them. Don't go near cream. It's the worst thing you can get mixed on with in warm weather. Just you wait until you see a feller with a big diamond on his shirt and a tombstone on his little finger shaking up some sherry and sugar in a glass. Keep your vest on until you see him put on top of the sherry a piece of pineapple, a piece of lemon, a chip of orange, and a sprig of mint; and then you get right in among them and pass the summer in good society. You hear me twig-ger?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

In Wurtemburg girls under sixteen years of age are no longer allowed to dance round dances.

ENEMIES OF THE OYSTER.

How the Starfish and other Pests Destroy the Bivalves.

Two oystermen were sitting on the end of the wharf at the foot of Spruce street, around which were anchored a dozen or more oyster-boats.

"Did you ever see a star tackle an oyster?" asked the older man of the younger, who evidently didn't understand the question, for he replied: "No, I can't say as I ever did."

"Well, then, you've missed something. They're the most destructive creatures you ever put eyes on."

The reporter, who only caught this scrap of the conversation, paid a visit to Thomas P. Covington, an old oyster dealer, who explained fully the wily, wicked ways of the "star." The term "star" is only one of the nicknames given a kind of star fish, one of the oyster's most deadly enemies. Mr. Covington furnished a description of the star fish.

From the central disk of small dimensions radiate five pointed arms, very strong and tough. In the center of the under side of the disk is the opening for the mouth, which contains no teeth, but is surrounded by an elastic tube and guarded by the edges of the inner plates which form it in. From the center run five furrows, one down each of the arms. The stomach, which itself is not very large, has five annexes or pouches extending down each arm.

This large internal capacity explains the gluttony of which the star fish is capable on occasions. The destructiveness of these voracious pests has been long recognized alike by naturalists and fishermen, and many years ago the English Admiralty Court laid penalties on oyster fishers who did not destroy all the star fish they drew up, because that fish gets into the oysters when they gap and sucks them out. The idea that the "star secures his meal of oysters by strategy still prevails among those oystermen who have little knowledge of natural history. One of these latter thus describes the mode of the "star's" attack.

"Crawling around on the bottom the 'star' accidentally gets fond of a bed of oysters. He don't know what they are neeble, lavin' in their shells all agapin' open like oysters does. He pokes about till he accidentally gets the end of one of his arms into an open shell and the oyster closes on him. The oyster can't get away, but the oyster can't live long with his shell open, and in a few hours he is dead. Then he ties up and the 'star' makes a square meal often him right on the spot—takes him on the hull shell in his arms."

A similar theory is useful in attempting to explain the numbers of "stars" found when the dredge is missing. The star, according to this theory, inserts a tentacle into the open shell for the purpose of whipping out the oyster, sometimes he succeeds and sometimes he doesn't. If he doesn't he starves to death.

With all these chances of dissolution staring into what face the oyster has (as a matter of fact, nothing but mouth), it will be seen that the oyster's lot is not an entirely happy one.—Philadelphia Times.

French Wit.

A good reason:

"Sir, you have no liking for marriage?" says a gentleman to the lady who has just rejected him.

"On the contrary," she replies, "I have been married three times."

"Then why not try again?"

Divorce cases are so expensive!"

Why he gave a pourboire:

"I don't think much of that," said a waiter scornfully as he picked up a two-cent piece given him by a customer.

"Neither do I," replied the customer, "otherwise I shouldn't have given it to you!"

An astronomical reason:

Mr. Prudhomme, on leaving a matinee performance, says to a friend:

"It is curious that each time I direct my footsteps into one of those day representations I never see the star. What do you suppose is the reason?"

"My dear Monsieur Prudhomme, you know that the stars only shine in the night!"

Dialogue between uncle and nephew:

"Will you lend me 10,000 francs?" asks the youth.

"No," replies the uncle.

"Since I am your only heir."

"I do not wish you to squander your inheritance in advance. I have too much interest for you."

"Give me your capital, then; it will replace you very well in interest!"

At the Stock Exchange:

"My dear boy, the business world is divided into two camps, the gamblers and the speculators."

"I don't exactly see the difference."

"It's very simple. The speculator is the one who gains. When a man loses he is only a gambler!"

Satisfying his creditors:

First bankrupt: "I filed a statement of my affairs I have had no peace."

Second bankrupt: It is always so with creditors: the more you give them the more they want."

On the morning of the academic election a candidate for the vacant chair meets one of his friends.

"My dear," says the friend, "allow me to congratulate you; it appears that you have every chance of being elected."

"That is to say that I had them a month ago, at the time I made my visits. But now it looks doubtful."

"How so? Its impossible! You haven't published anything since!"—News Journal.

One of Rossini's mots:

At the opera one evening there was a sextette where four of the singers modestly affected themselves before the two stars who were then in vogue.

The two singers did not please the author of "William Tell."

"Those four who do not sing," he at last said, impatiently, "are probably the seconds. They really ought to stop the duel!"

In one of the new girl's schools:

The inspector arrives to make an examination.

"I wish to have the best informed young lady to come to the blackboard," he says, solemnly.

No one moves.

"Then," says he gracefully, "I should like the prettiest one to come."

They all stand up!

This scene is laid in a provincial city.

The body of a man found in the street is recognized as that of Mr. Mueller, living in such a street, such a number.

"Be very careful," says the lieutenant to one of his policemen, "and announce the sad fact to Mrs. Muller very delicately."

"Count on me, lieutenant."

The policeman starts off, arrives at the domicile of the deceased, reflects a moment, then smites like a man who has found a solution to a problem, rings the bell at the door of the poor lady, who opens it herself:

"Is it here that the Widow Mueller lives?"

Precautions against fire:

"Alcott will be careful about fire; I have a great horror of it," says the mistress to the new cook.

"Trar don't be alarmed, madame; there is a fireman in my kitchen almost every evening!" replies the cook.

The favorite tipple in Washington is hot Apine soda, a beverage composed of baked apple, hot water, sugar and Jersey electricity.

Mexican Girls.

The rich are so very rich that they have no ambition: the poor so absolutely poor that they have no heart to speak of. The daughters of wealthy pass their lives in the midst of the poor are so poorly clothed that they nearly all look dressed that they nearly all look ager bitten and ill developed. There are no lyceums, debating clubs, dramatic associations, parlor balls, picnics, or any athletic sports in which the women can join. They are completely without good shoes and a set of women I saw. I doubt if there are a dozen of good forms in the city and as to legs and feet—Apollo's legs!—the stockings of an average Mexican girl would go twice around a Chihuahua belle. A resident physician tells me that the health of the better class women is wretchedly poor. A few of them can nurse their own children. They usually marry at from 15 to 17 and are careworn at 25. The physician attempted to introduce vaccines, but the young ladies had not strength to manage nor persons to master them. A few homeopathic pills were sold here, but the feeble fingers soon broke their necks in getting them out. A really plump, vigorous, healthy woman of the wealthy class is a rarity, though many of them have a sort of languid beauty. Ponder things in your heart, and the next time you see a beautiful senorita sitting in voluptuous langour (on the top of a cigar box) in a gorgeous hammock with delicate wreaths of smoke curling from her pretty rosebud lips, you will know her for the primed human wreck she is. As to real beauty, nature satisfies the heart of the artist, and you can find more of it in one circle of Anna high school girls than in the whole State of Chihuahua—if this city is a fair specimen.—Cor. Boston Post.

The Art of Cracking Hickory Nuts.

"I understand that there is a science in cracking nuts?"

"There certainly is, and there are some differences of opinion as to the best method of doing it. I per ceive in this business when I buy in Westchester Co., N. Y. that there are more crack hickory crackers in that section than anywhere else. Thirty or forty years ago folks had nut-cracking matches here. While sitting around a big fire in a farmhouse kitchen they cracked the nuts, eating the meats with bread and cider. They threw the shells into the fire. The shells burn very fast and when they are charred glow like rubies. Lots of queer stories are told about the old hickory nut times. I was a boy my mother, who was born in Westchester County, told me about an old man who lived in a little house in the woods, and who during the whole winter sat by the fire and cracked and ate nuts. He cracked the nuts, they say, that he required for fuel than the shells to set a going. I can't swear that he used any other fuel but the nuts, but there is no doubt about his having existed, for my mother often saw the house."

"What do you think the best way for me was to take a hammer and a nice round cobble stone. Then I would take hold of the nut between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand and rest the side of the nut on a surface of the stone. Hold it pretty firmly, and then give it a sharp rap with the hammer. If you hold it right and strike it right the kernel will come out in two pieces. Some people prefer a block of hard wood to a stone and some use a flat iron."—Chicago News Journal.

When the bill to legalize a marriage with a deceased wife's sister was before the British House of Lords it was believed that Lord Tennyson would vote in its favor.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the 3rd day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James R. Weed, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of

BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Marin Walker praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary may be issued thereon to him, and that administration of said estate may be granted to Stephen Walker or to some other suitable person. Thereupon it is ordered that the eleventh day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Charlevoix, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES R. WEED,
Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.)

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the 3rd day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James R. Weed, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE BOWSER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Moses Bowsher, praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, may be admitted to probate, and that letters testamentary may be issued thereon to him, and that administration of said estate may be granted to Stephen Walker or to some other suitable person. Thereupon it is ordered that the eleventh day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Charlevoix, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES R. WEED,
Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.)

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 15, 1884.

Notes and News.

It took six horses to move L. D. Bartholomew's safe to the new store on the opera block.

Mr. Chas. Banbury, veterinary surgeon, has a card in our business directory. Those in need of his services will find him by inquiring at the village street house.

"Illness is the parent of mischief and idleness." Men constantly at labor, even at a low rate, are really better off than when working a small part of the time at a high rate.

A writer has said that it would be better to expend money devoted to charity in carrying on useless works, than employment to the needy, than to give it as a donation.

Mr. Chas. Banbury bought in Milwaukee a platform spring wagon, which arrived on the Lawrence last Thursday. It is well adapted to moving furniture, and goods requiring careful usage.

S. J. Creswell, of Philadelphia, gives the university of Michigan a hand some fountain. Michigan men who see all they are to the university, might catch an idea from Mr. Creswell's act.—News.

Charlevoix is having a steady, substantial growth that augurs well for the future. Its location is excellent, industries permanent, and escapes that feverish, mushroom growth that has proved so fatal to some other towns.

Oil has been discovered on E. A. Spalding's farm in the township of Norwood, Charlevoix county, one mile from Lake Michigan. It is said to be a lubricating oil. There are seams of coal and shale and soap stone in the vicinity.—News.

Our town people are showing a commendable energy in clearing up the streets and grounds and shade trees up generally about their individual premises. Our farmers also are logging and burning on all sides and their acreage for crops will be much larger than last season.

If any Michigan farmer reads this and thinks he has pipe clay on his farm let him put a chunk of it in the fire. If it burns red it won't do; if it turns white the pipe factories of Detroit will be glad to hear from him as the chances are his fortune will be made.

Daily we observe new faces passing our office and new patrons at the counters of our merchants. The dealers here are displaying as full and fine a line of goods as can be desired, and are offering inducements in the way of prices which are steadily winning a large and increasing patronage.

The Cedar Springs fire is the latest illustration of the results of over-economy in the matter of fire protection in small towns. Not one out of a thousand of these towns have any decent fire department, comprising a single steamer. Our rural neighbors will one day learn that they need a good fire department fully as much as any large city, and that it is losing dollars and saving cents not to support one.—Leader.

The Ocean people are still forgetting the agitation over the gold find on Elder Darling's farm. A Chicago assayist is reported as having certified that the specimens sent him would assay $34.75 to the 1,000 ounces. The story is also told that another mine has been drilled some distance into the first, and the same vein been struck. We recollect a like excitement in Muskegon, some years ago, when a "phunny phellow" turned a barrel of black strap into the salt well one night, and the next day the town was wild over the reported discovery of oil.—Forum.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with the pains of worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parsons' Sanitarium Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms without distressing it. Do you know the symptoms? Paleness, sudden starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Before you have nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by C. B. Weed & Co.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and keep the system run will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unsurpassed. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by C. B. Weed & Co.

For Amateur Miners.

Since the discovery of gold in the Cour d'Alene country not only has the western heart been scorched, but the eastern entrail has been somewhat singed with the "yellow" fever. Cowboys, who have spent their lives at bookkeeping, real real agents, who have devoted themselves to carrying the missionary box through the aisles of the deadly Sunday school, are springing up in every community along the seaboard and preparing themselves for the arduous functions of vigilance committee secretaryships. Tried and experienced miners who for years have been digging ground in claims that paid from $6 to $10 per week, are cropping out and talking "leads" and "levels" with a zest and finish that stagger the amateurs of '49. Brooklyn has caught the symptoms in a greater or less degree and the amount of backyard practice in the arts and manners of miners is appalling.

For the information of those who have tried practical mining theoretically a little advice or two may be interesting and instructive.

To be a miner one must habituate the hip bones to the constant presence of a buck pistol. No matter how much bark it rubs off the system, the pistol must be there, or the dirt don't pan. A man without a pistol may dig for months without results, while the fellow in the next hole, with the eight pound weapon strapped over the bend in his body will toss up grit by the bucket. The outcrop has nothing to do with it and the existence of a vein right at the edge of the pit is utterly unimportant. The chap without a gun gets no metal.

A bowie knife down the back of the neck is the second element in successful mining. Thousands of men have attempted to get on without it, and they unanimously testify that quartz won't rise an inch. A man might be turned loose in a mint and starve to death unless the knife was properly placed, with the handle sticking right up under the ear. Don't try to succeed without it. It may come a little awkward at first, but you can practice falling down stairs with a stair rod under your vest until you get the suspension of the business.

Thirdly, brethren, you want a red shirt. It costs $18 a dozen to get the white article washed in the mines, and the best paying claim in the district turns to pyrites before starch. The shirt must be red and button up the front. A man in the Black Hills once created a prejudice against himself in a garment that fastened up behind, for his neighbors protested a wash of black in a shirt front that wouldn't look a man in the face. The boots should come to the knee and offer no refuge for the legs of the trousers. This is the walking costume. For full dress when you turn out to tree a man you just pull the trousers out and then you are complete. You never know when you will have to assume a look of stern determination and inflexible purpose. You may be called on to do a dull thud act at any moment, and you might practice on the servant girl. Hang her up in the yard two or three times a week until you get the grin purpose fixed in your mind and then shoot her Sunday mornings, so as to perfect yourself in the "cold drop" business. You might gobble her salary in order to get the chin jumping dodge down fine, and then stab her every day or two to show her she has tackled the wrong bad man.

You want a wide hat. The wider the better. The more flamboyant you can get the further it will carry you. But to wear it so the front won't get mixed up with your prayers takes long and patient effort. The band around it should be full of pockets for cartridges and the top should have a hole in it to show what the revenue officers did when you were a moonshiner.

When you have figured yourself out so you can walk in the boots, keep cool in the shirt, quit filling your back teeth with the hat, twist your head without carrying it off with the knife and bend over without firing the pistol bullets into your leg, you will be a miner. You don't want any pick, shovel or pit. There is no need of a claim, interest or even grub stake. Just go right out to the diggings and walk around. You'll get rich. Don't be alarmed about results. If you don't catch any dust you'll be so rich in pure lead before you've been four hours in the regions that you can only distinguish yourself from a shot tower by the ability of the tower to stand alone while you are trying up to a brick jack to keep you from dropping through the mountain. Try it, young man. And if your executors and creditors don't wish you had stuck to the entry clerk's desk it will be owing to you're having slipped up on these instructions somewhere and missed the combination.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Mixed Well With Sugar.

"I hear that some confectioners are using tons of white earth in the manufacture of candies," said a New York drummer to a Milwaukee grocer.

"Is that so?" said the light-weight champion of honesty. "I think it is an outrage on humanity that such base practices are allowed. They ought to be summarily stopped."

"It is rather rough, I must admit," remarked the traveling man, clutching his grip-sack firmly and looking his customer square in the eye, "but then, you know, the stuff can be bought cheap, and when it is mixed with sugar not even an expert can detect it."

"Well, if that's the case," whispered the honest merchant as he glanced cautiously around, "can't you ship me a lot when you get home?"—Drake's Traveler's Magazine.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages interest and instruct young and old. It is alike serviceable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic, and in the School they who longs to lay the foundation of an honest character and seeks for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have coexisted and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication, covering principally of EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and lives of the most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the age.

Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Cabinets, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Authors, Editors, Financiers, Physicians, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Cardinals, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, HILL, BAYARD, MORRISON, TILDEN, EDMUNDS, LINCOLN, SABIN, BUTLER, SHERMAN, THOMAS, HENDRICKS, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HOADLEY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Outlines and Portraits, whether Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Baptists or Methodists, will find among the numerous characters in THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL some life-like picture of the reader that would be a suitable and that shall well adorn its full-length.

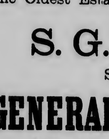
If you could borrow a picture with the face and as near of the man and woman whose names have not an fan like to occupy, get a copy of THE

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR. L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers, 22 White Street, New York.

$1 A YEAR. $1

ONE DOLLAR.



ONE DOLLAR.

$1 A YEAR. $1

TWO PAPERS FOR THE PRICE OF ONE

THE WEEKLY Detroit Free Press AND THE HOUSEHOLD

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

The Free Press is the leading Republican paper of Michigan. Its Editorial, Telegraphic and Local News Departments are unsurpassed. The Household is a large 8 page paper filled with stories, poems, fashions, and matter of interest to the ladies. Address Free Press Co., Detroit, Mich.

$1 A YEAR. $1

ONE DOLLAR.

ONE DOLLAR.

$1 A YEAR. $1

The JOURNAL and the FREE PRESS one year for Two Dollars Cash in Advance.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—IN—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark.

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.
ADVANCE, MICH.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

DEALER IN

Hardware,

FARM IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

Charlevoix, Mich.

A FINE STOCK OF

New Boots & Shoes

JUST RECEIVED.

Prices Below all Competition.

L. B. Connor

Custom Work and Repairing to Order.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at Wirth's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 16th day of July next, at 12 o'clock, noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of taxation, and a return of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
Secretary.

H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Begole on the Lumber Tariff.

In a recent interview Gov. Begole is represented as saying: "The duty on lumber is $2 per thousand, and I have long since failed to observe that I was entitled to protection on my lumber. I was talking with one of my partners not long ago on this very subject, and I said then that I would just as soon as not see the tariff on lumber taken off; indeed I would rather it would be so, and my partner said the same thing. We can sell lumber at a large profit without the duty, and why the poor man who wants a few thousand feet of lumber to build himself a house should have to pay this extra $2 per thousand I do not see. It is not fair; it is not right. At the time of the war, 20 years ago, it was a good thing, but now its usefulness is gone, and I do not think it right that the poor man should be taxed to make rich men millionaires. Our own state of Michigan is divided on the subject. The Saginaw valley, our valley here, and all lumber districts, also the iron and copper districts, are in favor of high protective tariff, whilst the people in the southern part of the state are free traders.

Put Lumber on the Free List.

Ex Governor English, of Connecticut who is reported to be worth $5,000,000, has been largely interested in the lumber business for many years. He was asked if he favored the placing of lumber on the free list. "Most assuredly I do," was his reply. 'Maine is stripped of all but her coarse pine, and New York state is denuded of its hard wood supply. Michigan is the only state from which we can obtain a supply of building woods. The south has the woods, to be sure. In Arkansas, notably, there is a great supply, but it costs more to get it up here than it would to get it from Canada. Our policy of protection in this instance has worked to destruction of our great forests. The country suffers materially in consequence. Unless lumber is put on the free list what few woods we have left will be sacrificed and then we shall be at the mercy of the Canadians. It is but the part of wisdom to put lumber on the free list."

Congressman Hoar, in his next speech against the Morrison bill ought to read the appeal of the Saginaw valley laboring men to show the beauties of the policy of protection by which he and the salt nabobs and lumber lords he represents have accumulated their millions, while the condition of the laboring men grows worse and worse each year. It is chiefly Canadian labor that gluts the Saginaw market. They say the Canadians are attracted there by the high wages. This is true, but it does not state the whole truth. Canadian workmen who come into Michigan work like beavers for six months and then return to Canada. They can take their money across the line without paying duties on it. There a dollar is worth to them in clothes, crockery and most of the necessaries of life nearly as much as two dollars this side of the line. Its purchasing power is nearly twice as great. Canadian laborers at home are quite as prosperous as they are in Michigan. They do not get as much in currency for a week's work, but they get more in purchasing power and can spend more for luxuries or save more if they chose. The situation in the Saginaw valley, possibly in an aggravated form, is the situation here and in every part of this country. Labor is not protected; but has to pay in higher prices on the necessities of life on account of the bounties of barbarous protective system gives to the owners of its products. How long will the laborers of this country stand this sort of double robbery? How long will they sustain the party that has brought this system upon the people and still defends it with their votes. —G. R. Democrat.

The republican party is broken into trading factions. Take the single statement of General Robertson, one of the reformers, that his reform people, the Blaine men, in the New York convention, proposed a bargain: "An offer mas made by the Blaine people to give the Edmunds men two delegates. It was a more than liberal offer. They agree to it; but the Arthur men agree to give them four, and then they broke the engagement and consummated the trade with the Arthur men." It is trading and sale, bargain and intrigue, boss, machine, and ward hummer, all in the name of reform. What is there to hope from out of all this but a new demonstration of how impossible it is for an old party to reform itself? If there were nowhere to leap but out of the frying pan into the fire, that step would be at least on the way to the hearth and out of both. Muskegon News.

R. G. Peters, a heavy lumberman of Manistee, recently imported a car load of sixty men to work in his mills. There is no tariff on the importation of labor, and protectionists, like Mr. Peters, do not hesitate to avail themselves of the benefit of free trade in this direction.—Traverse Eagle.

"A Cousin of the Late Jesse James."

The other day a big, greasy, stout, healthy-looking beggar entered one of the leading establishments on Fourth street, St. Louis. The first person he encountered after entering the portals of the store was a well-dressed young man of affable and pleasant manners. The mendicant proceeded to narrate a well connected story four and a half years long. He was cut short by the salesman, who curtly remarked that he had nothing to waste on big, lazy beggars.

Eyeing the young man from head to foot, and giving him a contemptuous "I-could-eat-a-prize-ox-and-look-for-beggar-endeavored to shame the young salesman into contributing something.

"If I was as well dressed and prosperous looking as you are," said the mendicant, "I would be ashamed to refuse a dime to a poor man like myself. Look at that fine diamond pin there! Look at that watch and chain there and cunaxcy clothes! Oh, I'd be ashamed, I would."

"Now, here," said the salesman, "when I give my money away I want to know that it goes for some worthy charity and not into the beer saloon."

These remarks delivered, he pushed the beggar out of the way, whereupon the latter sell slowly, but in a determined manner, his eye meanwhile riveted on the young man, "Don't crowd me! I'm a second cousin to the late Jesse James."

The salesman's blood was now at the boiling point and the second cousin of Jesse James lost no time in getting out doors.—St. Louis Republican.

Battle With an Alligator.

Robert Carroll, a trapper and hunter, while tramping for otters on West Choctawpatchie river, in Alabama, had a terrible fight with an alligator recently.

Seeing the water agitated in a hole near the river, and supposing that otters were fishing therein, he mounted a pole on a tussock just above the water's edge. His steel traps were in a sack suspended from his neck. His only weapon was his hatchet. He sat on the pole, with a mass of vines at his back. He held his weapon ready to strike an otter, should one arise.

Soon he saw a young alligator near him. He caught it by and it uttered a cry. In an instant there was a terrible splash of water, and a huge alligator, with distended mouth and glittering teeth, rushed for him. With little hope of escape he fell back upon the vines, and as he did so lacked the pole from under his feet.

The terrible jaws closed on the pole and crushed it. Carroll tried to interpose the traps but a vine had caught them and partly held him down. Seizing his hatchet he struck into the open mouth of his assailant. It closed on the weapon, and with great difficulty he saved the hatchet. Getting free from his traps he dealt the alligator a fatal blow on the skull as it made the next charge.

He severed the skin and such teeth as had not been destroyed in the fight. The length of the alligator was about nine and a half feet. The hide was its den. Alligators rarely attack human beings.—N. Y. Sun.

How to Treat Typhoid Fever.

The treatment of typhoid fever was discussed at a meeting of the New York County Medical Association, in the hall of the College of Physicians and Surgeons recently. A paper upon the subject was read by Dr. George L. Peabody, who invited criticism and discussion from all members of the association. The disastrous results of admitting to the hospitals patients well along with the disease was shown to be caused chiefly by ignorance of the previous condition of the cases and the disregard paid to age and general physical condition. In the matter of food he advised the physicians to give the typhoid fever patient solid food as soon as possible. A physician in Kentucky has given solid food from the beginning of the sickness and had met with success. Concerning the reduction of temperature by cold-water sponging, cases were cited to show that, with careless sponging once an hour, a patient's temperature might remain as high as 104 degrees. Unless sponging could be effectively attended to, the most satisfactorily way of keeping a patient cool was the cold water bath. A free use of alcohol was advised, although in recent years the tendency had been to neglect it altogether. During the war the mortality among fever patients in the white regiments had been 49 per cent. and in the colored regiments 56 per cent.

Dr. Detmold, by a series of diagrams and practical illustrations, gave a simple remedy for weak ankles, knock knees, bowed legs, raised shoulders and curved spines. His remedy is: "Apply a little common sense to the sole of the boot." When the inner ankle-bone protrudes and causes a weak ankle, remove the weight from the protruding part. To do this the sole on the inner side of the boot must be raised a little. By this means the inner ankle bone would be thrown into its proper place and made strong. To cure knock knees raise the inner sides of the soles of both boots, and to strengthen bowed legs raise the boot soles on the outer edges. In case the left shoulder is higher than the right, add a thickness of sole leather to the bottom of the right boot, thus lengthening the leg. Curvature in the spine in children and young people may be cured the same way.—New York Times.

Perquisites of the Street Car Driver.

"Do you find many things in the course of the year?" asked the reporter.

"Wal, yes, I do; an' I could find a heap more if I didn't have to look so sharp arter the horses. I cal'late to keep my eyes peeled for things when I ain't obleeged to be a watchin' 'em. Since I begin drivin', 'bout twelve year ago, I've picked up most every thin', from a needle to a pocket-book; money from a nickled to a fifty dollar bill. 'Didn't that bill look sweeta lyin' there! In course I pocketed it, jest as I does every thin' I find—less it's a too bulky—I don't never expect nobody to return no fifty dollar bills ev mine when they find 'em. Only t'other day on Washington street I passed over a fat, healthy-lookin' pus. I kicked sight ov it between the dashboard an' the hosses' heels, jest as I was a gobi' over it, but several cuss was behind me, an' I must know'd somebody 'd get it afore I could, so I kep' on. I looked fur it when I come back, but it warn't there. It jest 'bout broke my heart to leave it 'bout it arrerwards; but p'raps it warn't nothin' but a 'decoy.' Leastwise, I hope so."

"Are all the drivers as fortunate as you in finding things?"

"No, I don't think they be. It's a good deal a matter er luck, an' eyesight has somethin' to do with it. Some people never see nothin', ever know, as others does. Now, there's Jim Simpson. (They call him Puffin-ler Jim, for he were a big bullnoser cent 'bout six months in the year.) He must hev dirty fur more'n twenty year. Wall, I use s to tell him 'bout my day 'bout the things I'd found. He says ter me:

"'Some people's fools, Jake. Since I've bin a drivin' I never found nothin' but hard work. All er us drivers find that sure.'"—Boston Globe.

The "Hollow Square" in Battle.

The "hollow square" formation that won the battle of El Teb is undoubtedly a formidable one in these days of long-range rifles, when the assailants can be exterminated long before they ever reach the bayonet points. But that infantry squares have been broken by cavalry on more than one occasion is now matter of history. Authorities are still divided as to whether Victor Hugo was right in affirming or Simone in denying that the French heavy brigade drove in the face of a British square at Waterloo. But Montbrun's cuirassiers broke a Russian square at Borodino in 1812, and Colonel Combis-court's horse, in the same battle, nearly charged into an intrenched redoubt. In the course of the Algero-Arabian war that followed England's annexation of Aden, in 1839, an English square was attacked in the open plain by a mass of Abdali horsemen. The Arabs forced their way in so far as to kill several men in the third rank, and were then beaten off with bayonets and clubbed muskets, an occurrence utilized by James Grant in one of his military novels. The Irish Brigade had a similar experience at Talavera. "See, my Connaught boys," said General Picton to them after the battle, "you let the Frenchman get into your square to-day, did you?" "Well, Your Honor," answered a brawny Irish grenadier with stern significance, "the blackguards got on, sure enough, but behind the never got out again."—N. Y. Times.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new

Opera Block

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent: i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TOUCHES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

ERRORS OF YOUTH

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., N. Y.

PIMPLES

I will mail Free the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN, PIMPLES, FRECKLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3 cent stamp, DR. VANDELL & CO., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

JOSEPH HYLAND

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Boiler Maker

Sheet-Iron Worker

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Firepot

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE.

NEW GOODS

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

Is ready for inspection. Come and see me and when you want a suit of clothes or anything in Gents' Furnishing Goods you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES

AND

Price to Correspond with the Times.

Geo. W. Miller.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 15, 1884.

Provision Market.

Small prices to consumers, as corrected every Thursday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO., general dealers:

FLOUR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
CORN MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, [illegible]
OATS, per bu, 35@.
OATS, per bu, 50c.
CRACKED FEED, per cwt., $1.50@1.60.
APPLES, per bu, $1.00.
POTATOES, per bu, 30c.
ONIONS, per bu., $1.00.
BUTTER, per lb, 25c.
EGGS, per doz, 18c.
LARD, per lb, 12@15c.
HAMS, 16c; Shoulders, 12½c.
SALT PORK, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 9c.
BACON SIDES, per lb, 10c.
CHEESE, 20c.
WATER WHITE OIL, 25c.
FARMERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

BEEF, beef steak, 12½@18c; fresh pork, 12½@ 15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c; shoulders, 12c; TALLOW, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

See our new styles of calling cards all cases.

L. W. Skinner went to Elk Rapids Saturday.

A large invoice of new furniture at Cooper's.

Garland Stoves are found at L. Bartholomew's.

Buy a box of our new calling cards your "best girl."

E. S. Johnson, of Northport, was town last Monday.

A complete line of hardware at D. Bartholomew's.

We are informed that the roller ing rink is assured.

Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At ght, Emrey & Co.'s.

Jos. Hyland, boiler maker, returned to Chicago yesterday.

Shingles and lath for the million ght, Emrey & Co.'s.

The Farm, Field and Fireside for is an excellent number.

Mr. J. H. Lyman, of Clarion, gave JOURNAL a call on Monday.

H. Hurlbut, of South Haven, ed in Charlevoix Tuesday.

sidewalk has been built from the ge street house to the dock.

n. Miller returned from Chicago the Champlain Tuesday night.

F. Cole and wife, of Boyne Falls, in town a few days this week.

Rose, of the Petoskey Democrat the JOURNAL a call on Tuesday.

r. Counter has given the front of ing store another coat of paint.

There will be preaching at Black's ol house next Sunday, at 3 o'clock.

is said that Grand Traverse bay frozen over 102 days last winter.

D. Bartholomew has something in our advertising columns this

W. Kane and wife arrived on the ngham from Chicago Tuesday

See returned home from Chicago week, whither he went to buy new Prints, cottons, collars, skirting, goods, etc., at Upright, Emrey ck.

Try "Uro Dal" cigar. Its ahead the "Warren." For sale at the ar store.

Henry Cooper has just received a new safe for the township of rlevoix.

John Burns, now in Saginaw writes he will return to Charlevoix in a weeks.

F. G. Hines & Co., druggists, hope have their room finished and goods ced in about two weeks.

Work was begun yesterday on L. Bartholomew's new warehouse, joining the Odd Fellows hall.

E. S. Harsha will in a few days ge the front rooms of the Lewis k now occupied by Dr. Lewis.

John Bell seems to be building up good business in the feed and pro- line, at his store on Mason

The select reading of Mrs. Belle ipher at the opera house last nday evening was a rare enter nment, and those who remained joyed an evening of pleasure satisfaction.

Fifty fruit trees were planted by Messrs. Moore and Gates around their cottages on the Chicago resort last week.

L. D. Bartholomew sold more fishing tackle the first week in the new room than during the whole of last season.

☞"A fine stock of new straw goods, trunks, satchels, etc., has just arrived at Geo. Miller's clothing house. Come and see them.

A. Howard, Al. Colter, and W. J. Bradley went to Traverse City Tuesday to attend the district lodge of good templars.

D. C. Bacon, of Winneconnie, Wis., opens a stock of groceries to day, in the building formerly occupied by L. D. Bartholomew.

W. A. Norton is now occupying the front rooms of the Buttars block. For the present his family will reside at the Fountain City house.

Geo. O. Taylor and family arrived last week. Mr Taylor will have the management of the club house for the Chicago resort this season.

C. F. Gates and S. M. Moore of Chicago, were in town last week looking after the grounds and buildings of the Chicago resort association.

D. S. Way has engaged an experienced photographer to finish work, and together they expect to take the lead in the business this summer.

Jos. Pappin has a Durham heifer, under three years old, which dropped this week a pair of fine bull calves, the first twin calves in this vicinity.

Mrs. O. B. Weed is very sick this week, but reports last evening were favorable to recovery. Master Perry Weed is also confined to his bed with fever.

The poles for the new telephone line have been set between Charlevoix and Cross Village, and we are informed the wires will be up inside of ten days. Democrat.

With an increased size of paper our friends should give us more advertising. Several firms are not represented at all in our columns, and others should enlarge their space.

John J. Bush, of Lansing, was in Charlevoix this week. He has been looking over his extensive real estate in northern Michigan, and trying to make a sale of portions of it.

☞"Preaching at the M. E. church next Sunday morning, on "future possibilities;" in the evening on "Paradises lost, and the Adams and Eves that have come and gone."

R. H. Dougall has let the job of building the roller skating rink to architect Kirkpatrick. It is to be 40 x100 feet, and is to opened by May 30. It will also contain an ice cream room.

A compositor on the Detroit Free Press exercised his skill in the construction of the figure of a ship entirely of type and brass rule. We should call it an excellent piece of work.

The Casperson lamp is something new, and the smaples on exhibition at L. D. Bartholomew's hardware store add much to the light and beauty of the room. Call some evening and see them.

The Chicago Herald, the cleanest newspaper, best arranged and printed daily paper in the metropolis of the west, came out with a new dress last Saturday, the third anniversary of its establishment.

The foundation is being laid for a new addition to the Cushman house which is to be 25x44 feet, three stories high, on the north side of the present building. This will give the Cushman room to accommodate its rapidly increasing trade. Democrat.

☞We have decided to admit business announcements in our reading matter for a few weeks, at the old price of five cents a line, changing the style only by prefixing an index, as in this item. If the change is appreciated, we shall expect a large increase of business.

O. I. Wheat has the contract for building an addition to Mrs. Clifford's residence, 28x28 feet, work on which has commenced. He will also build C. Y. Cook's large residence, adjoining the Charlevoix resort. These with his other work will keep him busy for a little while.

Children's School Shoes, a large stock just received. Manufactured in Chicago especially for my trade. Call and see them before buying.

L. D. CONDON.

We would suggest to committees of societies who have a disposition to divide their printing, that although we cannot print large posters, we can print small work, such as tickets programs, dodgers, etc., on short notice, and in a satisfactory manner. Friends of the JOURNAL should bear this in mind.

T. H. Sedina, of Lansing, manager of the tailoring department of the state reform school, was in Charlevoix on Saturday and Monday, looking up the prospects for a merchant tailoring house here. He seemed well satisfied with the outlook, and if suitable arrangements can be made for room, etc., he will doubtless return soon and settle with us.

The concert given by Prof. M. L. Smith at the opera house Tuesday evening had a fair attendance. The professor gave a blackboard exercise showing his methods of instruction, followed by vocal and instrumental solos, duets, etc. His personations of comic characters drew out frequent applause. The harmonica trio with organ accompaniment was encored. We have no doubt other concerts in the future will draw full houses.

Geo. B. Pratt, J. F. Burge, and H. H. Glassford, engaged on H. R. Page & Co.'s history of the Traverse region, departed for other fields of labor this week. A large amount of matter has been prepared for the historical part of the work, and about 20 views made of prominent places and buildings in the county. We have no doubt that the work will be as complete as possible to make in the space allowed.

A test was made last evening of a fire and water proof slate roofing paint, for tin, iron, and shingle roofs. A box which had been painted only a few hours, was covered with sawdust and shavings saturated with kerosene, and it with-stood the flames over 20 minutes. When examined, the paint was sealed off but the wood was unharmed. The roof of the Fountain City House is already covered with this paint, and numerous other orders have been given. L. D. Bartholomew has the exclusive right of sale for this county.

Memorial Service.

Arrangements are being made by the committee of Baxter Post, G. A. R., to give a memorial service May 30th, never equaled in this county. Invitations have been extended to the posts and citizens at Boyne and at Eastport many of whom have sig nified their intention to be present. At least 20 members will be here from Boyne, with their families and friends and it is hoped that the citizens generally in the surrounding country will be present. An interesting program has been prepared, which we hope to publish next week.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Upright Emrey, real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, May 13, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Louise M. Lee to Oliver M. Carbiseh, lot 1 block 1 Charlevoix, $700.

Michael Bartenstein and wife to Hiram B. Chapman, n ½ of lot 17 of block 9, Bay Springs $175.

Heirs of W. E. Dodge to Christian Pagels, s e ¼ of s e ¼, 21-31-6, $200.

Wm. Nelson and wife to Jno. J. Sturgis, s e ¼ of s w ¼, 12-32-5, $200.

Wm. Nelson and wife to Sarah Sturgis, s w ¼ of s w ¼, 12-32-5, $200.

Libbie T. Clark to John Bell, 2½ acres, 23-31-6, $250.

Edwin Sodes to Mary Jane Sodes, lot 2 School lot's addition to Ironton, $200

Miscellaneous Marine.

The Gazelle makes extra good time this spring.

The Lottie Mason is out at Campbell's yard.

The M. W. Wright can be chartered for pleasure excursions at reasonable rates.

The Hercules went to Petoskey last Sunday to load ties and posts for H. O. Rose.

The scow Lottie Mason arrived Sunday with a cargo of lath and shingles.

The time tables of Hannah, Lay & Co.'s line of steamers will appear in our next issue.

Allen's steam pile driver from Charlevoix has been driving piles about the end of the new dock. Democrat.

The small schooner Fairday, of this port, went on the beach Tuesday afternoon near the south pier. She is not damaged to any extent, and of forts are being made to release her.

The M. W. Wright commenced her regular trips last Monday morning. The following is her time table:

Leave Boyne	7.00 a. m	1.00 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	9.00 a. m	3.00 p. m.
Leave Charlevoix	9.30 a. m	1.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	11.30 a. m	5.00 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, May 13:

7 – Sch. M. L. Collins, 1st cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., Milwaukee.

7 – Sch. Gilbert Knapp, 200 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., Chicago.

8 – Sch. Gerrit Smith, 400 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

8 – Sch. Grace M. Filer, 200 cords wood, W. H Dousman, to Chicago.

9 – Sch. Louis Ludington, 127 cords wood, S. Parker, to Milwaukee.

10 – Sch. Jennie Weaver, 3,000 posts, J. M Perry, to south Chicago.

10 – Sch. Selma, 40 cords wood, 1 cord bark M. Sanderson, to Milwaukee.

12 – Sch. Alvin Beaseo, 80 cords wood 120 cords bark, S. G. Ludington, to Chicago.

12 – Sch. John C. Baney, 120 cords wood, John Wright to Milwaukee.

12 – Sch. Eliza Day, 16 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

12 – Sch. George Steele, 400 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

13 – Sch. Pilgrim, 150 cords wood, W. H. Dousman, to Chicago.

13 – Sch. Eagle Wing, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stuttgen & Co., to Chicago.

13 – Sch. Phoenix, 180 cords wood, J. A. Bacon, to Chicago.

13 – Sch. Surprise, 110 cords wood, A. C. Shantz, to Milwaukee.

13 – Sch. Dean, 70 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

13 – Sch. Lapeltie, 130 cords wood, P. Thorp to Milwaukee.

13 – Sch. Medina, 500 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

13 – Sch. John Schuette, 225 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., Milwaukee.

Council Proceedings.

CHARLEVOIX, May 8, 1884.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called, quorum present.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

The marshal reported that the alley in block 7 had been cleaned.

One week further time was granted the committee on streets for opening the street on the north side from Bridge street to Lake Michigan.

Bill of Gurley Bush, $8.00, for work on fire engine, was referred to finance committee.

Finance committee reported favorably on bills of C. W. Cronter, $12.85 and Gurley Bush $8.00, which were on motion, allowed and ordered paid.

The marshal was instructed to abate a nuisance on the premises of Michael Downey.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to A. Fox.

Having completed their inventory, find that they have over $6,000 worth of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Fancy Goods, Knit Goods, Notions, Ladies and Gents Underwear, Woolens, Satinets, Furnishing Goods, Clothing, Hats and Caps, Crockery and Glassware, Groceries and Provisions, etc. etc.

Bargains in Everything.

These goods were bought at a great sacrifice, many of them have been placed in stock during the past three months and are fresh, desirable goods but must be moved to make room for spring stock.

Going out of Clothing. Over 150 men's and boy's suits in medium and light weight goods, well made and excellent styles, offered at an immense discount to close. $20 suits at $14, $18 suits at $13, $10 suits at $6 and all others goods equally low. Remember that most of these goods are of the latest styles and best make. Step in and compare the goods and prices.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Timothy and Clover Seed, Feed, &c., on hand. Sole Agents for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

NEW STORE AND NEW GOODS

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin and Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

Burgess.

Miss Nellie Burnett commenced a term of school at the Fair Grove school house last Monday.

Mr. Flickenger, who has been in Indiana the past winter returned to his farm in Hayes, where he intends to stay this summer.

O. F. Booth loaded the schooner Fremont with wood at his dock last Thursday.

Aleck. Ross has a brother visiting him from Scotland.

Loren Hamlin's logging bee and house warming was highly enjoyed by all who attended.

J. A. Bacon has been suffering with bleeding at the lungs and is now confined to his bed.

Thomas Murry has the contract for hauling O. F. Booth's wood at Kaga chewing.

We are having a rather wet May up here in Hayes.

Ironton.

George Jones, head clerk in the Pine Lake Iron Co.'s store, went to Muscelona last Saturday to meet his father, who is coming here from Virginia on a visit.

The John Otis arrived Sunday with a cargo of ore.

Preaching at the school house last Sunday morning by Rev. Mr. Blake, and in the afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. C. F. VanAnken, of Charlevoix.

The Lawrence loaded with pig iron at this place on Friday.

Our school opened on Monday last with fair prospects for the summer.

The furnace went into blast on Monday morning. While it has been shut down, they have got a lot of wood in the yard.

There must be a large amount of shipping from South Arm, by the number of vessels that pass Ironton this spring.

DIED.

STOVER. At family residence near Charlevoix, on Friday, May 9th, Lydia, daughter of A. and L. Stover, aged 11 years.

Funeral at M. E. church on Sunday, May 11th. Rev. J. T. Iddings officiating.

Buy note paper and envelopes with name of Charlevoix, at H. B. Ward & Co.'s drug store.

THE OLDEST FRIEND.

BY LUCIUS CHANDLER MOULTON.

Oh, Life, my fate! 'tis many a year since we Took hands together, and came through the morn
When thou and I Day and I were newly born—
And fair the future looked, and glad and free,
A year as long as whole eternity.
And half of tears with no stinging thorn,
And half of joys that could not be outworn;
And time was measureless for thee and me.

Long have we fared together, thou and I;
Thou hast grown clearer, as old friends must grow;
Small wonder if I dread to say good-by
When parting meets us ever, and I lie
To cover strange, new worlds beyond the sky
With Death, thy rival, to whom none saith
"No."

—Harper's Magazine.

PRECIOUS POLL.

BY ALMA E. M'KEE.

CHAPTER I.

"There, just so; a little more to the right, perhaps. It does seem as though that window affords me more satisfaction, as regards light and sun, than either of the others. Do sit down now, Mehitable; it makes me nervous to see you on your feet so much."

"Oh, auntie," in a soft, sweet voice, "don't worry about me. I am doing nicely, I assure you. But I'm afraid you are not nearly so well to-day, are you? You look paler than usual."

"No, niece, I am not quite as well to-day as yesterday for, do you know, I worry so much about your future. Here we are eating up our small income, inch by inch, and when that is gone we must of necessity starve. That servant is not worth her salt. I don't shall be obliged to discharge her; and Marion is so thoughtless. What need has she—a poor girl—wasting her money and time in such foolishness as drawing and painting and nonsense?" And Aunt Cynthia Crowell looked the picture of vexation.

"Oh, auntie, I trust we are not quite so destitute as that. Why, that gold pin of mine would sell for something, I dare say, if I should come to that exigency; and, besides, there is a man around paying quite a price for all species of birds for his museum, and I thought that that old parrot of yours, auntie—"

"Mehitable Ryder! Do you dare to intimate such a cruel, utterly monstrous, proposal as that to me? My darling Poll, that I have had since my baby-hood! That I have taught to talk and wink and blink at me, and who shows more real affection for me, unanimously, than either of my nieces? No! I shall keep her until she dies, and then have her stuffed. I fear it will not be until that event, for she also seems to be dropping of late. Don't you notice it, Mehitable?"

A somewhat lough, followed by a forced cough from behind the heavy folds of damask, screening one of the windows, drove the similar inclination from the lips of Hettie, as it sounded to do next to when proceeding from those of Aunt Cynthia, forcing the smile from her lips, she said, abruptly:

"Aunt Cynthia, this is a lovely day. May we not (that is, Marion and I) give you a turn or two under the laurels, in your invalid chair? Please say yes, auntie."

"Well, niece, I suppose I may as well submit at once, or stand the chance of being teased out of my senses. But make sure that you bring me my good Marion! Marion! where are you? Put away those foldercoats, and come immediately to assist your cousin; you do was was lazy. I shall leave my precious Poll to Mehitable; see! I don't," she muttered under her breath.

Marion appeared in an incredibly short space of time, judging that she was not visible near before her aunt's call, and at once took up her station by the side of Hettie.

"Are you easy, Aunt Cynthia?" kindly inquired Hettie, as she was being propelled on the thick green grass.

"Well, I shouldn't wonder," answered that eccentric individual, leaning back comfortably in her well-cushioned chair. "But, I say, who is that insolent-looking young man staring in here? I wonder if he ever saw before, or is it you he's conferring so much honor on, Marion? I have half a mind to ask him, the impudent fellow."

"Oh, aunt, please, please, do not; indeed, he is not impudent," exclaimed poor Hettie, coloring to the roots of her bright golden curls, while mortification looked from her pretty blue eyes. "He is admiring our flower-beds; don't you see that he is moving away now?"

"Yes, and it's high time he did, too; after making such big eyes at you, and scamping and lowing like a conceited monkey that he is. Why didn't you cut him, Mehitable? What is he to you?"

"What is he to me, aunt? I love him, and have promised never to be his if he dares to marry Hettie," exclaimed Hettie, her face now pale with apprehension.

"Indeed!" mournfully. "Well, niece, I'm sure you have taken the reins into your own hands entirely, you and Hettie, since you've provided yourself with a—a—a lover, or beau, but ignored my advice, therefore. Now let me tell you, Mehitable, you are out of favor with me, and with my consent you'll never marry that brazen dog! Do you hear me? and the old lady rapped smartly on the arm of her chair, to emphasize what she said.

"Yes, perfectly. And I shall not marry Lyle Carrington without your precious poll-parrot, either, I promise you. You may keep Hettie's and she and Lyle may belong to each other, forcing the smile from her lips, she said, abruptly:

"Aunt Cynthia, this is a lovely day. May we not (that is, Marion and I) give you a turn or two under the laurels, in your invalid chair? Please say yes, auntie."

"Well, niece, I suppose I may as well submit at once, or stand the chance of being teased out of my senses. But make sure that you bring me my good Marion! Marion! where are you? Put away those foldercoats, and come immediately to assist your cousin; you do was was lazy. I shall leave my precious Poll to Mehitable; see! I don't," she muttered under her breath.

Marion appeared in an incredibly short space of time, judging that she was not visible near before her aunt's call, and at once took up her station by the side of Hettie.

"Are you easy, Aunt Cynthia?" kindly inquired Hettie, as she was being propelled on the thick green grass.

"Well, I shouldn't wonder," answered that eccentric individual, leaning back comfortably in her well-cushioned chair. "But, I say, who is that insolent-looking young man staring in here? I wonder if he ever saw before, or is it you he's conferring so much honor on, Marion? I have half a mind to ask him, the impudent fellow."

"Oh, aunt, please, please, do not; indeed, he is not impudent," exclaimed poor Hettie, coloring to the roots of her bright golden curls, while mortification looked from her pretty blue eyes. "He is admiring our flower-beds; don't you see that he is moving away now?"

"Yes, and it's high time he did, too; after making such big eyes at you, and scamping and lowing like a conceited monkey that he is. Why didn't you cut him, Mehitable? What is he to you?"

"What is he to me, aunt? I love him, and have promised never to be his if he dares to marry Hettie," exclaimed Hettie, her face now pale with apprehension.

"Indeed!" mournfully. "Well, niece, I'm sure you have taken the reins into your own hands entirely, you and Hettie, since you've provided yourself with a—a—a lover, or beau, but ignored my advice, therefore. Now let me tell you, Mehitable, you are out of favor with me, and with my consent you'll never marry that brazen dog! Do you hear me?"

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 15, 1884.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE: Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m.	2 00 p. m
Arrive East Jordan	8 30 a. m.	4 00 p. m
Leave East Jordan	9 00 a. m.	4 30 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix	11 00 a. m.	6 30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo B. Thompson

Leave Charlevoix	6 30 a. m.	2 00 p. m
Arrive Boyne	8 30 a. m.	4 00 p. m
Leave Boyne	9 30 a. m.	4 30 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix	12 00 a. m.	6 30 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett

East Jordan, lv	7 00am	Harbor Springs	1 30pm
Charlevoix	9 00am	Petoskey	2 00pm
Petoskey	11 00am	Charlevoix	4 30pm
Harbor Springs	11 30am	East Jordan, ar	6 30pm

Local News Brevities.

Chas. Kelly has a new one-horse platform dray.

Rev. G. Daniels, of Cadillac, was in town last Friday.

Boyne has a branch express office, with P. A. Badeau as agent.

Messrs. Gilbart & Moulton, painters, of East Jordan, made the JOURNAL a call last Thursday afternoon.

The Cushman House, Petoskey, has been put in thorough trim for the summer and fall tourists.

Elk Rapids library has 450 volumes and Elk Rapids youth, of high school fame, have organized a class in Latin.

The Knights of Labor of Grand Rapids will boycott all dealers who sell Stratton & Storm's make of cigars

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Eight Cheboygan saloonists have failed to renew their licenses and have closed their doors. Citizens are not tearing their hair out of grief for the loss.

The supply of maple sugar in northern Michigan is said to be largely in excess of the demand, the present being the best sugar season for a number of years.

Mr. Chas. Banbury, veterinary surgeon, has a card in our business directory. Those in need of his services will find him by inquiring at the Bridge street house.

The Oakwood manufacturing company of Traverse City commenced work April 28. The company manufactures turned stock and chairs and employs about 80 men.

Merritt Smith, of East Jordan, who failed to get a saloon license, will establish a first-class barber shop and temperance billiard hall, in the room formerly occupied as a saloon.

The Frankfort Express says Crystal lake, Benzie county, one of the most beautiful sheets of water in Michigan, will hereafter be known as the congregational summer resort.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Mr. Chas. Banbury bought in Milwaukee a platform spring wagon, which arrived on the Lawrence last Thursday. It is well adapted to moving furniture, and goods requiring careful usage.

O. T. Booth, of Hayes has rebuilt his dock carried away by the storm two weeks ago, and has since loaded a vessel there. With two teams he put 80 cords of wood over the rail in seven hours.

A. D. Cruickshank went to Shiawassee county last Thursday, to look for evidence in the Burgess murder case, he having been employed by the prosecuting attorney to assist in the prosecution of the case.

The third story of the U. S. hotel, Boyne, which has formerly been used for a public hall, is being partioned off into bed rooms. That popular hotel is having such an immense patronage as to render this necessary.

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous one. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side, constipation, excessive flow of urine, unsettled mind, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness for this remedy cures Diabetes, Bright's disease, & all will prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

G. W. Childs and family have taken up their residence at Petoskey, and we assure the citizens of that town that they are fortunate in securing such a fine family to locate among them. They leave many warm friends in Boyne who regret that they have left our town.—Statesman.

Drive dull care away. Be cheerful, be pleasant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parmelee's Blood Purifier, It acts upon the liver and kidneys, It regulates the bowels and purifies the blood, It acts upon the digestion, It carries off the old blood and makes new, and is acquiring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all skin diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Mr. A. Marks, who is to have charge of the state fish hatchery at this place, has arrived with his family. We understand he will soon begin to propagate wall-eyed pike to place in the inland lakes in this vicinity. He brought with him 3,000,000 white fish fry to place in the bay.—Petoskey Democrat.

The C. & W. M. railroad, it is said, has commenced relaying iron on their old track from Holland to Muskegon and Fruitport, incited thereto by the commencement of suits against the corporation by John Spoon, for non fulfilment of its charter, which compels the company to run trains over this route. When completed two daily trains will run over this route to Muskegon.

Coal at the depth of six feet below the surface was discovered at Houghton Lake on Thursday and samples were brought to Roscommon on Friday. With coal and diamonds at Rifle river, oil at Roscommon and Wolverine, and coal at Houghton lake, who dare say that a prosperous future is not in store for northern Michigan? —Bay City Tribune.

The hunt after James Walker, missing on Boise Blanc island, is thus far unavailing. A searching party was organized at Cheboygan but returned unsuccessful. It is now boldly said he must have been murdered and his body sunk. He had a gold watch and chain and $300 in cash on his person, and the most diligent search cannot find trace of him or of his property.

The river and harbor bill asks for an appropriation of $10,000 for Charlevoix. Perhaps there is no more important harbor for which there is an appropriation asked than the one mentioned above, as the shipment of raw material and manufactured goods from one hundred miles of lake frontage depends entirely upon Charlevoix harbor being kept in a good, navigable condition. Statesman.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Nutte, accompanied by Cornelius Willis, of Charlevoix, went to the "Snows" last week and seized the sow Chas. Kimball. It seems that the parties sailing her gave a chattel mortgage to secure $200 bill for repairs, and just before the time was up they sailed for the "Snows." They returned in the fall bringing the rigging of the boat, and saying she had been wrecked. They again left on this pretext and were found sailing the boat, which was all right, apparently.—Cheboygan Democrat.

Some miscreant shot at Dr. DeWitt the other evening. The old gentleman was sitting alone in his residence on Water street with the window curtains up when he heard the report of a fire-arm. He immediately extinguished his light and went out to see if he could ascertain the cause, and who the perpetrators were, but as it was very dark they had disappeared and he could learn nothing. The ball passed through the window and must have gone but a few inches from the doctor's head. This matter should be investigated and the perpetrators punished. Statesman.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

First actress—"I see you have managed to attract attention by having your diamonds stolen again." Second actress—"Oh, you think it was only an advertising dodge, do you? Well, I would have you know it was nothing of the kind." First actress—"If I were going to try that game I should invent something new. Having diamonds stolen is rather ancient." Second actress—"Invent something new? Well, you might start a report that a burglar had got into your room and run off with your new wig and false teeth."

Mr. Samuel Mackey, of New South Wales, has a farm of 5,000 acres across

AT THE CHARLEVOIX SUMMER RESORT.

Note paper printed with this design may be ordered of O. B. Weed & Co. The engraving is by Mr. F. S. Blanchard, who has other designs in progress.

A Doctor's Tribulations.

The individual who imagines that he is going to give satisfaction to the general public in anything he may undertake, is certainly the victim of a delusion. It is impossible to please everybody. The man, be his station in life what it may, who comes up to the expectation of the multitude, has not yet been born. The editor in particular soon makes this discovery. The clergyman, also, knows that there are people in his congregation who are never satisfied with what he does, or leaves undone. The doctor is another professional man who has a hard row to hoe.

If a doctor dresses well and wears a high hat, people say that he is a medical dude. If, on the other hand, he pays little or no attention to his toilet, he never comes unless he is called, the inference is that the only use he has for his patients is to make money out of them when they are sick. If the doctor attends church, of course he is a hypocrite, who is trying to work on the religious feelings of the community. If he does not attend church, nothing can be plainer than that he is an infidel, or a socialist. If the doctor's wife does not ride out and the other ladies make on her, then she is put it on airs, turning up her nose at her betters, etc. If she does ride out the calls, then she is pinching patients for her husband to shoot at.

If the doctor's horse is fat, that is a sure sign that he has not got much to do. If the animal is emaciated, he is a brute for not taking better care of his horse. If he drives fast, he is trying to create the false impression that he has been called in the hobnob of some important patient. If he drives slowly he does not care a cent whether or not his patients die before he gets to them. If the patient recovers his health, he is indebted to a kind Providence, or a remedy for sale by every druggist. If the patient dies, he was maledictedly murdered by his physicians. If the medical man is sociable and talkative, the people say we do not want a doctor who tells everything he knows. Is he is a silent man then they say a doctor should encourage his patients to be communicative. If he talks politics they say a doctor should have no politics; and if he does not talk politics, then he is a sneak and a time-server, who either has no opinions, or is afraid to own up as to what his politics really are. If the doctor does not run his horse to death when he is called, he is not taking sufficient interest in the case. If he does not send in his bill, his object is to prevent the patient from engaging another doctor. If he does send in his bill, he is in a hurry for his money, and so on to the end of the chapter—Texas Siftings.

Looking for a New Location.

During the height of the freshet in the Ohio River a relief steamer approached Portsmouth discovered a family on the floating down on the roof of their house.

The steamer steered in until the captain could ascertain that he would lower a boat, but the head of the family replied:

"You needn't go to any trouble about it.

"Don't you want to be taken off?"

"Wall, we don't feel oneasy."

"You'd better come aboard."

"No, I guess not. We've got plenty to eat and drink, and the old woman and children are getting used to the slant o' the roof."

"But can't I do anything for you?"

"Yowe, p'raps you might. It looks as if we war' bound to land on the Kentucky shore within the next ten miles, and if you know anything of the pre-emption laws of that state you might drop us a line as to the best site for a hoss?"

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1871.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year old mare with colt, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, cwell broke, and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine Lake. 36tf J. A. BACOT.

Three Horses and a Pair of Mules for sale.

For Price and Terms inquire of Upright, Emrey & Co.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 111 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Well cleared. A good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 15 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 50 fruit trees beginning to bear, one half mile from school and saw mill. Terms: three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, 10x20 in.; Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in. diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms to suit. Enquire of

S. M. SEE,

City of Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine Shop. 34tf

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.

Two Barrels Fresh Butter.

Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.

Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to repairing. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be kept on hand all the old customers, and as many more as possible. call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated RUCKFORD WATCH, the best timepiece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER.

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5
Cincinnati, lv		7 40am	7 00pm
Richmond	2 37pm	10 32	2 52
Winchester	3 53	11 37	11 0
Ridgeville	4 11	11 55	11 23
Fort Wayne, ar	6 42	2 25pm	1 55am
Fort Wayne, lv		2 35	2 30
Kendallville		3 55	3 52
Ligonier		4 15	4 12
Wolcottville		4 31	4 27
Kalamazoo, ar		5 40	5 37
Grd Rapids, lv		9 02	8 55
Grd Rapids, lv	7 15am		8 55
Dec H & M R'way	7 50		10 05
Howard City	8 47		1 0
Big Rapids	9 13		12 00
Reed City	10 17		1 2
Cadillac, ar	11 25		2 21
Cadillac, lv			2 30
Traverse City, ar			4 55
Kalkaska, lv			3 11
Manceloua			4 0
Boyne Falls			4 17
Petoskey, ar			5 0
Harbor Springs			4 40
Mackinaw City			8 0
St. Ignace			8 40
Marquette			8 0

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Negaunee, lv			5 20pm
Marquette			6 0
Negaunee			6 40
Mackinaw City			1 0am
Harbor Springs			5 0
Petoskey			5 30
Traverse City, lv			11 30
Cadillac, ar		3 30pm	11 0
Cadillac, lv		3 40	11 30
Howard City		5 12	1 12pm
Big Rapids		5 47	1 50
Reed City		6 12	2 15
Wheelerville		6 45	2 50
Richmond, ar		8 27	4 37
Richmond, lv			4 47
Cincinnati, ar			9 0pm

Grand Rapids

G. W. JEFFERIES

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Me

Fresh and Salt Fish.

AND VEGETABLES

Fat Stock and Farm Pro Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevo

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT. The for the County of Charlevoix, I Jackson versus William H. Cook given that on the eighteenth day March, A. D. 1884, a writ of attachment issued out of the circuit court for Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan in favor of Frederick B. Jackson, the plaintiff, against the land, tenements, goods, chattels, moneys, credits and effects of the defendant above named, for the sum of two hundred and ninety dollars, and that said writ is returnable on the first Monday in July, A. D. 1884.

Dated April 23, 1884.

CRUICKSHANK & GOSS, Attorneys for Plaintiff.

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD $100

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are a sufferer from this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and accept no imitation or substitute. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix.

The JOURNAL and FREE PRESS one y for Two Dollars Cash Advance.

HE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

BER 45. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1884.—TEN PAGES. $1.50 PER YEAR.

E JOURNAL

lished every Thursday morning,

HAS. J. STRANG.

ter T. B. Smith's grocery,

EVOIX. MICHIGAN.

AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, SECOND-CLASS MATTER

NESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

RAY & CHEEK, Attorneys at Law. Whiting Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. A. CHEEK. E. RAYMOND.

ELL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loans. Lake st., east of Justice's office, Mich.

LDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Mich.

RAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Office business promptly attended to. PETOSKEY.

ONES, Attorney and Counselor at Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

EWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Court Commissioner. Office in brick basement Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich

ARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix.

EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix.

REAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Office opposite T. S. Hotel, Boyne

BINER, Attorney and Solicitor, Circuit Court Commissioner.

TT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

KS AND BANKERS.

F CHARLEVOIX. Capital $50,000. Transacts all leased rates. Buys and mortgages bought and sold. Sight on all cities in Europe and United Passage and railroad tickets sold to and from Europe. Collections promptly made. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

NGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., in Rose. Sunday school at close of service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 in the school house. C. F. VANALSTEN, pastor.

PISCOPAL CHURCH. Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. HODGES, pastor.

RE DEPARTMENT.

ANY HOOK AND READY FIRE CO. meet the first and third Thursday of each month at the town hall. R. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

OPATHIC PHARMACY.

ER, Homœopathic Medicines, Books, Fine Cigars, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

RUMENTAL MUSIC.

SMITH, Doctor of Musical Composition, Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times at Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class and Carriages kept. Good Saddle

PHYSICIANS.

ESTES, M. D.

Office at the Ingleside,

N. H. Physician and Surgeon, Office, the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

ON, M. D.

Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix,

ESON, M. D. Surgeon and Homœopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

AL ESTATE AGENTS.

V. HARSTIA Notary Public, Real Estate and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

Eagle Post No. 119, meets second and fourth Friday evenings, at Odd Fellows' hall.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets Friday evenings, at Odd Fellows' hall.

Lemuel Lake Lodge No. 266 meets Wednesday evening, in their hall.

Pine Lake No. 97, meets Saturday evening in Odd Fellows' hall.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets at our office hall room. Hall over

TERINARY SURGEON.

DANIEL A. V. S. Office at Bridge House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

DUBOIS, Charlevoix, Mich., will attempt to drill wells in the line of well digging, boring, pump repairing, well driving, sounding and similar work. 45

A. E. UPHOFF,

Vice President.

anus' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

ansacting business. Money loaned on approved paper at reasonable rates. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.

C. W. THOMAS, Cashier.

CONSUMPTIVES.

ertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

WE MAKE IT A POINT TO SELL ONLY

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

OUR PRICES WILL ALWAYS BE AS LOW AS

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

CAN BE SOLD.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars. Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON. Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

Bridge Street House,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists

Fountain City House,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a "stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOTES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

United States Hotel,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD $100

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are a sufferer from this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and accept no imitation or substitute. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co.'s drug store.

J. W. SADLER,

CAPT. OF THE STEAMER FLORIDA.

Another Atlantic steamship has gone down in mid ocean and over one hundred and thirty persons have sacrificed their lives for the probable carelessness of the officer in immediate charge of the ill-fated vessel at the time of her collision with a sailing bark. Ocean horrors of this character naturally create the inquiry, "Who was to blame?" The world as naturally infers, where there appears to have been carelessness on the part of the officers and crew, that the captain of a ship as the responsible head, should bear the criticism and censure of a horror-stricken public.

The information thus far gleaned from the rescued of the Florida indicates that captain Sadler had retired to his state-room for rest, leaving the vessel in command of the first officer to whose negligence if the disaster could have been avoided at all, must be attributed the terrible loss of life that followed close upon the crush of the two vessels. That this officer was one of the rescued, while captain Sadler perished with all the passengers but one, is an apparent inference that the latter was not at the moment more prepared or capable of saving his own life than were those who suffered his own fate.

Captain J. W. Sadler's birth place was Yarmouth, England. He was a little over forty-eight years of age. After receiving a good education he became a sailor, and was rapidly promoted until he became the commander of a vessel. His record as a navigator began with the captaincy of a ship sailing between Glasgow and Nova Scotia. Later he commanded a large ship between London and the East Indies. He then became connected with the "State Line" company as captain of the State of Virginia and the State of Indiana successively. Last December the company assigned him to the State of Florida after its being overhauled at his suggestion. When lost the State of Florida was on its return voyage, from New York to Glasgow, the first time under his command. He had been married three times but died childless. His first wife was killed by an accidental fall from a horse. His second died of consumption. The third Mrs. Sadler survives her husband, and was at the time of his loss, in Glasgow preparing a new home which she had just bought, for their future residence. Thus endeth a calamity that reveals in all its terror the perils of a life on the ocean and the uncertainty of a voyage across the billowy deep.

Petroleum at Baku.

For years past it has been, not Yankee boasting, but a simple statement of fact, to say that America supplied the world with petroleum. The output from our "Oil Region" has been so enormous and so vastly greater than that of all other countries combined, that we have been able to rule the market completely.

While petroleum is known to exist very widely, there are but two prominent localities on the Eastern Continent. One of these is on the Irrawaddy, and from that well up through Assam; the other on the western shore of the Caspian, around Baku. Both of these have been long known, and the indications have been that their production might be rendered very great; but they remained comparatively undeveloped, the eastern region sending to market only about 50,000 barrels annually, while Baku turned out 500,000.

A great and most remarkable change, however, has taken place within the last few months, and it is worth our while to look at it and study as well as we may briefly the probable and possible results.

Baku has since the close of last summer suddenly sprung into a degree of vitality and a measure of prosperity and importance of which no one had previously any reason to dream, and all because its subterranean wealth is pouring forth its treasures in a most unwonted fashion. We in this country have been familiar with "spouting wells" of petroleum, but there such a thing had never been known. Something over five months ago several "rich strikes," as our people term them, began to attract attention, and new wells were bored in numbers, and yielded astonishingly. At length one of the augers entered a cavity which was really worthy of Oil Creek in its best estate. It was a "spouter," sure enough, and threw its oily jet high into the air with great violence. This was followed by another and another, some throwing their torrent of petroleum to the height of fifty feet or more. Of course, this fierce outpouring, as all such cases, diminished within a few days, as the extreme tension from beneath was relieved, but the wells continued to yield at a rate new for the entire region. Additional wells were bored in great numbers, and the work is still going on and increasing, and the end is not yet by any manner of means.

The natural results of this have followed. Baku has grown like one of our own Oil Region towns, and being unlike our own localities, situated directly on a great inland sea, a mercantile navy has begun even within this brief space to grow into existence. It is not to be supposed that men as astute as those ruling the great Russian nation fail to see the immense futures to which this may lead, and the Government is taking active and energetic measures to make the most of the new state of things. Means of transportation are provided rapidly to every part of the Caspian and its affluents, notably the Volga. A pipe line is already planned to run the petroleum across to the Black Sea, a stretch of about five hundred miles. Once there, of course it has access to all of eastern Europe, and in fact to the markets of the world.

The Government officers are prosecuting most industriously and untiringly their efforts to make the burning of crude petroleum a practical matter for the generation of steam. They have accomplished much, and they will very possibly work out the problem.

All this is not of so much consequence from what has already been done, as from the probable future to which it looks. No one can say that there is any reason, from the nature of the formation geologically, why the country about Baku should not pour out fully as great floods of oil as our own regions of northwestern Pennsylvania and its surroundings; why it should not add a cipher to its precious 500,000 barrels and double or treble it. If so, American petroleum will no longer have the free swing it has hitherto enjoyed.

But in relation to this one very important element must not be overlooked. Russian petroleum is a very different article from the American. They both certainly belong to the same series of hydrocarons, yielding the same class of products by fractional distillation; but they yield them in very different proportions. The value of our Pennsylvania petroleum is greatly enhanced from the fact that so large a proportion of kerosene can be obtained from it, the kerosene being that part of the product of distillation which comes from the retort after the gravity has reached 65 degrees B., and from that until about 38 degrees; and this in our oil is very near double, and sometimes fully so, that which can be obtained from Baku petroleum. Here we have a great advantage, and it must always remain; and inasmuch as such a great amount of petroleum is demanded solely for the purposes of illumination, this point is of prime importance. It is worth mentioning here, that we have a striking dissimilarity in our petroleums, that of California 'differing more in its proportions from Pennsylvania oil than does that of Baku.

One feature more is worth noting, but it is in a totally different line—it is the part which this onburst at Baku may possibly have on the political history of Europe. The English papers are already indulging alarm. That crowd of oil vessels on the Caspian could very easily and without warning transport Russian forces to the southeast waters of the Caspian, their progress toward the frontier of Afghanistan need not be known, and they might be within a few days' march of Herat before a suspicion of danger arose. All this may be of no moment, but it is certainly practicable; and who can tell when such a contingency may be turned to a certainty? At all events, it has been mentioned as a thing to be watched.

FOR SALE.

Eighty acres of land, with or without improvements. Also one seven-year old mare with colt, one good work horse, two Texas ponies four years old, cwell broke, and one five year old cow. The above stock is in good condition. Inquire of J. A. Bacot, on north shore of Pine Lake. 36tf J. A. BACOT.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 111 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Well cleared. A good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 15 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 50 fruit trees beginning to bear, one half mile from school and saw mill. Terms: three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of cylinder, 10x20 in.; Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in. diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms to suit. Enquire of

S. M. SEE,

City of Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine shop. 34tf

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.

Two Barrels Fresh Butter.

Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.

Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

Sewing Machines CHEAP.

A few fine sewing machines for sale at ten dollars each. Call soon and have your pick.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED

D. S. WAY.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to repairing. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be kept on hand all the old customers, and as many more as possible. call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated RUCKFORD WATCH, the best timepiece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

$66 a week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 4ly

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous one. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side, constipation, excessive flow of urine, unsettled mind, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness for this remedy cures Diabetes, Bright's disease, & all will prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE Supreme Court of New Jersey has affirmed the judgment of a lower court awarding damages of $1,500 to a wife whose husband was killed in an accident on the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad. The point of interest in this decision is the settlement of the question whether the use of a free pass prevents collection of damages. The defendant proved that deceased was riding on a pass, the conditions of which prevented recovery of damages. The defense was held not good.

THE late "Tom" Appleton, who died in Boston not long ago, was a famous local wit and made an immortal name for himself by two sayings. One was quoted by Holmes in the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," "Good Americans when they die go to Paris"; the other was uttered when the east wind was howling at one of the corners of the Boston Commons. "I wish some one would put a shorn lamb on that corner." Like a good many bright sayings, they will probably be handed about long after the name of the author has been forgotten.

THE Rugby School Company, limited, of Rugby, Tenn., is about to engage in an important educational venture. This is the establishment of a school for boys at Rugby, Tenn., in connection with the University of the South at Sewanee, for the Southern and Central States of the Union. It is intended that the schools will offer an opportunity to Americans, and to the numerous English families who are settling in these States, of obtaining for their sons an education such as is offered by the public schools of England.

A SWEDISH tourist is reported to have arrived at Warsaw in fulfilment of a wager made with two Englishmen, the conditions of which are that during this year, from the 1st of last January, he shall visit all the cities of Europe which are, or have been at one time, capitals, and numbering, according to his reckoning, 105. He has visited all the capitals of Germany (twenty-six), and from Warsaw he will go on to St. Petersburg, and thence to Moscow, Vilna, and Berlin. If he succeeds he is to receive £5,000 and his traveling expenses. But it is stated that, although he has as yet visited only one-fourth of the whole number of cities he has undertaken to visit, he complains of extreme fatigue.

IT has sometimes been brought against Bismarck that he does not believe in "resting on Sunday," and that he is rarely seen at church. This, Dr. Busch, his biographer, says, is partly due to the great amount of work that presses upon him. "There is no money a most in my life that the world can rarely be considered," Bismarck writes to his sister, and to the author he remarks that the day ought to be six or seven hours longer for him. Another reason for not going to church he gives in a letter to a critical friend, but not in regard to going to church, it is incorrect to say that I never enter a church. I willingly admit that I might go more frequently, but it is not so much from want of time as for consideration of my health that I do not go, especially in the winter. To those who feel themselves called to be my judges in this respect I will with pleasure give further information about the subject."

THE census returns of St. Petersburg, which have recently been published, give a curious picture of the population of the Russian capital. The number of inhabitants, including the suburbs, is 928,016, of whom only 253,-617 are born at St. Petersburg. The fluctuating population consists chiefly of peasants, the greater part of whom are from the province of Tver. The different classes are represented as follows: 41 per cent. peasants, 20 per cent. middle-class citizens, 13 per cent. subalterns, 12 per cent. nobles, 3 per cent. priests, 3 per cent. foreigners, 2 per cent. Finns, 2 per cent. merchants and 1 per cent. honorary citizens. The difference in the number of the two sexes has gradually decreased since 1869, when to every 100 males there were 130 female inhabitants, whereas there are only 121 of the latter at present. The number of illiterate persons of both sexes is the same as in 1869. There are 22,999 children who receive no instruction in schools, although their parents are alive. As compared with the returns of 1869, the number of divorces has largely increased. With regard to the age of the inhabitants of St. Petersburg it appears that on the average they die before they have reached their 26th year, which is eighteen to twenty years less than the average in England.

CHICAGO people, says a local paper, have almost forgotten the commotion caused some years ago by an evangelist of the Moody type who suddenly abandoned the orthodox theories of heaven of gold and sapphire and began to preach Christ's reign upon earth. This man, Mr. G. Spafford, who lived at Lake View, and who had been a lawyer of some standing, gathered about him a congregation of theorists amounting to perhaps forty or fifty, who subscribed to his strange belief. In accordance with their theory, Christ was to appear for his final residence on earth in Jerusalem, in order to be there on hand Mr. Spafford and his little band converted all their property into cash and sailed for the Promised Land. A traveler who recently visited Jerusalem in the interest of one of the missionary societies of the East states that she visited the house in which the Lake View community lived, and that she found them in good health and spirits, still firm in belief, and waiting with hope and resignation for the judgment day. This young woman, sent out from Boston, returned to that city a few weeks ago, and has written letters to friends in Chicago describing the way in which she was received, having been sick for several weeks at the house in which these people lived. Their dwelling is described as large and commodious—a neatly, but not elegantly, furnished house—and fitted out with all the conveniences which the best civilization of the country can furnish. She says that about twenty persons are living under the same roof, and that all property is held in common. The house itself is perched upon the side of the mountain just without the walls of the Holy City and presents a most strikingly picturesque appearance. Mr. Spafford, the leader of the community, is nearly 60 years of age, but is still hale, hearty, and happy.

THE Chicago Current thinks it is time to stop the opening of our purses, our homes, and our hearts to distinguished English tramps who come over here to rob us. It says: Among the more noted Englishmen who have lately visited us are Matthew Arnold, Sir Lepel Griffin, and Oscar Wilde. They are in great social favor at home, and may be taken as representative of English society, brains, and manners. Of this proposition there can be no dispute. Therefore, taking it for granted, we are justified in saying that the representative "upper class" Englishman of to-day is a pig-headed boor, an ungrateful, snarling cur, and a jealous, pompous ass. Therefore so many are a most in my life that the world can rarely be considered," Bismarck writes to his sister, and to the author he remarks that the day ought to be six or seven hours longer for him. Another reason for not going to church he gives in a letter to a critical friend, but not in regard to going to church, it is incorrect to say that I never enter a church. I willingly admit that I might go more frequently, but it is not so much from want of time as for consideration of my health that I do not go, especially in the winter. To those who feel themselves called to be my judges in this respect I will with pleasure give further information about the subject."

THE census returns of St. Petersburg, which have recently been published, give a curious picture of the population of the Russian capital. The number of inhabitants, including the suburbs, is 928,016, of whom only 253,-617 are born at St. Petersburg. The fluctuating population consists chiefly of peasants, the greater part of whom are from the province of Tver. The different classes are represented as follows: 41 per cent. peasants, 20 per cent. middle-class citizens, 13 per cent. subalterns, 12 per cent. nobles, 3 per cent. priests, 3 per cent. foreigners, 2 per cent. Finns, 2 per cent. merchants and 1 per cent. honorary citizens. The difference in the number of the two sexes has gradually decreased since 1869, when to every 100 males there were 130 female inhabitants, whereas there are only 121 of the latter at present. The number of illiterate persons of both sexes is the same as in 1869. There are 22,999 children who receive no instruction in schools,

Shakspeare Study.

Among the many solemn humbugs by which the world is fooled, there is not one more shallow than the pretense of some tragic actors to be considered what are called "students of Shakspeare." If this claim means anything, it presumes that the works of this poet are of such mystic and misty profundity that deep research and kindred inspiration are required to discover his hidden meaning, and those actors are ordained to expound this bible of the stage. Humbug! A tragedy is a great literary effort designed, not to be read or meditated upon, but to be represented before a mixed audience. Its language, therefore, should be clear and unmistakable as it flows from the mouths of the speakers; its action should be clear and perspicuous. If it is not so, then the poet is all at fault. He is not a prompter; his business is not to tell lies about what is to be; so he has no reason to be obscure. There are no two ways about him; he has no reason for misleading or for mystifying the people.

The so-called student of Shakspeare is a narrow-minded fellow who seeks to torture the palpable meaning of trivial passages into what are termed "new readings" for the purpose of rendering himself conspicuous at the expense of the poet, to whom he imputes obscurity, the very worst fault a dramatist can exhibit. If such fellows could arouse the sleeping spirit of the grand old man, would him like the ghost in "Hamlet" to revisit the glimpses of the moon, and then submit to him their new readings, what would be his reply.

"What on earth does it matter? Either interpretation will serve. I cannot remember which I intended. My drama were written under the spur of necessity to meet the crying needs of the theater of which I was one of the managers. They will be found to contain errors and blemishes. Let them be so, and do not encourage infatuated worshipers to turn defects into beauties. Nature is full of imperfections, and if it pleased the great author to leave this work as to eternity, why can perfection in every mi-serable little heap of dust? These trivial details you bring to my notice do not affect the purpose and shape of my plays; and as they concern neither the action nor the passion nor the characters, why make the world wait for nothing? I am neither honored nor flattered by the blind worship bestowed upon my works by some writers. If my existence had depended upon these text grubbers, I should have been shelved two centuries ago. Better a live actor than a dead Shakspeare, or buried with Beaumont and Fletcher. I owe my existence to the stage, to the actor. No dramatic poet has any existence in the closet. Out of my thirty-six plays, about a dozen survive. They owe their existence to the admiration of those who never read them. Each of the dozen will be found to afford a vein-pomous and debasing character for the great actor or actress. Whenever a well-written play affords such an opportunity, it will hold its life on the stage.

"The 'Two Gentlemen of Verona' and 'Love's Labor Lost' are read as a matter of duty by the students of Hamlet and 'Othello.' I owe my existence to such actors as Edmund Kean and Garrick, who joined to their genius the bravest lay passion, and embodied my characters. They changed my language and reshaped my words to fit their personalities, and they did it well. This is the way to study Shakspeare.

"The actor's power to represent a passion is a gift, not a deliberate artistic effort obtained by study. It is a faculty, to be developed and improved by practice. The poet gives to the gifted actor an opportunity to display his powers; one is the complement of the other in the grand result. The actor who is built on a poet—such is the so-called student—is merely a mouthpiece, but an artist, for he should obtain his inspiration as the poet gets his, out of his inner gifts. I, who say this, am both an actor and a poet, and I speak of what I know.

"Then—may I be forgiven for saying so—there are some young men to whose education has stopped short somewhere between writing and spelling, who are thrust up into conspicuous positions on the stage, and taking refuge behind their gooklooks, profess to be students of Shakspeare.

O, the humbug of it all! and how the dear world is fooled by it!—Dion Boucicault.

Japan Tea.

"Japan tea is not a favorite in these days," said a grocer. "Ten years ago a rage in its favor set in, and the Japanese tea was called for on all sides. But it fell out of public favor as rapidly as it came in. They had not enough of merit to keep it in. The first lots we got from Japan were choice in quality, and the growth was small and great attention was paid to its culture, with hopes for the future. But the demand increased in a few jumps, care was abandoned by the growers, and the only object sought was to fill the orders. Consequently the Japanese tea that found its way to the American market was a sorry lot. Ten lowers soon found it out, and the Chinese tea trade was taken and again found much better. Not only were the old and tough leaves of the tea plant picked in all times of the year, instead of the young green ones of the spring season, but wisteria leaves were mixed in with them. When the Japan tea first came here the dried leaves had a delicate olive tint and were long and wiry. Now they are fatter and range in color from black to yellow, the result of artificial colorings with various hues, gypsum, and soapstone.—Cleveland Herald.

FALLACIES OF PROTECTION.

Eloquent Plea of Hon. Frank Hurd in Favor of Revenue Reform.

In every respect the speech made by Hon. Frank Hurd, of the Toledo (Ohio) District, was the best on the tariff question since the present debate began in the House of Representatives. The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune (Rep.) says of it:

"Few speeches in the halls of Congress for many years have been received with such earnest attention and hearty and enthusiastic applause. The ground he traveled is well known, but he brought into use some new illustrations, and certain passages of his speech were marked with a lofty eloquence to which even his less sublime attainments after round of applause drowned his voice many times during the hour in which he enchained the attention of the House. The main points of his speech were that the Government has no right to tax one man for the benefit of another; that the tariff is such a tax; that the protective tariff has nearly destroyed our foreign commerce; is ruining the American carrying trade; is oppressing the agricultural interests; is depressing the wages of mechanics; is shutting up in the United States the surplus manufactures of our own industries, and is bringing the country into a condition where the farmer is to be pinned more positively than ever at the mercy of the manufacturer. 'Pass this bill,' said Mr. Hurd, 'or within a year the farmers of this country will rise in their might and destroy your whole protective system.' He was repaid his compliments to the Democrats who are opposed to the Morrison bill. He said that would him like the ghost in "Hamlet" to revisit the glimpses of the moon, and then submit to him their new readings, what would be his reply.

"What on earth does it matter? Either interpretation will serve. I cannot remember which I intended. My dramas were written under the spur of necessity to meet the crying needs of the theater of which I was one of the managers. They will be found to contain errors and blemishes. Let them be so, and do not encourage infatuated worshipers to turn defects into beauties. Nature is full of imperfections, and if it pleased the great author to leave this work as to eternity, why can perfection in every mi-serable little heap of dust? These trivial details you bring to my notice do not affect the purpose and shape of my plays; and as they concern neither the action nor the passion nor the characters, why make the world wait for nothing? I am neither honored nor flattered by the blind worship bestowed upon my works by some writers. If my existence had depended upon these text grubbers, I should have been shelved two centuries ago. Better a live actor than a dead Shakspeare, or buried with Beaumont and Fletcher. I owe my existence to the stage, to the actor. No dramatic poet has any existence in the closet. Out of my thirty-six plays, about a dozen survive. They owe their existence to the admiration of those who never read them. Each of the dozen will be found to afford a vein-pomous and debasing character for the great actor or actress. Whenever a well-written play affords such an opportunity, it will hold its life on the stage.

"The 'Two Gentlemen of Verona' and 'Love's Labor Lost' are read as a matter of duty by the students of Hamlet and 'Othello.' I owe my existence to such actors as Edmund Kean and Garrick, who joined to their genius the bravest lay passion, and embodied my characters. They changed my language and reshaped my words to fit their personalities, and they did it well. This is the way to study Shakspeare.

"The actor's power to represent a passion is a gift, not a deliberate artistic effort obtained by study. It is a faculty, to be developed and improved by practice. The poet gives to the gifted actor an opportunity to display his powers; one is the complement of the other in the grand result. The actor who is built on a poet—such is the so-called student—is merely a mouthpiece, but an artist, for he should obtain his inspiration as the poet gets his, out of his inner gifts. I, who say this, am both an actor and a poet, and I speak of what I know.

"Then—may I be forgiven for saying so—there are some young men to whose education has stopped short somewhere between writing and spelling, who are thrust up into conspicuous positions on the stage, and taking refuge behind their gooklooks, profess to be students of Shakspeare.

O, the humbug of it all! and how the dear world is fooled by it!—Dion Boucicault.

Japan Tea.

"Japan tea is not a favorite in these days," said a grocer. "Ten years ago a rage in its favor set in, and the Japanese tea was called for on all sides. But it fell out of public favor as rapidly as it came in. They had not enough of merit to keep it in. The first lots we got from Japan were choice in quality, and the growth was small and great attention was paid to its culture, with hopes for the future. But the demand increased in a few jumps, care was abandoned by the growers, and the only object sought was to fill the orders. Consequently the Japanese tea that found its way to the American market was a sorry lot. Ten lowers soon found it out, and the Chinese tea trade was taken and again found much better. Not only were the old and tough leaves of the tea plant picked in all times of the year, instead of the young green ones of the spring season, but wisteria leaves were mixed in with them. When the Japan tea first came here the dried leaves had a delicate olive tint and were long and wiry. Now they are fatter and range in color from black to yellow, the result of artificial colorings with various hues, gypsum, and soapstone.—Cleveland Herald.

Blaine's Record.

The New York Evening 7th inst. published an d devoted entirely to Jas Blaine's record as a public Post is a Republican newsp such occupies a position of rank of the organs of the deed; if ability and integ considered, the Post's opi have no fear of that result Republican organ in the reproduce the Posts article every man may learn from a source some facts relating public record. Blaine is a dular increase in the price which the transportation occasioned to him diminished the cost of his sales. But a protective tariff did more injury to the farmer than in the increased expenses in the market. It had already robbed America of one-half of the market of the old world. India now furnished England with wheat. The effect of the war on the west of the United states within the last nine months has been a decline in the exportation of American cereals of more than 47,000,000 bushels and wheat had gone down in Chicago to less than 80 cents. And this development of the whole production of India was entirely the result of the protective policy in America.

"I say," continued he, "to the farmers of America, the prosperity of this country is concurring now. With the elevators and granaries and warehouses all full of the old crop unsold; with the vast fields growing to the coming harvest; with a crop unexcelled in India; with a splendid promise among all the wheat-growing nations, and with the price of wheat at less than eighty cents, the result will be inevitable that the price of wheat before January next will not pay the cost of production, and corn raised on the Western prairies a year will be turned to fuel. In that day farmers will be beggars in the midst of their own people—dependent on the side of their own golden gathered sheaves. There is absolutely no relief except in seeking foreign markets for agriculture." He went on to show that the cure of the present system was not empirical to manufacturing interests, but, on the contrary, vouchsafed to them, by the Democratic party, the only means of free raw material. "Oh, if I could born into the heart of the manufacturers of America one sentence," he burst forth, "it should be this: 'Turn from this con-tant he prospect on of the nature of the world.' Down with scale, out to the sea! There are 2,000,000,000 people who want to buy what you make. Live up to the truth of the great thought that these immense peoples can be supplied by you with all the instruments of husbandry and the tools of artisanships. But they will not take your goods unless you take theirs. Let your tariff disappear and then communications; your attention will be diverted from home markets to enormous rivalries in foreign trade, in which a wealth will come to you of which you do not dream to day." He then took up the tariff question as affecting the price for labor, declaring that, as a Those were jewels in the crown of the laboring man would cease to be a delusion that protection was to come in the guise of a blessing to labor. He closed with the solitude of a tremendous effort, really raised to cries. It was not labor to have the fat ones was entitled to the profits of the players and not the sinking truth, he hoped this argument lighten the workers and influ votes, would relegate lustrous laws of trade. Mr. Hurd was ous why he supported the tariff reform bill, and why there was anything in the consistent with the 19th pa

"I will answer you," answered Mr. Hurd—I had hoped no ter, of Ohio.

Mr. Hurd—I had hoped no the House would say the Democratic platform was the people to take of the war ne five years ago—bid and sold pledge on the Democratic p to the meeting of that gene the construction he gives th Don't say here and now that gallant Democracy of my co pudiate the heresy of that pl have no fear of that result. half of whose brains to be, ele national heart of the country. (Renewed applause.) It is the struggle to save protective robbery and enor from the land, were an American or darken her fa shadow. [Applause.]

Unavenged, but Unfo

One of the most stirring to the banquet of the Illinois Chicago was delivered by James R. Doolittle, for United States Senator fro The following extract fro is worthy of the source a perfection in every mi-serable little heap of dust? These trivial details you bring to my notice do not affect the purpose and shape of my plays; and as they concern neither the action nor the passion nor the characters, why make the world wait for nothing? I am neither honored nor flattered by the blind worship bestowed upon my works by some writers. If my existence had depended upon these text grubbers, I should have been shelved two centuries ago. Better a live actor than a dead Shakspeare, or buried with Beaumont and Fletcher. I owe my existence to the stage, to the actor. No dramatic poet has any existence in the closet. Out of my thirty-six plays, about a dozen survive. They owe their existence to the admiration of those who never read them. Each of the dozen will be found to afford a vein-pomous and debasing character for the great actor or actress. Whenever a well-written play affords such an opportunity, it will hold its life on the stage.

"The 'Two Gentlemen of Verona' and 'Love's Labor Lost' are read as a matter of duty by the students of Hamlet and 'Othello.' I owe my existence to such actors as Edmund Kean and Garrick, who joined to their genius the bravest lay passion, and embodied my characters. They changed my language and reshaped my words to fit their personalities, and they did it well. This is the way to study Shakspeare.

"The actor's power to represent a passion is a gift, not a deliberate artistic effort obtained by study. It is a faculty, to be developed and improved by practice. The poet gives to the gifted actor an opportunity to display his powers; one is the complement of the other in the grand result. The actor who is built on a poet—such is the so-called student—is merely a mouthpiece, but an artist, for he should obtain his inspiration as the poet gets his, out of his inner gifts. I, who say this, am both an actor and a poet, and I speak of what I know.

"Then—may I be forgiven for saying so—there are some young men to whose education has stopped short somewhere between writing and spelling, who are thrust up into conspicuous positions on the stage, and taking refuge behind their gooklooks, profess to be students of Shakspeare.

O, the humbug of it all! and how the dear world is fooled by it!—Dion Boucicault.

Japan Tea.

"Japan tea is not a favorite in these days," said a grocer. "Ten years ago a rage in its favor set in, and the Japanese tea was called for on all sides. But it fell out of public favor as rapidly as it came in. They had not enough of merit to keep it in. The first lots we got from Japan were choice in quality, and the growth was small and great attention was paid to its culture, with hopes for the future. But the demand increased in a few jumps, care was abandoned by the growers, and the only object sought was to fill the orders. Consequently the Japanese tea that found its way to the American market was a sorry lot. Ten lowers soon found it out, and the Chinese tea trade was taken and again found much better. Not only were the old and tough leaves of the tea plant picked in all times of the year, instead of the young green ones of the spring season, but wisteria leaves were mixed in with them. When the Japan tea first came here the dried leaves had a delicate olive tint and were long and wiry. Now they are fatter and range in color from black to yellow, the result of artificial colorings with various hues, gypsum, and soapstone.—Cleveland Herald.

Blaine's Record.

The New York Evening 7th inst. published an d devoted entirely to Jas Blaine's record as a public Post is a Republican newsp such occupies a position of rank of the organs of the deed; if ability and integ considered, the Post's opi have no fear of that result Republican organ in the reproduce the Posts article every man may learn from a source some facts relating public record. Blaine is a dular increase in the price which the transportation occasioned to him diminished the cost of his sales. But a protective tariff did more injury to the farmer than in the increased expenses in the market. It had already robbed America of one-half of the market of the old world. India now furnished England with wheat. The effect of the war on the west of the United states within the last nine months has been a decline in the exportation of American cereals of more than 47,000,000 bushels and wheat had gone down in Chicago to less than 80 cents. And this development of the whole production of India was entirely the result of the protective policy in America.

"I say," continued he, "to the farmers of America, the prosperity of this country is concurring now. With the elevators and granaries and warehouses all full of the old crop unsold; with the vast fields growing to the coming harvest; with a crop unexcelled in India; with a splendid promise among all the wheat-growing nations, and with the price of wheat at less than eighty cents, the result will be inevitable that the price of wheat before January next will not pay the cost of production, and corn raised on the Western prairies a year will be turned to fuel. In that day farmers will be beggars in the midst of their own people—dependent on the side of their own golden gathered sheaves. There is absolutely no relief except in seeking foreign markets for agriculture." He went on to show that the cure of the present system was not empirical to manufacturing interests, but, on the contrary, vouchsafed to them, by the Democratic party, the only means of free raw material. "Oh, if I could born into the heart of the manufacturers of America one sentence," he burst forth, "it should be this: 'Turn from this con-tant he prospect on of the nature of the world.' Down with scale, out to the sea! There are 2,000,000,000 people who want to buy what you make. Live up to the truth of the great thought that these immense peoples can be supplied by you with all the instruments of husbandry and the tools of artisanships. But they will not take your goods unless you take theirs. Let your tariff disappear and then communications; your attention will be diverted from home markets to enormous rivalries in foreign trade, in which a wealth will come to you of which you do

James Gano Blaine.

To Be Healed of Health

world stands, by a certain catalling ressure, physical overwork, or seclen ss of the desk, is a stand-bit. Yet ese ordinarily possessed of a fair ance of constitution before the on-ng passed. To save and all subject ves inclined to health, no purer or ressive specific of the greatest of ers can be found than Hostetter's ach Bitters, which insures the ctive co-operation of the digestive ans. It re-enstates dyspepsia, the ndy of the stomach, promotes the ularity of the bowels and liver, when ey are torpid, counteracts fever and ue, and, in fact, checks the growth of ny ailments which, if neglected, are ely to be superseded from ransitions that ever record of a public man;
to win, they may regard it to gain before the country bearer whose reputation is as well established as for brilliancy of intellect, it is eminently the part of the people to be thorough in regard to the material of the Republican party pr a President. The people have in the White House
scumdrel—a venal
Republican bosses who Chicago will dauntless set forth by the Post prin ation. They are not bli time; but it is well enough face before the people, to show the drift of the lea to trust with confidence and crooked ways of publican bosses.—Indianapolis Journal.

JOHN SHERMAN finds magnify his boom, since the small change in Uncle
box.

GOV. ORMBY, of Idaho, indicted for Dorsey
ing counties. Sixth is

A TRAGIC EVENT.

A Father's Despair and Self-Inflicted Death —His Son's Final Rescue Too Late to Save His Parents.

The graphic occurrence that is described below is one of the most remarkable episodes in the domestic history of America. It is absolute truth which can readily be verified.

The inhabitants of the pleasant town of Tortland, N. Y., were shocked one morning by the announcement that Mr. Clinton Hindge, one of their most prominent citizens, had committed suicide. The news spread rapidly and aroused the entire neighborhood where Mr. Hindge was so well and favorably known. At first it seemed impossible that any one so quiet and domestic could do so rash a deed, and the inquiry was heard on every side as to the cause. The facts as developed on investigation proved to be as follows:

Mr. Hindge was domestic in his tastes, and took the greatest enjoyment in the society of his children and pride in their development. And indeed he had good reason to be proud, for they gave promise of long lives of success and usefulness. But an evil day came. His youngest son, William, began to show signs of an early de-ay. He felt unusually tired each day, and would sometimes sleep the entire afternoon if permitted to do so. His head pained him, not acutely, but with a dull, heavy feeling. There was a sinking sensation at the pit of his stomach. He lost all relish for food and much of his interest for things about him. He tried manfully to overcome these feelings, but they seemed stronger than his will. He began to lose flesh rapidly. The father became alarmed and consulted physicians as to the cause of his son's illness, but they were unable to explain. Finally severe sores broke out on his arms and he was taken to Bastabo, where a painful operation was performed, resulting in the loss of much blood, but affording little relief. The young man returned home, and a council of physicians was called. After an exhaustive examination they declared there was no hope of final recovery and that he must die within a very few days. To describe the agony which this announcement caused the father would be impossible. His mind failed to grasp its full meaning at first; then finally seemed to comprehend it, but the load was too great. In an agony of frenzy he seized a knife and took his own life, preferring death rather than to survive his idolized son. At that time William Hindge was too weak to know what was transpiring. His face had turned black; his breath ceased entirely at times, and his friends waited for his death, believing that the fatal, Bright's disease of the kidneys, from which he was suffering, could not be removed. In this supreme moment Mr. Hindge's sister came forward and declared she would make a final attempt to save her brother. The doctors interposed, fearing her it was useless and that she would only hasten the end by the means she proposed to employ. But she was firm, and putting all luck, aspersions, and prejudice aside, administered a remedy which she fortunately had on hand—the well-known Compound Oxygen Treatment. Before the day was over they showed signs of decided improvement. These favorable signs continued, and to-day William H. Hindge is well, having been virtually raised from the dead through the marvelous power of Warner's Safe Cure, as can be readily verified by many citizens of Portland.

Any one who reflects upon the facts above stated will know that if you have a sick kidney, liver, blood or could Heat, and Nervous Debility, you can be restored to health by the use of Warner's Safe Cure, as can be readily verified by the testimony of thousands.

Three Remarkable Interviews.

At a meeting last night Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, M. C.; Hon. Judge Flanders, of New York; and T. S. Arthur, in regard to their experience with Compound Oxygen. These interviews give surprising results and show this treatment for the cure of chronic diseases to be the most remarkable known to the profession. A copy of these interviews, also a Treatise on Compound Oxygen, will be mailed free, by Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1109 Girard st., Phila.

A Pleasure to Recommend It.

We take pleasure in recommending Dr. Warner's White Wine of Tar Syrup to any public speaker that may be troubled with throat or lung disease.

Rev. M. L. Hoober,
Pastor Presbyterian Church, Bendling, Mich.
Rev. J. T. Bidinger, Albion, Mich.
Rev. V. L. Lockwood, Ann Arbor, Mich.

MESSMAN'S PEPTONIZED BEEF TONIC, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood making, force generating, and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, over-work, or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Cassell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

My Wife and Children.

Rev. L. A. Dunlap, of Mount Vernon, Mo., says: My children were afflicted with a cough resulting from measles; my wife with a cough that had continued for years despite various remedies, for years, and your White Wine of Tar Syrup has cured them all.

BEWARE of the incipient stages of Consumption. Take Piso's Cure in time.

"Rough on Rats" clears out Rats, Mice, 15c.

Mother Swan's Worm Syrup, tasteless. 25c.

"Rough on Coughs" Troches, 15c; Liquid, 50c.

WELLS' May Apple (Liver) Pills. 10c.

"Rough on Toothache," instant relief. 15c.

"Buchu-paiba," Great Kidney and Urinary Cure. $1.

"Rough on Corns," for Corns, Warts, Bunions. 15c.

WELLS' Health Renewer cures Dyspepsia, Impotence.

"Rough on Dentist" Tooth Powder, 15c.

BOYS AND GIRLS—A handsome set of cards by mail describing enclosure for Sheet of Stamps. H. L. STRONG, Bridgeville, Del.

LEARN Telegraphy or Short-Hand and Type Writing. Address DAKIN'S INSTITUTE, Janesville, Wis.

WRITE us how to SECURE a PATENT; what it will cost, and how obtained. FREE. J. E. BURKE & CO., Brockton, Mass.

AGENTS WANTED for the best and fastest-selling Subscription Book published. Address for circular, NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

TYPEWRITING AT HOME. Circulars free. Work sent by mail. Address, with stamp, TYPEWRITER, Box 1, Lowell, Mass.

U.S. STANDARD JONES OF BINGHAMTON

5 TON WAGON SCALES, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Beam, Tare Attachment, $60 and 2000 lbs beam for freight—for free book address JONES of BINGHAMTON, JONES OF BINGHAMTON, Binghamton, N. Y.

Save Your Loved Ones FROM A DRUNKARD'S GRAVE

BY THE USE OF DR. HARRISON'S SALVATION TOWDERS. A positive cure for Drunkenness, to be used in tea, coffee, or food, without the knowledge of the patient. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail for $1. Circulars free. Address THE CLARKE MEDICINE CO., 21 and 23 ADE STREET, N. Y.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH HAY-FEVER

ELY'S CREAM BALM

When applied by the nostrils, spreads over the membrane of the nose and throat, and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists; or mail registered, 60 cents. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

HOP PLASTER

Cures in the Back, Side or Hip, Neuralgia, Stiff Joints and Sudden Pains and Aches. Better than any other Plaster or Remedy. 100 other kind of no-account imitations. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail for 25 cents. Manufactured by Hop Plaster Company, Proprietors, Boston, Mass.

A GREAT SUCCESS

TO SPECULATORS.

R. LINDBLOM & CO., N. G. MILLER & CO., 12 Broadway, 25 Broadway, New York. Commerce, Chicago.

GRAIN & PROVISION BROKERS.

Dispatches of all responsible houses in Exchanges in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee. We have exclusive private leased wires between Chicago and New York. Will execute orders on our judgment or will responsible, send for circulars containing particulars. ROBT. LINDBLOM & CO., Chicago.

St. Jacobs Oil

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.

Relieves and cures RHEUMATISM, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, BACKACHE, HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, SORE THROAT, QUINSY, SWELLINGS, SPRAINS, Soreness, Cuts, Bruises, FROSTBITES, BURNS, SCALDS, And all other bodily aches and pains.

FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.

Sold by all Druggists & Dealers in Medicines. Directions in 11 Languages. A CHARLES A. VOGELER CO. (Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

THE PRINCESS SKIRT BOARD. Ladies wanted to work at home; send all kinds of JEWELRY, NOVELTIES for home or road trade. Sample 25c. Send for catalogues.

NEVER FAILS

Diseases of the blood need it conquered. Endorsed in writing by over fifty thousand leading citizens, including physicians in U. S. and Europe.

$2 For sale by all leading druggists. $1.50. (12) Pamphlet and circulars sent stamp.

The Dr. S. A. Richmond Med Co. St. Joseph, Mo.

Lord, Stoutenburgh & Co., Agents, Chicago, Ill.

ASK FOR HOPS & MALT TRADE MARK BITTERS

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER Liver and Kidney Remedy

Compounded from the well known Curative Hops, Malt, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, Stillingia and Queen's Sarsaparilla, etc., combined with an Aromatic Elixir.

THEY CURE DYSPEPSIA & INDIGESTION, act upon the Liver and Kidneys, REGULATE THE BOWELS, Purify the Blood, Remove Pimples, Boils, Blotches and Skin Diseases, and all Liver, Kidney and Urinary troubles. They invigorate, nourish, strengthen and quiet the Nervous System.

As a Tonic there are no Equal. Take none but Hops and Malt Bitters.

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS.

Hops and Malt Bitters Co. DETROIT, MICH.

TON I.C.

LIST OF DISEASES ALWAYS CURABLE BY USING MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.

OF HUMAN FLESH.	OF ANIMALS.
Rheumatism,	Scratches,
Burns and Scalds,	Sores and Galls,
Stings and Bites,	Spavin, Cracks,
Cuts and Bruises,	Screw Worms, Grub,
Sprains & Stiffness,	Foot Rot, Hoof Ail,
Contracted Muscles	Lameness,
Stiff Joints,	Swinny, Founders,
Eruptions,	Sprains, Strains,
Frost Bites,	Sore Feet,
and all external diseases, and every hurt or accident	Stiffness,

For general use in family, stable and stock yard it is THE BEST OF ALL THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

for the brain of mental fancies. Promptly cures Rheumatism by routing it. Restores lifegetting properties to the body. Is guaranteed to cure all nervous disorders. Pr'ceable when all opiates fail. Reduces pain and inflammation the body. Cures dyspepsia or money refunded.

A SKEPTIC SAID

ugly blotches and stubborn blood sores, Eliminates Boils, Carbuncles and Pimples. Cures Catarrh and promptly cures paralysis. Yes, it is a charming and healthful Agreement. Kills Scrofula and Kings Evil, twin brothers. Changes bad breath to good, removing the cause. Routs bilious tendencies and makes clear complexion. Equalled by none in the delirium of fever. A charming resolvent and a matchless laxative. 'It drives Sick Headache like the wind. For Constipation or drastic cathartic or opiates. Relieves

SAMARITAN NERVINE

THE GREAT

LINIMENTS

The Most Popular Medicine Extant.

Allen's Lung Balsam,

A REMEDY THAT WILL CURE

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CROUP,

All Diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Pulmonary Organs.

THE LUNG BALSAM Has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, and is now offered to the public with the utmost confidence in its merits.

THE LUNG BALSAM Contains no Opium in any form.

THE LUNG BALSAM Is strictly pure and harmless to the most delicate person.

THE LUNG BALSAM Is recommended by Physicians, Ministers and Nurses.

THE LUNG BALSAM For Croup is a safe and sure Remedy. Mothers, try it.

THE LUNG BALSAM Should be used at the first manifestations of a cold or cough.

THE LUNG BALSAM As an Expectorant has no equal.

CAUTION.—Be not deceived. Call for ALLEN'S Lung Balsam, and take no other. Directions accompany each bottle.

J. N. HARRIS & CO. Limited, Cincinnati, O. PROPRIETORS.

SOLD BY ALL MEDICINE DEALERS.

GAIN Health and Happiness.

How? DO AS OTHERS HAVE DONE.

Are your Kidneys disordered? "Kidney-Wort brought me from feeble years, as it has many others, to health and strength."—Rev. E. H. Chapin, Editor Christian Journal, Burlington, Vt.

Are your nerves weak? "Kidney-Wort cured me from nervous weakness after all other remedies had failed."—Mrs. D. M. Caswell, Ex-Chaplain Steamer "Vanderbilt," Centreville, Md.

Have you Bright's Disease? "Kidney-Wort cured me when my water was just like chalk and then like blood."—Dr. Theodore Wilson, Peabody, Mass.

Suffering from Diabetes? "Kidney-Wort cured me of Diabetes of three years' standing."—Hon. Wm. Hemphill, Speaker of House of Representatives, Columbia, S. C.

Have you Liver Complaint? "Kidney-Wort cured me of Liver Complaint after I had given up hope."—Henry Ward, late Col. 68th Ind. Guard, N. Y.

Is your Back lame and aching? "Kidney-Wort has cured me of Lame Back after I had tried in vain all kinds of remedies."—Jas. Thompson, Milwaukee, Wis.

Have you Kidney Disease? "Kidney-Wort has cured me of Kidney Disease of many years of unsuccessful doctoring. Its worth to the world is beyond measure."—Rev. E. G. Porter, Rockford, Ill.

Are you Constipated? "Kidney-Wort has cured me of Chronic Constipation after I had suffered for years from all other medicines."—Rev. Joseph Parisella, St. Albans, Vt.

Have you Malarin? "Kidney-Wort has done more good than any other remedy I have ever used in all my practice."—Dr. H. K. Hurd, S

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 9th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Chairman.
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Democratic County Convention

A Democratic County Convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State Convention, and to reorganize the County Committee, will be held at

BARTHOLOMEW'S OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX, ON THURSDAY, JUNE 12TH, 1884, at 2 o'clock p.m. A full attendance is desired.

J. MILO EATON.

	Vote for Gov. 1882.	No. Delegates
Bear Lake	76	1
Boyne Valley	50	1
Chandler	19	1
Charlevoix	231	10
Evangeline	131	1
Hollister	106	1
Hayes	85	1
Hudson	58	1
Marion	60	1
Melrose	41	1
Norwood	36	1
Round	78	1
South Arm	115	1
Springdale	14	1
Wilson	58	1

In this column will be found a call for a democratic county convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the state convention. The representation of the townships is based on the total vote for governor in 1882, and it is desired that each township send a full delegation of live working democrats. Matters of importance may come up for discussion. It is hoped that democrats in each township will act in this matter, and see that caucuses are called and delegates elected.

It is seldom that a public officer, when voting for the benefit of his political friends, is outspoken and defiant enough to say why he so voted. Dent Petoskey has a president who is that kind of an official. On a motion to let certain village printing to the lowest bidder, the Democrat being five dollars lower than the Record on one bid, and ten dollars lower on another, the vote was a tie, the council being a tie politically. In giving the casting vote, the president, a republican, voted against allowing it to the Democrat, giving as a reason that he was a republican. The Charlevoix board of supervisors exhibited the same spirit last fall, when they refused to allow the JOURNAL to bid on publishing their proceedings, and gave it to the Sentinel at $75, but they had not the frankness of the Petoskey man to say they so voted because they were republicans. How do the taxpayers like this kind of work?

Michigan Census, 1884.

This census is to be taken in the month of June. It is not within the choice of any inhabitant of the state whether he shall or shall not communicate the information required by the census law. By section 13 of the census law it is provided:

That each and every person more than eighteen years of age, belonging to any family residing in any township, or census district, and in case of the absence of the heads and other members of any such family, then any agent of such family shall be, and each of them hereby is required, when thereto requested by the census enumerator, to render a true account, to the best of his or her knowledge, of every person belonging to such family, and whoever shall willfully fail or refuse so to render a true account, as aforesaid, and upon conviction thereof shall forfeit and pay a sum of fifty dollars, or be confined in the county jail not more than six months. And every owner, lessee, agent, or manager in charge of any establishment of a productive industry, or farm, and every person in charge of any institution of learning, or any other place where persons are congregated, or living together, shall, when thereto requested by the census enumerator, furnish to him such information as he may possess, or can readily obtain, relative to the persons and business under his charge, and in the manner required by said enumerator, and any person refusing or willfully neglecting so to do shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than five hundred, nor more than five thousand dollars, and in addition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the county jail for a term not exceeding one year. And it shall be the duty of the census enumerator to promptly notify the prosecuting attorney of his county of any penalty incurred in his township or census district under the provisions of this section.

The Nation Should Act.

The floods are now a yearly visitant to all the great river valleys of the country. Year after year there is an increase in the volume of water poured into the various rivers, when rains or mild weather in the winter or early spring exert their influence upon the snow along the banks or on the hillsides, which are the sources of our great rivers. Matters will yearly grow worse, for the country is increasing rapidly in population, and the cities, towns and farms in the valleys are being steadily augmented. The cause of inundation in spring and drouth in summer is the removal of the forests. Spring freshets and river inundations are unknown in countries where the forests are preserved or protected. The water from the melting snows is absorbed by the roots of the trees, and then the melting of the snows is retarded by the protection afforded by the shade of the trees.

As a nation we have been committing the same inconceivable folly which has ruined other countries. In Central Asia, Northern Africa, and the interior of Spain will be found arid deserts which were once fruitful countries because forest-clad and consequently well watered. But we are cutting down our forests and destroying the fertility of our soil with amazing rapidity. We require an enormous quantity of wood for house building and manufacturing, as well as for fuel. The item of railway ties consumes vast forests yearly. Then our western country is much of it open prairies, which have no supply of their own and must draw from the East and North for house-building and fencing; hence the rapid and increasing destruction of our forests.

There is but one remedy and that is a slow one. The nation must take the matter in hand. A board of engineers must, after a proper survey, designate those sections of the country which must be replanted to forests. Then their recommendations must be strictly carried out. This, however will not be done until more fearful floods than those of the past two years destroy so much life and property that the country will be startled into doing something. States cannot deal with this matter, for the cutting down of woods near the head waters of streams affects the volume of waters thousands of miles away.

It will be hard to get Congress to act for we have been so wasteful of our woods that it seems like an infringement on personal liberty to stay the ax of the woodsmen. In time we will be forced, doubtless, to follow the example of ancient Egypt, where, to prevent the destruction of property, vast reservoirs were constructed to receive and store the surplus waters and so save cities from injury, and at the same time utilize the water for agricultural purposes.—Democrat.

The Wise Age.

Future analysts may well describe this period of American history as the wire age, says the Boston Advertiser. In no part of the economy of our daily life are we divorced from wire. It is our slave and yet an ever present master. Sleeping, we repose on wire mattresses. Eating, we see foods that have passed through sieves and which are sheltered from insect appetite by wire covers. Calling, we pull wires to ring curled wire gongs. Traveling, we are conveyed by cable or electric railways hoisted by elevators hung on wires, and hurried over wire bridges. We announce our coming by telegraph or telephone wires, and we thread our way by night through streets lighted by means of electric cables. Across our fields are strung many thousands of miles of barbed wire fences, against which dumb brutes protest. Texas rangers draw the knife, and lawyers, juries and reporters whet their intellectual blades. Our clocks are set by wires, our watches run by wires, our books are stitched with wire, our pictures are hung by wires, and our politics managed by wires.

A South American Snake Story.

In Paraguay, at Guazu-Cua, a woman going to bathe in the lake laid her child down under a neighboring tree and walked down to the water. A gallows, however, was on the lookout for prey at the shore, sprang at her and seized her before she could escape. Soon afterwards a horseman passing near heard some cries, and on examining around saw the child alone under the tree. Suspecting some disaster he rode down to the lake and there saw a huge snake swallowing the woman, who was already drawn in up to the waist. Hastily tying his two lassoes together, the man threw the noose over the woman and under her arms, and spurring his horse, succeeded in drawing the unfortunate woman's still palpitating body from the throat of the disappointed monster. Whether the woman survived is not stated.—Anglo-Brazilian Times.

Giving Her "a Thrill."

An anecdote of the engagement of Henry Irving in this city, although late in coming to hand, is well worth telling. During the first performance of "Louis XI," a lady found herself seated next to a party of intensely typical Boston girls, who observed the development of the play with that reserved, serene and critical aspect for which their class is noted. The lady was more enthusiastic than they, and at various fine points which the actor made was not chary of applause. At last, when a particularly strong situation had been met and mastered, she exclaimed, sotto voice:

"Ah, he is, indeed, great!"

The three young women who sat beside her immediately put up their eyeglasses and looked at her in a quiet but superior way, and the nearest of the party, in a calm and very distinct voice said:

"Pardon me, but I have not yet experienced any thrill."

Afterward, in relating the incident, the lady said: "I had in my dress at the time a long shawl-pin, and I was awfully tempted to jab it into the cold creature's arm, to see if she could feel any 'thrill' at that."—Boston Journal.

"Yes," said the dealer in crockeryware, "send one of our circulars to Mr. Jones. He is getting up a little in the world, and has just hired a servant. We'll have his patronage immediately."

There is a narrow gauge railway in the oil country so crooked that when a train is running at an average rate of speed the sun shines through the windows on both sides of the car at the same time.—Philadelphia Call. Yes, and the locomotive frequently runs over the top of the train, and, coming in contact with the tender, pushes itself up the grade.

W. H. Vanderbilt says he never picks up a newspaper that he doesn't see something disagreeable in it about himself. Lend us a half-dollar, old fellow. There's nothing disagreeable about that. We might have asked for a dollar and a half, but this paper is dissimilar, so to speak.

SAWING AND PLANING DONE AT SHORT NOTICE. CHEAPER THAN THE CHEAPEST. Deposits of FIVE CENTS AND UPWARD received. BANK OF CHARLEVOIX. Five per cent interest, payable January and July. Property held by us to loan in sums to suit borrowers. Exchange bought and sold. Collections made on favorable terms. Drafts drawn on all principal cities in Europe. Passage tickets by all lines. Steamship and Railway Tickets for sale at lowest rates. REASONABLE accommodations extended to depositors. Safe deposit boxes for rent. Interest allowed on deposits. Money to loan on approved security. Notes and mortgages bought and sold. Collections promptly attended to. Sight drafts on Detroit, Chicago, New York and Boston. Banking hours, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 12 m. Depositors are not liable for debts of bank. Stockholders' liability limited by law to the amount of stock held. State Savings Banks, or other State Banks, offering as inducements to depositors exemption from liability for debts of bank, are unsafe institutions for depositors, and that is often their only security. National banks are under the supervision of the United States government, and depositors are not liable for debts of bank. Bankers are liable for debts of their banks in proportion to their interest therein. Savings Banks are not allowed to do a banking business. Bankers & Brokers.

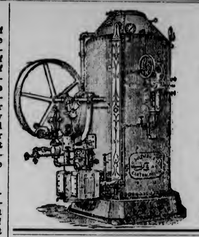
JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.
A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

PIMPLES.
I will mail (free) the recipe for a simple vegetable balm that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES and blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, B. W. VANDELL & CO., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

Grand Rapids Democrat,
DAILY AND WEEKLY.
Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Daily Democrat, By mail, $6.00 per year in advance; postage paid.
Weekly Democrat, $1.50 per year; $1.00 for six months; $1.00 for three months; invariably in advance. Address,
THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.



E. T. BROWN
Threshing Engine
Portable and Sta
Engine
SAW MILLS, THRE MILL SUPPLI
WRITE FOR PRICES AND C
West Bridge Stree
Grand Rapids, M

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES
NEW ST AND NEW GO
A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, C Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implemen Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, B Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doo Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Job work done on short notice.
L. D. BARTHOLO

NEW GOO
I am pleased to say that Spring S
is ready for inspection. Come and spend when you want a suit of clothes. JUST IN STYLE, you will know them. My stock is full of the LATE STYLE
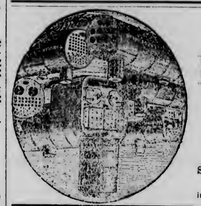
AND
Price to Correspond with the Times.
Geo. W.



JOSEPH HYL
CHARLEVOIX, MIC
Boiler Ma
Sheet-Iron Wo
and manufacturer
Hyland's Patent Fl
Dealer in all kinds
SECOND-HAND MAC
Heavy blacksmithing of all kin
ing of Boilers promptly attend

O. B. WEED & CO.
Are headquarters for
DRUGS
CHEMICALS,
Patent Medicines, all Kinds,
Imported and Domestic Perfumery,
Toilet Articles,
AND FANCY GOODS.
None but Pure Medicines
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new
Opera Block

NEW STO
M. V. DY
PROPRIETO
ADVANCE, M
A FULL LINE OF Groceries, Prov
And Fancy Dry G
Store in connection
Advance Lumber C
Goods will be sold at Lowest Cash P
For cash only or its e
i. e., logs, wood, ties posts, &c. Please giv
and Examine Our P
We guarantee satisfa
J. P. DYER

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 42

WM. J. STEVEN HORSE-SHOEIN
Wagon S
BLACKSMITHIN
Heavy Wagons on hand and ma mended in the most workmanlike ferred, and WARRANT ALL examine before buying elsewhere
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF GARVEY & CO.'S STORE, CHAR
THE OSBORNE MOWER
Rebuilt and for sale

JOURNAL
...roix, Mich., May 22, 1884.

...rovision Market.

...ices to consumers, as corrected every ...rsday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & ...ers dealers:

...ur, $4.00, $5.00, and $6.00.
...ed, largest, bolted $2.00; unbolted, ...
...on, $820.
...ur, 90c.
...FEED, per cwt, $1.80@1.60.
...per bu, $1.0.
...s, per bu, 50c.
...per bu, $1.00.
...per bu, 45c.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Miller, of Traverse City, spent a portion of Monday and Tuesday in Charlevoix, with their son Geo. W. Miller.

P. T. Barnum has the white elephant, and L. D. Bartholomew has the Chase & Taylor spring tooth drag —ITS THE BEST.

Fast driving by draymen is a nuisance, the way it is conducted here. But it will probably continue until someone gets hurt.

A warehouse has been built on the Chicago resort dock, for protecting baggage, etc., from storms while engaged in by some. The house is now being furnished, and will be ready for occupancy in five or six weeks. Mr. A. B. Chapman, a son of the proprietor, will have the management when it is opened to the public.

The morning service at the M. E. church next Sunday will be a practical sermon for all. At the evening service, being the last before the day for strewing flowers over the graves of our dead soldiers, there will be a memorial sermon. The church will be properly decorated for the occasion.

J. L. HURD & CO.
Offer a full and fresh line of
DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.
At Very Low Prices.

THE JOURNAL.

...ER 45. SUPPLEMENT. MAY 22, 1884.

...Opposition to Reform ...blican congressman but ...n Tuesday to strike out ...e clause of the Morrison ...party has thus put itself ...e solidly opposed to any ...riff reform. It has been ...ed that the fullest oppor...endment of the Morrison ...e allowed. It was not ...the bill that it was per...it was scientific; but only ...judgment of the ways and ...mittee it was so framed as ...best chance of securing ...of all who really favored ...ion. Its promoters would ...ll known, willingly have ...it for a more scientific ...sion of the whole tariff; ...appeared in the course of ...ertion that an equitable ...the tariff could be secured ...have been willingly aban...

...ing out the enacting clause, ...ot only was the bill itself ...at also any revision whatever ...tariff, for that bill was well ...e the only measure pend...hich could be reached this ...aking to a reduction of our ...xcessive taxation or to a ...of the tariff. The plain ...erefore, of any member, ...party who really wished to ...y modification of our op...riff system, was to present ...ir ideas of how this should ...in the shape of amendments ...

But the time for that had ...before the bill was beheaded...course of those who were ...to any reduction of tariff ...and that was the attitude ...of the republican members as ...by their speeches—relieves ...e the imputation of dis...and hypocrisy in their oppo...because it was entirely con...ter those who honestly, to ...paradox, were in favor of ...ion of a tariff for robbery ...vote to kill the bill at any or ...

No amendment altering ...or scheme of reduction could ...prove the bill in their eyes ...didn't want any bill at all. ...ose who voted against the ...bill in its preliminary stage ...ground that it was unscien...e horizontal reduction was an ...manlike and bungling way of ...ar tariff duties which preserved ...inequalities and iniquities of ...ent tariff laws, cannot escape ...putation of dishonesty. They ...ed that there should be a re...

...duction of duties, and maintained that they were tariff reformers. And they objected only to reducing them horizontally. Such was the position chosen by a considerable number of republicans and by the traitors led by Messrs. Randall and Converse—prominently by Mr. Eaton. If they had voted against the final passage of the bill after it had come from the committee, and after they had proposed and failed in securing the adoption of amendments which would suit their ideas of a scientific or proper reduction of duties, their votes would have been consistent with their professions—with honesty in their opposition. A vote under such circumstances would have been a vote against the Morrison bill, and not against any reform whatever. But these men voted to kill the bill before any amendments could be offered. That was in effect to vote against any reform this year, as there is no prospect of reaching or acting upon any other general tariff measure at this session. It is patent that the real objection to the Morrison bill by Mr. Eaton and his friends, republican and Randalite, was, like that of the majority of the republicans who favor protection for its own sake and its incidental robbery, not to its horizontal feature but solely to its tariff reduction feature; that they are opposed to any reduction of the tariff, not merely to a horizontal reduction. Otherwise they would have allowed the bill to be considered by clauses and endeavored to so amend it as to meet their views of what was a "scientific" and proper plan of reduction. But they feared to go upon record squarely as opposed to any reduction of the tariff (a sign that the tariff agitation has produced results strong enough to make itself felt in Washington and even among protectionists) and in order to avoid it they lied.—G. R. Democrat.

The Japanese women advertise the number of their years by the arrangement of their hair. Girls from nine to fifteen wear their hair interlaced with red crape, describing a half circle around the head, the forehead being left free, with a curl on each side. From fifteen to thirty the hair is dressed very high on the forehead, and put up at the back in the shape of a fan or butterfly, with interlacings of silver cord and a decoration of colored balls. Beyond thirty a woman twists her hair around a shell pin, placed horizontally at the back of the head. Widows also designate themselves, and whether they wish to marry again.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crozier.

EVERYTHING
IN THE LINE OF
Furniture and Undertakers' Goods
CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF
HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
CHEAP FOR CASH.
Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES
—OF—
All-Wool Goods,
Overcoats and Suitings,
Boots and Shoes.
I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at actual cost, as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant
First-Class,
And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are
Big Bargains.
E. M. Clark.
Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

FOR THE CAMPAIGN.
The JOURNAL will be sent to any address until after election for Ten Cents a Month,
CASH IN ADVANCE.
NOW IS THE TIME TO GET UP A CLUB.

...rse rakes, and 30 Chase & ...ring tooth drags last season. ...D. Bartholomew has received ...e boxes, and bundles of new ...ences moving into his new ...

...rstand that J. J. Ramsdell, ...ld by suicide of East Jordan, ...n been seen alive and well at ...City.

...ing Martin pulled the little ...Fairplay off the bench last ...y morning. She is mingling ...ant some of her scenes were ...e little.

The gas in H. B. Chapman's new hotel at Bay Springs was lighted for the first time on Tuesday evening. He invited in his friends in Boyne and vicinity, and about 60 from Charlevoix went up on the steamer Wright. During the evening short addresses were made by Messrs. Corbet, Hubbard, and Jersey, of Boyne, and Mrs. Boise, of Bay Springs, reciting briefly the work of Mr. Chapman in accumulating wealth and developing the country in which he was located and the benefits all derived from the money he has expended. Dancing was ...

...ged to a late hour, and all ...ed to have had a pleasant ...ing. The house is a fine ...ure, and will be a credit to ...towoc. Her round trip will occupy about ten days. We hope to give her dates at this port in a later issue. She is grain laden, but is equipped for carrying general merchandise. The passenger accommodations also seem to be excellent. We are authorized to announce that she will stop at Upright, Emrey & Co.'s dock.

From a letter written by D. C. Farnerwood, of Elmira, under date of May 11, 84, we clip the following: "It is a settled fact that the railroad survey will be made at once from Elmira via East Jordan and South ...

Examine and be Convinced:
The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.
IN HARDWARE
We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.
May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

...'s for Provisions.
...g Flour.
...e's Petoskey Lime.

...ced in maintaining our union. ...iscourse will be national in its ...and should be listened to by ...liers and members of the grand ...The church will be decorated ...lars and strips.

Real Estate Transfers.
...d for the Journal by Cranmer Bros., ...ate dealers.
...following is a list of transfers ...estate in Charlevoix county, ...the consideration is $100 or ...or the week ending Tuesday ...y, May 20, 1884, as recorded ...office of register of deeds:
...s Hollon and wife to John R. ...lot 2, 22 32-7, $2,000.
...les W. Freese and wife to Wm. ...lot 10, blk 5, South lake, $400.
...am T. Addis and wife to Al ...Baisley, lot 7, blk 3, Addis add. ...Spring, $100.
...Chapman and wife to Louis ...sh, n e ¼ of s w ¼ 5 32-6, $221.

...is the time your horses and ...d attention. To prevent disease and ...o assure you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders. Fifty pounds cheaper ...R. Wood & Co. ...

...thun heathen are those par... allow their children to suffer with ...en 25 cents will buy a box of Parsons' ...ne Worm Candies, which will remove the child and remove the worms ...m them. Do you know the symptoms ...s, sudden starting in sleep, bad ...d desire for food day and night. If ...ey nothing to report. Price 25 cents ...ld by C. R. Wood & Co.

...F. ORRELL,
...SE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
...INTING, GRAINING AND KALSOMINING
...ER HANGING.
...g Hardwood a Specialty

...ITS wanted for the Lives of all ...t Presidents of the United ...l, Gladstone, and best lives ...less than twice our prices. The ...g book in America. Immense profits. All intelligent people want it ...become a successful agent. Terms ...r Book Co., Portland, Maine. 4S1

...V. SMITH,
...CTRO-PLATER.
...facturing Jeweler ...nd Lapidist. ...ting in Gold and Silver. Any new ...s made to order. AGATES AND ...s to order.

...ZE. Send six cents for postage ...g and receive free a costly ...box which will help you to more money ...rom anything else in this world. ...ers, succeed from the first hour. ...ld be fortune awaits the ...dutely sure. Address ...TINSON & Co., Augusta, Maine.

...TERS
...ROWS,
...kes,
...d Implement line.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 18th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of taxation, and a reform of our tax laws, are cordially invited to participate in the delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each hundred votes cast for Governor at the general election and one for every fraction of less than two hundred and fifty votes; and each organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARN
Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON,
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Democratic County Convention

A Democratic County Convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State Convention, and to reorganize the County Committee, will be held at BATTERY BLOOMER'S OPERA House, in the City of Charlevoix, on THURSDAY, JUNE 12TH, 1884, at 2 o'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired.

A. MIDDAUGH,
Chairman.

Bear Lake
Boyne Valley
Chandler
Charlevoix
Clargeline
Eveline
Hayes
Hudson
Harlow
Jolsons
Norwood
Resort
South Arm
Springvale
Wilson

In this column will be call for a democratic county convention for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention representation of the township based on the total vote for governor in 1882, and it is desired township send a full delegation of working democrats. Matters of importance may come up for consideration, it is hoped that democratic township will act in this matter so that canvasses are called and delegates elected.

It is seldom that a party is called upon to vote when voting for the benefit of political friends, is outspoken enough to say why it is so. But Petoskey has a president that kind of an official. One to let certain village principals have lowest bidder, the Democrat five dollars lower than the lowest bid, and ten dollars lower than the vote was a tie, being a tie politically. In the existing vote, the president can, voted against allowing the Democrat, giving as a reason was a republican. The board of supervisors exercise some spirit last fall, when they refused to allow the Journal to publishing their proceedings to the Sentinel at 87½ cents, but not the frankness of the chairman to say they so voted because they were republicans. How players like this kind of work?

Michigan Census

This census is to be taken the month of June. It is a matter of choice of any inhabitant whether he shall or shall not indicate the information required in the census law. By section 4 of the law it is provided:

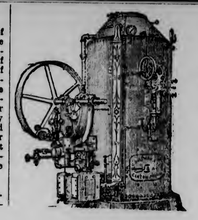
That each and every person more than eighteen years of age, and not belonging to any family residing in any township, city, or census district, and in case of the absence of the heads and other members of any such family, then any person having charge or control of such family shall be, and each of them hereby is required, when thereto requested by the census enumerator, to render a true account, to the best of his or her knowledge, of every person belonging to such family, and whoever shall willfully fail or refuse shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall forfeit and pay a sum of fifty dollars, or be confined in the county jail not more than six months. And every owner, lessee, agent, or person in charge of any establishment or productive industry, or farm, and every president, treasurer, secretary, general agent, or managing director of every corporation owning or operating any such establishment or farm who shall, when thereto requested by the census enumerator, willfully neglect or refuse to give true and complete answers to any inquiries authorized by this act, shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than five hundred, nor more than five thousand dollars, and in addition shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the county jail for a term not exceeding one year. And it shall be the duty of the census enumerator to promptly notify the prosecuting attorney of his county of any penalty incurred in his township hereof under the provisions

Giving Her "a Thrill."

An anecdote of the engagement of Henry Irving in this city, although late in coming to hand, is well worth telling. During the first performance of "Louis XI." a lady found herself seated next to a party of intensely typical Boston girls, who observed the development of the play with that reserved, serene and critical aspect for which their class is noted. The lady was more enthusiastic than they, and at various fine points which the actor made was not chary of applause. At last, when a particularly strong situation had been met and mastered, she exclaimed, sotto voice:

"Ah, he is, indeed, great!"

The three young women who sat be-



E. T. BROWN
Threshing Engine
Portable and Stea
Engin
SAW MILLS, THRE
MILL SUPPLI
WRITE FOR PRICES AND
West Bridge Stre

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 22, 1884.

One-half a Million Dollars in Postage.

George Stinson & Co., the celebrated Art Publishers, Portland, Maine, undoubtedly pay more money for postage stamps than any other firm in the world; for the last five years their postage bill has averaged over two thousand dollars per week, making a grand aggregate of over five hundred and twenty thousand dollars; this is about the three-hundredth part of all the postage of every description collected by the United States government during that time, and in this connection it must be borne in mind that the country has over fifty million souls, and fifty thousand post offices. But the enormous sum paid for postage represents only the cost of sending the light packages, letters and circulars, for large, heavy packages are sent by express and freight. Messrs. Stinson & Co. publish every description of pictures of the better class, and their trade now extends over the entire world. As an illustration of the fact that their trade reaches the furthermost parts of the earth the following may be interesting: A short time since an order for an assortment of over three thousand large and expensive pictures was received from Tasmania away down under the south pole. Not many years ago Tasmania was a penal colony of England, and its population was entirely of convicts and their keepers. Since the removal of the convicts, it has become a thrifty colony; this piece is so remote, that three months are required for an answer to a letter. Tons of pictures are sent to South Africa by Messrs. Stinson & Co., and west Africa sends to Portland for works of art; they have trade in every quarter of the globe where civilization has gained a foothold. Commencing at the bottom, they have worked their way up to the top, step by step, and thereby, added to the greatest push and enterprise, they have that solid, practical experience that is always necessary to the best results, in all things. They carry in stock millions of pictures, and are at a moments notice ready to fill a five cent order, or one for thousands of dollars; they employ some five hundred artists, clerks and workmen; their machinery and appointments are on a magnificent scale, and a trade of ten thousand dollars a day, on an average, is required to keep them moving in full blast. Their assortment of steel plates is especially fine, and ranks very high in artistic merit; many thousands of dollars are often spent on a single plate. They appreciate the value of printer's ink and know how to use it to the best advantage; therefore they advertise largely and liberally in the newspapers—newspaper advertising was an important factor in laying the sound foundations of their great success, and without it, they state that it would have been utterly impossible for them to have reached their present position.

Stinson & Co. are a striking illustration of what can be accomplished by energy, industry, and good judgment. There is "room at the top"—all honor to those who fight their way up. This firm believes in standard goods and low prices, and on that principle their business is conducted. American homes should be made beautiful by refined and meritorious works of art; no one has any excuse for not adding to their homes the charms of pictures, for fine works of high art are within the reach of all.

Hard Worked Soldiers.

Our little army, the greater part of which is always "in the field" in the vast west, is called on to do much marching and often hard fighting, to do much hard work or manual labor, and also much menial service. These last two features destroy all soldierly feeling and esprit du corps, rendering the men sullen and discontented. Take the following as an example, habitually witnessed in the army. After a long day's march, with musket on his shoulder, forty rounds of ammunition in his cartridge box, and a day's rations of pork and hard tack in his haversack, the soldier reaches camp and longs to rest his weary limbs after putting up, with his mates, his little A tent, and bringing his share of wood for the camp fire. This is done cheerfully. But there is no rest for him. The sergeant calls for details of half a dozen men each to put up the tents for the officers, another detail to unload the officers' wagons and another to bring an ample supply of wood for each officer's tent fire, and also wood and water for the officers' cook. In the meantime the officer for whom the soldier performs these gratuitous services, and who bore no musket, ammunition or rations through the broiling sun, and who materially reduced the fatigues of the march by alternately riding and walking and thereby remaining comparatively fresh, sits on his stool sipping his toddy in sight of the tired soldier. To refuse to perform these "menial" duties, the soldier would incur the risk of being tied to a wagon wheel, or to be bucked and gagged or, in the mildest case, to get an extra guard and be subjected to all sorts of unpleasant treatment. Again, a soldier is called upon to do too much hard manual labor. He must be, or is made to be, also a carpenter, machinist, wagon-maker, axeman, etc. Hundreds of so called "forts," consisting of officers' and soldiers' quarters, quartermaster and commissary storehouses, stables and guardhouses, have been built by soldiers, some of whom receive a few cents "extra pay" daily, while the majority are detailed as "fatigue parties," without more than their scant soldier pay. There have been built thousands of miles of roads through the wilderness, and bridges as well, by our pioneer soldiery, who are often sadly overtasked.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

The Journ

Will be sent to any address during the Campaign

10c a Mont

CASH IN ADVANCE.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages interest and instruct young and old. It is alike serviceable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic and to the School Boy who longs to lay the foundation of an honest character and seeks for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, WOMEN

who have exercised and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication, treating principally of EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and sketches of the MOST PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the day.

Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent crowned and uncrowned Rulers, Members of Cabinets, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Editors, Historians, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Cardinals, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, MORRILL, HAYARD, MORRISON, TILDEN, EDMUNDS, LINCOLN, SABIN, BUTLER, SHERMAN, TILDEN, HENDRICKS, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HOADLEY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Catholics, Protestants, whether Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Baptists or Methodists, will find among the numerous characters in THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy as important places in this universally interesting volume constitute engrossing and fascinating reading, and will convince the reader that women has a noble mission and that she is well able to fulfill it.

If you would become acquainted with the faces and natures of the men and women whose names have become as familiar to everybody, get a copy of THE

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

E. L. KLOPSCH & Co., Publishers,

98 White Street, New York.

$1 A YEAR

ONE DOLLAR.

$1 A YEAR

ONE DOLLAR

$1 A YEAR.

The JOURNAL and FREE PRESS co for Two Dollars O Advance.

Detroit Free Press

THE HOUSEHOLD

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

Two Large Pages of News and Reading Matter, Every Week.

The Free Press Is the Cheapest of Dollar Weeklies.

Sample Copies Sent Free. Address, FREE PRESS CO., Detroit, Mich.

PIMPLES.

I will mail free the recipe for a simple vegetable balm that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES and blotches, leaving the skin clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, B. A. WOOD, 181 E. 125th St., New York City.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat, by mail, $8.00 per year in advance; postage paid.

Weekly Democrat, 32 pages, $2 per year. Specials for clubs, and the best paper for those possessing. Send for sample copy. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Opera Block

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 42

WM. J. STEVE HORSE-SHOE

Wagon S

BLACKSMITHIN

Heavy Wagons on hand and manufactured to order. ONE BLOCK WEST OF CROUTER & CO'S STORE, Charlevoix.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CROUTER & CO'S STORE, Charlevoix.

☞The OSBORNE MOWER on hand and for sale.

JOURNAL

ix, Mich., May 22, 1884.

ovision Market.

is to consumers, as corrected every ning BY UPRIGHT, EMREY & ers:

, $10, $8.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
L, per cwt, rolled $2.00; unbolted, ns, $@3.

ge, 50.
@2.25, per cwt, $1.50@1.60.
ber bu, $1.40.
, per bu, 50c.
ber bu, $1.00.
ber lb, 25c.
ed, 18c.
n, 14@16c.
, Shoulders, 12½c.
ns, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 5c.
, per lb, 10c.

WHITE OIL, 25c.
PRODUCE in good demand.

Items from the Market.

Pork, 12@14c; fresh pork, 12@8
Porkpies; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c;
ge.
@25c.

News Brevities.

talk with Petoskey.
al local on 8th page.
ara rain on Monday.
rs Belle has an immense
ations.
e Basties!! Busties!!! At
Emrey & Co.'s.
d Stoves are found only Bartholomew's.
es and lath for the million
. Emrey & Co.'s.
Atwell, of Boyne, gave the call on Monday.
ller has a large lot of new sizes and prices.
M. Livingston, of Boyne, short call Tuesday.
e A. R. Upright returned go of brick last Saturday.
Cruickshank arrived home
ssee county last Friday.
rgusson has a fine display of d work in his show window.
, cottons, collars, skirting,
ts, etc, at Upright, Emrey orth Star makes but one n day now, staying nights

ane is census commentator nship, with H. S. Harsha ewing passed up with a lath and shingles Sunday

Smith had another new scow on Tuesday, the second season.

Quiter, of East Jordan, was a Journal callers on Monday.

See, who has been quite e past two weeks, is able to again.

and turn out on decoration
Charlevoix will have an excel-ecial service.

dora Nelson went on Monday two months term of school township.

Green, inspector of posts of R., will visit all posts in his before the first of June.

Stuart, agent for the Peerless terproof slating, gave the call Thursday afternoon.

Depot announced for the dis-
the opera house next Sun-ng is "the ascension."

ham sand scow Commerce, on from Milwaukee to Toledo, at Charlevoix a few hours.

ffice of sheriff and judge of is now with prosecuting at-Norton, in the Battars block.

D. Bartholomew sold 19 wag-horse rakes, and 30 Chase & ring tooth drags last season.

D. Bartholomew has received boxes, and bundles of new ches moving into his new

Moorehead that J. J. Runnsdell, ld the suicide of East Jordan,
s been seen alive and well at City.

ge Martin pulled the little Fairplay off the bench last morning. She is uninjured ost some of her scows were little engaged in by some. The house is now being furnished, and will be ready for occupancy in five or six weeks. Mr. A. B. Chapman, a son of the proprietor, will have the management when it is opened to the public.

The morning service at the M. E. church next Sunday will be a practical sermon for all. At the evening service, being the last before the day for strewing flowers over the graves of our dead soldiers, there will be a memorial sermon. The church will be properly decorated for the occasion.

L. W. Skinner started on Monday for Tennessee and Alabama. In the latter state he will have charge of the chemical works in connection with a furnance, and if business is prosperous he will make that his permanent home. Sorry to lose him as a citizen, but wish him success wherever he goes.

The wire of the Bell Telephone line between Charlevoix and Petoskey reached here Tuesday afternoon, and messages sent and received. The temporary office is in the bridge keeper's house, but as soon as the cable arrives for crossing the channel the line will be completed to Dr. Crouters drug store, where the central office of a local exchange is to be located.

A. J. McLeod finds an excellent wholesale trade in fresh meat. His first lot of cattle and hogs received on the Champlain, is about gone, and he will have another lot here in a few days. He looks after the buying and shipping of live stock himself, and they arrive here in excellent condition. With his facilities for butchering and shipping, he can supply Charlevoix and up-lake towns on short notice with the best fresh meat.

Messrs. Stockman & Iddings solicit the patronage of our readers through the Journal this week, calling attention to their large line of agricultural implements, including the No. 10 Champion, the Gale, and the Oliver chilled plows, the Gale horse rake, the Albion Mfg Co.'s new horse rake, the Osborne No. 7 mower, and the Buchanan wagon. In hardware they have a large and complete line, and cannot fail to give satisfaction.

D. S. Way has associated with him in the photograph business, Mr. John Anderson, late of Cadillac, and the work of the latter gentleman will save to Charlevoix many dollars heretofore sent outside. The samples on exhibition are very clear and distinct, and speak well for the artist. Among the samples is one of a baby, taken by an instantaneous process which ought to insure a big business in that line. This arrangement on the part of Mr. Way is much to the benefit of Charlevoix and we wish the firm success.

The annual apportionment of the primary school interest fund for 1884 was made May 7, by Superintendent of public instruction H. R. Gass, at the rate of $1.31 per capita of the school census in districts entitled to share in such apportionment. The whole number of children in the state between the ages of 5 and 20 years is 560,659, but the apportionment is made on 557,579—the difference of 4,351 being children residing in districts that have not complied with the law as regards maintaining schools. Charlevoix county has 2,735 children in school census, 2,716 included in the apportionment, and the amount apportioned is $3,577.96.

The propeller Saginaw Valley, of the Saginaw Transportation Co.'s line, running between Saginaw and Chicago is at the pier as we go to press. Her object is to solicit business and the officer think the inducements sufficient for her to stop regularly at ports along this shore from Charlevoix to Frankfort and across to Manitowoc. Her round trip will occupy about ten days. We hope to give her dates at this port in a later issue. She is grain laden, but is equipped for carrying general merchandize. The passenger accommodations also seem to be excellent. We are authorized to announce that she will stop at Upright, Emrey & Co.'s dock.

From a letter written by D. C. Underwood, of Elmira, under date of May 11, '84, we clip the following: "It is a settled fact that the railroad survey will be made at once from Elmira via East Jordan and South Arm to Charlevoix, if the people of Charlevoix are disposed to help us. But we shall make survey to East Jordan, and commence Monday, May 12, and if a satisfactory route can be obtained, there will be no question about the road being built at once." A committee has been formed at this place to solicit funds for defraying our share of the expense of said survey, and we hope to see our citizens take hold of the matter in good earnest. Now is the time to act.—Enterprise.

Memorial Day.

The following is the order of exercises of the memorial services to be held at Charlevoix, under the auspices of Baxter Post No. 119 G. A. R.

Procession will form at one o'clock, p. m. sharp, on Bridge street under the direction of captain Harrison Berdan, marshal, and Dr. J. A. Cadotte, officer of the day, as follows:

First—Citizens decorated with flowers. Second—Charlevoix brass band. Third—Schools. Fourth—Good templars. Fifth—Walter Clifford Post G. A. R., of Boyne. Sixth—George Martin Post G. A. R., of Eastport. Seventh—Baxter Post G. A. R., of Charlevoix. Eighth—Citizens.

ORDER OF MARCH.

Starting from of opera house marching down Bridge street to Antrim, up Antrim to State, out State to cemetery (where the usual ceremonies will be performed), then returning down State street to Main, down Main to Bridge into opera house, concluding with the following:

Music by the band, singing by the choral society, prayer by the Rev. C. F. Van Auken, Oration by the Rev. T. J. Hill, of Boyne City, music by the band, singing by the choral society, and benediction by the Rev. J. T. Id dings.

Baxter Post will assemble at opera house at ten a. m. sharp to meet Walter Clifford Post.

National Memorial Address.

At the M. E. Church next Sunday evening Rev. J. T. Iddings will speak upon the duties of the christian and the citizen, on the day all should observe in remembrance of the lives sacrificed in maintaining our union. The discourse will be national in its scope, and should be listened to by ex-soldiers and members of the grand army. The church will be decorated with stars and strips.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Uptigrafft Bros., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, where the consideration is $100 or over, for the week ending Tuesday evening, May 20, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

James Holben and wife to John R. Vance, lot 2, 22 32 7, $2,000.

Charles W. Freese and wife to Wm. J. Yeoe, lot 10, blk 5, South lake, $100.

William T. Addis and wife to Alvernado Boise, lot 7, blk 3, Addis add. to Bay Spring, $100.

H. B. Chapman and wife to Louis N. Melosh, n e ¼ of s w ¼ 3 32 6, $224.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and keep up the system you will find Pettibone's Condition Powders unequalled. Full pounds 25c ets. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co. 8 20

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Farmer Jack's Santonine Worm Candies which will instantly cure the child and remove the worms by directing them. Do not know the symptoms? Feverishness, sudden starting in sleep, foul breath, great desire for food dry and scaly. If worse and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.
ARTISTIC PAPER HANGING.
Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4581

O. W. SMITH,
ELECTRO-PLATER,
Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. And all kind of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND DIAMONDS cut to order. 20

A PRIZE. send six cents for postage and we will send you free a royal box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. Address at once, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 4581

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Plows, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

EMERSON speaks "English as she is spoke." Recently at a social gathering in Washington, after rendering one piece on the pianoforte, he so represented as saying he lady who was congratulating him: "You bet I done got dat piece played up like a brack, and don't you forged it."

IF really looks now as if the public were on the eve of finding out what artificial butter is made of. A Congressional committee may fail in such a task; a chemical analysis may prove unsatisfactory, and incomplete, for all these are susceptible to outside influences. But two butterine manufacturers have brought their grievances into court in New York, and it will be surprising if they do not give the business away before the quarrel is ended.

A WASHINGTON letter writer thinks that the popularity of Mrs. McElroy, the President's sister, "comes not only from her natural tact and womanly graces, but from the fact that she has recognized and cultivated the wives and daughters of resident citizens more than the mistress of the White House has ever done. As the sister of the President, claiming no official rank, she has been free to come and go, to accept or decline several deference as she pleased, and she has disarmed professional critics by going everywhere she was invited, and managing to have a good time."

MR. GREEN, conductor on the passenger train that rolled it within a bright near Cambridge, Ohio, last fall, says that in one of the couches in which several persons were fatally injured, a woman's dress was found dead, evidently killed by fright, as there was not a scratch or bruise on him anywhere. The hair and chin whiskers were black, but when the body was discovered both hair and whiskers were thoroughly white. The body was put into a vault at Zanesville, and at the final interment in a month or two both hair and whiskers had changed back to their original black

IN Franklin County, Kentucky, Mary Stephens supposed her husband was dead, he having left home many years ago, and she married again in July last. Stephens, however, is less wicked than recently, not intending to let himself be known. His wife immediately recognized him, and, throwing her arms about his neck and screaming, "My long lost husband," kissed him. This aroused the jealousies of the new husband, who would not set upon making a drawing knife to hack in his head, scarring the mother with Stephens drew a revolver and shot the murderer, whom he ran over Stephens a carriage to the back of the neck with the draw-log chain. But he was fatally injured.

CHIEF JUSTICE ALDERSON of the bar always seemed to be considerable to the brains of children that they dislike what we call the study of history. He usually began to learn them, he says, "when they certainly like it quite as well as their parents. Then it is easy to learn the dates, because they are the public history. The first office we filled, and "United States," and upside down. "There, no sensible boy is ashamed that he can't remember whether it was 1776 or 1492. The thing is to look to it that he knows it when he comes to be a man." The best way to take possession of known length, a thought is worked it remains matter of a lifetime, and could the ordinary schools spend as much time on it as Prince, Parker, and Bancroft. Here Mr. Alderson sweetened his sip, but the rest of his remarks were lost in the rattle of dishes and conversation.

A NEW style is said to have been created by Englishmen and John Bull's manners and customs are copied, and Americans who could not clear up their pedigree to the satisfaction of the Heralds' College have to content themselves with the style of "Americans of English descent." Now comes the Scotch, and the Scotch-Irish are to be the style of "Americans of Scotch descent." Then will come the Welsh, and the Welsh-Irish, and the Germans, and the Germans-Irish, and the Italians, and the Italians-Irish, and the Spaniards, and the Spaniards-Irish, and the Africans, and the Africans-Irish, and the Asiatics, and the Asiatics-Irish, and the Australians, and the Australians-Irish, and the Polynesians, and the Polynesians-Irish, and the Esquimaux, and the Esquimaux-Irish, and the Chinese, and the Chinese-Irish, and the Japanese, and the Japanese-Irish, and the Hottentots, and the Hottentots-Irish, and the Fiji Islanders, and the Fiji Islanders-Irish, and the Cannibals, and the Cannibals-Irish, and the Aborigines, and the Aborigines-Irish, and the Mound Builders, and the Mound Builders-Irish, and the Mastodons, and the Mastodons-Irish, and the Megatheriums, and the Megatheriums-Irish, and the Ichthyosauruses, and the Ichthyosauruses-Irish, and the Plesiosauruses, and the Plesiosauruses-Irish, and the Pterodactyls, and the Pterodactyls-Irish, and the Dodos, and the Dodos-Irish, and the Great Auks, and the Great Auks-Irish, and the Moas, and the Moas-Irish, and the Dinornis, and the Dinornis-Irish, and the Ornithorhynchus paradoxus, and the Ornithorhynchus paradoxus-Irish, and the Missing Link, and the Missing Link-Irish, and the Primordial Germ, and the Primordial Germ-Irish, and the Protoplasm, and the Protoplasm-Irish, and the Primeval Fog, and the Primeval Fog-Irish, and the Chaos, and the Chaos-Irish, and the Nebulous Vapor, and the Nebulous Vapor-Irish, and the Universal Gas, and the Universal Gas-Irish, and the Force, and the Force-Irish, and the Man, and the Man-Irish, and the Brute, and the Brute-Irish, and the Vegetable, and the Vegetable-Irish, and the Mineral, and the Mineral-Irish, and the Crystal, and the Crystal-Irish, and the Dust, and the Dust-Irish, and the Nothing, and the Nothing-Irish.

AT a recent meeting of the Boston Society of Natural History, Professor Wyman read a paper on the "Growth of the Human Body," in which he showed that the average height of the male adult is 5 feet 8 inches, and the female 5 feet 3 inches. The average weight of the male is 140 pounds, and the female 120 pounds. The average weight of the brain of the male is 49 ounces, and the female 44 ounces. The average weight of the heart of the male is 10 ounces, and the female 8 ounces. The average weight of the lungs of the male is 40 ounces, and the female 32 ounces. The average weight of the liver of the male is 56 ounces, and the female 48 ounces. The average weight of the kidneys of the male is 10 ounces, and the female 8 ounces. The average weight of the spleen of the male is 7 ounces, and the female 6 ounces. The average weight of the pancreas of the male is 6 ounces, and the female 5 ounces. The average weight of the stomach of the male is 5 ounces, and the female 4 ounces. The average weight of the intestines of the male is 30 ounces, and the female 25 ounces. The average weight of the bladder of the male is 2 ounces, and the female 1 ounce. The average weight of the skin of the male is 30 ounces, and the female 25 ounces. The average weight of the muscles of the male is 60 ounces, and the female 50 ounces. The average weight of the bones of the male is 20 ounces, and the female 16 ounces. The average weight of the blood of the male is 10 ounces, and the female 8 ounces. The average weight of the fat of the male is 10 ounces, and the female 8 ounces. The average weight of the skin of the male is 30 ounces, and the female 25 ounces. The average weight of the muscles of the male is 60 ounces, and the female 50 ounces. The average weight of the bones of the male is 20 ounces, and the female 16 ounces. The average weight of the blood of the male is 10 ounces, and the female 8 ounces. The average weight of the fat of the male is 10 ounces, and the female 8 ounces.

THE LITTLE FOLKS.

The Way It Struck Her.

A little raccoon-1 orphan girl, who never Had a home nor known a parent's care,
And who, with shoeless feet and hatless head,
No newspapers sold to earn her scanty board,
Was taken from the city jail away,
With others of her kind, one summer day,
To look upon the ocean. At the sight
Her city heart she was filled with grave delight;
And some one said, "I wonder what can be
Her thoughts, poor child, about the mighty sea."
She heard the words, and quickly turned her head,
And in a low tones, "To thinkin', ma'am," she said,
"As she I owned, because I never saw Enough-t-t anything at once before."
Harper's Young People.

A Locomotive Engine.

First let us look at the engine. It has a decidedly business like appearance. Steam is upto full pressure, and is blowing off through the safety-valve with a fierce hissing sound. The engine is one of the most powerful that are made, and its driving-wheel is of immense proportions. It is with no idle purpose that the driver and stoker examine the working parts and pour oil on all the joints of friction. There is the strength of a thousand horses embodied in this machine, which occupies the rear part from the tunnel to the screen which shelters its driver and stoker. The boiler virtually consists of a large tube having numerous small tubes traversing it from end to end. The ends of the small tubes are brought out through the ends of the boiler, and the use of the small tubes is to carry heated air and flame through the water which surrounds them, and thus cause it to be rapidly converted into steam. As the steam is generated it collects at a very high pressure in the large copper dome that surmounts the boiler, and from that point it is conducted to the cylinders through pipes. The cylinders lie one on either side under the fore end of the boiler. When the steam is admitted on to either cylinder and causes a piston to move to and fro. The piston has a stout rod of iron attached to it which is connected with a crank on the axle of the driving-wheels. As the pistons move from end to end of the cylinders they exert pressure on the crank, and cause the wheels to revolve, and so the train is drawn forward.

Elizabeth Zane.

The records of a brave, heroic action an action which sacrifices personal safety or selfish interest for the good of others, or for the furtherance of a high and noble purpose, is always dear to the human heart with a thrill, not only of admiration, but it enkindles a kindred spirit, a desire to be equally brave and heroic.

The incident of which I would like to tell you occurred during the revolutionary war, but it was during the attack on a small party of Indians, who, having been driven from their lands by the whites, as we all know, sought every and opportunities of retaliation and revenge.

On the first of September, 1782, John Ewan, a celebrated scout, discovered a band of Indians rapidly approaching a little fort in West Virginia, where Wheeling is now situated. The Indians were evidently on hostile thoughts intent. Ewan hastened to the fort, to apprise the whites of their danger, and all were speedily engaged in preparations for defense.

The fort at that time was not thought to be in danger of an attack from the Britsh, as the troops had been almost entirely withdrawn, to be sent to other and more exposed posts. There were about twenty men, with a number of women, in the fort, which was in command of Col. Silas Zane.

The daughter of Col. Ebenezer Zane was also there, and her name will be remembered as being somewhat prominent during the first years of the history of our country. Elizabeth Zane, as she was then called, was a beautiful girl, and was the idol of her father's heart. Her mother died when she was quite young, and she had been the companion of her father's solitude, and the sharer of his every thought. She was a very decided character, and was not afraid to express her opinions, and to act upon them.

In the dwelling there were only Ewan, Andrew Scott, George Green, Mr. and Mrs. Molly Scott, Mrs. McCulloch, and a colored servant and his wife, besides Miss Zane.

Three times the Indians advanced, and three times they were forced to retreat before the unerring rifles of the whites. In this last attack they almost succeeded in gaining an entrance into the fort, for the women molded bullets as fast as they could be fired, and the men were able to keep up an almost continuous fire, for the women molded bullets as fast as they could be fired.

The contest was closed for the day by the coming of night, after the third attack, and the whites were able to rest during the remainder of the night.

But it was agreed by some that the Indians would renew the attack in the morning, and that they would be able to force their way into the fort. Powder was running low, and it was necessary to have a fresh supply. As the pistons move from end to end of the cylinders they exert pressure on the crank, and cause the wheels to revolve, and so the train is drawn forward

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 29, 1884.

Additional Local.

Ironton.

Preaching last Sunday at 3 o'clock, by Rev. C. F. Van Auken, of Charlevoix.

The father of Mr. Geo. Jones, from Virginia, who has been here visiting, returned home this week.

The pioneer landlord has a new hat bought expressly for him in Chicago at a great expense, by Geo. Miller the Charlevoix clothier.

The iron company made 52 tons of pig iron on Saturday.

The board of review meet this week Monday morning. A. Beers and Asa Smith are on the board.

Burgess.

A son of Mr. Orlesky's was badly injured one day last week by a bull. Had three ribs broken.

There was a road bee on quarter line road from Chauncy Howe's, Jr.'s, to land of Susan Jake last Friday, and we understand they were successful in opening it through.

Mrs. Atkinson is visiting friends up in Hayes, where her homestead is.

E. H. Burgess, supervisor, is around making assessment of the wealth of the town.

Elder Robinson preached at the Indian church last Sunday. He comes from Mt. Clemens once in three weeks to fill an appointment here.

South Arm.

We had a tornado gale here on Thursday last which was the hardest "blow" the oldest inhabitant ever experienced.

Mr. E. N. Chok can now be found dispensing goods to the numerous customers at S. G. Isaman's. Sol. has a new stock of clothing.

Phil Lanway's new building now wears the aspect of a store. The front casings are painted a pale green.

The M. L. Biggie of Chicago is loading at J. C. Glenn's.

Elder Blake preached at the school house on Sunday last, and across the lake in the evening.

Mrs. Hugh Whiteford is quite ill.

D. C. Underwood, of Elmira, was here talking "railroad" on Friday last. He contemplates beginning the survey this week.

Miss Edith Cole is teaching at Happs and Miss Loveday at Notley district.

I must beg the pardon of the Nellie Reddy. Enough ignorance shewn missed in the count, in my last issue.

Mr. A. Hosking, of Intermediate, has removed his share of his father's project.

Not Good-bye on Cardboards.

The popular comedian was obliged to "lay off" for three nights in New York, on account of carbuncles. To a friend he discussed on the tender subject as follows: "A carbuncle is not a funny affair. But the dence of it is, everybody thinks so. I tried to set with the infernal thing and it made me squirm and contort myself. Well, look here, you never had a bigger spit had a wood of wood on the back of your neck, did you? No! of course not, and then you never had two other niggers make a bonfire of it on your shoulders, so you don't know the true inwardness of the carbuncle. Woo, sir, imagine a mule set up with six rattail hies shoved through his throat and all of 'em turning round. Don't understand that I objected to that. Oh, no! What I objected to is that the newspapers mistook my agony for a new development of talent. That's what cut me up. I began to get anxious critiquing—hang me if I didn't—and you know I'm no sort of man to stand quietly by and have an analytical critiquem. Why, one fellow who saw the tears forced down his eyes and heard me gnaw my teeth, said that I was developing a realistic grasp of the morbidly emotional that gave promise of making me in time the brother Mortis of high art. Talk about carbuncles after that. Bing go, I was getting pushed into the position of a tragedian, and my wife, who read the notices, wept for joy. 'What's carbuncles, says she, 'when you are on the road to fame?' You never had any vitriol thrown in your face—no, of course not—oh, well, if you like, you wouldn't hurt, would you?' Well, I said to, and the newspapers mistook me suffering for artistic skills. It makes me sick. What, they say when I get well? that's what I want to know. I don't want to be an ivying or a Clara Morris. I want to go home.

It is said that when the cyclone demolished the Baptist Church at Mount Carmel, S. C., the pulpit was left standing, the bible and hymn-book remaining undisturbed.

Corsets Laughed at in Japan.

In the country house of a ruined daimio, where we obtained lodging and entertainment, writes an English lady traveling in Japan, I was a cause of much amusement. A number of ladies were invited to meet me at afternoon tea (the name for dinner). They sat on their heels around the little table which I used as a chair. My feet were stretched out before me. The hostess with, as I took it, many apologies, began to inspect my boots. As her curiosity was keen, I drew them off. All the ladies pounced upon them, and some of them asked leave to fit them on. Before doing this they caused bowls of hot water to be fetched, washed their feet carefully, and dried them by fanning them, which made the wet evaporate quickly. As they all had children's feet, my boots were awkwardly big and more ridiculous than I can say. The ladies next handled my skirt and corsage, and, to oblige them, I took them off. The petticoats had their turn, then my stockings, which they did not laugh at, after them my buckled elastic gaiters, and last my stays. Japanese politeness here broke down. Every one shook and cried with laughter in looking at the stays. One of the ladies had picked up some French at Osaka (a frosty port), and explained to me that the others wished to know whether the stays had been invented to serve as a cuirass to protect fair Europeans from rude men, or was it worn as a penitential garment to expiate sins? I said: "No, but to beautify the figure." This answer convulsed them. A stayed-up woman affected their impressionable and well-educated eyes as something monstrously ugly and absurd. Japanese dress is so beautiful and so easy. There was yet another question to be answered. There are, so far as I know, neither cows nor goats in Japan. Children are not, therefore, weaned until they are nearly big enough to go to school. I had noticed that poor little Miss Mite was an object of general commiseration. I did not know why. The reason came out when my stays were being examined. They were a barrier between the mother and the child, which was cut off by them from its lacteal rights. I told them that we delegated the nursing duties to poor women and cows. I am afraid I was imperfectly translated, for I saw that I was for a moment an object of horror.

The late Judge Otis Phillips Lord, of Massachusetts, is said to have made but one direct mistake on a question of law while he was on the bench, and that was on a statute which had just been amended. On discovering his mistake, and that it was one to the action just taken by the legislature, he said: "Well, the good Lord only knows what the Massachusetts Legislature hasn't done in the last six months.—New York Tribune.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's oriental balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Humors from tan, freckles and all blemishes in a superior degree to all others that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAYLEE, Capt. John Mason

Leave Charlevoix	7:30 a m	2:00 p m
Arrive East Jordan	8:30 a m	3:00 p m
Leave East Jordan	9:00 a m	3:30 p m
Arrive Charlevoix	10:00 a m	4:30 p m

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT, Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix	8:30 a m	2:00 p m
Arrive Boyne	9:30 a m	3:00 p m
Leave Boyne	10:00 a m	3:30 p m
Arrive Charlevoix	11:00 a m	4:30 p m

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE, Capt. A. H. Bennett

Leave East Jordan	8 a m	1 p m	6 p m
Arrive Petoskey	11 a m	4 p m	9 p m
Harbor Springs	11 a m	4 p m	9 p m

Stopping at intermediate points.

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str NORTH STAR, Capt. Geo. B. Thompson

Leave Boyne	8 a m	2 p m
Arrive Charlevoix	9 a m	3 p m

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix

Steamer CLARA BELLE, Capt. A. H. Bennett

LEAVE	A M	P M	P M
East Jordan	7:30	10:30	3:30
Charlevoix	8:30	11:30	4:30

Stopping at intermediate points.

GRAND LEDGE COMPANY'S STANDARD LINE.
SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.

CAPT. C. E. WILCOX.

LEAVE	NORTH		SOUTH	ARRIVE
Monday Wednesday			Tuesday Thursday
Friday			Saturday
7:00 a m	Grand Rapids			5:00 p m
8:00 a m	Ionia			4:00 p m
9:00 a m	Portland			3:00 p m
10:00 a m	Grand Ledge			2:00 p m
11:00 a m	Charlotte			1:00 p m
12:00 m	Eaton Rapids			12:00 m
1:00 p m	Mason			11:00 a m
2:00 p m	Dansville			10:00 a m
3:00 p m	Stockbridge			9:00 a m
4:00 p m	Gregory			8:00 a m
5:00 p m	Pinckney			7:00 a m
6:00 p m	Hamburg			6:00 a m
7:00 p m	Whitmore Lake			5:00 a m
8:00 p m	Ann Arbor			4:00 a m

T. S. FAXTON.
CAPT. A. A. ANGELL.

LEAVE	NORTH		SOUTH	ARRIVE
Tuesday Thursday			Monday Wednesday
Saturday			Friday
7:00 a m	Grand Rapids			5:00 p m
8:00 a m	Ionia			4:00 p m
9:00 a m	Portland			3:00 p m
10:00 a m	Grand Ledge			2:00 p m
11:00 a m	Charlotte			1:00 p m
12:00 m	Eaton Rapids			12:00 m
1:00 p m	Mason			11:00 a m
2:00 p m	Dansville			10:00 a m
3:00 p m	Stockbridge			9:00 a m
4:00 p m	Gregory			8:00 a m
5:00 p m	Pinckney			7:00 a m
6:00 p m	Hamburg			6:00 a m
7:00 p m	Whitmore Lake			5:00 a m
8:00 p m	Ann Arbor			4:00 a m

CONNECTIONS.

Will be made at Grand Rapids with the Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. for all points East, West, North and South; at Ionia with the Detroit, Lansing & Northern R. R. for Detroit, Saginaw, Bay City and Mackinaw; at Portland with the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee R. R. for Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee; at Grand Ledge with the Chicago & Grand Trunk R. R. for Detroit, Port Huron, Battle Creek and Chicago; at Eaton Rapids with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern R. R. for Detroit, Toledo and Chicago; at Mason with the Detroit, Lansing & Northern R. R. for Detroit, Saginaw, Bay City and Mackinaw; at Dansville with the Ann Arbor R. R. for Toledo and Ann Arbor; at Stockbridge with the Michigan Central R. R. for Detroit and Chicago; at Gregory with the Detroit, Hillsdale & Indiana R. R. for Detroit, Hillsdale and Indiana; at Pinckney with the Detroit, Lansing & Northern R. R. for Detroit, Saginaw, Bay City and Mackinaw; at Hamburg with the Detroit, Lansing & Northern R. R. for Detroit, Saginaw, Bay City and Mackinaw; at Whitmore Lake with the Detroit, Lansing & Northern R. R. for Detroit, Saginaw, Bay City and Mackinaw; at Ann Arbor with the Michigan Central R. R. for Detroit and Chicago, and the Ann Arbor R. R. for Toledo and Ann Arbor.

JAMES A. KEAT, Manager.
GRAND LEDGE, MICH.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, D.		7 00am	7 15pm
Richmond	2 37pm	10 22	9 52
Winchester	3 51	11 37	11 08
Ridgeville	4 11	11 57	11 30
Fort Wayne, ar	6 42	2 25pm	1 55am
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 47	2 50	8 07am
Kendallville		3 35	3 52	9 17
Sturgis		5 11	5 11	10 57
Vicksburg		5 41	6 13	11 36
Kalamazoo, ar		6 52	6 52	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, lv		7 02	7 12	1 52
G R Junction		9 02	9 05	3 45
G R Rapids, lv	7 15am		9 50	4 45
D G H & M cross	7 30		10 05	5 05
Howard City	8 47		11 30	6 22
Big Rapids	9 11		12 00m	6 57
Reed City	10 17		1 12	8 10
Cadillac, ar	11 25		2 25	9 30
Cadillac, lv			3 05	9 40
Traverse City, ar			5 55	12 05am
Kalkaska, lv			4 17	12 05am
Muncelona			4 49	12 55
Boyne Falls			5 03	1 30
Petoskey, ar			6 28	3 11
Harbor Springs			7 35	5 00
Mackinaw City			8 05	6 00
St Ignace			10 05	8 30
Marquette			7 00am	5 50pm
Negaunee, ar			9 12	7 00

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv			5 15pm	7 30am
Marquette			3 00	5 20
St Ignace			5 45pm	6 15pm
Mackinaw City			8 00	8 30
Harbor Springs			2 00	4 30
Petoskey, lv			2 45	5 15
Boyne Falls			4 18	12 27am
Muncelona			4 32	12 41
Kalkaska			5 03	2 56
Traverse City, lv			12 05am
Cadillac, ar			12 25	5 30
Cadillac, lv		3 30pm	11 45	5 50
Reed City		4 49	1 15pm	7 10
Big Rapids		5 12	1 41	7 40
Howard City		6 30	2 59	8 57
D G H & M cross		7 25	4 18	10 05
G R Rapids, ar		7 40	4 35	10 20
G R Rapids, lv	6 25am		4 50	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, ar	8 57		6 37	2 21
Kalamazoo, lv	6 37		6 52	2 58
Vicksburg	8 05		7 52	3 49
Sturgis	10 01		8 16	4 12
Kendallville	11 18		9 37	5 31
Fort Wayne, ar	12 20pm		10 52	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv	12 55	5 32am	11 20	7 05pm
Ridgeville	3 09	7 56	2 31
Winchester	3 28	8 16	2 53
Richmond, ar	4 57	9 47	4 07
Cincinnati, ar		1 00pm	12 50pm	1 50am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Act'g G. P. Act., Grand Rapids, Mich.

WHEREAS, a majority of the resident owners of real estate on the south side of Newman street, in the village of Charlevoix, Michigan, have petitioned the president and common council to order a sidewalk built on said south side of said street, between State street and Sherman street, on said side of street, and the committee on streets and sidewalks having examined the premises and recommended that the prayer of the petitioners be granted. Therefore, on motion of Trustee Crozier, it is ordered by the common council of the village of Charlevoix, that a sidewalk be built on the south side of said street, between State street and Sherman street, on said side of street, by the adjoining owners thereon, within twenty days from the date of the service of this notice, said sidewalk to be six (6) feet wide, and of two inch plank laid lengthwise, securely fastened with two spikes to each joist upon two lone by four scantling, laid crosswise three feet apart. And the further ordered, that the marshal forthwith serve a copy of this order on each owner hereinbefore mentioned, to construct said sidewalk, and in case said adjoining owners, or any part thereof, shall neglect or refuse to build said sidewalk within the time above prescribed that the Marshal forthwith proceed to build such sidewalk and report the cost of the same, as provided in the ordinance relating to the construction of sidewalks.

Dated at Charlevoix, May 7th, A. D. 1884.

Attest
BENJAMIN WALKER, Clerk.

PROBATE ORDER. State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the 13th day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Martin Walker praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court may be proved as the last will and testament of said deceased, and that the executor named in said instrument may be appointed to perform said will and that letters testamentary may be issued to him. It is ordered that the 10th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that all persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and published in said county of Charlevoix, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
A true copy. Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER. State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the 6th day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of ANDREW HOWLETT, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Moses Howlett, praying among other things that administration of said estate may be granted to Moses Howlett or to some other suitable person. It is ordered that the 10th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that all persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and published in said county of Charlevoix, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
A true copy. Judge of Probate.

NORTH PENINSULA TEMPERANCE CAMP MEETING. The Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R. will sell excursion tickets from Jackson to Walloon Lake, Antrim county, Michigan, and return, at one fare for the round trip, on the following dates, viz: June 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, July 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, August 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, September 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, October 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, November 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, December 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 1885, January 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, February 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, March 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, April 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, May 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, June 1, 2,

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

THE funeral of Charles O'Conor took place from the Roman Catholic Cathedral at New York. Ex-Senator Conkling, William M. Evarts, Benjamin H. Bristow, Mgr. Capel, and the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix were among the hundreds of prominent men in attendance.

IN the New York Stock Exchange, on the 16th inst., values opened lower and unsettled, but before the first call a steadier feeling manifested itself, an advance of 1 to 2½ per cent. being noted. Then the failure of H. C. Hardy & Sons was announced, when values again sagged off, and the list dropped still further when it became known that the Newark Savings Institution had closed its doors. After this, confidence began to return, there being heavy purchases of stocks for foreign shipment. Before the close a dread of further failures resulted in a feverish feeling, which passed away rapidly when no disasters ocurred, and the market closed in a "whirl of animation" unknown for a long time. Call loans dropped from 1½ per cent. per diem to 3 to 6 per cent. per annum, and large amounts of money were received from the country. The feeling of confidence was enhanced by the bank of New York loaning $2,000,000 on Government bonds, and by the issuance of $5,000,000 certificates by the Clearing House. Closing deals indicated an advance of 2 to 8 points in active shares, and the feeling was that the crisis had been passed and that the market would soon return to its normal condition.

BOXEY BRAY and William Hendershot, two bad characters were fatally shot by Policeman McAbeese, near Pittsburgh.

SHARE speculation in the New York Exchange opened with a marked improvement on the 17th inst. The sales for the day were unusually heavy, reaching 456,000 shares, a large number of which were taken for foreign account. Money, which at one time lent at 1 per cent. per diem, closed at 3 per cent. per annum. Government bonds were active at higher rates. The feeling in railroad bonds marked an improvement, but State securities were rather tame. United States called bonds to the amount of $23,000 were redeemed. For use in case of necessity, $8,000,000 in legal tenders was shipped from Washington to the Assistant Treasurer at New York. C. McCullough, Brecher & Co., New York merchants, have failed. Mr. Brecher is a nephew of Henry Ward Beecher.

ALEXANDER WHITE, who operated a creamery at Grand Rapids, Mich., having lost $125,000 in Wall street, killed himself at the home of his mother in Utica, N. Y.

JOHN PARMELEE died April 20 Boston's old increased $2,000,000, and now amounts to $14,277,570.

A DERAILMENT occurred near Perrysburg, Ohio, on the Lake Shore road, on the 17th inst., by which the engineer of a switch-locomotive was resting in the switch-house some person at present unknown opened the switch, and the locomotive, along the track for a quarter of a mile or thereabouts, then "reversed the engine" and started it to run back at the highest rate of speed possible. The villain jumped off just after the start. The engine soon after came into collision with a passenger train on a down slope. Both engines were totally wrecked. An express messman, Charles Tickner, was badly, perhaps fatally, injured. Those on the passenger cars were badly scared, but, strange to say, none were injured. The train-hands escaped by a miracle.

THE Penn State Bank, of Pittsburgh, closed its doors last week, a steady "run" having lazy b disabled the fund. The President, Mr. Riddle, says the concern is able to pay dollar for dollar. The liabilities will be about $1,000,000, with assets greatly in excess of these figures.

A crowded passenger and freight train on the Pan Handle route collided with a freight train at Bellaire, Ohio, on the 18th inst. Engineer Dever, of the passenger train, was instantly killed. Five employés of the road were seriously injured.

THE Pennsylvania manufacturers have deemed it inadvisable to force any issue in the matter of a 10 per cent. reduction in the wages of their employés. It is probable, therefore, that the mills will be run at the present rate of wages. Ferdinand Ward was arrested in New York, on suit by the City Chamberlain, bail being fixed at $300,000.

THE WEST.

THE temperance workers of Chicago met in Farwell Hall, on that city, the other day, to provide means for carrying on the work commenced by Francis Murphy. The amount secured was $2 made the first day, and $1,000 had been signed for pledges. Each of these present favored the creation of a temporary committee, to be formed from point to point in the city. The specific location was left to an executive committee.

Early vegetables in Southern Wisconsin were greatly damaged by a heavy frost last week.

REPORTS of the condition of the corn and grain crops from various sections of Iowa and Illinois, printed in the Chicago Tribune, indicate that the corn area planted in both States is about 10 per cent. less than last year. The present conditions point to a large yield. The grain crops are in a healthy condition, and the farmers seem confident of a bountiful harvest. From the freshgrowing districts of both States satisfactory reports have been received. Pasture looks unlooking well, and the hay crop will be abundant.

A STORMY tragedy was recently enacted at Smith's Landing, Monroe County, Ill. Monroe Gray, a well-known citizen of the little town of Columbia, killed his wife and her paramour, a man named Wm. Ditch-Gray, who is quite prominent in Illinois politics and well known throughout the State, has, it seems, for some time doubted his wife's fidelity. His doubts were finally set at rest by witnessing with his own eyes what he had previously only suspected. He immediately brought his revolver into requisition, killing both his wife and the man. Ditch was wealthy, and owned the property where Gray resided. The two families have been intimate. Gray was arrested. He says he meant to kill Ditch, but not his wife; that he killed her accidentally while shooting at the man.

HOYNTON, of Milwaukee, who is digging for diamonds near Waukesha, Wis., is said to have found two in the gravel strata last week. Such crowds have been attracted to the spot that he has been compelled to build a high fence around the entire claim to keep them away.

THE will of the late Cyrus H. McCormick has been admitted to probate in Chicago, with Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick, the widow of the deceased, and Cyrus H. McCormick, his son, as executors. The value of the estate is estimated at $10,000,000. It is left to the widow of the deceased, his sons, Cyrus H., Herold F., and Stanley R., and to his daughters, Mary V., and Anita E. The property bequeathed consists of real estate, improved and unimproved, in Illinois, Wisconsin, Virginia, Nebraska, Iowa, and Minnesota, and nearly three-quarters of the stock of the McCormick Harvesting-Machine Company.

IN the City Hospital at Kansas City Barney Weaver, a tramine, after attacking two patients and Steward Winfrey with a knife and attempting to burn the structure, was shot dead by the steward. . . . Henry Dillon, of Akron, Ohio, came to find his children, who were carried away by their mother. He has recently inherited a large fortune in California.

REV. R. WILLIAMS, of Chillicothe, Mo., having been warned by his deacons that he would be prosecuted for bigamy by a wife living in the East, poisoned himself in a field with a bottle of prussic acid. . . . The suspension bridge across the Scioto River, at Portsmouth, Ohio, was crushed by a drove of cattle. Three children of the name of Dawson, Ohio, but formerly of Petersburg, Ind., business block . . . . The engraving establishment of Moore, Stevens Point, Wis., saw mill and lumber-yard . . . . Buena Vista, Ill., flouring mill . . . . Linn, Ohio, hominy mill . . . . Ralston Sis., N. Y., tannery . . . . New York, railway repair shop . . . . Troy, N. Y., knitting mill . . . . St. Paul, Minn., four buildings . . . . Cincinnati, lead pipe works . . . .

	Losses.
New Orleans, four stores	$ 50,000
Washington City, Willard's Hotel	15,000
Louisville, Cole, seventeen buildings	30,000
Slater, Mo., flouring mill	10,000
Atlanta, Ill., dwelling house	6,000
Mooresville, Mass., woolen yarn mill	150,000
Trenton, N. J., pork packing-house	25,000
New York City, four buildings	50,000
New Orleans, sugar house	30,000
Cleveland, Ohio, box factory	15,000
Petersburg, Ind., business block	20,000
Stevens Point, Wis., saw mill and lumber-yard	25,000
Buena Vista, Ill., flouring mill	10,000
Linn, Ohio, hominy mill	10,000
Ralston Sis., N. Y., tannery	25,000
New York, railway repair shop	30,000
Troy, N. Y., knitting mill	40,000
St. Paul, Minn., four buildings	15,000
Cincinnati, lead pipe works	60,000

GENERAL.

P. J. SHERIDAN, one of the reputed "No. 1's" of the Irish Invincibles, who has figured in America to some extent as an Irish dynamite orator, and Mr. Patrick Ford, editor of the dynamite organ in New York, have begun to quarrel, about the funds' as a matter of course. Ford in a three-column article in his paper charges that Sheridan has the dynamite or "emergency" fund which he started some months ago is due to the remembrance in Ford, and insinuates that the fund is not being used by him for blatant private and personal emergencies.

THE Democratic members of the Western Union Telegraph Company for the year shows gross revenues of $19,571,176; expenses, including all expenses of operating, maintenance, reconstruction, taxes, rent of leased lines, etc., $12,328,863, net profits, $6,642,513. The earnings of the first four months of the present year are greater than for the corresponding months of last year. . . . The Methodist Conference at Philadelphia closed its session on the 18th inst. . . . Exporters: The Rev. Dr. Arthur Edwards, Northwestern Christian Advocate, of Chicago; the Rev. Dr. Ryc, Buffalo Christian Advocate, of Buffalo; the Rev. D. M. Reese, Methodist, of New York; the Rev. Dr. Bayliss, Western Christian Advocate, of Cincinnati; the Rev. O. H. Warren, of the Advocate.

ABOUT sixty gentlemen, representing the sugar, wool, rice, and other industrial interests of the country, met in Chicago in mass convention, on the 7th. Curtis, of Boston, was called to the chair. A platform was adopted claiming protection as the right of labor, and declaring that States until other nations shall pay equally high wages to workmen as we do. . . . The annual convention of the Brotherhood of the United States was held at Buffalo. The principal feature of the session was an address delivered an address, referring to the separation of the male and distilled liquor traffic, prohibition, restrictive legislation, and party politics.

THE National Convention of Wool Growers met in Chicago, for the purpose of taking steps to secure a restoration of the tariff of 1867 on wools and woolens. Columbus, Delano, of Ohio, was elected President, and made a long address, in which he urged united action in efforts to secure favorable legislation, and the convention adopted a series of strong resolutions denouncing free trade and declaring for a protection of their industry.

FOREIGN.

AT his first "speech from the throne," King Alfonso, of Spain, promised that the pay of the soldiers should be increased, and that he should be a reform in the system of national taxation, and that the commercial treaty between Spain and England should be speedily laid in force Parliament.

TWO or the leading London dailies, the Telegraph and Standard, devote editorial to notices of the death of Sam Ward, the American bon-vivant, who is described as "generous and sympathetic," "a most genial cosmopolitan," and it is said that "nearly" pauses opened their doors wide and welcomed him with unspoiled sympathy."

In the British House of Commons, the bill amending the Irish laborers act of 1883 was rejected by a vote of 158 to 76. Parnell complained of the opposition offered by Trevelyan, Chief Secretary for Ireland. He said the Government could not find fault if it meets with retaliation. "Does the Government," he asked, "merely to wait until the laborers burn the houses over the heads of the dissenting landlords? The laborers have been patient, but it is intolerable that they should continue to live upon mud floors until a commission has investigated their grievances." . . . A terrible epidemic is reported in Akyab, British Burmah. Immense damage was done.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

A WELL of natural gas, of eight thousand horse power, was struck in Pittsburgh at a depth of 15,000 feet.

SURVEYORS are locating a railroad from Coalport to Cresson, Pa., to open up a huge bituminous coal-field. Contracts have been made for the construction of a road of 3230 miles from Washington County, Arkansas, to the eastern State line.

A DETECTIVE of Kansas City states that A. H. Sheldon, formerly President of the Blue Spring Milling Company, with $50,000 in his possession, started on a train of detectives to arrest him and conduct him to a train, where, assuming a complete disguise, he left for New York and sailed for England. The story of his abduction at the instance of his partner is said to be false. . . . William Marshall, an advance agent in the United States army, was enlisted in 1823, recently died at Fort Mackinac, after thirty-six years of continuous service at that post.

TWENTY Southern Congressmen have had a conference recently for the purpose of devising means to procure the adoption of legislation this session reducing the internal-revenue taxation. It is thought that the plan agreed upon is to call up a bill already introduced removing the tax on fruit brandies, and seek to amend it by inserting a provision removing the tax on tobacco. The Southern men do not hope for favorable action on that part of the Ways and Means Committee.

THE Penn Bank of Pittsburgh, after a suspension of twenty-four hours, reopened its doors with $620,000 cash on the counters.

DANVILLE (Va.) telegrams: "The election passed off without disturbance. The Democratic, or white party, nominees were elected. Capt. W. P. Graves beats J. H. Johnston, the present incumbent, for Mayor by 462 votes. About seventy negroes voted the Democratic ticket. One hundred did not vote. Gov. Cameron came up in the morning and remained all day. He said, pleasantly, that he had received a carpet-bag full of letters about sending troops, and had come to see for himself, and was pleased with the quiet and order. . . . The Fourth Indiana District Democrats have nominated Hon. William S. Holman for Congress.

MR. GLADSTONE stated in the British Commons that England had no intention of consenting to a revival of the dual control of England and France over Egyptian affairs. Egyptian finances would form the basis of the forthcoming European conference. . . . Edward Hanlan beat Laycock half a length in the sculling match in Australia.

THE Labor Bureau bill was debated in the Senate May 21. It was supported by Messrs. Van Wyck and Blair, and opposed by Mr. Ingalls, of Kansas. The Senate went to the end of the calendar the bill prohibiting the mailing of newspapers containing lottery advertisements. Bills were passed to permit the bridging of the Mississippi at St. Paul; to provide for holding terms of court at Jackson, Texas; and to appropriate $25,000 to compensate the officers and men of the Governor Dodge, and volunteers who were massacred by her loss in the Missouri River seven years ago. The House of Representatives reconsidered its action giving the contested seat to Mr. Poehl, and voted to seat William Endich, who appeared and took the oath of office. Mr. Hiscock, from the charge that the latter and his associates had abused the privileges of the House by attempting to influence votes in the case. A special order passed, and was made the order of the day for next Tuesday, providing for a select committee of seven members. Bills were passed including the construction of bridges across the Missouri at Jordan, Neb., The Speaker pro tempore laid before the House a letter from the Secretary to permit the exportation of eighty to one hundred thousand gallons of whisky on which internal revenue taxes paid thereon. A bill was introduced by Mr. Cannon to provide for establishing the counties of a railroad from Sioux City, Iowa, westward via the Niobrara Valley to some point on the Union Pacific west of the 100th meridian, and for the cession of every alternate section of the land to the Commissioner of Pacific Railroads. The new road, it is said, would open up a territory as large as Illinois and Indiana together. . . . The Senate spent the day in executive session, and it is claimed that its executive session lasted from 12 o'clock until 6 o'clock. Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Southern Dakota, and by any one of the railroads now in the field or that the means for preserving

NATIONAL LAW-M

Brief Summary of the ings of Congr

THE House of Representa on the 16th inst. to authorize bridges across the Wisconsin, Ohio rivers in Wisconsin. It was whole the river and harbor. O the army appropriation bill and favorably reported to the Ho ing session was devoted to pu bills. The Senate was not in s bills passed the House of Rep

MAY 17, extending until De tion of the Court of Commo Claims; to change the Eastern Judicial Districts of Texas; Indian Territory to Issue Pa the settlers on the Back Creek tion, Elko County, Nevada; ment of two additional Associ Supreme Court of Dakota. ments to the Indian appropri concurred in. There was n Senate.

BILLS were introduced in t 19 to forfeit unearned lands gr lantic and Pacific Railroad Com Northern Pacific land grant, and to soldiers who lost their arms in t

A petition was submitted from Irish Nationalists of Chicago, consolidation of that Irish Memphis. The bill offered by Mr. Morrill, to garden into the national banks, led to a prolo was referred to the Committee Van Wyck introduced a resolu Committee on Public Lands to charges made against the Nav and to abolish that office. Mr. Vickers' land negotiated bonds of the Pacific Railroad. The Senate went into executive session.

THE Penn Bank of Pittsburgh, after a suspension of twenty-four hours, reopened its doors with $620,000 cash on the counters.

DANVILLE (Va.) telegrams: "The election passed off without disturbance. The Democratic, or white party, nominees were elected. Capt. W. P. Graves beats J. H. Johnston, the present incumbent, for Mayor by 462 votes. About seventy negroes voted the Democratic ticket. One hundred did not vote. Gov. Cameron came up in the morning and remained all day. He said, pleasantly, that he had received a carpet-bag full of letters about sending troops, and had come to see for himself, and was pleased with the quiet and order. . . . The Fourth Indiana District Democrats have nominated Hon. William S. Holman for Congress.

MR. GLADSTONE stated in the British Commons that England had no intention of consenting to a revival of the dual control of England and France over Egyptian affairs. Egyptian finances would form the basis of the forthcoming European conference. . . . Edward Hanlan beat Laycock half a length in the sculling match in Australia.

THE Labor Bureau bill was debated in the Senate May 21. It was supported by Messrs. Van Wyck and Blair, and opposed by Mr. Ingalls, of Kansas. The Senate went to the foot of the calendar the bill prohibiting the mailing of newspapers containing lottery advertisements. Bills were passed to permit the bridging of the Mississippi at St. Paul; to provide for holding terms of court at Jackson, Texas; and to appropriate $25,000 to compensate the officers and men of the Governor Dodge, and volunteers who were massacred by her loss in the Missouri River seven years ago. The House of Representatives reconsidered its action giving the contested seat to Mr. Poehl, and voted to seat William Endich, who appeared and took the oath of office. Mr. Hiscock, from the charge that the latter and his associates had abused the privileges of the House by attempting to influence votes in the case. A special order passed, and was made the order of the day for next Tuesday, providing for a select committee of seven members. Bills were passed including the construction of bridges across the Missouri at Jordan, Neb., The Speaker pro tempore laid before the House a letter from the Secretary to permit the exportation of eighty to one hundred thousand gallons of whisky on which internal revenue taxes paid thereon. A bill was introduced by Mr. Cannon to provide for establishing the counties of a railroad from Sioux City, Iowa, westward via the Niobrara Valley to some point on the Union Pacific west of the 100th meridian, and for the cession of every alternate section of the land to the Commissioner of Pacific Railroads. The new road, it is said, would open up a territory as large as Illinois and Indiana together. . . . The Senate spent the day in executive session, and it is claimed that its executive session lasted from 12 o'clock until 6 o'clock. Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Southern Dakota, and by any one of the railroads now in the field or that the means for preserving

THE MARKET.

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	$ 6.00	@ 7.50
HOGS	5.00	@ 6.00
FLOUR—Extra	5.00	@ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Chicago	.93	@ .95
No. 2 Red	.96	@ .97
CORN—Mixed Western	.52	@ .53
OATS—White	.42	@ .43
PORK—Mess	17.50	@18.00
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Prime Steers	6.25	@ 6.75
Fair to Good	5.50	@ 6.00
Common to Medium	4.25	@ 5.00
HOGS—Packing and Shipping	5.00	@ 5.25
Good to Choice Spring	4.90	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.77	@ .78
No. 2 Red Winter	.77	@ .78
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .37½
OATS—No. 2	.32	@ .32½
RYE—No. 2	.53	@ .54
BARLEY—No. 2	.54	@ .56
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.18	@ .20
Fine Dairy	.16	@ .20
CHEESE—Full Cream	.10	@ .10½
Skimmed Flat	.06	@ .08
EGGS—Fresh	.09	@ .09½
POTATOES—Peerless	.70	@ .75
Rose	.60	@ .65
LARD	.08	@ .08½
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2	.90	@ .91
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .37½
BARLEY—No. 2	.51	@ .52
PORK—Mess	18.00	@18.25
LARD	8.20	@ 8.25
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.03	@ 1.04
CORN—Mixed	.41	@ .41½
OATS—Mixed	.37	@ .38
PORK—Mess	17.50	@17.75
LARD	.07½	@ .08
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.03	@ 1.05
CORN—Mixed	.43	@ .44
OATS—Mixed	.37	@ .38
PORK—Mess	17.50	@18.00
LARD	.07½	@ .08
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94	@ .96
CORN—Mixed	.38	@ .39
OATS—No. 2	.28	@ .30
DETROIT.
FLOUR	6.50	@ 7.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White	1.04	@ 1.06
CORN—Mixed	.55	@ .56
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.33	@ .34
PORK—Mess	20.00	@20.50
INDIANAPOLIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.02	@ 1.04
CORN—Mixed	.42	@ .43
OATS—Mixed	.33	@ .38
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	6.00	@ 6.50
Fair	5.50	@ 6.00
Common	3.75	@ 4.25
HOGS	5.00	@ 5.60
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.75

ENUE REFORM.

Hon. J. Sterling Morton, of ska, at the Iroquois Banquet, in Chicago.

ENT AND GENTLEMEN: Even In ge state, man discovered and us possessed inherent rights. He- ge period of humanity began, and declared himself born with the and his person against all comers, ge the liberty of that person, and ges and accumulations. Thus the to liberty, and to property was Ent asserted and established ge doctrine. And, after some generas, it was agreed that in general ge Supreme Court should be final ge of the mass. In this way came ge of laws of the day and generas we live. The law exists, ge source of inherent rights, and ges, as many publicists would ators, exist because of the law. ge and say that the carriers would ge of the United States, to ge the purchaser of all stamps, ge their being made the instrugle for the payment of the pen- ge that the means for preserving ge exercise of the functions of ge is to oppose taxes upon its ge tax, necessarily, is nothing ge than payment for a service ge Government to the citizen, ge a republican form of gov- ge and is a democratic and auto- ge the absolute protection of the ge property, liberty, and life. For that ge all that only, should be le com- ge private. Any system of tax- ge which compels one class of citi- ge tribute to the profits of another ge for Mr. Colfax to quote to the ge resolution making the bases of ge the special order for June next ge two-thirds majority.

A RESOLUTION was offered ge Mayor by 462 votes. About seventy ne- ge groes voted the Democratic ticket. One hundred did not vote. Gov. Cameron came up in the morning and remained all day. He said, pleasantly, that he had received a carpet-bag full of letters about sending troops, and had come to see for himself, and was pleased with the quiet and order. . . . The Fourth Indiana District Democrats have nominated Hon. William S. Holman for Congress.

MR. GLADSTONE stated in the British Commons that England had no intention of consenting to a revival of the dual control of England and France over Egyptian affairs. Egyptian finances would form the basis of the forthcoming European conference. . . . Edward Hanlan beat Laycock half a length in the sculling match in Australia.

THE Labor Bureau bill was debated in the Senate May 21. It was supported by Messrs. Van Wyck and Blair, and opposed by Mr. Ingalls, of Kansas. The Senate went to the foot of the calendar the bill prohibiting the mailing of newspapers containing lottery advertisements. Bills were passed to permit the bridging of the Mississippi at St. Paul; to provide for holding terms of court at Jackson, Texas; and to appropriate $25,000 to compensate the officers and men of the Governor Dodge, and volunteers who were massacred by her loss in the Missouri River seven years ago. The House of Representatives reconsidered its action giving the contested seat to Mr. Poehl, and voted to seat William Endich, who appeared and took the oath of office. Mr. Hiscock, from the charge that the latter and his associates had abused the privileges of the House by attempting to influence votes in the case. A special order passed, and was made the order of the day for next Tuesday, providing for a select committee of seven members. Bills were passed including the construction of bridges across the Missouri at Jordan, Neb., The Speaker pro tempore laid before the House a letter from the Secretary to permit the exportation of eighty to one hundred thousand gallons of whisky on which internal revenue taxes paid thereon. A bill was introduced by Mr. Cannon to provide for establishing the counties of a railroad from Sioux City, Iowa, westward via the Niobrara Valley to some point on the Union Pacific west of the 100th meridian, and for the cession of every alternate section of the land to the Commissioner of Pacific Railroads. The new road, it is said, would open up a territory as large as Illinois and Indiana together. . . . The Senate spent the day in executive session, and it is claimed that its executive session lasted from 12 o'clock until 6 o'clock. Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Southern Dakota, and by any one of the railroads now in the field or that the means for preserving ges destroys the farmers' crops, and again on the plains of Kansas and New Mexico the crop-perish for want of rain. But for rain in nevercrickets, a good thing, and no one prays for rain unless worst, or even for one rainless year. Economic law may work, spasmodically, hardships to individuals. The abrogation of protective duties may possibly destroy a few industries by making some articles cheaper than domestic production; but they can become fostered in the United States. Cheapness in certain commodities. Her sugar and woolen blankets may injure a few protectees and manufacturers, but cheapness in those articles will be an indirect benefit to the whole public. The Senate was not in session. . . . Bills passed the House of Rep

May 17, extending until De tion of the Court of Commo Claims; to change the Eastern Judicial Districts of Texas; Indian Territory to Issue Pa the settlers on the Back Creek tion, Elko County, Nevada; ment of two additional Associ Supreme Court of Dakota. ments to the Indian appropri concurred in. There was n Senate.

BILLS were introduced in t 19 to forfeit unearned lands gr lantic and Pacific Railroad Com Northern Pacific land grant, and to soldiers who lost their arms in t

A petition was submitted from Irish Nationalists of Chicago, consolidation of that Irish Memphis. The bill offered by Mr. Morrill, to garden into the national banks, led to a prolo was referred to the Committee Van Wyck introduced a resolu Committee on Public Lands to charges made against the Nav and to abolish that office. Mr. Vickers' land negotiated bonds of the Pacific Railroad. The Senate went into executive session.

Why the Republican Party Should Go.

It might be well to change the proposition, "Why the Republican party should go," and substitute the question, Why should the Republican party go?

In answering such a question, in view of all the facts of history, the only embarrassment an honest man experiences is to select from the 10,000 reasons why the Republican party should go those which most readily occur to the average intelligence of the country.

Ask, why should the Republican party go? is very much like asking why an intolerable nuisance should go? Why should not the Republican party go? Why should go? Why thieves should go? Why poisonous reptiles and man-eating wild beasts should go? The Republican party should go because the best men who were ever associated with it have withdrawn from its corrupting influences, pronounced it infamous and withdrew from its corrupting and ruinous associations. The Republican party should go because the best thought of the country has no more than one occasion pronounced against its remaining.

The Republican party should go: because in the madness of its fanaticism it exalts a murder as the exponent of its liberties of government. The assassin of Paris deified a courtesan, and it was bad; for the Republican party, in its wild Bhilpotian career, sovereignty of law and justice, to glorify a creature who crawled like a snake through the underbrush around the camp, to betray to murder men who were at peace with God, with their country, and with their fellowmen. The Republican party should go: because when the American people had elected a President and his Vice-President, it swapped both, and, by the promise of rewards called forth a gang of hideous creatures, and by perjuries as impious as ever damned a soul, forced on the decree. The Republican party should go: because, having corrupted every fountain of truth, of justice, of honesty, of thought, and of justice, having overthrown constitutions and trampled upon law to secure success, it now has consummated into opposing factions, to fight like dogs over the bones of spoils, calls forth from the former of its leaders the "inspired" assassin, and James A. Garfield, in the pride of his manhood, in the dawn of his fame, upon his heart beat high with hope and his future was bright with promise, is foully murdered to harmonize the party; and his embalmed corpse, on the highlands of Erie, furnishes a reason why the Republican party should go, as commanding as Jehovah had proclaimed it, and written it in letters of fire on the blue dome of the skies.

No student of current history can dwell for an hour on the proposition, why the Republican party should go, without realizing sensations of unspeakable loathing. Its whole existence has been a protest against its continuance. It has touched nothing it has not contaminated. It has sought to dethrone the constitution. It has brought law into universal contempt. It has patronized the Federal judiciary, corrupted and debauched it to a degree that the people are everywhere crying out, "Shame!" Its fraud and outrage (?) is known to be a den of corruption, a sewer into which is ceaselessly flowing the excrements of courts organized to let Republican thieves escape.

To sustain itself in power the Republican party has not only squandered the treasury, but it has robbed the hard-working employes of the Government of their honest pay, and outraged the conscience of an ordinary footpad; and to make its record as despicable as possible, it gained the confidence of the poor, ignorant freedmen to rob him of his little all. And still further, the Republican party, to sustain its position, creates monopolies by which the poor are taxed to support the rich, and when the struggle for the mastery comes the monopolies contribute of the piracy-created wealth to perpetuate the power of the party which created them.

Manifestly such a party ought to go —and it is going. Every reason why it ought to go is a reason why the Democratic party should come into power, and such will be the verdict of the people in November.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

M. Pasteur Is Sure He Has Found an Antidote for Hydrophobia.

That eminent scientist, M. Pasteur, who has made so many important discoveries during the past few years bearing upon the health of man, and alone in the domain of cause and effect, but also in the very general direction of furnishing remedies for ailments considered incurable, has now added to his laurels by discovering a remedy for hydrophobia, which has hitherto been considered incurable, and has attained a foothold in the system. The following cable dispatch to the Chicago Tribune, setting forth the details of his remedy —which is simply inoculation for a preventive, like vaccination to prevent small-pox —and giving the details of the method he employed in his experiments with dogs, monkeys, and rabbits, will be found extremely interesting:

M. Louis Pasteur, the celebrated French chemist, claims to have made a discovery of the most vital importance—nothing less, in fact, than a complete cure, or rather antidote, for hydrophobia. In an interview with a Figaro correspondent M. Pasteur says: "Cauterization of the wound immediately after the bite, as is now known, has been more or less effective, but frequently the victim has died, when only to ground himself at the Laboratory of the Ecole Normale and I undertook I will make him completely insusceptible to the effects of hydrophobia, even if bitten subsequently by any number of mad dogs. I have by a decisive test put my system to this subject. I found out in the first place that the virus could be taken from the animal's nervous system, and by a process of transmission to certain animals and successive passages by transmission to other animals. With the rabbit, for instance, the virus enrage increases with the number of passages. My method was as follows: I took the virus direct from the brain of a dog that had died from hydrophobia. With this virus I inoculated a number of rabbits that died. Then with the virus already enhanced in intensity, taken from this number, I inoculated a second number. Then with the virus taken from the second monkey I inoculated a third monkey, and so on until I obtained a virus which would be almost harmless. Then with this almost harmless virus I inoculated a rabbit, the virus being at once increased in intensity. Then with the virus from the first rabbit I inoculated a second rabbit, and there was another increase in the intensity of the virus. Then with the virus of the second rabbit I inoculated a third rabbit, then a fourth, until the virus had reached its maximum intensity. Thus I obtained various degrees of power. . . . Then I took a dog and inoculated him first with the weakest virus from the rabbit, then with the virus from the second rabbit, and so forth until I had the virus of maximum intensity. After a few days more I submitted the dog with the virus taken from the brain of a dog that had just died of acute hydrophobia. I had the satisfaction to find the animal completely insusceptible to hydrophobia. The experiment was frequently repeated, always with the same successful result.

"But my discovery does not end here. I took the virus of maximum intensity, and, after it had been directly from a dog that had just died of acute hydrophobia, I let it remain for two days this inoculated mucus and he sent mad dogs to my laboratory. I then took a healthy second dog to my treatment, giving him the three rabbit inoculations, beginning with the weakest and ending with the strongest. The second dog was then subjected to the bites of some completely insusceptible to hydrophobia. Professor then went to a kennel and caressed a dog that had undergone this latter operation. Subsequently he caressed a number of dogs. . . . Then he

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 15th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES, Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Democratic County Convention.

A Democratic County Convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State Convention, and to reorganize the County Committee, will be held at

BARTHOLOMEW'S OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX, ON TUESDAY, JUNE 17TH, 1884,

at 2 o'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired.

J. MILO EATON,
Chairman Democratic County Committee.

The various townships are entitled to delegates as follows:

	Vote for Gov. 1882.	No. Delegates.
Bear Lake	26	1
Boyne Valley	58	3
Chandler	19	1
Charlevoix	231	12
Evangeline	51	2
Eveline	108	5
Hayes	98	5
Hudson	79	4
Marion	60	3
Melmore	41	2
Norwood	26	1
Resort	79	4
South Arm	145	8
Springvale	74	4
Wilson	58	3

The democrats of Antrim county are in favor of union with the greenback ers to wipe out the common enemy, the republicans.

Ben. Butler announces himself unmistakably for a tariff for revenue only, in his recent letter to the Detroit Evening Journal, a radical protection organ.

A daily edition of the Marquette Mining Journal will be issued next Monday, June 2d. We shall expect a high standard of excellence from that quarter.

The Detroit Times takes the lead as a clean newspaper, editorially and typographically. It is not a political organ, and is in every sense a paper for the people.

The Detroit Evening Journal moved into its new office, 40 and 42 Congress street west, last week, and celebrated the event with a double number last Saturday. Outside of its radical protection features it is a good newspaper.

Young man, Michigan is one of the best states in the great and glorious Union, and if you are comfortably fixed here you will have to hunt a good while before finding a good excuse for pulling up stakes. Listen to your kind old uncle and be sensible. Stay right here in the old Wolverine state, marry a Michigan girl, invest your earnings in Michigan property, and if anybody tells you of a fairer claim than this, whose wealth is gained by little or no labor, toss him a subte from the horn of your car, play him a tune from your nose a la flute, and bid him begone before you pin him to a tree with a pitchfork. There, now, sonney, run down to the depot and meet the boys on their way back from Dakota.—Lowell Journal.

The other protectionists of the country are in as bad a fix with their theories as are the Muskegon lumber manufacturers already referred to. While the Morrison bill was pending they were howling themselves hoarse about the menace to business, though they knew the senate would not pass the bill if the house did. But even on their theory the menace was with drawn when the bill was defeated. During the intervening time Wall street has been sticken from centre to circumference; the great Keene corner in Minneapolis has failed and the business of the country has sustained the worst shock it has had for years. Under the views of farmers were willing, to be as logical as the protectionists they would have attributed these business disasters to the failure of the Morrison bill; just as the protectionists would have attributed them to its passage had such been the fortune of the bill. The revenue reformers, however, do not care to emulate the protectionists in making foolish statements to mislead the ignorant. They know that the failures referred to result indirectly from protection and from the reckless gambling to which protection gives rise. But they also know that the failures would have occurred if the Morrison bill had passed.—Free Press.

Tender Feeling for Butler.

Full 50 democrats gathered in front of Smith's hall, Springwells, last night. The advisibility of Gen. Butler's nomination by the democrats was freely discussed. Justice Weber announced himself in favor of it "by a large majority." He said the old ticket was all good enough, but a better one was "Butler and victory." Leonard Sink said, "I second that motion." A loud hurrah was raised at this point, and showed that the rank and file had heard the war cry and were ready to fall in.—Detroit Times.

An Austin man, who has just got out a book of poems, met Gilmody, and the following pleasantings were had: "Did you read my new book?" "Oh, yes; I read it." "How did you like it?" "My dear sir, I assure you that I laid it aside with a great deal of pleasure.—Texas Siftings.

It is proposed to found a cancer hospital in New York, and $250,000 has been promised for the purpose provided an additional $100,000 can be obtained. There is at present no such an institution in the United States. The project is the result of the recommendation of the late Dr. Marian Sims.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crenter.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Prof. Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-60

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.
ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.
Finishing Hard Wood a Specialty

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 1-51

O.W. SMITH,
ELECTRO-PLATER,
Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.
Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

O. B. WEED & CO.
Are headquarters for
DRUGS
CHEMICALS,
Patent Medicines, all Kinds.
Imported and Domestic Perfumery.
Toilet Articles,
AND FANCY GOODS.
None but Pure Medicines
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Barlum ow's new

Opera Block

Gold for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine. 1-51

PIMPLES.
I will mail a free the receipt for a simple vegetable balm that will remove in 10 days, FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLACK HEADS, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful, and will prevent the production of a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing stamp, Mrs. V. SUMNER, 5 Crosby Street, N. Y. 8-52

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.
Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Interest Allowed, January 1st and July 1st. We hold large deposits in this department.
REASONS.—First, we have $30,000 in Real Estate security, besides our personal responsibility. Second, we are only a safe deposit. Stockholders are not personally liable for deposits beyond amount of stock held. Third, we are under State Banking laws, and security to depositors. Stockholders are not personally liable for deposits beyond amount of stock held. Fourth, we are under State Banking laws, and only secure their bills in circulation. Fifth, we do not speculate; holding that with our own money it is foolish, and with our friend's it is criminal.
REYNOLDS & BROWN.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 13

JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish,
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

NEW STORE,
M. V. DYER,
PROPRIETOR.
ADVANCE, MICH.
A FULL LINE OF
Groceries, Provisions,
And Fancy Dry Goods.
Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the
Lowest Cash Price,
For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and
Examine Our Prices.
We guarantee satisfaction.
J. P. DYER, Agent.

Grand Rapids Democrat,
DAILY AND WEEKLY.
Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Daily Democrat,—By mail, $6.00 per year in advance, postage paid.
Weekly Democrat,—$1.50 per year, 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,
THE DEMOCRAT.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.
Have just received a fine stock of
Ladies' French Kid Shoe
Made in the Latest Styles.
Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,
A Large Stock always on hand.
Men's Fine Walking Shoe
LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,
EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.
House, Sign, and Fresco Painti
GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,
Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

The Oldest Established Business on South A
S. G. ISAMAN,
South Arm, Mich.
GENERAL MERCHANDI
A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.
Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots
Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery
Glassware, Hardware, Drugs,
Stationery, Notions, &c.,
AT LOW PRICES
PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN CHANGE FOR GOODS.
Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMA

EVERYTHING
IN THE LINE OF
Furniture and Undertakers' Goo
CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF
HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MI
CHEAP FOR CASH.
Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRIC
—OF—
All-Wool Goods,
Overcoats and Suitings
Boots and Sho
I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant
First-Class,
And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase member, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are
Big Bargains.
E. M. Clark
Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

E JOURNAL
harlevoix, Mich., May 29, 1884.

Provision Market.

prices to consumers, as corrected every nday evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & neral dealers:

UR, per bbl, $6.00, $7.00, and $8.00.
MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted,

per ton, $8@9.
, per ton, 50c.
ND FEED, per cwt, $1.50@1.60.
ES, per bu, $1.40.
TOES, per bu, 50c.
SS, per bu, $1.00.
TER, per lb, 25c.
, per doz, 18c.
, per lb, 16@18c.
, 10c; shoulders, 12c.
PORK, 10c. DRY SALT SIDE, 12; Beef, 9c.
TEEL, per lb, 10c.
, 8c.
E WHITE OIL, 25c.
EEN PRODUCE in good demand.

resh Meats from the Market.
f, beef steak, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½@ ston, 6@8c; sausage, 15c; hams, 16c;
, 12@.
pork, 8@10c.

Local News Brevities.

ne is light this week.
hards for the JOURNAL.
ension day, to-morrow.
ntinentals" to morrow night.
Rapids is to have a roller rink

dge street has been raked clean week.
e bargains in fine boots go to Clark's.
M. Clark sells a good suit of clothes for $5.00.
Bustles! Bustles!! Bustles!!! At Ed. Emrey & Co's.
W. Smith's new lapidary shop inches completion.
M. Himebaugh has our thanks fine lot of pipe plant.
M. Abraham, of Boyne, was one rallers on Saturday.
ingles and lath for the million right, Emrey & Co's.
ne hundred wool hats for 50 ach at E. M. Clark's.
A. Stone, of East Jordan, gave ersal a call Tuesday.
n Fessenden, of Boyne, gave ersal a call last Friday.
e "plower" for the factory arrived Grand Rapids Tuesday.
fine line of gents' cashmere just received at E. M. Clark's.
d Heasley, supervisor of Chanonship was in town Tuesday.
rson Bedford went to Chicago Champlain last Friday night.
ne hundred pairs of all wool pants for $1.60 at E. M. Clark's.
R. Kilborn, the Petoskey farm ment dealer, was in town Tues
H. McBride, of Corunna, was in dance at circuit court on Tues

Enterprise predicts that East will double its size within a

C. Perdue has just completed a sidence for himself on Antrim levoix was besieged with life rance agents last Friday and Sat-ching at Black's school house Sunday at 3 o'clock. You are rints, cottons, collars, skirting, goods, etc., at Upright, Emrey

k Hines went to Champlain, to purchase his stock gs.

. Miller has a large circular ing rack for showing hats in ce.

cable for continuing the tele line across the channel arrived esday.

you want a good smoke, smoke Warren." Get them only at the shop.

ound was broken this week for w dining hall, 50x80 feet, at the ern resort.

lin B. Perkins, of Bleasby & es, attorneys of Kalkaska, was on Tuesday.

M. L. Smith's wife and child on Friday from Tibsonburg, His mother is at Elk Rapids, ld visit Charlevoix in a few days.

J. D. Walker, advance agent of the "Continentals" gave the JOURNAL a call last Friday.

F. Shaubut spent two days at South Arm this week, opening a set of books for Meech's mill.

The fire department now meet every Saturday evening instead of twice a month as heretofore.

I. A. DeLamarter, of E. T. Brown & Co., Grand Rapids, called on the JOURNAL on Tuesday.

R. C. Dart and C. J. Pailthorp, of Petoskey, were in attendance at circuit court on Tuesday.

Mrs. Thurlow Weed and child, of Keystone, Dakota, are visiting friends in Charlevoix this week.

H. A. Jersey, of Boyne, and H. B. Chapman, of Bay Springs were among our callers on Wednesday.

Over twenty new residences have been commenced here since March 1st, and more are contemplated.

Rev. C. F. Van Anken had a full house Sunday evening, to listen to his discourse on "the ascension."

Rev. J. T. Iddings gave an excellent memorial discourse at the M. E. church last Sunday evening.

W. E. Hampton, foreman of the Harbor Springs Independent, gave the JOURNAL a call on Tuesday.

R. C. Enos, agent of the Home life insurance company, of New York gave the JOURNAL a call this week.

The prop. Henry Howard brought 413 tons of coal from Cleveland for the Pine Lake Iron Co. last week.

According to our exchanges, the rink will be an excellent place for mass meetings in stormy weather.

F. S. Blanchard is making some handsome engravings of Charlevoix and vicinity.—Elk Rapids Progress.

A real, live, wild deer was seen feeding in the bushes on the bank of lake Michigan, near Dan Way's, on Monday.

The "Continentals" to-morrow night are under the auspices of the G. A. R. and should be well patronized.

Rev. J. J. Knagay preached an excellent discourse to a large audience at the Ross school house last Sunday afternoon.

Geo. Miller is to have two awnings for the front of his store,—one for each side, instead of one over the whole front.

The subject for Rev. C. F. Van Anken's discourse at the opera house next Sunday morning will be "Elijah on Mt. Carmel."

Harrison Berdan is putting dark colors on his residence, which makes it conspicuous as well as handsome with its surroundings.

A new lapidary shop has been erected near the end of the new dock, Petoskey, in a very favorable position to catch the relic hunter.

Every indication points to the fact that before the year 1885 dawns upon this place, we will have a railroad.—East Jordan Enterprise.

The excursion from Harbor Springs to Boyne last Sunday was not well patronized. Those who did go had a fine day and pleasant ride.

The "Continentals" concert at the opera house to-morrow night, is under the auspices of the G. A. R., and should be well patronized.

☞Learned from experience, that the Eagle Rake with independent teeth, is the Rake for Charlevoix county. L. D. Bartholomew.

Stockman & Iddings evidently propose to run the mail business this summer. On Tuesday they received 200 kegs by the Grand Rapids.

W. A. Stone has sold his stock of general merchandise in East Jordan, to the Stoepel Lumber Co., who took possession last Monday morning.

A. R. Upright is building an immense barn on the lot south of his residence. It will have as good a finish outside as many residences.

☞Each gallon of Sherman and William's paints covers 275 square feet twice and the quality is better than other paints. L. D. Bartholomew.

Mr. George Mosher, the founder, and for several years editor of the Petoskey Record, will establish about the first of June, a newspaper in Mackinaw City, to be called the Straits Journal.

J. J. Kanagy & Son's fair promises to become a successful venture. Their card in another column announces a great variety of goods at very low prices.

L. S. Benham arrived at East Jordan on the Faxton last Tuesday afternoon with 56 colonies of bees, which he will place on his farm in Jordan township.

Rev. C. F. Van Anken baptised six persons at the close of the service at the Ross school house last Sunday afternoon, and received several into the church.

Charlevoix has a broom-handle factory,—not exactly within our limits, but near enough to contribute to our growth and business. W. J. McGeough, proprietor.

The Clara Belle will give an excursion from East Jordan to Elk Rapids next Sunday, under the auspices of the East Jordan band. Will leave Charlevoix about 9 o'clock.

Lumber is on the ground for a new store 21x60, two stories, to be erected by Amos Fox, on the lot north of J. L. Hurd & Co.'s to be occupied by L. Sinkey, with a stock of boots and shoes.

L. W. Skinner, of Charlevoix, was in town Tuesday. Wednesday he left for Tennessee and Alabama where he will go on wool for Dr. Pierce's chemical works.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Good templars are requested to meet in Odd Fellows hall at 12:30 to-morrow, to form order of march and join in the memorial service procession. All members of the order are expected.

H. B. Chapman's new $40,000 summer resort hotel at Bay Springs, on Pine lake, a few miles from Charlevoix, was opened to the public on the night of the 21st. It is a good one.—Evening News.

J. P. Hart, late of Ionia, is building a cottage for Dallas Boodeman, of Kalamazoo, and has the contract for two more,—one for W. H. Holden, and one for G. E. Burdeen, of the Charlevoix resort.

Miss Abbie Bennett went to Chicago with her brother on the Champlain, to assist in purchasing goods for the store at Norwood, and furnishings for the new house here. Will return on the City of Traverse next week.

Quarterly meeting service, at the M. E. church next Sunday. Preaching in the morning, also at night, followed by the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Rev. W. R. Sumerouin, presiding elder. A cordial invitation is extended.

Town Line is a lovely place to build a town. When the railroad from Traverse City to Charlevoix is completed, which we hope is in the near future, Town Line will spring into prominence as a summer resort. —Elk Rapids Progress.

By the action of the northern district lodge of good templars, the lodges in Charlevoix and Antrim counties were annexed to their jurisdiction. The next meeting of the district lodge will be held at Pierrepont on the second Wednesday in August.

Bills are circulated announcing that Grimmond's Mackinaw line passenger steamer Atlantic, will extend her trips to Charlevoix, during the excursion season this summer, leaving Detroit every Saturday evening at 9 o'clock. This will give us direct connection with the city of the straits.

R. H. Dougall, of Kalamazoo, manager of the Charlevoix rink, is here this week looking after the finishing and opening. The whole floor is 50x120, and when finished the floor for skating will be 40x100, leaving room for spectators along the sides, and for an ice cream restaurant on the east end, besides the necessary dressing rooms. The cost of the building, we are told, will be not far from $1,800.

The vessel captains claim that the business men around Pine lake and the Arm, who ship wood, bark, lumber, etc., should contribute a certain amount each month towards keeping the light on the south pier, at Charlevoix, in good order. Mr. Martin, who has kept it in order during the past two years, has received little or no pay for his services. It certainly is a great benefit to the vessel captains coming into these lakes and should be well attended.—Enterprise.

J. L. HURD & CO.
Offer a full and fresh line of
DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.
At Very Low Prices.
Headquarters for
Groceries and Provisions.
Call for the Belding Flour.
Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

Numerous citizens have mentioned in terms of praise the discourse of Rev. C. F. Van Anken at the opera house last Sunday evening, the subject being "the ascension." Having been previously announced by the press, the house was well filled; and it is due the speaker to say that many pronounce it the best discourse he ever delivered in Charlevoix.

"The musical entertainment of the 'Continentals,' was excellent. They are fine vocalists, and their rendition of 'Ship Ahoy' and the Bugle Call' drew out deserved praise. Mr. Hudson's violin performance was the finest we have heard since Ole Bull delighted the public years ago, and his imitation of the apple-paring dance was so ridiculous that it required his full vocal powers to be heard above the wild enthusiasm.—Alpena Reporter.

A practical tinner writes to an exchange that he knows that cans made from leaded tin are being sold in great quantities, and he offers for publication the following warning: "When buying fruit cans see that they are not made of roofing tin, which is coated with lead and is a slow but sure poison. They should be made of leigh tin, which is harmless, providing the fruit be emptied out of the cans as soon as opened. The difference will be easily told, as the leaded tin looks like burnished silver. One is poisonous and the other is harmless. This should be published in every paper."

Married.

HAMLIN BAKER, At the residence of the bride's parents, May 25th, by Rev. C. F. Van Anken, Mr. Leon Hamlin and Miss Celestia Baker.

Electric Light
In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have sewed down their prices on kitchen utensils, tinware, woodenware, glassware, Tinware, boots, overshoes, hammocks, carpets, rugs, hats, hand bags, shopping baskets, hand mirrors, fans, picture frames, hat racks, table cutlery, clothes lines, shawl straps, and in fact everything pertaining to a
A good brush broom, 25c; three cakes of fresh soap, 10c; hand mirror, 5c; pocket mirror, 5c; ladies' hose for 5c; ladies' hose 25c; gents' hose 5c; stamped sheet music 5c; gents' hayseed hat 50c; gents' fancy shirt 50c; children's toy, and a multitude of goods and articles too numerous to name, all of never before heard-of prices at
THE FAIR,
J. J. Kanagy & Son,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
16

WHEREAS, a majority of the resident owners of real estate in the south side of Newman street, in the village of Charlevoix, Michigan, have petitioned to open and make and construct and to grade a sidewalk to be laid on said south side of said street, from Michigan street to Sherman street, on said side of said street, and the committee on streets and sidewalks having examined the premises and recommended that the prayer of the petitioners be granted. Therefore, on motion of Trustee Cooper, it is ordered by the Common Council of the village of Charlevoix, that a sidewalk be built on the south side of said street, between State street and Sherman street, on said side of street, by the adjoining owners thereon, within twenty days from the date of the service of this notice, said sidewalk to be six (6) feet wide, and of two-inch plank laid lengthwise, securely fastened with twenty-penny spikes upon two four by four scantling, said crossways three feet apart. And it is further ordered, that the marshal forthwith serve a copy of this order on each owner, hereinbefore required to construct said sidewalk, and in case said adjoining owners, or any part thereof, shall neglect or refuse to build said sidewalk within the time above prescribed that the Marshal shall forthwith proceed to build such sidewalk and report the cost of the same, as is provided in the sidewalk ordinance of said village of Charlevoix.

Dated at Charlevoix, May 16, 1884.

A true copy. Attest:
HORACE S. HARSHA, Clerk.

PROBATE ORDER. State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Maria Walker praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, now be admitted to probate, and that a time and place be appointed for proving said will, and that administration of said estate be granted to Reuben Wilkes or some other suitable person. It is thereupon ordered that Wednesday, the eleventh day of June next, be appointed for the purpose, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER. State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of probate. In the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE BOWDISH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Moses Bowdish, praying among other things that an administrator might be appointed for said estate. Thereupon it is ordered, that Wednesday, the eleventh day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
(A true copy.) Judge of Probate.

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Weed & Co's drug store.

HEADQUARTERS
FOR Plows, Harrows,
Horse Rakes,
And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.
Examine and be Convinced:
The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.
IN HARDWARE
We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.
May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

THE BABY.

BY J. W. RILEY.

O, little t-he-the way the baby came:
Out o-the night as comes the dawn;
Out o-the embers as the flame;
Out o-the bird the blossom's on,
The apple-bough that blossom the same
As in old summers dead and gone—
Where a grave and tearity zone could name—
O, this-is-the way the baby came!

And this is the way the baby talks:
And when in deepest drops of dew
The stains and splendors sink and soak,
The sweet eyes glimmered through and through,
And sudden lips and dimples broke
Absurd the lips, and no one knew
O-could divine the words they spoke—
And this is the way the baby talked!

And this is the way the baby slept:
A nest of tresses backward thrown
In quivering clubs where kisses crept
With warnings she had never known;
The little hands were closely kept
Absent a-lily newly blown—
And God was with her. And we wept—
And this is the way the baby slept!
—Indianapolis Journal.

LILITH.

BY LILLY M. CURRY.

And round his heart one strangling golden hair!

The keen wind, rising ever at the sea inlet and sweeping its breezy circuit around through the old town and by the sandy, level road, swept with it a merry party that August morning, up from the railroad station to the summer home of Harold Swain. The latter, a youngish man—a widower of six years' standing, long relapsed into the happy habits of bachelorhood—had come down from the city, bringing with him friends to remain one week, or two, or ten, as they should please. Not all were of old acquaintance; only his trusted Lester Chapples, who had introduced him to the others, all ladies, and specifically, as follows: Theodosa Wells, a vivacious brunette widow, with a tender recollection of "poor Jack," who would go shooting in a boat on Sunday, in spite of all she could say, and see had met his death; Miss Meigs, the elderly chaperon of the set, a little inclined to lace mittens and dawdling; and Miss Meigs' niece, Lilith Francillon. Harold Swain had met Miss Francillon but twice before this, and as they walked up together from the station he said to himself she was the most beautiful woman he had ever seen. Nevertheless, had any one called him aside and asked him to describe her, he might have hesitated, uncertain of the hue of those clangeful eyes, the shifting glints of sunlight in that red-brown hair, the flushes deepening or paling in that pure, sweet face. Glancing from feature to feature, he was the most unlover-like; the aunt is a virtue born of a necessity, and Miss Francillon is the most beautiful woman I ever saw." He stopped and went to the door where Martha was knocking to inquire about lunch.

Meanwhile, the ladies, having brought no luggage, could only wash away the suggestion of coal-smoke, indulge in a suspicion of fine powder, and descend to the parlor.

"Mr. Swain has a taste for art," said Miss Meigs. "Lilith, my dear, come and see these engravings."

"Yes, presently, aunt." Miss Francillon was surveying her sailor-blue costume in the narrow length of gilt-framed pier-glass. Theodosia was interested in the life-size portrait of a blonde young lady over the piano.

"Lil, come and look at this picture. I suppose it is his wife. Dear me! I wonder if it makes him as sad as poor Jack's makes me!"

"I don't care to look at dead people," Lilith answered, regardlessly.

"You shock me, dear. Let us go out on the piazza. Will you come, Miss Meigs?"

"I think not, thank you. I'm tired enough to stay indoors." Miss Meigs was remarkably easy-going for chaperon. There was no need to bother those sensible girls two or three-and-twenty years. She made herself comfortable in a wooden rocker, while they slipped away through the long window and indulged in girlish, gossipy confidences.

"It's a lovely place, Lil. And he is very impressionable."

Lilith laughed. "You like him. What can I do to help you?"

"Help you! Why, nothing."

A bell began to ring loudly. And immediately Lester Chapples came out.

"Hungry, girls?" He was not a man of many words, but the pleasant accompanying smile sufficed. He offered an arm to the little widow, whose "Jack" had been her second-cousin; Lilith took the other, and they went in to lunch, Mr. Swain escorting Miss Meigs to the seat of honor.

In the afternoon they took their first sail, and, though no fish were caught, when they were all seated at the table for dinner. Afterward the lively Theo played waltz music in the parlor with contemplative eyes upon the portrait of the deceased Mrs. Swain. Lilith danced a little with Chapples, and also with their host, just a swing or two around the room, while Miss Meigs dozed over the engravings, and Lester smoked a cigar. The young people now took to strolling in the verandah, which was built on all sides of the house. Miss Francillon walked with Chapples this time; the widow with Harold, who found her less flighty than he had imagined at first.

The couples were well apart when Chapples asked, gently:

"Will you send for your trunk, Lilith? I think we could enjoy a fortnight here, and Swain is really anxious we should."

She looked up into his face as she answered, demurely:

"If you wish to stay I shall be happy here."

"But I want to consult your wishes, my darling."

She felt his closer pressure of her arm.

"I would really like to stay, Lester. I will send to-morrow, and Theo will do the same."

"Dear," said Chapples in a tenderer voice, "don't you think it would be well to announce our engagement?"

"Perhaps," she answered, slowly. "To-morrow, if you wish. But is there need of haste?"

"No; only I feel as if I should like the world to know that you belong to me."

They had turned the corner of the house, and were out of the other's sight.

He leaned his face down to her own. "Kiss me, Lilith; you love me, don't you, darling?"

"Better than any one else on earth," she cried, passionately.

"What made you sob, then, sweetheart?"

"Nothing, dear."

They turned back to the parlor, and found Theo singing softly a duet with Harold Swain, for which the little widow declared herself sleepy, and carried Lilith off to bed. Martha was in the kitchen, and the gentlemen went up-stairs to smoke.

"Do you know that I have been decidedly impressed, Chapples?"

"With our little Theo?"

"No, no; not Mrs. Wells."

"Not Mrs. Wells?" Lester looked up apprehensively.

"Mrs. Wells is a dear little thing, but when Miss Francillon is present other women pale. I fancy I shall be here very long I shall be offering myself. I'm more in love with her than I've been with any woman since my wife died."

Chapples had risen from his seat and spoke with vehement sarcasm.

"You really would do Miss Francillon that honor? I am sure she ought to be delighted to have a place as aunt and beat." He grew still angrier. "Perhaps, Harold Swain, you fancy any woman would jump at what there is left you to bestow. But Lilith Francillon deserves more than a second affection, a man's first, last, and eternal worship is little enough to offer her."

"Chapples," said his friend, recovering from the first surprise, "you are in love with her yourself. But how was I to know? You are inducommunicative; you gave no sign. And does she love you?"

"She has promised to be my wife." Harold put out his hand.

"I congratulate you. Forgive my offending; it was unintentional."

"It is all right, old fellow. I am apt to show temper when I shouldn't. Let's talk of something else."

By all means. Two been floundering about all the evening, finding out odd things. There's the little widow says she knows another friend of mine quite intimately, Dick Livesay. You don't know him. Funny fellow, never stays long in one place. Went out West, then to Europe; came back in the fall. Capital company, one of the most fascinating fellows. Handsome features, olive complexion, lustrous eyes. I'm going to write him in the morning to come at once. I've told Mrs. Wells I should, and she seems pleased. You see, Chapples, I had it firmly fixed in my mind that you were in love with little Theo."

Lester shrugged his shoulders.

"I want a woman's first affection, and she shall have mine."

"Then Miss Francillon has never loved but you?"

"Certainly not," said Chapples vexedly, and shortly after withdrew for the night. Harold shook his head ever so slightly when the other had gone.

"Perhaps he is right," he said. "Yet she is very beautiful, and she is out of the ordinary in look. Such girls are beset with lovers from the start."

In Theo's chamber, whose windows faced the starlit sea, Lilith sat, brushing out her glowing, gold-brown hair and talking to her friend.

"I must tell you something," said Theo; "something which has been a secret until now."

Lilith's beautiful eyes turned questioningly upon her.

"What is it?" she asked.

"Oh, Lil, I wish you could see how pretty you look!"

"Never mind how I look, but tell your secrets."

"Well, when I was walking with Mr. Swain to-night, he spoke of a friend of his, whom I happen to know very well indeed. And Mr. Swain will write him to-morrow that I am here and he is to come."

"It is a lover of yours?"

"Well?"—demurely.

"And you are in love with him?"

"Well?" stronger than before.

"You are engaged?" cried Lilith, shaking back her golden mane.

"Well?" decisively.

"Well, Theo, why don't you go on? Who is he?"

"He is very handsome and fascinating; he has money enough for us—with what Jack left me. I love him dearly, quite as much as I did Jack."

"But his name, Theo?"

"His name is Richard Livesay."

Lilith made no answer for a moment; the brush had fallen out of her hand, and she was trying to pick it up.

"Richard Livesay," she repeated by and by.

"Yes; what's the matter, do you know my Dick?"

"Know your Dick, Theo?" she laughed, coldly. "I think not. Yet I did know a Livesay once—perhaps his name was Richard."

"Did you know him well?"

"Theo, you are looking jealous. Perhaps I'd better tell you my secret; it will be announced to-morrow. I am to marry Mr. Chapples."

"O, Lilith! I am so glad, dear. I—I hoped so. How could you imagine me jealous? I do hope you will be very happy."

Lilith went on brushing her hair.

"Isn't your affair something sudden, Theo?"

"Well, yes; I've only known Dick two months. I met him in Washington, and we soon became engaged. Nobody knows but you, Lilith."

"I thought it strange I hadn't even heard you mention his name." And with a careless good-night she passed to her room, where she stood looking out into the starlit night and mechanically brushed. What was Richard Livesay to her now, that she must feel this pang at the knowledge that he loved another? Could he love another, after having loved her so? Or had he never loved her? Was she only "poor Theo" to him? She was clear-headed and practical. She was rather sorry for herself, sorry that she must lose Lester, and that he could be pleasant to meet him as Theo's lover, yet she had some curiosity to see him once more, to learn why he had been her earliest betrothed. "I shall only love Lester the more, when they stand side by side," she said. "He is so noble, so tender, so great-hearted. Nothing could turn me from Lester. Of that I am certain."

Three days later Livesay arrived. Theo went down to meet him, their engagement having been announced, as had that of Lilith and Chapples. Coming up the path with her lover was the little widow, in her gray velvet costume and jockey cap, looked indemnably radiant. Lilith at the moment rose gracefully from the piazza hammock, clad in the palest of blue lawns, with delicate laces and satin ribbons, a white woolly shawl clinging to her shoulders, a knot of heliotrope upon her bosom, and a fine cambric handkerchief, scented with the same heliotrope, fluttered to the ground. "I believe I have met Mr. Livesay before," she said, quite unmoved at the introduction. Then she slipped back into the hammock and they entered the house.

"He has not forgotten," she said, with a thrill of exultation at his heightened color.

Lester Chapples came out and stood smiling down on her.

"Mr. Livesay has arrived," he said. "Theo tells me you used to know him."

"A long time ago," she answered, dreamily. Lester, bending, lifted her handkerchief and held it for a moment, as if he could caress any dainty belonging of hers. She took it from him then, and laid it under her cheek. And still he stood down fondly.

"We go sailing to-day," he said. "Your name is my upon the boat. It is the 'Lilith' now."

She was alone in the parlor that afternoon, waiting for the others, when Livesay came in. The deep brine of her yachting dress intensified the transparency of her complexion. Yet she was first to speak.

"You didn't expect to find me here?"

"No," he said, in an uncertain tone.

"You would not have come, perhaps?" she went on, slowly. "But I have to congratulate you."

"Lilith!"

She shrank from him, continuing, "You will be very happy, I hope."

"Not now, having seen you. Lilith, is it too late?"

"Hush! You are wild! You must not say such things. Go quick. There is some one coming!"

He slipped into the hall, and then—Lester Chapples came through the long window, white with horror.

"Lilith," he said, faintly, "I was not to blame; I was in the piazza; I heard it all." He walked unsteadily, and covered his eyes, as if the sight of her was pain.

She came and clung to him, crying, remorsefully, "O, Lester, don't believe I am not true to you, don't! I was wrong in not telling you of this—old engagement; but it only lasted two months, and I broke it myself. I couldn't have done that if I'd really loved him," said I? I fancied I was a mistake, he only fascinated me; he was fickle besides. Lester, look at me. Only look at me and say you love me still!"

He opened his arms and drew her to his breast.

"O, my sweet! I shall love you till I die! O, my sweet, if I should lose you the world would go out from under me. Lilith, must I give you up?" His despair rent her heart.

"O no! I swear it; I have been true; I will be true. Lester, it was only pique, jealousy, that an old admirer of mine should care for another."

"But he loves you still, Lilith!"

"No; he will marry Theo. Don't fear, don't look so distressed, dear. Only forgive me for not having told you. Let us go outside, some one is coming."

Chapples excused himself from the sail, pleading a headache, and Lilith remained with him. The others came back to dinner in their usual spirits.

"Your captain seems cautious about the boat," said Livesay, carelessly.

"He ought to be," Theo exclaimed. "Fancy going down out there; what a death!"

"Lilith is shivering," said her aunt. "I'm afraid you've taken ill, dear."

"Oh, no; only tired, aunt."

With the following morning came gray, bleak weather, scurrying clouds, and white spots on the sea.

"Lilith," said her aunt, at noon, "you are not well; you have a feverish look. Pray, be careful."

"I am not ill; the wind has burnt my face."

Chapples came to her an hour or two later, saying:

"Lilith, Harold has a horse he wants to try. He has asked me to go along; will you?"

"Nothing, only let me be."

Harold went down to tell him that the ladies might need wine, strong coffee perhaps. He repeated himself bitterly for having taken her away that afternoon. Here were Miss Meigs for blindness—poor Miss Meigs, who seemed dazed enough now. But he could not help what Theo's bearing. "Dear little woman," he said. "She is worthy of all devotion." Then he went upstairs and, passing Chapples' door could hear hasty, irregular footsteps. "Can't sleep, him!" he said

As the night wore on Harold painfully his own powerlessness to lessen this trouble of his friend's. He remained up, thinking Chapples would come to him by and by. At 2 o'clock he lay down without undressing, despite the wildness of the night, and into a troubled sleep.

An hour or two had passed when he was knock brought him to the door of Chapples, whither than ever and in speech.

"Harold, I am going. Pack my things. Please forward as marked. I left written word, with a five-dollar bill on the table. Good-by, you."

He tore away from the detaining hand, and Swain could hear the hall door unbolted and then reclosed.

"The train isn't due for an hour," Harold said, noting the time. He ran to the window and looked out and called loudly, "Lester! Lester!"

The wind swept his words away; brought response. Was it because of the Ashburton treaty company enthusiastically proclaimed indefinitely replied: "Fish—a sentiment for you—the Senate United States, without which the Union would have been a failure, and the negotiator of that treaty not nothing." The quickness of his ears, as if once handed doubtful or unfriendly feeling company clustered around him, whose upon unrighteous and edifying question never failed to excite attention and the remainder of the evening spent in a manner most delightful.

Returning home on a stacking, arm-in-arm with a stalwart Westerner suddenly halted, and upward, made a beautiful picture the appearance of the young man which he concealed by reason of the eighth pardon, in the sweet singer of Israel so subtly scribes the glories of the Lord's Dawn was at hand, cold and pale. Lester was not at the station, nor he come, though the train thundered into the town and out again into city. Harold thought of the watch his pocket; perhaps it might have stopped. He opened it. It was intact. He read he shivered.

"O, my God!" he cried and fell down on his own swiftly; and without another word set sail toward the far-out, treacherous rocks. The boat, his boat, so named the "Lilith," was gone! Harold's mornings, and he could only see there looking forth upon the waters.

Stories of Webster.

Mr. Webster's continuance in Tyler's Cabinet caused considerable comment on the part of many of his political associates toward him. A brief period the illustrious statesman concluded the celebrated treaty with England, which won for him a wide renown. At this juncture Seaton gave a splendid banquet, which were a large number of senators and members of the House of Representatives. The convivialities of the occasion were partaken of most delicious odors to the "flavor." Odors of orange, lime and lemon, tuberoses, violets, and magnolias, sweets the air, especially in the garments of the coast and the temperate zone.

Amid the first greeting extended to him when he entered the walled city of Acapulla, was accompanied with a host of flowers, and the Mexican people always carried nosegays in which took great delight.

In the religious ceremonies of the Aztecs, even in the bloody rites of human sacrifice, flowers played an important part.

Flowers and fruit were the offerings made in the worship taught by the high priests of Montezuma.

Flowers and fruit were the offerings made in the worship taught by the high priests, Quetzalcoatl.

Even the Spanish priests, in their anxiety to convert the Aztecs, in the years succeeding the conquest, allowed the Indians to retain many of their ancient forms of worship, least objectionable of which was the expression of their adoration through the medium of flowers. It is related that long after the overthrow of the Aztec war god, the terrible Huitzilopochtli, the Indians would join in stealth and decorate his shrine with garlands of flowers.

The markets of Mexico are filled with flowers. They bloom here all the year round; from the high plains of Anahuac to the borders of the sea many are the varieties that blossoming of the beautiful that pervades all nature, whether it may be visited in January or in August, or December. This is the flowers, this redeeming trait of the character, has survived oppression of two hundred years—three centuries of Spanish taskmasters have failed to efface it.

Aztecs had feasts of flowers, as the ancients of Europe and the East for every plant they had a which its peculiar quality or was expressed. The Mexican painted them so accurately that pictures served the learned Herrera in the formation of his great on the flora of Mexico, a work has stood the criticisms of all to the present day.

Persons were the Mexican rulers crowns of the rarest and beautiful in their kingdoms, that they gardens and conservatories, and the expeditions in search of new plants.

Montezuma and Malinally, the Matzcos, in 1507, if we may the Aztec traditions,

Among the many flowers which enamel and adorn the gardens of Mexico, there is one which was held sacred by the Aztecs, and is one of the most curiously in the world. It is called the Alcohill, or "hand flower." It the shape of a bird's foot, or the and claw, and is, or was recently, found in the botanic gardens of Mexico as a great curiosity.—Cyclopedia of Oder, in Good Cheer.

Dining with a Flock of Geese.

Nothing could have a curious way of doing that takes the medal out of the Fiji Islands. Reprise with which it is connected. The fisherman we will say is selecting a big goose from a flock, and, or half a dozen geese, as he may be, he ties a baited hook about five feet long to their necks, reaching the water turns out. The birds of course swim and the fisherman lights his pipe and waits. In a few minutes a fish is hooked, and the bird starts for the shore. The hird starts for the shore. The hird starts for the shore. The h

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 20, 1884.

Additional Local.

Memorial Day Program.

Procession will form at one o'clock on Bridge street, under the direction of Capt. Harrison Berdan, Marshal, and Dr. J. A. Carlstein, officer of the day, as follows:

1. Decorated Chariot with flowers.
2. Charlevoix brass band.
3. Schools.
4. Good Templars.
5. Walter Clifford Post, G. A. R. of Boyne.
6. Geo. Martin Post of Eastport.
7. Baxter Post of Charlevoix.
8. Citizens.

ORDER OF MARCH.

Starting front of opera house, marching down Bridge street to Antrim, up Antrim to State, out State to cemetery, where the usual ceremonies will be performed.

The "Continental vocalists" will also render appropriate music.

Returning down State, Main and Bridge streets and concluding with the following in the opera hall:

Music by the band.
Singing by the choral society.
Prayer by Rev. C. F. Van Auken.
Oration by Rev. T. J. Hill, of Boyne.
Music by the band.
Singing by choral society.
Benediction by Rev. J. T. Iddings.
Let everybody come.

Circuit Court.

Court convened Tuesday afternoon, and adjourned Wednesday morning. The following is a synopsis of cases, and their disposition:

People v. Burgess, murder; nolle pros. entered.

Faish v. Von Platen; continued.

Martin v. Beach, assumpsit; continued.

Wood v. Norwood, assumpsit; continued.

Buttars v. Munro, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $1,442.58.

Reynolds v. Munro, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $625.90.

Buttars v. Munro, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $3,453.53.

Chapman v. Addis, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $8,696.81.

Ferguson v. Goucher, attachment; Stoupel & Co. allowed to appear as special defendants.

Jordan v. Holly, attachment; continued.

Cronter v. Eaton, ejectment; continued.

Plummer v. Addis, attachment; judgment for plaintiff, $677.45.

Fuller v. Young, cognovit; judgment by confession.

Reese v. Lee et al; proceedings in court below reversed and held for naught.

Fourth National Bank of Grand Rapids v. Addis; judgment $1,629.

Anderson v. Anderson, certiorari; continued.

Dees v. Addis; judgment $2,125.17.

Mitchell v. Addis; judgment for plaintiff $2,144.58.

Sanders v. Addis; judgment for plaintiff, $2,750.

Moss v. Clark; judgment by confession $160.23.

Jeffers and Cornwell v. Addis; judgment $7,057.

Snyder v. Dixon, to dissolve equart receivership, referred to commissioner.

Eaton v. Avery, to remove cloud from title; dismissed.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Cranorr Bros., Conveyancers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, May 27, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Clementine Taylor to William M. Corwin, part of s ½ of e ½ of n e ¼, 6-33-6, $30.

A. D. Cuicksbank et al. to Henry Fox, lot 1, 8 33 7, $600.

W. W. Phelps and wife to D. W. Thompson, e 2 acres of u rel ½ of n e ¼, 13-32-6, $105.

Georgiana Barrett to Ellen F. Ramsey, lot in South Lake, $800.

Eliza Baxter to Louis Linne, s e ¼ of s q ¼, 8 32 5, $250.

A. R. Upright et al. to Samuel G. Blanchard, lot 130 of Upright & Hurlbut's addition to Charlevoix, $150.

Ruben Willis to J. M. Eaton, n ½ of n e ¼, 33-34 7, $500.

J. M. Eaton and wife to E. M. Clark, e 30 acres of n ½ of n e ¼, 33-34 7, $120.

J. M. Eaton and wife to Reuben Willis, e 10 acres of n w ½ of n e ¼, 33-34 7, $1.

J. M. Eaton and wife to Jane Shawsaw day see, n e ¼ of n e ¼, 33-34-7, $1.

Jane Sisaw waw day see to E. M. Clark, w 30 acres of n ½ of n e ¼, 33-34-7, $1.

Gardner S. Delano to Geo. Wardrop, 15 acres, 18 33 5, $150.

L. Starmer to Louisa T. Starmer, s ½ of s w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼, 36-34-6, $500.

J. A. Campbell and wife to Byron M. Holmes, part of n w ¼ of s w ¼, 23-32-7, $200.

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the enstom house for two weeks ending Tuesday, May 27:

14—Schr. John Raber, 5,500 ties, Upright, Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

15—Sch. Chris. Graver, 100 cords wood, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

15—Sch. Moses Gage, 9,000 cedar posts, Upright Emrey & Co., to Chicago.

15—Sch. Mocking Bird, 80 cords wood, S. Parker and 1,500 ties Upright Emrey & Co, to Racine.

16—City of Cheboygan, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Olds, to Chicago.

16—Sch. Sea Gem, 2,000 posts, 800 ties to Milwaukee.

17—Sch. Helen, 400 posts, T. D. Smith, to Chicago.

17—Sch. Lottie Mason, 55 cords bark, Stone, to Milwaukee.

17—Sch. Gilbert Knapp, 300 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

18—Sch. Lapeltie, 150 cords wood, P. Thorp to Milwaukee.

19—Sch. Harriet Ross, 140 cords wood, A. S. Stripp to Chicago.

19—Sch. M. L. Bizzle, 220,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Parker, to Chicago.

19—Sch. Louis Lodington, 137 cords wood, S. Parker, to Racine.

20—Sch. Bert Barnes, 5,500 ties, T. D. Smith, to Chicago.

20—Prop. John Orr, 140 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

20—Sch. Jessie Phillips, 190,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Parker to Chicago.

20—Sch. Salara, 60 cords wood, 20 cords bark, M. Sanderson, to Milwaukee.

21—Sch. M. L. Collins, 180 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

21—Schr. Hercules, 80 cords bark, A. Fox to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. Evening Star, 200 cords wood, W. H. Downer to Chicago, 100,000 feet hardwood lumber, A. W. Olds to Chicago.

23—Schr. Mockingbird, 115 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co. to Milwaukee.

24—Schr. John Raber, 170 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co. to Milwaukee.

24—Sc. Melvina, 500 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

24—Schr. Sea Gem, 85 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. John C. Bauer, 130 cords wood, J. C. Wright, to Milwaukee.

26—Schr. Fleetwing, 45 cords bark, Geo. Harrison to Milwaukee.

27—Sch. John Schuette, 225 cords wood, Upright, Emrey & Co., Milwaukee.

Council Proceedings.

At the meeting of the council last Thursday evening, the marshal was instructed to make a written report in regard to service of notice for building sidewalk, and repair of jail; also instructed to have the necessary repairs made to the jail at a cost of not exceeding $15.

The committee on ordinance reported an ordinance licensing and regulating draymen, which was adopted.

Bills were allowed and ordered paid as follows: G. W. Cronter, blank book, $1.50; Smith & Parmelee, printing, $5.25; Washburn & Ackert, repairs to engine, $8.28.

The druggists' bond of F. Hines & Co. was presented and approved.

The street commissioner was instructed to post notices for the protection of the village park.

The marshal was instructed to enforce the ordinance in regard to obstructions on the streets and side walks.

Adjourned one week.

South Arm.

Decoration day is to celebrated here with appropriate exercises. The G. A. R. Post in charge.

We hear it rumored that some persons think that a change of postmaster is desirable. "Let well enough alone" is a good old motto.

Elder Blake took the Gazelle for Ironton on Friday where he preached on Sunday last. His health is improving, though slowly.

Rev. J. Redpath was in town last week.

Mr. Isaac Shipman, of Traverse City, was in town recently.

Extensive repairing on the saw mill is being done by F. J. Meech. Jos. Hyland of Charlevoix, is repairing the boiler.

Mr. J. Cummings, was badly hurt last week by the chain by which he was drawing up logs, in Glenn's mill, breaking and striking him on his head.

Supper for Two.

A new scheme of money getting for churches and charitable societies has been devised, which our young people should try and profit by at once while it is novel. The "racket" works as follows: Each lady will bring a basket containing supper for two. The baskets will be placed in the hands of a committee, who will number them. Numbers will be placed on slips of paper to correspond with the baskets. Then each will get his basket, which contains the name of a lady. He then finds his lady and conducts her to the scales to be weighed, and pays one cent per pound for her and her basket. —Muskegon News.

Burgess.

Clover is in blossom up in Hayes.

Thomas Dake intends to enclose his place with a wire fence.

Grass and grain of all kinds are just booming this weather.

School has commenced at Mable Grove, with Miss Annie Bell, of Charlevoix, as teacher.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.
Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan	8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	9.00 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.
Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne	9.30 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	12.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.
Steamer CLARA BELLE. Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv.	7.00am	Harbor Springs	1.30pm
Charlevoix	9.00am	Petoskey	2.00pm
Petoskey	11.00am	Charlevoix	4.30pm
Harbor Springs	11.30am	East Jordan, ar.	6.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.
Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Lv Boyne	7.00am	Lv Charlevoix	2.00pm
Ar Charlevoix	9.30am	Ar Boyne	4.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.
Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

LEAVE	AM	PM	ARRIVE	AM	PM
East Jordan	6.30	1.00	Charlevoix	8.45	3.15
Charlevoix	9.30	4.00	East Jordan	11.55	6.00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE, SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,
Capt. O. E. WILBUR.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Will Leave		GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays. Will Leave
Traverse City	7.00am	St. Ignace	5.30am
Northport	9.30am	Mackinaw Isld	7.00am
Charlevoix	12.00m	Cross Village	10.00am
Petoskey	2.00pm	Harbor Springs	12.30pm
Harbor Springs	2.45pm	Petoskey	1.30pm
Cross Village	5.00pm	Charlevoix	4.00pm
Mackinaw Isld	9.00pm	Northport	6.30pm
Arriving at St. Ignace	10.00pm	Arriving at Traverse City	8.30pm

T. S. FAXTON,
CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays. Will Leave		GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Will Leave
Traverse City	7.00am	Harbor Springs	6.00am
Old Mission	7.30am	Petoskey	7.00am
Elk Rapids	10.00am	Charlevoix	8.30am
Torch Lake	11.30am	East Jordan or Boyne	10.00am
Norwood	12.30pm	Norwood	1.00pm
Charlevoix	2.00pm	Charlevoix (arriving)	11.30am
East Jordan or Boyne	3.30pm	Norwood	1.00pm
Charlevoix (re-turning)	5.00pm	Torch Lake	2.00pm
Petoskey	6.30pm	Elk Rapids	3.00pm
Arriving at Harbor Springs	7.00pm	Old Mission	5.30pm
		Arriving at Traverse City	6.00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R. also on Monday morning between the City of Traverse from Mackinac and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1881.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.		7.00am	7.45pm
Richmond	2.27pm	10.22	9.52
Winchester	3.51	11.37	11.06
Ridgeville	4.13	11.57	11.21
Fort Wayne, ar.	6.42	2.25pm	1.52am
Fort Wayne, lv.		2.45	2.50	8.07am
Kendallville		3.55	3.52	9.17
Sturgis		5.03	5.11	10.35
Vicksburg		6.11	6.12	11.48
Kalamazoo, ar.		6.52	6.52	12.25pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		7.02	7.12	1.02
Old Rapids, ar.		9.02	9.22	3.07
Old Rapids, lv.	7.10am		9.50	1.45
Petoskey	7.20		10.05	5.05
Howard City	8.17		1.20	6.27
Big Rapids	9.13		12.15pm	7.22
Reed City	10.17		1.12	8.18
Cadillac, ar.	11.25		2.21	9.26
Cadillac, lv.			2.30	9.50
Traverse City, ar.			4.55
Kalkaska, lv.			1.17	12.05am
Mancelona			4.09	12.35
Boyne Falls			5.01	2.39
Petoskey			5.40	3.15
Harbor Springs			6.15	4.45
Mackinaw City			8.05	6.05
St. Ignace			10.00	8.50
Marquette			7.00am	5.00am
Negaunee, ar.			9.12	7.08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv.			5.15pm	7.30am
Marquette			9.00	8.30
St. Ignace			5.45am	6.15pm
Mackinaw City			9.10	9.15
Harbor Springs			7.00	1.20
Petoskey, lv.			7.38	11.33
Boyne Falls			8.15	12.07am
Mancelona			8.38	12.11
Kalkaska			9.15	2.58
Traverse City, lv.			8.45am
Cadillac, ar.			12.37	5.30
Cadillac, lv.		3.30pm	11.45	5.50
Reed City		4.38	12.50pm	7.16
Big Rapids		5.12	1.41	7.49
Howard City		6.08	2.25	8.47
D G H & M cros		7.25	3.48	10.05
Old Rapids, ar.		7.40	4.05	10.25
Old Rapids, lv.	6.20am		4.32	12.37pm
Kalamazoo, ar.	8.52		6.32	2.21
Kalamazoo, lv.	6.37		6.52	2.29
Vicksburg	9.07		7.22	3.00
Sturgis	10.01		8.16	4.12
Kendallville	11.18		9.26	5.31
Fort Wayne, ar.	12.30pm		10.52	6.42
Fort Wayne, lv.	12.52	5.35am	12.05am
Ridgeville	3.09	7.56	2.33
Winchester	3.28	8.16	2.55
Richmond, ar.	4.47	9.17	4.07
Cincinnati, ar.	7.05pm	12.50pm	7.30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Ass't Gl. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

J. MILO EATON

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FA

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Compani

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN

FOR THE CAMPAIG

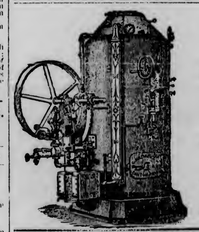
The Journa

Will be sent to any address during the Campaign

10c a Month

CASH IN ADVANCE.

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET UP A C



E. T. BROWN

Threshing Engines

Portable and Stati

Engine

SAW MILLS, THRES
MILL SUPPLIE

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MA

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CA

West Bridge Stree

Grand Rapids, Mi

New Sto

and

NEW GO

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, C
Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implemen
Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons,
Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doo
Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best
Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLO

THE MOST USEFUL BOOK EVER PUBL

A Book that should be in Every

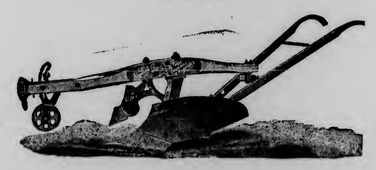
The press, teachers, and profes throughout the country pronounce BOOK OF BOOKS. It contains 50,000 WORDS, with th and pronunciation, according to Webs recognized authorities; a large numb al words and definitions in general use a mine of information for everybody. handsomely bound in cloth, containing Profusely Illustrated. We pro you one of these valuable books, by pa ping charges prepaid, to any address only ONE DOLLAR.

Address M. STOLZ & C
23 Park Place, N

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

New Stores, New Goods,



New Prices, Best Work,

HARDWARE, STOVES & IMPLEMENTS

CHARLEVOIX, MICH., HARBOR AND SUMMER RESORTS.

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Screen Doors, Paints and Brushes, Rope, Glass and Putty, Fence Wire, Farm Bells, Mechanics' Tools, Whips, Revolvers, Spoons, Forks, Etc.

Special Department FOR Notions In Hardware.

The very Best TIN AND Job work Done on Short Notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., May 29, 1884.

What My Lover Said.

By the merest chance in the twilight gloom,
In the orchard path he met me—
In the tall, wet grass, with its faint perfume,
And I tried to pass, but he made no room.
Oh! tired, but he would not let me,
So I stood and blushed until the grass grew red,
With my face bent down above it,
While he took my hand as he whispering said—
How the clover lifted each pink, sweet head
To listen to all that my lover said!
Oh! the clover in bloom—I love it!

In the thick, wet grass went the path to hide,
And the low, wet leaves hung over,
But I could not pass on either side,
For I found myself, when I vainly tried,
In the arms of my steadfast lover.
And he held me there and he raised my head,
While he closed the path before me,
And he looked down into my eyes and said—
How the leaves bent down from the boughs o'erhead,
To listen to all that my lover said,
Oh! the leaves hanging lowly o'er me!

Had he moved aside but a little way
I could surely have passed him,
And he knew I never could wish to stay,
And would not have heard what he had to say,
Could I only aside have cast him.
It was almost dark, and the moments sped,
And the searching night wind found us;
But he drew me nearer and softly said—
How the pure, sweet wind grew still instead,
To listen to all that my lover said,
Oh! the whispering winds around us!

I am sure he knew, when he held me fast,
'Tis I must be all unwilling,
For I tried to go, and would have passed
As the night was come with its dews at last,
And the sky with its stars was filling;
And he clasped me close when I would have fled,
And he made me hear his story,
And his soul came out from his lips and said—
How the stars crept out where the white moon led,
To listen to all that my lover said,
Oh, the moon and stars in glory.

I know that the grass and leaves will not tell,
And I'm sure that the wind, precarious rover,
Will carry his secrets so safely and well
That no being shall ever discover
One word of the many that rapidly fell
From the eager lips of my lover.
And the moon and the stars that looked over
Shall never reveal what a fairy-like spell
They wove round about us that night in the dell,
In the path through the dew-laden clovers,
Nor echo the whispers that made my heart swell,
As they fell from the lips of my lover.
—Attributed to Horace Greeley.

ALWAYS IDLE.

The setting sun was tinging the trees with ruddy gold, causing purple shadows over the rocky mountains outlined against the skies, falling and bathing the little red schoolhouse with unequalled glory.

Schooi was over—at least, the children were supposed to have left, but even now a few lingered behind, talking with great animation over the coming holidays and the prize-drawing.

"I expect Bert will be first in composition; his essays are always best," one boy remarked.

"Yes, if he tries," answered the other a little dolefully. "I wish he wouldn't, then there would be a chance for one of us."

"Try! Of course he will. I say, Bert!" Tom cried, as a tall brighter looking boy passed.

"Yes; what is it?"

"Are you going in for the composition?"

"I should rather think so," Bert cried in surprise. "Why?"

"I thought I should like to know. You see there might be a chance for me if you didn't. You are sure to carry off the prize."

Bert smiled and tossed his head proudly.

"Well, yes, perhaps. You see, I am always first. There is not one of you I can't beat."

"You forget Sidney Lennox."

"Lennox!" Bert echoed scornfully. "I am not afraid of him."

"He's awfully clever when he chooses to exert himself."

"Yes, when he does; but you know he is always idle. I do not think I shall have him for a rival."

"No, I don't either. What a pity he is such an idle boy, always dreaming—never doing. Now, if I only had one-half his brains, I would beat the whole lot."

Bert smiled again, a little triumphantly; he knew he had nothing to fear from Tom, and after a few more words the boys parted.

But it so happened that the few careless words spoken by them were not unheard.

They had been standing beneath the school-room window, never thinking that anyone was there; but a pale dreamy-looking boy, sitting by the open casement, dividing his attention between his unlearned lesson and the beautiful sunset scene beyond, had caught the words.

As he listened the thoughtful look died away, and was succeeded by one of mingled surprise and indignation, the deep flush rising to his brow, showing the words had struck some hidden chord in his heart, rousing him from his dreams to reality.

"Always dreaming—never doing," came wafted up on the summer breeze, and Sidney felt, with shame, how true those words were.

A sudden thought flitted through his mind, and he pondered long after the boys had gone away, until a new resolve shone in his dark eyes, a new earnestness settling on the broad brow, and rising, he flung his book aside, and went in search of his master.

"Mr. Selton."

"Ah, Sidney, is it you? Have you mastered your lesson?" the schoolmaster asked.

"Yes; but it is not that I wished to speak about. It is that I want to put my name down for the composition prize."

Mr. Selton gazed in some surprise at his pupil; it was very unusual for him to ask to enter into the lists of competitors for the prizes, but he said kindly enough:

"Very well, Lennox, I am glad to see you are willing to work. I only wish you would always try."

"I am afraid I am always too idle, sir, but I think I will turn over a new leaf now, and begin afresh; perhaps I shall get on all right."

"I am sure you would if you tried; you are intelligent enough," said the master.

Sidney flushed slightly at the praise, and he inwardly determined to prove the truth of the words, so with this resolve he went home prepared to work earnestly and diligently.

Bert Linton was very much surprised, when the list of competitors was read aloud, to hear the name of Sidney Lennox, and for a moment his confidence of gaining the prize was shaken, then he brightened up, for it was well known that sometimes Lennox commenced a thing, then with his usual dreamy indifference left it, and forgot that he had ever began.

"I did not know that you were going in for this," he said later to Sidney.

"Oh yes. You see I haven't gained a prize since I have been at school, so I think it is time to begin now," Lennox answered, smiling.

Tom was even more surprised than Bert, and his good-natured face took a longer turn, as he thought how small a chance he had against two such good composers.

But he groaned aloud when he heard the subject he was to write upon, "The First Rays of the Sun," and his heart was filled with despair.

"Whatever made him choose that, of all things?" he said confidentially to Bert. "I haven't the faintest notion of what to say, and expect that the sun is here, and sometimes shines, and more often doesn't. I don't know anything further about it."

Bert also had a look of perplexity, and he shrugged his shoulders as he answered:

"And I cannot tell you. It is the most difficult thing we have had as yet. I confess I am at a loss myself."

"Well as long as I'm not the only one, I don't care," Tom said, sighing. "I wonder what Lennox thinks!"

"He looks the same as he always does—calmly and serenely indifferent. I believe if Mr. Selton had told us to write an essay on the inhabitants of the moon, he would be just the same."

For the next few weeks every boy went about with grave, thoughtful aspect, evidently deeply puzzled at the subject the master had chosen.

Only Sidney had remained tranquil during this time, no perplexed frown knitted his brow, his lessons every day were perfectly said, and Bert's were not always, his mind seemed to be too entirely wrapped up in the subject to allow of other things.

At last the great day arrived. All the essays had been given in some time before.

The boys, in a state of suppressed excitement, trooped early to school, and many whispered consultations were carried on in the playground as to the probable results.

"I don't believe Lennox has tried at all," Bert remarked complacently to Tom. "He looks too indifferent, too dreamy. I dare say he repented before he got half through."

"Perhaps; but I don't know. You never can judge by his face what he is thinking of. For all we know, he may be as excited as we are, only he won't show it. How you succeeded in getting a good idea?"

"Pretty well. I thought for several days, and at last a sudden idea struck me, and I wrote it out."

"Of course I haven't a chance against two such clever fellows as you and Sidney. It was perfectly useless trying. By the way, did he go in for any of the other prizes?"

"No; he was too late. Besides he never could exert himself to do more than one thing."

"Not even the George?"

Mr. Prentice ceased writing, sighed heavily and looking up sadly and reproachfully at the young man, said:

"I hope so, Billy."—Bill Nye.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parmelee's Vermifuge Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Paleness, restless starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Be wise and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Drive dull care away. Be cheerful, be piquant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parmelee's Blood Purifier. It acts upon the liver and kidneys, it regulates the bowels and purifies the blood, it acts upon the digestion, it carries off the old tissue and makes new, and is acquiring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all blood diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous condition. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side, constipation, excessive flow of urine, insatiable thirst, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diuretics, Kidney and Liver Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness, for they not only cure Diabetes, Bright's disease, &c., but prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Dime Novel Work.

The work of the dime novel is being performed with even more than the usual success. The other day three boys robbed their parents and started for the boundless West. More recently a lad in a Philadelphia public school drew a revolver on his teacher, and examination showed that seven other boys present were armed with revolvers and bowie-knives. They had formed a secret brotherhood, their leader, the boy who pulled the pistol, having taken the terror-inspiring name of "Schuylkill Jack." They meant to set off in a little while for the West also, being consumed with a fine ambition to become cowboys. This sort of escapade is becoming common, and while no doubt there are many absurd features about such boyish outbreaks, they furnish cause for uneasiness too. The class of literature which is mainly responsible for all this folly is distributed all over the country in immense quantities, and it is distinctly evil in its teachings and tendencies. The heroes of the dime novels are almost always thieves, robbers and immoral characters, and the heroines are no better. The stories abound with descriptions of brutality, cruelty and dishonesty, when they do not go further and far worse. Boys gather from them the idea that violence and trickery and immorality are manly, and that the character to be admired is the bully and ruffian who knocks everybody down about, and cuts throats right and left, and plunders successfully, and is hail-fellow with the thieves and dangerous classes generally.

Through reading this pestilent stuff a great many boys are undoubtedly put fairly in the road to ruin. They insensibly acquire a crooked moral vision. They begin to deceive even in their associations. They pine for opportunities to emulate the heroes they are reading about. Presently they are tempted to steal from their parents, friends or employers, to prepare for some preposterous raid, and then, though they may be saved for the time, their characters have sustained a shock which is liable to weaken them permanently. It is difficult to deal adequately with this evil because of the absence of uniform legislation. A good deal can no doubt be done by vigilance and by a proper active supervision such as are at work in New York, but probably the most effective remedies are in the hands of parents and preventives, who, if they will only take the trouble, certainly must be able to cut off the supply in a large number of cases.

The habit of relying upon the State to do everything is a bad one in this as and it is already far too prevalent. The State ought not to be called upon to do anything which can be better done as well done by private energy and affairs concerning the family nearly all none within this category. When, therefore, boys are being corrupted by the dime novel influences, it is in order to inquire what their parents have been doing to protect them against this vicious agency, and the parents ought not to be encouraged to look to somebody else for relief from their unmistakable duties.—N. Y. Tribune.

Anecdote of Prentice.

This is a story of George D. Prentice which I never saw in print and which is better illustration of his ready wit than anything else he said, I think. The old Journal office used to be the stamping ground of many Southern wags and humorists, who liked to hear the veteran journalist tell a story or warm up a presumptuous young man who had just graduated from the quented the Journal office was Will S. Hayes, the song writer.

Coming into Mr Prentice's office one day in that free and easy way of his, he sat down in one chair, with his feet on another, and jamming his hat into the back of his head, said, without consulting Mr. Prentice's leisure:

"Mose, won't you write a George?"

Mr. Prentice ceased writing, sighed heavily and looking up sadly and reproachfully at the young man, said:

"I hope so, Billy."—Bill Nye.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Clear and beautiful. After using Hamilton's Oriental Balm, the skin will have a fresh, clear and beautiful appearance. Entirely free from tan, freckles, and all blemishes. It is so perfectly harmless that it cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We recommend it to all the ladies. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Worse than heathen are those parents who allow their children to suffer with worms when 25 cents will buy a box of Parmelee's Vermifuge Worm Candies which will immediately cure the child and remove the worms by dissolving them. Do you know the symptoms? Paleness, restless starting in sleep, bad breath, great desire for food day and night. Be wise and leave nothing to regret. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Drive dull care away. Be cheerful, be piquant, be happy, be healthy. Health is wealth. Use Parmelee's Blood Purifier. It acts upon the liver and kidneys, it regulates the bowels and purifies the blood, it acts upon the digestion, it carries off the old tissue and makes new, and is acquiring a great reputation for the cure of scrofulous affection, boils, pimples, ulcers, and all blood diseases. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Ward off the first attack of any disease and you need never fear a dangerous condition. If those who are troubled with dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, pains in back and side, constipation, excessive flow of urine, insatiable thirst, lack of circulation of the blood, would use Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diuretics, Kidney and Liver Cure they would not be in constant fear of sickness, for they not only cure Diabetes, Bright's disease, &c., but prevent them by removing the first symptoms. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

JOSEPH HYLAND,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Boiler Maker,
Sheet-Iron Worker,
and manufacturer of
Hyland's Patent Fireman.
Dealer in all kinds of
SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.
Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

Advance Lumber Company
Are now prepared to do
CUSTOM SAWING
Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.
GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.
ADVANCE, MICH.

For You
NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.
THE ILLUSTRATED
BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL. 1884.
PRICE ONE DOLLAR.
It contains something for everybody. Its pages abound in instructive reading matter for old and young. It is adapted to the Sunday School, the Christian Congregation, the Lecture Room, the Fireside, the Statesman, the Author, the Editor, the Merchant, the Mechanic, and the School Boy who desires to lay the foundation of a business character and make for himself a pattern after.
THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL
IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.
Within its pages may be found nearly
200 PORTRAITS, WOMEN who have exercised and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.
While pre-eminently an American publication, treating chiefly of EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and lives of the PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the day.
Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent Crowned Heads and Hereditary Rulers, Members of the Nobility, Statesmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Editors, Millionaires, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Cardinals, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others In all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,
AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, McDONALD, BAYARD, MORRISON, PAYNE, EDMUNDS, LINCOLN, SABIN, BUTLER, SHERMAN, TILDEN, HENDRICKS, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HOADLEY.
EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.
Catholics and Protestants, whether Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Baptists or Methodists, will find among the numerous characters some-one
THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL
among familiar faces some of which have endeared themselves to thousands of their fellow men. The lives of the PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy an important place in this universally interesting volume constitute encouraging and instructive reading, and will convince the reader that woman has a noble mission and that she is well able to fulfill it.
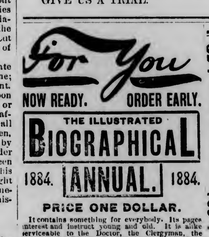
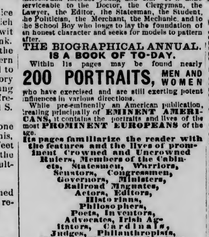
If you would become acquainted with the faces and lives of the men and women whose names have become familiar to everybody, get a copy of THE
BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL
Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.
T. S. McCLOSKY CO., Publishers,
92 White Street, New York.

$1 A YEAR. ONE DOLLAR.



$1 A YEAR. ONE DOLLAR.



$1 A YEAR.

THE WEEKLY
Detroit Free Press
AND
THE HOUSEHOLD
FOR
ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.
Two Large Pages of Reading Matter, Including Miscellaneous Matter, Stories, Sketches, Poetry, Agricultural Matter, Sparkling Wit and Humor, Fashion Notes, Etc., Etc.
The Free Press is Michigan's Representative Newspaper. Its Correspondence is Unsurpassed. Its Market Reports are Complete. Its Editorials are Able and Fearless. Its Miscellaneous Matter is Carefully Selected. Its Stories are Interesting. Its Sketches are Entertaining. Its Poetry is Choice. Its Agricultural Matter is Practical. Its Fashion Notes are Reliable. Its Sparkling Wit and Humor is Unsurpassed

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

PITTSBURG dispatch: Notice was posted on the doors of the Penn Bank at noon that, owing to a sudden illness of President Riddle, who had taken an overdose of a chloride to allay pain, the bank had again suspended. It is stated that the rejection by the Clearing House of checks aggregating $265,000 brought about the crisis. There is much excitement, and rumors of all kinds are prevalent. James D. Fish, President of the wrecked Marine National Bank of New York, pleaded not guilty to the charge of misapplying funds, and was released on $30,000 bail.

FRED D. GRANT, in his assignment papers, which he filed in New York, shows liabilities of $2,215,966 and nominal assets of $1,950,000. Jesse R. Grant has debts of $95,123 and assets of $101,950. Mrs. Gen. Grant has sold her Washington house to John R. McLean for $85,000. Gen. Grant has mortgaged to W. H. Vanderbilt his unfinished quarter of Illaires near Chicago. In the stables in Bloomville, Long Island, are numbers of cattle suffering from pleuro-pneumonia, the affected animals being first milked, then killed, and the carcasses secretly conveyed to New York and Brooklyn and sold for food. . . . Since the suspension and reopening of the Metropolitan Bank of New York deposits have been diminished $2,000,000. Thomas W. Evans, Cornelius F. Thompson, and John R. Jackson, bank officials of New York, have been held for trial for over-certification of checks.

ONE DUNCAN, editor of a daily newspaper at Lexington, Ky., has been fined $500 for malicious libel because his journal published the name and address of persons elected on the Judge of the Circuit Court. Duncan was away from home when the card was posted.

WASHINGTON.

CAPT. GEORGE H. PERKINS, U. S. N., was ordered to the command of the Pacific fleet, the flagship of the Pacific squadron, last week. He wrote to Secretary Chandler protesting against the order and asking him to withdraw it, as he was unable to endure the climate of the Pacific coast. Perkins that he has enjoyed a years' leave of absence on account of ill-health, and was ordered to take command of the Hartford, the flagship of the Pacific squadron, just week. He wrote to Secretary Chandler protesting against the order and asking him to revoke it. The latter replied, reminding Capt. Perkins that he has enjoyed a year's leave of absence on account of ill-health, and that the order, and telling the Captain in good set terms that if he does not obey the order before the 11th of June his resignation will be accepted.

CONGRESSMAN HIRD, of Toledo, says an effort will be made during the present session of Congress to add lumber and coal to the free list. Speaking of this, Hird considered that the Chinese Government may send operators with a silk loom to be exhibited at the Centennial Exposition, with the understanding that they will leave the country at the close of the display.

MR. KER, of the sergeant-at-arms, informed the Springer Committee that William Pitt Kellogg had said he ought to take a shot-gun and blow out Ker's brains, and the latter observed that he thought Kellogg would have that kind of satisfaction by giving notice of the time and place.

POLITICAL.

NEW YORK special to Chicago Times: Your correspondent called at Governors for the purpose of verifying a sensational report printed in a morning paper as to the health of Mr. Tilden. After waiting a few minutes in a reception-room, Mr. Tilden himself came down-stairs, and said that the report of his failing health was premature. He was feeling fully without foundation that his health at present was better than it had been at any time during the past year, and that he had gone to run down to Graystone for a few days to personally oversee some improvements that he is making on the place. Mr. Tilden shook hands warmly with the correspondent, evincing much pleasure at seeing him. He was just about to take a walk through his grounds and make a visit to some pet animals.

SAN FRANCISCO telegram: "The election of delegates in the forty-seven city clubs to the State Democratic Convention was continued up to midnight. The double resolution pledging the delegates to Tilden and against Sharon was unanimously adopted."

St. Louis dispatch: "The Democratic Central Committee met for held in this State office for the nomination of county tickets or the selection of delegates to the State convention to choose delegates to the National convention. After expressed devotion to Tilden and Hendricks, Colonel Broadhead, of Pettis county, was named as the head of the ticket."

JUDGE FORAKER, of Ohio, is, at his own request, to nominate Senator Sherman for the Presidency at the Chicago convention.

THE Democratic Convention of Arkansas on Wednesday resolutions denouncing the present tariff as a most piece of inquitous legislation, and demanding that all custom-house taxation shall be only for revenue.

FIRE RECORD.

FLAMES swept away the large seed warehouse of Hiram Sibley & Co. on North Clark street, Chicago. The loss is estimated at $250,000, with an insurance of 50 per cent, largely in foreign companies. Mr. Sibley is credited with a fortune of $10,000,000. He is at present engaged in erecting two mammoth stone warehouses, adjoining the structure which was burned, and will doubtless proceed to build a third.

LIGHTNING fired a mill of crude oil at the Atlantic Refinery, in the southwestern quarter of the city of Philadelphia. The flames spread to other tanks and caused several explosions. Famines were taken from the mineral to the scene, and used in preventing a large tank threatened by the fire. The loss is about $600,000. . . . One-half of the Mail Building at Toronto, Ontario, was burned, and the telephone service of the city was destroyed. The loss is about $100,000. . . . Other fire losses of the week were as follows:

Chicago, hide and tallow warehouse	$40,000
Manhattan, Kan., hotels	15,000
Cannon Falls, Minn., stores	25,000
Sioux Falls, Dakota, business	15,000
Brighton, Mass., glow works	25,000
Cleveland, O., planing mill	15,000
Rockford, Ill., bakeries	10,000
Bethlehem, Pa., rail works	100,000
Stone Bridge, N. Y., hotel	25,000
Long Island, N. Y., rubber works	10,000
Avoca, Ill., business houses	15,000
Waupun, Wis., basket factory	15,000
Peary, Ill., five stores	15,000
Steuben, Wis., chemical factory	10,000
New Orleans, warehouse and cotton	150,000
Cass, Mich., lumber yard	10,000
Cincinnati, O., 7 un., business property	75,000
Lake Village, Dakota, store	10,000
Fairfield, Ill., 3 business houses	15,000
Decatur, Ill., planing mill	10,000
Lincoln, N. Y., paper mill	10,000
Dickson, Wis., grain depot	10,000
Pierce, Wis., mills	15,000
Carroll, Iowa, woolen mill	15,000
Reading, Mass., rubber factory	20,000

GENERAL.

THE St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway Company has been notified by the Collector of Customs at Winnipeg that no logs could be imported from the United States into Manitoba for breeding purposes; that the shipment of logs into Manitoba is forbidden except under conditions providing for the immediate slaughter of all logs imported for such purposes; that a bond must be given as a pledge that they will be slaughtered immediately. . . . A rumor from the City of Mexico is to the effect that President Gonzalez will next month ask Congress to allow him to resign.

THIRTEEN deaths from yellow fever occurred at Havana, Cuba, last week.

H. C. BEAUCHAMP, coffee merchant at Richmond, Va., has failed for $225,000. Joseph B. McDonald, lumber dealer at Woburn, Massachusetts, is insolvent, owing $250,000. . . . The Central Railroad of Georgia has been adopted as the international postal route by the United States and Mexico.

PRIVATE letter to New Orleans say the Captain General of Cuba has liberated some desperate criminals upon condition that they join Agueros's band and reassassinate him. Agueros is burning and pillaging on the mountains, and his force is being daily augmented.

THE oldest postmaster in the United States is Ross Beeson, of North Java, Erie county, New York, who was appointed in 1828. John Wilson, of Plato, Ill., has held office since 1832, and seven other postmasters in Illinois have held office since 1833. Postmaster Jackson, prisoner in the Dublin jail, died of fever. During the holiday season in Dublin, Timothy Burnett, secretary of the League, was confined for three years ago from £1,000 to £2,000 were received weekly from America, while the same sum was subscribed to depend almost exclusively upon funds contributed in Ireland.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

GEORGE MOUNTJOY, son of one of the leaders of the celebrated Boston "ten party," died in the Massachusetts capital in his 87th year.

GEN. BENJAMIN F. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, was nominated for President by the National Greenback Convention at Indianapolis. James B. Weaver, of Mississippi, was nominated for Vice President. . . . The Minnesota Democratic Convention met at St. Paul and elected delegates to Chicago, while not instructed, those chosen are in favor of Tilden.

SEVERAL inebriated men at Sharpsburg, Pa., amused themselves by shooting at lighted lamps in a grocery store. One of the lamps exploded and set fire to the building. The flames spread rapidly, and nearly all the principal business places of the town were destroyed. The total loss is placed at $1,000,000.

SIR BARTLE FRERE, well known in connection with British South African politics, died in London after a protracted illness. He took a conspicuous part in connection with the Ecue and Zulu difficulties of England in the Cape Colony.

WESLEY JOHNSON was hanged at Napoleon, Ohio, for the murder of George W. Williams and his wife near that place in the fall of October, 1883.

THE western end of the Laurel Hill tunnel of the South Pennsylvania Railroad, near Somerset, Pa., caved in, fatally injuring eight men, and seriously crushing two others. . . . President Riddle, of the Penn Bank, of Pittsburgh, after making another confession of judgment for $82,000, has issued a card requesting his friends to withhold judgment upon him. It is stated that nearly all the $80,000 currency known to be on the counter when the concern closed has been restored, together with bonds and stock to a considerable amount.

A SEVERE frost in several of the Western States damaged corn considerably, and fruit and garden truck were severely injured.

THE Union Deposit Bank at Greensburg, Pa., has closed its doors. It is owned by David Barnsman, who is absent, and John Walker, now lying ill at home, and its liabilities are believed to be in excess of $100,000. Capt. Wm. P. Dove, of the Twelfth United States Infantry, was drowned while attempting to cross to the Canada side from Fort Niagara.

THE French Government has resolved to celebrate the centenary of the French revolution of 1789. An international exhibition will be held in Paris. . . . Emperor William appeared on Lorsdeack at the request of Bismarck, and presided at a conference of the European powers on Egyptian affairs will be held on the 23d of June.

INCENDIARIES formed the Court House at Evansville, Texas, the records, deeds, mortgages, and all valuable papers being consumed. . . . The Edmond mines in Jackson County, Alabama, which were purchased by Grant & Ward from Gen. Gadsden, of Florida, have been shut down for several hundred men out of employment.

IN the Senate on the 24th ult., a memorial was presented asking an appropriation of $2,000 for the Smith-Ian Exposition at Louisville, and a memorial was presented asking an appropriation of the appropriation for the Indian Industrial Exposition at the port of Minneapolis. The Senate then went into executive session, and confirmed the nomination of Blessing. The District of Columbia appointments were then taken up and confirmed. The Senate adjourned to Monday. . . . The Indian bills were reported on

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 16th day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of the state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government, and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each one hundred votes cast for governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of one hundred that two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and no delegate shall be appointed a delegate and be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES, Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Democratic County Convention.

A Democratic County Convention for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State Convention, and to reorganize the County Committee, will be held at

BARTHOLOMEW'S OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX, ON THURSDAY, 19 DAY 12TH, 1884,

at 2 o'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired.

J. MILO PAYNE,
Chairman Democratic County Committee.

The various townships are entitled to delegates as follows.

	Vote for Gov. 1882.	No. Delegates.
Bear Lake	26	1
Boyne Valley	55	1
Chandler	19	1
Charlevoix	251	2
Evangeline	131	1
Eveline	98	1
Hayes	30	1
Hudson	73	1
Marion	60	1
Melrose	41	1
Norwood	236	2
Resort	29	1
South Arm	115	2
Springvale	11	1
Wilson	58	1

A meeting of the county committee of the Greenback party, of Charlevoix county will be held at the office of Truckshaw & Greer, in the village of Charlevoix, on Saturday, June 14, 1884, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of effecting a county organization, and to transact such other business in the interest of BUTLER AND REFORM.

By order of executive committee.

E. H. SHEFARD, Secretary

From Chicago.

Through the courtesy of the senior editor of the Sentinel, we are permitted to make the following abstracts of telegrams to that paper from its representative in Chicago, but received too late for use this week:

General Sherman has telegraphed that he will not accept the nomination, nor serve if elected.

A resolution binding all delegates to support the nominee of the convention created a warm discussion.

J. B. Henderson, of Missouri, was made permanent chairman.

The Times predicts that Arthur will have 278 and Blaine 364 on first ballot, but that neither will be nominated.

Convention met at 7 o'clock last evening. The committee on credentials not being ready to report, adjourned till 10 o'clock to-day.

By telephone from Tuesday:

Convention called to order at 10:50. Committee on credentials reported at 11:07.

Committee on resolutions reported at 1:20. Protection plank elected heartily; anti-polygamy also.

States called for national committee at 1:45.

Platform read at 1:55 and it tremendous cheers.

Notes and News.

Some of our republican friends are shouting themselves hoarse for the "old ticket." They seem to realize that republican success depends on the third ticket, and are anxious to create a public sentiment in that direction. Ben Butler has been nominated by a party which is composed entirely of Greenbackers, Democrats and a few anti-monopolists, and is a combination of the worst proportions. Good men in this own, staunch republicans and old whigs, have said they would vote for Butler if it was the last vote they could ever cast. Republicans will not vote for him because he more nearly represents the moral principles of the democratic than any other. Democrats will not vote for him because he would be a reformer during the first few years, because he represents only the policy and principles advocated by the mass of working people of the whole country, and because the choice of democrats is subservient to the will of the democratic party. If democrats will not vote for Butler, republicans will not, and he will not receive the electoral vote of a single state. Is it not then the policy of wisdom to break the ring with Butler, leaving minor differences in the party for future settlement?

In the congressional elections of 1882 the democracy cast 4,187,397 votes; the republicans 3,605,427; the greenbackers and all others 324,855. The democracy had, therefore, a majority over all on the popular vote of 257,115. With the growth of the tariff reform sentiment the democracy on Real issues is stronger than it was two years ago. If that issue is abandoned, or even if it is neglected, the vote will fall behind that of two years ago. Policy, therefore, points in the same direction as principle to a fearless presentation of the tariff reform issue and a vigorous prosecution of the canvass upon that issue. Free Press.

Big Rapids contemplates a street railway and an electric light, and sighs for pure water.

The Detroit Evening News came out Monday evening with a new dress.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by by Cramer.

Cholera.

And the milder forms of bowel difficulty, dysentery, diarrhœa, &c., all arise from a disordered digestion attended with pain in the stomach, cramps, chills, &c. Be wise and ward off these attacks by taking Hamilton's Jamaica Ginger Tonic and Pain Cure, which is a sure remedy. Never known to fail to give immediate relief. As an outward application in rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, sprains, strains, lame back and side, it cannot be beaten. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.
ARTISTIC PAPER HANGING.
Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

O. W. SMITH,
ELECTRO-PLATER,
Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.
Electro plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

For You
NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.
THE ILLUSTRATED
BIOGRAPHICAL
1884. ANNUAL. 1884.
PRICE ONE DOLLAR.
It contains something for everybody. It pauses interest and instruct among and old. It is alike serviceable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic, and to the School Boy who longs to see the formation of an honest character and seeks for models to pattern after.
THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL.
IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.
Within its pages may be found nearly 200 PORTRAITS, OF MEN AND WOMEN who have expressed and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.
Where preeminently an American publication, treating principally of EMINENT AMERICANS, commands a foremost position in the esteem of the PROGRESSIVE EUROPEANS of the day.
The pages constitute the reader with the features and the lives of prominent, Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Cabinets, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Editors, Philanthropists, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Cardinals, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.
EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.
THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL FOREMOST WOMEN
BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL
Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.
L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers,
32 White Street, New York.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Five per cent interest payable January and July. We hold larger deposits in this department than any bank in Northern Michigan.

REASONS. First, we have $30,000 in Real Estate Mortgage Bonds, or other State Banks offer no such security to depositors. Stockholders are not personally liable for deposits beyond amount of stock. Second, we do not speculate; holding that with our own money. It is foolish, and with depositors money criminal.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 47

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Warens on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 47

JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Car Blades.
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

G. W. JEFFERIES,
Dealer in
Fresh and Cured Meat
Fresh and Salt Fish.
AND VEGETABLES.
Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.
West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER.
PROPRIETOR.
ADVANCE, MICH.
WITH A LINE OF
Groceries, Provisions,
And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

Grand Rapids Democrat,
DAILY AND WEEKLY.
Office, 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.
THE DEMOCRAT.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,
A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes

LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING.

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH

Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,
Overcoats and Suitings,
Boots and Shoes.

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at cost as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, June 5, 1884.

JOURNAL

...r, Mich., June 5, 1884.

...vision Market.

...e consumers, as corrected every ...ing by WRIGHT, EMREY & ...ker:

...$4.00, $5.50, and $7.00 ...per ct., hotel $2.00; unbolted.

...

...

...per cwt. @1.80@1 90.

...

...

...

THE LAST KISS.

An Incident of the Wreck of the City of Columbus.]

BY CHARLES W. BURRIS.

"Among the confused mass who were struggling and screaming were noticed a middle-aged man and his wife. Their conduct was in marked contrast with that of the other passengers. The panic which had seized the others was not shared by them, but their bleached faces told that they realized the peril which surrounded them. The only movement of muscles or nerves was that produced by the cold icy atmosphere. They stood together, their hands clasped in each other's, as if to fulfill the marriage vow of standing by each other in the varying tide of life's fortunes and misfortunes. The wreck careened with the gale from over side to the other, and while the spray and waves were drenching them at every moment, the husband turned and imprinted a kiss upon the countenance of his life, and while thus embracing a heavy sea broke over the wreck, and both were washed away and not seen afterward. Mr. Cox says the scene was one which will remain in his memory until his dying day."—Boston Herald.

The breakers roar, the mad winds howl,
Stanch sailor lies the lee blast;
Mast and all sides riven by the rocks,
The doomed ship sinks at last.

With dreadful din and thunderous shock,
Their wrecks are dashed and ground and rolled,
The hungry billows leap on deck;
Like wolves upon their prey.

Against the onset of the sea,
The fury of the gale,
What human frame may hope to stand?
What man, save God's, prevail?

Alas, alas! O, cruel Death,
Thine be the victory!
Gauge with an hundred victims more
Thy monstrous maw, O, Seal

But hold! Who stand so calmy there
Upon the reeling deck,
Unmoved in the wild-king throng,
The clamor o. the wreck?

A stately form in manhood's prime,
Strong-limbed and eagle eyed,
A helmet-w man, sweet and fair,
Close clinging to his side;

Seeming'd by the sharp sleet's stinging thongs,
Dressed by the recoiled sea,
The pink and shiver, and their cheeks
As human cheeks may be.

It is the lasting steel that makes
Their bodies shrink with pain,
And not the dip of death's that eases
The hearts of craven m n!

For see how calmly, it art to heart,
Hand close y clasped in hand,
And the rich's under-ning chin
The wife and husband stand!

Stand as they stood long years ago,
Bride groom and bride by bride,
Side by side in sunny days are,
And the fair fond lover's pride.

Ah! who can know the thoughts that burned
Their living, warm lover-breast?
The sages in that moment lived
Their lives o'er fare with regret?

A shock—a lurch—an awful crash!
The shark-like rock fangs rip
The doomed ship's sides, and with a roar
The wild waves whelm the ship!

One brief embrace of loving arms,
One brief farewell kiss,
And softened husband, heart to heart,
Sink in the cloud-ripped sea!

O, Death, thou hast the victories,
O, Life, thou hast thy lease!
Yet, sweet wife, in our dying hour
That shall your triumphs silence.

Shall your love's spirit be dead,
Even by Love was slain,
Than wife's or husband's
In this last kiss she wish.
Southern Home.

KITTY'S COOKING EXPERIMENT.

BY M. C. FARLEY.

The band was playing the "Beautiful Blue Danube," but John was too angry to care for the music. He hurried his pretty fiancé into the conservatory, and hidden behind a tall palm whispered fiercely in her ear, "You promised me that you wouldn't dance again with Fitz Simmonds, and I've counted three waltzes, besides a polka or two. What does it mean, Kitty?"

"I think it means that you are inclined to find fault with me, John, and to be jealous." Kitty said it saucily up into her companion's angry face.

"But your promise, Kitty; what of that?"

"To be sure, John, I told you I would not waltz again with Fitz Simmonds. But you know promises are like pie-crusts—made to be broken, and I wouldn't help it. Fitz dances divinely."

"Fitz Simmonds is a cowardly sneak," burst out young Mason, in quick passion. "And I forbid you to dance with him again."

"You forbid me," repeated Kitty with withering emphasis and a proud toss of her head.

"Yes, I forbid you," retorted John in a sudden heat. "I will not permit my wife to go dancing around any tall, green will Fitz Simmonds's arms about her waist."

A dangerous flash shot from Miss Kitty's eyes.

"In the first place, Mr. Mason, you are ridiculously jealous. And in the second place permit me to return your ring, and to inform you that so far as I can help it you will never have a wife to dance around a ball-room with anybody."

John ground the tiny ring under his heel.

"Now, Kitty, ——"

But the re was no Kitty. She had dipped and like a flash among the throng at the open door. And ten minutes later he saw her headed to the carriage by his maternal eye.

If John Mason retired to his couch that night, or rather that morning—for the hour was long enough past midnight to be enviable frame of mind, what must have been Kitty's feelings, as she sought the privacy of her own room, and indulged upon the downfall of all her former hopes. Two stray tears trickled down her dear little nose as she put up her eyebrows before the glass and brought a mixture of rings, kiss for Ginger mackerel, John's diamond ring—long but an abiding place.

If she had, would care two straws for it in a month, the silly thing, said Kitty coolly, retiring into bed. "And I don't care one bit. No, not in the least, not so much trouble as I."

Long enough before Kitty's blue eyes opened John Mason had packed his valise and announced to his mother that he intended to go out into the country and spend the summer at one of his places down the river, and that on no account was she to send him any messages, invitations, or anything else. He declared savagely that he hated the world. "All he asked now was to be let alone," and away he went.

* * * * *

It was six weeks after John Mason's hegira that the great bank failure occurred in Smithville. Kitty went down to dinner one day and was greeted with the astonishing news of the failure, coupled with the intelligence that all the McCord money was sunk in the general disaster, and that now the bank had bursted the McCords—meaning the widow and her four daughters—hadn't a penny with which to bless themselves.

"What on earth is to be done," gasped Kitty, pale with astonishment and terror. "There's Nell and Bess and little Flo, all younger than I am, and there isn't a thing we can do to earn money."

"Do!" ejaculated Mrs. McCord, "we can all starve I suppose. We can all starve in a heap together."

"What a pity that you can't teach music, Kitty," said Flo, disconsolately.

"Or if you could only have a class in drawing," added Bess.

"Or that mamma were only a first rate dressmaker," put in Nell.

Mrs. McCord lifted up her hands in horror.

"No McCord ever yet descended to menial labor, said she, loftily. "If Heaven's ends were to answer she would long since have been well married and settled, and in such a crisis as this she would have then been able to offer a home to her afflicted family."

Kitty, mind you, was barely 19. Kitty bit her lip.

"I know what I can do, girls," said she, laughing. "Do you remember the lessons I took at Miss Parloe's cooking club? Well, I can cook—even mamma has to admit that."

"I shall write to your Uncle Potipher and ask him for assistance," said Mrs. McCord, loftily.

"Uncle Pot! Oh, dear me!" ejaculated the four girls in chorus. "He's too awfully stingy for anything."

"Well only send you some tracts and a lot of advice," said Nell.

Kitty said nothing, but going to the library she looked over a file of the daily papers.

"Uncle Pot," muttered she, running over a list of late advertisements. "I'd rather be dead than live with that hateful old thing. Ah, here we are!" and she began to eat bread and water and be told ten times a day how much it cost him to keep you, Mamma wrote to Uncle Potipher if she likes and take the girls along; but, as for me, I'd rather work."

She paused a moment at the bitterness of that word, and read it over twice.

Wanted—A cooking in gentleman's family, where there is neither company nor children, or at least where one cook is employed; wages no object per week and good permanence. Apply at once, by letter, to P. O. Box 15, Brier Lodge, Tioga Co.

Kitty read it once again.

"No children and no company! I think it must be just the thing for me," thought she. "Anyway, I'm going to try it."

Miss McCord did not wait to hear from Uncle Potipher. Upon second consideration, she decided it would be unwise to go and make him a visit, and then apprise him of her loss of fortune.

"By which time," said Kitty, calmly, "I will be settled into some kind of business or other, and Uncle Pot will take the thing more kindly. He won't have so far to feel as if we had taken him by storm, and intended to stop with us longer than three."

"I hate French, Kitty. Besides, it is little else than a continual round of visits with foreign quotations," said her mamma.

"And I shall leave you in charge of the house, though I want you to remember that you are a McCord, and I expect you to behave yourself accordingly. Don't do anything to disgrace the family. Perhaps your Uncle Potipher will offer us a home with him, and so put our present difficulties to flight for a while, anyway."

Kitty's "pitifies" nose tilted a trifle higher at the idea of Uncle Pot's offering them a home, but she made no reply, and helped with the packing, glad when at last they were off. Kitty had written to "Box B, Brier Lodge." She didn't much like the idea of doing menial duties, but just now there was nothing else she could find for. To do be sure, she could play a little, and sing a little, and, like all other fashionable young ladies, had had her vocal song skill at drawing. But to tell the whole naked, unlovely truth, her knowledge of these branches was such as to unfit her for her to attempt to teach my one of them. Besides, Kitty detested teaching as much as I ugly in one thing had she become proficient, and that one thing was the unfashionable art of cooking. Miss Parloe never had a more apt or more interested pupil than Kitty, who had entered at once into the recipe-five terrors of soups and roasts, and puddings and pies, with a zest that betrayed an appreciative spirit.

A letter came last day from Brier Lodge. Kitty had given Miss Parloe her self as her reference, but it seemed as if that had been unnecessary. The lady to the application had evidently been written by the housekeeper, who urged Miss McCord to come on at once. Which Kitty read this letter a feeling of dismay came over her. She looked at her dimpled white hands.

"And I am really to be cook in a boarding-house!" said she, ruefully. "But then there is the $10 a week—only think of $10 a week to one in my circumstances. Besides, it makes me independent, and free from Uncle Potipher, and if I were a private governess, or a school ma'am, my salary would be no higher. But tell it not—pah tell it not in Gath, that the proud Kitty McCord has gone to be a cook."

To the friends who affectionately tried to worm Kitty's future destination from her, she turned a polite though deaf ear. She was going into the country for the summer, she said, and it was uncertain when she would return. Perhaps not until mamma and the girls returned from Uncle Potipher's, and perhaps not then. She really could not tell herself. Under the circumstances, she preferred to keep her whereabouts to herself and her family until their financial affairs were straightened out and fully settled.

She packed her trunk with some plain clothing—gingham and calico dresses—and early one morning slipped down to the station.

Late in the afternoon the train stopped at Brierville, and a big, lumbering fellow, with his pants in his boot-tops, stepped up to her, and asked her if she was the new cook for River Lodge—in answer to her question as to the distance and direction of that desired haven. With a quaking heart, Kitty climbed into the democrat wagon.

"Really this is horrible," thought she, as the hired man took a seat beside her and calmly explained the merits of the team, and finally asked her, whether she shirting round the corners, if she "had a steady feller?" as if she hadn't, why she might count on him for a regular Sunday night business, if she'd only say the word."

However, they were not long in arriving at their destination, and without more ado the new cook was installed in her new domain.

The first thing to be done was to prepare the supper. Kitty thought Miss Parloe was a failure when the faultfinding lord of the Lodge returned the eggs for the fourth time before he would condescend to eat them.

"I'm glad I wasn't born a man," said Kitty, as, flushed and tired, she gave the oleaginous eggs the fourth twist at the blade and sent them back again by the waiter. "Those eggs in the begin were very cooked I'm willing to a turn. It is worth ten dollars a week to serve such a fault-finding master as this one does."

The next morning her trials began in good earnest. The master of Brier Lodge was not only fastidious, but capricious as well, and Kitty soon discovered that she was not only expected to cook the meals, but to wash the dishes and blacken his boots usually.

"I'll die before I'll touch those offensively," said she, rebelliously.

"And I'll report you to the master if you don't," said the old housekeeper.

Kitty thought of Uncle Potipher. The thought came like a flash into Kitty's mind, and she picked up the boots. It was enough she had never done in her life before, and, moreover, in this particular art, she had received no lessons from so distinguished a teacher as Miss Parloe. It was no wonder the horrid boots did not reflect to her credit. She put them down in disgust. Tears came into her eyes. The coffee boiled over, the ham was burning, and the muffins, that had promised so well in the beginning, were browned to a crust. Kitty burst into tears. In the midst of her distress the housekeeper came into the kitchen with an order from the master to the cook. Cook was wanted in the sitting-room. Kitty uttered a private curse against her will and entered the presence of her employer, who sat with his back to the door.

"I'll tell you what it is, cook," cried out this personage in a strangely familiar voice, as she walked toward the table, "I have a mind to discharge you with me to-day, and there must be some for dinner."

Kitty was standing hard at the speaker. She remembered that voice only too well; and here she was, with a kitchen apron on, and a smudge of coal dust staining her right cheek—cooking his meals, washing his dishes, and, yes —blackening his very boots. Oh, dear! She was on the point of running out of the room, when the gentleman, surprised at her silence, turned himself about and stood face to face with his new cook.

"Kitty McCord!" ejaculated he in genuine amazement.

"Oh, John!" gasped Kitty, ready to sink with mortification.

Mr. Mason didn't stand on ceremony. Two long arms swung themselves about Kitty's waist, and a kiss alighted on the little smudge cheek.

"Oh, you heavenly girl," cried John ecstatically. "You've came to make up, haven't you?"

Kitty remembered her position. She pulled herself away.

"I can cook," said she, simply.

"To cook?"

"You see we've lost all our money. Mamma and the girls have gone to Uncle Potipher's, and I—I ——"

And I've been buried my alive in this out-of-the-way place for the last two months, and never heard a word of it," g ermed John.

"Of course so I had to earn money, and none of my other accomplishments being available, I thought I would try cooking. Your housekeeper applied for a cook, and so I came. I did not know Brier Lodge belonged to you, though."

"Brier Lodge is a recent investment—"

"And I resign the situation at once," added Kitty, comp sedly.

"Now, Kitty," began John, en nestly, as he spoke. I can't live without you any longer. Let us make up and come home. I've got an elder ring that will just fit you, and it's right here in my pocket this minute, ready for business. I won't be jealous again. Try me and see."

"And Fitz Simmonds?"

"Just wear this ring of mine again, and name an early day for our marriage, and you may dance with Fitz Simmonds until he drops. Now then."

Kitty burst out laughing.

"Oh, John! How do I look in a kitchen apron?" asked she, irrelevantly.

"You are adorable in anything," insert d Mason, keeping a tight grip on her. "But that isn't the question, will you marry me—quick now."

"Mr. Mason, Es quire," cried she, dropping a courtesy; "dear sir, I will. How does that suit you?"

"That suits me perfectly."

Miss McCord returned to town that very day, and a few weeks later there was a quiet wedding that made her Mrs. John Mason and put an end forever to her flirting pos-ibilities, though there is every reason in the world for believing that at the same time I opened a vast and never ending sphere for unlimited experiments in cooking.

The Religion of the Future.

"Do I believe that a new religion will arise in the far-off future that shall embrace all the excellences of the various religions of to-day? Hardly. We hear much talk about the convergence of the religions of to-day. The Catholic and the Protestant religions are said to be nearer together. A Jesuit from Canada visited Eliot, a strong Puritan, 200 years ago. When the Jesuit was about to depart Eliot said: 'My friend, I am surprised to find how many things we hold in common.' And so we think that a Jesuit from Canada or any other place could now visit the most liberal of popular ministers, and find as many things in common. Does the attitude which Monsigner Capel and other Catholic prelates have taken toward the Protestant Church look like an amalgamation of the two churches? Does the Jew worship on Sunday and believe in the Trinity? Still, I believe there are good times coming, when men will not fall out on account of opinion, but will meet on a common basis of manhood and intelligence.

"Although I scarcely expect a unification of religions, it is true that there will be a unification of the various denominations. There will come together a very large number of the Episcopalians; the sunny side of the Presbyterians; the Baptists who don't stay down too near water, so as to get water-logged; the Methodists who don't think their disciple is a bigger book than the Bible; and the Congregationalists who are not buried under the load of the platform. To speak more explicitly, I mean that the finest and most thoughtful men in all these denominations are giving up the old doctrine of the literal interpretation of the Bible. They are changing their conception of God, and when they come to talk about eternal punishment. They are coming into a clearer view of the character of God and of his government. They are trying to make the boundaries of their creeds wider, more generous, to let more sunshine into their creeds. There is going to be a great lady, within a not very long time, that will agree upon a broad and more liberal interpretation of the whole body of the Christian religion, discard old creeds and adopt new ones that are more reasonable and therefore more acceptable. The Catholics and Protestants will never come together. Still, the Catholics are growing more like the Protestant and more reasonable. I gave two Sisters of Charity $40 in Chicago. I told them I wanted them to intercede with St. Peter for me, when I meet the old fellow at the gate of heaven, and that I was there with $40 to bribe him to let me in. They promised to do so. Well, they thought maybe I'd get into heaven anyway, and they wouldn't need to intercede. I believe that a Protestant can get into heaven anyway.—Rev. Robert Collyer.

The Beaver.

The quickness with which a colony discovers a wholesale attempt against their peace is astonishing; yet if large numbers are undisturbed, or diminished but gradually, even the presence of civilization will not drive them from their haunts. To-day beaver are returning to streams in Michigan, long since abandoned by their race, simply because they find themselves unmolested, the demand for beaver-pelt y being slight, and the prices paid out of all proportion to the labor entailed in trapping. It has been said that if a dam or house be once injured by the hand of man, the colony at once flies for pears. But that this is fallacious is proved by the following: Twenty-two miles from Marquette, Mich., on the Carp River, a beaver colony began the erection of a new dam. Though the embankment of a railway ran nearly parallel with the stream, and trains passed backward and forward daily, they seemed in no way disturbed, and worked steadily on until the water had risen a foot or more. The trackman t r, observing that this endangered the line for the embankment had been utilized as a wing of the dam—ordered his water drawn off. But the following day the beavers had repaired the damage done them, and the water was at the former height. Another attempt was the dam cut through, and as often would it be repaired. All in all it was cut and repaired five times or twenty times ere the beavers were sufficiently discouraged to abandon their attempts. —Popular Science Monthly.

If you wish to be happy you must learn to be just dissatisfied to bear some things, and just blind enough not to see others.

HUMOR.

CRIMPING pies with fish is relic of the dark ages.—Weekly.

SOME writer has said that "a woman's work is never done." If this be true, how many old maids who will be special basis.—Paris Beacon.

TWO CONNECTICUT lovers made up after a quarrel which quite fifty-eight years apple cannot hold malice.—Saturday Night.

NAPOLEON used to say hours' sleep a day was enough for a man, but, of course, the general had never served on a jury.—Rockland Courier-Gazette.

THE true art of living is usually.—Sittings. And the art of dying is to die naturally.—Burdette, in the Burdett Banner. And the true end is to be naturally.—Houston Post.

BY a new law in Arkansas no man can be built within 500 yards of a church, but the natives don't mind the law, as they always manage to erect the church right near a saloon.—Burdette.

THE Prince of Wales says rather a cool editor the other day. That's it exactly, Albert, you've hit the mark high! If you have enough for an editor, then you have enough for satisfaction in knowing that you are suffering bitterly.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

NO NORWEGIAN girl is going to have a beau until she can ski, and the coose pence is that she is an extra fine skier. Any one who is seen there of a frightful-looking object is greeted with cries and spoiling brass by hand.

"MY dear," said a fond husband, "why is the baby crying?" her husband, "why is the baby crying?" "Because," she replied, "you promised me like the first time. I supposed because it will be the last time." "Exactly," he replied. "Now, my dear, why is it, then?" "Because time coming."

"WHAT is thunder as it is called a flaw who was made so he passed a sentence upon. "I was, then," replied the latter, "and of the original construction of the universe, and of their wear and tear." "Precisely," said the other, "and so great on the latter, but Dr. Lardner assures me he has something else in store for me." "Indeed!" exclaimed Mr. Rickard, "I was so weak I could not rise after lying down without help, and could only walk with the aid of two canes, and then in a stooping position. Oh, we have been in a pretty bad condition here, all of us."

"And yet, you are all the embodiment of health," said the writer, as he looked at the three bright and vigorous men before him.

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Rickard, "we have not known what sickness was for more than a year."

"Have you some secret way of overcoming malaria and its attendant horrors?"

"I think we have a most certain way," replied Col. Bens ore, "but it is no secret. I told how about two years ago my wife began to grow blind, and I was alarmed at her condition. She finally became so she could not tell whether a person was white or black at a distance of ten feet. One of her lady friends urged her to try a certain treatment that had done wonders for her; and to make a long story short, she did so, and was completely cured. This induced me to try the same means for my own restoration, and as soon as I found it was doing me good I recommended it to my associates, and we have all been cured right here in the strongest malarial district in the world. Then

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich. June 5, 1884.

A Tribute to Heroes.

The sun last Friday morning was shrouded with large banks of fleecy clouds, and its softened rays shot forth dimly through the hazy drapery as if in sympathy with the spirit of memorial day. By ten o'clock all indications of rain disappeared and the people began to gather on the streets in crowds. Many prominent buildings were decorated with flags, most noticeable being Dr. Crouter's drug store, Geo. Miller's clothing store, H. See's dry goods store, and a number of others less profusely. The first arrival of importance was the North Star, with Walter Clifford post, of Boyne, which was met at the dock by Baxter post, of Charlevoix. Geo. Martin post, of Eastport, arrived soon after, and preparations began for the services.

At once took the procession formed on Bridge street under the direction of Capt. H. Berdan, marshal, and Dr. J. A. Carlstein, officer of the day, in the following order:

Christ of Flowers,
Charlevoix Cornet Band.
Charlevoix Schools, under the command of Col. O. E. Wilson, assisted by the various teachers.
Walter Clifford post G. A. R., of Boyne.
Geo. Martin post G. A. R., of Eastport.
Baxter post G. A. R., of Charlevoix.
Citizens.

On the line of march to the cemetery, the band discoursed appropriate music. At the cemetery the various companies formed into a hollow square, with the escutcheon in the center. The "Confederate" wreath rendered an appropriate medley entitled "echoes from the old camp ground," followed by the usual services and decorations of the occasion. Twenty minutes were allowed for decorating individual graves, during which time Walter Clifford post paid a fitting tribute to the hero whose name they bear by strewing flowers where his remains will lie when removed from the west to this place. At the close of these services the column again formed and moved down State street to the opera house. Services opened with music by the band and a selected choir. Rev. C. F. Van Anken offered prayer, and Rev. T. J. Hill, of Boyne, delivered the address. The speaker gave a brief outline of the causes of the war, and the more important successes and defeats in its prosecution; mentioned the evident feelings of the soldiers on both sides of the lines during the struggle; discussed some of the more memorable phases of army life; outlined the most prominent results, including the origin and growth of memorial services; and referred to the fraternal spirit now exhibited by veterans of both sides in the annual reunions north and south. After the address, music was again furnished, and the services closed with a benediction by Rev. J. T. Hidings. Opportunity was then given the veterans of Walter Clifford post to shake hands with the widow of the late Capt. Clifford.

All unite in pronouncing this the most successful memorial service ever held in this county.

A FLAG WITH A HISTORY.

Comrade John Keith, of Geo. Martin post, had the honor to carry a flag which was also a veterans. Its history before the battle of Bottom Bridge on the Chickahominy, Mr. Keith does not know, but at that engagement he saw the flag fall from the hands of a dying color-sergeant, and he threw away his gun and picked up the flag, carrying it to James River. At this place the commander of the regiment took it away from him and gave it to another without even asking Keith if he wanted or was willing to carry it. On the discharge of Keith at Camp Dennison, July 19, 1864, the adjutant general of the state returned it to him, at the same time censuring the officer who had taken it away. The flag has four scars, but is otherwise in good condition. It has been in Mr. K.'s possession 20 years, and will probably be treasured as a heirloom by the generations to come.

CONTINENTAL VOCALISTS.

A fitting close to a day of unpleasant memories—an incident to restore one to the normal activities of the present—was the concert given by this troupe under the auspices of Baxter post at the opera house in the evening. All the praise previously published was fully sustained, and more too. Jimmie Field, as a comedian, is a whole circus, and kept the audience in a roar of laughter. The other features of the entertainment were equally good. The house was crowded, and netted the grand army boys about $20.

Ironton.

Mrs. Hardy has the best garden in town.

Came to the house of C. H. Webster, one day last week an eight pound boy.

Olin Hammond, son of Henry Hammond, has resigned his position in the company's store. A Mr. Smith takes his place.

J. G. Peterson, of this place, has his store finished and is waiting to receive $3,000 worth of goods, which will arrive here this week.

The steam barge John Otis made four trips from Point St. Ignace to this port last week with ore, carrying 470 tons each time.

The furnace made 52 tons of iron on Friday last, gross weight. She intends to make 65 tons per day, and be the banner furnace of the state.

Services will be held at the school house Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, by Rev. C. F. Van Anken, and Rev. Mr. May will preach in the evening.

The father of Mr. George Jones, who has been visiting with his son for the past few weeks, has returned home to his family, in Richmond, Va.

The Sch. Melvina came in last night for the purpose of loading with wood up the Arm. She has hitherto been carrying iron to Charlevoix and the Pine Lake Iron Co.

A fearful row took place at the store of the Pine Lake Iron Co., on Thursday of last week. C. W. Lowder, a Kentuckian, got drunk at one of the saloons and went to the store, and took possession of it. Help was procured at the furnace and he was knocked out, and knocked after he was out, and when the whisky was knocked out of him, he was a fearful sight for others to look at. He has left the country.

Queen of the Lakes.

This side wheel steamer from the inland lakes between Elk Rapids and Torch Lake, was in port last Thursday for inspection and transfer to her new proprietors, who will put her on a line on Lake Superior, near Duluth. She is built for the excursion business, and has accommodations for a large number of passengers. Of light draft, she is well adapted to inland lakes and rivers. During the resort season she would be an excellent boat for the Pine lake region.

Save Your Rags.

Messrs. Wilkinson & Shepard, "rag peddlers," have established their headquarters at this place, and will do their shipping of rags from here the balance of this season. With two wagons they have bought twenty-five tons of rags since March 1st, and will immediately add four more wagons, expecting to increase the business in proportion.

Political Pellets.

When a man runs for office, he makes many new acquaintances, many of whom he finds it very desirable to forget.

The intimate friends he makes are principally of the debtor class.

They are useful citizens, and realizing how much better and more comfortable it is to belong to the creditor, rather than the debtor class, it is their aim in life to place all their acquaintances on the creditor list.

They did that with me, for which, of course, I now, and doubtless always shall be, greatly obliged to them.

By deceitful flatteries they lead the unsuspecting victim on to defeat and eternal ruin.

It is because of them that the life of a candidate is so full of impending perils, so burdening with crushing responsibilities.

Running for office signifies squandered means, wasted time, bummer associations, bummer hauls, and a general breaking down of all moral sense. Fortunate, indeed, is it for him who is tainted with the disease, if his first experience is sufficiently severe to cure him for ever after, and generally more fortunate for the people.

But the malady when once fixed in the system is incurable.

The chronic office-seeker can find no relief for his disease; on all street corners, in all sample rooms, at every free lunch counter, you may find them, wise looking, hungry-eyed men they are, discussing in solemn fashion, profound questions of finance.

Every city, every village, is full of them. They are represented in every corner grocery and whiskey-joint.

Heaven will have no attractions for them if they cannot seek office there.

Hell will have no terrors, can they only be assured that there will be a chance for them to serve on some plutonian committee.—Carl Pretzel.

A Happy Family

Circle is the greatest blessing in our civilization but such a thing is not possible when disease and death lurks on the threshold. One of the most important matters to be attended to is that the liver and kidneys are in a healthy condition. More trouble arises from derangement of these organs than from any other cause, often resulting in diabetes, Bright's disease, and other difficulties that are generally counted incurable. Parmelee's Pecopsin, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure will prevent and cure all these difficulties with great certainty. Large bottles $1. Sold by G. B. Wood & Co.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS.

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions Filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Forbush's new

Opera Block.

$66 week at home. $200 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine. 491

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.
Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan....	8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan....	9.00 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix....	11.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.
Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne.....	8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne.....	9.30 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix....	12.00 m. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.
Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv.	7.00am	Harbor Springs	1.30pm
Charlevoix.....	9.00am	Petoskey.....	2.00pm
Petoskey.....	11.00am	Charlevoix.....	4.30pm
Harbor Springs	1.30pm	East Jordan, ar.	6.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.
Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. R. Thompson.

Lv Boyne.....	7.00am	Lv Charlevoix .	2.00pm
Ar Charlevoix.	9.30am	Ar Boyne.....	4.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.
Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

LEAVE.	AM	PM	ARRIVE	AM	PM
East Jordan.	6.30	1.00	Charlevoix..	8.15	3.15
Charlevoix...	9.30	4.00	East Jordan.	11.55	6.00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE,
SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,
CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH.
Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays
Will Leave
Traverse City.. 7.00am
Northport..... 9.30am
Charlevoix..... 12.00 m
Petoskey..... 2.00pm
Harbor Springs 2.15pm
Cross Village.. 3.00pm
Mackinaw Isld 5.00pm
Arriving at
St. Ignace..... 10.00pm

GOING SOUTH.
Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave
St. Ignace..... 5.00am
Mackinaw Isld 7.00am
Cross Village.. 10.30am
Harbor Springs12.00pm
Petoskey..... 1.30pm
Charlevoix..... 3.00pm
Northport..... 6.00pm
Arriving at
Traverse City.. 8.30pm

T. S. FAXTON,
CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH.
Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave
Traverse City.. 7.00am
Old Mission..... 8.30am
Elk Rapids..... 10.00am
Torch Lake..... 11.30am
Norwood..... 12.30pm
Charlevoix..... 2.00pm
East Jordan or
Boyne..... 3.30pm
Charlevoix (returning)..... 5.00pm
Petoskey..... 6.30pm
Arriving at
Harbor Springs 7.00pm

GOING SOUTH.
Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave
Harbor Springs 6.00am
Petoskey..... 7.00am
Charlevoix..... 8.30am
East Jordan or
Boyne..... 10.00am
Charlevoix (returning)..... 11.30am
Norwood..... 2.00pm
Torch Lake..... 2.00pm
Elk Rapids..... 3.00pm
Old Mission.... 5.00pm
Arriving at
Traverse City.. 6.00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the D., M. & T. R. R.; also on on Monday mornings with the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Tuesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going north and the Ogdensburg Transit to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.
Time Card in effect January, 1884.
GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv....		7 40am	7 15pm
Richmond.....	2.37pm	10.32	9.52
Winchester.....	3.10	11.06	10.27
Ridgeville.....	3.41	11.37	11.21
Fort Wayne, ar.	4.45	12.50pm	1.30am
Fort Wayne, lv.		1.17	2.50	8.45am
Kendallville....		1.55	3.32	9.17
Sturgis.....		2.33	5.14	10.05
Vicksburg.....		2.51	5.32	11.00
Kalamazoo, ar.		3.12	6.52	12.25pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		3.25	7.12	1.55
Gd Rapids, ar.		5.05	9.02	3.37
Gd Rapids, lv.	7.15am			4.15
Ionia	8.20			5.05
Howard City....	8.47			5.40
Big Rapids.....	9.41			6.39pm
Reed City.....	10.13			7.22
Cadillac, ar....	11.25			8.50
Cadillac, lv....				9.30
Traverse City..				12.55am
Kingsley.....				1.55
Walton Junc....				12.05
Petoskey.....				5.45
Harbor Springs.				6.24
Alanson.....				6.45
Pellston.....				7.15
Mackinaw City.				8.00
St. Ignace.....				8.40
Mayagnez.....				7.00am
Negaunee, ar....				5.50pm

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv....			5.15pm	7.20am
Marquette.....			9.00	8.30
St. Ignace.....			5.45am	6.15pm
Mackinaw City.			6.10	9.15
Harbor Springs.			2.00	4.20
Petoskey, lv....			2.38	11.33
Walton Junc....			3.15	12.23am
Mancelona.....			3.19	2.11
Kingsley.....			3.29	2.58
Traverse City..			6.10am
Cadillac, ar....	3.30pm	11.45	5.50
Cadillac, lv....	4.30	12.30pm	5.56
Reed City.....	5.39	1.43	7.16
Big Rapids.....	6.12	2.16	7.49
Howard City....	6.56	2.55	8.33
Ionia	7.30	3.30	9.05
Gd Rapids, ar..	7.40	4.05	10.25
Gd Rapids, lv..	6.30am	4.25	12.25pm
Kalamazoo, ar..	8.32	6.02	2.21
Kalamazoo, lv..	8.37	6.07	2.28
Vicksburg.....	9.07	7.22	3.00
Sturgis.....	10.01	8.16	4.12
Kendallville....	11.18	9.35	5.31
Fort Wayne, ar.	12.05pm	10.20	6.42
Fort Wayne, lv.	12.52	5.57am	12.02am
Ridgeville.....	2.10	7.04	2.03
Winchester.....	3.28	8.16	3.25
Richmond, ar....	4.27	9.17	4.25
Cincinnati, ar..	7.05pm	12.25pm	7.30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Asst'G. P. Ag't,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

Gold for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of simple goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can make from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer; to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., send free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine. 4951

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK Co., Portland, Maine. 4951

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

J. MILO EATO

DEALER IN

REAL ESTA

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for S

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED F

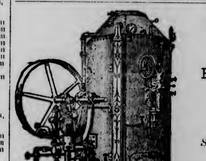
FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Noti

Represents the

Best Insurance Compa

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED I



E. T. BROWN

Threshing Engine

Portable and St

Engine

SAW MILLS, THRE
MILL SUPPLI

BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MA

WRITE FOR PRICES AND C

West Bridge Stre

Grand Rapids, M

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Sto

and

NEW GO

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, S
Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implemen
Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, S
Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doo
Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best
Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLO

NEW GOO

I am pleased to say to

Spring S

As ready for inspection. Cor and selling you want to call
JUST IN STYLE, you will know them. My stock is all of the

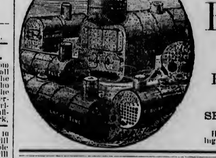
LATE STYL

AND

Price to Correspo
the Times.

Geo. M



JOSEPH HYL

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Boiler Ma

Sheet-Iron Wo
and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent F

Dealer in all kinds o

SECOND-HAND MA

Heavy blacksmithing of all kin
big of Rollers promptly attended

Advance Lumber Comp

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWIN

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large assort

Hard and Soft Wood Lumbe
Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMB

Jer

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 48. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday morning,

CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. B. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX. MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

[illegible] & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Over Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

[illegible] & KAYS, C. A. GRIER.

[illegible], Attorneys at Law, Real Estate agents, Lake st., east of postoffice, Charlevoix, Mich.

[illegible] & AIRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

[illegible] WAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Collection business promptly attended to. Office in TOWNSEND BLOCK, BOYNE CITY.

[illegible] MCKINNEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

[illegible] & WORMLEY, Attorneys at Law, and Notaries and Commissioners. Office in brick building on Lake street, between Mitchell st. Petoskey, Mich

[illegible] & MILLER, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

[illegible] & PRATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

[illegible] & SEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

[illegible] T. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, U.S. Circuit Court Commissioner, [illegible] ABBOTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

[illegible] OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Notes and mortgages bought and sold. Sight and all other drafts on Europe and United States. Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on approved security. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7. C. F. VANANKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7. [illegible] J. [illegible], pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

[illegible] ENGINE AND READY FIRE COMPANY meets every Monday night at 7 o'clock. B. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

[illegible], Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Sugar Pills, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

[illegible] SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times at Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

[illegible] & EATON, Proprietors. Only first-class horses and carriages kept. Good Saddle horses (specialty).

PHYSICIANS.

[illegible] AUSTEN, M. D., Office at the Ingleside.

[illegible] M. B., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Sea Block, Charlevoix.

[illegible] REYES, M. D. Office in Sea Block, Charlevoix.

[illegible] CRAWFORD, M. D., Physician and Homeopathist, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

[illegible] S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, and Insurance Ag't., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 119, meets second and fourth Saturday each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

C. Round Lake Lodge No. 260, meets Wednesday evening, in their hall.

Cross Village Lodge No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Odd Fellows' Hall.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over

VETERINARY SURGEON.

[illegible] HANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

[illegible] BURGA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, stone laying, repairing, well curbing, and similar work. 47

A. R. PERRIGO, Vice President.

[illegible] Bank & Farmers' Bank, OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

General banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Certificates of deposit given. Correspondence solicited. Collections given careful attention. Office hours strictly business hours.

D. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

[illegible] W. SMITH, ELECTRO-PLATER, Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Repairing in Gold and Silver. Any article to be made to order. AGATES AND STONES cut to order. 29

Copies of the JOURNAL for sale at this office.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week AND WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Up Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a stones throw of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

Howe thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.
ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.
Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 141 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Soil, clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 25 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 250 fruit trees beginning to bear. One-half mile from school and saw mill. Terms: three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire of the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FOR SALE.

SECOND HAND

Stationary Engine and Boiler

Size of Cylinder, 10x20 in; Boiler 12 feet long, 42 in diameter, 48 flues. The engine has been thoroughly overhauled, and is practically as good as new. Price and terms cheap. Inquire of or address Wm. Washburn & Ackert, at the Machine Shop.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.
Two Barrels Fresh Butter.
Golden Thread Sauer Kraut.
Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Ladies, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be prepared to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ELGIN WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

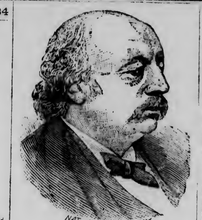
Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat.—By mail, $8.00 per year in advance, postage paid.

Weekly Democrat.—$1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months; 40 cents for three months—invariably in advance. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.



Benjamin F. Butler.

Ex-Gov. B. F. Butler is unquestionably receiving the benefit of a boom of considerable pretensions. His nomination for the president by the green back-labor convention, which follows speedily upon that tendered him by the anti-monopolist convention in Chicago is, to say the least of it, an actual nomination. To be sure, it was not unanimous, about 100 delegates in an assembly of about 450 having refused to vote for him under any circumstances whatever. Nevertheless, it is a nomination, and a man "who goes into the field" (and we use the word here in the sense in which racing men employ it) with two nominations to his credit and three or four more about to fall due is not to be despised as a candidate. It is very well understood that Butler proposes to be himself "the field"—the republican nomination being the only one which he has not reached out after. There were murmurs and even bolts from the anti monopoly convention in Chicago, and some of the ring-streaked and speckled delegates of the motley throng vowed that the convention had been corruptly "fixed" for Butler. But the redoubtable ex-governor of Massachusetts ought to be able to silence these and other cavilers.

Gen. Ben. Butler is one of the squarest men in the world and the freest from lunching. He is willing to be president, and he says so to everybody who asks him. He has views of his own, and he states them like a man. Some of them are popular and some are not; but this makes no difference to Butler.

Men's New Fashions.

A gentleman never indulges in the extremes. He must never forget that he is a gentleman. He must be unobtrusive, while correct.

First, as to full dress, he should wear a black suit of plain cloth or worsted, with low cut vest, excessive, snowy shirt-bosom, fastened with a single dull-gold stud, a standing collar with rounded points, and a white-linen tie. The latest thing in studs, and a fashion that will probably obtain the coming winter, is to have three pearl studs fashioned to look like the pearl button of our fathers. A very pretty style it is, too. White silk vests have been affected, but it is probable that they are a whim of the day. For a dinner party or the theater one may substitute a black silk tie; never satin, black or white. Gloves are coming in again. A gentleman may go to a reception or ball without them, but if he dances he must survey wear white, pearl, or some delicate shade. If he is inclined to be a little flashy they will be embroidered with black.

If the objective point be the theater or opera, an opera hat is the thing, and is most convenient. It should never, however, be carried into a reception, any more than should an overcoat. The vests of an evening dress are cut a little broader to show more shirt, but a trifle higher. Colored dress suits will not be introduced in this country, as has been predicted.

The next dressy suit of a gentleman is the four-buttoned, double-breasted frock, commonly called the Prince Albert, with light trousers. When the gentleman gets home from his business he dons this garment with a neat flat scarf of silk—again never an ascot. When on the street in this costume a silk hat is invariably the rule. A Derby or straw hat with a frock coat is decided by in bad taste, as is a tile with a sack-coat. When on the street he will now wear a light overcoat, reaching to a point above the knees, a coat of some neutral gray or mixed goods. Then with gloves, if with a lady, he is dressed. The gloves to be worn are to be much heavier, of dog-skin, and with welted seams, without embroidered backs. They are called "cheverette or ecpo gloves." If he is not with a lady gloves are optional. The frock now in black worsted cloth is always correct. Many, however, who can afford several suits, wear for walking a frock of brown or blue.

Then comes the morning coat, or three and four buttoned cutaway. These are made up in suits of gray or mixed goods, when they generally have pockets on the flaps. Otherwise, a black or blue coat is worn with light trousers. With it can be worn either a silk or derby hat. The silk hat will be of higher crown and narrower brim. The Derby will be of very light weight and will be generally black in color. At the races and seashore tall white hats will be the rage. The white Derby will not be common, though some light gray will be worn. It is said to hardly any side for felt hats. When a gentleman wishes to go out in the evening, in the rain, or to travel, instead of a frock he will wear a Tweed cloth suit, oftentimes of the same stuff as his traveling suit.

Finally, his business or traveling dress should consist of a sack coat, waistcoat and trousers from the same pattern. The styles will be considerably more pronounced than those of last season. Checks will be somewhat the rage, though many will prefer the more subdued patterns. A great many rough grays have been imported from Canada, as well as Scotch Tweeds and English suitings. With it he should wear a dark scarf of some harmonious shade. Narrow cuffs will be worn, fastened by linked buttons. The sack coats of the coming spring will fit a little closer to the body. They, as well as the cutaways, will roll a little more at the collar, displaying a trifle more of shirt. The frock coat will be the least bit shorter. Trousers will be a little wider, not fitting tightly, but still hanging in a shapely manner on the leg.

For those who are particular, shirts with collars and cuffs attached are in vogue. Certainly for dress occasions, when so much of the linen is visible, a much neater effect is obtained, there being no movable joint between the shirt and collar. Thus the tie can be manipulated to much better advantage. Closed standing collars have been the thing, but now fashion decrees that the point shall be broken down. They will be, moreover, rather higher than formerly. No one who is not deformed should wear the low collar.

As any style becomes popular the leaders of fashion drop it and adopt something new, which is in its turn deposed. Oftentimes fashions are discovered to have originated in a circle, that which was discarded becoming the chosen garment or cut. The foregoing suggestions and ideas may be followed by the young man desiring to appear in correct attire.—Boston Press.

Fannie Elsler.

Fannie Elsler has never married, says a Vienna correspondent, although she is reported to have been beset with offers from her 16th to her 17th year. She is credited with having had a number of lovers, and an officer in the Austrian cavalry and a well-known stock broker in Vienna are reported to be her sons, but the relation has never been publicly acknowledged. The notorious story about herself when a lee-whistling son of Napoleon I. she has always stoutly denied. She says their limited love affairs must have been purely metaphysical, because she never, she avows, laid eyes on the handsome and ill-starred youth. She lost a large part of her fortune several years since by speculations on the Bourse, but has sufficient left to keep her in comfort and independence. No trace of her personal charms has been visible for 20 years. She is quite stout, dorid and plain, overdresses, but she is still good-natured and often witty. Piety is a specialty of her old age and she contributes liberally to the Roman church. Her conversation is clever and interesting, and some of her anecdotes of the bygone days are very entertaining. No one would believe now that she is the quondam divine Fanny. She is, in appearance, what she always has been in nature—the earthly, the very earthly Fanny.

In the Right Place.

The "Bystander" of the Detroit Times has some very sensible ideas upon adoption. I wonder, he says, how many of the toilers in the great vineyards of life are really working in the grooves originally designed for their use by the greatest of all architects. I am very much afraid that, were the lines sharply drawn, about nine out of every ten of the sons of men would be found to be putting in ten solid hours per day digging in somebody else's potato patch. I have a theory of my own in this matter. I believe that every man is born into the world for a distinct purpose, and unless he gets his grip on that particular purpose he will never rise above the mediocre. Tant is, that while a man may do a great many things well, he will never attain eminence save in the one thing for which he was especially endowed before birth. The thing may be—and generally is—the only thing which seems to be forthest beyond: "through a glass darkly," but there will be a certain indefinable something implanted within his breast which will cause him to blindly struggle towards the mountain, beyond which lies "the Ideal." He may never reach it—all things considered, the chances are that he never will—and he will be possessed through life with a vague sense that he has been deprived of something which should rightfully have been his.

Governor Hubbard cut his runaway daughter Nellie off without a cent.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

A CAVE-IN under the tracks of the Reading Road at Turkey Run, Pa., caused a suspension of work in the collieries. The ground is gradually sinking.

A HEAVY frost in Northern New England the other night did very great damage to the corn and bean crops, also to fruit trees, injuring most of the apple and peach buds in some sections. The loss to farmers and gardeners is the greatest for many years.

JOSEPH EDMUS, engineer at Lackawanna mill at Scranton, Penn., caught his overshirt on a shaft. He was whirled against the iron beams at the rate of two hundred revolutions per minute, and when the machinery was stopped his body was a shapeless mass of mutilation. It appears that John C. Eno managed to escape from New York by the aid of Monsignor Ducey, pastor of St. Leo's Church. The charge against the absconder is forgery in signing a check for $80,000 as President of the Second National Bank after his forced resignation. His father was compelled to make the amount good.

JESSE CARTER, a colored murderer, was hanged at Pittsburgh, Pa. He asserted his innocence on the scaffold.

The assignees report of the condition of the Penn Bank of Pittsburgh shows that $1,256,526 is the depositors, and that the overdrafts aggregate $1,250,955. Most of the directors withdrew their accounts on the day that the bank closed for the last time.

THE WEST.

NEAL MCKEAGUE, who was acquitted of the murder of James L. Willson at Winnemucka, was released from the jail in Chicago, State's Attorney Mills having entered a nolle prosequi on the remaining indictment, for the murder of Mrs. Willson. McKeague at once started in search of his father, with whom he will probably go to Canada for a visit.

The stomach of Sabin Trowbridge, Postmaster at Lee Center, Ill., who died last February, has been sent to a Chicago chemist for analysis, it being charged that his young wife poisoned him. Letters found secreted in an old lounge, recently sold, gave the clew to the crime. The whereabouts of Mrs. Trowbridge are unknown.

IN Detroit, Mrs. Laura Schulz was found in her night-dress on the sidewalk with her throat cut, but still living. Her husband was detained for two hours, and released for lack of evidence against him. She recovered consciousness and held a long private interview with her husband, showing that the case was one of attempted suicide on account of family troubles.

NEAL MCKEAGUE, who was recently acquitted of murder by a Chicago court, reappeared in Winnetka, and received hearty greetings from his acquaintances. At Bethlehem, Iowa, a man named William visited Nick Bright, who was ill. Bright jumped upon his visitor, felled him with a club, and whipped his head to pieces. Then he procured a revolver and shot himself through the heart. Both men had been on a spree together recently, and the whisky had mastified Bright's reason.

ANTONIO cooper of Gray ing girl has been found near the scene of the butchery at Pleasanton, Kan. The murdered victims have been identified as the family of John Anderson, and Lewis Wampler, nephew of Anderson, is wanted for the crime. It is alleged that the woman and her four children knew of some offense that Wampler had committed, and that he had hired Green Baker to murder them for self-protection.

The building-men of Frankfort Searles & Co.'s pharmaceutical laboratory, at Detroit, was destroyed by fire. It was with difficulty that the fire was prevented from communicating to the entire establishment. Two employes were seriously hurt and fatally injured by the flames. Searles & Co. are Chicagoans, who killed Police Sergeant Jenks, was sentenced at St. Louis to be hanged July 18.

THE SOUTH.

RESOURCES building at Richmond, Va., lapsed from the weight of snow, and it readily fainted, the fourth floor first giving way, and forcing the others down. Of a number of persons in the structure six bodies have been recovered. Three persons were fatally injured, and two others are missing and supposed to be in the debris.

IN Mitchell County, North Carolina, two prominent gentlemen resorted to the code to settle a mining difficulty. The parties were Col. Nellis Boden, late of Louisville, Ky., and Capt. Linebach, of Mitchell County. The duel took place in the mouth of a mine mine, the weapons being pistols, and Boden, the accuser, killed.

GEN. O. E. BABCOCK, Col. Joel P. Lackey, and Benjamin F. Sulter, of Washington, were drowned while out sailing up along the Atlantic coast in connection with the work of the light-house board. Only the body of Gen. Babcock was recovered. He was private secretary to President Grant, and his wife is the eldest daughter of Hon. Benjamin H. Campbell, of Chicago.

MR. A. CARRIERE, head of the firm of Carriere & Co., New Orleans, left that city on the steamer Knickerbocker, for New York, but fell overboard before the quarantine station was reached, and was drowned.

WASHINGTON.

THERE is good authority for the statement that the Secretary of War has informed the President that the evidence against Gen. Swaim is sufficient to require his trial by court-martial. . . The banking-house of H. W. Middleton & Co. has made an assignment. The liabilities amount to $500,000. Among the sufferers are newspaper correspondents and army and navy officers. . . . The Western Union officials offered to run wires into the private houses of five of the candidates for the Presidency—Blaine's, Logan's, Sherman's, Lincoln's, and Edmunds'. The offer, it is understood, was accepted. Mr. Blaine does not propose to have the line to his house, however, as he intends to leave Washington for Augusta, Maine, in the vicinity of which he intends to pass the summer.

THE following is a recapitulation of the national debt statement issued on the 24 inst.:

Interest-bearing debt—
Four and one-half per cents.....	$ 250,000,000.00
Four per cents.....	737,200,300.00
Three per cents.....	242,850,000.00
Refunding certificates.....	246,000.00
Navy pension fund.....	14,000,000.00
Total interest-bearing debt.....	$1,244,315,450.00
Matured debt.....	12,573,275.56
Debt on which interest has ceased since maturity—
Legal-tender notes.....	347,733,481.00
Certificates of deposit.....	15,000,000.00
Gold and silver certificates.....	26,115,240.00
Fractional currency.....	8,081,276.58
Total without interest.....	$ 396,930,197.1
Total debt (principal).....	$1,653,818,922
Total interest.....	16,127,780.00
Total cash in treasury.....	180,000,000.00
Decrease during May.....	1,424,287.52
Decrease of debt since June 30, 18—	4,782,141.20
	91,822,711.66
Current liabilities—
Interest due and unpaid.....	1,685,512.15
Debt on which interest has ceased since maturity.....	12,573,275.56
Gold and silver certificates.....	26,115,240.00
Fractional currency.....	8,081,276.58
	$ 396,930,197.49
Available assets—
Cash in treasury.....	$ 396,930,197.49

THE assignees report of the condition of the Penn Bank of Pittsburgh shows that $1,256,526 is the depositors, and that the overdrafts aggregate $1,250,955. Most of the directors withdrew their accounts on the day that the bank closed for the last time.

THE WEST.

NEAL MCKEAGUE, who was acquitted of the murder of James L. Willson at Winnemucka, was released from the jail in Chicago, State's Attorney Mills having entered a nolle prosequi on the remaining indictment, for the murder of Mrs. Willson. McKeague at once started in search of his father, with whom he will probably go to Canada for a visit.

The stomach of Sabin Trowbridge, Postmaster at Lee Center, Ill., who died last February, has been sent to a Chicago chemist for analysis, it being charged that his young wife poisoned him. Letters found secreted in an old lounge, recently sold, gave the clew to the crime. The whereabouts of Mrs. Trowbridge are unknown.

IN Detroit, Mrs. Laura Schulz was found in her night-dress on the sidewalk with her throat cut, but still living. Her husband was detained for two hours, and released for lack of evidence against him. She recovered consciousness and held a long private interview with her husband, showing that the case was one of attempted suicide on account of family troubles.

NEAL MCKEAGUE, who was recently acquitted of murder by a Chicago court, reappeared in Winnetka, and received hearty greetings from his acquaintances. At Bethlehem, Iowa, a man named William visited Nick Bright, who was ill. Bright jumped upon his visitor, felled him with a club, and whipped his head to pieces. Then he procured a revolver and shot himself through the heart. Both men had been on a spree together recently, and the whisky had mastified Bright's reason.

ANTONIO cooper of Gray ing girl has been found near the scene of the butchery at Pleasanton, Kan. The murdered victims have been identified as the family of John Anderson, and Lewis Wampler, nephew of Anderson, is wanted for the crime. It is alleged that the woman and her four children knew of some offense that Wampler had committed, and that he had hired Green Baker to murder them for self-protection.

The building-men of Frankfort Searles & Co.'s pharmaceutical laboratory, at Detroit, was destroyed by fire. It was with difficulty that the fire was prevented from communicating to the entire establishment. Two employes were seriously hurt and fatally injured by the flames. . . . Searles & Co. are Chicagoans, who killed Police Sergeant Jenks, was sentenced at St. Louis to be hanged July 18.

THE SOUTH.

RESOURCES building at Richmond, Va., lapsed from the weight of snow, and it readily fainted, the fourth floor first giving way, and forcing the others down. Of a number of persons in the structure six bodies have been recovered. Three persons were fatally injured, and two others are missing and supposed to be in the debris.

IN Mitchell County, North Carolina, two prominent gentlemen resorted to the code to settle a mining difficulty. The parties were Col. Nellis Boden, late of Louisville, Ky., and Capt. Linebach, of Mitchell County. The duel took place in the mouth of a mine mine, the weapons being pistols, and Boden, the accuser, killed.

GEN. O. E. BABCOCK, Col. Joel P. Lackey, and Benjamin F. Sulter, of Washington, were drowned while out sailing up along the Atlantic coast in connection with the work of the light-house board. Only the body of Gen. Babcock was recovered. He was private secretary to President Grant, and his wife is the eldest daughter of Hon. Benjamin H. Campbell, of Chicago.

MR. A. CARRIERE, head of the firm of Carriere & Co., New Orleans, left that city on the steamer Knickerbocker, for New York, but fell overboard before the quarantine station was reached, and was drowned.

WASHINGTON.

THERE is good authority for the statement that the Secretary of War has informed the President that the evidence against Gen. Swaim is sufficient to require his trial by court-martial. . . The banking-house of H. W. Middleton & Co. has made an assign-

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

It has been ascertained that Gen. Babcock and his companions came to their death by the capsizing of a boat after the steering oar had been broken. Gen. Babcock clung to the boat until she reached the shore breakers, when he was torn off and drowned. His life was insured for $20,000, and the amount will immediately be paid to his widow. . . . Col. Bartlett, who killed Police Officer Ellsig, and was sent to the Kentucky Central Lunatic Asylum and escaped, was returned to the institution in a poverty-stricken and dying condition.

THE News-Journal, of Cincinnati, was sold to Edgar M. Johnson, representing grangers and creditors. The price is $85,000. . . . The L. B. and W. mound-house at Dunkirk, Ohio, was suddenly collapsed, seriously injuring five men.

In the litigation concerning the interest of Moses Couch in the Tremont House, Chicago, Judge Tuley appointed Samuel Powell receiver of the half interest held by Dupee and Chamberlain, in bond of $100,000, with power to take the results of the hotel. . . . A fire at Cleveland inflicted damage of $30,000 on the planing of McAllister & Co. . . . Near Berlin, Mo., Lieut. Rice, Quartermaster, U. S. A., walked off a train in his sleep and was killed.

THE Fifteenth Ohio District Democrats renominated the Hon. Berish Wilkins for Congress and instructed the delegates to Chicago for Tilden and Hendricks. . . . Oregon was carried by the Republicans at the late election by 5,000 majority. The Legislature is Republican on joint ballot by a majority of fourteen. The Republicans also elect their Congressman. . . . The Maryland Democratic Convention adopted a platform, the principal plank of which deals with the tariff question and declares that no duty should be imposed upon any article "above the lowest rate which will yield the largest amount of revenue; also that maximum revenue duty should be imposed upon luxuries" . . . The Connecticut Democratic State Convention chose as delegates-at-large to Chicago A. E. Burr, J. C. Bradley, and C. M. Ingersoll. They are uninstructed, but in favor of Tilden.

The House of Representatives on June 5 passed bills to forfeit the land grant of the California and Oregon road to Oregon, and to charter, and liver at Nashville and the Missouri at Kansas City, and to grant a land grant to the Iron Mountain Road from Pilot Knob to Helena. There was no session of the Senate.

Compressed Asphalt.

Although the value of bituminous asphalt for paving has long been recognized, it has always been felt that one of its defects is a want of density, while another is its dissolution under the influence of slight moisture. To remedy the first of these defects heavy rollers of from two to five tons, and even the second sharp sand or some other similar material has been introduced into the mixture, but a method recently devised method of treating it in order to remove these drawbacks, and to prevent the separation of sand, consists in combining limestone with the bitumen and moulding the compound under pressure. The limestone is crushed, heated, and mixed with the bitumen at a temperature of 252 degrees Fahrenheit, the whole being a great affinity for the bitumen when heated. The combination is then pressed into rectangular blocks of convenient size in moulds under a pressure of about fifty tons. The blocks are then submitted to a cold-water bath until they are cold and ready for use. They form a paving material of great density, and in which the angular points of the limestone are always being developed under traffic. A permanently rough surface is thus produced, which, combined with the cracks formed by the points of the blocks, presents an excellent foothold for horses.

MANY farmers feet roots without first freeing them from dirt. This is an injurious practice, and harmful to cattle.

THE MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES.....	$ 8.00	@ 9.35
FLOUR—Extra.....	6.00	@ 6.30
FLOUR—Extra Chicago.....	6.00	@ 6.25
No. 2 Red.....	1.06	@ 1.06
CORN—No. 2.....	1.02	@ 1.02
OATS—White.....	.42	@ .43
PORK—Mess.....	17.00	@ 17.50
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers.....	6.50	@ 7.25
Fair to Good.....	6.25	@ 6.75
Common.....	5.00	@ 6.00
HOGS—Packing.....	5.25	@ 5.75
FLOUR—Extra White Winter Ex.....	5.25	@ 5.75
Spring Extras.....	4.50	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring.....	.94	@ .95
No. 2 White Winter.....	.97	@ .98
CORN—No. 2.....	.50	@ .50
OATS—No. 2.....	.33	@ .33
LARD—No. 2.....	.09	@ .09
BUTTER—Choice Creamery.....	.18	@ .21
Fine Dairy.....	.16	@ .17
CHEESE—Full Cream.....	.11	@ .12
Skims.....	.03	@ .04
EGGS—Fresh.....	.13	@ .14
POTATOES—Peachblows.....	.60	@ .65
PORK—Mess.....	16.00	@ 16.50
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.95	@ .96
CORN—No. 2.....	.51	@ .51
OATS—No. 2.....	.35	@ .35
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2.....	.87	@ .87
CORN—No. 2.....	.52	@ .53
OATS—No. 2.....	.31	@ .31
BARLEY—No. 2.....	.56	@ .56
PORK—Mess.....	15.93	@ 15.97
LARD.....	8.60	@ 8.62
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.93	@ .96
CORN—Mixed.....	.52	@ .52
OATS—No. 2.....	.34	@ .34
RYE.....	.61	@ .61
PORK—Mess.....	16.75	@ 17.00
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	1.03	@ 1.03
CORN.....	.55	@ .57
OATS—Mixed.....	.34	@ .35
PORK—Mess.....	17.75	@ 18.25
LARD.....	8.75	@ 8.75
DETROIT.
FLOUR.....	6.50	@ 7.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White.....	1.05	@ 1.05½
CORN—Mixed.....	.56	@ .56
OATS—No. 2 Mixed.....	.37	@ .38
PORK—Mess.....	19.50	@ 20.00
INDIANAPOLIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.97	@ .99
CORN—Mixed.....	.52	@ .53
OATS—Mixed.....	.33	@ .34
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best.....	5.75	@ 6.25
Fair.....	5.25	@ 5.60
Common.....	4.50	@ 4.90
HOGS.....	5.75	@ 5.75
SHEEP.....	4.50	@ 4.70

SENATE AND HOUSE.

Proceedings of the Federal Congress Boiled Down.

THERE was no session of the Senate on the 31st ult. In the House, with half the seats vacant, bills were passed granting right of way through Indian Territory to the Southern Kansas and the Gulf, Colorado, and Santa Fe Roads. A resolution was adopted authorizing the Committee on Indian Affairs to investigate the leasing and leasing of lands in Indian Territory. . . .

In the Senate, on the 3d inst., with Messrs. Edmunds, Sherman, Logan, Hawley, and Allison in their seats, the greatest day's work of the session was performed. Among the forty bills passed were those to bridge the Niagara at $25,000. The L. B. and W. mound-house at Dunkirk, Ohio, was suddenly collapsed, seriously injuring five men.

In the litigation concerning the interest of Moses Couch in the Tremont House, Chicago, Judge Tuley appointed Samuel Powell receiver of the half interest held by Dupee and Chamberlain, in bond of $100,000, with power to take the results of the hotel. . . . A fire at Cleveland inflicted damage of $30,000 on the planing of McAllister & Co. . . . Near Berlin, Mo., Lieut. Rice, Quartermaster, U. S. A., walked off a train in his sleep and was killed.

THE Fifteenth Ohio District Democrats renominated the Hon. Berish Wilkins for Congress and instructed the delegates to Chicago for Tilden and Hendricks. . . . Oregon was carried by the Republicans at the late election by 5,000 majority. The Legislature is Republican on joint ballot by a majority of fourteen. The Republicans also elect their Congressman. . . . The Maryland Democratic Convention adopted a platform, the principal plank of which deals with the tariff question and declares that no duty should be imposed upon any article "above the lowest rate which will yield the largest amount of revenue; also that maximum revenue duty should be imposed upon luxuries" . . . The Connecticut Democratic State Convention chose as delegates-at-large to Chicago A. E. Burr, J. C. Bradley, and C. M. Ingersoll. They are uninstructed, but in favor of Tilden.

The House of Representatives on June 5 passed bills to forfeit the land grant of the California and Oregon road to Oregon, and to charter, and liver at Nashville and the Missouri at Kansas City, and to grant a land grant to the Iron Mountain Road from Pilot Knob to Helena. There was no session of the Senate.

Compressed Asphalt.

Although the value of bituminous asphalt for paving has long been recognized, it has always been felt that one of its defects is a want of density, while another is its dissolution under the influence of slight moisture. To remedy the first of these defects heavy rollers of from two to five tons, and even the second sharp sand or some other similar material has been introduced into the mixture, but a method recently devised method of treating it in order to remove these drawbacks, and to prevent the separation of sand, consists in combining limestone with the bitumen and moulding the compound under pressure. The limestone is crushed, heated, and mixed with the bitumen at a temperature of 252 degrees Fahrenheit, the whole being a great affinity for the bitumen when heated. The combination is then pressed into rectangular blocks of convenient size in moulds under a pressure of about fifty tons. The blocks are then submitted to a cold-water bath until they are cold and ready for use. They form a paving material of great density, and in which the angular points of the limestone are always being developed under traffic. A permanently rough surface is thus produced, which, combined with the cracks formed by the points of the blocks, presents an excellent foothold for horses.

MANY farmers feet roots without first freeing them from dirt. This is an injurious practice, and harmful to cattle.

THE MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES.....	$ 8.00	@ 9.35
FLOUR—Extra.....	6.00	@ 6.30
FLOUR—Extra Chicago.....	6.00	@ 6.25
No. 2 Red.....	1.06	@ 1.06
CORN—No. 2.....	1.02	@ 1.02
OATS—White.....	.42	@ .43
PORK—Mess.....	17.00	@ 17.50
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers.....	6.50	@ 7.25
Fair to Good.....	6.25	@ 6.75
Common.....	5.00	@ 6.00
HOGS—Packing.....	5.25	@ 5.75
FLOUR—Extra White Winter Ex.....	5.25	@ 5.75
Spring Extras.....	4.50	@ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring.....	.94	@ .95
No. 2 White Winter.....	.97	@ .98
CORN—No. 2.....	.50	@ .50
OATS—No. 2.....	.33	@ .33
LARD—No. 2.....	.09	@ .09
BUTTER—Choice Creamery.....	.18	@ .21
Fine Dairy.....	.16	@ .17
CHEESE—Full Cream.....	.11	@ .12
Skims.....	.03	@ .04
EGGS—Fresh.....	.13	@ .14
POTATOES—Peachblows.....	.60	@ .65
PORK—Mess.....	16.00	@ 16.50
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.95	@ .96
CORN—No. 2.....	.51	@ .51
OATS—No. 2.....	.35	@ .35
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2.....	.87	@ .87
CORN—No. 2.....	.52	@ .53
OATS—No. 2.....	.31	@ .31
BARLEY—No. 2.....	.56	@ .56
PORK—Mess.....	15.93	@ 15.97
LARD.....	8.60	@ 8.62
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.93	@ .96
CORN—Mixed.....	.52	@ .52
OATS—No. 2.....	.34	@ .34
RYE.....	.61	@ .61
PORK—Mess.....	16.75	@ 17.00
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	1.03	@ 1.03
CORN.....	.55	@ .57
OATS—Mixed.....	.34	@ .35
PORK—Mess.....	17.75	@ 18.25
LARD.....	8.75	@ 8.75
DETROIT.
FLOUR.....	6.50	@ 7.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White.....	1.05	@ 1.05½
CORN—Mixed.....	.56	@ .56
OATS—No. 2 Mixed.....	.37	@ .38
PORK—Mess.....	19.50	@ 20.00
INDIANAPOLIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red.....	.97	@ .99
CORN—Mixed.....	.52	@ .53
OATS—Mixed.....	.33	@ .34
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best.....	5.75	@ 6.25
Fair.....	5.25	@ 5.60
Common.....	4.50	@ 4.90
HOGS.....	5.75	@ 5.75
SHEEP.....	4.50	@ 4.70

Mud Cures.

While Chicago is busied with great material emergencies, Sabin is developing a new "fad" that is likely to create a good deal of attention. It is called the mud cure, and briefly explained is the people of that good city believe that disease may be banished from the earth by poisoning it with the germs of various agencies, and submitting to the personal magnetism of certain highly endowed men and women, who, by the laying on of hands, can rid the afflicted person of the ills he suffers from. Gen. N. P. Banks, Prince W. S. Allegri, and a great many clergymen are said to be believers in the mud cure. Diseases of all kinds, it is claimed, are because of a lack of faith. Fear, which is inverted faith, is one of the inciting causes of physical ailments. Of course that is a new proposition to the world's old, old story. From the medicine man in his wigwam, all through the history of the human religion, through mystical zealots have claimed that mind is so far superior to matter as to baulk its control it. The power in bad health is regarded in many countries, as it has been in all ages, as a warrant from the Most High to prove the truth of certain theological dogmas. It is, however, surprising that so intelligent a community as that of Boston should give acceptance to so old a superstition. It is, nevertheless, true that the imagination has much to do with the fancied ailments of nervous people. Many hundreds of thousands of human beings think they are sick when all they really need is exercise, or rubs that will set them to work, or some absorbing pursuit that will take them out of themselves. When their energies are directed outward instead of inward there is no time for brooding over fancied ailments. Well all this is in faith cures or mind cures.—Democrat's Monthly.

The editor of a scientific monthly asks for correct drawings of a "Tornado at Work." A man who went home the other night and found his wife reading a letter signed "Your Own Julia," which she threw into the inside coat pocket, has made a sketch of the subsequent proceedings," which he will send to the scientific editor.—Ex.

THE following eggs have, on the authority of scientific observers, been attained by trees: Yew, 3,200 years; cedalantia, 2,000; cedar, 2,000; that, 1,500; pine, 1,200; lime, 1,100; cocoanut palm, 1,000; walnut, 900; olive and cypress, 800; orange, 630; maple, 500; elm, 300.

"Why did Moses write three of the commandments on one table of stone, and seven on the other?" asked an Austin Sunday-school boy. "Because he wanted to make an even ten of them, I suppose?"—Texas Siftings.

Mr. Lincoln's Statesmanship.

No more difficult task has ever presented to any government than that which Mr. Lincoln and his Cabinet assumed in the month of March, 1861. To judge it now by any apparent inconsistency, or by any seeming deficiency of courage, would be rendering a standard totally inapplicable and unfair. Before and beyond all things Mr. Lincoln desired to preserve the Union, and he felt that every day of delay gave fresh hope that bloodshed might be avoided. In his inaugural address he had taken the strongest ground for the preservation of the Union, and carefully refrained from every word or any expression which would even in the public opinion of the South be construed into an outbreak of violence on the part of the Confederates. He believed that the Southern revolt had strong and powerful preparations in consequence of Mr. Buchanan's assertion that by no power to coerce a seceding State, Mr. Lincoln had announced a different policy, and every week that the Union remained peaceful his hope of a safe adjustment grew stronger. He believed that with the continuance of peace the secessionists could be brought to see that union was better than disunion, and that in its essential principles, and in its every degree the institution of slavery would be safest. Reflection convinced the Southern mind was in the position in which a single unconsidered measure might precipitate a conflict. It was determined that the blood of brethren should not be on his hands.

Mr. Lincoln saw, moreover, that between a divided North and a united South would be a resultless struggle. If, after all efforts at peace, war must be found unavoidable, the advantage lay in continuing to act on the defensive policy, so to conduct its affairs that when the shock came it should find the North entirely in the wrong and the Government in the position to claim the right. Consolidated as might the front which the rebellion would present, Lincoln was resolved that it should not be more immovable, more compact than that which the opposing force of the Government would meet. Such a manship cannot be judged upon the effect of a moment or of a day. When that conclusive test is brought to bear, Mr. Lincoln's administration will be found to have been distinctly following his inaugural, and more because it was compelled by the record than because it was prompted by the highest praise, and all more because it was compelled by the record than because it was prompted by the highest praise, and all the expectations of many who had been conspicuously influential in leading public opinion, and who considered themselves entitled to give counsel.—Lincoln's Twenty Years in Congress.

Clay's Defeat by Polk.

The election hinged on the result in New York. One hundred and thirty-two electoral votes were cast, and a majority required was 67. Clay would have had a total of 105, and Polk 103, if New York had not received a total of 170, and was the President of the United States.

No contest for the Presidency ever before or since, has been conducted with such intense energy and such an outbreak of violence on the part of ordinary political supporters. Clay had the profound personal attachment which is looked for only in heroic worship, and he excited a like passion, and is blind and unreasoning in its adherence and its devotion. Against all this the cold, calculating fidelity is an opposition marked by scrupulous rancor. This case was illustrated that with the continuance of peace the secessionists could be brought to see that union was better than disunion, and that in its essential principles, and in its every degree the institution of slavery would be safest. If the South would abide by the Union would be saved. Reflection convinced the Southern mind was in the position in which a single unconsidered measure might precipitate a conflict. It was determined that the blood of brethren should not be on his hands.

Mr. Lincoln saw, moreover, that between a divided North and a united South would be a resultless struggle. If, after all efforts at peace, war must be found unavoidable, the advantage lay in continuing to act on the defensive policy, so to conduct its affairs that when the shock came it should find the North entirely in the wrong and the Government in the position to claim the right. Consolidated as might the front which the rebellion would present, Lincoln was resolved that it should not be more immovable, more compact than that which the opposing force of the Government would meet. Such a manship cannot be judged upon the effect of a moment or of a day. When that conclusive test is brought to bear, Mr. Lincoln's administration will be found to have been distinctly following his inaugural, and more because it was compelled by the record than because it was prompted by the highest praise, and all more because it was compelled by the record than because it was prompted by the highest praise, and all the expectations of many who had been conspicuously influential in leading public opinion, and who considered themselves entitled to give counsel.—Lincoln's Twenty Years in Congress.

Served Through the Bar.

"Oh, yes," said the prematurely gladdened like a gum drop upon the stained face, "I served through the bar." After drawing another mouthful of breakfast food he finished the sentence—"as waiter in a Canadian restaurant."—Boston Globe.

ANNALS of a winter health resort: Lady Visitor—"Oh, that's one of the 112? What sort of a doctor is Lady Resident—"Oh, well, I don't know about his ability, but he's a very good holiday maker."

NATIONAL REPUBLICANS.

Fifth Quadrennial Convention at Chicago.

Ballots and Incidents—Gen. Henderson, of Missouri, Elected Permanent Chairman.

Meeting of the National Committee.

The meeting of the Republican National Committee, at Chicago, June 3, for the purpose of making preliminary matters, deciding contested seats, and issuing the call for a National Convention being in order, the following gentlemen were announced as the Committee on Credentials: Hon. George F. Hoar, of Massachusetts; Hon. Powell Clayton, of Arkansas; Hon. Marcus Brown, of Indiana; Hon. Wm. Claflin, of Massachusetts; and Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania.

Roll-call was taken, and the result was: Clayton, 6; Hoar, 11; Grow, 7; Brown, 5; Claflin, 7.

Hon. Powell Clayton then declared the Committee chosen, and Hon. Marcus Brown announced as follows: "Gentlemen of the Committee on Credentials, please meet at the hour you have chosen and report to the Committee as soon as possible, but at such hour as the Committee may choose."

Mr. Hoar—I am not sure that the Committee on Credentials can meet at present to any advantage. Mr. Claflin has been detained by illness, and Mr. Hoar, in the last committee, had to leave for Washington on account of the illness of his wife. I suggest that the Committee on Credentials meet at the hour of the convention.

Mr. Brown—I suggest that the Committee on Credentials meet at the hour of the convention.

Mr. Hoar—I move that the Committee on Credentials meet at the hour of the convention.

Mr. Clayton—I second the motion.

Mr. Carlin, of New York, warmly opposed the resolution, and said that the action of the Committee in the period of the convention which nominated Mr. Lincoln was the most outrageous when a similar resolution was introduced and carried by the Committee. He thought that what was sanctioned done four years ago when Mr. Chandler, and Wm. Claflin, of Massachusetts, were in the Committee on Credentials, and declared by the gentleman who presided at a similar meeting that the Committee would be called together at any time and place they chose, was sufficient. He therefore asked this convention to assume that every member was present, and that therefore asked this convention to assume that every member was present, and that therefore asked this convention to assume that every member was present, and that

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Democratic State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select a state central committee and to appoint delegates to the democratic national convention to meet in Chicago on the 8th day of July next, to nominate candidates for president and vice-president, will be held at White's Grand Opera House in the city of Detroit, on Wednesday, the 16th day of September, at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of past party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses and a pure and economical administration of government; and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each five hundred votes cast for Governor at the last general election and one for every fraction of not less than two hundred and fifty votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

O. M. BARNES,
Chairman.

H. P. PENNINGTON,
Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

A meeting of the county committee of the Greenback party, of Charlevoix county will be held at the office of Cruickshank & Grier, in the village of Charlevoix, on Saturday June 14, 1884 at 11 o'clock a. m., to arrange for a thorough organization throughout the county, and for the transaction of other important business in the interests of BUTLER AND REFORM.

By order of executive committee.

E. H. SHEPARD,
Secretary.

Democratic Caucus.

At a caucus held at town hall on Wednesday evening, the following gentlemen were named as delegates to the county convention to be held to-day: Anson Fox, J. Milo Eaton, Chas Kelly, O. B. Wood, L. D. Bartholomew, A. R. Colgrove, J. Weyburn Lewis Reynolds, Geo. Pappin, and Geo W. Miller.

J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cruickshank, and Chas. J. Strang were made a township committee for the ensuing year.

Notes and News.

It is said that Henry Ward Beecher cannot stomach the republican ticket, tough as his gizzard is.

The times are against Brother Blaine—the New York Times the Philadelphia Times the Chicago Times and the Detroit Times.

The Detroit Free Press of last Sunday was a 36-page affair, and contained 114 columns of reading matter. Verily this is enterprise.

The Eaton county democratic convention passed itself out on the presidential situation as follows: Butler 26, Tilden 23, Cleveland 8, Carlisle 2, Hancock 1.

Geo. C. Langdon utters some strong words for Butler in the Detroit Free Press, virtually predicting the downfall of the democratic party, if Butler is not endorsed at the national convention.

It is reported that Michigan furnishes more cedar for telegraph poles paving and other purposes than all the other states combined. The business at nearly all shore points, and also at many of the railroad towns, is certainly assuming enormous proportions, and as cedar timber is abundant in the state the industry is liable to become one of great importance.—Iosco County Democrat.

A friend asked us the other day if we really believed that this country (Northern Michigan) would ever be sufficiently free from the influences of untimely frosts, &c., to be a good farming country? Most certainly we do, or we should not remain here fifteen minutes longer than would be necessary to pack our few belongings into a pocket handkerchief and take to the hills headed the same time. While we may err in judgment, we certainly are not lacking in faith for the future of the Traverse Region. One or two backward and unfavorable seasons cannot shake our confidence.—Kalkaska Leader.

President Ashley of the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Northern railroad, replying to a communication from one of our business men in regard to the possibility of that road passing through Grass Lake township and the benefits to the latter, says: "I have had my attention called to the route of which you write, so often, by letter and otherwise, that our board has more than once discussed the practicability of the line which you propose, and I am inclined to the opinion that if sufficient encouragement is offered, some one or more of our board might be induced to visit your county and that part of the state this fall and examine it for themselves. What inducements can you offer for the location of our line via Kalkaska and Bellaire to Charlevoix?"—Bellaire Breeze.

Smokers and Smoking.

"The modern nuisance," says Mr. Labouchere, "is not the smoker, but the lady who objects to him. Most ladies like the smell of smoke; those who do not are behind the age and would do well to accustom themselves to it." It is the custom in this country to speak and act with a spirit more kindly than Mr. Labouchere shows towards women. The few men who do not do so are thought to be unhappy in their minds by reason of their incapacity to please.

Neither they nor the few women who are not grateful for the consideration they receive, will have the power to change this fortunate reading of the unwritten law. But we have a small question of casuistry to ask of the makers of social regulations. Those women who do like smoking, and whose only objection is that in certain times and places the toleration of it is destroying to their dignity, when and where and to whom may they permit it?

None but people who have lived all their lives in a single social circle, or who are for themselves most comfortably opinionated, will say that the question is settled, and that whoever is in doubt is so out of ignorance. A wide observation, however superficial, shows that there is a puzzling variety of law where there should be convenient flexibility. It might even be, perhaps it is, among the "don'ts" that a gentleman does not smoke while walking in the street with a lady. Yet there are married women of good standing who walk part way down town every morning with their husbands, and would not think of asking them to give up their after-breakfast cigar. And nobody is shocked.

At the seashore everyone will admit —so, that is not safe to say—but most people will admit that it is allowable for the men to smoke when a party of ladies and gentlemen are sitting together on the rocks; but may they smoke in walking to the rocks? Some say no. On hotel verandahs a gentleman feels obliged to ask a lady who may join the group in which he has previously been smoking if he may retain his cigar. But what would he think if she should confess that smoking is not endurable to her?

There is a kind of half politeness that forces a lady to consent when smoking makes her really ill, or when she thinks it is, in that particular situation, a little derogatory to her to permit it; for the conventionality may not be disregarded which exacts some loss of comfort in keeping up more or less formal manners between a gentleman and the gentlemen who are not of her family. But to smoke on a verandah surely is allowable. Then why the apology to a lady who of her own accord joins a party where smoking already is going on.

Some say that on any country walk it would be setting aside too much of her dignity for a lady to permit a man not of her own family to smoke. Some would even require a gentleman to throw away his cigar who joined a lady in a stroll about the grounds of a country house where both are guests, while most would call that absurdity indeed. When the master of a house offers cigars to an evening visitor, the latter, though he knows he may light it, asks permission of the hostess first.

But what may the husband do whose wife declares smoking makes her sick, destroys the sweet air of her house, is a wicked vice, or what not? Dreadful stories are told at lunch tables among women alone, of husbands slinking off and driven to evil companionship, not in the least by native inclination, but by the sensitiveness of wives who would not reconcile themselves to toleration of smoking at home. On the other hand there is a legend of a great man who persisted in smoking before his wife, who said that the least whiff of smoke gave her nausea so severe that he did not believe in them at all. And one day she was found dead in her bed, and they found out that she had had heart disease, not that tobacco had been the immediate cause of her departure.—Boston Courier.

"Call Me Johnnie."

The editor of the Register is familiarly known as Max, as might naturally be expected. It is related some time ago a fly young man for an out of town paper was announced on the Register. He soon put himself on a more familiar footing with the editor that had been gained even by old and faithful attaches. One day he walked into the sanctum of the great head of the paper with:

"I say, Mac, how do you like my department in this morning's paper?"

It is reported that Mr. McLean looked at him with a withering look, and said:

"Mister Bains," emphasizing the Mister, "please don't call me Mac. Nobody calls me that. Call me Johnnie. Everybody cares me Johnnie."

Not often back a bird, the fly young man answered:

"Oh, I beg pardon. Well, Johnnie, didn't I give you a counter today?"—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. Your cuts, bruises and sores in the season you will find a remedy in one Arbon Powder compounded. Full pound packages, 50 cts. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co. 8tf

Get To Sleep If You Can

Mrs. A. best children troubled with Paregoric, and have to dose them with Soothing Syrups, but she never was much in favor of such nostrums. Instead she gives them a few doses of Dr. Acker's English Remedy. These little pellets can be obtained in its worthless forms only 25 cts per bottle. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

Additional Local.

Among Our Patrons.

After leaving Mr. Vanormum's, as noted last week, we called on Mr. Gilbert Mobbo. This gentleman owns forty acres, thirty of which are well improved. He came here eleven years ago, cutting his road through miles of unbroken wilderness. He has labored under many disadvantages, chief of which is ill-health caused by dyspepsia, hence the small farm. However, his farm bears an appearance of thorough work and comfortable living. A fine orchard is started, and a strawberry patch which will yield somewhere from seven to ten bushels of fruit this season. From the chamber of his house a good view may be had of lake Michigan, about 1¼ miles distant.

Edwin Cook's farm joins Mr. Mobbo's on the west. He has 135 acres, 100 of which are improved. In five years Mr. Cook has developed from a wilderness a fine stock farm, and has now 5 horses, 3 colts (one pair of twins), 20 head of cattle, and a small flock of sheep. His buildings are comfortable, and everything about them has a thrifty, prosperous appearance. From his front door may be seen the northern extremity of the peninsula on the west of Traverse Bay, and the Manitou, Fox, and Beaver Islands.

The soil here generally is a clay loam, with occasional spots of sand. It grows all kinds of crops, and when properly tilled the harvest is abundant, of which Mr. Cook's success is sufficient proof.

O. D. Hilton is another who has not labored in vain. With 170 acres of land, 100 of which are improved, he has gathered around him all the necessities of life, and many of the luxuries not enjoyed by his fellow-men. Like Mr. Cook, he has a fine view of lake Michigan, and a better view of his neighbors because more timber is cut and more land open to cultivation. He has a fine old orchard, which adds wealth to his purse as well as an increased satisfaction to every-day living. Next summer he will build a residence worthy of its surroundings, the material for which is already being gathered together. Among the noticeable ornamental features of the farm is a row of thrifty maple trees along the highway. These are now far enough advanced to shade the weary traveler, and are a source of no little pleasure to their owner.

Adjoining Mr. Hilton's farm is a school-house, built by Mr. Isaac Mills last year, which Mr. H. says is the best country school house in Charlevoix county, as is also the school within its walls, taught by Miss Mamie Leroy.

To be continued.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Treasurer Moss, Real estate dealer.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, June 10, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

John Nicholls and wife to Oscar R. Smith, s w ¼ of n ¼ 28 33 8, $160.

Harriet Hedrigel to Henry C. Hedrigel, n e ¼ of s e ¼ 20 34 6, $1.

Eliza O'haw gave quit claim to Eva J. Lay, n ½ of n w ¼, 11 34 7, $70.

Mary Ann O'tow gave me ke to Eva J. Lay, n w ¼ of n w ¼, 11 33 7, $280.

William Koepke and wife to August Presher, n ½ of n e ¼, s e ¼ of n e ¼ and n w ¼ of s e ¼, 27 34 5, $160.

Walter J. Barrett and wife to Francis L. Morford, 16 acres, 35 34 6, $300.

William A. Atkinson and wife to A. Upright, n w ¼ of n w ¼ and s e ¼ of n w ¼, 14 33 8, $1.

Francis L. Morford to Arden B. Morford, 32 acres off s end of e ½ of s e ¼, 35 34 6, $200

One of our best citizens would say to the noble deed he has done Dr. Caton's Corn Cure, and it will that is claimed for it. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by R. Crozier.

Toothache.

Did you ever have a cracking, jumping snapping, roaring, toothesome, toothsome, that kept the whole family in an uproar until o'clock in the morning? Many have it, but all have not heard of the wonderful cures made by Hamilton's Toothache Drops which are warranted to cure in one minute. Safe, yet effective. Price only 25c. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

A Happy Family

Circle is the proper description for our civilization but such a thing is not possible when disease and death lurks on the threshold. One of the most important methods to be attended to, is that the liver and kidneys are in a healthy condition. Many trouble in section derangement of these organs than from any other cause, often resulting in diabetes, Bright's disease, and other difficulties that are generally regarded incurable. Tormenter's Dyspepsia Bitters, Kidney and Liver Cure will prevent and cure all these difficulties with great certainty. Large bottles $1. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Oh, pretty maiden, now inclined to play
The part of ardent lover,
Are you entreed your suitor to name the day,
Pray think the matter over.
"Is he the one?" The question in your mind
A long while you shed keep down,
Lest you might live to wish the year had been
A look-before-you-sup year.

A masher should be punished by being sent to the galleys.

No dentist should lack for land when he gets seized every day.

If you own a horse and cutter and want to kill time—sleigh it.

Winter is the only thing that can howl around with its back broken.

An Indiana jury sent in a written verdict of "Bode to peces bi the biler bustin."

"What shall I write about?" asked a young reporter of the managing editor. "Oh, write about a column and a half," replied the M. E.

De Maistre said: "To know how to wait is the great secret of success." It is, if you want to get a clop at an average swell restaurant.

A ready-made rejoinder: He—"You made a fool of me when I married you, ma'am." She—"Lord! You always told me you were a self-made man!"

A Boston woman has discarded her pet pug and gone to petting her husband, and "she set" have gone back on her on account of plebeian tastes.

The color line is rapidly disappearing in North Carolina. A white man was arrested a few days ago for robbing a colored citizen's hen coop.

A young lady in Huntington, Pa., who has been deserted by her lover, has levied on his farm. She merely changed her form of attachment.—Albany Times.

A Springfield man wrote to Governor Robinson to inquire if the law would permit him to marry a cousin. The reply was—"The law is willin', if the cousin is."

This is the way a mother down east describes her daughter's courtship: "He 'posed and 'sunted, she nayed and 'fused; last she 'sented, then he 'gaged her."

Someone interrogated little Georgie in regard to her sister's betrothal. "How old is he?" "I don't know." "Well, is he young?" "Yes—he has no hair yet."

How a woman always does up a newspaper she sends to a friend, so that it looks like a well-stuffed pillow, something that no man is woman enough to understand.

"How do you kill time here?" asked a sweet visitor of an equally sweet Yorker. "Oh, with our club," was the reply. And the pair went off to look up cats, each having some to kill.

Fathers often make a great mistake in bringing up their sons to follow their own trade. A trunkmaker was wiser. He put his son at work among other boys as way porters. That trunkmaker is getting rich.

A Boston man advertises that he recovers umbrellas. This man should have a good run of custom. We would give him a job ourselves if we thought he could recover the silk one we lost last spring.

The following question is to be wrestled with by a country debating society at its next session: If the Mormon has eight wives and buries one of them, how much of a widower does he become, if any?

"I believe," said Fenderson, "that you made me for a fool." Replied Fogg: "I have often called a skeptic. Fenty, but, bad as I am, I still have respect for every man's belief—including yours, Fenty. Good day, yours.

"Why does the train run so much faster than yesterday?" asked a passenger on a branch of the Wabash railroad of the conductor. "We are in Missouri to-day," was the reply, "and we always get out of this state as soon as possible."

"Johnnie," asked a Marathon lady of an orphan, "why doesn't your mother sew on that button in your coat? She has been there two weeks now." "Oh, she can't. She's busy sewing on a crazy quilt to beat Mrs. Jones'."—Marathon Independent.

"Don't talk to me about beginning at the bottom of the ladder," observed Jay Gould, "for I began there. I began there ten years ago, and I'm there still. If it was to do over again I'd begin at the top. It's much easier to fall down than to climb up."

"I don't see how you can endure that Polly girl, Jack," said his sister. "I'm sure there's nothing in her." "Nothing in her, indeed! I just wish you'd been with us to supper after the theater to-night," and he dropped a tear over his buried salary.

A lecture on "The Ten Commandments" was recently delivered in a western town, and the local paper spoke of it as a novel and brilliantly original code of morals, which will be likely to make a stir in the world when it becomes more widely known.

To empty a theater in case of fire, the audience should be lowered. All the men will rush out by force of habit and the women will sit still, as usual in such cases, and a panic will be prevented. This suggestion is freely offered for what it is worth. It is not patented.

"Papa, why did Washington cut down the cherry tree?" said a six-year-old son. "I will answer your question by asking you one. Why did you break that pane of glass this morning?" "Er—er, because er—er—" "Well, my son, that's just the reason George gave his father."

A Brooklyn youth, who rushed into matrimony on $6 a week and was arrested for failing to support his wife, says that he was led to the experiment from seeing in a penny paper a account of how cheaply a large could live. Moral—Beware penny papers.—N. Y. Com. Ad

A visiting friend found Sing his coat off standing on the the other night, and remarked ing Cesar, turn, you'll catch cold out here in your shirt "That's what I want," said cheerfully. "Got to sing a solo at an entertainment night, you know."

"I can't pay that bill just no will have to wait a little for ey." "All right, sir," direct sponded the boy, as he seated and unfolded a copy of the Pa ache. "Then's the orders of t "What are the orders of the manded the gentleman, scen to wait for the money."

Mr. James K. Randall relie following: "Senator Palmer, gan, although a man of dig something of a wag. He occ of the four seats on the hig the chamber. He at first cal locality, as in the French 'The Mountain;' but, finding middle man of the row was Hampshire Senator, he chos nomenclature to 'Pike's Peak.'"

An Austin lady was recently from quite a protracted visit north, whither her husband closely confined by business, w able to accompany her. Wishing her trunk her decidedly st vinegar-trimmed housekeeper pressed her: "Since, and was jewel of a husband." "Yes, myself he is pretty nice, b you consider him such a "Why, during the entire time gone he never said a word to Mormon customer—"Jawin ing head for my son." Store "For temporary use, or to ma ways?" Customer—"I shi takes C." Storekeeper—"Sh is something that I can recom bie and——" Customer—"N ness, that won't do; it's the wife, but the boy he is only high." Storekeeper—"I shou after that a good width." Cus "Well, I guess I have tried and therefore can't spare over inch for each without enlarg hat.

One Kind of Fool.

A young man with a plated chain that would do to tie an elephant, came down to the day from the East on the Short line, and told the hotel cl he had just returned from Eur was on his way across the with the intention of publishing of international information. ed an oilcloth grip across the registered in a bold, bad wa with a flourish, and scanned all over the clerk's white shirt

He was assigned to a spare the fifth floor that had been by water a few weeks before fire department. After an hour spent in riding up and down tw for and ringing for things that cost anything, he oiled his hi strolled into the dining-room a severe an manner as any one ever displayed in the presence of cattle man who never oiled his h since his nose into other people

The European traveler ensued conversation with the cattle ma told him all about Paris and the ment, meanwhile polishing his on the tablecloth and eating ever within reach. While he was man's dessert he chatted on gr Cologne and pitied the cattle ma had to stay out on the lock-jaw watch the cows while others w around Venice and acquired the tion in a foreign land.

At first the cattle man showed interest in Europe, but after awhile grew quiet and didn't seem Later on the European found solled cuffs and auburn mous the waiters around he a matter to impress people with his g tipped over the vinegar cruet sult, and ate a slice of boiled another man's salad.

Casually, a tall Kansas man, in, and asked the European what he was doing in Denv cattle man, who, by the way, abroad five or six times, and ha at home in Paris as he is in Chi vestigated the matter, and beg for six years, and had never s water. He then took a few p friends to the dining-room d they watched the alleged trave had just taken a long refresh from the finger bowl of his neig the left and was at that mom to scoop up a lump of sugar wrong end of the tongs.

There are a good many d drift around through the ho dodge the authorities, but the astrons ass that I know is the go goes West with two dollars a cents in his pocket. With enough to sell the most dec bric-a-brac held and tries to p self for a savant with an am edge that he has to shell ou all the time to keep its re knowledge from having its Eye.

A clergyman was devoting the Holy Scriptures to his tion, when he came to the the lower right hand corner he desired to give great emp be read with a loud voice. turned over two leaves and —"no use, the fool of an sexton seeing his mistake, found t place, and added—"must I a of course, nobody would dare rlevoix, Mich., June 12, 1884.

E JOURNAL

Provision Market.

...below to consumers, as corrected every ...ay evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & ...ood dealers:

...r bbl, $4.00, $5.50, and $7.50.
...MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted,

...per bu, $0.30.
...AND FEED, per cwt, $1.50@1.60.
...TOES, per bu, 50c.
...ER, per lb, 17@20c.
...CS, per lb, 25c.
...s per doz, 16c.
...per lb, 12@15c.
...ns: Saunders, 12c.
...ONS, 1½; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 8c.
...KEREL, per lb, 10c.
...ge, 10c.
...S WHITE OIL, 25c.
...RIES PRODUCE in good demand.

...esh Meats from the Market.
...SUPPLIED BY G. W. JEFFERIES.
...ef and stock, 12@20c; fresh pork, 12½
...ork, 10@15c; sausage, 15c; hams, 15c;
...ns, per lb, steers, 8c,
...ows, 6@7c.

...cal News Brevities.

...A. F. Stover is on the sick list ...week.

...ost visitors are becoming more ...ous.

...ease in Hardware at L. D. ...rtholomew's.

...ertising for overseers of high-...at this office.

...ing at Black's school house ...ldath at 3 o'clock.

...te our market changes this ...Upright, Emrey & Co.

...rpet tacks, and Threshing Ma-...at L. D. Bartholomew's.

...s. Howard has our thanks for ...pers from Washtenaw county.

...L L. Guilford, physiognomist, ...Bridge street house this week.

...O. Taylor arrived home from ...on the Lawrence last Sun-

...A. J. Hawkes, of South Arm, ...the JOURNAL a call on Wednes-

...M. L. Smith and his mother ...ve a concert at Eastport this ...announced that a fine flagstaff ...to be placed on the opera house

...E. Jordan is said to have the ...barber pole in Charlevoix

...Emma Gleum was in town a ...as the guest of Miss Mamie ...

...E. Stockman and wife arrived ...ve Chicago on the Lawrence ...day.

...Reed is suffering this week ...severe attack of inflamatory ...rism.

...Grier and wife went to Trav-...by on the Grand Rapids, Tus-...Lawson.

...Leroy Warren, of Lansing, ...E. Satterlee, are at F. Shan-...s's week.

...N. Fowler, of Grand Rapids, ...Bridge street house a few ...s week.

...Lewis and R. E. Newville, of ...gave the JOURNAL a call last ...morning.

...s at that Hot House of Up-...erey & Co., are warranted to ...faction.

...Lewis, of Boyne, arrived ...on the west on the Champlain ...sday night.

...Burns, who has been at Vas-...ast winter, returned to Char-...last Saturday.

...Hamill is building a fruit ...ct to the bridge, on the east ...et.

...closes on Friday of this ...The children will have a holi-...till September.

...Gullick has gone into the ...siness, at least he has a young ...n a mongerie.

...ogress of "anniversary week" ...Congress will begin on Satur-...ning June 14.

...Reed was in Charlevoix ...day, though not fully recovered ...severe illness.

...Dougal has made L. D. Bar-...ew cut for the "Henley" ...ace of the world) Roller skates. ...the last skate in the market.

The fish tug Lida, of Ludington, arrived yesterday to stay.

The fish tug Kitty Gaylord is an arrival since our last,—to all appearances having come to stay.

The whistle of the tug Higgie assisted the Lawrence to make this port in the fog last Sunday afternoon.

Rev. J. H. McCartney will preach at the M. E. church next Sabbath morning and evening. All are invited.

Upright, Emrey & Co., have a full line of sash, doors, lath and shingles, which they are offering at bottom prices.

Mrs. L. E. Allen and Miss Annie Cooper returned home from Flint on Tuesday. They report a pleasant time.

L. D. Bartholomew has sold nearly three tons of Barb fence wire this season. Doors and sash in proportion.

Children's day exercises at the M. E. church gave excellent satisfaction in character, collections, and everything else.

Will C. Graves, brother of Dr. S. C. Graves, of this place, arrived on Tuesday, to remain the summer, perhaps permanently.

Dr. H. P. Snyder, dentist of Traverse City, spent a few days in Charlevoix this week. He says he is getting a good business here.

The new schooner Florence M. Smith, recorded her first clearance on the 9th, with 55 cords wood for E. M. Clark, to Milwaukee.

There were seven cages of birds, and a great quantity of beautiful flowers, among the decorations at the opera house for children's day.

W. F. Orrell is this week fitting up J. Milo Eaton's real estate office with handsome decorations in wall paper, —latest styles just from Chicago.

The engineer of the Wright sealed his hand last Friday so seriously that his physician has little or no hope of his ever regaining the use of it.

Frank Richardson and Della Stafford, of Norwood, were married at the M. E. parsonage, by Rev. J. T. Iddings, yesterday afternoon, June, 11th.

We have recently ordered some wood type for poster work, which is expected some time this week. With it we hope to increase our job printing business.

Rev. J. C. Van Anken, of Northport, recently from Chicago Seminary, brother of Rev. C. F. Van Anken, of Charlevoix, will preach at the opera house Sunday morning and evening.

Liberal advertising filled the opera house on the occasion of the presentation of Harry Webber's Nip and Tuck, and the audience evidenced their satisfaction by frequent applause.

Ira L. Guilford, an old friend and classmate of Rev. C. F. Van Anken, is stopping in the village a few days. He pronounces this one of the most delightful summer towns he ever visited.

A good job of "repairing" has been done to the bank between J. Milo Eaton's real estate office, and O. I. Wheel's confectionery store. A strong sod has been laid, and a barbed wire fence put up to protect it.

We understand that a meeting has been called at Lewis hall this Thursday evening, for the purpose of organizing a military company. All interested are desired to be present, and participate in the organization.

Last week we mentioned that L. D. Porter had commenced the dairy business on the old R. A. Miller farm. We have since used on our table, butter made by Mrs. P. and can recommend it to all who desire a first class article.

At a democratic caucus at the Hilton school house June 9th, the following gentlemen were elected delegates to the county convention at the opera house to-day: Edwin Cook, Jno. O'Brien, Alfred Van Deusen, and Gilbert Mobbo.

A story is related of a Charlevoix county farmer who went to Washington territory, to look for a more generous country than this, in which to build a home; failing there returned to Charlevoix; again took the ferver and emigrated to Kansas, and failing there has permanently settled here. To retrieve his lost fortunes he has engaged in the poultry business, beginning by setting an old gander on hen's eggs.

Wilkinson & Shepard, buyers of rags, old rubber, and copper, have a "telephone order," for our readers this week, which is worth remembering. It is the pennies saved that make many people rich, and the trade of these gentlemen is an important item.

On our supplement pages will be found a portion of O. F. Wisner's poem "Hudsusah," read before the Charlevoix Liberal Club as the "Persian Queen." Mr. Wisner received many words of praise of his production, and we trust its publication will bring to him many other friendly notices. It is to be published in pamphlet form, printed on a very fine tinted paper. Its publication in the JOURNAL will continue about two months.

There was quite a sensation in town last Monday afternoon, caused by a report that Geo. Estelle and family had gone out for a sail Sunday morning, and being overtaken by the squall about noon had not since been seen. Wm. Ferguson took a sail boat and went in search of them, returning Tuesday morning with the information that they had been blown ashore above the little island and found shelter in an old Indian wigwam. They have since returned home all right.

Dr. J. N. Fowler, of Grand Rapids, a specialist in the treatment of cancer, the eye and ear, catarrh, and other chronic and malignant diseases, is stopping at the Bridge Street house for a few days. He has been eminently successful in his practice of nearly thirty years in this State, and has testimonials of many remarkable cures. He has a series of charts in his room showing the organism of the human system, and his consultations (which are free) are very instructive. For references, etc., see his Peoples Journal.

Celebration.

There will be a meeting at the town hall, at 7:30 Friday evening to make arrangements for celebrating the Fourth in good old-fashioned style. Let there be a full attendance.

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, June 10:

June 4.—Schr. Reindeer, 60 cords wood, 6 ct. tied wood lumber, Cheboygan Mfg. Co., for Indiana.

4.—Schr. Pleasing, 120 cords hardwood lumber, Shepherd & Co., to Detroit.

5.—Prop. Johnson, 450 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

5.—Schr. Morning Star, 180 cords wood, 10 ft. wood, to Chicago.

7.—Schr. Pewaukee, 50 cords wood, and 6,000 railroad ties, Cleveland Cliffs Co., to Detroit.

9.—Schr. Florence M. Smith, 55 cords wood, E. M. Clark, to Milwaukee.

10.—Schr. Lottie Keeler, 80 cords wood, 10 cords bark, Will Stone, to Milwaukee.

Sunday School Convention.

Program of the Charlevoix County Sunday school convention, to be held at Ironton on Wednesday, June 25, 1884.

MORNING SESSION.

8:30 Devotional exercises.
Address of welcome, by superintendent of Ironton Sunday school.
Response by the president.
9:00. Brief reports by township presidents or proxy appointed by them of the condition of each Sunday school in the county.
9:30. Discussion: How can we extend and secure Sunday school work throughout the county? Opened by E. M. Chase.
10:00. Discussion: How we can secure regular attendance in our Sunday schools? Opened by Rev. Wm. Norton.
10:30. Discussion: Reverence. Opened by E. M. Clark.
11:00. Miscellaneous business and appointment of committees.
12:00. Benediction.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

1:00. Devotional exercises.
1:30. Children's meeting.
2:00. Discussion: How should we teach temperance in our Sunday schools? Opened by E. H. Green.
2:30. Discussion: Preparation of the lesson. Opened by Dr. J. T. Brown.
3:00. Discussion: Sunday school finances. Opened by Rev. J. Redpath.
3:30. Election of officers for ensuing year.
Appropriate music will be interspersed through the exercises.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crozier.

Cholera.

And the milder forms of bowel difficulty, diarrhœa, dysentery, &c., all come from a disordered digestion attended with pain in the stomach, cramps, chollc, &c. Be wise and ward off these attacks by taking Hamilton's Anodyne Cholera Tonic and Pain Cure, which is a sure remedy. Never known to fail to give immediate relief. As an outward application in rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, sprains, strains, lame back and side, it cannot be beaten. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the twelfth day of May, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Charlotte Bowditch, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the fifth day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days. Dated June 12th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the eleventh day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Charlotte Bowditch, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the fifth day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days. Dated June 12th, A. D. 1884.

JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the seventh day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of probate. In the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE BOWDITCH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly certified of Albert Reynolds, administrator of said estate, praying that certain real estate might be sold to pay debts, &c. Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the fourteenth day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the next of kin and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the probate office in the village of Charlevoix and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

A true copy. JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

Telephone Order

Hello there!
Hello! What is it?
Has your mother got any rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

Buy note paper and envelopes with a view of Charlevoix, at O. B. Wood & Co.'s drug store.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received daily. Interest allowed at the rate of FIVE PER CENT per annum on deposits remaining one year, and SIX PER CENT on deposits remaining two years. Money loaned on Real Estate security at reasonable rates. Stockholders' Banks offer no inducements to depositors. National banks are limited by law to deposits beyond amount of stock paid in, and that is often fictitious. National banks are limited by law to loan to one person or firm only ten per cent of capital stock paid in. Individual banks offer no security to depositors. Stockholders' Banks are individually liable for deposits beyond amount of stock taken; and that is often fictitious. National banks do not specialize; holding that with our currency, we do not need to. Specialize? Why, certainly, we do specialize; holding that with our currency, we it is foolish, and with our friends it is criminal.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

Electric Light

In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have sawed down high prices on kitchen utensils, tinware, wood ware, glassware, tinware, hosiery, kerchiefs, handkerchiefs, corset sets, ladies' hat rings, shopping baskets, hand mirrors, fans, picture frames, hat racks, table cutlery, undertaking, shawl straps, overalls, jumpers, and fresh confectionery.

A good hat rack 75c, dust pan 5c, scrub brush 5c, whisk broom 5c, hand mirror 5c, splendid misses' linen hose 10c, ladies' hose 5c, gents' linen handkerchief worth 25c, 4 qts. buckets shirt 50c, gents' fancy shirt 50c, dinner set, and a small family of household articles too numerous to name, all of which below wholesale prices at

THE FAIR,

J. J. Kanagy & Son,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and we will mail you free a costly box of goods which will put you in the way of making more money right away than anything else in this world. All of either sex succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been restored to health of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, and all throat and lung affections. Parties wishing the prescription, will address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

AGENTS wanted for the lives of the Presidents, Queens, Rulers and Chiefs of the United States. The largest, handsomest and best book for the money. Sells at sight. Outsells two to one. Agents are delighted with it. Exclusive territory. Extra terms. Freight paid. Apply quick. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4341

Come and see our new calling cards.

HEADQUARTERS FOR

Plows, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

THE SONG OF THE WORKERS.

BY EDWARD WILLETT.

I sing the song of the workers, the men of the brawny arm,
Who give us our daily bread and keep us from hunger's harm;
Who lay or slay in the forest, who leaves the fields with toil;
Who take no heed of the sunshine, and mind not sweat or toil.

I sing the song of the workers, who harvest the golden grain,
And bind it in creaking wagons, and stently it in the barn or mine,
And bid it thresh and thrash it, and sift it, nor care for the sting and stain;
Who load it in creaking wagons, and stently it in the barn or mine,
And bid them good-by as they go, like the boys flying kites in the June time.

I sing the song of the workers, the men who struggle and strain,
Who give up their muscle and nerve as they guard the loaded train;
Who give to the rain-wind wagons, and mind the tri-mood steam,
And run the ticket their lives as they pass the peril-ous stream.

I sing the song of the workers, the men who take and receive,
Who handle for us the many that comes to the harvest-hiver;
The patient and tireless workers, with nimbles hands and feet,
Who carry the heaviest burdens, and lift, and haul, and wheel.

I sing the song of the workers, confounding for every one,
His joys and his pains and his gains, and his every-day life and work of the workers, no matter To-wer, from the grand result his honest, pro-portionate share.

A MATER DOLOROSA.

A Chinese woman has no identity of her own. She is simply of consequence as the wife of some man, or the mother of a son. If this place of existence sheds but little glory upon her, it also relieves her of many responsibilities, and gives to her obscurity the value of contentment.

Aunt Nancy was the wife of Uncle Lisha.

It would be impossible to give a biography of Aunt Nancy without including Uncle Lisha, or to eliminate her individuality long enough to serve her up alone. And I doubt if the dear old lady would like such a marital independence. Nor do I think she would recognize any picture of herself that was not a reflection of him. Like the moon, she shone by borrowed light.

Uncle Lisha was a living illustration of the old adage, "It is better to borrow than to lend." His property was inherited, and he never did a day's work in his life. But everybody else in his family worked, Aunt Nancy, his wife, more than any of them. Uncle Lisha didn't work because he enjoyed poor health. A partial list of his complaints would read about like this:

Fever and ague.
Chronic indigestion.
Paralysis of the heart.
Paralysis of the liver.
Inflammatory rheumatism.
Lameness in the left knee.
Lameness in the right knee.
Ossification of the joints.
Hereditary consumption
(On the mother's side.)
Hereditary apoplexy.
(On the father's side.)

These were just a few of the ills which beset the poor man, and made him exceedingly careful of himself. He couldn't stoop for fear of apoplectic symptoms; he was afraid to lift anything, on account of his heart; he never dared hurry, as his heart had a habit of beating, and, in fact, nothing agreed with him except eating nothing. He was the very same boy referred to in the following incident. I am aware it is credited to the Beecher family, but they never had a monopoly of lazy boys, if they did of bright ones. Uncle Lisha's father, the good doctor, had one time been away from home a few days, leaving his two boys, Elisha and Ezekiel, to do the chores. When he returned, nothing had been done, and he discovered the boys in a hay-mow, reading stories.

"Zeke!" thundered the Doctor, "come here, sir."

Zeke came and stood shame-facedly before him.

"What have you been doing since I was away?"

"Nothing, sir."

"Elisha, come here, you, and give an account of yourself. Tell the truth, now. What have you been doing?"

"Helping Zeke, sir."

This faculty was Uncle Lisha's stock in trade, and he steadily improved it and made others believe in it, until they really considered it wrong to expect him to do anything. I can see him yet putting in his hours of a winter's morning. All the cattle had been fodered, water drawn, and wood carried in. Aunt Nancy had been up hours, getting breakfast and hushing the children, and telling them not to make a noise and wake "poor father," who hadn't slept a wink all night. Gentle soul! It is possible that she believed it, for she was too tired herself to lie awake to see. And when he came down they all waited on him and handed him his boots, while he lingered pathetically in front of the hot fire. Then he would cough feebly, put his hand to his heart, sigh—and warm the inside of his boots. After resting from this exertion he would take a strap in each hand and with several attempts get it on. Then a long rest, before a similar process with the other one. A drink of reviving water was then handed by one child, while another stood by and looked at him as if he had been a tenhorned wonder. "Poor father" was only addressed with spring fever, which lasted him the year round—in other words, chronic laziness.

"I don't last long," he would say, in that whimpering voice which exasperated all who knew him as he really was. "Then, Nancy, you and the children can have it all your own way."

And Aunt Nancy would cry, and the children howl, and there would be some added delicacy at the sufferer's plate for the next meal.

"There's only a dozen eggs in the house," that saintly woman would observe. "Now, children, I'm going to cook those for your poor father—don't one of you ask for eggs."

But when he reached the last egg one of the tempted children would pluck up courage to hint for it. Uncle Lisha would look at that child with a countenance of meek reproach, and say:

"Yes, take it, take it, and let your poor sick father starve."

There was no chance for Aunt Nancy to have any pet ailments. If she was sick and complained, Uncle Lisha would say:

"I've felt just so, mother," and that settled it. If he was going anywhere, he would put in the saving clause:

"If I live, and Nancy's well."

Her headaches were mere chimeras of the imagination.

"I've suffered worse and never mentioned it—suffered like a wintergreen," he would add, as if that were the plus ultra of misery.

Every year or two he made a new will, and every day he advised Aunt Nancy what to do when he was gone. In their early married life, when the children were small, he had dreaded that she would marry again, but in later years this fear had no place in his thoughts. The children themselves were married and gone, and Aunt Nancy was an old woman with a white, placid face, and hands of iron-gray hair—not really old, but worn out—her life had been such a perpetual echo of Uncle Lisha. He didn't like company, so she didn't have any. He never wanted to go anywhere, so she stayed at home. If she ever went to church she had to go alone, and that was so dreary, and she had so many inquiries to answer about his health that she seldom went.

"You'll miss me when I'm gone," he would say, cheerfully, and so she would. And she would have missed the old clock in the corner, too, if it had suddenly disappeared.

"What does the doctor say about me?" he asked her one day when the village physician had gone, after calling her to one side. Perhaps Aunt Nancy was a little worn out that day, or believed in her own wisdom, but she deliberately answered:

"He thinks you haven't a disease in the world, Elisha, and that if you would take more exercise it would be better for you."

She was wounded to the quick, and did not speak to her for twenty-four hours, and he discharged the impolitic physician the next day.

Uncle Lisha was fond of lachrymose hymns, and when not singing

"Here, iron the towels a-doleful seams," he would tip back his chair—the easiest in the house—close his eyes and chant by the hour:

"I'm going home,
No more to roam,
No more to sin and sorrow,
No more to wear
The weight of care,
I'm going home to-morrow."

But to-morrows came and went, and Uncle Lisha did not go home.

There was a shelf in the closet which was especially devoted to his medicines. It is nearly days he had dosed himself with rimbarb and sarsaparilla. Then quinine became the fashion, and he dosed himself on that. Liniments for rheumatism, patent nostrums and alterative pills completed the list, except that there was no end to the domestic remedies, such as mustard and ginger, and other alleviating agents.

"When I am gone," he would say, mournfully, "give my medicines to some deserving poor person. They'll never long be away from home a few days, leaving his two boys, Elisha and Ezekiel, to do the chores. When he returned, nothing had been done, and he discovered the boys in a hay-mow, reading stories.

"Zeke!" thundered the Doctor, "come here, sir."

Zeke came and stood shame-facedly before him.

"What have you been doing since I was away?"

"Nothing, sir."

"Elisha, come here, you, and give an account of yourself. Tell the truth, now. What have you been doing?"

"Helping Zeke, sir."

This faculty was Uncle Lisha's stock in trade, and he steadily improved it and made others believe in it, until they really considered it wrong to expect him to do anything. I can see him yet putting in his hours of a winter's morning. All the cattle had been fodered, water drawn, and wood carried in. Aunt Nancy had been up hours, getting breakfast and hushing the children, and telling them not to make a noise and wake "poor father," who hadn't slept a wink all night. Gentle soul! It is possible that she believed it, for she was too tired herself to lie awake to see. And when he came down they all waited on him and handed him his boots, while he lingered pathetically in front of the hot fire. Then he would cough feebly, put his hand to his heart, sigh—and warm the inside of his boots. After resting from this exertion he would take a strap in each hand and with several attempts get it on. Then a long rest, before a similar process with the other one. A drink of reviving water was then handed by one child, while another stood by and looked at him as if he had been a ten-horned wonder. "Poor father" was only addressed with spring fever, which lasted him the year round—in other words, chronic laziness.

"I don't last long," he would say, in that whimpering voice which exasperated all who knew him as he really was. "Then, Nancy, you and the children can have it all your own way."

And Aunt Nancy would cry, and the children howl, and there would be

"There, there, now," said Uncle Lisha, soothingly; "I'll give you a spoonful of my tonic in the morning, and you'll come out like a lark in the spring time. Go to sleep, Nancy; it'll help you wonderfully. It always helps me."

The next morning Aunt Lucy had taken the tonic of a new life. "I'm going home first, after all," she said with a smile, and died.

This upset all the calculations of a life time with Uncle Lisha. He had nobody to complain to, no one who cared in the least whether he had twenty ailments or one. He was not encouraged to be lazy, and helpless, and selfish, and he fell into completed ruin. He had enough to live on, but nothing to live for, as he could not complain to himself, or discuss with himself his own symptoms. He never talked of dying or sang "I'm going home" again. In fine weather he went up to his wife's grave. Doubtless it would have distressed her had she known that she was deaf to his complaints. In his room a dress and shawl of hers hung near his chair. When he finally became ill in earnest he made light of it. For their mother's sake the children tended him dutifully. One night he stretched out a wasted hand and touched his wife's dress.

"Nancy," they heard him whisper, "I'm going home, I'm going home to-morrow."

They buried him beside her.—Mrs. Hoyne, in Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Lincoln's Religious Belief.

There has been discussion as to Mr. Lincoln's religious belief. He was sufficient as to his own preference among creeds. Prejudice against any particular denomination he did not entertain. Allied all his life with Protestant Christianity, he thankfully availed himself of the services of an eminent Catholic prelate—Archbishop Hughes, of New York—in a personal mission to England, of great importance, at a crisis when the relations between the two countries were disturbed and threatening. Throughout the whole period of the war he constantly directed the attention of the nation to the providence of God. It may, indeed, be doubted whether he omitted this in a single state paper. In every message to Congress, in every proclamation to the people, he made it prominent. In duly, 1863, after the battle of Gettysburg, he called upon the people to give thanks because "it has pleased Almighty God to vouchsafe signal victories to the land and navy of the United States," and he asked the people "to render to the Divine Majesty and to invoke the influence of His Holy Spirit to subdue the anger which has produced and long sustained a needless and cruel rebellion." On another occasion, recognizing the blessings which had come to the Union, he said: "No human counsel hath devised, nor hath any mortal hand worked, all these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the Most High God, who, while dealing with us in anger for our sins, hath nevertheless remembered mercy." Throughout his entire official career—attended at all times with great difficulty and great responsibility—he never forgot his own dependence, or the dependence of the people, upon a Higher Power. His great largely upon the emancipation proclamation and the inauguration of the national policy, that which seeks to ascertain what policy will best secure to men and women, without any exception, true, honorable, and remunerative labor. There is no sudden spectacle than to see laborers unemployed who want to work, or to see them telling from down to darkness in the midst of plenty that barely affords the necessaries of life. God never intended that life should be a perpetual struggle for mere existence, without hope of permanent nor chance of improvement; that it should be a constant fight to keep the gaunt wolf of want and famine from the doors, cheerless, and shadowed from the cradle to the grave. We therefore look upon the vast sources, of unsurpassed fertility, of unequaled variety of climate and productions. The fruits and grains of both the tropic and the temperate zones ripen within our limits.

Corn and wheat, the vine and the olive, in quantities far beyond the wants of the consumption of our own people, are annually produced. Legislation, for the first time in the history of nations. No other country in the world offers such natural advantages to industry, economy, and labor. And it is while under the influence of the school century of our national existence, we are already contented upon the principles of perfecting problems of labor and capital, of men and women out of employment, and of wages that barely keep soul and body together. This too, in the face of that other unmeaning fact in a free government, that immense fortunes, amounts to the limit of the people and are compatible with a just administration of law, have been accumulated within an ordinary lifetime, without corresponding labor, but by the profession and combination of capital. I do not say that legislation can cure these evils. They may be to some extent inherent in civilized society.

But the information that the bureau proposes by this bill will furnish, can furnish it its duties are discharged in an intelligent and impartial manner, more illuminate many important questions that are now being canvassed. It will pour light upon the relations of labor to capital, the means of promoting the material, intellectual, and moral prosperity of laboring men and women; to insure what labor is worthy of the dignity of labor and the improvements and inventive genius of the people. It will be a welcome visitor to every laborer's fireside, to every workshop in all departments of industry; to ascertain the number of those employed in the various branches of manual labor; the average time they are annually employed and the difficulty of securing remunerative employment; the average wages to Congress, in every proclamation to the people, he made it prominent. In duly, 1863, after the battle of Gettysburg, he called upon the people to give thanks because "it has pleased Almighty God to vouchsafe signal victories to the land and navy of the United States," and he asked the people "to render to the Divine Majesty and to invoke the influence of His Holy Spirit to subdue the anger which has produced and long sustained a needless and cruel rebellion." On another occasion, recognizing the blessings which had come to the Union, he said: "No human counsel hath devised, nor hath any mortal hand worked, all these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the Most High God, who, while dealing with us in anger for our sins, hath nevertheless remembered mercy." Throughout his entire official career—attended at all times with great difficulty and great responsibility—he never forgot his own dependence, or the dependence of the people, upon a Higher Power. His great largely upon the emancipation proclamation and the inauguration of the national policy, that which seeks to ascertain what policy will best secure to men and women, without any exception, true, honorable, and remunerative labor. There is no sudden spectacle than to see laborers unemployed who want to work, or to see them telling from down to darkness in the midst of plenty that barely affords the necessaries of life. God never intended that life should be a perpetual struggle for mere existence, without hope of permanent nor chance of improvement; that it should be a constant fight to keep the gaunt wolf of want and famine from the doors, cheerless, and shadowed from the cradle to the grave. We therefore look upon the vast sources, of unsurpassed fertility, of unequaled variety of climate and productions. The fruits and grains of both the tropic and the temperate zones ripen within our limits.

Corn and wheat, the vine and the olive, in quantities far beyond the wants of the consumption of our own people, are annually produced. Legislation, for the first time in the history of nations. No other country in the world offers such natural advantages to industry, economy, and labor. And it is while under the influence of the school century of our national existence, we are already contented upon the principles of perfecting problems of labor and capital, of men and women out of employment, and of wages that barely keep soul and body together. This too, in the face of that other unmeaning fact in a free government, that immense fortunes, amounts to the limit of the people and are compatible with a just administration of law, have been accumulated within an ordinary lifetime, without corresponding labor, but by the profession and combination of capital. I do not say that legislation can cure these evils. They may be to some extent inherent in civilized society.

But the information that the bureau proposes by this bill will furnish, can furnish it its duties are discharged in an intelligent and impartial manner, more illuminate many important questions that are now being canvassed. It will pour light upon the relations of labor to capital, the means of promoting the material, intellectual, and moral prosperity of laboring men and women; to insure what labor is worthy of the dignity of labor and the improvements and inventive genius of the people. It will be a welcome visitor to every laborer's fireside, to every workshop in all departments of industry; to ascertain the number of those employed in the various branches of manual labor; the average time they are annually employed and the difficulty of securing remunerative employment; the average wages

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

Speech of Hon. N. E. Worthington, of Illinois, in the House of Representatives.

The House being in committee of the whole House on the state of the Union, and having under consideration the bill (H. R. 340) to establish and maintain a bureau of labor statistics, Mr. Worthington said:

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am in favor of any legislation that will throw light upon the great questions involved in this bill. No investigation is of greater importance than that which seeks to ascertain what policy will best secure to men and women, without any exception, true, honorable, and remunerative labor. There is no sudden spectacle than to see laborers unemployed who want to work, or to see them telling from down to darkness in the midst of plenty that barely affords the necessaries of life. God never intended that life should be a perpetual struggle for mere existence, without hope of permanent nor chance of improvement; that it should be a constant fight to keep the gaunt wolf of want and famine from the doors, cheerless, and shadowed from the cradle to the grave. We therefore look upon the vast sources, of unsurpassed fertility, of unequaled variety of climate and productions. The fruits and grains of both the tropic and the temperate zones ripen within our limits.

Corn and wheat, the vine and the olive, in quantities far beyond the wants of the consumption of our own people, are annually produced. Legislation, for the first time in the history of nations. No other country in the world offers such natural advantages to industry, economy, and labor. And it is while under the influence of the school century of our national existence, we are already contented upon the principles of perfecting problems of labor and capital, of men and women out of employment, and of wages that barely keep soul and body together. This too, in the face of that other unmeaning fact in a free government, that immense fortunes, amounts to the limit of the people and are compatible with a just administration of law, have been accumulated within an ordinary lifetime, without corresponding labor, but by the profession and combination of capital. I do not say that legislation can cure these evils. They may be to some extent inherent in civilized society.

But the information that the bureau proposes by this bill will furnish, can furnish it its duties are discharged in an intelligent and impartial manner, more illuminate many important questions that are now being canvassed. It will pour light upon the relations of labor to capital, the means of promoting the material, intellectual, and moral prosperity of laboring men and women; to insure what labor is worthy of the dignity of labor and the improvements and inventive genius of the people. It will be a welcome visitor to every laborer's fireside, to every workshop in all departments of industry; to ascertain the number of those employed in the various branches of manual labor; the average time they are annually employed and the difficulty of securing remunerative employment; the average wages to Congress, in every proclamation to the people, he made it prominent. In duly, 1863, after the battle of Gettysburg, he called upon the people to give thanks because "it has pleased Almighty God to vouchsafe signal victories to the land and navy of the United States," and he asked the people "to render to the Divine Majesty and to invoke the influence of His Holy Spirit to subdue the anger which has produced and long sustained a needless and cruel rebellion." On another occasion, recognizing the blessings which had come to the Union, he said: "No human counsel hath devised, nor hath any mortal hand worked, all these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the Most High God, who, while dealing with us in anger for our sins, hath nevertheless remembered mercy." Throughout his entire official career—attended at all times with great difficulty and great responsibility—he never forgot his own dependence, or the dependence of the people, upon a Higher Power. His great largely upon the emancipation proclamation and the inauguration of the national policy, that which seeks to ascertain what policy will best secure to men and women, without any exception, true, honorable, and remunerative labor. There is no sudden spectacle than to see laborers unemployed who want to work, or to see them telling from down to darkness in the midst of plenty that barely affords the necessaries of life. God never intended that life should be a perpetual struggle for mere existence, without hope of permanent nor chance of improvement; that it should be a constant fight to keep the gaunt wolf of want and famine from the doors, cheerless, and shadowed from the cradle to the grave. We therefore look upon the vast sources, of unsurpassed fertility, of unequaled variety of climate and productions. The fruits and grains of both the tropic and the temperate zones ripen within our limits.

Corn and wheat, the vine and the olive, in quantities far beyond the wants of the consumption of our own people, are annually produced. Legislation, for the first time in the history of nations. No other country in the world offers such natural advantages to industry, economy, and labor. And it is while under the influence of the school century of our national existence, we are already contented upon the principles of perfecting problems of labor and capital, of men and women out of employment, and of wages that barely keep soul and body together. This too, in the face of that other unmeaning fact in a free government, that immense fortunes, amounts to the limit of the people and are compatible with a just administration of law, have been accumulated within an ordinary lifetime, without corresponding labor, but by the profession and combination of capital. I do not say that legislation can cure these evils. They may be to some extent inherent in civilized society.

But the information that the bureau proposes by this bill will furnish, can furnish it its duties are discharged in an intelligent and impartial manner, more illuminate many important questions that are now being canvassed. It will pour light upon the relations of labor to capital, the means of promoting the material, intellectual, and moral prosperity of laboring men and women; to insure what labor is worthy of the dignity of labor and the improvements and inventive genius of the people. It will be a welcome visitor to every laborer's fireside, to every workshop in all departments of industry; to ascertain the number of those employed in the various branches of manual labor; the average time they are annually employed and the difficulty of securing remunerative employment; the average wages

Article.	Value.
Agricultural implements	$11,146,676
Boots and shoes	59,486,000
Fancy articles, (al-bums, &c.)	1,655,683
Fancy feathers and artificial flowers	4,339,084
Musical instruments	1,086,313
Paper and paper goods	3,640,633
Pianos, piece goods and manufactures	2,236,545
Printing and publishing—
Book and job	6,033,216
Printing-presses and materials	6,579,915
Sash, doors, and blinds	2,000,000
Saddlery and harness	2,000,000
Silk goods, viz:
Broad silks, ribbons, braids, laces, &c., manufacturing hats	2,200,000
Laces, cords, braids, &c.	6,200,000
Spinning	2,000,000
Chinaware, decorated	2,500,000
Woolen embroideries	1,000,000
Needlework, &c.	1,000,000
Fruit and nuts	14,000,000
Wood, turned, &c.	2,000,000
Firearms	1,000,000
Total	$112,431,356

Here are $21,992,431 collected as internal revenue, and $112,431,356 of articles which are proper objects of taxation, even upon the amount of internal revenue collected upon spirits, beer, and tobacco, existing internal-revenue laws, the total sum which, with slight improvements, or none, will meet the income of the Government, pay the interest upon the debt, and the principal as it becomes redeemable without this bill refers.

The inability of the Government, the order of society, the execution of the laws, and the allegiance of the voters and public taxpayers are largely upon the employment, the comfort, and the prosperity of the working people. We cannot close our eyes to the fact that the masses of communism, scattered broadcast in the labor centres of European countries, have also been seen in many of our large cities, and are in danger of producing fruit. It is easier to check the spirit of reform than by removing the causes which tend to produce it than to put it down by force. Many of the evils complained of are maddened by hunger and want of employment. The sword and the bayonet are dangerous instruments and cut both ways when called against the oppressed of the land. It is the part of wisdom, then, Mr. Chairman, not only to investigate thoroughly every subject that affects the toiling millions but also to control that investigation in such a thorough, honest, and impartial manner as shall convince the working men that the Government is honestly and prosperous. And if the people are convinced in this manner of the wisdom of legislation to this end, they will not only be willing to pay for the cost of the bureau, but for all the reasonable cost he made to pay for the cost of the bureau, but for all the reasonable cost he made to pay for the cost of the bureau, but for all the reasonable cost he made

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 12, 1884.

Around the County.

South Arm.

Robert Summerville has returned from his Canadian trip.

James Wadsworth, Esq., of Bellaire, was in town Saturday.

O. D. Wood, of Charlevoix, made this town a business call last week.

Mr. Lovison, of Traverse City, passed through here recently, selling dry goods.

P. L. Lanway has opened his grocery to receive the public custom. Go slow Phil.

Peter Murry, of Echo, came very near losing his house and barn by fire last week but through the heroic effort of his neighbors they were saved.

The late rain, much needed, has at last arrived. The spring has been propitious for clearing land and consequently much of that business has been prosecuted in.

The sporting season has begun. Several fishermen from Elmira called on Rev. H. C. Scofield last week. They caught quite a number of fish in the waters of upper Intermediate lakes.

Decoration day passed off quite pleasantly for the first effort. Quite a crowd was gathered though not the largest ever here, as the Enterprise stated. The unpleasant features of the occasion were the intolerable dust and lack of seats. Hon. H. B. Hudson gave us a splendid speech and especially counselled the Grand Army boys to be steadfast.

Norwood.

G. V. Nash has a fine new carriage, and is enjoying the use of the same.

Ed. Moldo has a photograph tent pitched here and is, we understand, doing very good work.

J. Gayles and wife were in town the 8th, the guests of Mr. Geo. Gayles.

Mr. Geo. VanPelt shipped ten thousand last Monday to Chicago by steamer Champlain, Saturday the 7th.

The schooner South Side of Milwaukee, cleared this port with 150 cords of wood for Gayles, Nash & Co. Sunday the 8th.

The exercises on Children's day at the school house were very fine. There was a fine display of rare and beautiful flowers; the children did themselves proud in the way of declaiming and singing. Rev. Mr. Heath gave a short exclamation to the children of the day set apart for them. Generally speaking, it was a very pleasant meeting.

Ironton.

J. G. Peterson has a new $160 organ. Mrs. Peterson looks pleased.

Mr. Morgan Foreman went to Chicago on the last trip of the John Otis.

Mrs. Fred. Debenham, presented her husband with a little girl baby last week.

Ti Bennee is doing better than ever before. It made 57 tons of iron in one day.

Preaching at the school house on Monday evening of this week, by Rev. Mr. Iddings of Charlevoix.

The new street running from Front street to Pioneer house, is completed. The town was much in need of this road.

The Pine Lake Iron Co., are going to build several more dwellings this summer. Walter Manny has the contracts.

Burgess.

Mr. Tillotson is engaged at Petoskey this week.

George Banks traded his oxen for a span of horses one day last week.

Some of the ladies of this town met at Moses Cooper's residence one day last week for an old-fashioned quilting.

The greenbackers of Hayes are invited to assemble at Cronkshank & Grier's office in Charlevoix, next Saturday at 11 a. m. as the county committee meets there at that time.

Will our correspondent please furnish the facts in regard to the failure of town officers to carry out the will of the people as expressed at the township meeting, which he refers to.

ED.]

GLEANINGS.

There are thirty-nine English tailors in Paris.

New York City's total debt is $93,-174,721.48.

The city undertaker of Palatka, Fla., is a woman.

"Horse" Murray is now traveling correspondent for a funny paper.

Fred Reitbrock, of Milwaukee, has a turning lathe once used by Maximilian I. of Germany.

During the present century 150,000,-000 copies of the Bible have been printed in 226 different languages.

Asa Bullard has been secretary of the Massachusetts Sunday School Publishing Company for fifty years.

The management of the old Soldiers' Home at Newark, N. J., is such that the cost for each veteran is only 30 cents per day.

Liverpool is the greatest shipping port of the world, its annual tonnage being 2,646,372 tons. London is the next port, with 2,330,688 tons. Glasgow ranks third, with a tonnage of 1,432,554. New York comes fourth on the list of shipping ports of the world, with a tonnage of 1,153,676.

The United States Treasury has the biggest spittoon on record. It is a great oblong wooden box as big as a bed, filled with sawdust. It lies in the basement, at the foot of the four flights of stairs which lead to the various stories, and accommodates the government employes and others.

The "Major Oak," near Edwinstowe, England, fell before the recent gale there. Its trunk had a girth of 29 feet, and the circumference of the top was 240 feet. The hollow stem was used by picnic parties, and seven people had at one time partaken of a meal in it. It was known to have stood 700 years.

Twenty-six years ago Roscoe Conkling was elected mayor of Utica, N. Y., the ex-Senator being then 28 years, 4 months and 2 days old. James S. Sherman, the present mayor, was 28 years, 4 months and 10 days old when he assumed office on the 4th inst. Mr. Conkling, therefore, still remains in the field as the youngest mayor of Utica by eight days.

The Black Watch, mentioned so frequently in the dispatches from Suakim as having been in the army of General Graham's last engagement, is the name given to the Forty-second Regiment, Highlanders. Into this regiment were enrolled, in 1757, the composers, dressed in black, or dark tartans, that had watched the Highlands during the war for the restoration of the Stuarts.

The Llewellyn family, of Pottsville, Pa., is familiar with wooden legs. Mrs. Ann Llewellyn, who wears one, married her late husband because he had a wooden leg, and their only son walks abroad on an oaken stump. Mrs. Llewellyn recently told a luscious lawyer that wooden legs were better than wooden heads any day in the week.

An eccentric Binghampton, N. Y., man, who is married but does not live with his wife, proposes taking an excursion to Europe next spring, and to defray all expenses on certain conditions. The party must consist of ten or more unmarried couples, the females to do the "popping of the question" prior to the voyage. On board the steamer there is to be one or more weddings each day until the trip is finished.

Daniel Montague, of Northboro, Mass., has what he claims is the oldest piano in the country. The instrument is a four and a half octave, 4x8 feet in size, with a solid mahogany case. It was manufactured by Benjamin Carcor, of Milton, England. The instrument was brought to this country by John Fayerweather, who many years ago was a Boston fur dealer. This ancient piano is known to be over 175 years old.

At Ausonia, Conn., John Morrisey owned a 200-pound Siberian blood-hound that had a tumor of six inches in diameter, and on Saturday a horse doctor removed it. The dog was neither chloroformed nor tied, but a muzzle was put on, and at a word from his master he placed himself in position for the operation and lay quietly, restrained by nothing but the looks and words of his master, until the deed was done.

Breakfast parties are the fashionable Lenten entertainments in New York, and are served at 11 o'clock by candlelight. All daylight is excluded, and the guests—generally about twenty in number—are seated around four small tables, five guests at each table, and the tables are placed sufficiently near for general conversation. Breakfast is served in courses, after which there may be music or any amusements suggested by the hostess.

When hungry pigs see food, their mouths water, and the gastric secretion is largely increased. A manufacturer of pepsin, taking advantage of this fact, turns hungry pigs into a pen where a trough filled with food tempts the animals, though a wire screen prevents their eating it, and thus absorbing the pepsin contained in the peptic glands. Then the hogs are killed, and the yield of pepsin is comparatively very large.

It has been decided by the New York Supreme Court that the money which a widow receives as insurance on her husband's life cannot be taken to satisfy debts incurred before the husband's death. The case in which the decision was rendered was an attempt by the owner of a judgment of thirteen years' standing against a deceased hotel man, to enjoin the widow from withdrawing the insurance money from a bank in which she had deposited it, and the court held that an injunction must be denied.

That soldiers are not always able to appreciate beautiful scenery is evident from the following inscription, said to be written on a tree in the Yellowstone Park, the outer bark of the tree having been scraped off with a trowel beyond: "Howard's army camped here Sept. 4, 1876. Chief Joseph and Fisher's scouts three days ahead. Surrounding scenery would be darn fine if a fellow had any grub in his stomach. God bless our camp—(and send us a supply train). A. J. Fay, Company F, Twenty-first Infantry."

A Michigan reporter asked the "Sweet Singer" of his state what she thought of Ella Wheeler's abilities as a poetess, and received the reply: "Well, she's doing purty fair for a beginner, but the gal's young yit. When she's had my experience in sawin' off language she'll most likely pan out tolerably hefty on the rhyme racket."—Bismarck Tribune.

Subscribe for the JOURNAL.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6:30 a. m	2:00 p. m
Arrive East Jordan....	8:30 a. m	4:00 p. m
Leave East Jordan....	9:00 a. m	4:30 p. m
Arrive Charlevoix.....	11:00 a. m	6:30 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6:30 a. m	2:00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne	8:30 a. m	4:00 p. m.
Leave Boyne	9:30 a. m	4:30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix....	12:00 a. m	6:30 p. m

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv.	7:00am	Harbor Springs	1:30pm
Charlevoix.....	9:00am	Petoskey.....	2:00pm
Petoskey.....	11:00am	Charlevoix.....	4:30pm
Harbor Springs	11:30am	East Jordan, ar.	6:30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. R. Thompson.

Le Boyne.....	7:00am	Lv Charlevoix.	2:30pm
Ar Charlevoix.	9:30am	Ar Boyne.....	4:30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

LEAVE	AM	PM	ARRIVE	AM	PM
East Jordan.	6:30	1:30	Charlevoix.	8:45	3:45
Charlevoix...	9:30	4:00	East Jordan.	11:35	6:00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE, SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.		GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City..	7:00am	Harbor Springs	6:00am
Northport	9:30am	Petoskey.....	8:00am
Charlevoix.....	12:00m	Charlevoix.....	8:30am
Petoskey.....	2:00pm	Harbor Springs	12:30pm
Harbor Springs	2:30pm	Petoskey.....	1:30pm
Cross Village..	5:00pm	Charlevoix	3:30pm
Mackinaw 3rd	9:00pm	Northport	6:30pm
Arriving at		Arriving at
St. Ignace.....	10:00pm	Traverse City..	8:30pm

T. S. FAXTON,

CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.		GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City..	7:00am	Harbor Springs	6:00am
Old Mission....	8:30am	Petoskey.....	8:00am
Elk Rapids.....	10:00am	Charlevoix.....	8:30am
Charlevoix (re-turning).....	2:00pm	East Jordan (re-turning).....	10:00am
Petoskey.....	4:30pm	Norwood.....	12:00m
Arriving at		Torch Lake.....	2:00pm
Harbor Springs	7:00pm	Elk Rapids.....	3:00pm
		Old Mission....	3:30pm
		Arriving at
		Traverse City..	6:00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R. also on Monday mornings between the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv..		7 40am	7 15pm
Richmond.....	2 37pm	10 32	9 52
Winchester.....	3 31	11 37	11 09
Ridgeville.....	4 11	11 57	11 51
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 42	2 25pm	1 57am
Fort Wayne, lv.		2 47	2 50	8 07am
Kendallville....		3 55	3 52	9 17
Sturgis.....		5 13	5 14	10 35
Vicksburg.....		6 11	6 11	11 48
Kalamazoo, ar.		6 52	6 52	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 02	7 12	1 52
G'd Rapids, ar.		9 07	9 22	3 57
G'd Rapids, lv	1 45am		8 50	4 45
Ind'l & M. rcs	7 30		10 05	5 05
Howard City...	8 47		1 39	6 27
Big Rapids....	9 43		12 29pm	7 22
Reed City.....	10 17		1 12	8 18
Cadillac, ar....	11 25		2 21	9 30
Cadillac, lv....			2 30	9 50
Traverse City,ar			4 55
Kalkaska, lv....			4 17	12 05am
Grayling.....			4 48	12 55
Bay Shore.....			5 01	1 20
Petoskey, ar....			5 40	2 14
Harbor Springs.			7 15	3 45
Mackinaw City.			8 00	6 00
St. Ignace.....			10 00	8 50
Marquette.....			7 10pm	5 50am
Negaunee, ar....			9 12	7 48

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv....			5 15pm	7 30am
Marquette.....			2 00	8 30
St. Ignace.....			5 45pm	6 15pm
Mackinaw City.			6 10	9 15
Harbor Springs.			7 00	4 20
Petoskey, lv....			7 38	5 13
Bayne Falls.....			8 15	12 27am
Maneelona.....			8 37	2 31
Kalkaska.....			9 51	2 58
Traverse City, lv			7 45am
Cadillac, ar....			10 45	5 00
Cadillac, lv....		3 30pm	11 45	5 50
Reed City.....		4 39	1 12pm	7 16
Big Rapids.....		5 12	1 47	7 46
Howard City....		6 06	2 36	8 47
Ind'l & M. rcs.		7 25	3 48	10 05
G'd Rapids, ar.		7 40	4 05	10 25
G'd Rapids, lv.	6 25am		4 32	12 35pm
Kalamazoo, ar.	8 32		6 30	2 21
Kalamazoo, lv.	6 37		6 52	2 29
Vicksburg.....	8 05		7 22	3 00
Sturgis.....	10 01		8 16	4 12
Kendallville....	11 16		9 35	5 31
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 32pm		10 52	6 42
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 52	5 37am	12 02am
Ridgeville.....	2 09	7 56	2 33
Winchester.....	3 28	9 15	3 55
Richmond, ar....	4 27	10 12	4 07
Cincinnati, ar....	7 00pm	12 50pm	7 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Ass't G. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

J. MILO EATON

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FA

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Compani

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 18

IMMENSE CUT IN PRIC

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings

Boots and Sho

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at a as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or member, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

G. W. JEFFERIES,

Dealer in

Fresh and Cured Meat

Fresh and Salt Fish,

AND VEGETABLES.

Fat Stock and Farm Produce Wanted.

West side Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

WM. J. STEVENS

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Sh

BLACKSMITHING, E

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to manufacture new work a specialty. All material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MA hand and for sale.

PIMPLES

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a TABLE SOAP that will remove PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving clear and beautiful; also instructions ing a luxuriant growth of hair on a smooth face. Address, inclosing a BEN. VANDER & CO., 12 Barclay

ERRORS OF YOU

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE the effects of youthful indiscretion, sake of suffering humanity, send free ned R. the recipe and directions for simple remedy by which he was cu ers wishing to prove, by the utmost dence can do so by addressing in dence. JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar for the working class. sents for postage, to you, in the way of making money few days than you ever thought pos business. Capital not required. you. You can work all the time or only. The work is universally suc serves, young and old. You can make 50 cents to $5 every evening. The work may test the business, we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of alluded offer. Send who can write Full particulars, directions, and Hines will be made by those who engage at once. If you want work, you should address at once. Don't delay. Start now. Address & Co., Portland, Maine.

Gold

HALL'S Catarrh Cu

Is Recommended by Physi

$100 REWARD FOR

We manufacture and sell it with a guarantee that it will cure Chass, and we will forfeit the It is taken internally, acting the blood. If you have Catarrh distressing disease, ask your druggist ACCEPT NO IMITATION as some has not got it, send to us and it will immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix

$66 a week at home. $5 to $20 per day absolutely sure. No risk. Capital required. Reader, if you want business of person of either sex, young or old, ing, write for particulars to H. & Co., Portland, Maine.

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

Read before the Charlevoix Liberal Club, at the opera house, Feb. 18, 1884.

PROLOGUE.

An old Persian tale and told before
A snowy sail was seen along our shore.
Shipmasters of the times are therein seen
Like our own, but quite as good I ween.
Man's the same, in joy and sorrow too,
The soul as pure and noble bearing true
As Persian climes as ours. Their stars at night
Look down as mild and shed a mellow light.

They lived and loved and hated, too, the same,
They framed the fires which kindled into flame;
Their stately halls they built, where music rare
Floated around on spirit-wings of air;
Of flowery wreaths they wove, and smiled as we,
Those ancient Persians 'yond the silver sea;
They danced in halls of mirth as we to-day,
And passed their leisure hours in feasts and play.

Now we sing. From Persian annals old,
Full of thought, and precious now as gold.
In such we take our epic song to-night
Rooted if our harp be tuned aright.
The thoughts therein we weave in measured song,
We hope to hear its future notes prolonged—
If we have erred, the error is our own.
But we expect to reap that we have sown.

When a youth sets floating on the wave
A birchen bark, like sailor true and brave,
He watches each and every plunge it makes O'er the crested waves its journey takes;
So we this poem, trusting to the breeze
Which wafts it onward o'er the crystal seas.
Our little bark! A question one of time
Can all things faded in greater light sublime.

A woman moved is like a fountain troubled;
Muddy, ill seeming, thick, bereft of beauty;
While it is so, none so dry or thirsty will Come to sip or touch one drop of it. Thy Friend is thy lord, thy life, thy keeper, thy Light thy sovereign: One that cares for thee,
Tender thy maintenance; commits his body to Painful labor both by sea and land, to watch
Nights in storms, the day in cold, whilst Thou liest warm at home, secure and safe, and Owes no other tribute at thy hands, but love, Looks, and true obedience."—Taming of the Shrew. Act V. Scene II.

CANTO FIRST.

Hadassah, the queen, a story is told,
Full of beautiful gems—of pearls, and of gold;
When Persia's proud king in climes of the east
Made in fair Shu-shan his palace a feast.
This great Persian king was lord at that time
Over millions who dwelt in Iran's bright clime;
Where the sun in his splendor rolls through the sky
On bright car of fire dazling all human eye.

From realms which stretch out to India's strand
To Ethiop's possessions—that great shadow land;
His sceptre extended—his sceptre of gold
O'er the land of the east in the years which are told.
He loved the red wine as it flashed in the bowl,
And woke the bright visions which dwelt in his soul.
And Vashti he loved; the queen of his heart,
And oft drew her to him from others apart.

Fair queen of the east, thy glory's no more!
For she who will be now waits at thy door.
Thy garments of purple now trail in the dust,
For thy king is enraged and his anger is just.
Thy pride is forever the scorn of the world,
And down to the earth thy glory is hurled;
Repent thee, O queen! and love him once more
As in days which have fled—the bright days of yore.

But the pride of the queen is greater than ever
And her will is like diamond which nothing can sever.
His mandate awakens no love in her soul,
She sees not that end, she brooks not control.
She moves not a step, but seems like a queen
Who rules all alone in splendor serene.
Repent thee, O queen of the beautiful east;
Repent and obey thy lord of the feast.

Now holds he a feast in his palace so fair,
Whilst the perfume of flowers fills all the air;
Where his princes and nobles together have met,—
No thought of the past,—no cause for regret.
And here in his palace sits Persia's great king,
Surrounded by all that earth's treasures can bring.

Its pillars of jasper reach up to the sky,
And are lost to the gaze of the wondering eye.

And here he displayed his riches, they say,
In palace of Shu-shan on festal day.
His power unrivalled by any we know
Of mortals who plod in this valley below.
Unwearied they feast, they drink of the bowl
Where the serpent lies hid, watching out for the soul:
Whilst the sun rolls along the blue of the sky,
And stars rise and set in circles on high.

Do they weary? It has never been said
Of the guests at this feast—no aching head!
All is life, all is joy, the music so free
Rolling out like silvery waves of the sea.

But a shadow now falls on Shu-Shan's rich feast,
A shadow which clouds all the clime of the east.
And the love which glowed in beauty 'till now,
Turns, quickly to hate, which purples the brow.

And Vashti, the queen, makes a brilliant repast
For her maidens, be sure; that feast was her last!
Here too the wine passed in goblets of gold,
At queen Vashti's feast in Shu Shan of old.
And on the seventh day when Iran's great king
Saw visions of glory dance round in a ring—
He commanded to bring Vashti, his queen,
In midst of his court that she might be seen.

That all might behold her beauty that day,
As the grand crowning act of his doings, they say;
But the queen now declines to attend on her lord;
No reason she gives—nought save her rash word.
Then the face of the king grew purple with wrath,
And lonthsome as toad that hops in our path
The monarch then swore (if not out of place),
And cursed all the daughters of Eve's fairest race.

And then he advised with wise ones aloud
Of the best course to take wich Vashti, the proud.
And his courtiers replied in language so bold,
'Twould startle a modern free thinker, we're told.
"She has done a great wrong to king and to all
Who assemble to-day in Shu-Shan's bright hall.
Said Memucan the wise, over the land
'Twill spread in dismay and like fire will expand."

"Contempt and vile wrath will quickly arise
And reach from the earth to the blue pillar'd skies,
No one will be safe! And women will rule,
And we like great boobies be sent back to school;
To learn a new lesson, to learn to obey
Like children their mothers, on from this day."
Thus spoke the wise Memucan, wisest of all
Who feasted that day in Shu-Shan's gay hall.

And ended he not; still further he spoke,
When all of the rage of this Persian awoke.
"Let an order be written and sent far away
Where the Persian and Mede delight to obey;
And let it be written at once" said the wise,
"And sent in post-haste like light from the skies;
That Vashti the queen come no more 'fore the king
And then those husbands in Iran will sing."

Then a smile spread out on the king's purple face,
As Memucan the wise foretold the disgrace
Of obstinate wives, unheard of till then.
"Yes!" he continued "obedience to men!"
Still speaking, Memucan: "let it be told
To the Persian and Mede in letters of gold;
That Vashti no longer her honors possess,
But another the king shall in splendor caress."

Then the mandate went forth all over the land,
From east to the west, the king's dread command!
In the car of the Mede, and the Persian it went
On the wings of the wind, twas hurriedly sent.
The king, when his rage toward Vashti had run,
Remembered her pride and what she had done;
And the fatal decree which blasted her fame,
And left her all lone—dishonored her name.

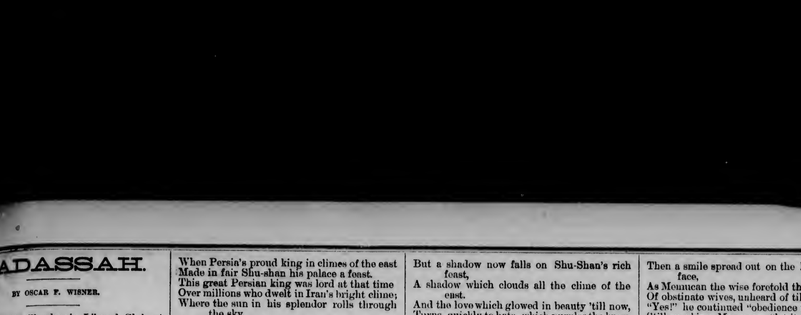
Then his princes cried out, "let another be brought,
And all the fair virgins of Iran be sought."
And soon from afar, all hastily came,
These daughters of beauty; his lust to inflame.
And she who is fairest, shall evermore grace
The palace of Shu-Shan, and Vashti's high place.
By the side of the king, his glory to share,
Inhaling sweet incense which floats on the air.

Then the face of the king grew brighter that day,
And joy drove the shadows of anger away.
He smiled at the thought of another fair dame,
Whose pride the monarch of Iran could tame.
Whilst Mordecai seemed by providence sent
To work out his plans, and make Iran repent.
And better the state of the Jews in his reign,
And spread the great truth o'er Persia's vast plain.

Lo! yonder the virgins like beautiful flowers,
Now gathered from all of Iran's bright bowers.
At the palace of Shu-Shan now are they seen,
These virgins so modest, one the future loved queen
Of Persia's domains, outstretching so wide,
Like the blue mirrored seas measureless tide.
So fair were these youths—so lovely and bright
Like glimmering stars of Persia's clear night.

Or fairer than roses with fragrant perfume,
Or the valley's white lily, the fairest in bloom
With sparkling black eyes and sweet scented breath;
Like dew drops they seemed on some barren heath.
No dew drop or flower with these can compare,
Their dark-gold colored curls floating out on the air.
As they fluttered in halls of Shu-Shan that day,
So fairy-like seemed they in gilded array.

To be continued.



Birdseye View of Charlevoix, Mich., Showing Harbor and Summer Resorts.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery,

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Barbour-ness's new

Opera Block

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 12, 1884.

RICH MEN'S WOES.

How Those Who Have Plenty to Give Are Bothered by Those Who Have Plenty to Get.

Before Jay Gould started south on his yachting trip he told a friend that if he gave away a dime for every dollar that was asked of him by beggars he would not have a cent left within two years. So it is with Vanderbilt, who, though in possession of an income of 6 per cent. upon a fortune of $203,000,000, is constantly besieged by begging letter-writers. Nine-tenths of his mail is made up of these missives. To the fugitive criminal every bush is an officer; so to the Crœsus of New York every new caller is a beggar. Gould and Vanderbilt, being immensely rich, are, therefore, big targets for the impecunious. But there is another man who, while not quite so rich, is notoriously free with his gifts, and consequently receives more begging letters than any rich man in America. Reference is made to Mr. George W. Childs, of the Philadelphia Ledger. His income from the Ledger is said to be over $1,000 a day. It is a private mint that ranks next to the New York Herald, and he has other sources of income as well. Nearly all of this goes out in charity. Mr. Childs has no children save his newspaper boys, for whom he provides with lavish hand. He recently pensioned off his financial editor. Though worth $400,000, this gentleman was relieved from active work, but was continued on the salary roll just as if he had been an impecunious reporter.

A Record man met Mr. Childs yesterday morning at the corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets, just as the publisher had finished a five mile walk with Banker Drexel. These two friends are like Damon and Pythias. Mr. Childs walks out over the Schuylkill every morning to meet Mr. Drexel, and together they ramble down Chestnut street to their offices. The banker goes on to his counting-house, where he handles more capital than the thirty-three national banks of Philadelphia would have if they pooled all their dollars into one pot. Mr. Childs turns in at Sixth street to look over his morning mail and to dispose of his callers. There were five women and two clerical cut men waiting to see him on this particular morning. Six of the callers wanted money, and the lads who tend the door had sized them up, every one of them. These youngsters are trained up to a study of visitors, and they can scent a beggar at a distance of ten yards.

Mr. Childs' private secretary says that as many as two hundred begging letters are received in one day, and that the total of the applications for money made to the Ledger publisher by letter often averages $20,000 a day. One afternoon, while a friend waited outside to get an interview with him, a woman, a perfect stranger, went in to ask if Mr. Childs wouldn't pay off her debts, amounting to $3,000. Folks will come from a distance of five hundred miles to beg a small loan. Some want to be educated at his expense. Quite a number of young women have been sent to Europe through him to study music, but none of them have ever reached public distinction. Not a few of the beggars say they are ambitious, and want Mr. Childs to pay for courses of study that will enable them to enter the ministry or other profession.

A young lady in Indiana, who says she has heard much of Mr. Childs' generosity, writes an introduction of herself to him and adds:

"I come in the simplicity of a little child to ask you to please make me a present of a Scotch colly shepherd pup of the male sex. I reside in Indiana, and highly appreciate anything that comes from dear Pennsylvania, especially a present. I would be much obliged to you indeed for your kindness. Should you grant my petition I will name it after you. Very respectfully yours, ——, G. A."

Another applicant writes:

"I wish to ask a considerable favor. It is the loan of $100 to help me with my education. I am an orphan, and have no brothers nor sisters."

One weakness Mr. Childs has is a fondness for clocks. He has thirteen in his private office; some valuable for their historic associations, some because of their exquisite workmanship, and some because of the rare value of their cases—one, in particular, made of lapis lazuli, being worth its weight in gold. Altogether, in his three residences and at his private office, he has fifty clocks, worth $30,000. It is not strange, therefore, that he should get appeals from all over the world to buy old clocks. A few days since a woman called on him to induce him to buy a clock for $25,000. She did not know what he could do with it, but thought he ought to present it to the government.

A man in England wrote a note asking for money to send his three sons to school. Appeals for money to pay off the mortgage on the farm are a daily occurrence. Here is a specimen brick:

"Pocomoke, April 1, 1884—My Dear Mr. Childs: There is a mortgage of $3,000 on our farm. It is held by a cruel man who is oppressing us and threatens to sell our farm over our heads if we don't pay the interest. Won't you buy the mortgage? I know if you hold it you would not be hard on us. If you will do this I and my children will pray for you night and day. What greater consolation and satisfaction can you have than to know someone is always praying for you? Answer immediately. Respectfully yours, J. W. L."

If after two letters have been sent no answer has been received, the beggars will impudently write:

"I have written twice to you and have received no answer. What does this mean?"

Occasionally when Mr. Childs goes out of town for two or three days, he is greeted on his return by beggars, who say: "Why, I have called here three times thus far without seeing you."

Church fair committees and designing men stumble over each other in their processions to and from his office. Suppliants for his money chase to his summer retreated at Long Branch; they call at his country residence; they besiege his white marble palace in the city. Every rich man is pestered the same way, and all who are not pestered want to be.—Philadelphia Record.

Salt.

Salt is the only mineral substance required by man and the higher order of animals as an article of food. It is found in some form in nearly all parts of the world, and is generally obtained with but little trouble. It is found in a solid state in mines, and in a liquid state in the ocean, salt lakes, and springs. When liquid, it is necessary to evaporate the fresh water in order to get the salt. This is done in three ways; by the heat of the sun, by boiling, and by freezing the water. The water from the ocean in tropical countries is generally allowed to stand in shallow basins and evaporate by the heat of the sun. The water from lakes and springs is usually evaporated by boiling, or by artificial heat under shallow pans. In extremely cold countries the water is frozen; the ice formed is perfectly fresh, and the unfrozen water, beneath, a strong brine, which is evaporated by boiling.

Salt is also mined. One of the most famous salt mines is in Wrellezka, a small town in Austrian Gallicia. It has about 6,000 inhabitants, and they are nearly all employed in the mine. The town is entirely undermined by the excavations made by cutting out the blocks of salt. In this mine are four stories, one under another. In the second story is a salt lake 600 feet long and forty feet deep, across which visitors are rowed; they then go a story below, and the lake is over their heads. In one of the chambers the miners have hewn out a chapel from the solid salt, and have ornamented it with a pulpit, statue, obelisks, and columns from the same material. It is dedicated to St. Anthony. Sometimes, members of the royal family visit the mines, and on such occasions the miners illuminate the chapel with candles and torches, and the effect is exceedingly beautiful.

Spain, also, has a remarkable salt mine. A hill covering three-fourths of a square mile is composed of layers of salt, gypsum, and clay, about seven-eighths of it being pure salt. The salt of these mines is white, and hard, and consists of large, clear masses, which can be split into cubes eight inches square, and the city of Cardona, Spain, consists of large, clear masses, which can be split into cubes eight inches square, and the city of Cardona, Spain, is built entirely of salt. The salt is used in the manufacture of soda. It is also given to horses, cattle, and sheep, and they say it thrives well without it.—Journal of Education.

The Emperor William's Health.

In spite of the dreaded apparition of the White Lady, and notwithstanding all the evil forebodings entertained in the German capital at the Emperor's recent indisposition, the old monarch has once more regained his health, and with it his good humor. A vivacious French contemporary records that the Emperor recently gave a proof of his high spirit by saying to the sentinel at his door: "My boy, if you should see the White Lady, tell her to come back after fifteen years." He gives the following explanation of the octogenarian's disregard of the dreaded visitant. On hearing the news of the apparition which bodes death to one of the Hohenzollerns, the Emperor, in dismay, expressed a desire to hear the verdict of another authority. Dr. Lauer, the Emperor's body physician, agreed, and sent for a gypsy, who, with the light of the candle in her eyes, replied: "Sire, you will live to be 100 years old; your son, and Prince Royal, will not reign, but your grandson, Prince William, will be your immediate successor." The Emperor loves life more than he loves the crown prince; he adores his grandson, and the prospect of fifteen years more of life and of the succession to the throne by his favorite, have given him new strength and confidence much to the satisfaction of his loyal subjects, and especially to the ingenious body physician, who, if the story were true, would, no doubt, have instructed the gypsy beforehand what to say.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Sturgeon Don't Bite.

There were four or five of us on the long wharf running out into the gulf at Mississippi City, and we had been fishing away for half an hour without any luck when a big fat man, named Blake, from Ohio, suddenly called out:

"Say, boys, let's have a swim."

It was getting late, and quite too late, but Blake declared he'd have a swim by himself. He off with his clothes, backed down into the water, and for a quarter of an hour clung to a spile and splashed the water, not being able to swim a stroke. By and by he climbed out, but hardly had his feet touched the planks when one of the men sung out:

"By the great horned spoon, but see there!"

Ten feet away from the end of the wharf were two sharks at least seven feet long, and the water was so clear that every wink of their eyes could be seen.

"Yes, a couple of sturgeon," observed Blake as he waddled forward. "I saw 'em hanging round as I went down, but sturgeon don't bite!"

When he came to fully realize what an escape he had had he sat down on the head of a spile and blubbered like a boy who had stubbed his toe.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painting,

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Company

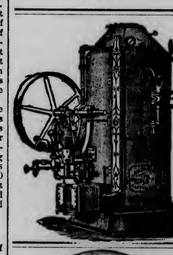
Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO. ADVANCE, MICH.



E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationary

Engines,

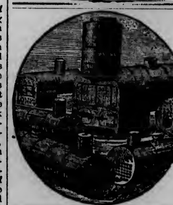
SAW MILLS, THRESHERS, MILL SUPPLIES.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.)

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALOGUE

West Bridge Street,

Grand Rapids, Michigan



JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

NEW GOODS.

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stock

Is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond With the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Stores

and

NEW GOODS

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements and Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors and Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin and Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICA

1884. ANNUAL.

PRICE ONE DOLLA

It contains something for everybody, to interest and instruct young and old. It is furnished by the Doctor, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Politician, the Merchant, the Banker, the School Boy who longs to by the time he becomes character and seats for

THE BIOGRAPHICAL AT IS A BOOK OF 70-0

Within its pages may be

200 PORTRAITS,

who have exercised and are still exercising influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication principally of EMINENT CANS, it contains the portraits and biographies of MOST PROMINENT EUROPEAN

Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of the most eminent Crowned and Coronet Rulers, Members of the Cabinet, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Editors, Musicians, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Financiers, Orators, Bishops, and Judges, Philanthropists, etc., in all the various walks of life,

INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION ARTHUR, MORTON, BLAINE, EVARTS, FLOWER, EDMUNDS, LINCOLN, McCLELLAN, SHERMAN, TILDEN, HENDRICKS, HANCOCK, PAYNE and RUSSELL.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Catholics and Protestants, whether they be Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Methodists, will find among its pages sketches of those in which they are concerned. In the BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL many familiar faces in the rooms of social leaders will be found among the number. The lives of the who have exercised an important influence in the world, will be found full of interesting and instructive reading, and the pictures that accompany them will show that beauty has not been overlooked, and that she is well able to fulfill it.

PROMINENT WOMEN

If you would become acquainted with the lives of the men and women whose names become familiar to every body, place your

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR by L. KLOPSCH & Co., Publishers, 92 White Street, New York.

$1 A YEAR. ONE DOLLAR.

Detroit Free Press

THE HOUSEHOLD

FOR—

Two Large Pages of News and Reading Matter, Choice Stories, Fashion Notes, Etc., Etc., In addition to the Regular Issue of the Daily Paper, Published Every Week.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

SPECIMEN COPIES FREE! Address FREE PRESS CO., Detroit, Mich.

$1 A YEAR. ONE DOLLAR.

The JOURNAL and FREE PRESS ODE for Two Dollars C Advance.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 49. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

is published every Thursday morning.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

BURKSHANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law. Office in Sattler Block, Charlevoix, Mich. A. BURKSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

GRIER & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

CROSBY & ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

EDWARD W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor. Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

C. A. JESSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

CHAS. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building; entrance on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich.

C. J. CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

REED & EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

HOPKIN, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

GUSTAF F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and U. S. Circuit Court's Commissioner.

JOHN N. GARRUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Exchange notes and mortgages bought and sold. Sight sold on all cities in Europe and United States. Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on real estate mortgages. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., in opera house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7. J. T. DINNIS, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. DINNIS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at town hall. R. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

DR. PUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

A. L. SMITH, teacher of Musical Composition, and Thorough Bass. Classes forming at all times. Inquire at Newman House.

LIVERY STABLE.

MILO EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class horses and carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

A. CARLSTEIN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. GRAVES, M. D. Office in Sloe Block, Charlevoix.

W. M. PEESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

ISAAC S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. R.—Harbor Post No. 119, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

O. C. T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 227, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

O. C. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. of P.—True Blues No. 127, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets Saturday on or before full moon. Hall over

VETERINARY SURGEON.

THOMAS BANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

FRANK DUBIA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, cistern building, pump repairing, well boring, cellar building, and similar work. 45

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week AND WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

F. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

HULBER HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a "stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Car Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 144 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Well, spring, barn. A good frame house, and two frame sheds and barns. About 55 acres cleared, balance good growth and maple timber. About 250 fruit trees beginning to bear. One-half mile from school and one mile from church. Three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down, balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

Fresh Oysters

Just Received.

300 pounds Candy and Nuts.

Two Barrels Fresh Butter.

Golden Rod Sauce Kraut.

Two Cases Fresh Oysters, 25 and 35 Cents.

AT L. L. CARR'S.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Blankets, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain many more. Store next door to Post Office.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best timepiece ever made. All goods sold for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

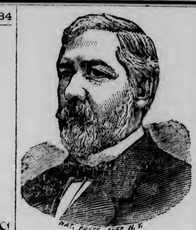
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IN 1 WHICH THIS REMEDY FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and get a pamphlet, or send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROUTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41



JAMES G. BLAINE.

James Gillespie Blaine, the nominee of the republican party for President of the United States, was born January 31, 1830, in Union township, Washington county, Pennsylvania. He comes from Scotch-Irish stock, his ancestors having been among the pioneers who a century and a half ago ascended the great limestone valley in which Carlisle is situated, and founded the village.

Blaine entered Washington college in 1843, being then thirteen years of age, and became at once prominent as a scholar among the two or three hundred other lads from all parts of the country, and because of his splendid physique he was also leader in all manly athletic sports. He was not a book-worm, or a burner of midnight oil, but he was a close student and possessed the happy faculty of assimilating knowledge from books and tutors for future use only and quickly than most of his fellows. In debating societies he held his own well, and was conspicuous by his ability to direct and control others. At the end of the usual four years' course at college he was graduated, in 1847, with honor, and went forth into practical life well fitted in acquirements and training to deal with its problems, and bearing as a crown of youthful honor the affection and esteem of all his associates.

In 1854 Mr. Blaine entered into partnership with Joseph Baker, a prominent lawyer of that town, and the two purchased the Kennebec Journal, of which Mr. Blaine at once became editor. The Journal was a weekly paper, one of the organs of the whig party, and exercised considerable political influence. In 1857 Mr. Blaine disposed of his interest in this paper, and became editor of The Portland Daily Advertiser. In the campaign of 1860 he returned temporarily to his old post on The Kennebec Journal on account of the illness of its editor. His career in journalism lasted only six years. In 1858, when he was in his twenty-ninth year, he was elected to the legislature. He served two years on the floor of the lower house and two years in the chair, where he displayed the qualities of parliamentary leadership and control that afterward won him renown in the national legislature at Washington.

In 1862 Mr. Blaine was elected to congress in the Kennebec district, and to this position he was successively elected, in each succeeding congress, until his promotion to the United States senate by the Governor of Maine, July 10, 1876, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of senator Morrill, who then became secretary of the treasury. He was subsequently elected for the unexpired term and for the ensuing term expiring in 1883. In his own house he is a man of culture and refinement, a genial host, a courteous gentleman. No man in public life is more fortunate in his domestic relations. He is the companion and confidant of his six children, and they fear him no more than they fear one of their own number. Mrs. Blaine is the model wife and mother, and more is due to her strong judgment, quick perception, and brave courage than the world will ever know.

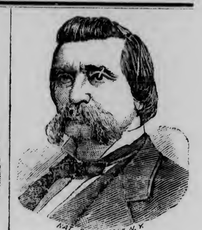
Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and keep up the system you will find Pratt's Celebrated Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co. 8:49

PIMPLES.

I will mail, Free of charge, to any sufferer from Pimples on face, a recipe that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful. I shall not require any one to buy a box or a single bottle of anything before sending for my recipe. Address, inclosing 2c. stamp, Mrs. VANDELF & Co., 1 Berclay St., N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers are requested to address their confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar st., New York.



JOHN A. LOGAN.

John Alexander Logan, the republican nominee for Vice-President, was born near Murphysboro, Jackson county, Ill., February 9, 1826. His father was a native of Ireland, and his mother of Tennessee.

His first public service was in the Mexican war. On returning home he began the study of law in the office of his uncle, lieutenant-governor Jenkins, of Illinois. He attended lectures at Louisville, and took his diploma in 1851. His legal ability and winning ways were recognized the next year by his election to the legislature, and the year following by an election as prosecuting attorney in the third judicial district of the state. He was three times re-elected to the legislature.

After the civil war, having declined president Johnson's offer of the mission to Mexico, general Logan returned to the civil service of his country as a congressman, being re elected to his old seat in 1866. He remained there until his election to the senate in 1871. Among the most conspicuous of his acts in these four years was a powerful speech on reconstruction, which was reprinted and widely disseminated. General Logan was also one of the managers of the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson. The republicans did not control the legislature of Illinois in 1877, and Judge Davis, of the United States supreme court, was elected as an independent to succeed Mr. Logan in the senate. But two years later general Logan was chosen to succeed Richard J. Oglesby, who is this year the republican candidate for governor. Mr. Logan's term expires next March. He has taken an active part in the debates of the senate. At the present time he stands at the head of the senate committee on military affairs, and second on the judiciary committee. He is an earnest advocate of the pensions of his party, and is a strong and ready speaker.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Cramer.

$66 a week at home. $5 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 45:1

Got To Stand It!

Mr. A. bought his wife one bottle of Parmelee's Blood Purifier, and now he thinks he has got himself into business, for she derives so much benefit from it that she must try another bottle or two and he perminently cured. There is no purifier known so efficient in its workings as this. Only $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

Toothache.

Did your ever have a racking, jumping sensation, both day and night, that kept the whole family in an uproar until o'clock in the morning? Many have it, but all have not heard of the wonderful cures made by Hamilton's Toothache Drops which are warranted to cure in one minute. Safe as effective. Price only 25c. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

A Happy Family

Circles the greatest blessings our civilization has such a home is not possible when disease and death broods on the threshold. One of the most important matters to be attended to, is that the liver and kidneys are in a healthy condition. Many trouble arises from derangement of the organs than from any other cause, often resulting in diabetes, Bright's disease, and other direful ailments that are generally considered incurable. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure will prevent and cure all these diseases with great certainty. Large bottles $1. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co.

Grand Rapids Democrat

DAILY AND WEEKLY

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

Daily Democrat. By mail, $6.00 per year, in advance, postage paid.

Weekly Democrat. 44 to 52 col., 75 cents per six months, 10 cents for three months, in advance. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT

Grand Rapids, Mich.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

GEN. JAMES WATSON WEBB, the aged American journalist, died at his home in New York....The schooner Fanny Fern was run down off Gloucester, Mass., by an outward-bound coal-carrying steamer, and four of the crew were drowned....Over two hundred depositors of the Penn Bank, of Pittsburgh, have brought suit against the Directors of that defunct institution.

Courtney, the oarsman, failed to meet Ross for the match at Oak Point, N. Y.

NOAH HAYNES SWAINE, ex-Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, died in New York City last week, aged 80 years.

The Sprague mansion at Providence has been purchased for $41,000 by Fall River parties, who will reform it into a Catholic school or convent....Tilden G. Abbott, who wrecked a Waterbury, Mass., bank, was sentenced to eight years in the Massachusetts State Prison.

THE explosion of a barrel of beer in a brewery at Newburgh, N. Y., killed James Quinlan and made a maniac of his wife....Another bank defaulter has been convicted and sentenced. This time it is William S. Morgan, the defalcating agent of the banking firm of Putnam & Eckler of Hartford, who has been sent to the Connecticut State Prison for three years.

THE WEST.

AT Florence, Wis., shots were exchanged in the street between Sheriff Readman and District Attorney McIntosh, the former being twice wounded....A negro named Robeson and a white girl of the name of Christmas crossed the river at St. Louis and were married in Illinois....Henry Strong, President of the now defunct Strongs' bank at Green Bay, Wis., has written to some friends in that city from Montreal, saying that he lost the bank's money in speculations in wheat, pork and stocks. He borrowed the money from the bank on various securities and on the notes of his brother. No safety person, he says, was concerned with him in the steal.

AGENT MCGILLICUDDY has issued notice that the Indian sun dance will no longer be permitted on the Pine Ridge Agency. The torturing "manoeuvres" has for years been growing into disfavor with the Indians themselves....Mrs. Ellen Long pleaded guilty at Bruno, Wis., of the murder of the boy Harry Whittemore, and was sentenced to life imprisonment....At Paris, Ill., Jack Darr, who is found dead with a knife and a bottle containing strychnine in his hand and in dying agony that he had died by choice.

CAPITALISTS on the Pacific coast are endeavoring to form a company to construct a railway to the extremity of Alaska, where ores could be found forty-five miles across Behring Straits in the Russian Runway....A hoard of $1,000 is offered by the people of Hastings Township, Kansas, for the conviction of a miscreant who has killed four sheepherd dogs and maimed a fifth, he being said to be belonging to dance halls, besides throwing strychnine into his well.

Utah, $140,104 in gold, $5,020,000 in silver. The remainder was produced principally in Alaska, Oregon, Georgia, and North Carolina. This is a reduction of $2,500,000 in gold and $600,000 in silver from the yield of 1882.

THE minority report of the Senate Committee on the Danville riots charges that the investigation was not conducted with fairness, and that the results were not set forth with impartiality. Sarcastic allusions are made to the killing of negroes in Ohio in order that their carcasses could be sold to medical colleges....President Arthur sent to the Senate a message recommending an appropriation of $588,000 for Government exhibits at the New Orleans Exposition.

ON the recommendation of the Judge Advocate General of the Army, the President has decided to order a court-martial for the trial of Gen. Swaim for alleged irregular financial transactions....The June crop reports received at the Agricultural Department show an increase of 4 per cent. in the area under cotton, and a general average of 87, as against 86 at this period last year. There is an increase of 9 per cent. in the area under spring wheat, and the condition is placed at 101. The winter wheat crop continues to show a high average, as well as oats and barley.

CAPT. VON ESENDECKER, the German Minister, has presented his letter of recall to the President.

POLITICAL.

THE Nevada Democratic State Convention, which met in Reno, passed resolutions favoring the nomination of M. Tilden and Hendricks, the removal of all restrictions on silver coinage, the absolute exclusion of the Chinese from the United States, and the enactment of laws preventing the importation of hinds by aliens. In the California Democratic State Convention, a proposition by John H. Wise to send delegates to Chicago for the old ticket was followed by declaiming opposite for several minutes.

HON. SAMUEL J. TILDEN has addressed a letter to Daniel J. Manning, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of New York, formally declining a nomination for the Presidency. He writes: "I ought not to allow the use of my name. I have not the physical strength to carry through the duties and responsibilities of advancing years and declining strength. I feel an assurance of my ability to accomplish these hopes [of reform], but I cannot now assume the labors of an administration or of a canvass....I have but to submit to the will of God in choosing my public acts hereafter closed."

THE Democratic State Committee of Michigan met at Jackson and adopted resolutions favoring Tilden and Hendricks. A resolution favoring tariff for revenue was lost....Gen. Claiborne, in calling the Democratic State Convention of Mississippi to order at Fort Worth, said: "Tariff for revenue only is the Democratic slogan; men are only to be Democratic agents to the European powers on the Egyptian question unless by a previously fixed agreement to the position which England will take. The Kelmaine-Hesse affair has been settled satisfactorily, and the marriage solemnized.

A Vassal of Hesse has been organized in the Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory, and has the Hessian coat of arms for its seal....During recruiting, recently the bandits were attacked by the militia of the Territory, and three of them were killed, one wounded, including five women, were captured. Then, having a guard to prevent their escaping, comes the secondary question of how to do it.

Most of the transient fashions for colored or decorated paper are unsafe. Eccentricity is unwise. It is a person could succeed to give life to the pursuit of fashion, she might succeed in following its caprices unessentially; but, as no one has yet succeeded, it is best to do than to catch every whim of a moment, and pursue it just far enough, and not too far. the safest stationery is good, white paper, with envelopes to match—stationery thick enough not to reveal its secrets to a careless reading—and of that good style which is insured by plainness. Simplicity is the one thing that cannot be overdone.

Then, as to ink—to use colored black ink almost amounts to a social duty. She has not felt that he would have foregone a letter rather than receive over pale pages in some blind handwriting, no matter how eloquent those pages might be?

And speaking of eloquence—the temptation to be eloquent is another to be resisted. Eloquence, in Prince, the champion bicyclist, in a ten-mile race at Philadelphia. Time 30:34....A Committee of the Cincinnati Bar Association presented to the District Court an affirmation designed to secure the disbarment of Chief Counsel, whose trial for bribing a juror in a murder case was then in progress.

FORTY-FIVE of the crew of the sailing brig Confidents, which is ice-locked in Notre Dame Bay, North in Newfoundland, were rescued, but the ice-flow forced the rescuing steamer to retire, and twenty-nine souls were left to share on the wreck, on which there is neither fuel nor provisions.

At Hyde ville, Ontario, Joseph Tompsett and George Lauder were executed for the murder of Peter Lozier.

FOREIGN.

A CABLEGRAM from Newry, Ireland, states that a conflict between the Orangemen and Nationalists was precipitated by stone-throwing by the latter. Several shots were fired while the troops and police were actively assisting to suppress disorder....The case for the grand prize of Paris, 100,000 francs, was won by the Duke of Castries's bloom colt, Little Duke.

THE Chinese Ambassadorship to France has been decided upon and the treaty of peace with France is condemned by the Celestials, who are preparing to resist further Gallic encroachments....British troops surrounded the jail in Bloomfield, Ireland, where the Irish dynamiters—Daly, Egan, and McDonnell—are confined.

BOGAMILEF, the notorious Russian Nihilistic assassin, has been arrested in Berlin, and will be surrendered to the Russian authorities....The Sultan refuses to appoint a delegate to the conference of the European powers on the Egyptian question unless he is previously fully informed as to the position which England will take....The Kelmaine-Hesse affair has been settled satisfactorily, and the marriage solemnized.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

THE Texas Democratic State Convention selected as delegates at large to Chicago, Gov. Hubbard, D. C. Gidding, Thomas J. Brown, and John P. Smith. Before the nomination of Mr. Tilden was made known the delegates were instructed for the old ticket; but subsequently a resolution was passed allowing the representatives of the State in the national convention to act on their judgment.

F. E. ALBRIGHT, of Murphysboro, has been nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the Twentieth Illinois District....The California delegates to the Democratic convention, on learning of Tilden's declination, have declared unanimously for Thurman.

AT Key West, Fla., Frederico Gil Marrero, a Cuban, was arrested from a steamer from New York as being a dynamiter, and four, detonating caps, and books of instruction for the manufacture of explosives were found among his effects. He was held in $2,000. It is thought the Cuban dynamiters have been bringing the compound parts of explosives to Key West, and then secretly manufacturing them.

EX-CONGRESSMAN HIESTER CLYMER, of Pennsylvania, at one time a prominent Democratic leader in the Keystone State, died at Reading, of paralysis, aged 57....The employes of all the principal boat and shoe factories in Philadelphia are on a strike against a reduction of wages....A fire in the building Nos. 152 to 158 Congress street, Boston, occupied by agents for two rubber companies, caused a loss of $400,000. Sixteen firemen were injured by an explosion in the third story.

JUSTIN H. MCCARTHY, son of the well-known Irish author and journalist, and himself a young man of considerable literary reputation, has been elected member of Parliament for Athlone, Ireland, in the Parnellite interest. The late member, Sir John J. Ennis, was a Liberal....The Freeh Minister of the Interior has issued a decree forbidding bull fights....News has reached London that a water-spout occurred in Akaling, Russian Turkestan. The river was inundated, and fourteen hours were dead-lived, and forty persons drowned.

CARDINAL BENHAM, a prominent lawyer of San Francisco, has been appointed by the Governor of California a commissioner to confer with commissioners from other States, who were held to consider the form of 3,250 in-lists to be presented to Congress asking for an amendment to the Constitution authorizing the election of Senators by the people instead of by the Legislatures. Benham will be selected as a colonial aide-de-camp on the staff of Gen. Beauregard at the battle of Shiloh.

THE State Bank of West Virginia, at Charleston, W. Va., has suspended payments. The liabilities are placed at $125,000, and the nominal assets are $145,000. The depositors are mostly poor people. The suspension was precipitated by a run, in a mill rally at New Albany, Miss., between the Democratic Club and the Greenback Labor Club, in which each fired at the other, the latter were mortally wounded....A band of thieves has been organized in the Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory, and has the Hessian coat of arms for its seal....During recruiting, recently the bandits were attacked by the militia of the Territory, and three of them were killed, one wounded, including five women, were captured. Then, having a guard to prevent their escaping, comes the secondary question of how to do it.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

What Is Being Done by the National Legislature.

MR. CULLEROTSON'S bill limiting the jurisdiction of the United States Circuit Courts and regulating the removal of cases to the Federal Courts passed the House on June 7. The bill provides that the minimum jurisdiction of the Circuit Court shall be $2,000 instead of $500, and makes penalties of corporations doing business in a State outside of that State for all judicial purposes. The right of removal of cases to the Federal Courts is limited to defendants. The House has passed a bill forfeiting the unearned land grant of the Atlantic and Pacific Road. Adverse reports were made on the bill to repeal the civil-service act. The House disagreed to the Senate bill for the outlawing of Brigham H. Roberts, Mormon elder, reserving the agricultural public lands for public settlers. Mr. Holman offered an amendment excluding the scope of Mr. Nelson's resolutions. During the debate on this measure the fact developed that there was no appropriation, and an adjournment was carried. The Senate was not in session.

In the Senate, June 9, Mr. Dumb reported favorably a bill to give California 5 per cent. of the proceeds of public land sales in that State. Mr. Beck offered a resolution directing the Judiciary Committee to make a report on a bill providing for the general removal of political disabilities. The Mexican Pension bill was taken up, and several amendments were tacked. Further action on the measure was deferred. In the House, Mr. Cox introduced a bill to repeal all internal-revenue taxes except those on tobacco, spirits, and fermented liquors, and providing for the payment of the principal and interest of the public debt. The Senate bill to authorize the construction of bridges across the Detroit River, and the joint Senate and House amendment on the Mexican Pension bill, were taken up and passed. The Senate bill to regulate

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Among Our Patrons.

The fine farms which comprise the extensive openings around Mr. Hilton's, as noted last week, are Mr. McGeogh, with 100 acres improvment, Chas. Wells, with 60 acres, Nick Shores, Oland Weed, John Robinson, John Chepoton, Bob Trimble, and Sim Baker. Mr. Wells has 12 head of cattle, and a small flock of Cotswold sheep, all doing splendid. All these farms having been well cultivated, are quite free from stumpe, have more or less board fences, and remind one very much of the older portion of northern Michigan.

From Hilton's to Charlevoix we did not stop to interview the various farms, but took a few notes while passing.

James and Albert O'Brian have each a comfortable new farm with every appearance of successful management.

Alfred Van Deusen has recently built a new barn, and is this spring grading and fitting up the front yard of his residence. When finally finished and sodded, he will have as pleasant a place as one could ask.

The estate of Avery VanDeusen, lately deceased, is building a new barn 40x84 feet with a wing for a horse shed 30x40 feet.

Two years ago Geo. O'Brian came here and settled on 60 acres of wilderness, with a pair of well callonsed hands and an axe for a stock in trade. To-day he has a comfortable house and barn, crops growing, and everything apparently as prosperous as one could ask.

The same energy for two years will make him one of the leading farmers in this county. Mr. W. McGeogh was not at home, and it being nearly dark, the mill was not running. It will be made the subject of a future article.

Arthur Hamlin is building a small barn.

L. D. Porter, who recently purchased R. A. Miller's farm, is engaging in the dairy business on a small scale. We have tried some of the butter and know it to be good.

Democratic County Convention.

The democratic county convention met at Bartholomew's opera house last Thursday, June 12. The meeting was called to order by J. Mills Eaton, and H. A. Jersey was made chairman.

Mr. Jersey addressed the convention a few minutes, outlining the work of the democracy in the past, and what he believed to be necessary to success in the future.

Chas. J. Strang was elected secretary.

Mr. Eaton outlined the work necessary to be at that meeting, the first business being to elect delegates to the state convention to be held in Detroit, June 26th.

The townships were represented as follows:

Charlevoix—Amos Fox, J. Mills Eaton, Charles Scully, O. B. Weed, L. D. Bartholomew, A. R. Colgrove, J. Weyburn, Lewis Reynolds, Geo. Capoin, Geo. W. Miller.

Evangeline—H. A. Jersey, W. J. Lewis, A. E. Martin, D. Halliday, Michael Heagney, James Kennedy, B. F. Ingalls.

Eveline—A. R. Noyes.

Hayes—F. J. Smith, R. H. Bennett.

Marion—William Miller.

Melrose—N. N. Card, J. H. Lyman.

Norwood—Edwin Cook, James O'Brian, Alfred Van Deusen, Hilbert Mobbs.

Other townships in the county were not represented.

After some discussion as to the basis of representation, Mr. Card presented the name of J. Mills Eaton as a delegate, Mr. Eaton gave reasons for not wishing to go, and asked the convention to substitute the name of Chas. J. Strang in place of his, which was done.

Mr. B. F. Ingalls presented the name of H. A. Jersey as the second delegate, which was carried unanimously.

The question of instructing delegates was discussed, sufficient to bring out the prevailing sentiment, but no action taken.

The following county committee was then named:

Bear Lake—E. C. Plettenpiesz; Boyne Valley—O. H. Marsh; Chandler—Alfred Hendrey; Charlevoix—J. Mills Eaton; Evangeline—A. E. Martin; Eveline—A. R. Noyes; Hayes—F. J. Smith; Hudson—Frank Alger; Marion—William Miller; Melrose—N. N. Card; Norwood—O. B. Hilton; Speed—E. Fogelsonger; South Arm—Dan. Jerome; Springvale and Wilson and being represented here, the committee were authorized to appoint members from these townships after a meeting of the electors for an active democratic work up to work, and continue until after election.

A local executive committee to act with the member from Charlevoix township was named, including of A. J. McLeod, L. D. Bartholomew, and Chas. J. Strang. This committee was also instructed to act as county committee.

After some discussion concerning the desirability of harmony in work, this fact, the convention adjourned.

Calomel is the seed of consumption, and is sold in this town in very numerous cases. R. T. Crandall is the only druggist in town who does not handle it to order.

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

The Sanitary Engineer is of opinion that there is no method of removing snow from city streets that is worth talking about except by carting it away bodily. The use of salt is not adapted to the removal of considerable quantities of snow. If so applied and in sufficient volume it would be found much more costly than carting. Moreover, briny slush, the inevitable result of the application of salt, is a nuisance in itself, and not easily gotten rid of when in large quantities. It always makes a freezing mixture, producing a temperature of about zero Fahrenheit, even in thawy weather, and injuriously affecting the feet of both men and animals which are brought in contact with it.

More Definite.

"Didn't you say Jimson was a first-class salesman and a gentleman?" asked the boss, of a merchant traveler, relative to a new man who had proved quite the contrary.

"No, sir, I did not," was the emphatic reply.

"Well, I do not wish to impugn your veracity, but I am willing to make an affidavit to the effect that you told me you could say he was an excellent man in every respect."

"That's what I did say, sir."

"Why did you deny it, then?"

"I didn't deny it."

"I say you did."

"I beg your pardon; I said I could say that he was a first-class salesman and a gentleman, but I didn't say so, nor would I, unless I wanted to tell a lie, and sir, a man in my profession never lies; that is, hardly ever."

"Oh—ah—indeed?" stammered the boss, "I should have been more particular, and, sir, you should have been more definite."—Merchant Traveler.

Murders and Executions.

In an editorial in the April Century, entitled "Mob or Magistracy," the following comparison is made between murder and the application of justice:

"Over against the fifteen hundred murders of the last year, we have the report of barely ninety-three legal executions. Many of these must have been cases in which the crime had been committed in 1883, while many of the criminals of 1883 had not been brought to trial. It is not, however, far from the truth to say that, while thirteen or fourteen murderers are committed in this country every year, fewer than a hundred of the murderers suffer the extreme penalty of the law. When the willful slayer knows that he has thirteen chances out of fourteen of escaping the till penalty of the law, the deterrent influence of punishment cannot be said to be very powerful.

"The small number of murderers hanged by the sheriffs, and the greater number hanged by the mobs, should be evidence enough that the administration of our criminal courts in many quarters is fatally defective, and needs reforming. The only classes of persons interested in maintaining the present state of things are the criminals and the criminal lawyers; and it is not for their exclusive benefit that society is organized. The contrast in this matter between our own methods of English and Continental courts in dealing with great criminals, and the lawless, feeble, and abortive methods of our own, should sting our national pride to some energetic measures of reform. The people must reform themselves to demand a more vigorous enforcement of the laws, and they must see to it that judges and prosecuting attorneys are chosen who have the ability and the will to bring evil-doers to justice. The judges on the bench may well inquire whether the protection of the criminal has not assumed disproportionate importance in our criminal procedure. If, in our fear lest an innocent man may suffer, the law itself, which is the only protection of innocent men, becomes utterly paralyzed, then there is a call for a revision of our methods and our maxims, and the infusion of a new spirit into our laws. Every judge who will brush aside the hair-splitting devices of the lawyers, and institute criminal trials shall be conducted with rigor and directness of purpose, will deserve, and will be likely to win, the approval of his fellow-citizens."

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and will fresh and pure drugs. Call and see. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new

Opera Block

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL.

1884. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. 124 pages interest and instruct young and old. It is especially serviceable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic, and to the School Boy who longs for the foundation of an honest character and seeks for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL.

IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN

who have excelled and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication, treating principally of EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and lives of the most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the Time.

Its portraits include the leaders with the features and the lives of progressive Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Cabinets, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Diplomats, Jurists, Authors, Editors, Historians, Philosophers, Poets, Inventors, Financiers, Professional Men, Merchants, Bankers, Railroad Managers, Capitalists, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, BAYARD, BUTLER, CLEVELAND, EDMUNDS, HANCOCK, HENDRICKS, LOGAN, SABIN, HUBBARD, MORRISON, ROBINSON, ROSECRANS, SHERMAN, TILDEN, VOORHEES, WARD, WINDOM, and others.

EVERY SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Cabinet Officers, Ex-Presidents, Governors, Republican Candidates, Democratic Candidates, Leaders of Political Parties, Chairmen of National Committees, Members of Congress, Members of State Legislatures, Governors, Ex-Governors, Mayors, Ex-Mayors, Members of Boards of Aldermen, Members of Boards of Supervisors, Members of Boards of Education, Members of Boards of Trustees, Members of Boards of Directors, Members of Boards of Managers, Members of Boards of Commissioners, Members of Boards of Police, Members of Boards of Health, Members of Boards of Charities, Members of Boards of Public Works, Members of Boards of Water Commissioners, Members of Boards of Fire Commissioners, Members of Boards of Park Commissioners, Members of Boards of Harbor Commissioners, Members of Boards of Prison Inspectors, Members of Boards of Asylum Managers, Members of Boards of Hospital Managers, Members of Boards of Trustees of Public Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Private Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Religious Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Educational Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Charitable Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Scientific Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Literary Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Financial Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Commercial Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Manufacturing Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Mercantile Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Mechanical Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Agricultural Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Horticultural Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Pomological Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Viticultural Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Apicultural Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Sericultural Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Floricultural Institutions, Members of Boards of Trustees of Arboricultural HUMILATE.

BY ID.

In fairest lands along the River's shore
The silence deepens with advancing night,
Pale shadows flit and fill the place with awe;
And now a lonely star in the firmament
Unveils the crescent moon in heaven's arch.
The reaches play of waters on the strand
Attunes its sundle to the fitful winds
That, in endless number, low and sweet,
Breathe a nightly vesper to the earth.
A youth alone, despised and oppressed,
Walking with forfeit pace alone the sands,
Is filled with echoes of the distant past.
He sees the tiny eddies at his feet
Humilate—battle, and plunge, and ritual
Mingle in the caverns of the ocean, as if Deep Death could in its measure and its time
Resume in one vast distant hum a sound;
But sings, and sighing, murmuring, never ceases.
Ever the youth, facing the ocean, hears
Exulting bear it backward to the pulsing tide,
And on, and on, and on to meet the sea.
"Would that such be the course of mortal hope,
That Lapis Lazuli be left to play
Along the river's bank—perchance to plead
The legend-lavish of some sweet, fanciful Boon!"
Till wildly veined and statelyway borne upon
The howling tide, and tied forever in
The human body.
Thus mused the youth in council with his soul,
Ambition be what it may, or greed unmeek.
The sacred flames of honor, and of fame,
Are all things unbound nor yet thereby fairly Immoral
Reason is but the handsaw of man,
That oft resolves in air beings he shaped,
And bent and broke and cast unlinked,
And compact in a junction of the mind.
Albeit the soul is sometimes moved to exhibit
A day like this. Surely, one has stop
From out the [illegible] chaos of [illegible]
And the wider world—the location,
As if to prove the wisdom of the Church
Moreover than to mon then gen be thou;
And exalting be I, burning heart and hand
And thus a service vow—
If, sword to be, even in the hour when man
Would scorn it most; and sweet the message from
The lie—a world inclining hearts that bomb,
And end the misery to the odder, pain
Was which, though it head through toil and pain,
Is a more exuberance of idea than that
Toward the [illegible] man.
And now to my cabin and [illegible]
So much to say in advance of seem,
Now that the waves recall as I seem,
Now [illegible] and [illegible] and
The sound of pebbles on the beach change
For the human heart to tackle and the hope
Above the echo sound tears mingled of thing;
If, as mortal, a nature reaching [illegible]
Is my point, be changed [illegible]
What, [illegible] to [illegible] hopes now done,
Oh bless—in the 63 and Unknown, unpainted
In the human bosom, to [illegible] with us
Till time and billowed this [illegible]
Been one tender stitch to eternity.

TINSEL AND GOLD.

BY EMMA B. ROSE.

The wide, large kitchen of the Brevoort farmhouse was adorned with a profusion of pink-tinted apple blossoms, pearly cherry blooms, and the bright pink flowers of the peach, while a large blue pitcher stood on the mantel filled with rose-scented peonies, yellow daffodils, and all the garden flowers of that loveliest of all seasons, perfect May.

Myrtle Brevoort had been busy for more than an hour at the work of adornment, and now that she had finished and the early supper was being discussed, every one must have a word to say about the handiwork of the fair-faced maiden.

There is a bushel of my Genesee Flower apples, the same amount of cherries, and at least a gross of Early York peaches sacrificed to the caprices of the wasteful damsel," said Farmer Brevoort, looking fondly the golden ends of his much loved only daughter.

"Harley Martine is expected, I guess," laughed the 15-year-old son of the house. "Most is always perished up when he is coming."

Myrtle colored slightly and glanced shyly across the table, whose air of young exquisite from Lockhart, the young engineer. He was her aunt's adopted son, Andly, and, although almost affianced to Harley Martine, she wished to see how Tommy's words struck him.

He did not seem to move him so much as they did his Aunt Augusta, at least not just then. She replied flatly and superciliously, and said, half scornfully:

"Myrtle is about to take up with a farmer. I had higher aims for her."

"I only hope she may do as well as to take up with Harley Martine," replied Mr. Brevoort, bluntly. "There is not a finer young man in the State."

And there is nothing in the world between them but love," said Tommy, who was seven, going on eight.

"That is a sensible woman," ejaculated Mr. Andly. "You are not my own modest and lowly Myrtle to marry a common farmer."

Sarah Brevoort knew exactly what was in her sister's mind, and she her self would not object to an alliance for her daughter with one so seemingly modest and rich as Alvin Andly.

But farmer Brevoort was of a differ ent stamp, and had frequently expressed very unflattering opinion of Alvin Andly, which, however, Mrs. Brevoort carefully kept to herself; and, if the truth must be told, had never given much insight into the character of his sister than did his wife, although a sort of the reality Mrs. Andly.

Did you ever meet a person who, if he become possessed of a thing, believed that another instantly deserved to it? Did you ever know a woman who, if she had a flower calico wash dress, would always speak of it as her "navy blue suit?" If you ever did, then you have witnessed one of the most innocent traits of Augie to Andly's character.

And it never entered into the simple head of Sarah Brevoort that there might be an object hidden somewhere in all of his sweetness.

Myrtle and her mother had to plead a long time before Mr. Brevoort would give his consent to a visit to the city; but, unfortunately, he did grow ill, and Myrtle went to spend some months in the city of Lockhart with her aunt.

Her aunt also had the privilege of making any additions to Myrtle's wardrobe she thought necessary, and Mr. Brevoort gave her free bills.

It must be confessed Myrtle did not find everything quite as shebad fancied it, but her aunt's elegant home upon the avenue turned into a parlor and two bedrooms in a terrible nuisance.

"We must send her home with the villain I believe you to be," said Mr. Brevoort. "Myrtle, my child, when that man deserts you, never come to your father."

There was another scene when they returned to Mrs Andly.

"What!" turned you into the street and never gave you a single cent?" she screamed. "That little idiot will not live among men."

"Why what I thought," said Alvin, turning half-angrily upon Myrtle. "You had better have stayed at home than to have come back here."

"She shan't stay here," shrieked Mrs. Andly, vehemently.

"Where shall she stay, then? I haven't got a cent, and you coaxed me into this scrape. I never wanted to have her."

Myrtle sank down upon the floor at these cruel words, sobbing wildly.

"Oh, father and mother, if I had never left you!"

And then she sank into a deep unconsciousness.

When she awakened, Mrs. Andly sat by the bedside, and spoke a little more decently to poor Myrtle, who was half stunned.

"Your father will probably relent after a time, and I can get you a place to work until he sends for you to come home."

"But I cheated Alvin owned that magnificent place on the avenue, and was also a very wealthy."

"You must not believe everything you hear. Why, that is Gov. Munroe's house."

Myrtle spoke no more; but as the shades of night fell over the city on this, her bridal day, Alvin rushed in, saying, "A letter of his fellows are going down the river in the rag; don't look for me before morning."

But for some before morning, brought home, four men carrying him, cold in death. It seems that he had been riding a horse, and in some manner had fell on overboard, and so was taken from the water he was dead.

Myrtle, the daughter of the widowed daughter's sumptuous, and he took her back to her old home as soon as decency would permit.

The shock had been a terrible one, and it was a long time before she was able to sit up much upon her side, and at length she was as handsome and merry as before.

Harley Martine was the first to be married of the whole number of Now Haven [illegible] and [illegible] had any spirit, she would [illegible] writer of that sentiment.

As prosperity augments [illegible] and [illegible] increase [illegible] [illegible]

HUMOR.

CASH clear—the corpse is [illegible]

REMARKABLY fine board—[illegible]

SERMON court—spiritual [illegible]

THE coming man—the [illegible]

PRESSED for money—[illegible] clothes.

A MAN and his wife had a [illegible] cuity in the kitchen the other [illegible] presently matters became so [illegible] one could hear a rolling pin [illegible]

"Kiss Me as I Fall Asleep" is the title of a new song. It might be right with some men, but it wake us right up.—Burlington Hawkeye.

A FAINTING acquaintance of other sex remarked to a [illegible] never heard of seven deadly [illegible] out of a man." "No?" was the reply; "they've got 'em yet."

A GOOD country priest sighing drunkard: "My son, you reconciled with your enemies?" ground the poor wretch, "I [illegible] glass of water."

In some of the [illegible] present decade would "kick [illegible] gas" on retiring, instead of [illegible] off. Their obituary notices [illegible] much longer and more [illegible] Prette's Weekly.

PETER KREBS, a veteran of [illegible] and minute; in great [illegible] and it cost $50 to fish him [illegible] should teach parties wishing [illegible] suicide to save trouble and [illegible] stepping into a printing-office [illegible] themselves with the [illegible] —Paris Beacon.

The sidewalks of Sill [illegible] twenty feet wide, but [illegible] narrow for a [illegible] wood-Mormon to go out with the whole of his wife at once, be, though, that a Mormon [illegible] out in the order of a procession. Sun.

DEATHERS is a terrible [illegible] have in the family, but some [illegible] discovered that it is father expected that there will be demand for it. A coach dog laid out in the back yard to kill off more cats and make [illegible] than forty boot-jacks.—Peck.

Uncommon Bias in Walking.

Mr. G. H. Darwin, in Nature, that some ten years ago he [illegible] experiments upon the subconscious Bias in Walking" gan by walking himself a various friends to walk, with in a grass field. A amazing crookedness in [illegible] were not far removed [illegible] One of the circles described more than fifty yards in di though the pedestrians [illegible] consider to be going [illegible] they hopped was noted that made to jump over a ditch [illegible] from which they emerged lastly, they were instructed stone, and the hand was [illegible] throw was noted. Each of were all right-handed [illegible] stone, but I believe that [illegible] exhibited some mark of left-handed. The [illegible] right-handed strode long [illegible] put them from right to [illegible] on the left leg, and rose [illegible] from that leg. One [illegible] opposite course and the [illegible] irregularly, but with no [illegible] case between his stride [illegible] took them once into [illegible] boys successively take a [illegible] stick at about forty yards [illegible] that blindfolded they [illegible] them to walk, guiding [illegible] for the first three or four [illegible] result was that the left-handed diverged to the right, the [illegible] lows diverged to the left, [illegible] who would not reveal [illegible] pipe. The trial was repeated [illegible] time with closely similar [illegible] though the prize winner [illegible] nearly so straight on a course [illegible] also measured the stride [illegible] of some of my friends, and [illegible] same connection between [illegible] comparative length of [illegible] step from left to right and [illegible] see of an inch longer than [illegible] left, and I am strongly [illegible] Mr. Darwin believes [illegible] ten strongly right-handed [illegible] left-legged, the reason being [illegible] active effort with the [illegible] effort with the left [illegible] hundred man is almost certain [illegible] his left leg more than [illegible]

THE happiness of [illegible] upon the quality of [illegible] tiger-fore guard accordingly [illegible] sure that you entertain [illegible] suitable to virtue and [illegible] ure.—Montaigne.

"SHOW us the woman [illegible] ried for the sake of [illegible] Haven Register.

As prosperity augments [illegible] and [illegible] increase [illegible]

MAN.

Thoughts Concerning Him.

[illegible] away; his name perishes [illegible] and recollection; his [illegible] a tale that is told; his [illegible] manual becomes a ruin. —Jean Irving.

[illegible]land man, however, we [illegible] beyond the individual man, [illegible] ness or interests, and view [illegible] culation with his fellows.—

[illegible]

[illegible]his own star, and that soul [illegible] he honest is the only [illegible] Beaumont and Fletcher.

[illegible]ientific study of man is the [illegible] of all branches of knowledge. Oliver Wendell Holmes.

[illegible] of wisdom is the man of [illegible] Young.

[illegible] Heaven-erected face [illegible] of love adorn, [illegible] to man. [illegible] resistless transcends nature.

[illegible] Xerxes' man alone in tiers, [illegible] Xerxes' man alone to be.

[illegible] the whole encyclopedia of [illegible] the creation of a thousand [illegible] one acorn, and Egypt, Greece, [illegible] Gaul, Britain, America lie [illegible] ady in the first man.—Emerson.

[illegible] a man! in great affliction, he is [illegible] and minutes; in great [illegible] he, the most distant, sad one, [illegible] yet beneath the horizon, [illegible] down.—Richter.

[illegible] apon of work is man! How [illegible] reason! how infinite in faculties! in and moving, how express [illegible] admirable in action, how like an [illegible] apprehension, how like a god! [illegible] of the world! the paragon [illegible] And yet, to me, what is [illegible] quintessence of dust? —Shakspeare.

[illegible] nath is less, when honor dies, [illegible] man is dead.

[illegible] ga maketh a full man, confer- [illegible] ady man, and writing an exact [illegible]

[illegible] is temperate, generous, [illegible] classic, faithful, and honest, [illegible] the same time, have wit, humor, [illegible] ading, mirth, and gallantry; [illegible] erts these lesser qualities [illegible] nocious might be invented to [illegible] e master of the other nobler [illegible] Steele.

[illegible] ature being with well the frame; [illegible] ly beginning to change as lovers, [illegible] ness, and full as calm.

[illegible] ature, like wealth and [illegible] ciously; and [illegible] ing, and [illegible] ing. Each [illegible] his day, [illegible] his native city.

[illegible] Asher lasts [illegible] ntenance with radiant life [illegible] ance, flowers, all summer] up to [illegible]

[illegible] ough individually confined to [illegible] spot on this globe, and limited [illegible] existence, to a few courses [illegible] ses, he can individual man, [illegible] no despotism can control, [illegible] cessingly seeks for the [illegible] destiny through the [illegible] space and the ever-rolling [illegible] ages.—Colton.

The Utility of Pain.

[illegible] ility of pain is seen in the [illegible] which covers the surface [illegible] for instance, in reversed [illegible] ecover any irritant particle is [illegible] ce excited with these delicate [illegible] es. The pain caused by [illegible] hair a tip reflexly a muscular [illegible] in this membrane, [illegible] ly brought across the eye, [illegible] the surface, and so the offending [illegible] removed. When the forehead [illegible] is too tired to be so removed, [illegible] ation of the eye follows, and [illegible] ded protection of the organ [illegible] eatter is got rid of. The [illegible] of the eye to these animals [illegible] s common occurrence if it [illegible] this muscular arrangement [illegible] pain is the excitant; it is, as [illegible] finger which pulls the [illegible] to the touchmore already [illegible] prepared is set in action [illegible] ance the sufferings caused [illegible] body in the eye calls the [illegible] to the part and leads to the [illegible] It is were not for the pain [illegible] terrible mischief [illegible] be permitted to go on unchecked. Not only [illegible] of dirt the eye from the [illegible] of foreign bodies, it [illegible] to protect the delicate organ [illegible] rk; and when pain is [illegible] ed even to the part, [illegible] ry is instituted.

Woman Horizers.

[illegible]dies are increasing in [illegible] of the time and have a good [illegible] ing that there are [illegible] ral woman practitioners [illegible] ers. There is no a general [illegible] of course do not stand [illegible] in case of emergency. [illegible] ral, attends men is not [illegible] ing. Many [illegible] ed in this country, and [illegible] countries to practice. [illegible] ers, especially Hall, for [illegible] ing, and [illegible] ing. Some of the [illegible] ers are Short-Haired and [illegible] ing doctors are not al- [illegible] sional.—Dr. Atkinson [illegible]

[illegible] ppearance is positively cool [illegible] ility to the hair-pencil [illegible] him if he had [illegible] ed to paint it.

[illegible] fact, I guess I [illegible]

[illegible]Tourgee's dressmaker may not be familiar with the [illegible] rules of grammatic, she is usually expert in [illegible]

A BARGE of money makes a hog rest in [illegible] ciety.—New Orleans Picayune.

THE DECOROUS DUTCH.

How the People Live in Holland, and Some of Their Curious Customs.

The man is "lord of all" in Holland, and woman is almost without the shadow of estimation. He is a sort of a lone, lame and goal natured, but still full of the brain element. His countrywomen are actually afraid of him, especially when outside of their own door. Not that the men are dangerous, for rarely is it heard that the bears have bitten. Look out in the street, and you will see that the ladies walk in the road and the gentlemen on the sidewalk. Always so, no matter how muddy or dusty the road is, or how many teams are passing. Watch them, and you cannot help but notice that the gentlemen and ladies never speek to each other on the street. That would be a breach of etiquette that society would hardly pardon.

Even when a man meets his wife he is not permitted to ask what he shall bring home for dinner! The gentleman bows first, the same as in France, and a lady may have bows from men whose names she does not even know. And how bowing is a mixed! The fore-head almost touches the knees in the act, and there is no half-way work about it—no nodding or a sweeping touch of the hat, but an entire removal of the hat to supplement that intense bow. Everybody bows, then takes off and it cost $50 to fish him [illegible] their hats to one another and profoundly bow.

A lady is never known to pass a club-house or a knot of men on the street. If she is obliged to pass up a street where there is a club she does not dare to throw the dreaded windows, but will cross the street until she is past the house, and then cross back again. I have seen a lady of my acquaintance make the round of several streets to avoid a club-house, being at the time in a great hurry to reach an appointment whose shop was next beyond the club. If a lady, alone, or accompanied by other ladies, must needs enter a confectionery, a library, or other place where men will naturally go, and finds a gentleman or two there, she will retire as promptly as if she had seen a case of small-pox. The men know this, but unless my lord, the man, has quite finished his business, he will not retire. The lady retreats in a most undignified manner, and the human beast finishes his cigar or glass of beer, even though the lady is waiting at the door for him to leave.

But a change comes over the woman at home. No longer is she the afraid lady of the street. She has at hand the bottle of hot water, the dish-cloth and other articles of defense that a woman can use if necessary, and no longer does she fear the bears. She is quite "at home." She does not put herself to any trouble for the sake of her guests. In the morning she never dresses for breakfast, but comes to the table en demi-toilette, her hair on the crimping pins, a calico gown loosely buttoned over skirts by no means new, with no collar, her shoes unbuttoned, and frequently without stockings. After breakfast it is quite awhile before she gets dressed, and meantime, if she receives callers, she goes into the parlor in her breakfast toilet.

But the social etiquette is not to be compared to that of the table. If one is not expected to be present at meals, it is amusing to see the people eat. They take their plateful as soon as they are helped and eat it up into morsels. Then they lay the knife in front of the plate, and, leaning on the table with their left hand, proceed to eat all with the fork. I never saw food eaten otherwise except that some desserts are shoveled with the spoon instead of the fork, and spoons lying with knife and fork at each plate. All this is et quette. Beside the plate a hand-rest is sometimes placed, for it is necessary that one should half recline on the table! There is no such thing as changing knives, and, be the courses two or twenty, they are served on the same plate, and the same knife, fork, and spoon are used. The napkins are kept in service until the housewife thinks to meet a big bill for soap!

One supper, at which I was a guest, I shall always remember. At 8 o'clock the hostess left the cardboard, spread the table-cloth, and placed the dishes. Then she brought out a spirit lamp, which she lighted with a match from the matchbox on the table, and, having ground some coffee in a little hand-mill, she set the cafetiere over the lamp, where it boiled merrily during the meal. The bread came on to a loaf and in a long basket, and was cut into thick slices and so passed around. The butter was in a little round earthen pot, and to get the eye from the [illegible] of foreign bodies, it [illegible] to protect the delicate organ [illegible] rk; and when pain is [illegible] ed even to the part, [illegible] ry is instituted.

Woman Horizers.

[illegible]dies are increasing in [illegible] of the time and have a good [illegible] ing that there are [illegible] ral woman practitioners [illegible] ers. There is no a general [illegible] of course do not stand [illegible] in case of emergency. [illegible] ral, attends men is not [illegible] ing. Many [illegible] ed in this country, and [illegible] countries to practice. [illegible] ers, especially Hall, for [illegible] ing, and [illegible] ing. Some of the [illegible] ers are Short-Haired and [illegible] ing doctors are not al- [illegible] sional.—Dr. Atkinson [illegible]

[illegible] ppearance is positively cool [illegible] ility to the hair-pencil [illegible] him if he had [illegible] ed to paint it.

[illegible] fact, I guess I [illegible]

[illegible]Tourgee's dressmaker may not be familiar with the [illegible] rules of grammatic, she is usually expert in [illegible]

A BARGE of money makes a hog rest in [illegible] ciety.—New Orleans Picayune.

The Big Brewery.

Mr. J. Hirsch, College Point Brewery, L. I., N. Y., writes that he employs a large number of horses and hands, and, having tried St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain cure, for rheumatism, aches, and pains of his men, and for galls, splints, thrush, wind-galls, and other affections of his horses, finds it a superior to all remedies, and would not be without it.

No Right to Complain.

A man who had been crippled up pretty badly in a railroad accident, in Texas, went to the office of the company, in San Antonio, and complained.

"Why," replied the cattle-claim agent, "you ought to keep your mouth shut, and be satisfied. You only had your legs broken and your shoulder dislocated, and yet you grumble. We kill men deader than Julius Cæsar almost every day in the week, and none of them ever come here raising a row and talking about damages."—Texas Siftings.

Who Has a Stomach

Of which he or she can truthfully say, "It was never out of order." There are some human "interiors" whose digestive powers seem akin to those of the ostrich. Yet it may well be doubted if even the ostrich has a passive digestive quality at some time or other. Thousands lose much, although the richness of the blood, tone, and energy of their whole system, through their lack to our wonderful STOMACH BITTERS, a genuine corrective of dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaint, nervousness, and debility. Appetite, sound sleep, and vigorous health are the sure results of its use. Try it.

Cask-Making in China.

According to the Chinese, cask-making is the best system in them for many thousand years. They labored, however, under this drawback: they did not know how to grow the final hoop, by which the lid is fastened—the only method that struck them as feasible being to place a hoop on the inside. The cooper tightened the hoops and secured the lid in its position.

But how was the bee to get out? This remained an unsolved problem for 2,000 years.

A CERTAIN that has put on itself a never-failing cure for scrofula and all forms of blood disease, for cancer, tumor, and all blood diseases. Dr. Guysott's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is such a perfect blood purifier and invigorator of feeble constitutions that it cures the above diseases even when the springs and other treatment has failed. In a word, it is absolutely free from mineral poisons, and will not injure the most delicate constitution. Its use will make your blood rich, pure, and healthy, and will give your system of all kind impurities and every internal and external indication of disease.

The Value of Literature.

The value of literature entirely depends. If the book has a calf-skin cover, it is valuable as a razor-strop. If it is a fact thick, it comes in first-rate to put under the corner of a bureau which has lost a leg. If it has a print on it that will keep it closed, it cannot be eclipsed as a missile to hurl at a dog. If it has a large cover like a map, originally, it is as good as a piece of tin to nail over a stove-pipe hole or a broken pane of glass. If the paper is thick, and no wishes to cut out a pattern of anything. As we said before, the value of literature entirely depends.—Puck.

Don't You Do It.

Don't suffer any longer with the pains and aches of Rheumatism, which never life a burden to you. Relief, sure dy and permanent can be procured at the nearest drug store, in the form of Kidney-Wort. Effective Malady of Weed Bitters, Sarsaparilla, and Iron. Don't wait for others to speak of its merits. It is absolutely pure and does its work. Don't be induced to accept a substitute because it is said to be "just as good." Insist on having Kidney-Wort. It will cure you. Price $1.

Who Has a Stomach

Of which he or she can truthfully say, "It was never out of order." There are some human "interiors" whose digestive powers seem akin to those of the ostrich. Yet it may well be doubted if even the ostrich has a passive digestive quality at some time or other. Thousands lose much, although the richness of the blood, tone, and energy of their whole system, through their lack to our wonderful STOMACH BITTERS, a genuine corrective of dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaint, nervousness, and debility. Appetite, sound sleep, and vigorous health are the sure results of its use. Try it.

Cask-Making in China.

According to the Chinese, cask-making is the best system in them for many thousand years. They labored, however, under this drawback: they did not know how to grow the final hoop, by which the lid is fastened—the only method that struck them as feasible being to place a hoop on the inside. The cooper tightened the hoops and secured the lid in its position.

But how was the bee to get out? This remained an unsolved problem for 2,000 years.

A CERTAIN that has put on itself a never-failing cure for scrofula and all forms of blood disease, for cancer, tumor, and all blood diseases. Dr. Guysott's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is such a perfect blood purifier and invigorator of feeble constitutions that it cures the above diseases even when the springs and other treatment has failed. In a word, it is absolutely free from mineral poisons, and will not injure the most delicate constitution. Its use will make your blood rich, pure, and healthy, and will give your system of all kind impurities and every internal and external indication of disease.

The Value of Literature.

The value of literature entirely depends. If the book has a calf-skin cover, it is valuable as a razor-strop. If it is a fact thick, it comes in first-rate to put under the corner of a bureau which has lost a leg. If it has a print on it that will keep it closed, it cannot be eclipsed as a missile to hurl at a dog. If it has a large cover like a map, originally, it is as good as a piece of tin to nail over a stove-pipe hole or a broken pane of glass. If the paper is thick, and no wishes to cut out a pattern of anything. As we said before, the value of literature entirely depends.—Puck.

Don't You Do It.

Don't suffer any longer with the pains and aches of Rheumatism, which never life a burden to you. Relief, sure dy and permanent can be procured at the nearest drug store, in the form of Kidney-Wort. Effective Malady of Weed Bitters, Sarsaparilla, and Iron. Don't wait for others to speak of its merits. It is absolutely pure and does its work. Don't be induced to accept a substitute because it is said to be "just as good." Insist on having Kidney-Wort. It will cure you. Price $1.

A Case of Pneumonia.

Mr. D. H. Barnaby, of Oswego, N. Y., says that his daughter was taken with a violent cold which terminated with pneumonia, and all the best physicians gave the case up and said she could live but a few hours at most. She was in this condition when a friend recommended Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and advised her to try it. She accepted it as a last resort, and was surprised to find that it produced a marked change for the better, and by persevering in its use a cure was effected.

I have had Catarrh for years; in its worst form. Before I had used one bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, I realized a benefit. I have used two bottles, and consider it my duty to say, for the benefit of my friends in Lowell are aware, a great sufferer from kidney troubles. As a matter of course I procured the best of medical attendance, but with only real benefit. Hearing that inflammation of the prostate gland. Firstly discovered, he prescribed a dollar in DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N.Y. That was two or three years ago. I take date of Feb. 15, 1881, to say: "My health is the best it has been for years. I still use FAVORITE REMEDY occasionally. I always keep it in the house. I have had many letters of inquiry about my case, and I always recommend it as one of the best of medicines for such troubles. See Home and Away and other medicines for similar troubles without benefit." Such an emphatic endorsement from such a source could be regarded as convincing to all sufferers. By Druggists the real FAVORITE REMEDY as in practice for twenty years. It is purely vegetable, most delightful, safe, sure, efficient if taken as directed. Try it.

PERRY DAVIS'

Pain-Killer

It was the first and is the only permanent Pain Reliever.

ITS MERITS ARE UNSURPASSED.

There is nothing to equal it, in a few moments it cures

Colic, Cramps, Spasms, Heartburn, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Flux, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache.

It is found to

CURE CHOLERA

When all other Remedies fail.

WHEN USED EXTERNALLY, AS A LINIMENT it does give quicker ease in Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Stings from Insects, and Bites of Poisonous Reptiles, than any other remedy. Mothers will find it a treasure for Croup, Sore Throat, Colds, Coughs, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Toothache, Lumbago, Backache, Pains in the Limbs, Chills, Fever and Ague, and all Internal Pains, Aches and Bodily Ailments. It is a perfect Liniment for Man or Beast. Directions for using in many languages accompany each bottle. Be sure to get the genuine. Sold by all Druggists.

PRICE 25 CENTS AND 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

PERRY DAVIS & SON, Providence, R. I.

PAIN.

This is supposed to be the lot of no poor mortals, as it should be a stranger to all. But it comes to us all, sooner or later, and when it comes we want to get rid of it as quickly as possible. Many remedies are recommended for the cure of pain, or the deadening influence of chloroform. But for real relief we have found nothing equal to Dr. Kay's Renovating Oil. It is a perfect remedy for Family Sickness.

PERRY DAVIS'

Pain-Killer

It was the first and is the only permanent Pain Reliever.

ITS MERITS ARE UNSURPASSED.

There is nothing to equal it, in a few moments it cures

Colic, Cramps, Spasms, Heartburn, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Flux, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache.

It is found to

CURE CHOLERA

When all other Remedies fail.

WHEN USED EXTERNALLY, AS A LINIMENT it does give quicker ease in Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Stings from Insects, and Bites of Poisonous Reptiles, than any other remedy. Mothers will find it a treasure for Croup, Sore Throat, Colds, Coughs, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Toothache, Lumbago, Backache, Pains in the Limbs, Chills, Fever and Ague, and all Internal Pains, Aches and Bodily Ailments. It is a perfect Liniment for Man or Beast. Directions for using in many languages accompany each bottle. Be sure to get the genuine. Sold by all Druggists.

PRICE 25 CENTS AND 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

PERRY DAVIS & SON, Providence, R. I.

PAIN.

This is supposed to be the lot of no poor mortals, as it should be a stranger to all. But it comes to us all, sooner or later, and when it comes we want to get rid of it as quickly as possible. Many remedies are recommended for the cure of pain, or the deadening influence of chloroform. But for real relief we have found nothing equal to Dr. Kay's Renovating Oil. It is a perfect remedy for Family Sickness.

Who Has a Stomach

Of which he or she can truthfully say, "It was never out of order." There are some human "interiors" whose digestive powers seem akin to those of the ostrich. Yet it may well be doubted if even the ostrich has a passive digestive quality at some time or other. Thousands lose much, although the richness of the blood, tone, and energy of their whole system, through their lack to our wonderful STOMACH BITTERS, a genuine corrective of dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, constipation, kidney complaint, nervousness, and debility. Appetite, sound sleep, and vigorous health are the sure results of its use. Try it.

Cask-Making in China.

According to the Chinese, cask-making is the best system in them for many thousand years. They labored, however, under this drawback: they did not know how to grow the final hoop, by which the lid is fastened—the only method that struck them as feasible being to place a hoop on the inside. The cooper tightened the hoops and secured the lid in its position.

But how was the bee to get out? This remained an unsolved problem for 2,000 years.

A CERTAIN that has put on itself a never-failing cure for scrofula and all forms of blood disease, for cancer, tumor, and all blood diseases. Dr. Guysott's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is such a perfect blood purifier and invigorator of feeble constitutions that it cures the above diseases even when the springs and other treatment has failed. In a word, it is absolutely free from mineral poisons, and will not injure the most delicate constitution. Its use will make your blood rich, pure, and healthy, and will give your system of all kind impurities and every internal and external indication of disease.

The Value of Literature.

The value of literature entirely depends. If the book has a calf-skin cover, it is valuable as a razor-strop. If it is a fact thick, it comes in first-rate to put under the corner of a bureau which has lost a leg. If it has a print on it that will keep it closed, it cannot be eclipsed as a missile to hurl at a dog. If it has a large cover like a map, originally, it is as good as a piece of tin to nail over a stove-pipe hole or a broken pane of glass. If the paper is thick, and no wishes to cut out a pattern of anything. As we said before, the value of literature entirely depends.—Puck.

Don't You Do It.

Don't suffer any longer with the pains and aches of Rheumatism, which never life a burden to you. Relief, sure dy and permanent can be procured at the nearest drug store, in the form of Kidney-Wort. Effective Malady of Weed Bitters, Sarsaparilla, and Iron. Don't wait for others to speak of its merits. It is absolutely pure and does its work. Don't be induced to accept a substitute because it is said to be "just as good." Insist on having Kidney-Wort. It will cure you. Price $1

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

Among these fair virgins was Mordecai's kin,
A Jewess by birth and formed but to win,
And her kindred were captives. Now far away
In the land of the Persian, live they to-day.
"Speak not loved one of our hated race,
Not a word of bondage in this accursed place.
Until the right time—when the king is all joy,
Then thine arts with the Persian quickly employ."

Thus spoke the sly Jew to Esther, the fair,
Who appeared to outshine all the virgins then there.
But time glides along, and months roll away,
And the feast at the palace had seen its best day;
And the fragrance of myrrh breathes over all,
As they circle around in Shu-Shan's bright hall.
And the king waits impatient his queen to behold
All robed in her purple-colored garments and gold.

Lo! yonder is Cupid, that invisible guide,
Who plays such a part in humanity's tide.
He watches his chance, and bends his bright bow,
And Persia's great king at his feet is laid low.
And Shu-Shan now echoes with music and song,
For Esther is queen! and Cupid is strong.
And Vashti no longer is queen of the east,
And her smile has departed at royalty's feast.

And Mordecai sits at the beautiful gate;
All silent he sits, as fixed there by fate.
But he knows of a plot kept from the king,
And tells it to Esther—a wonderful thing!
How servants once sought their monarch to slay,
And snatch from the palace the light of the day.
Thus the cunning old Jew gained favor at last
And in presence of Iran in splendor he passed.

But, yonder is Haman! who treads o'er the stage,
In pride of his power, in that distant age.
Above all the princes was Haman, the bad,
Though his face wore a smile and seemed ever glad.
When passing one day in splendor of state,
He noticed the Jew sitting close by the gate;
But he bowed not, nor moved when Haman passed by.
Save a toss of his head, and scorn in his eye.

Then Haman grew angry as any could be,
And vowed to himself, he'd bend his proud knee,—
The knee of the Jew—and his anger swelled high,
And the demon of hate flashed out from his eye.
And they who stood by the beautiful gate,
Informed the great king—and still they did wait
For an answer, from Persia's proud lord—
Still wait they for answer—still not a word.

Then Haman grew fearful, he cursed and he swore,—
So 'twas thought in the days of Iran of yore,—
And he willed to destroy the whole Jewish race,
And marked for this Jew a special disgrace.
Then Haman recounts to the monarch alone,
Who sat in his pride on Persia's dread throne;
How the Jews would never his edicts obey,
And despised all the laws of Persia that day.

He told how the king could make a great gain,
By enforcing his laws throughout his domain;
What a conflict of laws? continued he still,
"And how they do fight 'gainst your majesty's will.
Now let them perish! these men who defy thee, O king—to die!"
Thus spoke vile Haman in Iran;
All bold with assurance and vain.

It will fill up thy treasures, O king,
And over all lands thy praises sing;
I will give of my means, said he more,
To see all the Jews sink down in the sea.
Then the king drew his ring from his hand,
And gave it to Haman, 'twas command.
Then Iran sat down with Haman,
Whilst the serpent crept over the brink.

Mordecai knew of the plot all the while,
For he saw on the face of Haman a smile;
He knew by this sign that ruin
And like sailor at sea he seeks the
Now he puts on raiment of sackcloth,
And walks through the city as one seen;
And walks in this garb 'fore the king,
Where he sat when Haman came late.

To be continued.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 19, 1884.

Around the County.

South Arm.

E. S. Hawks of Charlevoix visited his parents in this township last week.

An organ agent, from Charlevoix, invaded our peaceful hamlet last Wednesday.

Arthur Meech, son of F. J. Meech of Norwood, is seen on our streets frequently.

Mrs. Blake and children spent a few days last week visiting friends in Jordan township.

James F. Palmiter is busy now finding out the secrets of the worthy citizens of this township.

Mr. Hunkey of Petoskey from whom some of our merchants receive their flour was in town Thursday.

Rev. R. Tyndall of Elmira made his friends here, a call last week. He intends visiting Canada soon.

Mr. and Mrs. McArthur visited their friends in the Wilks settlement a week ago, and spent the Sabbath with them.

Our photograph artist has his building erected and we presume nearly ready for business, from outside appearances.

Mr. Peter Higgins, mail carrier between Echo and Central Lake, boasts of a young daughter which arrived last week.

Our genial postmaster, can be heard quite frequently, grinding music out of his orgnette, which by the way is a genuine article.

Mrs. Freeman Wilson lies in a critical condition, with a disease of the brain, which so far has baffled the doctors to locate. Her recovery is doubtful.

A number of South Arm people went over the Lake to hear the Rev. Devine of Chicago, preach last Sabbath. They report a pleasant and profitable trip.

W. F. Empey has been building a walk from his store to E. A. H. Coles, which is quite an improvement. The weary pedestrian would bless the rest of the South Arm citizens, if they would do likewise.

Burgess.

Phil. Howe is the happy father of a bouncing boy.

Died at Peter Daniels, June 16th, Jenny Pashawba, aged 14.

Charles Hamlin cut his thumb quite bad one day last week.

Peter and Frank Kane have the best piece of winter wheat in town.

Mrs. Charles Howe has been very sick with billious fever, but is recovering.

J. S. Webster has peas that are hoed to blow. They were sown last fall.

Chauncy Howe Jr., who has been sailing has come home, and is getting out bark.

The friends of Lizzie Willis, will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from an attack of brain fever.

The cultivation of hops has got to be quite an industry in Hayes. There if one card on state road that is beautiful, especially the poles.

Norwood.

Mr. Frank Richardson and Miss Belle Stafford, of this place, were married at the M. E. parsonage in Charlevoix, Wednesday, June 11th. They returned to Mr. Stafford's the following day, and that evening were joined by a party of young people, and we are told a very plesnant evening was had.

The Rev. Mr. Morgan arrived last Saturday, and on Sunday morning preached to a crowded house.

The Lawrence called at this place Sunday on her way down.

Shall the fourth be celebrated at Norwood? If not, why not? It has been intimated to us that the boys were going to give a days work on the town hall for the privilege of having it ready to celebrate in.

Mr. Wm. and Chas Roshborne of Detroit are in town the guests of F. J. Meech.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

WAR WITH HIGH PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn, CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own repositories of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 41

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan....	8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan....	9.00 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix.....	11.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix.....	6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive Boyne.....	8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave Boyne.....	9.30 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix.....	12.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv. 7.00am	Harbor Springs 1.30pm
Charlevoix..... 9.00am	Petoskey..... 2.00pm
Petoskey..... 11.00am	Charlevoix..... 4.30pm
Harbor Springs 1.00pm	East Jordan, ar. 6.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. R. Thompson.

Lv Boyne..... 7.00am	Lv Charlevoix.. 2.00pm
Ar Charlevoix.. 9.30am	Ar Boyne..... 4.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

LEAVE	AM	PM	ARRIVE	AM	PM
East Jordan.	6.00	1.00	Charlevoix.	8.15	3.15
Charlevoix.	9.30	4.00	East Jordan.	11.55	6.00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE, SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

GOING NORTH.
Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave
Traverse City.....7.00am
Northport.....9.30am
Charlevoix.....12.00 m
Petoskey.....2.00pm
Harbor Springs 3.45pm
Cross Village.. 5.00pm
Mackinaw City 8.00pm
Arriving at
St. Ignace.....10.00pm

GOING SOUTH.
Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave
St. Ignace.....6.00am
Mackinaw City 8.30am
Cross Village.. 11.00am
Harbor Springs 1.00pm
Petoskey.....3.15pm
Charlevoix.....5.00pm
Northport.....7.30pm
Arriving at
Traverse City.. 8.30pm

T. S. FAXTON,

CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH.
Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave
Traverse City.. 7.00am
Old Mission.... 8.30am
Elk Rapids..... 10.00am
Norwood..... 11.00am
Charlevoix..... 12.00pm
Boyne City..... 2.00pm
Red Arbor or Bayview..... 3.30pm
Harbor Springs 5.00pm
Petoskey..... 6.30pm
Arriving at
Harbor Springs 7.00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R.; also on Monday mornings between the City of Traverse from Chicago, and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card in effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv...		1 30am	7 15pm
Richmond.....	2 37am	10 22	9 02
Winchester.....	3 01	11 37	10 00
Ridgeville.....	3 11	11 57	10 23
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 42	2 25pm	1 55am
Fort Wayne, lv.	7 47	2 45	2 50	8 05am
Kendallville.....		3 55	3 59	9 17
Sturgis.....		5 03	5 14	10 45
Vicksburg.....		5 13	5 24	11 05
Kalamazoo, ar		6 04	6 02	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 02	7 12	1 52
Battle Creek, ar		7 42	7 52	2 31
G R & I R R'd cross.	7 15am		10 05	5 05
Bowne Centre....	7 30		10 20	5 20
Howard City.....	8 17		11 08	6 03
Big Rapids.....	9 43		12 34pm	7 22
Reed City.....	10 17		1 08	7 54
Cadillac, ar.....	11 25		2 21	9 10
Cadillac, lv.....			3 30	9 50
Traverse City, ar			6 05
Kalkaska, lv.....			4 17	12 05am
Manesseau.....			4 48	12 55
Boyne Falls.....			5 47	2 20
Petoskey, ar.....			6 24	3 14
Harbor Springs			7 15	4 05
Markinaw City.			8 00	6 00
St. Ignace.....			10 00	8 55
Marquette.....			7 00am	5 50pm
Negaunee, ar.....			9 12	7 08

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv.....			5 15pm	7 20am
Marquette.....			9 00	8 30
St. Ignace.....			3 45am	6 15pm
Markinaw City			6 00	8 15
Harbor Springs			7 00	1 20
Petoskey, lv.....			7 36	11 35
Boyne Falls.....			8 15	12 27am
Manesseau.....			8 39	2 11
Kalkaska.....			9 34	3 05
Traverse City, lv			5 15am
Cadillac, ar.....			11 37	5 50
Cadillac, lv.....	3 30pm		11 45	5 56
Reed City.....	4 39		1 12pm	7 16
Big Rapids.....	5 12		1 46	7 49
Howard City.....	6 36		3 23	9 42
G R & I R R'd cross.	7 25		4 08	10 05
Bowne Centre....	7 40		4 05	10 20
G R Rapids, ar			4 32	12 30pm
Kalamazoo, ar			6 52	2 55
Kalamazoo, lv.			6 57	3 05
Vicksburg.....			8 05	4 12
Sturgis.....			8 16	4 42
Kendallville.....	11 18		10 25	6 34
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 59pm			6 42
Fort Wayne, lv.	1 05	5 57am	12 00am
Ridgeville.....	2 39	7 26	2 31
Winchester.....	2 58	8 16	2 51
Richmond, ar.....	4 27	9 47	4 07
Cincinnati, ar.....	7 05pm	12 50pm	7 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Ass't G. P. Ag't, Grand Rapids, Mich.

J. MILO EATO

DEALER IN

REAL ESTA

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for S

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short No

Represents the

Best Insurance Compa

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED

IMMENSE CUT IN PR

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitin

Boots and S

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. As a member, I have marked these goods down at actual cost and they are

Big Bargains

E. M. Clar

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on So

S. G. ISAMAN

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHAN

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, B
Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Croc
Glassware, Hardware, Drugs
Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRIC

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN CHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISA

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

MBER 50. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

published every Thursday morning.

CHAS J. STRANG.

ntered at the POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

RLEVOIX. MICHIGAN.

isiness Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

NSANS & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, in Barnes' Block, Charlevoix, Mich. M. HANSANS. C. A. GRIER.

CASE, Attorney at Law, Real Estate Loan Agents, Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

S. ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

E. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Notary Public, Police Justice, Collection business promptly attended to. NOTARY TO LOAN.

JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

A NEWBERRY, Attorneys at Law, and Notary Public, Charlevoix, Mich. Will attend to all business entrusted to them with promptness and fidelity.

CLARK, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

D EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

ON, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City, Mich.

F. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

ABBATT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Exchanges and mortgages bought and sold. Sold on all points in Europe and United States. Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on mortgages. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7. J. T. DOUGLAS, pastor.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. C. F. VANAUKEN, pastor.

POINT EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. DOUGLAS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CHARLEVOIX HOUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at the hall. R. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

CHARLEVOIX, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Pocket Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

D EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses always.

PHYSICIANS.

CHRISTIAN, M. D. Office at the Dudgeon.

ESS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

EATON, M. D. Office in Sec Block, Charlevoix.

PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

E. S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loans, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

E.—Baxter Post No. 193, meets second Friday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

ly T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

A. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 233, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

L.—Tri-Mer Rebecca No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

NK.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 262, meets Friday on or before full moon. Hall over

VETERINARY SURGEON.

RAMBERY, V. S. Office at Bridge ss House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

K BURGA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, pump repairing, well boring, stone building, and similar work. 45

STARR, President. A. H. UPHOFF, Vice President.

Charlevoix & Farmers' Bank, OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

General banking business transacted. Money to loan on approved paper at reasonable rates. Interest allowed on time deposits. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly. G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

W. SMITH, ELECTRO-PLATER, Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Plating done to order, AGATES AND PEBBLES set to order. 29

PIMPLES.

To any one who will enclose me a stamp, I will send the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE COMPOUND that will remove TAN, PIMPLES, FRECKLES, and BLACKHEADS, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful. Also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face, including a 50c. sample package of the Compound. Address, with stamp, C. F. VANAUKEN, Box 1784, Detroit, Mich.

NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

Opera Block

NOTICE is hereby given that on or about May 29th 1884, I was yoarling colts, or threeyearolds. Both colts are bright bay with black mane and tail, one is a mare of good size, the other a horse, rather small. Strayed upon my premises and now remain upon my premises.

Dated Bear Lake this 10th day of June 1884.

49 E. C. PRETTEPLACE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the twelfthday of May, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of John C. Spalis, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the third day of November next, and that such claims will be heard before said court on Monday, the fourth day of August, and on Monday, the third day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated May 12th, A. D. 1884.

47 JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the eleventh day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Charlotte Bowdish, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said Court, on Monday, the first day of September and on Monday, the fifth day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated June 11th, A. D. 1884.

48 JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the eleventh day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of probate. In the matter of the estate of

CHARLOTTE BOWDISH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Albert Bowdish, administrator of said estate, praying that certain real estate might be sold to pay debts. Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the fourteenth day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A true copy) JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 161 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Soil, clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame bank barns. About 95 acres cleared, balance good beech and maple timber. About 250 fruit trees beginning to bear. One-half mile from school and saw mill. Terms, three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANCIS, Charlevoix, Mich.

Electric Light

In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have saved down high prices on kitchen utensils, toilet soap, jewelry, glassware, tinware, hosiery, kerchiefs, hammocks, lamps, chairs, hand baskets, shaving mugs, looking glasses, fancy baskets, crockery, fine rocks, table cutlery, sunderdies, shawl straps, hampers, and fruit jars, and other notions.

A good hat rack, 25c; dust pan 10c, scrub brush 10c, whisk broom 25c, hand mirror 5c, splendid misses' hose 12c, ladies' hose 25c, gents' hose 10c, standard sheet music 5c, gents' bicycle shirt 50c, gents' fancy shirt 50c, pinkerets 10c, and a multitude of household articles too numerous to note, all of never before-heard-of prices at

THE FAIR,

J. J. Kanagy & Son,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

46

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn, CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds,

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR.

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from the house to landing to boats.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a stone's throw of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CHILDS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work ordered from Mich. Mills.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best thin-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Telephone Order

Hello there!

Hello! What is it?

Has your mother got may rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

HELLO! How Are You?

Of Interest to All.

HAVE YOUR GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED

Free of Charge.

All orders by telephone or otherways, promptly attended to.

Having placed a Telephone in our mar ket, we can receive and fill orders promptly with the least possible trouble to our patrons.

Ice Delivered

Every Morning.

Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.

JEFFERIES & DECKER.

Roswell P. Flower,

Of New York City, was born at Theresa, Jefferson county, N. Y., August 7th, 1835. When eight years old Roswell's father died leaving the family in straightened circumstances, and he by working hard to aid in supporting his widowed mother and her children. At fourteen he began his business life as a clerk in a store and at eighteen we find him in Watertown, N. Y., a clerk in the post office which position he held for six years. He then began business for himself in a small way, as a jeweler, and in ten years he had saved quite a competency from his profits. Henry Keep, a celebrated railroad magnate at that time and a brother in-law of Mr. Flower, now died and left him in charge of his estate of four million dollars. Mr. Flower removed to New York city at that time and soon developed the fact that he was a remarkable financier. He became and still is the head of his banking firm at 52 Broad street, two brothers being his junior partners.

Mr. Flower was elected to the 47th congress in opposition to Wm. W. Astor under most peculiar circumstances. A vacancy was caused in the seventh N. Y. congressional district which includes the wealthiest portion of New York City, by reason of Levi P. Morton's appointment to France as U. S. Minister. Wm. W. Astor ran for the vacant seat as a republican, the district being a republican stronghold. Mr. Flower was induced to permit the use of his name in opposition to Astor, and although the latter is said to have spent fabulous sums of money at the polls, Mr. Flower was elected by a majority of over three thousand votes. He subsequently refused a re-election and has devoted all his time to business and acts of philanthropy, his generosity to charitable and public institutions being unbounded and yet unostentatious.

Buying a Good Many's Coal Oil Land.

At the beginning of the oil excitement in Pennsylvania a very religious old farmer who owned forty acres in the center of the "belt" had offers for his farm until he couldn't sleep nights. They began at $4,000 and went up to $50,000, but to each and every would-be purchaser the old man steadily replied:

"If the Lord has put coal-ile under my farm it isn't for me to dispute his will."

One day, however, the agent of a syndicate came along and asked what figure the old man would set on his acres.

"I've bin offered $50,000."

"Yes."

"I've bin saying as how the Lord put the ile there for some purpose of his own."

"Exactly."

"Well, now, if you could convince me that sum one barrel in ten of the ile from this farm would be used for people to read their bibles by I reckon I'd set my figures at about $60,000."

In less than three hours the farm changed hands.—Wall Street News.

Curious Interpretation of Shakspeare.

I once mentioned in a school-report how a young man in a training college, having to paraphrase the famous passage in "Macbeth" beginning,

"Canst thou not minister to a mind diseased?"

turned this line into "Can you not wait upon the lunatic?" And I remarked what a curious state of things it would be if every pupil of our national school knew that when a taper burned the wax is converted into carbonic acid and water, and thought at the same time that a good paraphrase for was "Can you not wait upon the lunatic?" It one is driven to choose, I think I would rather have a young person ignorant about the converted wax, but aware that "Can you not wait upon the lunatic?" is bad, than a young person whose education had been such as to manage things the other way.—Mathew Arnold in The Monthly Nation.

"Canst thou not minister to a mind diseased?"

The Zulu Indians are dying of the measles by the score.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NO LESS than 1,102 persons met with an untimely end in Berlin during the past year, 411 of whom committed suicide. Of this last-named figure 182 died by hanging, 45 by shooting, 105 by drowning and 82 by poisoning themselves.

A NEW journal, called the Honeymoon, has appeared at Brussels. The editor announces that he has secured the co-operation of a doctor of law and of an experienced gynæologist. The business of this last functionary will be to find illustrious ancestors for those who think their prospects of marriage will be thereby improved.

BY the tearing down of an old house in Charlotte, N. C., a letter written twenty-five years ago, and describing the tender emotions of a citizen of Charlotte on the eve of his wedding, has been found. The old man had quite forgotten the letter, and now wonders how he could ever have been guilty of such sublime nonsense.

COL. PEE-TON JOHNSTON, a son of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, is reported by the Rev. Dr. Henry M. Field as saying of the battle of Shiloh: "When my father was shot, and fell from his horse, he had gained a great victory; and if he had not been killed at that critical moment, in two hours more he would have captured Gen. Grant and his whole army.

IT has just been discovered, so it seems, that there are no earthworms in the soil of Manitoba. This must be a source of profound satisfaction to Manitoba birds, as they will not have to get up so early in the morning in order to prevent the other bird from getting the worm. But then it is doubtful if a bird loves to lie in bed in the morning as much as mankind do. Thus are the most joyful discoveries tempered by mature reflection.

OLIVE LOGAN writes that Mrs. Victoria Woodhull is married to John Randolph Martin, a rich London banker, "and any time day you can see the plensed amiable face of the now Mrs. Martin side by side with that of her faithful sister, Tennie C. Claflin, as they sit together in their comfortable carriage and roll toward their splendid residence in Courtfield Gardens over the smooth avenues of lovely Hyde Park."

WILLIAM KING, a wealthy London merchant, struck a new kink in the matter of will-making which is calculated to work the opposite effect of ordinary wills, and at the same time give great encouragement to the study of a profession that never knows too much. He willed $1,000 to his physician, with the proviso that the sum should be doubled every year that the testator should be kept alive. He lived ten years.

The paradise of wheelmen, as the users of bicycles and tricycles call themselves, is Washington, the seat of, or no other city affording such favorable conditions for the wheel. Ladies are beginning to use the tricycle, and a lady on one of these vehicles accompanied by a gentleman on a bicycle, promises to be a common sight. The number of bicycles in the United States is estimated at 10,000, and there are two or three associations of wheelmen.

WOMAN suffrage is being agitated in Great Britain. The ladies have now raised the watery, "No taxation without representation," and have boldly declared that they would steadily refuse to pay any taxes until their sex is enfranchised, and are organizing societies of female taxpayers to resist, by every device known to the law, the collection of taxes by forfeiture and sale. The leader of the agitation in the Commons is Sir William Wiseheil, member for Stoke-on-Trent.

MR. ROBERT SOBERS, of Chicago, was dining in London at Minister Lowell's, and near him sat the Duke of Argyll, who during the conversation expressed surprise that Chicago should have and treated Oscar Wilde—"a man whom we think nothing of, if we think of him at all"—so well. "Oh! all a mistake, your Grace," replied Mr. Sobers; "we had nothin'; to do with Fifth Avenue in Chicago." "But I certainly read in the New York and Boston papers long accounts of his reception in your city." "Yes, your Grace," answered the Chicagoan lawyer, "but 5 per recent growth of Chicago has made it the metropolis of the United States, and all the seaboard cities are jealous of her, and say spiteful things about her."

ONE of Mexico's erudities is its postoffice. Having entered the Postal Union, letters pass between it and other countries in the Union for 5 cents a half-ounce; but between towns within its own border the rates are a great deal higher. It is the custom along the Rio Grande, therefore, for Mexicans to cross the river and use the American post, thus saving money in correspounding with their own countrymen.

"I WISH," says Lawrence Tasdie, the English comedian, "that the editors would kindly leave my nose alone. I have no desire to thrust my nose into the newspapers. Indeed, I entirely concur with my old and valued friend Mr. Herbert Spencer, when he says: 'Evolution, devoid of antithesis, is but a weak substitute for the correlation of forces. The outcome of moral energy must succeed, not anticipate, natural effort.' These admirable words express exactly my views on this subject."

FRED HARTMAN, a 17-year-old prisoner at the Schenectady (N. Y.) Jail, where he was awaiting trial on the charge of theft, managed to escape, and, after leading the Sheriff a lively chase, crawled under a building only twenty inches from the ground. The Sheriff, suspecting his presence there, and not having a weapon, drew a meerschaum case from his pocket, and, pointing it where he supposed his bird was, threatened to shoot if he did not come out. Thinking the black article a veritable revolver, the prisoner surrendered and was taken back to jail.

A PHILADELPHIA gymnasium has a pet clam that he calls "Puss." It is a big fellow; if that expression can be used about a clam that answers to the name of "Puss." He caught her at Narragansett Pier last summer, and she cost him so much digging that he decided to keep her. One night there was a terrible squealing down cellar where Puss had her sleeping apartments. The next morn went down and found a rat with his feet fast between the two valve shells. Since then the oyster-man declares Puss has caught 112 rats. This is not a fish story, but it is as near as one can come to it when talking about clams.

A SPIDER'S web is as capable of teaching a lesson now as in the days of Robert Bruce. When a detective was sent for to find out who had robbed the private safe of Mr. Judd, of Stratford, Conn., that observing individual noted the fact that while a window near the safe had been left open, apparently by the escaping thief, a cobweb stretched across the aperture had not a thread broken. The sagacious detective argued from this that the burglar had had other means of entrance and exit, and thereupon hied himself to the law office of Mr. Judd's son, and accused him of having stolen the money. The young lawyer, who stood too high in the estimation of the public to have been suspected by any one, indignantly denied the charge; but when informed that there was proof that the window was opened from the inside, he "weakened," and confessed the theft. He handed over the money to the detective, and that worthy transferred it to the proper owner with explanations. It may be hardly necessary to remark that no prosecution of the thief has followed.

NEW YORK SUN: "It was as good as a circus," said Sergeant Mulholland. "I was walking along Broadway this morning when I saw a black-and-tan cab coming furiously up Murray street. The driver seemed to be doing his best to stop the animal, but it was unmanageable. A tall, well-built man, who did not see the runaway, was crossing the street. Everybody cried out to him, but the horse was close upon him before he saw it. Quick as thought he put out his right hand, seized the horse by the nostrils, gave a sudden twist, and the runaway was lying flat on his side on the cross sing. The cab driver was too much astonished to say a word, and the stranger picked up his hat and walked off as coolly as though nothing had happened. I learned that he was Mr. Leonard E. Sturges, the owner of a cattle ranch in Texas. He knew a trick that the cowboys have of throwing a steer by giving its head a little twist. He practiced it on Broadway, and if a runaway horse got a lesson they'd be sure to forget it he has any sense."

KYSER'S BENEDICTION.

BY PERIC.

It was a pleasant summer's day,
And Farmer Conn had come to mill,
The house was closed, and all about
There was a silence calm and still,
Except when Kyser, noble den,
Let loose a sullen, growling roar;
For, be it known, the farmer had Chained Kyser to his cellar door.

And Kyser was a grand old chap,
With teeth that were as sharp-knives sharp,
And was to him the cellar door
Who neared the farmer's after dark;
But why, you say, was this dog kept
Her thought of her poor Kyser's hair,
Poodle not, I trow, the fancy suit
Tucco was a cadet barrel there.

For in this quiet neighborhood
The bedtime fancied as wicker free;
Dear blossoms were the favorite flowers,
And chicken was the town "tooth fa."
Nor often had the fellows watched
The cellar door of Farmer Conn;
But ever when the folks were gone
They heard the watch-dog's thankful tone.

But Alex Brown this morning had
The little cellar window gain'd,
And, getting down, he let the small
Dear Kyser's wants quickly chained,
Then, running swift back again,
His absence to be told Tom Gloggs,
And in a trice that other lad
Alex and Tom and a gallon jug.

'Twas well that Kyser showed in teeth;
For filled with fear the surrounding cellar,
Tom Gloggs, he filled the jug full up,
While Alex laughed and cackled.

Then to the faucet each dry mouth
Was fastened in a thirsty pull,
And when they left, those three choice friends—
Alex, and Tom, and the jug—were "full."

Then scrambling, as best he could, these two
Could not even see the dark-brown stone
That harbored Ilse half-starved hell
Where grew the pens of Farmer Conn.
Thus thinks will ever couple juice,
Of the hell leading pair Tom Gloggs,
Half-smashed his head has with the woes,
To their warm hopes, he'd smashed the jug.

Then Alex's sorrowing heart ran o'er,
"Ah, I am the worst boy you ever heard;
Rise up, Tom Gloggs, and mourn with me,
Mourn that all jugs once have an end,"
Then Thomas straightened up his form,
With still tears glittering in his eyes!
"Alex," said he, "to always have A mournful, life, for these trust she."

"Now, Alex, lie, you a sermon preach,
And I will, life, be the singing bird;
And then their both hearts began to mourn
O'er that old jug's untimely end.
And Alex sounded o'er the woods
He calle'a sermon for the jug.
Then Gloggs sang "Sue," with notes a "life,"
Was sung by hearts-yed Thomas Gloggs.

"The benediction now we'll have!
You'll have to sermon preach, life, Jack."
But Alex, overcome with grief,
Was lying flat upon his back.
"I won't," he said, "the text yourself!"
"What—thunk" said Tom, and he knew not how,
And then the benediction came,
In shape of Farmer Conn's "Bow wow."

Upfrom the cellar dark and dim,
All thankful as was his purr-feet chum;
With bowed red mane and flashing white teeth,
The faithful watch-dog Kyser came.
Brave dog, he scented a fellow-dog,
And soon fed over Alex th re,
While Tom, with great eyes falling out,
Ran off, for he knew not how, nor where.

Poor Tom made no more visits life,
Nor did need he to that cow-ard spot,
Alone go will to see his pal,
Thomas will be it no I per seats bear;
And Alex, he knew he'd always be Afraid of Farmer Conn's dear.

Whether you're a brother chicken or a coward, die like a man. Don't lie down and squeal like a pig.

MR. WOPPING'S IDYL.

BY M. C. FARLEY.

There was a sharp rat-a-tat-tat-tat of light rain-drops flying along the narrow hall, a flutter of swaying white draperies flitting up the dingy stair, an indescribably brilliant and dazzlingly beautiful head of golden hair that, glancing in the sunshine, momentarily rose higher up and higher, until Mr. Wopping actually stood face to face on the second stair landing, two story back, with the most entrancingly beautiful little creature the world ever held.

Oh, no—no!" gurgled the beauty.

Mr. Wopping was not usually taken with women. On the contrary, he hated them more often than otherwise. But this delightful vision was the airiest, the fairest bit of floating lace and curls and dimples—oh, dear! she altogether, if not quite, took his breath away in spite of him.

"God bless my soul!" ejaculated the astonished Mr. Wopping.

"You are Mr. Wopping" asserted a soft, delicious, lute-like voice. The floating draperies, the dying red bootheels, and the dazzling tresses were a full stop before that gentleman, who, completely paralyzed by this sudden and unexpected vision of transcendental loveliness, lost even the remotest idea of denying his identity—that is, supposing he had wanted to deny it, in the first place.

Seeing him stand before her, amazed and speechless, her manner changed.

"Mr. Wopping?" queried she, with a stamp of her dear little foot.

"At your service, Miss," gasped Wopping, recovering the use of his tongue. His heart, alas! was now his own no longer.

"I am a boarder here at the Ocean House," said she, imperiously.

A Wopping bowed.

"And I am told you are a detective."

Mr. Wopping bowed again.

"And there was a burglary done in room No. 45 last night."

Once more he bowed.

"In room No. 45 is next to mine, and I am afraid, sir, I've been robbed myself."

"Perfectly," gasped Wopping, wiping the perspiration from his face. "You have been robbed, and no time is to be lost in notifying me as to be burgled."

The little beauty stared; then burst out laughing. She looked at him prettily from her big, soft, blue, innocent eyes.

"Oh, fie, Mr. Wopping," cried she, prettily, putting her furry finger to her rosely red lips. "The room can do no harm. Of course not. What I fear is that I shall be burglized, and I want my room watched. I have sooner valuable jewels that were poor mamma's," here a sigh, and a pathetic look from the big eyes. "And I would not lose them for anything."

"To be sure," assented Wopping.

"My awful papa insisted on my coming to this place for the summer, because it is healthy and cheap. But I am sorry that I came, even if we do have to practice economy. I don't care to be where there are robbers and things. One might be murdered." She shivered, and the suspicion of a tear stood in her eyes.

Mr. Wopping bowed, gravely this time, and with his right hand placed effectively on the left breast pocket of his waistcoat. He had seen this kind of thing done at the theaters, and it always struck him as being decidedly immense. Besides, though Mr. Wopping had been in the secret service some time, he had never before been appealed to for help by such a fascinating, darling little daisy of a girl as this one was.

"Do not alarm yourself unnecessarily," said he, gallantly. "If the most faithful care on my part can prevent it, your room shall remain undisturbed."

"And the hotel people will be sure to have more guards stationed about the house in future, won't they?" asked she, anxiously.

"It is against my orders to answer that question."

"Then you may expect another visitation at my moment," said she, dispairingly.

"Lightning doesn't usually strike twice in the same place," returned the grandiloquent Wopping; "still I can assure you that for the next month, at least, the house will be well watched."

"And—Mr. Wopping——" began the beauty, hesitatingly.

"You may command me," said the detective, with a most expressive look.

"If—if you'd only sit next me at meals, I'd feel safer." This with a charming little smile that would have melted a heart of iron. "And if you'll forgive me for speaking to you—of course I am a stranger—but to you will make it right with you for all your care and trouble, and I'll be so much obliged."

"Believe me, I am only too glad to be of service to you," cried he, ecstatically.

"And here is my card. Papa is a superannuated Presbyterian minister from the West. You have heard of him, perhaps—Mr. Rev. Richardson, of C——," mentioning a well-known Western city.

Yes, Mr. Wopping had heard of the Rev. Mr. Richardson, and, in fact, knew him very well by name. And now he put her card carefully away in his breast-pocket with great impressment.

"Your name, Miss Richardson. I will guard you with my life."

"Thank you. You are so kind, and I am so much obliged to you, dear Mr. Wopping."

And, with a radiant smile, the owner of the little red boots, the floating draperies, and the glancing curls, disappeared from his enraptured vision.

Mr. Wopping was fresh from the city. On account of a recent great robbery that had taken place beneath its roof, the proprietors of the Ocean Grove Casino, a cheap summer resort on the seashore, had seen fit to employ a detective to ferret out the perpetrators and bring them to justice, and Mr. Wopping, in that capacity, had just been making a tour of the house, "taking the lay of the land," as it were, at the time Miss Richardson had accosted him.

"Poor little dear," ejaculated he, as he thoughtfully hurried to the second conference—"so young, so beautiful, and so lonely. For the first time in my life I have met the real nature of my friend."

Mr. Wopping soon saw that the pretty Miss Richardson did not seem to languish for the want of company. Society opened its arms to her with general accord, and he could not help but see that the "dear little Richardson" was the belle of the house.

To be sure, however, he felt that he had secured the "inside track," as it were, for, in obedience to her request, he sat next to her at meals, and in a thousand and one little ways she made him feel that he was the man—par excellence.

Mr. Wopping had been at the Ocean House for a week now, and he was no nearer a solution of the robbery than he had been on the first day. In truth, he was not so near. Time glided along on golden wings. He measured its flight only by remembering the hours spent with the radiant little Richardson. He was deeply, very deeply in love. The rat-a-tat-tat of her red-heel-d shoes set him in a quiver of delight. The announcement of her fabulously golden hair filled him with a burning passion. To lie at her feet on the sands and quote Tennyson by the hour was a heavenly delight. He forgot his duties, and his professional zeal seemed to have forsaken him. But if Mr. Wopping found himself dead in love with the pretty Richardson, he knew that twenty other men were in exactly the same fix. Not that Miss Richardson flirted, for she did not. She was discretion itself. But there was a seductive grace about her—a bewildering witchery in motion and smile, in look and tone, that did the bolder sex for them beyond all power of resistance.

And right here, when nobody was expecting such a thing, particularly with a detective in the house, one of the boarders was robbed of $6000 and a diamond pin. This made two robberies now committed inside of six weeks. The guests were indignant, the landlord horrified. Mr. Wopping alone was paralyzed.

"Oh, Mr. Wopping," cried she, prettily, putting her furry finger to her rosely red lips. "The room can do no harm. Of course not. What I fear is that I shall be burglized, and I want my room watched. I have sooner yourself that lightning never twice in the same place. What think of this?"

"I don't think," said he, in a

"I shall certainly go home after this," cried she. "Another awful house, where the burglarized, as these seem to be the death of me. My things packed, and I shall go on the train."

"Give me the right to go with said Wopping, catching her

"I haven't much to

dear Miss Richardson, except that is all your own, and one that never felt love before I knew you. I love you, and ask you to be

"You surprise me, Mr. Wopping, indeed," said she, blushing

"But if you really for me in that way, I can you to papa; he will be so pro as for poverty, I have always preachers' daughters always shan't mind poverty if—if you."

At this confession, Mr.

snatched her to his heart.

"Darling little girl," he ecstasy.

"I am sorry to interrupt convene, my friends," broke voice behind them. "But me," and a strong hand laid

Miss Richardson's shoulder.

Wopping glanced up. Hab superior officer.

At the first sound of that

Miss Richardson had supposed and now, looking strangely still, stood half cowering in the grasp of the officer.

"What right have you to Richardson in that way?"

Wopping, angrily. "She trothed wife, and I bid

her."

The officer glanced from other. A low whistle escaped

"Your betrothed fiddlesticks, mean, don't you? Come ping, don't be a fool. This a married woman, and her the celebrated cracksman, Tom

She seems to have played your're worth, eh?"

Wopping glanced at his fiancé.

She returned a hard and and made a grimace. The pression had gone from her innocence had left her

"And now that that Mr.

here is the burglar who robbing at the Ocean House.

prised, Wopping, that an you would be so easily taken in."

"Mr. Wopping was interested poetry—particularly Tennyson,' the clairvoyant Miss Richardson valuable jewels that were poor mamma's," here a sigh, and a pathetic look from the big eyes. "And I would not lose them for anything."

"To be sure," assented Wopping.

"My awful papa insisted on my coming to this place for the summer, because it is healthy and cheap. But I am sorry that I came, even if we do have to practice economy. I don't care to be where there are robbers and things. One might be murdered." She shivered, and the suspicion of a tear stood in her eyes.

Mr. Wopping bowed, gravely this time, and with his right hand placed effectively on the left breast pocket of his waistcoat. He had seen this kind of thing done at the theaters, and it always struck him as being decidedly immense. Besides, though Mr. Wopping had been in the secret service some time, he had never before been appealed to for help by such a fascinating, darling little daisy of a girl as this one was.

"Do not alarm yourself unnecessarily," said he, gallantly. "If the most faithful care on my part can prevent it, your room shall remain undisturbed."

"And the hotel people will be sure to have more guards stationed about the house in future, won't they?" asked she, anxiously.

"It is against my orders to answer that question."

"Then you may expect another visitation at my moment," said she, dispairingly.

"Lightning doesn't usually strike twice in the same place," returned the grandiloquent Wopping; "still I can assure you that for the next month, at least, the house will be well watched."

"And—Mr. Wopping——" began the beauty, hesitatingly.

"You may command me," said the detective, with a most expressive look.

"If—if you'd only sit next me at meals, I'd feel safer." This with a charming little smile that would have melted a heart of iron. "And if you'll forgive me for speaking to you—of course I am a stranger—but to you will make it right with you for all your care and trouble, and I'll be so much obliged."

"Believe me, I am only too glad to be of service to you," cried he, ecstatically.

"And here is my card. Papa is a superannuated Presbyterian minister from the West. You have heard of him, perhaps—Mr. Rev. Richardson, of C——," mentioning a well-known Western city.

Yes, Mr. Wopping had heard of the Rev. Mr. Richardson, and, in fact, knew him very well by name. And now he put her card carefully away in his breast-pocket with great impressment.

"Your name, Miss Richardson. I will guard you with my life."

"Thank you. You are so kind, and I am so much obliged to you, dear Mr. Wopping."

And, with a radiant smile, the owner of the little red boots, the floating draperies, and the glancing curls, disappeared from his enraptured vision.

Mr. Wopping was fresh from the city. On account of a recent great robbery that had taken place beneath its roof, the proprietors of the Ocean Grove Casino, a cheap summer resort on the seashore, had seen fit to employ a detective to ferret out the perpetrators and bring them to justice, and Mr. Wopping, in that capacity, had just been making a tour of the house, "taking the lay of the land," as it were, at the time Miss Richardson had accosted him.

"Poor little dear," ejaculated he, as he thoughtfully hurried to the second conference—"so young, so beautiful, and so lonely. For the first time in my life I have met the real nature of my friend."

Mr. Wopping soon saw that the pretty Miss Richardson did not seem to languish for the want of company. Society opened its arms to her with general accord, and he could not help but see that the "dear little Richardson" was the belle of the house.

To be sure, however, he felt that he had secured the "inside track," as it were, for, in obedience to her request, he sat next to her at meals, and in a thousand and one little ways she made him feel that he was the man—par excellence.

Mr. Wopping had been at the Ocean House for a week now, and he was no nearer a solution of the robbery than he had been on the first day. In truth, he was not so near. Time glided along on golden wings. He measured its flight only by remembering the hours spent with the radiant little Richardson. He was deeply, very deeply in love. The rat-a-tat-tat of her red-heeled shoes set him in a quiver of delight. The announcement of her fabulously golden hair filled him with a burning passion. To lie at her feet on the sands and quote Tennyson by the hour was a heavenly delight. He forgot his duties, and his professional zeal seemed to have forsaken him. But if Mr. Wopping found himself dead in love with the pretty Richardson, he knew that twenty other men were in exactly the same fix. Not that Miss Richardson flirted, for she did not. She was discretion itself. But there was a seductive grace about her—a bewildering witchery in motion and smile, in look and tone, that did the bolder sex for them beyond all power of resistance.

And right here, when nobody was expecting such a thing, particularly with a detective in the house, one of the boarders was robbed of $6000 and a diamond pin. This made two robberies now committed inside of six weeks. The guests were indignant, the landlord horrified. Mr. Wopping alone was paralyzed.

"Oh, Mr. Wopping," cried she, prettily, putting her furry finger to her rosely red lips. "The room can do no harm. Of course not. What I fear is that I shall be burglized, and I want my room watched. I have sooner

There is an annual battle between American martins and English sparrows at Bird City, S. D., for the possession of a box open a fixed point. The martins have nested for many years in the box, and every spring before the sparrows return from their autumnal migration they build their nests and not permit any sparrows to enter. This year the sparrows, through the performance of their annual enactments; sometimes a persistent-ignoring Judge.—Baltimore American.

The English Sparrow a Nuisance?

The English sparrow was introduced into this country about twelve years ago, and the advent was celebrated by the Cullent Bryant in one of his poems.

The birds, strange to say, have first let loose in our midst, and have multiplied amazingly, and have carefully looked after their interests. Much was expected of them in the way of destroying the canker worm, but they have proved themselves more especially fond of the figure fruit and trees and refrained for ornament. The birds do not accomplish all they were supposed to do, and many people are disappointed. Some people say we should restrict their diet during the summer, should bring the seeds of weeds during the fall, and that they should hibernate after the manner of reptiles during the colder portions of the year. Because the birds were not able to do all these things, many were disgusted with them. In some parts of the country war was declared against them, and thousands were destroyed. All kinds of accusations were brought against these birds. They were accused of eating fruit, fighting, driving other birds away, and of being dirty in their habits. Now all these charges may be made against nearly all of the small birds. Even the song birds that are kept in parlors are not exempt from faults in these respects. English sparrows have not been the cause of driving other birds from large towns. None but partially domesticated birds will remain in town after the air becomes foul with coal smoke, and the noise of steam whistles become general. People who live in large cities have the choice between the English sparrows or no birds at all.—Chicago Times.

How Poker was Saved in the West.

Poker was the glory of California, and of San Francisco in particular, and of Sam Francisco in particular, and of Sam Francisco in particular, and of Sam

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

The State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select delegates to represent Michigan in the national democratic convention at Chicago, was held in White's theater, Detroit, on Wednesday afternoon, June 18th. Nearly every county in the state was represented by a full delegation, indicating an honest enthusiasm and strong hope of victory, even in the remote counties heretofore entirely under republican influence.

O. M. Barnes, chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order at 12 o'clock, and named as the selection of the committee for temporary officers, Don M. Dickinson, of Wayne, chairman, and H. F. Pennington, of Eaton, secretary.

On taking the chair, Mr. Dickinson made a few remarks eulogistic of Samuel J. Tilden, Grover Cleveland and others, and counseled an earnest, thorough campaign in support of whoever might be selected as our national representative.

The necessary committees on credentials, organization, etc., were appointed, and the convention adjourned for dinner.

On reassembling, the committees reported, the temporary officers were made permanent, and names were presented for district delegates, who were allirated by the convention.

For delegates-at-large the congressional districts were called first for the nomination of candidates. Thirteen names were presented, representing nearly every portion of the state. On the vote by counties, each district supported its favorite, until it became apparent that none could be elected without some of them changing.

Tarsney, of Saginaw, was ahead, and a few changes gave him the desired majority. The same tactics were followed with each of the others.

A. P. Swineford, of Marquette, while having many friends, was required to define his democracy before he could be elected. Representing a highly protected district, and the majority of the convention having a determination to re-assert the national platform of 1876, "a tariff for revenue only," it was desired to have his pledge to support such a platform before he could be recognized as a representative of Michigan democracy. This he did in a few well chosen words.

The alternates were elected by acclamation, and included those whose friends were most prompt in announcing their candidacy, and fortunate enough to get the chairman's recognition.

The delegates to Chicago, with their alternates, are as follows:

At Large—T. E. Tarsney, East Saginaw; O. W. Powers, Kalamazoo; O. M. Barnes, Lansing; A. Swineford, Marquette.

First District—Daniel J. Campau, John Harmon. Alternates Augustl Lemmer, W. F. Cogan.

Second District—F. M. Holloway, of Hillsdale; John Strong, Jr., of Monroe. Alternates—W. T. Sessions, Jackson; of Lenawee; Chas. E. Whitman, of Washtenaw.

Third District—Col. Michael Shoemaker, of Jackson; Delilla Hubbard, of Calhoun. Alternates—E. M. Powell, of Jackson; Henry D. Peet, of Branch.

Fourth District—Charles H. Rhinemeier, of Wayne; F. E. Stevens, of Van Buren. Alternates—H. C. Bothwell, of Berrien; Jos. K. Bilss, St. Joseph.

Fifth District—Horace B. Peck, of Allegan; John H. Walley, of Kent. Alternates—Thos. Ormond Oilman, Angelo E. Lowe, of Ionia.

Sixth District—Dr. M. L. Bragg, of Clinton; Isaac Ellis, of Genesee. Alternates—B. N. Spencer, of Livingston; D. L. Bodle, of Oakland.

Seventh District—Elliot G. Stevenson, of St. Clair; M. L. Bridle, of Macomb. Alternates—Dr. J. P. Lesser, of St. Clair; Mark Carrington, of Lapeer.

Eighth District—James K. Wright, of Gratiot; Jesse W. Skinner, of Shiawassee. Alternates—Cornelius Bennett, of Isabella; J. J. Bates, of Ogemaw.

Ninth District—Robert E. Rhoades, of Manistee; David E. Sapper, of Newaygo. Alternates—A. A. Nimrod, of Muskegon; Wm. F. Kibbell, of Ionia.

Tenth District—O. O. Fisher, of Bay; C. P. Black, of Huron. Alternates—W. L. Cornehill, of Tuscola; R. D. Wilson, of Clare.

Eleventh District—John Power, of Otsego; Wm. Pressprich, of Manistee. Alternates—Thos. Dickinson, of Mecosta; A. E. Banks, of Missaukee.

First on the list of Presidential candidates, with only a few unimportant exceptions, will be found the name of Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, who is hereby voted for.

The following are the officials elected as delegates to Chicago:

Second District—E. J. Smith, Lenawee; John Strong, Monroe.

Third District—Enoch Banker, Jackson; H. F. Pennington, Charlotte.

Fourth District—H. C. Sherwood, Berrien; A. J. Shakespeare, Kalamazoo.

Fifth District—I. M. Weston, Kent; G. B. Sanford, Ottawa.

Sixth District—Quincy A. Smith, Ingham; Elliot R. Wilcox, Oakland.

Seventh District—Isaac Beach, Lapeer; W. T. Boise, Huron.

Eighth District—Frank Lawrence, Saginaw; J. Stewart Crosby, Montcalm.

Ninth District—W. R. Wilson, Muskegon; Charles E. Resseguie, Mason.

Tenth District—L. S. Coman, Bay; C. J. Fallbourg, Emmet.

Eleventh District—Thos. M. Brady, Houghton; Gustave L. Trempe, Chippewa.

The platform adopted gives forth no uncertainty on the tariff question although two minority reports were offered favoring incidental protection. We print it in full, as follows:

We, the democracy of Michigan, in convention assembled, pledge ourselves anew to the constitutional doctrines of the democratic party. We deplore the fact that Samuel J. Tilden has declined a reelection to the presidency of the United States, and we affirm our faith in the sentiments expressed by his noble and statesmanlike letter.

We believe that home rule is the essence of free government; that the lines bounding state and national authority should be clearly defined to insure the broadest liberty to the people.

We believe in the economical administration of the government, and we denounce the republican party in power for its waste and extravagance in squandering the public money.

We demand the immediate protection of the present outrageous system of taxation which is accumulating over $100,000,000 surplus revenue each year.

We heartily endorse the action of the democratic majority in congress in its endeavors to reduce taxation.

We believe in commercial freedom, in the right of every man to buy where he can buy the cheapest and sell where he can sell the dearest.

We denounce the present tariff, levied upon over 2,000 articles as a masterpiece of injustice, inequality and false pretenses. It has impoverished many to subsidize the few. It prohibits imports that might purchase the products of American labor. It has degraded American commerce from the first to an inferior rank on the high seas. It has cut down the sales of American manufacturers at home and abroad, and lessened the returns of American agriculture, an industry followed by half our people. It costs the people five times more than it produces to the treasury, obstructs the process of production and wastes the fruits of labor. It promotes fraud, fosters smuggling, enriches dishonest officials, bankrupts honest merchants and favors the rich at the expense of the poor. We demand that all customs house taxation shall be only for revenue.

We instruct the delegates to Chicago elected by this convention it base its platform upon the confirmation of the policy of tariff reform as essential to the consistency and success of the party.

We denounce the republican party for its hypocrisy in declaring for a return of silver to which it has the sole responsibility, and yet in placing in nomination for the presidency a man identified with all these abuses and the corruption which has disgraced our politics during the time while his party has been in power.

Although no instructions were given the delegates, the sentiment of the convention was strongly in favor of Grover Cleveland, with McDonald, or some other good western man to occupy second place, we believe they will support such a combination unanimously, unless it becomes necessary to change to some other combination to secure a nomination. We believe that at least one delegate at large will support Butler, when a break is unavoidable, if his name is presented in a manner to give assurance of success, especially if there be a total conflict of interests in a few of the leading states which are deemed necessary to success.

On the whole, the convention is said to have been the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in the state, and gives more promise of success this fall.

Notes and News.

Grover Cleveland is "a strong, clean, able man." Record.

The south acknowledge Cleveland as a free trader, and if there be any opposition, it will come on that basis.

The Muskegon News should not feel so bad because the Muskegon county delegates to Detroit could not have everything their own way. Other counties in the district are also deserving of recognition occasionally, and we think Muskegon had her share this time. All that fell to the lot of Charlevoix was a seat on the platform, as one of the vice presidents.

"The policy of John Kelley and his Tammany sachems this year will undoubtedly be 'A democrat or nothing.' Flower will do. But Cleveland, never! The cry against Cleveland will be 'No republicans or bogus reformers for the democratic party.' Tammany must have a full-fledged democrat, and they would rather fight a losing fight with such a candidate than to win with Cleveland. The democrats will make a fatal blunder if they nominate this man." Detroit Journal. That is the howl set up one other year by republicans, and echoed by the "rule-or ruin" democracy, until defeat has come to be more certain than victory. And it will come again this year unless the various opposing factions concede something and pull together.

The Alba Record is supposed from some of its editorials to be a free trade paper. In a recent issue it said the Detroit Evening Journal was the "best two-cent paper ever published in the state." As the Journal is the most radical protection sheet in the state, and there are at least two other equally good two-cent news papers in Detroit which favor tariff reform, we would like the Record to explain in what the Journal's excellence consists.

The manner in which public sentiment is manufactured among traveling people is worthy of consideration. Last Thursday it was impossible to buy a Free Press on the train a large portion of the distance this side of Lansing. Tribunes were plenty, and those wanting news of the convention were compelled to take Tribunes or nothing. The report published in that paper was designed to make republican converts, nirre than a truthful statement of the proceedings.

The democracy of Michigan is for Grover Cleveland for president by a large majority, but not unanimously. The mention of the name of Ben Butler showed that he had a small but determined following, large enough to become the balance of power, and elect any good man on whom they may unite; or defeat any opposition to republicanism if not united. The republicans of Michigan are in the minority, and if the opposition can be united they will sweep everything.

While Michigan democracy is for Grover Cleveland for president, by a large majority, it is not unanimous. The following resolution, offered by Willard Stearns of Lenawee, at the state convention, met with such determined opposition from the Butler men as to leave no room for doubt that they will become a factor in the canvass worth considering and harmonizing. Their opposition killed the resolution. The name of Cleveland roused the enthusiasm of the delegates to a high pitch, but when Mr. Murtagh, of Wayne, moved to substitute the name of Benjamin F. Butler, it caused an explosion. More than a dozen delegates jumped to their feet to address the chair, and the chairman was compelled to rule the whole thing out of order until a more convenient season. This gave them all time to consider, and the Cleveland men gave way on the plea that the resolution might have a bad influence on other states, and would be considered as pledging Michigan to Cleveland's support, and practically instructing the delegation to support him at Chicago. Virtually it was a victory for the Butler men. The resolution is as follows: "Resolved, that the chairman of the democratic state convention be instructed to send to the New York state convention the following dispatch: The democracy of Michigan, in convention assembled, send greeting to the democracy of the empire state, and would enthusiastically hail the nomination of Grover Cleveland for president of the United States, in the interests of national honor, popular government, and the people's prosperity."

W. M. WAGAR. D. C. WAGAR.

WAGAR BROS.,

Wholesale and Retail dealers in

Tobacco, Cigars,

And Smokers' Articles.

Also a full line of

Confectionery, Fruits,

AND

Temperance Drinks.

Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich. 50

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

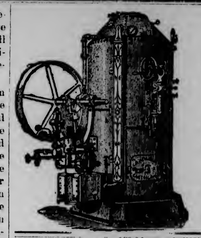
Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I keep no cheap, ready-made work, but will manufacture and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BOARDING HOUSE & 60 'S RUSH, CHARLEVOIX.

For the OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 41



E. T. BROWN & C

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stationa

Engines,

SAW MILLS, THRESHE
MILL SUPPLIES

The Best Saw Mill in the W
for the Money.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHINERY

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CATALO

West Bridge Street,

Grand Rapids, Michi

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoe

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoe

LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painti

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING.

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Compan

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWIN

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber an Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.

ADVANCE, M

NEW GOOD

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Stoc

is ready for inspection. Come and see and when you want a suit of clothes that AUSTIN STYLE, you will know where them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond W
the Times.

GEO. W. MILLER,
DEALER IN CLOTHING,
GENTS'
FURNISHING GOODS,
ETC.
CHARLEVOIX,
MICH

New Stores

and

NEW GOOD

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cutle
Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements
Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggy
Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors
Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Tin
Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW

THE MOST USEFUL BOOK EVER PUBLISHED

A Book that should be in Every House.

The press, teachers, and professional men throughout the country pronounce it to be the BOOK OF BOOKS. It contains upwards of 50,000 WORDS, with their definitions and pronunciation, according to Webster and other recognized authorities; a large number of additional words and definitions in general use. Besides a mine of information for everybody. Printed on handsomely bound in cloth, containing 942 Pages Profusely Illustrated. We propose to present you one of these valuable books, by mail, all postage charges prepaid, to any address, on receipt of only ONE DOLLAR.

Address M. STOLZ & CO.,

39 Park Place, New Yo

E JOURNAL

oix, Mich., June 20, 1884.

rovision Market.

he prices to consumers, as corrected every morning by FREIGHT, EMREY & dealers:

ur, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00, and $7.00.

at, 60c per cent. bolted $2.00; unbolted, ye, 60c.

ckwheat, 50c.

ED, per cwt. $1.40@1.55.

O. W. Smith, lapidist, now occupies his new building on Bridge street.

Capt. H. S. Stevens, of the tug J. H. Martin, started for Chicago last Friday.

L. E. Allen is building a stone wall along Bridge street in front of his lot.

Bridge street has been given a covering of gravel on the north side of the river.

Two weeks more will close the first year of the JOURNAL. A large majority of the subscriptions will expire with that date, and renewals will be in order. We hope our friends will respond liberally.

A. H. Tyler is erecting a tower in Petoskey from which he expects to have an excellent view of the surrounding country, and with the aid of field glasses Beaver Island can also be plainly seen.

Wagar Bros. have a card this week.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for ries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

ency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

E JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 26, 1884.

n Reasons for Locating in Michigan.

First. Because no other state pre ts so great a diversity of soil. The state is equable, the seasons well ed, and crops of all kinds are ed under the most favorable con ons.

Second. Because desirable agricultural and timbered lands are to be at prices ranging from $1.25 to per acre. These lands are situat your markets, and, when timbered, timber produced will more than the cost of clearing. Taxes are and the state has no debt.

Third. Because all cereals and all eables are raised with marked ess in nearly every county in the e. This fact should impress itself on every land seeker who may ed of locating in western territories, re silent alone can be raised, parly since the low price of this al is likely to render its produc unprofitable.

Fourth. Because it is the best fruit in the union. The variety and dence of its fruits have never excelled.

Fifth. Because its vast meadows wood land afford the best possi opportunities for grazing. The tion of Michigan cattle and p is already world-wide.

Sixth. Because it has a magnificent th of woods, both hard and soft, d are convertible into a variety of d articles in daily use all over country and the world; and its on the growing prairie states make every foot of timber valu

Seventh. Because the iron, copper, e, stone, plaster, salt, coal, and oil ries of Michigan would in themselves sustain the great reputation she has achieved, were agriculture ot hmering unknown within its ers.

Eighth. Because good markets are e found in every county. Rail and water transportation com ete to make rates to the seaboard s lower relatively than in many ers.

Ninth. Because the varied resources we enumerated afford a field for factories of all descriptions. e power is to be had in every ty, and the expense of carrying factories is thus reduced to the imum.

Tenth. Because the educational ad ntages of the schools and ges of Michigan are unsurpassed, ion practically free, is avail throughout the entire state.

For more detailed information, the pamphlet, "Michigan and Resources," which can be had free charge by addressing the

COMMISSIONER OF IMMIGRATION,

Detroit, Mich.

Fruit Prospects.

Correspondents of the secretary of e make the following reports of prospects for fruits in the Grand Traverse region, as taken from the June crop report:

From W. W. Johnson, Snowdlake, Antrim county: The prospects are excellent here for a full crop of the following varieties of fruit: Apples, hardy cherries, grapes, strawberries, raspberries, etc. Slight frosts occurred about the last of May but did no damage. Peach buds were all destroyed by cold weather in January. The trees survived and are leaving out nicely. Tender cherries and some varieties of plums seem to have been affected by the cold winter, and only a partial crop of plums may be expected. We are having a severe drouth, the surface soil is so dry that late planted corn does not sprout.

From George Parmelee, Old Mission, Grand Traverse county.: Apple orchards are a sea of bloom (June 5). Plums and cherries are about as full. Pears do not promise more than half a crop. Some peach trees are full, others not, depending to some extent on the condition of "atmospheric drainage," as we had a cold snap last winter when the temperature fell to near the killing point. The Crawfords are making a poor show on account of small wood growth last season. Small fruits all promise well, though in some cases the first strawberry blossoms were cut by a frost. In this vicinity the loss was slight. Notwithstanding the full promise of the tree fruits I shall be surprised if all is realized, for the great blight of apples, plums, cherries, pears, and peaches last year pested us much on the foliage as on the fruit, and it seems hardly reasonable to expect that degree of vitality in the trees necessary to mature a very many crop this season. I look for the fullest crop on those trees which carried the most healthy foliage last year.

From J. G. Ramsdell, Traverse City, Grand Traverse county.: I can only speak for my own farm, not having visited or inquired of others. Apples, pears, plums, cherries, and quinces promise more than an ordinary crop. Peaches about ten per cent of a full crop. Grapes a full crop. Prospects done no damage to fruit in this county.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crosier.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine. 4yr

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N.Y.

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4yr

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages interest and instruct young and old. It is indispensable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic and the School Boy who longs to lay the foundation of a useful character and seeks for models to pattern after.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN

who have excelled and are still exerting potent influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication, bearing in full view the duty of EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and lives of its most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the age.

Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Cabinet, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Authors, Artists, Actors, Editors, Musicians, Philanthropists, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Prize Ring Heroes, Cardinals, Jurists, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life.

INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM ARE THE FOLLOWING: CHESTER A. ARTHUR, JOHN SHERMAN, GEORGE F. EDMUNDS, ARTHUR McDONALD, HAYARD, MORRISON, JOSEPH E. McDONALD, LINCOLN, ROBERT T. LINCOLN, BENJAMIN HARRISON, THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, BLAINE, LOGAN, D. WILLIAMS and JOE HOLT.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Contains Presidential Electoral Tickets, Democratic and Republican Platforms of Cleveland, Hendricks and Chicago Conventions, Replies of Candidates, with full text of the important Letters of Acceptance, etc.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Is a Book for Every Household.

AND DIRECT TO EVERY WOMAN—which occupy an honorable and honored position in the world. It encourages and fosters the young, and will exert a powerful influence for a noble mission in that direction which is sure to follow.

If you would become acquainted with the forms and features of the men and women whose names have become a household word throughout the world, send for a copy of THE

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers,

92 White Street, New York.

Gold for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you, free, a royal valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine. 4yr

Traverse City Items.

Mr. Ainslie is to be congratulated on the fine appearance of Dixon avenue since it was graded and raked. The time is not distant when it will be the finest street in Charlevoix.

W. C. Nelson, of the Lehman Enterprise, gave the JOURNAL a call on Tuesday. He reports business good, and says he is one of the mortals fortunate enough to be prosperous and happy.

A. D. Carnickshank started on Tuesday to visit his parents near Quebec, whom he has not seen in a number of years. He will also visit the White Mountains, returning to Charlevoix in about three weeks.

Got To Stand It!

Mr. A. bought his wife one bottle of Parmelee's Blood Purifier, and now he thinks he has got himself into business, for she devises so much benefit from it that she nearly another bottle or two and be permanently cured. There is no purifier known so efficient in its workings as this. Only $1.00 per bottle. Sold by O. B. Wood & Co. 52

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with the positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we defy fraud to show a case that it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

DR. CROSIER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

$66 a week at home. $5 to $20 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make good pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLET & Co., Portland, Maine. 4yr

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4yr

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y. 4yr

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Woods' drug store.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

ws, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

The State Convention.

The democratic state convention to select delegates to represent Michigan in the national democratic convention at Chicago, was held in White's theater, Detroit, on Wednesday afternoon, June 18th. Nearly every county in the state was represented by a full delegation, indicating an honest enthusiasm and strong hope of victory, even in the remote counties heretofore entirely under republican influence.

O. M. Barnes, chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order at 12 o'clock, and named as the selection of the committee for temporary officers, Don M. Dickinson, of Wayne, chairman, and H. F. Pennington, of Eaton, secretary.

On taking the chair, Mr. Dickinson made a few remarks eulogistic of Samuel J. Tilden, Grover Cleveland and others, and counseled an earnest, thorough campaign in support of whoever might be selected as our national representatives.

The necessary committees on credentials, organization, etc., were appointed, and the convention adjourned for dinner.

On reassembling, the committees reported, the temporary officers were made permanent, and names were presented for district delegates, who were affirmed by the convention.

For delegates-at-large the congressional districts were called first for the nomination of candidates. Thirteen names were presented, representing nearly every portion of the state. On the vote by counties, each district supported its favorite, until it became apparent that none could be elected without some of them changing.

Tarsney, of Saginaw, was ahead, and a few changes gave him the desired majority. The same tactics were followed with each of the others.

A. P. Swineford, of Marquette, while having many friends, was required to define his democracy before he could be elected. Representing a highly protected district, and the majority of the convention having a determination to re-assert the national platform of 1876, "a tariff for revenue only," it was desired to have his pledge to support such a platform before he could be recognized as a representative of Michigan democracy. This he did in a few well chosen words.

The alternates were elected by acclamation, and included those whose friends were most prompt in announcing their candidacy, and fortunate enough to get the chairman's recognition.

The delegates to Chicago, with their alternates, are as follows:

At Large—T. E. Tarsney, East Saginaw; O. W. Owen, Bay; Shannon W. M. Barnes, Lansing; A. P. Swineford, Marquette.

First District—Daniel A. Campau, John Harmon. Alternates—August Lemmer, W. F. Cody.

Second District—P. M. Holloway, of Hillsdale; John Strang, Jr., of Monroe. Alternates, W. T. Richemond, of Lenawee; Chas. R. Whitman, of Washtenaw.

Third District—Col. Michael Shoemaker, of Jackson; Dr. Ella Rowland, of Calhoun. Alternates, L. M. Powell, of Jackson; Henry D. Peck, of Branch.

Fourth District—Charles H. Blumenfeld, of Wayne; E. E. Stearns, of Van Buren. Alternates—Hon. Strong, Jr., of Monroe. Alternates, W. T. Richemond, of Lenawee; Chas. R. Whitman, of Washtenaw.

Fifth District—Col. Michael Shoemaker, of Jackson; Dr. Ella Rowland, of Calhoun. Alternates, L. M. Powell, of Jackson; Henry D. Peck, of Branch.

Sixth District—Charles H. Blumenfeld, of Wayne; E. E. Stearns, of Van Buren. Alternates—Hon. Strong, Jr., of Monroe. Alternates, W. T. Richemond, of Lenawee; Chas. R. Whitman, of Washtenaw.

Seventh

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

TOPIC: CHIEF.

AMONG those in attendance at the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Club, at the residence of Col. Duffy, Lancaster, Pa., last week, were Senators Edmonds, Pendleton, Evarts, J. Donald Cameron, Angus Cameron, Samuel J. Randall, Gen. Simon Cameron, Charles A. Dana, George W. Childs, and the Judges of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

AT Butler, Pa., the boiler of mill No. 2 exploded, killing the engineer, Richard Walker, and fatally injuring his son.

BY a collision between a church excursion train and an accommodation train on the Camden Road, near Ashland, Pa., eight excursionists were killed and a number badly wounded. The dead are reported at a sharp curve, and was caused by the non-reception of a telegraphic dispatch. Both locomotives were destroyed.

IN Southern Nebraska, on the morning of the 16th, the thermometer fell to 38 degrees. There were fresh in some places, and considerable damage was done to feeding crops. For the third time in thirty years S. Somers & Co., wholesale millinery N. Y. city, have failed. On the former occasions they paid, respectively, 25 and 30 cents on the dollar.

ABOUT 600 thousand persons, mostly Spanish Americans, assembled at Central Park, New York, to witness the unveiling of a statue to Bolivar, the great liberator. Mr. John Reilly acted as Master of Ceremonies, and Mr. Evarts delivered the oration. She rushed back to get her clothing and was burned to death.

Bishop MATTHEW SIMPSON, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, breathed his last at Philadelphia, after a lingering illness at the close of his seventy-third year.

A STATUE of the late Gen. Buckingham, of Connecticut, was unveiled at Hartford, in presence of six thousand persons, and a vast concourse of citizens. By the decision of the Supreme Court of New York, John P. Newman is restrained from officiating as pastor of the Madison Avenue Congregational Church, during absence of its services or meetings, or from receiving salary, save as acting pastor, since March 31 of this year.

THE WEST.

THREE Deputy Sheriffs at Salt Lake, armed with Winchester rifles, escorted Fred Hoyt, who had been three times tried for murder. He sat upon his coffin, blindfolded, and the officers fired from a point ten pace distant.

JUDGE PRESTON, at Vinalhaven, D. T., granted a motion quashing the indictment against Gov. Ordway, alleging the grand jury was not of jurisdiction.

IN a place called Municipopolis, Minn., between Patsy Mellen and Jack Keefe, fourteen rounds were fought in fifty-six minutes, when Mellen was declared the victor.

ALVA TIPTON, a notorious crook, was found hanging to a tree near Sturges, Dakota Territory. Its hands were unknown.

The body of a man named Rodell was found in the Jim River, near Mitchell, Dakota Territory, and it is believed that he was murdered by the vigilantes.

WHILE incited James Cowan, 8 years old, was shoveling coal near Omaha, Neb., his little companions were so befuddled with beer that they could render him no assistance. At Omaha, Wis., an aged woman named Mrs. Hahn fainted in a hotel parlor and with cause and then took pains green before she died.

LUKE PHIPPEN, who last August killed his wife on a fiery bust on Detroit River, was convicted at Sandwich, Ontario. He methods lively. His body was interred in the back yard instead of the gallows, to the ladies. His body, put had Nov. 9th, and was tossed out at 7 o'clock. Ill. Mrs. Roberts, Cook's aid of Clerk Brooks, Colo., of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, is dead. Gen. Lucius Fairchild, Colonel of the 2d Wisconsin Cavalry, Adjutant-General of the State, and Consul to Spain, died at Madison, Wis.

IN New York Democratic State Committee meeting all the differences of opinion between the factions of the New York Democracy were settled and harmony was restored. Chairman Kelly, of the Democratic Executive Committee, announced the following appointments: Chairman, Edward Cooper; Secretary, Daniel Dougherty; Treasurer, Augustus Schell; Sergeant-at-Arms, Peter B. Olney.

THE SOUTH.

THE Court-house at Clarksville, Ark., was burned. The Arkansas Democratic State Committee has called the Democratic State Convention to meet at Little Rock, March 25, to nominate a State ticket.

DANIEL SMITH, a negro, was hanged at Jackson, Miss., for the murder of Mary Brewer and Daniel Hall, a white man, in the western part of the county, in March, 1880. The murder was committed for the purpose of robbery.

GENERAL.

THE Texas Democrats have adopted resolutions denouncing a protective tariff as unconstitutional, unjust, and in conflict with the genius and spirit of a free government.

A NEW Jersey man has applied for a divorce from his wife because she insisted on wearing a bustle. He says he can't afford it.

THE Texas Democrats have adopted resolutions denouncing a protective tariff as unconstitutional, unjust, and in conflict with the genius and spirit of a free government

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., June 26, 1884.

Around the County.

South Arm.

Mr. St. John has recently moved in to our village.

F. W. Embrey dispenseth the news to the East Jordanites.

The rug-mun has been here collecting South Arm's old clothes.

Mrs. Boise and family have moved into Peter LaClair's house on his farm.

South Arm has received its first piano. Mrs. P. L. Lanway is the happy owner.

The crops are looking pretty well excepting hay and oats. Potatoes and corn are doing well.

It was H. B. Stohlman, South Arm postmaster, that built the walk spoken of last week.

Mr. Robert Murphy has moved into his residence which he began building about a week ago.

A 10 lb boy was added to the household of A. B. Vance, June 13th. Some Add Vance-ment still in this world of progress.

Several vessels loaded here last week. East Jordan and South Arm are getting to be quite an item in the commercial world.

Mr. Butler, aged ninety-six, and grand daughter Miss Judd, of Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Lovewell, of Chicago, and Mrs. Susan Cole, of Bay Springs, are here now as guests of E. A. H. Cole and Mrs. J. A. Kent.

Ironton.

Mr. Frazell will move his blacksmith shop on to the new street recently opened.

One of the coal kilns fell in, last Saturday, resulting in considerable loss to the company.

The Ironton school is progressing rapidly under the management of Mr. J. M. Harris and Miss Stevens.

Walter Mumey has sold his residence to the iron company. Foreman Kemp will occupy it as soon as vacated.

Thos. Brown assaulted Wm. Henry with his fist one day last week, and Squire Sheldon assessed him $18 and costs, to settle it.

Preaching Sunday morning at the school house by Rev. Mr. Blake, in the evening by Rev. Mr. May, and Monday evening by Presiding Elder W. B. Stichtenoth.

A map of South America, 3x5 feet, constructed of earth, is one of the attractions at the school house. It was "drawn" by a class in geography, of four girls and two boys, whose ages range from 14 to 17 years. The general surface, with mountains, valleys, rivers etc., is delineated, and the vegetable and other products of the different localities are indicated. The whole is a credit to the class, and to their teacher, Mr. Harris.

Norwood.

Mr. Wm. Rathbun left here for his home in Detroit, Monday, the 23d.

Mr. Fred Smith and Miss Abbie Bennett, of Charlevoix, were in town Sunday, guests of D. R. Bennett.

Darley Meech, son of F. J. Meech, returned to his home Saturday the 21st. We are glad to see you Darley.

Rev. Mr. Morgan preached to an over crowded house Sunday evening crowds stood at every window outside.

Work has begun on our new town hall, and ere long we will have a building that our town people may feel proud of.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gayles and their daughter May, left for Manitowoc, Saturday the 21st. Mrs. Gayles goes for a visit of three months.

Burgess.

Haying will begin next week.

Road overseers in Hayes generally intend beginning work this week.

A Butler club will be organized in Murry school district this week.

The saw mills of Messrs. Crain and Whitford, recently burned, are to be rebuilt soon.

David Tabisham, aged 28, died at the residence of his father, and was buried June 22.

Preaching at Maple Grove school house next Sunday at 11 o'clock by Rev. D. H. Pierce.

A republican from Evangeline, visiting in Hayes this week, predicts that many republicans will vote for Butler this fall.

Ironton School.

The following is a report of the senior department of Ironton school for summer term up to June 20:

NAMES.	Arithmetic.	Geography.	Grammar.	Spelling.	Physiology.	Reading.	Average.
Eddie Bird	85	90	90	95	85	85	88
Geneva Bell	100	95	90	90	90	95	93
Nellie Noyes	100	100	100	100	100	100	100
Katie Smith	100	100	100	100	100	100	100
Stella Miller	85	75	85	90	90	85	85
Mary Freer	85	95	90	...	...	...	90
Lizzie Meyers	85	95	90	...	...	...	90
Carrie Simonson	90	85	80	...	...	...	85
Annie Miller	75	85	90	...	...	...	83
Thos. Mosher	78	80	90	...	...	...	83
Ella Hunt	100	100	100	...	...	...	100
Phebe Holland	71	85	95	...	...	...	84
Warren Webster	85	90	...	...	...	...	88
Nellie Hammond	75	98	...	...	...	...	87
Walter Willis	88	93	...	...	...	...	91
Katie Mumey	95	93	...	...	...	...	94
Mary Schoffen	79	100	...	...	...	...	90
Katie Beamer	80	81	...	...	...	...	81
Nettie Waldron	81	100	...	...	...	...	90
Jennie Mesplaer	70	75	...	...	...	...	73
Jennie Hunt	70	100	...	...	...	...	85
Frank Williams	70	75	...	...	...	...	73
Walter Bird	63	78	...	...	...	...	70
Zella Goodyear	100	98	...	...	...	...	99
Laura Webster	90	100	...	...	...	...	95
Annamunghame	70	75	...	...	...	...	72
Mena Ericks	93	81	...	...	...	...	87
Cassie Fox	75	81	...	...	...	...	78
Louie Hammond	76	73	...	...	...	...	74
Rollo Hause	70	90	...	...	...	...	80
Walter Williams	73	74	...	...	...	...	73
Hannah Mumey	87	95	...	...	...	...	91
Sophrona Meclen.
...ngman	68	78	...	...	...	...	73
Nellie Markey	75	74	...	...	...	...	74
Charlie Hause	70	90	...	...	...	...	80

J. M. Harris, Teacher.

WAR WITH HIGH PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

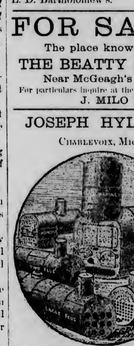
Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

Charlevoix, Mich.



Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy Blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

Grand Rapids Democrat,

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Office: 75 Lyon St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Daily Democrat, By mail, $6.00 per year in advance; $3.00 for six months; $1.50 for three months; 50 cents per month, payable to the Democrat's monthly collector, delivered in any part of the city.

Weekly Democrat, $1.50 per year, 75 cents for six months, invariably in advance. Address,

THE DEMOCRAT,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Five per cent. interest, payable January and July. We hold large deposits in this department.

REASONS: First, we have Special Privileges granted to Savings Banks in Real Estate Mortgages. Second, we have Special State Savings Banks, or other State Banks, offer no security to depositors. Stockholders are not personally liable, as in other institutions. National banks only secure their bills in circulation. Second, we do not speculate; holding that with our own money it is foolish, and with others' money criminal.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.
Arrive East Jordan	8.30 a. m.
Leave East Jordan	9.00 a. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m.

2.00 p. m. | 4.00 p. m. | 4.30 p. m. | 6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.
Arrive Boyne	8.30 a. m.
Leave Boyne	9.30 a. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	12.00 m.

2.00 p. m. | 4.00 p. m. | 4.30 p. m. | 6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv.	7.00am	Harbor Springs	1.30pm
Charlevoix	9.00am	Petoskey	3.00pm
Petoskey	11.00am	Charlevoix	4.30pm
Harbor Springs	1.30pm	East Jordan, ar.	6.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Lv Boyne	7.00am	Lv Charlevoix	2.00pm
Ar Charlevoix	9.30am	Ar Boyne	4.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

LEAVE	AM	PM	ARRIVE	AM	PM
East Jordan	6:30	1:00	Charlevoix	8:45	3:15
Charlevoix	9:30	4:00	East Jordan	11:55	6:00

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE, SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

C. O. E. TAYLOR, Master.

GOING NORTH. Monday, Wednesdays, and Fridays.	GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave	Will Leave
Traverse City	7:00am	No. Ignace	5:00am
Northport	8:30am	Mackinaw Island	7:00am
Charlevoix	10:00am	Cross Village	10:00am
Petoskey	2:00pm	Harbor Springs	2:00pm
Harbor Springs	2:30pm	Petoskey	3:00pm
Cross Village	5:00pm	Charlevoix	5:00pm
Mackinaw Island	8:00pm	Northport	7:00pm
Arriving at		Arriving at
St. Ignace	10:00pm	Traverse City	8:30pm

T. S. FAXTON,
Capt. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.	GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave	Will Leave
Traverse City	7:00am	Harbor Springs	6:00am
Old Mission	8:30am	Petoskey	7:00am
Elk Rapids	10:00am	Charlevoix	8:30am
Torch Lake	11:30am	East Jordan or
Norwood	12:00pm	Boyne	10:00am
Charlevoix	2:00pm	Charlevoix (re-
East Jordan or		turning)	11:30am
Bennett	3:00pm	Norwood	1:00pm
Charlevoix (re-		Torch Lake	2:00pm
turning)	5:00pm	Elk Rapids	3:30pm
Petoskey	8:30pm	Old Mission	5:30pm
Arriving at		Arriving at
Harbor Springs	7:00pm	Traverse City	6:00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R.; also on Monday mornings with the "Flyer" for Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the "Flyer" Traverse for Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Card to effect January, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.	...	7.00pm	7.10pm	...
Richmond	2.37pm	10.32	9.52	...
Winchester	3.15	11.07	10.06	...
Ridgeville	4.11	11.57	11.21	...
Fort Wayne, ar.	6.42	2.47	1.50am	...
Fort Wayne, lv.	...	2.47	2.50	8.05am
Kendallville	...	3.53	3.52	9.11
Sturgis	...	5.13	5.14	10.35
Vicksburg	...	6.11	6.13	11.30
Kalamazoo, ar.	...	6.52	6.52	12.05pm
Kalamazoo, lv.	...	7.02	7.02	1.52
Old Rapids, ar.	...	9.02	9.02	3.57
Old Rapids, lv.	7.15am		9.50	4.05
Ivanhoe & M. cros.	7.30		10.05	5.05
Howard City	8.01		11.20	6.27
Big Rapids	9.45		12.18pm	7.52
Reed City	10.30		1.12	8.48
Cadillac, ar.	11.25		2.21	9.30
Cadillac, lv.	...		2.30	9.50
Traverse City, ar.	...		4.55	...
Kalkaska, lv.	...		4.47	12.00am
Mancelona	...		4.49	12.05
Boyne Falls	...		5.07	12.24
Petoskey, ar.	...		5.45	1.05
Harbor Springs	...		6.15	1.45
Mackinaw City	...		10.00	5.50
St. Ignace	...		10.00	5.50
Marquette	...		7.10am	7.50pm
Negaunee, ar.	...		8.12	8.56

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Negaunee, lv.	...	...	5.15pm	7.30am
Marquette	...	...	9.00	9.20
St. Ignace	...	...	5.45am	4.15pm
Mackinaw City	...	...	6.10	9.15
Harbor Springs	...	...	7.00	10.20
Petoskey, lv.	...	...	7.38	11.13
Boyne Falls	...	...	8.15	12.25am
Mancelona	...	...	8.33	1.11
Kalkaska	...	...	8.51	1.35am
Traverse City, lv.	...	...	11.15	5.20
Cadillac, ar.	...	3.20pm	11.45	5.50
Cadillac, lv.	...	4.0	1.07pm	7.46
Reed City	...	5.12	2.12	8.49
Big Rapids	...	6.42	3.44	10.20
Howard City	...	8.08	5.05	11.37
Ivanhoe & M. cros.	...	9.23	6.18	12.05
Old Rapids, ar.	...	7.10	7.05	10.25
Old Rapids, lv.	6.25am	...	7.30	10.30
Kalamazoo, ar.	8.32	...	9.52	12.24
Kalamazoo, lv.	8.37	...	9.55	12.27pm
Vicksburg	9.07	...	10.22	1.00
Sturgis	10.03	...	11.16	1.52
Kendallville	11.12	...	12.35	3.01
Fort Wayne, ar.	12.53pm	...	1.52	4.42
Fort Wayne, lv.	12.57	5.25am	2.02pm	4.50pm
Ridgeville	2.04	7.56	3.35	...
Winchester	2.58	8.46	4.55	...
Richmond, ar.	4.05	9.47	6.02	...
Cincinnati, ar.	...	7.50pm	12.20pm	7.35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Ag't G. R. & I. R. R., Grand Rapids, Mich.

10 CENTS a month will pay for the JOURNAL during the campaign. Begin now.

J. MILO EATON

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FA

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Compani

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goo

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, M

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRI

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suiting

Boots and Sh

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. As a member, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDI

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crocke Glassware, Hardware, Drugs Stationery, Notions, &c,

AT LOW PRICE

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN CHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISA

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

BER 51. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

E JOURNAL

ished every Thursday morning,

STRANG.

over T. D. Smith's grocery,

LEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

siness Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

RANK A. GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Hatfield's Block, Charlevoix, Mich. Collections a specialty. C. A. GRIER.

ALL, Attorneys at Law. Real Estate and Agents. Lake st., east of post-office, Mich.

Bidwell, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Insurance Agents.

MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. Charlevoix, Mich.

ONEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

MCBERRY, Attorneys at Law, and Notary Public. Office in Bank Block, between Mitchell St. & Pinkney, Mich.

EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City.

P. BISBEE, Attorney and Solicitor, Circuit Court Commissioner.

ERT T. Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

NKS AND BANKERS.

OF CHARLEVOIX,—Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Exchange and mortgages bought and sold. Collections on all cities in Europe and United States promptly and carefully made. Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on farm property. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday-school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7. J. T. HODGINS, pastor.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday-school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. HODGINS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CITY HOOK AND LADDER FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at 7:30 o'clock. R. E. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMOPATHIC PHARMACY.

DR. H. Homœopathic Medicines, Books, Cases, etc., at Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

D. EATON, Proprietor. Only best class of horses and carriages kept. Good saddle horses always.

PHYSICIANS.

CHRISTEN, M. D. Office at the Ingleside.

S. M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

HAYES, M. D. Office in Post Office Block, Charlevoix.

PERSON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathist, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

E. S. HARRIS, Notary Public, Real Estate, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

Amber Post No. 119, meets second Friday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

E. Charlevoix Lodge No. 225, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

E.—Boyne Lake Lodge No. 236, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

E.—Tree Blues No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellow's hall.

D.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets Saturday on or before full moon. Hall over

VETERINARY SURGEON.

H. BARBEY, V. S. Office at Bridge House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

K DUBIA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attempt to well work in the line of well digging, tubing, pump repairing, well boring building, and similar work. 45

ERS, A. E. TURRELL, President. Vice President.

chants' & Farmers' Bank, OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

general banking business transacted. Money to loan upon approved security at current rates. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly. G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Repairing in Gold and Silver. Any article can be made to order. AGATES AND STONES to order. 28

SIMPLES.

Rail Fence Remedy for a simple vermifuge and will remove TAPE, PINWORMS, and all intestinal worms, leaving the skin soft, smooth, and healthy. Prepared from the green roots of Spigelia Marilandica and Senecio Aureus. Address, inclosing 25 cents, HARRIS & CO., 10 Barclay St., N. Y.

CENTS a month will pay for the JOURNAL during the campaign. Begin now.

1872 — 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week AND WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Hacks and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a stones throw of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the lake's edge. Fine boating and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

GEO. W. CMELIS, Proprietor,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Horse Collars, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more possible. Call and see my stock.

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Telephone Order

Hello there!

Hello! What is it?

Has your mother got any rage, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

HELLO! How Are You?

Of Interest to All.

HAVE YOUR GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED

Free of Charge.

All orders by telephone or otherways, promptly attended to.

Having placed a Telephone in our market, we can receive and fill orders promptly with the least possible trouble to our patrons.

Ice Delivered

Every Morning.

Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.

JEFFERIES & DECKER.

Grover Cleveland.

Grover Cleveland, the present governor of New York is looked upon by the leaders in the democratic party as the most available candidate for the presidency, and it is believed by many that he will probably be nominated on the first or second ballot.

Governor Cleveland is a native of New Jersey, and is now in his forty-seventh year. He comes from a ministerial family, his father and a number of his relatives being Presbyterian clergymen. Grover received an academic education after which he went to New York city as a clerk in some charitable institution. He soon became interested with the western fever, and on his route to his intended destination he stopped in Buffalo N. Y., to visit a wealthy uncle residing in that city, who persuaded his nephew to remain and take a position in his store. Young Cleveland, however, aspired to become a lawyer and his relative encouraged him in this ambition by securing him a clerkship with a prominent law firm in Buffalo. Mr. Cleveland was admitted to the bar in 1859, and soon thereafter was appointed assistant district attorney for the county of Erie. In 1870 he was elected sheriff of the county and in 1881 was elected mayor of Buffalo by a majority over 3,000. Upon this fact is based his present prominence as a candidate before the approaching democratic convention, and it is claimed by admirers, that if nominated he would sweep the empire state with a large majority over Blaine.

Governor Cleveland is a bachelor, and should he become the next incumbent of the White House he will have to run the gauntlet of a second campaign with marriageable ladies who will aspire to do the honors as mistress of the social household of the president of the United States.

Notes and News.

Tammany democrats will not support Cleveland for president without a pledge that Flower will be made governor, and Tammany shall have the naming of mayor of New York.

Cheboygan compels hook agents to pay a license of $5.00 per day. It must be a good book to warrant so much expense, but the dear people will not object to being prevented from their importunities.

O. A. Jenkson, of Lansing, has in his possession a collection of relics taken from the ruins of the old capitol building just after it burned, two years ago. He has arranged the articles in a cabinet made of clapboards that escaped the fire, and will present the collection to the state pioneer society as a gift.

In summing up democratic preferences the Detroit Evening News says: "We are quite convinced that Butler is the spontaneous choice of the great mass of the democratic people in this state; that he is the chosen candidate of those hands of voters whose assistance is essential to democratic success, but whose help cannot be had without Butler; and that in short, Butler is the only democrat in the country who can possibly beat Blaine."

Labor Commissioner McIntosh says that taking a list of 3,000 mechanics in Michigan, he found that 62 per cent were foreigners, while with laborers the percentage was still larger. In the country he found that among barbers, clerks, book keepers and waiters, the percentage of Americans was the greatest. The lesson to be drawn from these figures, he said, was that the Americans must locate themselves or the mechanical trades will soon be entirely in the hands of foreigners.

Benjamin F. Butler, was represented at the state convention held at Detroit, in the person of Gen. Plympton, chairman of the democratic state central committee of Massachusetts. He came to Detroit for the purpose of feeling the pulse, and ascertaining the real sentiment of the Michigan democracy. In reply to a question propounded to him by the editor of the Lansing Journal, Col. Plympton stated that Butler would attend the Chicago convention as a delegate-at-large from Massachusetts, and, further, that he would go there as a democrat and come away a democrat. In other words, Butler proposes to submit to the action of the convention, and support whosoever may be nominated. Col. Plympton reiterated the idea that Butler would stand in the way of democratic success. He said Butler would naturally like to be made the candidate of the party, but if in the wisdom of the convention he is not deemed an available man to lead the party in the impending contest, he will quietly submit to the will of that body. This is a view of Butler that is not shared by many people. A majority of his supporters think that he will remain in the field as a presidential candidate whether he is nominated by the democrats or not. But Col. Plympton is the acknowledged manner of Butler's canvass, and he doubtless speaks by the card. His statement concerning his ehletnale's probable course is likely to credit to Butler's a man and a democrat. Butler's letter of acceptance of the greenback nomination would seem to corroborate this theory, for he nowhere says he accepts the nomination, but simply indulges in a general discussion of certain principles.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by URQUHART BROS., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, July 1, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

George L. Moore to G. S. Brown, n ½ of n w ¼ 15-32-8, $600.

G. S. Brown and wife to Geo. N. Cartwright, n ½ of n w ¼, 11-33-7, $200.

Eliot Andrews and wife to Phares Andrews, s ½ of s e ¼, 19-33-4, $700.

Sophia E. Bean to Abner G. Hewitt, e ½ of n e ¼ 15-34-8, $2,000.

Abner G. Hewitt and wife to Sophia E. Bean s ½ of e ½, 22-33-8, $1,500.

Herbert R. Upright and wife to H. V. Brock, part of e ½ of s w ¼, 7-33-7, $700.

A. R. Upright and wife to C. W. Brock, part of e ½ of s w ¼, 7-33-7, $700.

A. R. Upright and wife to Wm. H. Brock, part of e ½ of s w ¼, 7-33-7, $700.

A. R. Upright and wife to Pamelia Brock, part of e ½ of s w ¼, 7-33-7, $700.

A. R. Upright and wife to James M. Brock, part of e ½ of s w ¼, 7-33-7, $700.

Fred A. Smith to A. F. Draper, lot No. 7, blk. 13, Charlevoix, $700.

A. F. Draper and wife to Harriet J. Brock, part of s ½ of s w ¼, 7-33-7, $700.

A. R. Upright and wife to H ram Brock, part of e ½ of s w ¼, 7-33-7, $700.

Milton Griffith and wife to Marshall Griffith, e ½ of n e ¼, 22-33-8, $1,000.

Shipments.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crozier.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8tf

Another Wonderful Motor.

An announcement has been made in Chicago of the discovery of a new and remarkable motor known as "The Triple Termic Motor." The new motive power is the vapor of bi-sulphide of carbon. It has been in practical use in driving a 60-horse power engine for six months past in a cement paving manufactory on West Forty-sixth street, New York. The discoverer of the means of applying the new motive power and the machinery adapted to its use is W. S. Caswell, formerly of Pittsburg, who, it is stated has been at work many years on their application. The material from which the vapor is generated, bisulphide of carbon, is a discovery of the last century. The force and power of the vapor in its application, far surpasses that of steam, and its application and regulation are already under a more perfectly safe control than that of steam. The invention and discovery consists in reducing bisulphide of carbon into a vapor for operating machinery by generating heat in a generator and transforming it into a vessel containing bisulphide of carbon. The latent heat of the steam is utilized to convert the bisulphide of carbon into vapor, only 118 deg. being necessary to produce this vapor. A prominent engineer of Chicago, in giving the result of his examination of the new motor, says: "I saw a 15-horse power boiler, with very little fire under it, generating steam, which generated the new motor, which in turn ran an engine of 60-horse power." A syndicate has been formed which controls the invention and all its patents, with a capital stock of $25,000,000, of which $8,000,000 has already been realized on stock. Ex-Gov. Hubbard, of Texas, and ex-Collector Bahl, of Boston, are mentioned as being largely interested in the new motor syndicate.

Remember This.

Hamilton's German Bitters are the best bitters made. They promote sleep and allay nervousness. They tone up and strengthen the system, without exciting the brain as do most other stimulants. They soothe to rest the jarring nerves, and exhaust irritable and jaded system. They are prepared from the purest materials and are the best medicines you can use for a sterling health and strength. Try them. 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

The Household.

Dyspepsia, indigestion and bodily debility take the place of the three graces in many households. How sad is the condition of such a family. The kidneys and liver often get deranged and perhaps the parents or even children may be suffering from Diabetes, Bright's disease, or some kindred disease. As a preventive and also a cure for all the diseased conditions of the human family no preparation equals Parmelee's Vegetable Compound. Kidney and Liver Cure. Only $1.00 for large bottles! Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Nature Chooses

The system, if given an opportunity, but very few persons find time to give nature a chance and so the blood, which is the great drain for carrying away impurities, becomes so clogged with disease that unless some help is given it, the person will be afflicted by blood poisons and suffer with pimples, boils, carbuncles, cancers, scrofula, &c., and often die without help. Save yourself from all this suffering and loss of time by using Parmelee's Blood Purifier which prevents all diseases in the system. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS.

Intelligence by Wire from All the World.

FOREIGN.

—Johnson, the alleged dynamiter, who pretended to know all about the plot to blow up the Victoria Docks, London, has been pronounced an impostor by the English detectives.

—The floods in Roumania are increasing, and the inhabitants are in great distress.

—Lord Sheldon, who is said to be an Englishman, was captured in Kansas near the Indian Territory line by what are described in England as bandits. The English Government has interceded in his behalf with our Government, but Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice, brother of the Marquis of Lansdowne, who is Under Foreign Secretary, was obliged to announce in the British Parliament that his correspondence with the United States Government in reference to Sheldon has been so far without effect.

—Ten deaths from cholera occurred in one day at Toulon. The children at Marseilles formerly belonging to the Empress Eugenie has been prepared to accommodate 700 patients.

—The new Cunard steamer Umbria was launched at London. The tonnage is 8,000. Her engine is the most powerful in the world, 12,500 indicated power.

—The Rev. James John Hornby, Head Master of the Great University Preparatory school at Eton, Eng., has been appointed Rector of that institution, vice the Rev. Dr. Goodford, deceased.

—In London, Baltam Tennyson and Miss Audrey Boyle were married at Westminster Abbey in presence of Premier Gladstone and Minister Lowell. A banquet was given to ex-Minister Sargent at the Army and Navy Hotel, the beneficiary refusing to speak on political questions.

—Adrian Lewis Richter, the artist, is dead at Dresden, Saxony.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. Blaine is determined to finish his book, and has resolved to devote some hours each day to writing, discontinuing chapters.

—Among the unhappy wives who have lately secured divorces in Chicago was Margaret Collingwood, an English actress known as "Florence Elmore."

—Lord C. H. Jemdson, who commanded the Seventh Kansas Regiment during the war, died at Leavenworth after suffering greatly from asthma. He was 70 years of age, and a man of the most reckless courage.

—Maj. Lucius H. Beary, formerly of the First Wisconsin, died at Chicago, resulting from wounds received in the battle of Chickamauga.

—Gen. Ward B. Burnett, of New York, died at Washington. He graduated at West Point in 1837.

—The funeral of Bishop Simpson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, occurred at Philadelphia. Thousands attended to pay their last respects to the great divine. The mortal remains of the distinguished prelate were paid to rest in the South Laurel Hill Cemetery. The pall-bearers were all members of the Philadelphia conference.

—The Episcopal conference at Omaha elected Dr. Potter, of Geneva, N. Y., Bishop of the Nebraska diocese.

—The degree of LL. D. was conferred by Yale College upon Gov. Headly, of Ohio, and Hale Holden, editor of the Utica (N. Y.) Herald.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

—About 5,000 coal-miners in the Hocking Valley have struck on account of the reduction of the price of mining 10 cents per ton.

—The agricultural department at Illinois, in its report for June, will show that in the central corn belt the prospects are favorable for an immense crop. Wheat will be ready for the harvester early in July.

—The master plumbers of New York have locked out a number of journeymen calculated all the way from 60 to 1,200.

—The imports for the fiscal year ending June 30, last, foot over 2,940,000,000 pounds of sugar, about 2,800,000,000 pounds of coal, and over 1,200,000,000 cigars. The sugar manufactured here amounted to also at 250,000,000 pounds.

—Matthew Morgan's sons, of New York, have failed. The firm is an old one and has been considered reliable. The failure, or suspension, as it has been called, is attributed to the change in value in railroad bonds especially. It is believed that when the money between can realize on their railroad securities they will be able to meet all payments. The house was established in New York every thirty-8 years ago. The members are Southern men.

—Reports from California are that heavy rains have helped grain, and that the hop will appear 25 per cent.

—The Lindell Hotel Association at St. Louis made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors.

—The Central Pacific road has asked its employes to pick it thirty days' credit for the amount of their wages, in order to accumulate funds to meet maturing passing demands. Charles Crocker admits that only 25 per cent can be obtained on Southern Pacific bonds, and that he is trying hard to borrow some money.

POLITICAL.

—Ex-Senator S. C. Pomeroy, of Kansas, has been nominated for President of the United States by the American (Anti-Secret Society) party. Join A. Conant, of Williamsville, Conn., is the nominee for Vice President. The platform adopted by the convention at Chicago demands the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks; that the charters of all secret lodges granted by Federal or State Legislatures should be withdrawn; that land and other monopolies should be discouraged; and the abolition of electoral colleges and a direct vote for President and Vice President of the United States.

—The Democrats of the Second Indiana district have nominated Thomas E. Cobb for a fourth term in congress.

—Gen. Henderson, at the head of the committee appointed by the National Republican Convention, waited upon senator Logan at Washington and officially informed him of his nomination for the Vice Presidency. The Senator accepted the honor, and made a suitable speech in response.

—Lachier Justice Coles, of Iowa, is a candidate for Solicitor of the Treasury, vice Judge Rayner, de-ceased.

—The Indiana Democratic State Convention nominated Isaac P. Gray for Governor, and M. D. Manson for Lieutenant Governor.

—The Ohio Democratic State Convention was held at Columbus. The platform adopted favors a tariff for revenue limited to the necessities of the Government, so adjusted as to encourage productive interests at home, but not to create monopolies.

—South Carolina Democrats nominated Gen. Alfred M. Scales for Governor. The delegation to Chicago is divided between Bayard and Cleveland.

—The Missouri Democracy refused to instruct its delegation to Chicago to vote as a unit, and for Tilden. The delegates as-large are John O'Day, Morrison Munford, D. R. Francis, and Charles H. Mansur. Gov. Crittenden heads the list of alternates.

GENERAL.

—The Executive Committee of the reunion of soldiers and sailors to be held in Chicago in August, have decided to raise a guarantee fund of $5,000. Any surplus will be devoted to building a monument hall.

—Considerable excitement exists at Columbus, Ohio, over the arrest Sunday, on the base ball field, of several players of the Columbus club on warrants sworn out by the late Umpire Cuthbert of that city. The game was stopped twenty minutes in order for the accused to give bail.

—A schooner which arrived in New York from Savannah reports having passed through a school of whales extending on all sides as far as the eye could reach.

—Evangelist Moody talks hopefully of the result of his mission to England. He says that about a million and a half of people attended his meet ings and thousands of prospects were counted as converts. He says the moral and public almost the democratic influence of his preaching. Poor and pauper, he says, satisfies by side.

—The Supreme Court at Chicago has affirmed the judgment of the Circuit Court giving a colored citizen named Timothy Cooper the sum of $2,000 for being ex e ted from an omnibus, owned by Fort W. Peck, solely because of his color.

CASUALTIES.

—At Armour & Dole's elevator, Chicago, Miss Alice M. Wells, of Boston, while viewing the machinery on the upper floor, was caught and crushed to death in an instant. She was 18 years of age.

—It is learned that the Spanish bark Angelita, which ran into the steamer New Orleans for Barcelona, was struck by lightning and burned at sea. The crew was saved.

—A tornado uprooted twelve residences at Fort Madison, Iowa, but fortunately no lives of corn, near Cerro Gordo, Ill., was flooded to the depth of six feet by a cloud-burst.

—Four Italians have been accidentally killed by the caving of Gould's tunnel, on the Panhandle Road, near Steuben ille, Ohio, and five others were badly injured.

—The burning of Bergeman's bakery in Williamsburg, N. Y., caused the death of two firemen and fatal injuries to a third, while several men were severely burned and otherwise injured. A stable in the rear of the bakery was also burned, with eight horses. The property loss is estimated at $24,000.

—Two men were fatally injured by an explosion of dynamite in the Baltimore and Ohio tunnel in Washington, D. C.

—The township Fordin, owned by Jason Brown, with her cargo, at Manila. She was laden with sugar and hemp. Loss, $1,000,000; insured for $12,000.

—The roller in J. T. Smith's planing-mill at Wanson, Wis., exploded, destroying the structure and killing three employees. A woman standing on the porch of her residence nearby, was killed by a fragment of the boiler, and two twelve sons instantly wounded, while an invalid female was killed from the effects of the shock. A dozen persons received serious injuries.

CRIMES AND CRIMINALS.

—A Milwaukee policeman, named Frank Piaczeck, was fatally shot by a suspicious person whom he was taking to the station.

—A horse-thief was lynched at Vincennes, Ind., by another gang of horse-thief pursued, one being shot and the others hanged.

—The door of the jail at Vincennes, Ind., was battered down with a rail by a party of fifty persons, either two shot the murderer of Mrs. Glueck, was taken from his cell and hanged to a telegraph pole near the scene of his crime. Confined with his victim recently went to Vincennes from a neighboring town, and she was awaiting a divorce in order to marry him.

—Joe Lubby, a negro 25 years old, who recently made three attempts to outrage white women at Whitney, Tex., and succeeded in one instance, was taken from jail at that place and lynched. The victimizes also cut his ears off.

—In a street-car quarrel in the City of Mexico between President Gonzales son and Gen. Major's son, Prof. Garsen, of the military school, who accompanied to Jay Major and his servant dead.

—The Governor of Minn are sent a company of militia to Muir to protect a wife-murderer, named Andrew Long, from a mob which three times had a rope around his neck.

HERE AND THERE.

—The property of the wrecked Penn Bank at Pittsburgh has been appraised at $125,000, while the liabilities amount to $1,50,000.

—Recent deaths: S. S. Caldwell, ex-Mayor of Omaha, and S. B. Boswell, a stock-broker, of San Francisco.

—Andrew Long, who so narrowly escaped lynching at Muir, Mich., pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to a year in the State Prison for life. Before the proceedings in court, the dead woman's brother attempted to shoot her slayer.

—In the Barrister's Late University boat-race at New London, Ct., the latter won in 20:31, the best to ramble time on record. Harvard was 15 seconds behind.

—For a distance of twenty-five miles along the Youghiogheny River the fish have been killed by sulphur water from the coal mines.

—After which broke out in the furniture store of McCracken & Brewster, Royal street, New Orleans, quickly spread to five adjacent buildings, and the entire fire department was called to the scene. The loss exceeds $500,000. Three firemen were injured.

—A sailboat capsized during a party of five, returning to Groaton, Nova Scotia, from Pictou, was upset in a squall. Mr. Taylor and Miss Hutchinson were drowned. The others were rescued.

—Gen. Henderson, of Princeton, Ill.; Wm. Williams, of Mount Vernon, Ohio; Jud. B. Wakefield, of Mansatto, Minn.; and W. B. Owen, of Logansport, Ind., have been nominated for congress by the Republicans.

—Ex-Attorney General S. R. Hughes has been nominated for Governor of Arkansas by the Democrats.

—Rev. Egbertsmon John H. Eden is the choice of the majority of the delegates elected to the seventeenth Congressional Democratic District Convention of Illinois.

—At the meeting of the National Republican Committee at New York, H. B. Jones, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was appointed Chairman, and Samuel Pessenden, of Connecticut, Secretary. The Executive Committee includes ex-Senator Chaffee, J. Manchester Haynes, J. C. New, S. H. Elkins, Col. George W. Hooker, Powell Clayton, Amasa Bum, S. Clarkson, Church Howe, and A. L. Lugger.

—Prince Victor, son of Prince Napoleon, is about to ignore paternal authority and his father is disposed to censure those who encourage him in his exercise. The Latter has written to Mr. Bottles, a member of the French chamber, concerning him for encouraging his son's insubordination.

—A severe hail-storm visited the southern part of Russia. The hailstones were as large as goose eggs.

—At a convention held in Waterford county, Ireland, it was agreed to pay the tenant farmer delegates to establish a tax for the payment of members of Parliament who act in accordance with their duty. The tax is to amount to about one cent on the dollar of valuation.

—In the House of Commons, on motion of Gladstone, the franchise bill was passed to a third reading. In the course of his remarks the Premier stated he had tried to avoid a conflict with the House of Lords. While he would greatly regret it, he had no doubt of the issue.

—An Ingersoll murder trial has been concluded at Lincoln, Ill. The accused parties—J. H. Hall, Beckie Hall and William Ferris—are charged with the killing of Barney McMahon and his two hired men at Mount Pulaski, in Logan County, several months ago. The jury found J. H. Hall guilty, and fixed his punishment at life imprisonment. William Ferris and Mrs. Hall were acquitted, but will be tried under indictments for killing Carter and Matthews.

THE Senate, on the 20th, passed the legislative appropriation bill, with an amendment that all reports in the Record shall be at an average rate of the proceedings and debates. The House concurred with a modification limiting the price of a bridge across the Missouri river at White Cloud, Kas., bills were reported to increase the salaries of agents and men at the Tippecanoe reservation in Kansas.

THE MARKET

NEW YORK.
BEEVES	5 00	@ 7 00
COTTON—Middling	12	@ 12
FLOUR—Extra	5 00	@ 6 00
Minnesota Bakers	6 00	@ 7 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 10	@ 1 10
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	67	@ 67
OATS—Mixed	46	@ 46
RYE	80	@ 80
PORK—Mess	17 00	@ 17 00
CHICAGO.
BEEVES	4 75	@ 6 00
FLOUR—Spring Extras	5 00	@ 6 00
Winter Extras	5 00	@ 6 00
Winter Patents	6 00	@ 7 00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 00	@ 1 00
No. 2 Spring	1 00	@ 1 00
CORN—No. 2	47	@ 47
OATS—No. 2	32	@ 32
RYE—No. 2	70	@ 70
BARLEY—No. 2	70	@ 70
PORK—Mess	16 00	@ 16 00
LARD	9 50	@ 9 50
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 00	@ 1 00
CORN—No. 2	47	@ 47
OATS—No. 2	32	@ 32
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2	1 00	@ 1 00
CORN—No. 2	47	@ 47
OATS—No. 2	32	@ 32
RYE—No. 1	70	@ 70
BARLEY—No. 2	70	@ 70
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 00	@ 1 00
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	47	@ 47
OATS—No. 2	32	@ 32
RYE	70	@ 70
PORK—Mess	17 00	@ 17 00
CINCINNATI.
FLOUR—Family	5 00	@ 6 00
CORN	47	@ 47
OATS—Mixed	32	@ 32
PORK—Mess	16 00	@ 16 00
LARD	9 50	@ 9 50
DETROIT.
FLOUR	6 00	@ 6 25
WHEAT—No. 1 White	1 00	@ 1 00
CORN—Mixed	47	@ 47
OATS—Mixed	34	@ 35
PORK—Mess	17 00	@ 17 00
INDIANAPOLIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 00	@ 1 00
CORN—Mixed	47	@ 47
OATS—Mixed	32	@ 32
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	5 50	@ 6 00
Fair	5 00	@ 5 25
Common	4 50	@ 4 75
HOGS	5 75	@ 6 00
SHEEP	5 75	@ 6 25

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

What Is Being Done by the National Legislature.

IN the Senate, June 20, a favorable report was made on the bill to amend the act relating to the immediate transportation of dutiable goods. The credentials of Edmund K. Wilson and Jerry Rusk were then declared to be presented. The Mormon petitions fell with a dull thud on the public ears, but no notice was received. The House, in the Chinese case, by a vote of 29 to 27, refused to suspend the rules and declared to seat the sitting member, Mr. Hills never passed by so close a margin. Mr. Hoar presented a petition from the Boston Board of Trade in favor of the passage of the Thurman act relative to the Pacific railroads. Mr. Van Wyck desired to speak

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Interesting Figures.

Oscoda, Mich., June 25.—H. N. Lond, one of the Oscoda salt and lumber company, has made the statement to a reporter of the Detroit Evening News that nearly all the married workingmen here own their own homes, and that therefore this was evidence of good pay. He afterwards qualified his statement by reducing the number owning homes 50 per cent. Thinking such a fact would be worth recording, J. W. McGrath, who is here to watch the strike and gather data for his second annual report as commissioner of labor, examined the assessment rolls of the two towns. He found the assessed value of the real estate of the township of Oscoda owned by residents to be $239,187. Of this four men own $173,099, nine own $14,375, 14 own $8,773.62, not workingmen, own $15,150, and 146 other persons, some of whom are not workingmen and others, while working, yet do not work in the mills, own $27,790. Of this last number, probably a liberal estimate would be to say 100 work in the mills.

In AuSable there are 283 real estate owners, and they are assessed at $187,190. Of this number four are assessed at $103,405, 14 at $34,915, 19 at $12,315, 24 at $4,930, and 222 at $31,625. Of the 222 probably not over 175 are workingmen. It is thus seen that out of the 1,500 workingmen in the two towns less than 300 own homes. The average assessed value of the workingmen's homes in AuSable is $142, and of Oscoda is $199, and the homes of these workingmen are many of them of the rudest kind, some being made of unplaned boards set on end and cleats nailed over the cracks. A considerable number are assessed as low as $25, $40, and $50, the great majority running below $150.

As near as it can be got at there are in Oscoda and AuSable 18 sawyers getting $3.50 to 3.75 a day, 7 saw filers at $3.50 18 saw setters at $2.25, 18 edgers at $2.25, 6 gang sawyers at $2.75, and 20 carriagemen at $1.75. A few workmen get $1.62½, but at least 60 per cent of all the help employed in the mills receive $1.50 a day and less. Viewed in connection with Lond's statements, these figures are interesting and important, as bearing on the situation here.

No visitors to northern Michigan should fail to go to Central lake in Antrim county. It is worth a long journey to see. It is the central one of a series of several lakes connected by small rivers from one hundred yards to one or two miles in length, this one being the largest of the series of lakes, and is about seven miles long and from one to three miles wide. These lakes are all of surpassing beauty and loveliness, and have been pronounced as far excelling the most noted lakes that attract the tourists to Europe.—Record.

The Detroit News thus sets forth some of the beauties of protection on the east shore: Saginaw is the head center of protection in this state. The organs of that region have assured us time and again that protection was all for the good of the poor workingman to protect him against pauper labor. Pauper Italian labor has nevertheless been recently introduced there, and the Italians were working for 50 and 60 cents a day. The result was that the resident "protected" laborers have held a meeting, expressed their indignation, and the Italian paupers will be requested to move on. But they won't move. They will remain until their importers, the proprietors of mills and salt blocks, find it no still cheaper and move the cradle of labor to take their place. They will "march on" before the pressure of competition, as their predecessors have "moved on" before them. This has been the story told again and again in all the protected industries of the United States. Labor sells for a lower notch of degradation every year.

Free trade is an impossibility in this country, say the protectionists. But free trade also into 2,000 trade-ways throughout this country, and have so for upward of 100 years. Free trade in the sense of perfect freedom between the people of all the different states and territories. Free trade into Europe to the extent that the duties on the articles of food consumed have increased and keep increasing in a manner unprecedented in any other country.

I. D. Bartholomew's.

free trade during the low-tariff era previous to 1860 our foreign commerce grew to such great proportions that it rivaled Great Britain's, while under the protection era since 1860 that foreign commerce has so dwindled that an American merchantman is a curiosity in foreign ports. The system that has brought such great prosperity to the domestic commerce of the country would prove equally beneficial if applied to foreign commerce, subject only to such limitations as the necessities for revenue demand.

Change in Climate.

Felix L. Oswald in the April North American Review says: In Pennsylvania, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Tennessee, the lumber trade increases more than any other branch of industry, and, in the river valleys, the steadily increasing maxima of high-water marks, as well as the devastating floods of 1882, 1885, and the present year, are therefore only playful allusions to the probabilities of the future.

But while droughts can be counteracted only by a wide-spread system of co-operative tree-culture, spring floods admit of more local remedies. With rare exceptions they originate in mountain countries, where two causes combine to increase the evil effects of forest destruction: the steepness of the drainage slopes, which pour down the floods before any considerable portion can be absorbed by the soil, and the effects of premature spring seasons, which swell the torrents with the thawing snows of the upland regions. Arboreal vegetation obviates those perils by absorbing, or at least retarding, the drainage even of the steepest slopes, to a degree which almost exempts from inundations the river valleys of densely wooded hill countries, and the only radical remedy would, therefore, be to protect or replant the forests bordering the valleys of all the upper water-courses. Mountain land is so cheap that extensive tracts could be bought by the Government at nominal prices; and in the upper Alleghanies there are mountain slopes that could be intrusted to their natural safeguards—their steepness and their rockiness. Still, here and there a local demand for fuel has overcome such obstacles. High up in the alpine valleys of Polk County, Tennessee, a single establishment—the furnace of the Ducktown copper mine—has devoured the trees of a hundred hills. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad has done the same for the mountains of West Virginia, and the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad for the valley of the upper James River.

In such valleys, and especially where the nature of the soil threatens to delay the growth of young trees, the replanting of the forest should be supplemented by precautions against immediate dangers. Nature has given us a hint, which the Spanish Moors acted upon in the construction of the vast acequias, or river reservoirs, which regulated the water supply of the South Spanish vegas. Wherever a river expands into a chain of lakes we find that such lakes serve not only as reserve basins in all but the driest seasons, but also protect the valleys of their effluent streams against the floods of the upper tributaries. A rain that would cause the overflow of a narrow mountain stream in a single day might continue for weeks without effecting an appreciable change in the level of a large lake. A smaller lake, or even a mere bateo, as the Spanish-Americans call the expansions of their coast rivers, would at least compromise matters by distributing the deluge over a basin where evaporation, and especially the water-absorbing alluvium of an extended shoreline, would diminish its volume, while the slower rise of the expansive water-level would retard that of the effluent stream. Violent northeast storms have now and then "backed" the waters of Lake Erie till the Niagara River sank visibly below its normal level,—once so much, indeed, as to expose the naked rocks of the Horse-shoe Fall, and the sudden bursting of an ice-gorge might produce the opposite effect; but there is no cause on record that a wet spring, or the sudden thawing of the snow in the upper lake region, had endangered the river suburbs of Buffalo. Between Lake Lemán and the hills of St. Rambert the level of the Rhone varies only a few feet; below its confluence with the Ardèche and other torrents of the Cevennes, its valley is subject to inundations which, in the words of Dumont, have repeatedly done more mischief than an invading army of vandals could have perpetrated in the same time.

☞Remember that we are now supplied with poster type, and when you want anything in that line come and look over samples.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, no disease taken in time is a very dangerous one. Hyde's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by dr. dealer.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delightful laundry beautifier Lotte found in Hamilton's oriental tints. It is absolutely harmless, and darkens the complexion so soft and brilliant, so strong removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

WAR WITH HIGH PRICES.

A full in the prices of Hardware, at
I. D. Bartholomew's.

NOTICE is hereby given that no or about May 20th 1885, two yearling colts, or thereabouts, both colts are bright bay with black mane and tail, one is a mare of good size, the other is a horse, rather small. Strayed upon my inclosed land in the township of Bear Lake, (sec. 29) and now remain upon my premises.

Dated Bear Lake this 30th day of June 1884.

E. C. PRETTYPEACE.

49

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the eleventh day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Charlotte Bowdish, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the fifth day of January next, at ten o'clock, in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated June 11th, A. D. 1884.

46 JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss.—At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the eleventh day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, judge of probate. In the matter of the estate of CHARLOTTE HOWDISH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Albert Howdish, administrator of said estate, praying that certain real estate might be sold to pay debts. Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the fourteenth day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,
Judge of Probate.

(A true copy.)

FARM FOR SALE.

Consisting of 80 acres, six miles from Charlevoix, on main road. Sell, clay loam. A good frame house, and two frame bark barns. About 35 acres cleared, balance good fresh and maple timber. About 250 fruit trees beginning to bear. One-half mile from school and saw mill. Terms: three thousand seven hundred dollars, with not less than two thousand down; balance to suit purchaser. For further particulars apply to DAVID H. FRANUS, Charlevoix, Mich.

Electric Light

In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have seized down high prices on kitchen utensils, toilet soap, crockery, glassware, lamps, hosiery, leather, handkerchiefs, corset sets, ladies' hand-bags, shopping baskets, hand mirrors, fans, picture frames, hat racks, table cutlery, umbrellas, shawl straps, overall's, lamps, and countless goods.

A lot of hat rack 15c, must run the scrub brush 5c, work broom 15c, hand mirror 5c, splendid misses' hose 12c, ladies' hose 25c, gents' hose 10c, Standard shoe polish 5c, gents' fine shirt 50c, gents' fancy shirt 75c, suspenders 10c, and a multitude of household articles too numerous to note, all of never before heard of prices at

THE FAIR,

J. J. Kanagy & Son,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

46

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

W. M. WAGAR. D. C. WAGAR.

WAGAR BROS.,

Wholesale and Retail dealers in

Tobacco, Cigars,

And Smokers' Articles.

Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits,

AND
Temperance Drinks.

Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich. 50

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I warrant my work and prices. Use the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine. Shop next door to Cutler's boarding house.

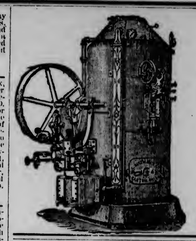
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE so liked and for sale. 43

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

$363 week at home. Some need it less. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 1y1



E. T. BROWN &
Threshing Engines.
Portable and Stati
Engine
SAW MILLS, THRESH
MILL SUPPLIES.
The Best Saw Mill in the
for the Money.
(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHI
WRITE FOR PRICES AND CA
West Bridge Street.
Grand Rapids, Mi

D. SHERWOOD & CO

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Sho

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Sho

LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painti

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING.

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Advance Lumber Compa

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWIN

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber
Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER C
ADVANCE,

EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE.

GEO. W. MILLER,
DEALER IN CLOTHING,
GENTS'
FURNISHING GOODS,
AND HATS.
CHARLEVOIX,
MICH.

NEW GOO

I am pleased to say that m

Spring St

Is ready for inspection. Come and and when you want a suit of clothes AUSTIN STYLE, you will know where Them. My store is full of the

LATE STYLES

Price to Correspond
the Times.

Geo. W. M

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Stor
and
NEW GOO

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Co
Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements
Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Bu
Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors
Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Ti
Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE!
WE HAVE NEVER FAILED TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, we will furnish the above amount in single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood, and is a vegetable compound which will positively cure you. Druggists for it. Don't accept any imitation or substitute. If you have not it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Dr. CUTLER, Agt., Charlevoix 41

Gold

for the working few who will devote their spare moments to business. Capital not required. We will furnish you an expensive outfit free, which will put you in the way of making money faster than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or only your spare moments. Full and complete information, directions, etc., sent free by return mail. Many have made fortunes at the work. Women make as much as men, and boys and girls can make large wages. Reader, if you want business at which you can make much money, call on us at once. It costs nothing to send for information, and you can judge for yourself. Address, STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

ERRORS OF YOU

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from the effects of youthful indiscretion, nervous debility, premature decay, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple remedy by which he cured himself. Sufferers desiring to profit by his experience can do so by addressing in confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 3, 1884.

Provision Market.

Corrected to Saturday evening by UPRIGHT, EMERY & CO.

Following are dealers' prices:

Flour, per bbl, $4.00, $5.00, and $7.00.
Wheat, per bu, 90@95c.
Corn, per bu, 50@55c.
Oats, per bu, 25@30c.
Potatoes, per bu, 40@50c.
Beans, per bu, $1.00.
Butter, per lb, 20@25c.
Eggs, per doz, 20c.

Levi Metz, of Rock Elm, was one of our callers on Tuesday. He reports crops suffering for want of rain.

The M. W. Wright is laid up for repairs this week, but Captain Bennett hopes to have her out again in a few days.

☞A. F. Draper, says it is the intention of Upright Emery & Co. to make a specialty of doors, windows, and shingles.

Mr. Henry Moore and Miss E. J. Goodhew, were married last Sunday afternoon, by Rev. C. F. VanAuken, at his residence.

H. Wade and Harvey and George Wilson, were out near two mile point (south) yesterday morning, and found six blank books,—four large and two small ones,—and a good quilt, hid in the brush. They were brought to Justice McLeod's office.

The need of a good lock up was never more apparent than at present, when the country is infested with burglars, vagrants, etc. They have little fear of our present accommodations, escape being so easy, and besides, the expense of keeping is very great.

A sixteen foot skiff, painted blue,

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

for Provisions.

g Flour.

's Petoskey Lime.

NEW GOODS
& CO.,
OF ATIONERY

er Building.

oix and Vicinity Respect-

Compounded.

OLITE ATTENTION

. The same night the store of s & Nash and the house Geo.
s were entered. From the store took two coats, one con g a letter and $11.00 in money was to have been registered lowing day. From the house a ol robe was taken. On the same
Mr. H. Moore lost a horse and
, and found Dr. Chamberlin's n his barn. The horse was after-found between Norwood and evoix, but the buggy is still ng. On Saturday two fellows arrested at Petoskey and brought for trial. They were locked in s at the Fountain City house, ne of them escaped by making a of the bed clothes and dropping ff out of the third story window.
ns not since been recaptured, ther was discharged for want of

M. E. Church.

E. church, Pastor and Congre on most cordially invite all gers, and resorters, to partici in the services held each Sabmorning and evening. All who not otherwise engaged, will be omed; with the assurance, that a sant time, will be had. The Sabschool, is quite a factor, in the yableness of each Sabbath ser
J. T. Inness, Pastor.

PRIZE. Send 25 cents for postage and packing, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help all of either sex, right in their own localities, to make more money in a few days than anything else in this world. Either sex succeeds grandly. 50 per cent. easily realized. We will explain the whole matter, mail free. Those who want profitable work should address at once. The Portland Mfg. Co., Portland, Maine.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale cents' drug store

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WESSEL.

In the palace of Shu Shan in letters of gold,
A decree went forth, full of dread we are told,
It is that next month, all the beauties
In the king's royal presence, without his command.

If the lovely maiden his gold sceptre to thee,
And Esther his queen, for many a day,
Had not seen the king in stately array.

Now the Jew had to Haizeh explicitly told,"
That such thing must fall 'fore Haman's dread

For Haman would sweep all the Jew's from
"And death shall come"said the old Jew,
"From some other source, and our age will

But there'd the house of the father will be,
Like frail little bark, o'erwhelmed in the sea.

When the cloudy gather blackness, and there
For Esther, will then be weaker than she."
Thus Mordecai spoke to Hatzeh the good,
To assume her dread place, standing boldly

Though the Edict of Shu-Shan stand in my Still will I go in and hold disobey."
And her Hindred so loved in this hour of strife.

Hadassah now robed in purple and gold,
Stood in Ivai's presence, and fainted not,
Whilst the king of Persia sat on his throne—
Like a vision of light, standing there so

Hadassah, now robed in purple and gold,
Stood in Ivai's presence and fainted not,
Whilst the king of Persia sat on his throne—
Like a vision of light, standing there so

"Go back to the Jew and tell him for me,
To fast for three days, so also will we.
And then will I go to the king, though in wrath,
And walk,
Though the Edict of Shu-Shan stand in my
The sceptre, that plans, and heart searching between
Though thoughtful he seemed and bowed was his head.

"And to-morrow in presence of Ivai I stand,
The greatest of princes who dwell in the land."
"One thing causes me increasing distress,
Their queenly were brought and read to the

"Bring me the books close here to my bed."
thing: 'tis true, all written out plain,
How the Jew saved the king from once being

By the hands of his servants; erected before, slain
Then Ivai spoke out, "what honors have we Ever heaped on this man whose deeds we here
see."
What answer comes ominous, his soul brow,
Who his saved the great Persian king until now?
Nothing is done! Rose to Ivai then said,
And he placed his hand on his feverish
head.
"Gone tell me now, Haman, what shall we do
Whom we here to honor," repeated the king.
As his eye caught sight of his beautiful ring.
Now delight
And a gleam of sunshine flashed through the night
Of prince he beheld, who beheld the knee.

Then spake he to Haman who stood at the door,
Awaiting to see his monarch once more.

"Go tell me now, Haman, what shall we do
Whom we here to honor," repeated the king.
As his eye caught sight of his beautiful ring.
Now delight
And a gleam of sunshine flashed through the night
Of prince he beheld, who beheld the knee.

Then Haman withdrew full of pride and joy,
And his countenance beamed, overspread with a smile
As he thought, along, forgetting meanwhile
When his soul is o'erwhelmed with anger and

"And to-morrow in presence of Ivai I stand,
The greatest of princes who dwell in the land."
"One thing causes me increasing distress,
Their queenly were brought and read to the

"Bring me the books close here to my bed."
thing: 'tis true, all written out plain,
How the Jew saved the king from once being

By the hands of his servants; erected before,
slain
Then Ivai spoke out, "what honors have we Ever heaped on this man whose deeds we here
see."
What answer comes ominous, his soul brow,
Who his saved the great Persian king until now?
Nothing is done! Rose to Ivai then said,
And he placed his hand on his feverish
head.
"Gone tell me now, Haman, what shall we do
Whom we here to honor," repeated the king.
As his eye caught sight of his beautiful ring.
Now delight
And a gleam of sunshine flashed through the night
Of prince he beheld, who beheld the knee.

Then Haman withdrew full of pride and joy,
And his countenance beamed, overspread with a smile
As he thought, along, forgetting meanwhile
When his soul is o'erwhelmed with anger and

"Go

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX. - MICHIGAN.

Interesting Figures.

Oscoda, Mich., June 25.—H. N. Loud, one of the Oscoda salt and lumber company, has made the statement to a reporter of the Detroit Evening News that nearly all the married workingmen here own their own homes, and that therefore this was evidence of good pay. He afterwards qualified his statement by reducing the number owning homes 50 per cent. Thinking such a fact would recording, J. W. McGrath here to watch the strike a data for his second annual commissioner of labor, exa assessment rolls of the t He found the assessed val real estate of the township owned by residents to be Of this four men own $173. own $14,375, 14 own $8,7 workingmen, own $15,150, other persons, some of who workingmen and others, wh ing, yet do not work in the 1 $27,700. Of this last amou ably a liberal estimate wo say 100 work in the mills.

In AuSable there are estate owners, and they are at $187,190. Of this number assessed at $103,405, 14 at $ at $12,315, 24 at $4,930, and 2 625. Of the 222 probably 175 are workingmen. It is t that out of the 1,500 workin the two towns less than homes. The average assess of the workingmen's homes Sable is $142, and of Oscoda and the homes of these wo are many of them of the rud some being made of unplane set on end and cloats nailed cracks. A considerable nu assessed as low as $25, $40, the great majority running be

As near as it can be got at t in Oscoda and AuSable 18 getting $3.50 to 3.75 a day, 7 s at $3.50 18 saw setters at $ edgers at $2.25, 6 gang saw $2.75, and 20 carriagemen at $ few workmen get $1.62½, but 60 per cent of all the help e in the mills receive $1.50 a less. Viewed in connectio Loud's statements, these figu interesting and important, as on the situation here.

No visitors to northern M should fail to go to Central Antrim county. It is worth journey to see. It is the cent of a series of several lakes co by small rivers from one l yards to one or two miles in this one being the largest of th of lakes, and is about seven mil and from one to three mile These lakes are all of sur beauty and loveliness, and ha pronounced as far excelling th noted lakes that attract the ton Europe.—Record.

The Detroit News thus set some of the beauties of protect the east shore Saginaw is the center of protection in this The organs of that region have ed us time and again that pro was all for the good of the poo ingmen to protect him again per labor. Pauper Italian lab nevertheless been recently intr there, and the Italians were w for 50 and 75 cents a day. The was that the resident workingmen have held a meeting, exp their indignation, and the papers will be requested to m But they won't know. They w main until their importers, the tect of cargoes of nails and salt find some still cheaper and ne grabbed labor to take their They will "move on" before much. This has been the story told again and again in all the protected indus tries of the United States. Labor strikes to a lower notch of degradation every year."

"Free trade is an impossibility in this country," say the protectionists. But free trade absolute and free trade exists through out this country, and has existed longer since the 3d option of the constitution, between the people of all the different states and territories. And because free trade between the states the delusive cry of this country has increased and prospered in a manner unprecedented in history. Free trade practical Price 25 cents. Sold by Dr. Crozier.

We Are Anxious

That every young man should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's oriental balm. It is absolutely harmless, and makes the complexion as soft, and brilliant, as nature removes all tan and freckles, that once seen is to give it a trial to be confident of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. R. Weed & Co.

WAR WITH HIGH PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

For Sale.

The subscriber having a new machine will sell the OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 23

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that direful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), which they will find a sure cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. Parties wishing the prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

$333 a week at home. $5 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. We will start you. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. You can work in spare time or all the time. Any one can do the work. Those who are wise who see this notice will send us their address at once and see for themselves. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay for those who start at once. Don't delay. Costly outfit and terms free. Address at once, if you want permanent, profitable work, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IN WHICH PAIN'S PROMPT CURE FAILS TO CURE.

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case of Catarrh, no matter how long standing it is, in a single instance, if a million or more Catarrh remedy, as directed, is taken promptly, acting upon the blood. If you have Catarrh, or Chronic Nasal Catarrh, ask your druggist for it, and accept no imitation or substitute. If he cannot get it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Dr. CROZIER, Agt., Charlevoix 11

ERRORS OF YOU

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Those who are sibilue to profit by his advertisement can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 3, 1884.

How Protection does not Protect.

One of the brilliant features of the protective tariff is the direct bribe it holds out to American manufacturers not only to sell their goods to foreigners for less than they charge their own countrymen, but to buy of foreigners the very raw material which goes into the manufacture of these goods. An American manufacturer may buy English pig-iron, manufacture it into nails and then sell his nails to the English buyer cheaper than he sells them to his own customers in the United States, who give him the "protection" which enables him to throw them overboard.

In every article made for export the manufacturer is allowed to deduct the duty on any foreign material he may have imported for the manufacture of the article. The duty on foreign lumber has in this way operated to the injury of the American lumber and lumber manufacturer.

The Standard Oil Company consumes yearly in the manufacture of boxes from 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 feet of lumber. The business of making these boxes has been divided among different American manufacturers, and it has proved a no inconsiderable item in creating a demand for lumber among American lumbermen. In anticipation of this trade many mills have laid in large stocks of lumber, which bid fair to remain stagnant on their hands, and aid in depressing still more an already depressed, over-protected, over stimulated business.

The stock is used for cases containing the refined oils of the Standard company. These cases are exported and on them the government refunds the duty of $2 per thousand on lumber. The company is one of the largest monopolies in the world, and therefore, one of the chief consumers of coarse lumber, which has been heretofore largely supplied from the Saginaw Valley, and so creating a lively market for it.

But the Standard Oil Company has taken a new departure. It does not believe in protection, except as it can protect itself. It does not believe there is any patriotic merit in buying American lumber when it can buy foreign lumber cheaper. It has therefore begun the erection of large mills at Oswego, New York, for the construction of these cases, and notified the mills that have previously supplied it that it will no longer buy of them. The Standard company has already bought 25,000,000 feet of lumber in Canada and made extensive arrangements for buying the whole of its raw material there, and thus dispensing with the American supply. As the government refunds the duty the Standard Oil Company gets its Canadian lumber duty free. The American lumberman, and especially the American manufacturer, cannot compete. The protective tariff forbids it, and has actually taken away from him a not inconsiderable business.

Under these circumstances he begins to see the value of reciprocity. With a reciprocity treaty, he would be able so far as raw material is concerned, to buy his lumber, either on this side or that, and so compete for the business of which the tariff has deprived him. A more signal instance of the totally opposite effect produced by the tariff from the one intended is not often afforded; although the history of protection in this and other countries is full of numerous and flagrant examples.—Detroit Free Press.

Worth Thinking Of.

Does it ever occur to the business man, the workingman, the taxpayer of every class, what the immense surplus in the treasury of the United States means? Do they recognize the fact that it is their money, every dollar of it, and that it has been taken from them unnecessarily and unjustifiably to be piled up where it does them no earthly good? Such is the fact, whether they recognize it or not. The money has been taken indirectly —a dollar here on clothing, a dollar there on the other necessaries of life —but it has been taken just as effectually as if an agent of the government had taken it directly from the pockets of the taxed. And the taxed as much the poorer for the as they would be if it had be It is worth while thinking dering it. It is all the bet while, because the day i coming when the taxpayer an opportunity to show by tariff reform that he disapp the "surplus" theory of go finance.—Detroit Free Press.

AGENTS wanted for the States. The largest, handsomest, and fastest selling book in America, best terms to agents. All intelligent people Any one can become a successful agent free. HALLET Book Co., Portland, Me.

BAY SPRINGS, MICH.

We give above a view of Bay Springs, Mich., showing prominently Chapman's mammoth hotel, the "Tourists, Home," which was opened to the public June 25th. We were prevented from being present at the opening, but the following report from the Grand Traverse Herald is perhaps more complete than anything we could write:

The formal opening of the new summer hotel at Bay Springs, took place yesterday. A pleasant party from Traverse City joined there a large crowd from all parts of the Grand Traverse region, and a most enjoyable time was had.

Bay Springs is located at the head of Pine Lake, about 18 miles from Charlevoix, and one mile from Boyne City. The location is fine and with such a house as was opened yesterday, the spot cannot fail to prove an attractive one to the summer visitors to Northern Michigan.

H. B. Chapman, a capitalist of Reading, Hillsdale county, the owner of the grounds and proprietor of the new hotel, has spent $40,000 in improvements, and has completed one of the most attractive and finest summer hotels in the state. The building is three stories and basement and will accommodate over 100 guests. The building itself is a fine one and large verandas add much to the appearance and comfort of the house. The finishing and furnishing is elegant. The rooms are airy and pleasant, and no hotel in the state is better provided with the elegancies and comforts of summer life. Bath rooms, public and private parlors, elegantly furnished bridal chamber, a large and handsome dining hall, supplied with table appointments that would do credit to any hotel in the country, as indeed would the entire house and all its conveniences and keepings. In the basement is an elegantly fitted up banking house.

The proprietor, H. B. Chapman, is one of the most genial, whole souled landlords in the country. His aim and object seems to be to give his guests the greatest amount of comfort and pleasure. visitors seek such resorts Mr. and Mr. Chapman ha cates this, and proposes to the tastes and wishes of his the fullest extent.

The gathering yesterday formal opening of the hou most pleasant one, and the ment affords by the host a royal one. An elegant dinn would make favorable com any resort or city hotel in try, was spread and those tite to, and eat the best feature was the happy which it was presided over host. The entire company at home in all parts of the h the guests departed with a vorable impression of hos In the evening those who enjoyed an elegant banq dance.

Mr. Chapman has done a for northern Michigan and cannot fail to be appreciate dents and visitors.

E. T. BROWN & CO.

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stat

Engine

SAW MILLS, THRES MILL SUPPLIES

The Best Saw Mill in the for the Money.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHI

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CA

West Bridge Street,

E JOURNAL

harlevoix, Mich., July 3, 1884.

Provision Market.

prices to consumers, as corrected every ning by UPRIGHT, EMERY & ding dealers:

, per bbl, $5.00, $6.50, and $7.00.
MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted,

per ton, $8&50.
per lb, 9@25c.
ITTERED, per cwt, $1.40@1.55.
OES, per lb, 8@10c.
AS, per bu, $1.00.
TES, per lb, 2@2½c.
, per doz, 20c.
, per lb, 12½c.
S, 9c; Shoulders, 12c.
POUK, 12c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 8c.
EEL, per lb, 10c.
SE, 10c.
D WHITE OIL, 20c.
TER PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

CORRECTED BY C. W. JEFFERSON.

Beef steak 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½
Lard, 10c; sausage, 15c; hams, 15c; ons, 1c; ribs stews, 8c.
Veal, 6@8½c.

Local News Brevities.

Calling cards at this office.

Dance at the opera house to-

L. E. Allen is on the sick list

Carr receives fresh fruits by Sheboygan mill at Boyne is ng again.

Rochester Silk Co. is pro- a fraud.

roller rink at Boyne will be on the fourth.

M. Moore, of Chicago, is at the Club house.

managers of the opera house deserve success.

ters are at work on Fox's new building this week.

K. Garlant and wife, of Boyne, a call on Tuesday.

at H. S. Stevens, is suffering a felon on his thumb.

gious services at Chapman's Springs, next Sunday.

G. Daniels, of Cadillac, visited in Charlevoix over Sunday.

H. C. Schofield, of South Arm, the JOURNAL a call on Tuesday.

bert Hurd, of Saline, visited E. M. Clark a few days this

H. Dougall advertises skating ncing alternately all day on the

S. Way exhibits a well-made of Chapman's hotel at Bay es George. I bought my roller at L. D. Bartholomew's only gar pair.

ladies of the M. E. church will a Sunday school festival some ng next week.

Howard started yesterday for among his friends in Saline, naw county.

F. Wisner will read a poem at City, as a part of the exercises rating the fourth.

er & Mann's pavilion show is sed for one entertainment in ng this evening.

here you seen Mrs. Clifford's ? It is painted with the Sher- & Williams's paints.

B. and W. F. Palmeter, and Will s, of East Jordan, were among ors last Saturday.

J. S. Smithson, of the Chicago will occupy the pulpit at the gregational church next Sunday.

ories & Decker advertise by to deliver groceries, meats, fish, vegetables free of charge.

new windows for the Norwood e were shipped from the Char- factory last Saturday.

Jennie McBeth and children, Benton, Ind., are visiting her s. H. S. Hershia, this week.

Perry from Galesburg, Ills., are ded at A. R. Upright's next to remain during the season.

J. Smith has purchased the Booth, and will run her on the City route to carry the mail.

are receiving large invoices of and weekly and study the interests everybody. Upright, Emrey & Co.

R. Upright's large and well fur- residence is a source of much ure and comfort to those who themselves of his hospitality

Levi Metz, of Rock Elm, was one of our callers on Tuesday. He reports crops suffering for want of rain.

The M. W. Wright is laid up for repairs this week, but Captain Bennett hopes to have her out again in a few days.

☞A. F. Draper, says it is the intention of Upright Emery & Co. to make a specialty of doors, windows, and shingles.

Mr. Henry Moore and Miss E. J. Goodhew, were married last Sunday afternoon, by Rev. C. F. VanAnken, at his residence.

The ladies of the Congregational society will occupy the store room of Amos Fox's new building as a dining hall on the fourth.

The Boise spindle factory at Bay Springs is nearly enclosed, and the boiler is ready to be tested when the smoke stack is finished.

A. F. Stover saw two tramps trying to enter a neighboring house about four o'clock Saturday morning. They made themselves scarce at once.

Our officers and citizens should make it decidedly hot for those fellows who prowl around nights, prying into stores, shops, residences, etc.

Mrs. S. T. Glover, son and daughter, of St. Louis, Mo., who have been stopping at A. R. Upright's for ten days past, started for Grand Rapids on Tuesday.

Wm. Withers fell with a scaffold while lathing at the new congregational church yesterday morning, and broke his left leg below the knee. He was attended by Dr. Graves.

—To the resorters and others. Upright, Emrey & Co. are at the front with a new delivery wagon and look after the interests of their patrons with promptness and despatch.

Three men were seen leaving the little island Tuesday morning, with the blue skiff afterwards found at two mile point by Messrs. H. Wade and Harvey and George Wilson.

Is there any good reason why a fruit and lemonade stand should run full blast all day Sunday, and a fruit, grocery, or other provision store along side be compelled to close?

Poor Bontecue! One would think from reading the last Petoskey Record that its editor had been swindled by a soulless fruit man filling the bottoms instead of the tops of strawberry boxes.

The Charlevoix Savings Bank with a capital of $25,000, is an institution now being organized under the state law. It will do business at present in the rooms now occupied by the M. & F. Bank.

—Upright, Emrey & Co., have remodeled the hall above their store and converted it into a ware room, where they have a full line of doors and windows, which they offer for sale at prices which astonish the natives.

Willis F. Cornell, and old Lansing boy, and founder of several printing offices, passed through Charlevoix last Friday. He is now traveling for Shniedewind & Lee, dealers in printing presses and material, Chicago.

There has been a change of time on the G. R. & I. R. R. Trains arrive at Petoskey from the south at 3.45 p. m., 6.36 a. m., and 6.33 p. m., and depart, going south, at 10.47 p. m., 8.28 a. m., and 7.50 a. m. The full corrected table will appear next week.

Three sons of H. N. Higginbotham, with Field, Marshall & Co., Chicago, were on the Exton yesterday morning, on the way to the Jordan to engage in trout-fishing. They were joined at this place by John Middleton who will act as guide and boatman.

J. S. Wyckoff has fitted up the room recently occupied by D. C. Bacon, in Bell's building, for a restaurant. He will keep fine confectionary, fruits, ice cream, home-made bread, cakes, and pies, and a fresh supply of D. C. Bacon's pure sugar confectionery. Here's hoping he will succeed.

Services at M. E. church next Sunday morning. Subject of discourse: "The footprints of law in our spirit and being," John 15: 10. At night a sermon under the auspices of the women's christian temperance union. It is at the usual time of our monthly union temperance meeting. All are invited.

H. Wade and Harvey and George Wilson, were out near two mile point (south) yesterday morning, and found six blank books,—four large and two small ones,—and a good quilt, hid in the brush. They were brought to Justice McLeod's office.

The need of a good lock up was never more apparent than at present, when the country is infested with burglars, vagrants, etc. They have little fear of our present accommodations, escape being so easy, and besides, the expense of keeping is very great.

A sixteen foot skiff, painted blue, with one pair of oars in our locks, two quilts, a piece of canvas, and several pieces of cooking utensils, were found at two-mile point, Tuesday evening. The initials, E. N. G. under the seat of the boat, had been partially erased.

The excursions given by Faxton up the Arm last summer, called the attention of hundreds of people to our resources who would not in any other manner have known what this country is. The same thing is being done this summer; and their popularity is daily increasing.

Edwin Cook of Norwood, remembered the printer last week with a fine mess of strawberries and green peas from his own garden. The strawberries were a little ahead of any we have seen this season, and the peas were the first. Northern Michigan will not take a back seat for anyone.

The Detroit Free Press says that Rev. Kendall Brooks, D. D., president of Kalamazoo College, has returned home much improved in health by his European trip. He will spend the summer at Charlevoix, and resume his old duties at Kalamazoo in the fall, with a new lease of life.

In the Ironton items last week it was stated that Thos. Brown assaulted Wm. Henry. This is a mistake. The item was originally written "Thos. Brown was assaulted by Wm. Henry." As printed the item is unjust to Mr. Brown, and we hope this correction will be satisfactory.

Mr. Joseph Steele, of Chicago, son of H. T. Steele, master in chancery of the superior court of that city, arrived on the Lawrence Sunday. He will devote two or three weeks fishing, making his headquarters at Shanbart's. His mother and sister spent a portion of last summer here.

The Clara Belle has had her upper deck removed, increasing her seaworthiness, and will add Beaver Island to her route, taking two days for the round trip. During the resort season this should be the most popular route on these lakes, and we hope the change will prove a profitable investment for her owners.

It has been suggested that a market room or shed would be a desirable feature of the proposed new town hall, for the purpose of making a headquarters for farmers and their customers when disposing of wood, hay, vegetables, and produce generally. The cost of the necessary building would not be great, and its convenience and value will be conceded by all who give the subject attention.

Three suspicious looking vagrants were arrested on the beach of Lake Michigan Tuesday afternoon. Examination before justice McLeod failed to prove anything against them, and two are discharged; the other was held until Wednesday morning, and is now in jail. During the day various persons were offering blank books for sale, and it is believed they were all connected as one gang.

Arrivals at the Charlevoix resort include the following: Katie and Blanche Weimer, of Kalamazoo, on the 26th; R. D. Lord, of New York city, Mrs. D. H. Lord, of Howard City, Samuel Brooks and family, and Mrs. Allen Potter, of Kalamazoo, on the 27th; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wood, of Ann Arbor, Bertie and Beatrice Baldwin, of Syracuse, N. Y., and F. R. Mills, G. E. Allen and Mrs. S. A. Gibson, of Kalamazoo, on July 2d.

In northern Michigan there is a large area of land known as "plains," which is said to be poor land and not tillable. A movement is on foot to induce the legislature to establish an experimental agricultural station, take county, and determine by experiment what can be raised upon it. If something could be raised upon this soil there would be thousands of acres brought into the market cheap.—Evening News.

Our Population.

Through the courtesy of county clerk Upright we are enabled to give the official returns from the census enumerators of the entire county of Charlevoix, by villages and townships. For the purpose of comparison we include the population of 1880, by townships, as follows:

	1880.	1884.
Bear Lake	386	529
Boyne Valley	434	557
Chandler		161
Charlevoix	629	1,259
Evangeline	305	1,225
Eveline	551	1,202
Hayes	86	117
Hudson	148	117
Marion	276	81
Norwood	306	423
Round	57	174
South Arm	757	1,309
Wilkinson	330	186
Wilson	301	548
Totals	5,115	9,222

The population of villages is as follows:

Charlevoix	1,138
Boyne Falls	267
Boyne City	733
Bay Springs	173
Horton's Bay	73
Clarion	111
South Arm	154
South Lake (East Jordan)	443
Ironton	164
Advance	81
Norwood	130

Bold Burglars.

On Thursday night the residence of Dr. Chamberlin, of Norwood, was entered by burglars, who helped themselves freely to bread, meat, and canned fruit. On Friday night the house was again visited, this time taking clothes, a rubber coat, and a watch. The same night the store of Guyles & Nash and the house Geo. Guyles were entered. From the store they took two coats, one containing a letter and $11.00 in money which was to have been registered the following day. From the house a $30 wolf robe was taken. On the same night Mr. H. Moore lost a horse and buggy, and found Dr. Chamberlin's coat in his barn. The horse was afterward found between Norwood and Charlevoix, but the buggy is still missing. On Saturday two fellows were arrested at Petoskey and brought here for trial. They were locked in rooms at the Fountain City house, but one of them escaped by making a rope of the bed clothes and dropping himself out of the third story window. He has not since been recaptured. The other was discharged for want of proof.

M. E. Church.

M. E. church, Pastor and Congregation, most cordially invite all strangers, and resorters, to participate in the services held each Sabbath morning and evening. All who are not otherwise engaged, will be welcomed; with the assurance, that a pleasant time, will be had. The Sabbath school, is quite a factor, in the enjoyableness of each Sabbath service. J. T. Burgess, Pastor.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and we will mail you free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. Address at once, GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine.

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weeds' drug store.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

NEW FIRM. NEW GOODS

F. G. HINES & CO.,

A Complete Stock of

DRUGS AND STATIONERY

Bridge Street, Carpenter Building.

A share of the Patronage of Charlevoix and Vicinity Respectfully solicited.

Prescriptions Carefully Compounded.

LIVING PRICES. POLITE ATTENTION

HEADQUARTERS FOR

Plows, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STRONG & HOWES

CHINTZ.

In dim mysterious folds you lie,
In tastern mellow and serene,
Upon your bloom wood doves fly
Round some enchanting queen.

Some delicate vine your damask veins
Till lost in feckless client seas,
And cloudlets, wound in shiny skeins,
Tip valleys Japanese.

Your scenes speak princely opulence,
As suns alone strike you flower wise,
And gild with chance magnificence
Your dreamiest peacock dyes.

You seem weighted down by lotus scent,
In dainty chains your roses link;
You will me to the Orient,
Wherein I pause and sink.

Of damsels faint with love and awe
I seem to live, in sorrow blest,
Those dead years in a city-goods store,
At dollars two per week.

A WILLFUL FLIRTATION.

BY SARA B. ROSE.

Aunt Rosie and myself had been the first to emigrate to my brother's new residence which stood by the seashore, quite a distance from any village. We intended to have the place entirely set to rights before the arrival of Leslie and Letty, for my little sister-in-law would have with her the little six weeks-old heir to the "House of Yorke," as I laughingly called our family name, and Leslie wished everything to be as pleasant as might be when he first saw our summer resort. We had succeeded beyond our best expectations, and a week saw our pleasant summer cottage all straightened and ready for occupants, but we had been given two weeks in which to finish our work, so I had one week left me in which to get into mischief.

There was "a lad I left behind me," who dwelt in the city where my brother resided, a black-eyed, jetty-haired dazzling, but oh, he was the plague of my life, always getting into flirtations if he even crossed the street, and he made my life a burden by the "maidens" he was ever making, in the cars, and every place where his handsome face was seen.

Now I had always done my best to keep even with him in this line, and had even went so far as to write a love letter to myself, in order to make him jealous, and I will allow you to judge if I succeeded, for when I showed it to him I expressed the highest admiration for the style and sentiment, and he replied:

"It's just some girl, or colored "waitah," my love."

"Indeed! Well I shall answer it and see."

"That would be the best thing you could do. Get your paper and I'll help you compose it, and then I'll drop it in the office for you."

"Yes you would! You'd tear it up and then he never would get it."

"No, I wouldn't, and now since you have doubted my honor, I won't touch it at all. But I'd like to see what you write to him."

"Very well," I returned, for I thought I saw a way to touch him a little, so I brought my paper immediately.

"How would you commence?" I asked, as I sat, pen in hand, and toyed with the box of pens.

"Why, you little goose, don't you suppose I know you wrote it yourself, before I found this?"

"And you will believe it, the provoking fellow had actually found the sheet upon which I had practised my "feigned hand," together with the first draft of that awful letter.

I was so angry I could have slapped his face but, luckily, at that moment Leslie came in, and, after he had gone, Archie talked so nicely, and never mentioned that horrid letter, and gave me a lovely diamond ring he had brought me for my engagement ring, that I forgot all about it. But after that I got up all the real flirtations that was possible, from Mike, the porter, to a purple-old heroine who once attended the same church that I did.

And I had not forgotten it when I went down into the country, either; and I have always told Archie he was entirely responsible for what happened that dreadful evening.

"Go long, child, now, and put on your pretty white dress and blue ribbons, and go down to the shore a spell, if you want to; I've got all the work done now," said Aunt Rosie.

So I ran off upstairs to my little blue and white chamber, and dressed myself, as she had told me; then I took my white garden hat and, with the long scarlet streamers, and a large blue satin sunshade, at my elbow again.

"Do I look pretty, Aunt Rosie? I asked, as I stood for a moment upon the piazza.

"Just like a posey, Miss Maudie, and your cheeks look just like them large moss roses there," returned she, pointing to the flower-beds.

I smiled back my thanks for this complimentary speech, and the kind face of the colored woman disappeared from the window, and I walked slowly off down to the seashore, wishing that Archie was with me; for I was really fond of him, although he tormented me so, and then I grew interested in a great steamer which was steaming lazily past, far out at sea, and the first I knew I was among the sands upon the shore.

There had been a storm a few days before, and the shore was strewn with bits of broken and torn seaweed, and all the other debris which Old Ocean throws up at such times.

I picked up a brilliant sea-shell, and, fired into ambition by this, I took up a stick and began a thorough search, turning over every little pile of rubbish which I met with in my walk. At once I felt a sort of magnetic thrill which told me some one was looking at me, and I looked up to see a group of four ladies, each with a book in her hand, and all regarding me with amused looks. I stopped short, but the eldest of the ladies came bravely to the rescue.

"You are Miss Maudie Yorke, I am very sure," she said, pleasantly, "of the little cottage over there among the trees."

"I am," I replied, regaining my equanimity; and the lady again spoke.

"I suppose it would be only right to inform you of the names we are blessed with, since we have the advantage of you. I am Mrs. Agnes Atwell. This is Miss Ella Lansing, Miss Ida Evarts, Miss Eva Evarts—Miss Yorke. We are your nearest neighbors," she continued, "and I will own to having coveted your new mistress ever since I heard you were here, for it is very lonely with-t company at the seaside, after the excitement of the city."

I responded as politely as I was able, and the young ladies were very pleasant. I found Mrs. Atwell an old acquaintance of my sister-in-law, and, as I had heard Letty often speak of Aggie Atwell, I was soon at home among them.

"Come home with us to tea," begged Mrs. Atwell, as the hands on my watch pointed toward 5 o'clock. "Nay, I will take no refusal, for I know you are alone with the servants."

Thus importuned I was soon walking toward Mrs. Atwell's cottage by her side, and the three girls chatting pleasantly behind us.

"The young ladies have been practicing are ery," she said, as we went through the pleasant grounds. "Do you ever use the bow and arrow?"

"Yes," I answered, delightedly, "I think it the nicest of all out-door exercises."

"Oh, do you?" cried Ella Evarts, behind me. "Then do let's shoot a little now?"

"I have not hit the target once since I have been here," said Ida.

They had an original sort of a game, and their target was a huge barrel-hoop fastened up against a tree.

"We are but learners, Miss Yorke," said Etta Lansing, apologetically; and then Mrs. Atwell left us, leaving me to the care of the young ladies. We amused ourselves with the bows and arrows for a short time, and then the three entered into a battle with a tiny aquarium, for which they declared they themselves had found several inmates.

"There's caught that tiny turtle!" said Ida Evarts.

"And that green frog is my own!" cried Ella. "I real made me a present of it."

"Which of you is the owner of that wriggling little water-snake?" I asked, with a shiver.

"Oh, that belongs to Fred," returned Ida; "and Mr. Atwell says it is not at all dangerous."

"Fred is Mr. Atwell's brother," said Etta Lansing, answering my inquiring look.

"Yes," Ella chimed in, "and he would be perfectly lovely if it was not for just this one particular."

"Ella is always falling in love with somebody, and now it a poor Fred," she rattled on, laughing.

"Hus sesh!" said Ella. "There is Mrs. Atwell."

The ladies ceased then came upon the scene, saying:

"Tea is ready, young ladies. How do you like the girl's aquarium, Miss Yorke?"

"Very much," I replied.

"Fred will want you to put something in it, and you must not refuse," exclaimed Ida Evarts.

I was about to ask who, when Mrs. Atwell spoke, and, I fancied, colored also.

"Oh, Fred will be satisfied with anything—almost—for I will answer—but we have a habit of never refusing Fred anything."

Again I was about to ask why, but the approach of two gentlemen put a stop to my query, and Mrs. Atwell again introduced me. "Miss Yorke, allow me to present to you my husband and master, Mr. Atwell. Miss Yorke, Mr. Fred Atwell."

This latter gentleman was a rather effeminate-looking young man, with pale blue eyes and light hair, and I fancied he cast me pretty closely during the supper, and when at length I arose to depart, he took his hat and asked permission to accompany me.

"Shall I go in and bid that young rebel our?"

"By no means," I returned, as I opened the parlor door. Just a little thrill of fear ran over me as I saw Fred standing in the center of the room swinging his arms coldly over his head.

"Come hither, thou Queen of Heaven!" cried he, closing the door and putting his back against it.

"I do not understand you," answered I, trying to appear calm.

"Ha! Ha! Ha! How should you?" he laughed, strangely.

"When you know not that I am the great King Cophetua—greatest of all the Africans—and you are my captive—I are my Queen Cassiopea, queen of the starry heaven!"

I was terribly frightened, for I saw by the rolling of his eyes, as well as by his words that Fred Atwell was mad. I said nothing, however, and he fell upon his knees and burst forth into a frantic declaration of his love for me.

"Then I must go," I called.

"Be silent!" he commanded. "Do you accept me, or do you reject me?" he asked, more calmly.

"Mr. Atwell," I answered, as fearlessly as I could from the corner of the room to which I had fled, "you forget that you have known me but a few days; besides, I am already engaged."

"Did you say you refused?" he asked, very quietly.

"I must of course refuse," I said, as gently as possible.

"Aha! Aha! you refuse! you refuse! you refuse! The demon told me you would!" he shrieked, in a perfect frenzy, and then he drew a long, sharp knife from inside his vest and began slashing about him frantically.

In the midst of my horror I heard the jovial sound of voices in the hall, and then the maidens above—and me, and I felt the sharp steel enter my shoulder once, twice, three, but I remained my consciousness, and saw the frightened faces of Mr. and Mrs. Atwell enter the room, followed by my brother and Archie. The latter was the first to lend a blessed state of unconsciousness.

When I came to Archie was by my side, and I had accomplished my object anyway, for he knew I had had one lover if he was even a y.

"Where is he?" I asked.

"Safely bound and on his way to the asylum," answered Letty, from an armchair close to her side on which she had been.

"Did you know that he was crazy, Letty?" I questioned.

"Oh, yes," she replied. "He has been on several times before, but Aggie said they thought he was cured.

"They ought to have told me," said I.

"Pas un h talk, too much talk," said Dr. Archie Darcy, and then I found that my shoulder had been dressed, and that I must be perfectly quiet.

Ar hie and I are married now, but he never says anything about Fred Atwell, for, as I said before, he alone was to blame.

A Mother's Hint.

Lillian—What a queer title for a book, ma!

Ma—What title?

Lillian—"Not Like Other Girls."

Ma—It is rather odd. Is it a novel?

Lillian—No, I believe it is a book the heroine can be if she "is not like other girls?"

Ma—I don't know, unless she goes into the kitchen and helps her mother instead of staying in the parlor to read novels.—Bohemian.

A WRITER, after making careful estimates of the damage done by dogs in the Northern States alone, finds that it costs not less than $3,000,000 annually to support our dogs, a sum that would buy 15,000 farms for our encouragement prices for land, or it would purchase 132,000 neighborhood libraries of 200 volumes each.

HUMOR.

THE disease of the meter—gout fever.—Oil City Derrick.

NOBLE sentiment by a Washington department clerk: "Let me live on the nation's salary, and I care not who does its work."—Boston Globe.

"I'm very matter-of-fact," she said,
To a handsome fellow she knew;
"An angel without wings."
"Oh, certainly you," the soldier said,
"For those now enlist in no service
That is not provided with them."

"Why do you keep getting up and going out between the acts?" said a sophisticated country maiden to her companion with whom she was visiting the theater. "Well, my dear, it was his reply, "I don't mind telling you that I am trying to emulate the lights of the evening drum and evening drama."—Burlington Free Press.

"Decked pretty girl, that," said Clinker to Plumper. "Yes, a fine catch for somebody. Why, she got married!" "Her pa has to do it." "How do you know that?" "Why, he can't be sure of the worth of a husband that he has to buy himself."

"You ought to be a very rich man," said a busy working man to a fellow-loafer, who sat on a dry goods box whistling "Pack-ed no," and eating peanuts in the soft pine wood. "Why so?" inquired the whistler. "Because you have more money, and you've been a tremendous sample of this."—Chattanooga Leader's Paper.

A YOUNG lady can have a lot of Telegraph her wait for her at the front door and carry her prayer-book on Sunday mornings. She need not depend upon the regulation call-boy, who is apt to show up late, silently, drop over the perpendicular rock into the fearsome turmoil of the green jewels, wide and deep, in a setting of frosted silver.

A BUSINESS young man told a married couple that he had a "marvelous memory," and she smiled so sweetly at the compliment that her mouth extended to almost exactly. After he had gone it occurred to her that there was a good deal of sarcasm in the expression, as he ogled the pictures of the next time that young man comes there will be a sacking time.—Texas Siftings.

IT does look suspicious when a man gives a package of cucumber seeds to every one he meets on the street, and then scatters some over the wonderous scene.

"Now, boys, to begin our way down hill, our first duty seems to bring us to a world of dreams, and we are startled that the same thought is both our minds and the same we are ringing in both our ears—those words in which God gives us a foreshadowing of His eternal mysteries: "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him."—H. Stuart Hartley.

The Struggle for Existence in India.

Take the returns for seven years, we find that man has killed about one hundred and forty thousand wild beasts, tigers, bears, leopards, wolves, hyenas and others—or about twenty thousand annually. During the same period the beasts have destroyed twenty-eight thousand human beings, or four thousand a year. Taking the respective rates of the reproduction of species, human and feral, it is obvious that there is very little to choose between the two lists of casualties, and that the beasts will make good the deficiencies in their numbers as quickly as, if not sooner than, the human beings. On the side of the tigers and their allies has to be added the advantage gained by having killed during the same seven years an annual average of forty-five thousand head of cattle, or to all of about three hundred and forty thousand, and inflicted, further, a monetary expenditure upon government of about ten thousand rupees a year. The balance, therefore, long-side stated, stands like one human being, with eleven head of cattle and three pounds in cash for every five wild beasts. In the great fight with the snakes, the advantage, numerically, is immensely in favor of humanity: for while the reptiles killed about eighteen thousand human beings every year, and about three thousand cattle, they lost of their own numbers nearly two hundred thousand annually. Here again, however, the question of reproduction ought to be considered, and it will be seen that the out-come of the conflict is really very evenly balanced, for a given number of snakes will add two hundred thousand to their numbers in a far shorter time than the same number of human beings will add six hundred thousand. So that as the question of extermination stands in India today, it seems just as probable that men and their domestic cattle will be extinct before the wild beasts and venomous snakes.

Sellers' Barbers in Olden Times.

The Saxon physician, Dr. Erdich, who held the rank of Oberstabsarzt in the German army, has published in a medical journal an interesting essay upon "War Surgery Among the Ancient Romans." The care and nurture of soldiers wounded in conflict for their fatherland may have been wretchedly neglected in the Middle Ages, and even so late as the Seven Years' war the surgery and nursing of the sick soldiers left much to be desired, while the official army doctor here an illi-repute morally and professionally. Among the Romans, however, the service of the army doctor was of a very high order, and the Emperor Augustus, "He was the first to institute formal field hospitals," as Dr. Prolech says, "while the modern Esculapius He gives details in illustration of the condition of military surgery and a list of surgeons who served the camp under the direction of the surgeons. There were prescribed rules issued to their subordinates for "the binding of lint—wounds" and "for the drawing out of arrows." A Roman legion had its regular "sick-bearers," and a "book-keeper," who attended to the transportation of materials for the hospital. There are directions for the detection of mad mgerers, which prove that the Roman surgeon legions had an average number of casualties in their ranks. In the year 100 B. C. several soldiers from the Campus Claudius, wishing to shirk the combat with the terrible Volscians, used the expedient of feigning illness. The deception was detected by the medical staff for the binding up of their sound limbs, and sought by this means to pass themselves off as wounded men and escape the fight.

No Need to Drawn.

"I always dread the return of the season when sea bathing is indulged in," said a gentleman. "My family have had several narrow escapes and still they have a perfect mania for the water.

"Why, there is no need to be afraid," answered his friend, "if you but retain your presence of mind. When you find yourself in deep water you will sink at first, but if you do not struggle you will come quickly to the surface again. On reaching it immediately draw a full breath and throw your head back. This will have the effect of placing you in a horizontal position on the surface of the water. Now this is the most critical moment for those who do not know what to do next. Extend your arms at once on a level with your shoulders, with the palms of your hands downward, and begin gently paddling in the water with the movement of the wrist only. Extend your legs quietly and slowly in a line with your body. If you raise your arms, your he d or your legs above the surface of the water you will sink, but if you have the presence of mind not to do so, and not to struggle about, you will never sink, so long as you keep paddling gently without exertion, and you may float on until you are picked up, or until you are numbed by the cold."—New York Sun.

AN exchange says that, in order to obtain a Texas father's permission to pay your address to his daughter, you should invite him to see you throw a bottle into the air and shoot a hole through the bottom without breaking the vessel. We should think a quicker and more effective plan would be to present the father with the contents of the bottle.

Schools of Fish.

Fishes are usually found in shoals or schools, if they are not solitary in their habits, and the number of fish in these schools is frequently enormous. Mr. Frank Buckland, in his "Natural History of British Fishes," says that he has seen a shoal of herrings which was at least a mile in length, and a quarter of a mile in breadth, and which contained, at a moderate computation, not less than one hundred millions of fish. Mr. Yarrell mentions a shoal of mackerel which was seen in the Bristol Channel, and which was computed to contain not less than five hundred millions of fish. Mr. Couch, in his "History of the Fishes of the British Islands," says that he has seen a shoal of pilchards which was at least three miles in length, and two miles in breadth, and which must have contained at least two thousand millions of fish. Mr. Couch also mentions a shoal of mackerel which was seen in the Channel, and which was computed to contain not less than five hundred millions of fish. Mr. Yarrell mentions a shoal of mackerel which was seen in the Bristol Channel, and which was computed to contain not less than five hundred millions of fish. Mr. Couch, in his "History of the Fishes of the British Islands," says that he has seen a shoal of pilchards which was at least three miles in length, and two miles in breadth, and which must have contained at least two thousand millions of fish.

In Luck.

The great aim in life of German officers, if they are poor, is to marry a rich wife. Well, did anybody ever see such luck."—Texas Siftings.

NIAGARA AND ITS WILD FLOWERS.

A lovely afternoon! We are sitting on the top of the hill close above the Horseshoe Falls at Niagara, and we with and loveliness of the wild flowers, forming one of Nature's most exquisite wild gardens, lying stretched at our feet, make us think how fond of our gardening friends would be of deep enjoyment could they be here, and see what we are now seeing. But what I will try to describe, faint and feeble though my description must necessarily be in comparison with the glorious reality.

The great cataract itself is in unsurpassed magnificence; the early autumn rains have brought a large body of water to the Lake, and the torrent of cool emerald pouring over the jagged rocks is deep and massive, and its roar has an unwonted tone of grandeur and solemnity. Far away in the distance to the quiet waters of the Ontario lake, placid and unstirred as yet, and the white sail of a far-off boat is seen as it gets an occasional gleam of sun while passing from one source of light to the other. Nearer at hand, in the space of a mile or so before reaching the Horseshoe Fall, the river, deep and whirl, hurrying rapidly along. Every dancing wavelet is turned into molten silver in the rays of the westering sun; every whistling Peck-ed no," and eager-ing speed, become a once possessed with a sense of awful power as they suddenly, silently, drop over the perpendicular rock into the fearsome turmoil below. Great green jewels, wide and deep, in a setting of frosted silver.

And this solemn magnificence and power has the exquisite contrast of the most delicate and peaceful of foreground. The hillside down which we are looking, and which stretches to the edge of the water, is aglow with vivid color—the golden masses of Solidago of many kinds, great clumps many yards long of big, deep, purple, primrose-red Asters alternate with those of a shimmering lilac, and with others of still deeper but profuse in bloom, throughout the undergrowth is a perfect blaze of the members of the organized medical staff took a prominent place in the military ranks. The great reformer of the army in this respect, however, was the Emperor Augustus. "He was the first to institute formal field hospitals," as Dr. Prolech says, "while the modern Esculapius He gives details in illustration of the condition of military surgery and a list of surgeons who served the camp under the direction of the surgeons. There were prescribed rules issued to their subordinates for "the binding of lint—wounds" and "for the drawing out of arrows." A Roman legion had its regular "sick-bearers," and a "book-keeper," who attended to the transportation of materials for the hospital. There are directions for the detection of mad mgerers, which prove that the Roman surgeon legions had an average number of casualties in their ranks. In the year 100 B. C. several soldiers from the Campus Claudius, wishing to shirk the combat with the terrible Volscians, used the expedient of feigning illness. The deception was detected by the medical staff for the binding up of their sound limbs, and sought by this means to pass themselves off as wounded men and escape the fight.

Company Shops.

Mr. M. M. Shoffner, Postmaster and Justice of the Peace, Company Shops, Alamance Co., N. C., writes he has used St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism, cuts, swollen ankles and knees, pains in the back, and sore throat. One or two applications in each case has always cured, and he believes the Great German Remedy is the best in the world. "As long as I can get it" he adds, "I never intend to be without it."

Flowers That Bless You.

Flowers flourish in the gardens of those who love them. A pleasant magic would it be, if you could dash flowers into brighter bloom; be a kind look upon them; nay, more, it a look had the power not only to cit or but to guard them. This you would think a great thing. And do you think it not a greater thing that all the, and more than this, you can do for fairer flowers than these—flowers that could bless you for having blessed them, and love you for having loved them—flowers that have eyes like yours, and thoughts like yours, and lives like yours?—Selected.

The Daily Scourge of Thousands.

Of our fellow countrymen and women, desperate, may be permanently cured by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, promptly and rapidly, but not in a reform in the action of a weak or disordered stomach. It prevents constipation, biliousness, rheumatic complaints, disturbances in the kidneys and other symptoms of a low state of the system, and it is the most reliable remedy for fever and ague, dyspepsia, debility, and that result in an enfeebled by.

Why is a woman deformed when she is mending? Because humps are where her trousseau should be.

Cure, Gentle Spring.

Spring is nature's sarsaparilla, bloodpurifier, purifier of liver and kidneys, and of tainted malarious. Portland is Kidney-Wort is said hand. It may be had of the nearest druggists, and will purify the system, correct the stomach and bowels, stimulate the liver and kidneys to healthy action, remove all poisonous humors and make you feel like a new man. As a spring medicine, tonic, and blood purifier, it has no equal.

Can anybody give us the address of the man whose name is Inglow—Rochester Post-Express.

☞ Get the Best Dyes.—The Diamond Dyes for family use have no equals. All popular colors could be produced with equal brilliancy, by the use of any of the worthless dyes now offered by unprincipled dealers. Beware of all letters to the proprietors in over-scribed handwriting, and of all dyes sold at cut rates no largely advertised by means of bogus accounts or certificates that are bought and paid for.

The mosquito's anger is an appropriation bill.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate

FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Dr. A. S. Hall, New Orleans, La., says: "I have frequently found it of excellent service when overcome by debility, loss of appetite, and in consequence of general prostration, and particularly of service in treatment of women and children."

The dancing skeleton at the Dime Museum is not an illusion. It is a bony fact thing.—Boston Post.

THAT wonderful curative known as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given more real relief to suffering women than all other remedies the world ever knew. It will cure entirely all those painful complaints and weaknesses so common to our mothers, wives and daughters. It will remove entirely all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the change of life

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 3, 1884.

Around the County.

Sunday School Convention.

The sixth annual meeting of the Charlevoix county Sunday school Association was held in the M. E. church, Ironton, on Wednesday, June 25th. On account of sickness in his family, the president, Rev. J. Redpath, of Boyne Falls, was not present, but the chair was ably filled by Rev. Wm. Norton, the vice president.

The subjects discussed were well handled, and reports were received from the greater part of the Sunday schools in the county.

The district school of Ironton came to the children's meeting in procession, and their attention and good behavior was a marked feature of the convention.

Want of time kept many earnest workers from speaking their thoughts, but all agreed that this was the largest and most interesting meeting of the association since its organization.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows.

President.—Rev. Wm. Norton, of Boyne City.

Vice President.—T. C. Bird, of Ironton.

Secretary and Treasurer.—B. Suffield, of Charlevoix.

Burgess.

Good corn weather.

Haying has commenced in Hayes.

The day we celebrate,—next Friday.

Green peas and new potatoes for the fourth of July.

New arrival in Hayes, at the house of Joseph Lewis, Jr.,—a boy and Joe is happy.

It would be well to put a bell on some of the Charlevoix people, when they wander off up in the woods in Hayes.

Miss Lizzie Willis had a sister visiting her from Cheboygan this week, she came on account of her poor health.

There has been lots of improvements on the highways in Hayes the last week, thanks to our efficient highway commissioner.

If some of the worldly minded people of Hayes would do less work on Sunday, and more on some other days it would be just as well.

George Banks thinks it is queer that a well educated man should live to be 32 years old before he found out what day was the Sabbath.

South Arm.

Mrs. Bromaghan and son visited at Boyne City last week.

Quite a number of persons here are suffering with bad colds.

Mrs. Miles had an attack of heart disease last week but is recovering.

Elder Hulse did not fill his appointment here on account of the quarterly meeting at Ironton on Sabbath last.

The familiar whistle of the Clara Belle is missed now, but we hope to see her soon in running order again.

The South Arnites that took in the Sunday school convention at Ironton, report a pleasant and profitable occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Vance, of this place, celebrated their wooden wedding at Mrs. V.'s parents in Echo, June 28th.

Mrs. Bushey aged sixty-six died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Cummins, on Saturday night after three weeks illness. The funeral is to be held to-day at the school house.

Council Proceedings.

At the meeting last Thursday evening, $10 were appropriated to clear a place in the village park for holding fourth of July services.

Bill of Thos. Shier, for building crosswalks, amounting to $10.65, was allowed and ordered paid.

J. R. Dixon offered to give a warranty deed of lot three, Dixon's addition, for use as a street, if the council will pay Wm. Colgrove the sum of $50.

It was moved and adopted that an extra tax of $1,500.96 be raised to meet the necessary expenses of the village for the ensuing year.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, by the common council of the village of Charlevoix, that the village of Charlevoix raise the sum of $7,000 by loan, secured by the bonds of the said village of Charlevoix, payable in not less than ten years, for the purpose of purchasing a lot and erecting thereon a brick building to be used as a village hall, lock-up, and engine house.

Resolved, further, that a special election of the legal voters of said village of Charlevoix be held on Monday, the 21st day of July, A. D. 1884, for the purpose of determining whether such loan shall be made or not, and that the contents of the ballots used at said election shall be "For the Loan," and "Against the Loan," * * *

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix..... 6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan..... 8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan..... 8.00 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix.... 11.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs.

Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. B. Bennett.

East Jordan, lv. 7.00am	Harbor Springs 7.30am
Charlevoix 9.00am	Petoskey..... 2.00pm
Petoskey 11.00am	Charlevoix.... 4.30pm
Harbor Springs 11.30am	East Jordan, ar. 6.30pm

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Lv Boyne..... 7.00am	Lv Charlevoix... 2.00pm
Ar Charlevoix. 9.30am	Ar Boyne..... 4.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE,

SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILDER.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.	GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave	Will Leave
Traverse City.. 7.00am	St. Ignace..... 5.30am
Northport..... 9.30am	Mackinaw Isl'd 7.00am
Charlevoix..... 12.00m	Cross Village.. 10.00am
Petoskey..... 2.00pm	Harbor Springs 12.00pm
Harbor Springs 2.45pm	Petoskey..... 1.25pm
Cross Village.. 5.00pm	Charlevoix..... 3.30pm
Mackinaw Isl'd 8.00pm	Northport..... 6.00pm
Arriving at St. Ignace..... 10.00pm	Arriving at Traverse City.. 8.30pm

T. S. FAXTON,

CAPT. A. G. ALBRICH.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.	GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave	Will Leave
Traverse City.. 7.00am	Harbor Springs 6.00am
Old Mission..... 9.00am	Petoskey..... 7.00am
Elk Rapids..... 10.00am	Charlevoix..... 8.30am
Torch Lake..... 11.45am	East Jordan (or Boyne)..... 10.00am
Norwood..... 12.30pm	Charlevoix (re-turning)..... 11.00am
Charlevoix..... 2.00pm	Norwood..... 1.00pm
East Jordan (or Boyne)..... 3.30pm	Torch Lake..... 2.00pm
Charlevoix (re-turning)..... 5.00pm	Elk Rapids..... 3.00pm
Petoskey..... 6.30pm	Old Mission..... 5.30pm
Arriving at Harbor Springs 7.00pm	Arriving at Traverse City.. 6.00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R.; also on Monday mornings between the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the City of Traverse for Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & Co.

For You

NOW READY. ORDER EARLY.

THE ILLUSTRATED

BIOGRAPHICAL

1884. ANNUAL. 1884.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR.

It contains something for everybody. Its pages interest and instruct young and old. It is alike serviceable to the Doctor, the Clergyman, the Lawyer, the Editor, the Statesman, the Student, the Politician, the Merchant, the Mechanic and to the School Boy who lugs to his the foundation of his future character and seeks to ladders to patron ize.

THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL IS A BOOK OF TO-DAY.

Within its pages may be found nearly

200 PORTRAITS, MEN AND WOMEN who have exercised and are still exerting powerful influences in various directions.

While pre-eminently an American publication, treating principally of EMINENT AMERICANS, it contains the portraits and lives of the most PROMINENT EUROPEANS of the age.

Its pages familiarize the reader with the features and the lives of prominent Crowned and Uncrowned Rulers, Members of the Cabinets, Statesmen, Warriors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Ministers, Railroad Magnates, Actors, Actresses, Musicians, Philanthropists, Poets, Inventors, Advocates, Irish Agitators, Cardinals, Judges, Philanthropists, Orators, Bishops, and others in all the various walks of life, INCLUDING ALL POSSIBLE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES,

AMONG WHOM WE MAY MENTION BLAINE, ARTHUR, BEDFORD, BAYARD, MORRISON, FLOWER, EDMUNDS, LINCOLN, SAMS, BUTLER, GRESHAM, PALMER, HENDRICKS, HOLMAN, LOGAN, PAYNE and HOADLEY.

EVERY BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH IS ACCOMPANIED BY A FAITHFUL AND LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.

Ostracism? Professors, whether Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Congregationalists, Baptists or Methodists, will fall into mild fits and ministers can't help THE BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL among familiar faces the owners of which have placed themselves in thousands of their fellowmen. The Lives of the PROMINENT WOMEN which occupy an important place in the world's history, whether for good or evil, in managing and influencing society, and will confirm the reader that woman is a noble human and that she is well able to fulfill it.

If you would become acquainted with the faces and features of the men and women whose names have become fam iliar to everybody, ask a copy of THE

BIOGRAPHICAL ANNUAL

Sent postpaid on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

L. KLOPSCH & CO., Publishers,

62 White Street, New York.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Five per cent interest, payable January and July. We solicit your business for the following REASONS—First, we have $40000 in Real Property, held by law to protect our depositors. All State Savings Banks, or other State Banks, offer no equally liable for deposits beyond amount of stock taken; and that is often fictitious. National banks only secure their bills in circulation. Second, we are here to stay. Safety is our motto. Third, we think it is foolish, and with our friends it is criminal.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new

Opera Block

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

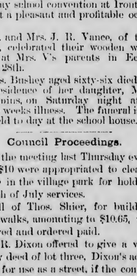
Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.



Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR SALE

J. MILO EATON

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FARMS

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companies

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1865

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

IMMENSE CUT IN PRICES

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings,

Boots and Shoes

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at once as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. Remember, I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm.

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN CHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 52. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday morning,

CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Entered at the POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., as SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

BLANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, in Empire Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. J. GRIER.

A. CALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Insurance Agent, Lake st., east of postoffice, Mich.

A. ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

C. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Legal business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

ENRY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

E. NEWBERRY, Attorneys at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner, Office in bank building, corner Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich

E. EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

A. KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City.

F. WINER, Attorney and Solicitor, and Circuit Court Commissioner.

ELBERT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Exchange and mortgages bought and sold, collections on all cities in Europe and United States and railroad tickets sold to all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on mortgages. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., in basement. Sunday school at close of service. Prayer meeting every Thursday at 7.30 in the school house.

C. F. VANAUKEN, pastor.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.

J. T. HOBBINS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

ATLANTIC ROUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at their hall.

R. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

O. FIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Magic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

A. EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class rigs and carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses for hire.

PHYSICIANS.

C. BRISTEIN, M. D.

Office at the Ingleside.

H. M. B. Physician and Surgeon, Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

HAYES, M. D. Office and residence over first National Bank of Charlevoix.

PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

T. S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. Baxter Post No. 118, meets second Friday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

F. & A.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Saturday evening, in their hall.

F.—Star Rises No. 357, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

R. C.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Friday on or before full moon. Hall over Post Office.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

H. HANCHEY, V. S. Office at Bridge Street Stables, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

P. DERGA, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend to all work in the line of well digging, boring, and blasting. Will solar building, and similar work. 45

BANK, A. B. TURBOTT, President. Vice President.

Saints' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Transacts a banking business transacted. Money loaned on paper of responsible parties. Collections given careful attention. Drafts issued promptly.

C. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Repairing in gold and Silver. Any article plated to order. AGATES AND JEWELRY cut to order.

PIMPLES.

To any one sending me their address I will give the recipe for a simple WASH that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, and other impurities, leaving the skin soft and beautiful. Also instructions for producing a growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face, inclosing a 3c. stamp. ADDRESS, 72 Barclay St., N. Y.

NOTICE is hereby given that on or about May 20th 1884, two yearling colts, or thereabouts. Both colts are bright bay with black mane and tail, one is a mare of good size, the other is a horse, rather small. Strayed upon my inclosed land in the township of Bear Lake, (sec. 25) and now remain upon my premises.

Dated Bear Lake this 30th day of June 1884.

49 E. C. PHITTPLACE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the twelfth day of May, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of David S. Tillapaugh, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, and on or before the first day of December next, and that said claims will be heard before said Court on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of December next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated May 12th, A. D. 1884.

52-55 JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss.—Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the twelfth day of May, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Benjamin Walker, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the first day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated January 9, A. D. 1884.

52-55 JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

PROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, county of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the probate court for said county, held at the probate office in the village of Charlevoix, on the seventh day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of probate. In the matter of the estate of

CHARLOTTE BOWDISH, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly certified of Albert Bowdish, administrator of said estate, praying that certain real estate might be sold to pay debts. Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the fourteenth day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES A. KEAT,

(A true copy) Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for said county held at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix on the sixteenth day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of

BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Reuben Willis, administrator, with the will annexed, of said estate praying for reasons therein stated that certain real estate may be sold to pay debts outstanding against said estate.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the eleventh day of August next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A true copy) JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for said county held at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix on the sixteenth day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty four. Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of

BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Reuben Willis, administrator, with the will annexed, of said estate praying for reasons therein stated that certain real estate may be sold to pay debts outstanding against said estate.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the eleventh day of August next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden in the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

(A true copy) JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix..... 6.30 a. m	2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan..... 8.30 a. m	4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan..... 8.00 a. m	4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix.... 11.00 a. m	6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.

Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. L. J. Bennett.

LEAVE	AM	PM	ARRIVE	AM	PM
East Jordan	6:50	1:00	Charlevoix	8:35	3:15
Charlevoix	8:50	4:00	East Jordan	10:55	6:00

Stopping at intermediate points.

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Str. NORTH STAR—Capt. Geo. B. Thompson.

Lv Boyne..... 7.00am	Lv Charlevoix... 2.00pm
Ar Charlevoix. 9.30am	Ar Boyne..... 4.30pm

Stopping at intermediate points.

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

Leave Boyne.....	9.30 a.m
Arrive Charlevoix.....	12.00 p.m
Leave Charlevoix.....	1.30 p. m
Arrive Boyne.....	4.00 p. m

Carrying the U. S. Mail.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE,

SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,

CAPT. O. E. WILDER.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.	GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave	Will Leave
Traverse City.. 7.00am	St. Ignace..... 5.30am
Northport..... 9.30am	Mackinaw Isl'd 7.00am
Charlevoix..... 12.00m	Cross Village.. 10.00am
Petoskey..... 2.00pm	Harbor Springs 12.00pm
Harbor Springs 2.45pm	Petoskey..... 1.25pm
Cross Village.. 5.00pm	Charlevoix..... 3.30pm
Mackinaw Isl'd 8.00pm	Northport..... 6.00pm
Arriving at St. Ignace..... 10.00pm	Arriving at Traverse City.. 8.30pm

T. S. FAXTON,

CAPT. A. G. ALBRICH.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.	GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave	Will Leave
Traverse City.. 7.00am	Harbor Springs 6.00am
Old Mission..... 9.00am	Petoskey..... 7.00am
Elk Rapids..... 10.00am	Charlevoix..... 8.30am
Torch Lake..... 11.45am	East Jordan (or Boyne)..... 10.00am
Norwood..... 12.30pm	Charlevoix (re-turning)..... 11.00am
Charlevoix..... 2.00pm	Norwood..... 1.00pm
East Jordan (or Boyne)..... 3.30pm	Torch Lake..... 2.00pm
Charlevoix (re-turning)..... 5.00pm	Elk Rapids..... 3.00pm
Petoskey..... 6.30pm	Old Mission..... 5.30pm
Arriving at Harbor Springs 7.00pm	Arriving at Traverse City.. 6.00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS

Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R.; also on Monday mornings between the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the City of Traverse for Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & Co.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.

PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, Proprietor.

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

F. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a stones throw of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

J. J. STEVENS & SON, Proprietors.

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,

HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Ladies, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many new as possible. Call and see my stock before six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Telephone Order

Hello there!

Hello! What is it?

Has your mother got any rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

HELLO! How Are You?

Of Interest to All.

HAVE YOUR GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED

Free of Charge.

All orders by telephone or Otherways, promptly attended to.

Having placed a Telephone in our market, we can receive and fill orders promptly with the least possible trouble to our patrons.

Ice Delivered

Every Morning.

Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.

JEFFERIES & DECKER.

Additional Local.

J. J. Bush, of Lansing, is in town recruiting.

The East Jordan dramatic club is advertised for one entertainment at the opera house to night. They gave excellent satisfaction on their last visit, and no doubt will do as well again.

The M. W. Wright will give an excursion to East Jordan on the 12th, for the benefit of the Orangemen who desire to attend the celebration at that place. Fare 75 cents per couple, round trip.

Mr. Fred A. Smith and Miss Abbie Bennett were married by Rev. C. F. Van Aiken at the residence of the bride's parents, at 10 o'clock yesterday. They took the steamer City of Grand Rapids for a trip to Mackinac.

On our last page will be found an announcement of an illustrated lecture by J. S. Smithson, of Cheboygan, for the benefit of the Congregational Church. The subject is one of interest, and the illustrations are shown by means of a magic lantern. We hope to see the opera house filled.

The following roosters are quartered at the Fountain City house: J. P. Adams, Sandwich, Ill.; J. Morgan, Aurora, Ill.; H. S. Stover, wife and son, Mrs. Jules Valle, nurse and child, Mrs. W. E. Wagner, and daughter, Mrs. A. M. Simmonds, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. M. A. Tarleton, and E. H. Tarleton, of New Orleans, La.; and B. Rafferty, of Iowa, O.

Last Tuesday morning, Dr. Christein, with the assistance of Drs. Preston and Graves, removed from the arm of Mr. John Grant, of South Arm, a tumor weighing nearly two pounds. Mr. G. is about 71 years old, in fair health, and the doctor expresses a hope of ultimate recovery. If he does recover it will be a most remarkable cure. The scar on the arm is as large as a man's hand.

Card of Thanks.

The ladies of the Congregational church and society wish through the JOURNAL to thank the many friends who assisted them in preparing and serving refreshments on the 4th. And especially do they thank Mr. Fox for the use of his building, and Messrs. J. L. Hurd & Co. for dishes etc.

BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's Oriental balm. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion so soft, and brilliant, so surely removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Two Assignments.

R. M. Cherrie, of Chicago, president and principal stockholder in the Pine Lake Iron Co., of Ironton, made a voluntary assignment on the 3d. We have not yet learned the effect it will have upon the future operations at the furnace. John Otis & Co., engaged in the iron business at Mancelona, made an assignment on the 5th, to Willard Barnhart of Grand Rapids. No figures can be given at present as to the amount of assets and liabilities. The failure is said to be the result of the failure of R. M. Cherrie, of Chicago, which occurred on the 3d. It has been intimated that these failures may seriously interfere with the plans of several Charlevoix county tradesmen.

Later advices are to the effect that matters have been adjusted at headquarters, and affairs at the furnace will continue as heretofore.

Our Celebration.

Charlevoix did not indulge in long and tiresome processions, long-winded oratory, and a crowding of three days sports into one, as is the custom generally. The all night rain promised to continue through the day, and preparations were deferred,—some of them indefinitely. No doubt many remained at home who had contemplated a "big day." However, we had a very respectable crowd, and after the rain ceased, enough of the smaller games, races, etc., were had to make the day said-factory. At the click skating and dancing were indulged in during the day and early evening, and at the opera house one of the best dances of the season was kept up during the afternoon and nearly all night. The congregational society gave a dinner in Fox's new building, netting a handsome sum. During the evening there was a display of fire works on the corner of Bridge and Clinton streets.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by Ormsby Bros., real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, July 8, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

J. Mills Eaton and wife to Bertha A. Hawks, lot 2 Eaton's addition to Charlevoix, $500.

John Nicholls and wife to Albert E. Pickard, lot 8 block 8, South Lake, $60.

William Heap to C. V. Cook, ne ¼ of s w ¼, 12-32-7, $250.

A. R. Upright et. al. to Louisa Stuart, lot 10 Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $50.

A. R. Upright et. al. to Athalia Blair, lot 7, Upright's addition to Charlevoix, $150.

Albert Bloom and wife to George Olney, n e ¼ of n w ¼, 36-33-5, $300.

Lewis Stevens and wife to Amanda Stevens-port, lot 54 block H, South Boyne, $1,200.

Bloom Goodrich to Albert Moddo, s ½ of s e ¼ of n w ¼, 24-30-8, $1.

W. H. Hurlbut and wife to Jane Widdifield, 1 acre, 27-31-8, $100.

Shipments.

The following are the shipments from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, July 8:

July 2—Prop. John Otis, 40 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

2—Schr. Florence M. Smith, 65,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.

2—Schr. Bert Barnes, 100 cords wood, Master to Milwaukee.

2—Schr. Little Mason, 50 cords wood, W. A. Stone, to Milwaukee.

2—Schr. Evening Star, 60,000 feet hardwood lumber, 50 cords bark, Sheboygan Mfg. Co., and 50 cords bark, Sheboygan.

2—Schr. Jennie Wagner, 80 cords bark, Master to Chicago.

2—Schr. Howard, 100 bords wood, Upright Emery & Co., to Milwaukee.

2—Schr. Jessie Phillips, 100,000 feet hardwood lumber, Andrews & Co., to Chicago.

4—Schr. Mowing Bird, 150,000 feet hardwood lumber, Upland Emery & Co., to Chicago.

4—Schr. John C. Bauer, 150 cords wood, John Wright to Milwaukee.

7—Schr. Ogontz, 200,000 feet hardwood lumber, Glenn & Porter, to Chicago.

8—Schr. Phenix, 70 cords bark, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

8—Schr. A. E. Blake, 70 cords bark, Upright Emery & Co., to Chicago.

8—Schr. Contest, 80 cords wood, J. A. Reed, to Kenosha.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

SIX lives were lost by the sinking of the schooner Bakes-O near Barnegat, New Jersey. H. H. Rogers, the Bay State-Gaslight Company failed at Boston for $210,000.

WILLIE walking in Allegheny City, Pa., John Donaldson, who had been bitten by a dog two years ago, was suddenly taken with hydrophobia. He was removed to a police station, where, despite the efforts of firemen to hold him, and after embrace suffering he died the following day. A fire at Driftwood, Cameron County, Pa., destroyed the principal buildings in the place. The total loss is placed at $75,000.

THE WEST.

GEN. SHERIDAN and a party of friends visited Chicago to witness the inauguration of the Washington Park race-track. The meeting opened with stakes aggregating $87,000, and entries numbering 1,000.

AT Lexington, Ky., on Tuesday, Jo. Lowe ingit, nephew of Samuel Setzer, a merchant, Essaid he found Setzer in an office over working, a manner he his arrest on the charge of stealing the latter's bill, who replied: "Come in money for something purposes."

A RACE was made from Helena, Montana, to the Union Pacific Railroad at Silver Bow Station, but unlike most of Helena John Davis, the supposed victor of the stage line, passed the goal to Adam Meek's bull calf. When approached by the latter he was held in reverence, and the driver was cracked with the lashes of his horses before. Fifteen minutes refreshed the horses, and the final. The drivers were awarded Henry miles north of Rocky Ranch and the Kentucky Derby, respectively.

THE cowboys were driving 1,500 cattle only with residents, while the horse-thieves had rifles. Men were sent to the camp for guns and the field was drawn at 38 Nevada. Seven was shot dead and 13 others wounded, capture 3, and leave 5 Williams-Sons. The Dodge cowboys were wounded of Col. Greene's Herald, of Dupree was Fulton, Wis., lumber agent, has been ordered by the United States Grand Jury for receiving stolen money. The shipment was of cash secured from parties.

PALMER, the supposed murderer of Miss Minch, has been convicted to be hanged on October 10. John Strange, lumber dealer, of Muskegon, Mich., was sandbagged, robbed of $2,000, and cut his throat. Assassin Kingman Lowe, age unknown, killed with pocket-knife, while he was drunk, Lowe shot and killed Jesse Sutton, in Sumner, $2,000. The room in which Omsted left from Chicago to Buffalo inquest, Dec. 5, and the body was taken away unknown on the lakes. Judge Wylie, of Indiana, has decided against placing license before the people.

THE residence of Mr. Patrick Murphy of Bruce Hill, near Youngstown, Ohio, was destroyed by fire. Three of the children, aged 6, 7 and 9 years, perished in the flames. Mrs. Murphy leaves the house and, rushing to the nearby fourth child, aged 2 years, carried it to safety. Her husband, who had been working on the farm, arrived in time to see the house in ruins and wounding other. The mother and surviving child are prostrated by the blow.

MARSHAL Patterson, of Greenville, N. C., reached one of three houses tenanted by Cubbies in that place. At Green's Pond Harbor the Orangemen drove off four white families and set fire to shelter. Promptly had the negroes, and when Patterson showed the cruelty by missiles. Sheriff Ko the cross of a burk ordered the Catholic Church, destroyed the Methodist Church, entered the chapel and burned the furniture. Religious and Democratic and Knownot Rooters who offered to help the negroes. He are badly injured in the fight and generally. All of the Anti-Democratic resistance of the leaders are now under arrest awaiting the movement. The officials in Pennsylvania are now under the Governor's control to move it under the Governor's control to move it under the the movement. Governor Pennsylvania and others must report daily to the meeting of the movement. Hold a Senate Mo.

THE SOUTH.

DR. MARTIN, ex-Surgeon of Brooklyn, has died at Tuscaloosa, Ala., aged 70.

ON account of the failure of the Brooklyn Savings, Virginia Midland express train No. 6 was robbed of specie on the Saturday evening, the express messenger from the safe. The booty consisted of the sacks, amounting in all to $25,000, and was taken from the express car at Danville, Va.

THE Supreme Court of Texas has granted a writ of error in the case of Texas Grand Jury vs. Gould, convicted of contempt in refusing to answer questions.

ON account of the failure of the Brooklyn Savings, Virginia Midland express train No. 6 was robbed of specie on the Saturday evening, the express messenger from the safe. The booty consisted of the sacks, amounting in all to $25,000, and was taken from the express car at Danville, Va.

A TELEGRAM from Bishop Marvin, of Jackson, Miss., to the Bishop of Texas, says that the yellow fever is spreading in that city. Over 1,000 cases are reported, and 100 deaths occur daily. The disease is confined to the negroes.

FOREIGN.

THERE is intense feeling against the Jesuits in Western Russia, and they are greatly alarmed. Some of the Slavic organizations are anti-Semitic people. Many Jews have left Russia, and it is feared that Russians would be a greater misfortune for Russia than the former Mennonites.

IN the Russo-Danish Parliament Mr. Crichton moved that the vote of thanks to the Emperor of Russia for his services to the Danish Royal Family be expunged from the records. The motion was carried by 61 votes to 51. The names of those who voted in the majority were published.

THE Queen has issued Diplomatic Letters to Count Karolyi, Austro-Hungarian Minister to the United States, and Count Apponyi, Austro-Hungarian Minister to France, to the effect that they have been accredited to the Queen.

THE Queen has issued Diplomatic Letters to Count Karolyi, Austro-Hungarian Minister to the United States, and Count Apponyi, Austro-Hungarian Minister to France, to the effect that they have been accredited to the Queen.

WASHINGTON.

THE Postmaster-General has issued an order increasing the salaries of Postmasters at Lafayette, Indiana, from $2,000 to $2,500 per annum.

THE Secretary of the Treasury has issued a circular to Collectors of Customs, directing them to withhold the payment of all moneys due to the Government on account of the Commissioner. The circular will remain in force until the Commissioner shall have made a report to the Secretary of the Treasury

This week completes the first year of the JOURNAL. Is it a success? Has it come up to the standard fixed for it by its promoters and friends? We leave each to answer for himself. All with whom we have talked express satisfaction with its course, and we have yet to hear the first complaint.

Notwithstanding the numerous predictions one year ago, that that the JOURNAL would not live out the first winter, by the leniency of our creditors and the steadfastness of our friends we have lived, and take this occasion to thank you one and all. But even this has not been accomplished without strict attention to to business and the most thorough economy.

As a business venture the JOURNAL is fairly successful, but is not y-t "out of the depths." It will require nearly another year to meet every obligation, but with continued good health we shall do it, besides adding much new material to the outfit.

Since early spring we have contemplated an enlargement to twelve pages with the new volume, but the present depression in business makes it impossible. With a revival of trade we shall resume the supplement sheets, and hope eventually to reach the desired enlargement, with even a greater number of pages among the possibilities.

The majority of our subscriptions expire with this week. To assist in meeting bills now due, we ask every one to renew as soon as circumstances will permit.

FROM CHICAGO.

Republican lightning doesn't operate for a democratic convention. During the republican convention the local officer here claimed to have "had an operator at the instrument all day" receiving convention bulletins, and "this service was supplemented by good service at Dr. Crouter's by telephone." We have not yet been able to get a word from the democratic convention. Voters how do you like this?

The Detroit Free Press characterizes the life of Isaac M. Singer, the sewing machine man, who died leaving an estate of $14,000,000, as "one of those cases of latter-day Mormonism which are suffered to exist on this side of the Rocky mountains with little protest and no interference of law." Singer had at one time five living wives. One had been divorced without her knowledge, three lived in luxury and ignorant of each other, each bore large families for him, and all were deserted for a fifth, in Paris, with whom he lived the balance of his days. This is a case which makes no stir in congress, but is quite as demoralizing as any other polygamy about which so much has been written.

Michigan Rivers and Harbors.

WASHINGTON, July 7. The river and harbor bill, as finally passed by both houses of congress yesterday, contains the following Michigan appropriations: $30,000 for continuing the improvement of the Detroit river; $325,000 for Bay City harbor; $150,000 for the improvement of the south and harbor of Cedar river; $75,000 for improvement of the Grand river below Grand Rapids; $50,000 for improving the Saginaw river; $5,000 for a harbor at Belle river; $5,000 for a harbor at Black lake; $5,000 for a harbor at Charlevoix at the entrance to Pine lake; $5,000 for Pentwater harbor; $5,000 for Ludington harbor; $5,000 for Frankfort harbor; $12,500 for the harbor of refuge at Portage lake; harbor at Grand Haven, same; harbor of refuge, Sand Beach, Lake Huron, $5,000; breakwater, etc., at Saugatuck, same; harbor at Manistee, $15,000; harbor at Muskegon same; harbor at Manistique, same; harbor of refuge at Menominee, same; Presque Isle, do.; Marquette harbor, $5,000; harbor at Ontonagon, $5,000; harbor at Saginaw, $15,000; harbor at South Haven, $5,000; and for Wyandotte, same.

One of our best citizens would say [illegible] That is something [illegible]

Remember This.

[illegible] are the best blood purifiers [illegible] promote sleep, cure all nervous [illegible] Try them. Sold by all druggists [illegible] Only 25 cents per box. [illegible]

AGENTS [illegible]

EVERYTHING

IN THE LINE OF

Furniture and Undertakers' Goods

CAN BE FOUND AT THE OLD RELIABLE HOUSE OF

HENRY C. COOPER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Come and See Me Before Buying.

Advance Lumber Company

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWING

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER CO.
ADVANCE, MICH.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Shoes,

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds,

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Shoes,

LATEST STYLES.

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR.

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS.

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Opera Block

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Boiler Maker,

Sheet-Iron Worker,

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy Blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing of Boilers promptly attended to.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES

At

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Electric Light

THE FAIR,

J. J. Kanagy & Son,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

NEW GOOD

I am pleased to say that my

Spring Sto

is ready for inspection. Come and [illegible] and when you want a suit of clothes [illegible] JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES

AND

Price to Correspond with the Times.

GEO. W. M

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Stor

and

NEW GOO

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cut Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Bu Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best Ti Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW

IMMENSE CUT IN PRIC

—OF—

All-Wool Goods,

Overcoats and Suitings

Boots and Sho

I have a large stock of Clothing and Boots and Shoes which I will close out at cost as I wish to make room for spring goods. All my goods I will warrant

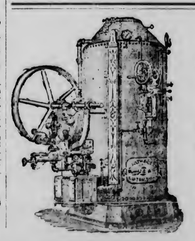
First-Class,

And will be pleased to show them to all parties whether they intend to purchase or not. I have marked these goods down at actual cost, and they are

Big Bargains.

E. M. Clark

Charlevoix, Feb. 12, 1884.



E. T. BROWN

Threshing Engines

Portable and Stat

Engine

SAW MILLS, THRES MILL SUPPLIES

The Best Saw Mill in t for the Money.

BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CA

West Bridge Street

Grand Rapids, Mi

HE JOURNAL

harlevoix, Mich., July 10, 1884.

Provision Market.

[illegible] prices to consumers, as corrected every [illegible] morning by UPRIGHT, EMREY & [illegible] general dealers:

[illegible] per bbl, $4.50, $6.50, and $7.00.
[illegible] MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted, [illegible]
[illegible] per ton, $8[illegible].
[illegible] per lb, 9@[illegible]c.
[illegible] FEED, per cwt, $1.40@1.55.
[illegible] LARDS, per lb, 6@[illegible]c.
[illegible] ONS, per bu, $2.00.
[illegible] TER, per lb, 20@[illegible]c.
[illegible] s, per doz, 20c.
[illegible] toes, per lb, 1@[illegible]c.
[illegible] ns, 10c; Shoulders, 12c.
[illegible] PORK, 14c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 9c.
[illegible] TATOES, per lb, 10c.
[illegible] SENE, 90c.
[illegible] SEED WHITE OIL, 20c.
[illegible] ERAL PRODUCE in good demand.

Fresh Meats from the Market.

CORRECTED BY G. W. JEFFERIES.

Dressed stock, 12 @ 13c; fresh pork, 12½ @ [illegible]c; sausage, 15c; hams, 15c; [illegible]ns, 7c; rib stews, 8c.

[illegible] Cattle.

Local News Brevities.

Calling cards at this office.

[illegible]ce change in card of Dr. S. C. [illegible]s.

[illegible] samples of business cuts just [illegible]ed at this office.

[illegible]k over our samples before ordering [illegible]sters of any kind.

[illegible]eral matters of interest are [illegible]ed out this week.

[illegible]k Connor has been released on [illegible] to keep the peace.

[illegible]e and see our charcoal sketches [illegible]dvertising purposes.

[illegible]n Howard returned yesterday [illegible]s recent visit south.

[illegible]. L. E. Allen is recovering under [illegible]e care of her mother.

[illegible]e Boyne Sunday school will have [illegible]ic in about two weeks.

[illegible]ager Bros. received their long [illegible]ted pool table this week.

[illegible]n Harrison Miller returned home [illegible] Beaver Island last week.

[illegible]. Chapman, of Bay Springs, [illegible]s a call last Saturday.

[illegible]e Gibson, of Beaver Island, [illegible]s town a few days this week.

[illegible]. Cobb, of Kalamazoo, is at the [illegible]e street house for a few days.

[illegible]. E. Rogers, of East Jordan, [illegible]d at this office last Thursday.

[illegible]o Eaton is in attendance at [illegible]ackinac convention this week.

[illegible]. Havens, of Howell, Mich., is [illegible]harlevoix this week on business.

[illegible]. Struthers remembered the [illegible] last week with a fine lot of pie [illegible]s.

[illegible]. O'Neil, now of Elk Rapids, [illegible] friends in Charlevoix on the [illegible]

[illegible] Lawrence loaded with posts at [illegible]. Emrey & Co's., Tuesday [illegible]ng.

[illegible]. Wood & Co. will fill the medicine [illegible]est for the Champlain on her [illegible]rip.

[illegible] Clara Sheridan has gone to [illegible]harlevoix for a brief visit with her [illegible]s.

[illegible]ev. Simpson's life will be repeated [illegible] at M. E. church next Sunday [illegible]ng.

[illegible]. Bellinger moved on Monday [illegible] store recently repaired and [illegible]ed.

[illegible] Miss Papineau has been quite [illegible] for the last few days, but is [illegible] again.

[illegible]. Miller has put up two attractive [illegible]nd convenient awnings over his [illegible] windows.

[illegible]. W. Rogers and J. C. Jordan, of [illegible]ordan, were among our callers Saturday.

[illegible]old paint for decorating, and [illegible] cans of fancy paints at L. D. [illegible]omew's.

[illegible]ss Dryden and daughter of St. [illegible]ol, Mo., are visiting his daughter [illegible]r. Graves.

[illegible]ers concerning the estate of [illegible]am Walker, deceased, may be [illegible] in this paper.

[illegible]member the Sunday school festival [illegible] new store, to-morrow [illegible]g at six o'clock.

[illegible] Tomlinson started Monday night [illegible] another attempt to raise his [illegible]ner sunk near Ironton.

[illegible]. Blakely's store at Eastport [illegible] a week ago Sunday night. [illegible]s amount to [illegible] $1,500.

Eugene Cross has moved his family to Charlevoix from the Fox island where they have been living.

Geo. S. Raymond and family, of Galesburg, Ills., are stopping at A. R. Upright's for a brief recreation.

Prof. M. L. Smith has rented a house on Clinton street, and will settle his family therein in a few days.

R. Gidley has purchased the stage line and mail route of D. Blakely, between Charlevoix and Elk Rapids.

O. I. Wheat offers for sale his stock of groceries, confectionery, etc., to give him more time to devote to his trade.

We understand that Mrs. O. S. Gulley, of Detroit, will not spend the summer in Charlevoix, as she did last year.

F. H. Booker, of Olivet college, who is spending his vacation in Charlevoix, is studying the flora of this vicinity.

☞All those who take comfort in playing fifteen ball pool, don't forget the pool room of Wagar Brothers, Charlevoix, Mich.

The residence of John Nicholls has been given a new coat of paint, with a new coat of paint, with triumings lighter than the body.

J. E. Potter, engineer for Glenn & Porter's mill at East Jordan, was in town Monday looking after material for repairs to the boiler.

The side-wheel steamer, Queen of the Lakes, from Elk Rapids, gave an excursion to Ironton, on the fourth, which was well patronized.

O. W. Smith has given the front room of his lapidary an attractive finish. The counter is his own design and work, and looks well.

Boyne City boys have organized a base ball club, and would like to play with a club in Charlevoix. Brace up boys, and give them a whirl.

Wm. Francis and wife of Mitchell, Ont., who have been visiting their son D. H. Francis, started for home on Monday, on the Grand Rapids.

Wm. Burton, late of the Clara Belle goes to Elk Rapids, and will have a place on the tug Albatross. He will return to Charlevoix in the fall.

J. S. Smithson, of Chicago, will occupy Rev. C. F. Van Anken's pulpit, at the opera house, on Sunday morning, July 13. All are welcome.

The Clara Belle will give an excursion from East Jordan to Petoskey and Harbor Springs next Sunday. Fare from Charlevoix round trip, 50 cents.

The "pavilion show" is not one we can recommend "for ladies and children," as it was advertised. The characters approach too nearly to the vulgar.

East Jordan will celebrate the battle of Boyne next Saturday. The Wright will carry passengers at ex cursion rates,—75 cts. per couple, round trip.

☞California apricots, peaches, green gages, egg plums, quinces, for eign and domestic dried fruits. Call and get a can that will surprise your stomach. Upright, Emrey & Co.

☞Upright, Emrey & Co., are away ahead on fancy groceries. Their honey jumbles, chocolate, coffee cakes, Milwaukee butters, drop cookies, and Mackinac tarts are great,—try them.

One of the best features of the fourth was the rain which set in Thursday evening, continuing nearly all night and part of Friday forenoon, wetting the crops nicely. It was needed very much.

Mrs. Ella Smith advertises her millinery goods at cost for cash to close out. The stock includes a choice lot of straw goods, flowers, laces, ribbons, etc., of latest styles and first class goods.

☞Mr. Fox's store, and the residences of Mr. John Nichols and Henry Cooper are painted with the high grade Sherwin & Williams' paints. How they shine! Price the same as for poor paint.

Doster & Noble have decided to place the steamer, Queen of the Lakes upon Pine Lake, to run from Charlevoix to some point up the lake to run the balance of the season. Capt. Fred Johnson commands her; his son Charles first mate, and Henry Peters engineer. The Queen is an elegant steamer and should be well patronized by Charlevoix county people. Elk Rapids Progress.

☞To avoid an interference with the Sunday School Festival to-morrow evening, the East Jordan Dramatic Club have decided to give their entertainment "Down by the Sea," at the opera house TO-NIGHT, July 10th. Admission 25 cents; reserved seats 35 cents. Reserved seats for sale at Weed's drug store. Doors open at 7 o'clock, commence at 8 o'clock.

Miss Carrie Hilton, of Norwood, who has been attending school at Pontiac for the past four years, has graduated, and is now visiting friends at St. Louis, Gratiot county. She will return home next week.

At the M. E. church Rev. J. T. Iddings will speak next Sunday morning, taking for his subject "How are the mighty fallen," in memory of the late Bishop Mathew Simpson. At the evening service Mr. Smithson, of Chicago, will occupy the pulpit.

John Hammond claims to have the best 20 acres of hay in this county, his farm being so located that a dry time is to his advantage. Richard Lake is another not affected by the weather and claims to have 40 acres of hay and wheat that is hard to beat.

Dr. O. B. Weed returned home from Manistique last Saturday, where he has had a position as principal of the schools. He will visit friends in Charlevoix and elsewhere during the summer, returning to Manistique next fall for another year as principal, at an increased salary.

One day this week while opening up Ash street, workmen uncovered an old grave in which were eight human skeletons. As this place was once an Indian burying ground, it probably accounts for the skeletons. From the appearance of them they must have been buried many years ago.—Elk Rapids Progress.

J. R. Doughty, of the Mt. Pleasant Enterprise, gave us a call Monday morning. He was one of the party of excursionists to Marquette, and stopped on his return to look over this country. He is of the opinion that our location is an excellent one, and hopes to spend a few weeks with us for the benefit of the health of his family some time in the future.

☞Who has dried peaches spiced? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who has dried blackberries at 18 cts. per lb. Upright, Emrey & Co. Where do telephone orders receive prompt attention? At Upright, Emrey & Co.'s Who are our best grocers? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who keeps the fastest delivery wagon? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who dare sell the cheapest? Upright, Emrey & Co.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor, and Northern Michigan railroad was completed to St. Louis, Gratiot county, June 26th., and the event was celebrated by the citizens of the surrounding country with a procession, picnic dinner, speeches, etc. J. M. Ashley Jr., was eulogised for his energy and push in its construction. We hope the managers will see it to their interest to decide upon Charlevoix as their ultimate terminus.

Geo. Olney found, last Sunday, the buggy, harness, and robe stolen from Hosea Moore, of Norwood, June 27th. He learned that a horse had been seen rolling in the road near the cemetery on the morning following the robbery, and going to the place, he turned into the bushes and found traces of a wagon having passed through. About ten rods from the road he found all the articles together where they had apparently been left in a hurry.

"A gentleman, who, with his family, has just returned from Washington Territory, gives a very discouraging account of the condition of the people. He says business is at a standstill. No employment for mechanics or laborers and thousands of emigrants, who would return east if the had enough money to bring them. He went there with intent to settle.—Ex. Michigan is the best state to settle in, and Charlevoix county has an abundance of farming land at $5 an acre and upwards.

We wonder how long it will take our backwoods officers to learn that they cannot handle (god keep) the experienced and desperate crooks who occasionally strike this country in the summer, as they do one of our domestic drunks and disorderlies. The arrest of these criminals heretofore has been a farce for they have got away either before or after trial. In the dilapidated condition of the county jails in Emmet and Charlevoix, the handcuffs and shackles are about the only security an officer has against the escape of a prisoner and they should be applied every time. We are glad that our Petoskey officers have lost no men as yet.—Petoskey Record.

Mr. A. Butler, of Mayville, Dodge county, Wis., is visiting friends in this county, and made the JOURNAL a call last Thursday. Mr. Butler is a veteran and a veteran democrat too, having voted that ticket all his life. He is 95 years old, served in the war of 1812, has lived through the administration of every president of the United States, remembers distinctly when Washington completed his second term. His eye sight, memory and hearing are good and his carriage as straight as any man of 40. He returns to Wisconsin in a few weeks, and bids fair to see another democratic president inaugurated.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. Price 75 cents. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

Nature Cleanses

The system, if given an opportunity, but very few persons find time to give nature a chance and so the blood, which is the great drain for carrying away impurities, becomes so clogged with disease that unless some help is given it, the person will be afflicted by blood poisoning and suffer with pimples, boils, carbuncles, cancers, scrofula, &c., and often die without help. Save yourself from all this suffering and loss of time by using Parmelee's Blood Purifier which prevents all diseases in the system. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 6-20

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

NEW FIRM. NEW GOODS

F. G. HINES & CO.,

A Complete Stock of

DRUGS AND STATIONERY

Bridge Street, Carpenter Building.

A share of the Patronage of Charlevoix and Vicinity Respectfully solicited.

Prescriptions Carefully Compounded.

LIVING PRICES. POLITE ATTENTION

M. E. Church.

M. E church, Pastor and Congregation, most cordially invite all strangers, and resorters, to participate in the services held each Sabbath, morning and evening. All who are not otherwise engaged, will be welcomed: with the assurance, that a pleasant time, will be had. The Sabbath school, is quite a factor, in the enjoyableness of each Subbath service.

J. T. IDDINGS, Pastor.

The Household.

Dyspepsia, Indigestion and headache seem to take the place of the three graces in many households. How sad is the condition of such a family. The kidneys and liver often get deranged and perhaps the parents or even children may be suffering from Diabetes, Bright's disease, or some kindred disease. As a preventive and also a cure for all the diseased conditions of the human family no preparation equals Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure. Only $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

FORSALE.

A Small Stock of

GROCERIES, CONFECTIONERY NOTIONS, ETC.,

Including FIXTURES.

EXCELLENT LOCATION FOR BUSINESS.

I want to devote my whole time to jobbing, and to Cabinet and picture frame work.

537 O. I. WHEAT.

W. M. WAGAR. G. G. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars And Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Plows, Harrows.

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 22, 1884. STOCKMAN & IDDINGS.

OH! WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?

(The following is the late President Lincoln's favorite poem, "Oh! Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?" William Knox is the author.)

Oh! Why should the spirit of mortal be proud? Like a swift-flowing meteor, a fast-flying cloud, A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave, Man passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade, Be scattered around and together be laid; And the young and the old, and the low and the high Shall moulder to dust, and together shall lie.

The infant and mother attended and loved; The mother that infant's affection who proved, The husband that mother and infant who blessed— Each, all, are away to their dwellings of rest.

The stall and the monarch, the maid and the queen, The scholar and warrior fled from the scene. One fate hath consigned to the tomb of the just The sinner who revelled in lust and in crime.

The soldier who bravely hath fought for his country, Mourn'd by the brave, by the fair, and the free, Shall slumber in death like the beggar who died, And the tyrant who homeward his victories plied.

The brave and the base, the gay and the grave, All wither and die like the leaf and the flower, When autumn winds over the landscape have power.

The beauty and chivalry, valor and fame, Can boast but a grave with the multitude's name; Remembrance endureth a few passing years, Then sinks with the sound in the merciless spheres.

Then what is the boasting of mortal below? For all must repose in the dust where we go, Must sleep in the arms of forgetfulness drear, Unwept, unadored, and unhonored by fame.

The sword of the conqueror, crimson'd in blood, Shall moulder in dust with the arm of the good; The hero, the sage, and the bard must decay, And all pass away like the night of the day.

The vain pride of ages, the arch and the column, That witness'd their triumph, their glory, and solemn, Must crumble and sink 'neath the touch of decay, And leave not a trace of the beauty away.

The day-star of glory, the rainbow of love, Shall set in the grave with the things that above Appear fair and lovely, but fade from our view, And scarce leave a trace of their path in the blue.

Then why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

DAISY ARNOLD'S STRATAGEM.

BY ALMA E. M'KEE.

CHAPTER I.

When the slumbering sea lies still,
Unstirred by the breeze's breath,
The stillness almost seems
The precious calm of death.
When land lies near,
Where every bark may be,
As the soft, balmy air does sleep,
May it long so remain.

It was almost like a bit of Persian poetry, that little conservatory, in its glow and fragrance, and soft, delicious murmur of leaves, ornamented with azaleas, geraniums, passion-vines, and orange blossoms, etc. Daisy Arnold looked not unlike a Persian enchantress, as she stood leaning one fair hand on a vine-wreathed Psyche, her hair of burnished gold lying in brightness with the ardent glances sweeping above her head, and a quiver in the white lids that hid her deep blue eyes. She was tall and large, well regular features, and a sea-shell pink in her cheeks, and an unconscious hauteur in the poise of her dainty throat and shoulders. Daisy Arnold was born to be an heiress, and very gracefully she fulfilled the mission of her undertaking.

She was not alone in the sunshine and fragrance of the conservatory. Eustace Emory was there, leaning against the stage, and was evidently impatiently twisting and unwinding a spray of jessamine with his nervous fingers. He was a tall, manly young fellow, with dark, brown eyes and hair, and a face that you were involuntarily compelled to admire and like.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers would think;
From the death we are shrinking our fathers would shrink;
To the life we are clinging they also would cling;
But it speeds from us all like a bird on the wing.

They loved, but the story we cannot unfold;
They scorned, but the heart of the haughty is cold;
They grieved, but no wail from their slumber will come;
They joyed, but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died, aye, they died; we things that are now,
That walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
And make us their dwellings a transient abode,
Meet the things that they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yea! hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
We mingle together in sunshine and rain;
And the sable and the lear, the song and the dirge,
Still follow each other, like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of the eye; 'tis the draught of the breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
From the cradle to the bier and the shroud—
Oh! Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

"Are you going away, Miss Daisy?" asked the little dusky maid, standing reclinas' in her occupation of putting away the laces and velvets in a satin-lined box, and folding the dresses.

"Yes. Prepare my trunks, Letty, or I will pack them myself."

"Is you going to be gone long, Miss?"

"I shall go alone, Letty."

"And not take me, Miss Daisy? And who is to dress your hair, and look after your wardrobe? It is impossible, Daisy. And sometimes, when you're away, we are real mis'able, I almost need you to send once for me, you know, Daisy."

"I know, darling, that I may sound ungrateful, but how can I help it?"

"But tell me, and I may understand your words, Eustace. What would you have me do?"

"Marry me, Daisy, and go to South America with me for the next year, which will be a honeymoon I reckon. That is all, Daisy."

"Are you speaking well," laughed Daisy. "But we'll see, Eustace, that I never will marry you without your mother's free sanction and approbation."

"But she don't know you, Daisy."

"If I make the material difference I shall be sorry to hear it," said Daisy, her voice full of cool indifference.

"But you'll change, I know, my love," said he, tenderly, "when you are in haste to hurry me off."

"Oh, Eustace, dearest, you are misjudging me," she said, in a voice which trembled in spite of all her self-control. "I want you to do your duty, that it all, to your people, and let it be done well. I would be grieved by the touch of a grave, loving hand. And, more than this, I should like you to bring the best son of the's patience and endurance. It will be sunshine after darkness if you do not repine."

"My own little prophet-ss!" he said, drawing her to him and kissing the unresisting lips. "I will go and strive to bear you manfully. But oh, my darling, it will be hard. You do not know what a sacrifice it will be for me."

"No greater than for me, my love," she said, through her fast falling tears.

"However, I have your love, and my own should have patience and faith in you, my darling, how often shall I remember this sunset, shining through the pomegranates and orange trees and your lovely face pressing mine."

"And I, too, Eustace, shall never forget it. But look forward, not backward, my brave dear, and all will come right in God's own time."

One embrace and they parted.

CHAPTER II.

"Shall go alone, Letty."

"And not take me, Miss Daisy? And who is to dress your hair, and look after your wardrobe? It is impossible, Daisy. And sometimes, when you're away, we are real mis'able, I almost need you to send once for me, you know, Daisy."

"I cannot go to South America with out you."

"But you can, and you will."

"How can I go there without you, and to be gone a whole year

ILLUSTRATED

LECTURE

BY

J. S. SMITHSON

OF CHICAGO,

On Wednesday Evening, July 16th,

IN THE

OPERA HOUSE, CHARLEVOIX.

Subject: The Castles of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

Sixty Splendid Views will be Shown by Oxy-hydrogen Gas.

Tickets 50 Cents Each

Tickets may be had at the office of the Journal, the Sentinel, Dr. Crouter's, Weed's drug store, Belvedere house, Charlevoix Resort; Geo. O. Taylor, Chicago Resort; the Company's store, Ironton; Glenn's store, East Jordan; Postmaster, Boyne City; A. J. Stroud's, Horton's Bay; Flanagan's store, Atwood; Gaples & Nash store, Norwood; and Arlington House, Petoskey.

J. MILO EATON

DEALER IN

REAL ESTAT

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sal

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FA

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Compani

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 18

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Painti

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

"O Cromwell! Cromwell! had I but served my God with half the zeal I served my king, he would not in mine age have left me naked to mine enemies."—Henry the VIII.

CANTO THIRD.

Lo! there he comes now! 'tis Haman the vile,
With doubt in his trend and sickly faint smile.
"Thy petition, queen Esther," the king again now,
With a stern tone of voice and a cold marble brow.
"Thy petition, although it should claim
The half of great Iran's sunlit domain.
Speak out, my fair queen, come, let us know
The cause of thy grief, thy sadness and woe."

"If I have found favor, O gracious king,
I rely on thy promise—a most precious thing.
My nation is sold, and my people are slain,
And their bodies now cover all of Persia's domain.

But I would not complain, had we been sold
Into bondage most vile, for treasures of gold;
But now I complain—their bodies must lie,
As food for the beasts and birds of the sky."

"Who hath sold thee, Hadassah!" then spoke the king,
"Who hath dared to do such a dastardly thing."
Then Irau looked stern and flashed his proud eye,
Like light which darts down from the azure built sky.
"'Tis Haman the wicked," Esther then spoke,
And all of her soul through her countenance broke,
Whilst the pallor of death, soon overspread
The face of lost Haman, as though he were dead.

Then the king, rising up from the banquet of wine,
Walked forth in his garden full of rage all the time,
And he cursed in his heart this Haman so vile,
Who covered his deeds with a fair courtly smile.
And as he turned back to the banquet again,
He saw there a sight which would startle most men.

For Haman had fallen on the bed of the queen
In his prayer to be saved, and thought him unseen.
But the eye of the king lightning-like flew
As a flash of the sunbeam over the dew;
And the serpent suspicion siezed on him there,
Though Haman was whelmed in the night of despair.
"What!" thundered Iran, "will Haman thus dare
To force my loved queen, so gentle and fair?"
Then a mantle was thrown over Haman's face,
The black mantle of darkness, shame and disgrace.

"Lo! yonder the gallows," his chamberlain said,
"Twas made for the Jew"—then low bowed his head.

"'Tis a stately great gallows, reaching up high,
And reaches, O king, to the vaults of the sky.
And on it let Haman swing out on the air,
And breathe out his life in shame and despair."
Thus his chamberlain spoke and soon might you spy
The dark form of Haman swing out on the sky.

And Esther the queen is fair in his eye,
And brilliant as star of Persia's bright
For the little blind Cupid aimed true
As since the Swiss hero named Willia
And Esther's countenance clearer now
Whilst her cheek now assumes the hue
rose.

A sunbeam plays on Hadassah's pale b
Which betokens her future brighter da
And sorrow no longer spreads out the
On shadowy pinions her bosom to sti
The queen seems all joy; but now o'er
Flits a shadow, as she thinks of her
When from Shu-shan's fair palace co
An Edict then dipt in hate's hurid flam

Hadassah had whispered in Iran's bo
That the Jew was her kindred everm
Lost he was her cousin,—her father
That she leaned on his bosom her ch
head.
But the king loved her still—loved he
As the pole star fixed in its ocean of bl
Unchanging this love! of the great king—
Across it no shadows their pinions co

To be continued.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 10, 1884.

Around the County.

East Jordan.

The Orange society at East Jordan, is making arrangements for a grand celebration on the 12th, (next Saturday), and extend a cordial invitation to all to come and join with them in having a good time.

Although the weather was decidedly threatening and disagreeable on the morning of the fourth, a large and orderly crowd gathered on the streets by noon. After marching to the grove and listening to a speech by Mr. Davis and the reading of the declaration of independence by Miss Lake, the crowd came back to see the races, which gave satisfaction. The day closed (with dancing parties at both the hotels, which were well attended.

Mr. A. B. Keene's new building is progressing finely, and makes quite an ornament and addition to our town.

H. H. Finney, Eugene Cole, James and Will Stone, J. A. Reed, Fred. Bosinger, Chas. Sutton, and S. M. Rose, took a trip to Charlevoix on Monday, to attend the encampment of Odd Fellows. All report a good "quiet" time.

A large quantity of tan bark is being shipped from this place, principally by D. C. Lovejoy and W. F. Empey & Co., which goes a long way toward making business lively.

We hav'nt got that skating rink yet. Who is the lucky fellow to start one?

The main street is being graded, and lumber is on the ground for a new side walk, which will give East Jordan quite a city appearance, and be appreciated by those who have been obliged to travel through the sand.

Mr. Meech has started his mill, and is already turning out a large quantity of fine lumber.

Mr. Wilbur, of the firm of Stoepel Lumber Co., is in Detroit on business.

The people rejoiced to hear the familiar whistle of the Wright last Sunday evening. It is reported that she will make regular trips to East Jordan hereafter.

Springvale.

Mr. John Stradling, of Chandler township, and Miss Anna Small, of Springvale, were married on the 3d, at the residence of Mr. John Small.

There was a dance at the residence of Horace Pardee on the 4th. It was well attended and all report having a good time.

On account of the weather, a good many who had intended to go to Petoskey to spend the fourth, could not go. All who did go report having a splendid time. We were glad to see it rain as the crops needed it very badly.

Farmers have commenced to make hay.

Mr. James Pearson is getting along nicely with his new house. Mr. Pearson just moved to Chandler last spring, and we need more settlers just like him,—men who are a help to the country instead of a detriment.

Mr. William Pearson started for Nashville, this state, on the 2d. He expects to be gone a short time on business.

Mr. J. M. Snyder, the postmaster, has been improving the appearance of his place by building a board fence.

Overseers have commenced work on the highways.

Miss Jessie Stowell, who is teaching in district No. 2, Chandler, has been sick for several days, but has recovered so that she can take her place in the schoolroom once more.

The Sunday school in district No. 3 is well attended, and is a success in every respect.

Ironton.

Preaching Sunday morning by Rev. P. Blake, at the school house.

Only one fight during the week at Ironton, Mr. Mory and James Freel. Freel knocked out the first round. Both in the employment of the Pine Lake Iron Co., and bosses at that.

John W. Grant, a painter by trade, who has been up on the north shore the past winter, has returned to Ironton, and will work at his trade this summer, and return to the north shore this fall.

Richard Knight, of Banks, registered at the Pioneer house, Saturday night and Sunday. He brought a boat load of hay for the Pine Lake Iron Co.

Mr. Hunt lost another child Sunday They lost one about a month ago. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have our sympathy in their great bereavment.

A baby girl at Samuel Sanborn's July 4th.

A small child, a year and a half old, died of diphtheria at the house of Joseph Brinkman, Ironton, on July 5th.

James Marshall and Lizzie Alexander, both of Ironton, were married by Esquire Sheldon, on July 5th.

Burgess.

Another arrival in Hayes,—a nine pound girl at Moses Cooper's. Mother and child are doing well.

Elvin Hale has commenced to canvass for the campaign life of Blaine.

The average Hayesite is up to his eyes in clover, about these days.

The fourth was duly celebrated at Burgess post office.

Land-lookers are quite plenty in this town at present.

George Banks has put up an addition to his house, in the shape of a kichen.

Early planted corn has commenced to tassel out.

Red raspberries have commenced to ripen and there will be plenty of them.

It is thought by some that that the road commissioner is making too many changes in Pine lake road.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Five per cent interest, payable January and July. We hold large deposits in this department.

REASONS—First, we have $50,000 in Real State Savings Banks or other State Banks, offer no security to depositors. Stockholders are not personally liable for deposits beyond amount of bank stock. Second, we only secure their bills in circulation. Third, we do not speculate; holding that with our own money it is foolish, and with that of others criminal.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weed's drug store.

Grand Rapids & Indiana

Time Table in effect June 22, 1884.

STATIONS.	GOING NORTH No. 1	No. 3	No. 5
Cincinnati, lv		7 40am	7 30pm
Richmond	2 20pm	10 30	10 25
Winchester	3 24	11 32	11 25
Ridgeville	4 11	11 52	11 45
Fort Wayne, lv	6 40	2 20pm	2 05am
Fort Wayne, lv		2 45	2 30
Kendallville		3 30	3 15
Sturgis		5 15	5 00
Vicksburg		5 40	5 25
Kalamazoo, ar		6 30	6 15
Kalamazoo, lv		6 40	6 20
Otsego		7 00	6 40
Old Rapids, ar		11 00	10 40
Old Rapids, lv	1 00am	11 15	10 55
Old R & M cross	1 10	12 00m	11 40
Big Rapids	2 45	1 45	1 25pm
Reed City, lv	3 41	1 56	2 36
Reed City, lv		11 25	3 00
Cadillac, lv		12 58	4 35
Cadillac, lv		12 47pm	3 57
Traverse City			6 30
Traverse Hyatt		1 30pm	4 40
Kalkaska		1 33	4 40
Mancelona		2 05	5 20
Boyne Falls		2 06	6 22
Petoskey, ar		2 45	7 05
Harbor Springs		4 15	7 05
Mackinaw City			9 30

STATIONS.	GOING SOUTH No. 2	No. 4	No. 6
Mackinaw City	9 00pm	7 30am
Harbor Springs	10 15	8 55
Petoskey, lv	10 17	9 05
Boyne Falls	11 03am	9 55
Mancelona	12 03m	10 55
Kalkaska	12 30pm	11 30
Traverse City, lv	1	11 30
Cadillac, lv		11 59	3 00pm
Cadillac, lv	5	12 00pm	3 05
Reed City, lv	3 30	1 30	4 40
Reed City, lv	4 07	2 43	5 20
Old R & M cross	5 00	3 40	6 00
Old Rapids, ar	5 50	4 25	6 45
Old Rapids, lv	7 00pm	4 35	6 55
Kalamazoo, ar	8 55	6 20	8 40
Kalamazoo, lv	9 00	6 30	8 45
Vicksburg	9 28	6 55	9 10
Sturgis	10 03	7 25	9 45
Kendallville	11 53	9 00	11 30
Fort Wayne, ar	12 41pm	9 50	12 20am
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00	2 30
Ridgeville	1 31	2 55
Winchester	2 30	3 45
Richmond, ar	3 25	4 40
Cincinnati, ar	7 05pm	8 30

FOR SA

The place known a

THE BEATTY F

Near McGeagh's M

For particulars inquire at the J. MILO EA

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 53. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

published every Thursday morning,

CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office over T. D. Smith's grocery.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Business Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

BLANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, in Hayes' Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. GRIER.

E. FALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Agents, Lake st., east of post office, Petoskey, Mich.

ELDRIDGE, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

C. HAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

KEWBERRY, Attorneys at Law, and Circuit Court Commissioner. Office in bank building on Mitchell St., Petoskey, Mich

H. EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

S. KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City.

J. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, and Circuit Court Commissioner.

ABBETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. Loans and discounts at lowest rates. Exchanges and mortgages bought and sold, and on all cities in Europe and United States. Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on mortgages. REYNOLDS & BROWN, Managers.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., in the house. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening in the school house.
C. F. VANAUKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.
J. T. BUNDAS, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

HOOK, HOUGH AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at 8 o'clock. R. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

HOMOPATHIC PHARMACY.

Full line of Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Specific Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

J. HATCH, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses daily.

PHYSICIANS.

C. WESTEIN, M. D.
Office at the Ingleside.

C. W. B. Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

STEVENS, M. D. Office and residence on west of Bank of Charlevoix.

JOHNSON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

A. HABSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

Charlevoix Post No. 113, meets second and fourth in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Saturday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

Round Lake Lodge No. 233 meets every Saturday evening, in their hall.

Boyne Hive No. 137, meet Saturday on the first week in Odd Fellows' hall.

The Charlevoix Lodge No. 227, meets every or before full moon. Hall over Bank.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

H. HARRY, V. S. Office at Bridge House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

THOMAS, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, building, pump repairing, well boring, and similar work. 45

A. R. UPHOUSE, Vice President.

Merchants' & Farmers' Bank,

OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

General banking business transacted. Money to loan, upon approved personal security. Collections given careful attention. Insurances negotiated.

S. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

W. SMITH, PHOTO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Engraving in Gold and Silver. Any article made to order. AGATES AND PEBBLES. 39

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week
AND
WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.
Also Tobacco and Cigars.
Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON,
Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,
ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,
Charlevoix, Michigan.
This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,
E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,
South Arm, Michigan.
A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for intermediate lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,
P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,
East Jordan, Michigan.
This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,
WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,
East Jordan, Michigan.
This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a "stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,
A. J. HALL, Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOTES, Proprietor.
Ironton, - - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,
J. J. STEVENS & SON, Proprietors,
Boyne City, Michigan.
House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.
ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.
Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

HODGE & LITZAU,
Manufacturers and Dealers in
HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY
has purchased the
Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many new as possible. call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER
carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY,

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best timepiece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING
Has just received a
New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,
And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.
MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

Telephone Order

Hello there!
Hello! What is it?
Has your mother got any rags, old rubber, or copper she would like to dispose of? If so, please pick them up and save them, as WILKINSON & SHEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., will be round in a day or two and get them. 48

HELLO! How Are You?
Of Interest to All.
HAVE YOUR GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED

Free of Charge.

All orders by telephone or Otherways, promptly attended to.

Having placed a Telephone in our market, we can receive and fill orders promptly with the least possible trouble to our patrons.

Ice Delivered
Every Morning.
Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.

JEFFERIES & DECKER.

THOMAS F. BAYARD

Thomas F. Bayard is a member of one of the most famous families in the state of Delaware. The first American Bayard was Nicholas, a brother in-law of Governer Peter Stuyvesant, and a rigid Huguenot. The statesman who now most conspicuously honors the family, is one of several of its members who have served their country with distinction in the federal congress.

He was born October 29, 1828, was educated at the "Flushing" School, Wilmington, and as a boy aspired to become a merchant. But with youth came the more generous ambition which has borne fruit in his popularity to-day. In 1851 Mr. Bayard was admitted to the bar. He opened an office and in a few years commanded remunerative practice. Up to 1869 he steadily pursued his business as a practicing lawyer, with but one break, namely, in 1853, when he served for a short time as United States district attorney. He succeeded his father as United States senator in 1869, and was re-elected in 1875 and 1881. Senator Bayard was a staunch friend of the south during the period of reconstruction; a "hard money" man when influential men in both the leading political parties favored the payment of national obligations on other than the gold basis, and a member of the minority in the electoral commission.

Our Summer Guests.

At Frank Shaubut's.

Joseph Steele, Chicago.
Mrs. Eddy and two children, Grand Rapids.

At Fountain City House.

Jules Valle, wife, child and nurse, St. Louis, Mo.
Judge Dryden, St. Louis, Mo.
H. A. Clover, wife, and son, St. Louis, Mo.

At Tourists' Home, Bay Springs.

L. Eaton and family, St. Louis, Mo.
W. A. Drake, Hillsdale.
Misses Jeanie and Maggie Maloney, and Mabel Chapman, Hillsdale.
Mrs. Mosher, Jackson.

At A. B. Upright's.

G. S. Raymond, wife and two children, Galesburg, Ill.
M. F. Holmes and wife, Chicago.
Mrs. B. E. Hoyle, Chicago.
Frank T. Simons and wife, Chicago.
Miss Emma C. Bosh, Chicago.

At Bridge Street House.

S. S. Cobb, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Stanton, Grand Rapids.
Dr. J. N. Fowler, wife and daughter, Grand Rapids.
Judge Loraine and lady, Toledo, O.
A. B. Turner, Grand Rapids.

At Chicago Resort.

Mrs. M. E. Stone and three children, Chicago.
J. S. Smithson and family, Chicago.
Geo. Harvey, Chicago.
Janet Nelson, Chicago.
Geo. Eckert and family, Oak Park.
Peter Grant family, Chicago.
H. W. & Mrs. C. P. Gates, Chicago.
Mrs. N. H. Biddeford and family, Chicago.
D. S. Cook, wife, three children and nurse, Chicago.
J. R. Dunlap, Oak Park.
Jno. A. Anderson, Kansas.
Emma M. Busby, Chicago.
Lauran Burr and wife, Bloomington, Ill.
Miss S. E. Gates, Chicago.
Miss Minnie Hutchins, Chicago.
Miss Lena Nelson, Chicago.
A. P. Goodwin, Chicago.
R. H. Sessions, Chicago.
C. H. Morse and family, Chicago.
Miss Anna S. Morse, St. Johnsbury, Vt.
Helen Robins, Muscatine, Iowa.
S. M. Moore, Chicago.
Mrs. R. C. Bradley and son, Chicago.
W. M. Bennett and wife, Jackson.
J. Lincoln, Chicago.
R. P. Eckert, Oak Park.
A. E. Morey, Oak Park.
Geo. D. Webb, Oak Park.
W. M. Kershoff, Oak Park.
J. K. Dunlap, Oak Park.
W. Herrick, Oak Park.
M. E. Stone, Chicago.
P. W. Moore, Chicago.
Alice Warren, Chicago.
Ida Moore, Chicago.
J. G. Davidson, Chicago.
J. K. Harmon, wife and 3 children, Chicago.

At Charlevoix Resort.

John West and family, Chicago.
F. D. Haskell and wife, Kalamazoo.
Geo. Winnins and family, Kalamazoo.
A. F. Yoder, Kalamazoo.
H. F. Palmer, and family, Kalamazoo.
Prof. S. Dewey and family, Kalamazoo.
Allen Patterson and family, Kalamazoo.
A. C. Knight and family, Kalamazoo.
Fred. Lewis Stewart, Chicago.
Mrs. Sears and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. C. L. Judd and family, East Saginaw.
H. B. Weir and family, Laporte, Ind.
A. B. Wood and family, Ann Arbor.
O. M. Allen and family, Kalamazoo.
S. A. Gibson and family, Kalamazoo.
Geo. Garrison and family, Kalamazoo.
J. L. Scoring and family, Kalamazoo.
J. S. Kalabrook and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. Denton and daughter, Detroit.
R. Willey and family, Detroit.
Otto Marx, Toledo.
Chas. Graves, Toledo.
R. Bigelow, Toledo.
N. S. Waffe, Toledo.
E. F. Walbridge, Toledo.
Prof. Olney and family, Ann Arbor.
F. J. Henry and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Linerpecht and daughter, Kalamazoo.
Maggie C. Cameron, Kalamazoo.
Maggie F. Clark, Chicago.
C. N. Holden and family, Chicago.
W. M. Holden and family, Chicago.
E. W. Bissell and family, Detroit.
Geo. Morris and family, Detroit.
D. R. Merrill and family, Kalamazoo.
Kendall Brooks and son, Kalamazoo.
Miss Lilhan Wagner, St. Louis.
Mrs. C. A. Walsh and sons, Detroit.
H. W. Compton and wife, Toledo.
Mrs. C. Wilson and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. Wm. T. Dewing and daughter, Kalamazoo.
Dallas Boudeman and family, Kalamazoo.
F. Rauney, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. W. E. Wagner and daughter, St. Louis.
Mrs. W. A. Tarleton and son, New Orleans, Louisiana.
Mrs. A. M. Simmonds, St. Louis.
Mrs. J. D. Clement and son, Sheridan, N. Y.
Geo. V. Buchanan, Philmell, Wis.
F. D. Wilcox and family, Kalamazoo.
A. E. Mather and family, Battle Creek.
R. S. Abbott and wife, Kalkaska.
Geo. Smiley and family, Kalamazoo.
H. P. Parmelee and family, Reading.
Mr. Moore and family, Toledo.
Prof. Hadlock and family.
Mrs. Richards and two daughters.
Henry Mahon and family, Ann Arbor.
Prof. Olcott, and family.
Mrs. Van Vleck, Ionia.
E. Woodbury and family.
Mr. Anson and family.

Additional Local.

Miss Carrie Hilton arrived home last Saturday.

W. P. Orrell has given the Buttars block some extra touches this week.

Mr. Ed. Stevens, of the U. S. hotel, Boyne gave us a call on Tuesday.

John Hunt, who last week had a tumor removed from his right arm, is at Frank Shaubut's doing well.

Miss Mary Jimason, of Saginaw, has been visiting at J. J. Bennett's for a short time, and returns home this week.

Johnny Orrell fell last Saturday from a horizontal bar, breaking his collar bone. He is laid up, but will make a good recovery.

Mrs. C. H. Baldwin and Master Ralph Baldwin of St. Paul, Minn., arrived last week on the Lawrence and are the guests of Frank Shaubut.

Miss Ackery, living near the park, has a very fine garden, and raises some very fine early potatoes, a mess of which she furnished the printer's family last Saturday. In her garden, like her other work, nothing is done by halves, but everything thorough.

Miss Mamie Leroy, who has just closed an eight-months school in the Hilton district, returned to her home in Pontiac last Thursday. Her services were so highly appreciated by the district, that an increase of $10 a month in salary was offered for another term. This she declined, and the district is sorry to lose her.

From the Sunday Free Press: Gen. John H. King and family leave this week for Charlevoix, where they expect to remain the balance of the season.——Mrs. B. Enoch and daughters, the Misses Edith and Polly, Mrs. C. Kirsch and daughter Miss May Kirsch, leave for Mackinac and Charlevoix Tuesday evening.

Recent numbers of the Detroit Evening Journal contain the following personals: Miss Anna Crutcher, of Fort-st., will, left Monday to spend the summer with Mrs. Sears, at Charlevoix.——Mrs. Dr. Walsh and sons, of Lafayette-ave., left to-day for Charlevoix and will be absent until September.——Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bissell, of Lafayette-ave., and family left yesterday for Charlevoix, where they will spend the summer months.——Mrs. Frank Crandall and Miss Florence Crandall, of Lafayette-ave., will spend the summer at Charlevoix.——Miss Fanny O'Grady is visiting friends at Charlevoix.

One of our best citizens would say to the public that he has tried Hall's Catarrh Cure, and it is all that is claimed for it. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Dr. Crouter.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's Oriental balm. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion so soft, and brilliant, so surely removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. H. Weed & Co.

Nature Cleanses

The system, if given an opportunity, but very few persons find time to give nature a chance and so the blood, which is the great drain for carrying away impurities, becomes so clogged with disease that unless some help is given it, the person will be afflicted by blood poisoning and suffer with pimples, boils, carbuncles, sores, scrofula, &c., and often die without help. Save yourself from all this suffering and loss of time by using Parmelee's Blood Purifier which prevents all diseases in the system. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. H. Weed & Co.

The Household

Dyspepsia, bad system and headache seem to take the place of the three graces in many households. How sad is the condition of such a family. The kidneys and liver often get deranged and perhaps the parents or even children may be suffering from Diabetes, Bright's disease, or some kindred disease. As a preventive and also a cure for all the diseased conditions of the human family no preparation equals Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure; only $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. H. Weed & Co.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

ANTHONY WOOLVERTON, a wealthy farmer of Erie County, Pennsylvania, stood on the edge of the family well and cut his throat with a razor. In falling to the bottom he was caught by projecting timbers and rescued, but died in two hours. He was aged 80 years.

THE assignee of Grant & Ward, of New York, has filed an inventory showing liabilities of $16,772,951, actual assets of $87,174, and nominal assets of $27,143,918. He reports that they kept no journal or cash-book, had no complete list of assets, and rehypothecated large amounts of securities held with themas collateral for loans.

In the intercollegiate regatta on Saturday Lake the Pennsylvania University crew were the victors. The contest between the Pennsylvanians and the Cornellcrew was close and exciting. The Princeton crew came in third and the Columbias fourth.

WHILE going to church at Erie, Pa., Adam Brudender, President of the wrecked Erie County Savings Bank, was arrested on the charge of having embezzled the funds of the institution, $150,000, and was committed in default of $100,000 bail. The millinery house of S. & J. Sammerich, of New York, has failed for $200,000. The paper of J. de Rivera & Co., sugar-dealers in the same city, has gone to protest, but they claim that with $1,000,000 in goods on hand they will soon be able to resume. The Toronto champion lacrosse team defeated the Americans, just returned from Europe, at New York.

THE WEST.

THE ball-fight at Dodge City, Kan., on the national holiday, attracted six thousand persons, among them being many Texas cowboys. Two of the bulls showed sufficient combativeness to interest the crowd. One of the Mexican matadors received what may prove to be a fatal wound in the ribs. Roger C. Guthrie, ex-City Marshal of Omaha, has been convicted of bribery after a protracted trial.

A windstorm swept over Macon, Saugamon, and Christian Counties, Illinois, which destroyed much property and severely injured a number of people. A mysterious disease has within two weeks swept off fifteen hundred hogs in the vicinity of Avondale, Illinois. At Fond du Lac, Wis., the other night, Lawrence Connaughty struck William Pais over the head with a billiard-cue, causing injuries from which the victim died next morning.

THE number of killed and drowned by the railroad disaster near Cunningham, Mo., June 30, is now stated to be fifteen, and as many wounded. The railroad authorities are reticent. Samuel Young, a noted counterfeiter of Indiana, has been lodged in jail at Indianapolis. He was captured on a farm near Horney, Mo., after a fight with Winchester rifles. E. M. Chester & Co., pig-iron manufacturers, of Chicago, have failed. The liabilities are placed at $250,000, the assets at $625,000.

THE State Veterinarian of Kansas inspected the livery-stables in Leavenworth, and found twenty-five cases of glanders. He ordered the shooting of the horses, valued at $1,000. Notwithstanding the prohibition law, the distillers at Burlingame, Iowa, are manufacturing as much and the saloons are openly selling liquors. The wholesale dealers are also busy, but they send out their packages in new shapes.

ROBERT S. AYERS, agent of the Southern Kansas Railroad Company at Garnett, Kas., also agent for the Wells-Fargo Express Company at that place, has been prosecuted several times for delivering package-consignments by putting in farmers and others by. The packages were sent from Kansas City, and the agent was not presumed to know what they contained. He was fined $70 in each case. In consequence of the prosecutions, several shipments have been withdrawn their agencies from Garnett and other Kansas towns.

TWELVE houses in Toledo (three business district were burned over, the property destroyed belonging to the Mitchell & Rowland Lumber Company, in whose yard the fire started. Mason, Bedford & Co., and J. B. Kelly. The loss is $265,000, and the insurance about $200,000. The police of Milwaukee arrested a man carrying on his person $10,000 worth of diamonds, on which he was unable to give to obtain advances from pawnbrokers.

W. S. Jackson, a Colorado Springs banker, has been appointed receiver for the Denver and Rio Grande Railway.

THE SOUTH.

BIG AUGUSTUS ROBBIE, who died from sunstroke at Hot Springs, recently, was the first to suggest to Senator Logan the wisdom of establishing a Government hospital for soldiers and sailors. Deliberately fatal cases of suicide occurred on the 4th inst. in Dallas, Tex., while the mercury registered 102 degrees in the shade, and the water supply is spoken of as more than a city. The populace is clamoring for a cannon at Columbia, Mo., killed two men.

IN a quarrel on a street corner in Baltimore, a sporting character named Williams Mctlenny was shot dead by one Staten, a nephew of the most prominent pugilist in the city. Thomas Cooper was killed on a Gutter on the same road.

THE first monument to a convict raised in the United States was unveiled in New Orleans, in memory of Margaret Haughery, known as the Orphans' Friend, whose benevolence was extended to all worthy calls for charity.

WASHINGTON.

THE President has made the following appointments: John A. Kasson, of Iowa, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to Germany; Alphonso Taft, of Ohio, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to Austria-Hungary; Louis Richmond, of Rhode Island, Minister Resident and Consul-General of the United States at Portugal; Samuel H. M. Byers, Consul-General at Rome, Italy; Roscoe C. Williams, Consul-General at Havana; Ward McAllister, Jr., of California, United States Judge for the District of Alaska; E. W. Haskell, of Iowa, United States Attorney for the District of Alaska; Seward Smith, of Iowa, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Dakota; John Jarrett, of Pennsylvania, Commissioner of Labor.

THE secret service division of the Treasury Department has received advices that a new counterfeit $10 silver certificate has appeared in the West. It is supposed to have been printed from plates believed by the ability to deceive the ordinary judge of money. List of the series of 1880, H. W. Schofield, Register, James Gilfillan, Treasurer. The note is one-quarter inch shorter than the genuine paper, is composed of two thin layers with silk parallel lines and fiber placed between them. In the scrawl on the back, where it should read, "And all public dues and when so received," the word "all" is entirely omitted, and the words "when so," are read tog-ther as one word.

THE pension appropriation bill provided for 150 additional special examiners in connection with the Pension Department. The places will be filled by competitive examination. Twenty-five additional appointments in the Record office will also be filled in accordance with the civil-service rules.

GENERAL

THE business quarter of Port Perry, Ontario, was swept away by fire, the loss being over $150,000. . . . The establishment of the Silver and Deming Manufacturing Company at Salem, Ohio, was entirely destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $100,000; the insurance is $40,500. Also at 150 men are thrown out of employment by the fire.

INDEPENDENCE DAY was celebrated throughout the country in the usual manner and with the usual spirit. There were the usual number of speeches in echoy of Washington, Jefferson, and the fathers of the Republic, and of the Republic itself. Gen. Sheridan presided over Henry C. Bowen's celebration at Woodstock, Conn., in Bowen. Henry Ward Beecher opening the proceedings with prayer, and Dr. Franklin Fisk, of Chicago, closing with the benediction. Addresses were made by Louis Smith Chellus, the historian Lossing, ex-Gov. St. John, of Kansas; Joseph Cook, of Boston, and others. Brown University, Rev. George H. Boker, of Philadelphia, was sung by the whole audience. At Ogden, Iowa, Leslie Mudbey was killed and eight others wounded. The surgeons were amused.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has nominated the members of the commission to investigate concerning the best means of establishing ocean communication between the United States and South American countries.

TWO BOYS and ten girls went out on Detroit River, from Sandwich, Ontario. Their boat was capsized by the swell of a propeller, and three of the party were drowned. Four of the children had an all night float and until the following afternoon, when she was rescued from a bank of rushes.

THE National Temperance of America held their convention at Halifax, N. S., last week. An increased membership was reported. . . . The Baltimore and Ohio Company has purchased the Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Toledo Road, and will hereafter have the power to lease Lake Connellce Extension and the Andrews brothers.

FOREIGN.

A Toulon dispatch says: "Mr. Roch reports the cholera cholera as Asiatic from the cases examined. The disease appears to be increasing in Egypt and Italy. The intestines losing the seat of danger, fumigation is useless. He would not reach Europe. He would favor fumigation, but it would be worse than useless. He would not reach Europe. He would favor fumigation, but it would be worse than useless. He would not reach Europe. He would favor fumigation, but it would be worse than

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Democratic Nominations.

For President
GROVER CLEVELAND, of New York

For Vice President
THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, of Indiana

THE "OLD TICKET."

For months the press of the United States has teemed with prophecies of the ultimate success of the "old ticket" the renomination and election of the men who were once elected president and vice president, and proceeded by fraud from taking their seats. Until Samuel J. Tilden wrote his letter declining a renomination, he was looked upon by many as the coming man. The name of GROVER CLEVELAND was substituted, and the "old ticket" as amended was declared to be the winning ticket. That oft repeated prophecy has been fulfilled in part, and now the battle cry will be as in '76, Cleveland, Hendricks, and Reform!

Democrats generally are well satisfied, and we believe they will give the ticket a hearty support, though there is not so good a chance to unite the greenbackers, independent republicans, and all other opposition in this county and state as there was with Butler. No matter what our views were in regard to Butler before the convention, our duty now as democrats demands that we stand together and support the men selected by our representatives at Chicago. The fact that Grover Cleveland was nominated on the second ballot is sufficient proof that he was the almost unanimous choice of the convention after "favorite sons" had been given the usual complimentary vote. Now let us give him our unanimous support in the canvas and at the polls.

We gave a brief sketch of Cleveland's life two weeks ago. Next week we expect to have a sketch and portrait of Thomas A. Hendricks.

"FROM CHICAGO."

On paragraph under this caption last week was not designed to be personal, as has been construed, but a simple statement of fact. Although the Associated Press which sends those bulletins works at all times to republican advantage we thought we should have something even if not so much as was furnished for the former convention, and thus avoid the assertions (made just as freely by republicans that the democrats were doing nothing. How much no neighbor pays for dispatches is not under discussion. At the other convention in Chicago in two or three days, and we seldom skipped the country. The fact is, he says, the manager had something else to do besides receiving dead-head dispatches for the directory.

Notes and News

Harrah for Cleveland!

Flag up with "Old Zack" the face of it becomes necessary, to steal the precedent again.

Indiana and Illinois were elected in 1876 by 20,000 republican majority. Is it true that Chicago will repeat such a November?

There are substantially that the campaign this year will be conducted in true manly manner, which especially from the administration side of the fight.

A recent number of Puck has three good cartoons. In the first Arthur is New York Tammany opposed by and the second the state is the Tammany successful Republican and he was burried under 7,000 majority in that state. Tammany opposed Cleveland's nomination and will oppose his election.

The Sentinel accuses us of being bent on provoking a quarrel. This is a mistake. (Mistakes are liable, you know.) We simply stated an undisputed fact, and by the squirming one can easily believe we made a center shot. What would we want to provoke a quarrel with you for, when we have a personal promise of terrible results when such quarrel does come, and when all your neighbors testify alike as to your ability to maintain a quarrel? No, thank you; we don't want any quarrel with you. We only want what is right and just, and let that end it. This much we shall insist upon, however, "and don't you forget it."

NOTICE is hereby given that on or about May 20th inst., two yearling colts, as thereabouts. Both colts are bright bay with black mane and tail, one is a mare of good size, the other is a horse, rather small. Strayed upon my land in the township of Bear Lake, over, 20 and now remain upon my premises.

Dated Bear Lake this 9th day of June inst.
P. CHRISTOPHERSEN.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix, made on the Twelfth day of May, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of David N. Dillman, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance on or before the first day of December next, and that such claims will be heard before said court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of December next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated May 12th, A. D. 1884.
JAMES V. BRAY, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the eleventh day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Benjamin Walker, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the fifth day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.

Dated June 11th, A. D. 1884.
JAMES V. BRAY, Judge of Probate.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

State of Michigan, County of Charlevoix, ss. In the matter of the estate of Charles Bowdish, deceased. Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned, administrator of the estate of said deceased, by the Hon. Dudley J. Dudley, one the county of Charlevoix, on the fifth day of July, A. D. 1884, there will be sold at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the office of the Judge of Probate in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in said State, on Saturday, the 9th day of August A. D. 1884, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, (subject to all encumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of the death of said deceased or at the time of sale, and also subject to the right of dower and the homestead right of said deceased) the following described real estate, to wit: The south west quarter of section Eleven in township three (three) north of range nine (9) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres (160) more or less according to United States survey.

ALBERT N. BOWDISH,
Administrator.

STATE OF MICHIGAN County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the Probate court for said county held at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, on the 12th day of May A. D. 1884. Present, James V. Bray, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of BENJAMIN WALKER, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition duly verified of Reuben Wells, sole executor, with the will annexed, of said estate praying for reasons therein stated that certain real estate that is held in the deceased estate may be sold under the statute in such case made and provided.

It is ordered, that Monday, the 23rd day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate office in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, and show cause why a license to sell the real estate of said deceased should not be granted to the petitioner.

And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county of Charlevoix, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES V. BRAY,
Judge of Probate.

AGENTS

CLEVELAND

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

A PRIZE

O. B. WEED & CO.

Are headquarters for

DRUGS

CHEMICALS,

Patent Medicines, all Kinds.

Imported and Domestic Perfumery.

Toilet Articles,

AND FANCY GOODS.

None but Pure Medicines

Kept in stock.

Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is to Barthelmew's new

Opera Block

NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,

PROPRIETOR,

ADVANCE, MICH.

A FULL LINE OF

Groceries, Provisions,

And Fancy Dry Goods.

Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the

Lowest Cash Price,

For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and

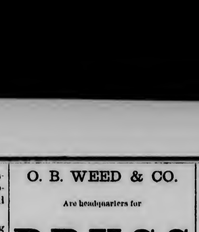
Examine Our Prices.

We guarantee satisfaction.

J. P. DYER, Agent.

JOSEPH HYLAND,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.



Boiler Maker.

Sheet Iron Worker.

and manufacturer of

Hyland's Patent Fireman.

Dealer in all kinds of

SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.

Heavy and light Jobbing and Repairing of all kinds promptly attended to.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Points, Hotels, or any part of the City.

BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES

AT

McCabe's Livery Barn.

CHARLEVOIX, Mich.

Electric Light

THE FAIR,

J. J. Kanagy & Son,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

New Firm

COOPER & COOPER

Furniture

Charlevoix, Mich

COME AND SEE US

Hurrah for Hard-Pan Price

E. M. Clark offers

$10,000

worth of

Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Sho
Clothing, Crockery,

And Everything at

Prices to suit the Time

Call and Examine Goods, which are the Cha in Northern Michigan,

E. M. Clark

NEW GOO

I am pleased to say that my

Spring St

Is ready for inspection. Come and see me and why it is you want a suit of clothes JUST IN STYLE, and will know what them. My stock is full of the

LATE STYLES

AND

Price to Correspond the Times.

GEO. W. M

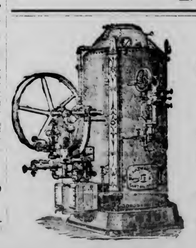
New Stor

and

NEW GOO

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, C
Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implement
Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Ba
Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors
Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best T
Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOM



E. T. BROWN &

Threshing Engines

Portable and Stati

Engine

SAW MILLS, THRES
MILL SUPPLIES

The Best Saw Mill in t
for the Money.

BARGAINS IN SECOND HAND

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CAT

West Bridge Street

Grand Rapids, Mi

E JOURNAL

roit, Mich., July 17, 1884.

Provision Market.

prices to consumers, as corrected every ing evening by UPRIGHT, EMREY & ng dealers:

ll, per bbl, $8, $8.50, $6.50, and $7.00.
MEAL, per cwt, bolted $2.00; unbolted,

per ton, $8@9.
, per bu, 50@55c.
TATOES, per cwt, $1.40@1.55.
ONS, per bu, 40@50c.
NS, per lb, 20@25c.
, per doz, 20c.
, per lb, 14@15c.
, per pr, Shoulders, 12c.
PORK, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 9c.
ITEFISH, per lb, 10c.
RD, 9c
E WHITE OIL, 25c.
ERS' PRODUCE in good demand.

resh Meats from the Market.

CORRECTED BY C. W. JEFFERIES.

Beef, 12½@15c; fresh pork, 12½
Veal, 8@10c; sausage, 15c; hams, 15c; ge, 5c; tenderloins, 20c.
ns, 6@7c.

Local News Brevities.

me free.

ew your subscription.

Calling cards at this office.

Paint runs in town Monday.

opular prices at J. L. Hurd & akes' cloaks at cost at E. M.

e extracted honey at T. D.

Fountain City house had 200 ng yesterday.

Eaton returned from Chi- Sunday evening.

. Rice and wife rejoice over the of a baby boy.

were 125 to dinner at Belve- use on Tuesday.

Ruth Bedford returned from Island last week.

L. Hurd & Co. are leaders in ods and low prices.

en's and boys' summer coats at es at E. M. Clark's.

Lucy Boise, of Bay Springs, a call on Wednesday.

the Kid" (Alvey Conlter) did job of tin work on Fox's store.

Judd has accepted a position e office of the Cedar Springs

e ratified the nominations last day night with speeches, fire etc.

L. Hurd & Co. have the finest fancy groceries ever shown in ace.

rrants, cherries, raspberries, or fruit, taken on subscription at ournal office.

e thousand dollars worth of and shoes to close out at cost, at Clark's.

ing the month of June, the ve opened 380 times for all boats.

Ely is out of the shoe busi- and will devote the next few to "reporting."

eighty members of the K. T. ve took dinner at the Bridge se yesterday.

Liddy, of Grand Rapids, sister Mrs. Reeves, with two children, are at friends in Charlevoix.

Dennis, at A. R. Upright's, ed Tuesday afternoon and stayed her ankle.

next Sunday morning at M. ch, by the pastor. All strang- ngregations will be welcomed.

D. A. Strong, of Huntsburg, ed at the opera house Friday evening. All are welcome ed in Old Mission sent S. S. the Bridge Street house, a half- box of very fine cherries, on Clark's mill at Undine, recently is being rebuilt, and will be ready in a few days. So much

Lady Clark, of Saline, is visit- daughter and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Clark and will remain five or residents of Beaver Island, to number 7,83 couples, indulged in on the fourth, and had a jolly

Edward Watson, of Evangeline, ere is a very fine field of Mr. Watson. His other crops also

Free Press mentions the de- of J. J. Stephenson and wife ago for Charlevoix to spend

A. Draper, of Hillsdale, is recre- this county, making his head- at Chapman's Tourists' the Spring.

Remember that we are now with foster type, and when anything in that line come ing.

Dr. Pease at the Boyne each Wednesday night, be- Boyne Hotel, and C. E. Boyne Falls.

Extracted Honey.—T. D. Smith & Co., have on hand a choice lot of new extracted honey, for sale in any quantity desired. Come and try it.

All the members of the different orders with everybody else, are invited to attend the Knight Templar sermon at the M. E. church next Sunday evening.

A change of date and a severe rain storm combined against our East Jordan friends last Thursday night, and their entertainment was not well patronized.

We visited last Sunday with the family of W. Watson, near Bay Springs. The whole-souled hospitality of our farmer friends is something we enjoy.

An excursion to Beaver Islands on the Queen of the Lakes is advertised for next Sunday. Fare from Boyne, $1.00; from Charlevoix, 75cts. She will leave here at 8:30.

The little passenger steamer Homer E. Reeves, arrived last Friday from Frankfort, looking for business. She is on our lakes yet, but we have not learned her program.

R. T. Nicholls, of Torch Lake, gave us a call last week on his return from a visit with Mr. W. Watson's family. On July 8th there was a reunion of friends at Mr. Watson's.

Knight Templar sermon at the M. E. church next Sunday night. Subject, The temple and its defense. Text: Know ye not your body is the temple of the holy ghost.

We have sampled that extracted honey at T. D. Smith & Co's, and know it to be excellent. Fine flavor and no waste. And they can get plenty more when this is gone.

Arba Howard reports that crops in southern Michigan never looked better than now. Harvest has commenced and farmers are happy. Good crops ought to help make good times.

An assembly of Knights of Labor was organized in Charlevoix this week. Starting with over 30 members, it promises to be one of the most popular organizations in this vicinity.

California apricots, peaches, green gages, egg plums, quinces, for eggs and domestic dried fruits. Call and get a can that will surprise your stomach. Upright, Emrey & Co.

A basket picnic at the Black school house is being arranged for by the Sunday school. Neighboring schools, and friends are invited. Speaking from 10 to 12. Dinner at 1.

Upright, Emrey & Co., are away ahead on fancy groceries. Their tom pumbles, chowdine, coffee cakes, Milwaukee butters, drop cookies, and Mackinac tarts are great. try them.

Mrs. T. B. Carse and son, of Chicago, have engaged rooms and board at F. Shaubut's, and will remain a few weeks. She is an active worker in the W. C. T. U., and may be able to give our ladies some pointers in effective work.

Mr. Lucien Eaton, wife and four children, and nurse, of St. Louis, Mo., are stopping at Tourists' Home. Mr. E. and son Frank are devoting their attention to fishing, and are making some fine catches.

The wrecked schooner Barker was rescued from the beach near Leland and brought to Charlevoix last week. Capt. Teahouse gets a half interest for his services as wrecker. She will be repaired at Campbell's yard.

Mr. A. Butler expects to return to his home in Wisconsin on the Champlain. He reports a pleasant visit with his friends in this county. He went trout fishing one day, and beat some younger members of the party.

Boyne is indulging in new sidewalks to an unusual extent this summer. We are glad to note this prosperity, for it gives the stranger a decidedly better impression of a town to find plenty of clean streets and good sidewalks.

J. S. Wyckoff has opened the room formerly occupied by Ely's shoe store as a restaurant, and when fitted up will have a convenient place. A large platform will be built in the rear of the building to permit enjoyment of the shade trees there.

Jos. Beauvais, the boat-builder, is usually very good-natured, but for a few minutes last Friday morning a stranger would have had a different opinion, when Jo. found his boat house broken into, and a boat and fishing tackle missing.

Mr. Frank Kelly, of Troy, Lynn county, Iowa, is visiting his brother Chas. Kelly, of this place. He arrived on the Champlain last Thursday night and gave his friends a surprise, not having sent any word in advance of his coming. They had not met in a number of years.

The "Sherwin-Williams" paints contain no alkali, naptha, nor water; being made of pure oil, lead, and zinc, they cover ½ more surface. The cans are larger and average two pounds more than other paints. They last five years. For sale by L. D. Bartholomew.

Chapman's Tourists' Home uses a Garland Range, and H. B. says it is the heat. He advises all who want a first-class article to write to the Michigan Stove Co., (L. D. Bartholomew, agent in Charlevoix). He gives the range credit for the good cooking for which the house is gaining a repute.

Who has dried peaches spiced? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who has dried blackberries at 18 cts. per lb. Upright, Emrey & Co. Where do telephone orders receive prompt attention? At Upright, Emrey & Co.'s Who are our best grocers? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who keeps the fastest delivery wagon? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who dare sell the cheapest? Upright, Emrey & Co.

Last Saturday night we enjoyed the hospitality of the Tourists' Home at Bay Springs. Our experiences justified what we have been told concerning this new hotel. There was an abundance of well-cooked food, (the best in this market), and we had a better bed than we ever found in any other hotel. The accomodations given ought to prove an excellent advertisement for this house and fill it full with summer guests.

The supreme court, in Parker v. Portland, decides (Justice Champlin, dissenting) that "The accepting of a bond as provided in section 2278 (section 9 of the Michigan statutes,) relative to the liquor traffic, is not to be enforced upon the trustees by mandamus. Their duties in that direction are judicial, to the extent of the necessary investigation and the decision thereupon as to the sufficiency and characters of the sureties, and other questions wholly within the discretion of the board."

L. W. Skinner writes from Nunnelly, Hickman county Tenn., that he likes that country. He is located on the Nashville & Tuscaloosa narrow gauge railroad, 50 miles west from Nashville. He says it is an old settled country, but like most of the southern states, there are large tracts of lands with the timber left standing It is all good, rich farming land. The hills are full of the best iron ore, and the land can be bought from one to five dollars an acre. There is one furnace about eight miles north, and another fifteen miles south. * * * Board from eight to ten dollars a month, and wages one dollar a day, and there is a chance for any number of good men to get employment. The county is full of fruits of all kinds, both tame and wild. The people are very social and hospitable, and give northern people a hearty welcome.

J. S. Smithson's Lecture.

Mr. Smithson's illustrated lecture at the opera house last night, for the benefit of the Congregational church, was one of the best patronized entertainments of the season, the house being crowded. The resorts responded liberally, and pictures from Chicago, Detroit, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, and other large cities, gave the lecture and illustrations their undivided attention. At the close we heard many expressions of satisfaction. Mr. S. is a rapid, distinct speaker, knows the country described, and crowded a large amount of instruction into the evening's entertainment. The illustrations are photographs of the objects described, and are as true to nature as is possible to make a picture. Mr. S. generously donated his time and expenses to the church, so that nearly the gross receipts of the evening will be applied toward finishing the new building.

K. T. Excursion.

Yesterday was a great day here, the occasion being an excursion to Charlevoix and up Pine Lake, of Ivanhoe commandery No. 36, of Petoskey, accompanied by the installing officers of the state, and 25 members of Pilgrim commandery, K. T. of Big Rapids.

The party arrived about 9 o'clock, the Paxton having on board 225 from Petoskey, and took on a few more here before proceeding up the lake. On the return at noon, the Knights were escorted to the hotels, where a specially prepared dinner awaited them.

After dinner, headed by the Petoskey band, they gave a parade on the principal streets, and departed for Petoskey on the Grand Rapids at 5 o'clock.

Our streets and principal business houses were handsomely decorated with flags, evergreens, and mottoes, and as a whole it was the grandest holiday Charlevoix has seen in some time. Lack of time and space prevents us full a description as we would like co make.]

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, July 15:

July 14—Schr. H. Harger, 90 cords wood, Upright Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

14 Schr. Hercules, 22 cords wood, 80 cords bark, A. Fox, to Milwaukee.

15 Schr. Lapwing, 30 cords wood, P. Olsen, to Milwaukee.

15 Prop. Delta, 175 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co. to Milwaukee.

15 Schr. Delaney, 85,000 feet hardwood lumber, S. M. Co. to Sheboygan, Wis., and 100 cords bark, C. Shantz to Sheboygan, Wis.

15 Schr. F. M. Smith, 40,000 feet hardwood lumber, Olson & Porter, to Sheboygan.

15 Schr. Caroline, 150 cords wood, Upright Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

15 Schr. Seaborn, 80 cords bark, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

15 Schr. L. B. Sargent, 175 cords wood, Hines & Carroll to Chicago.

15 Schr. Sea, 100 cords bark, 50 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

15 Schr. Dayton, 100 cords wood 80 cords bark, Upright Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

15 Schr. Jennie Weaver, 40 cords bark, A. H. Petty to Chicago.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and keep them in condition use Hall Catarrh Cure for cattle. Sold by druggists. Price 75 cents per bottle.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, &C.

At Very Low Prices.

Headquarters for

Groceries and Provisions.

Call for the Belding Flour.

Sole Agency for H. O. Rose's Petoskey Lime.

NEW FIRM. NEW GOODS

F. G. HINES & CO.,

A Complete Stock of

DRUGS AND STATIONERY

Bridge Street, Carpenter Building.

A share of the Patronage of Charlevoix and Vicinity Respectfully solicited.

Prescriptions Carefully Compounded.

LIVING PRICES. POLITE ATTENTION

M. E. Church.

M. E. church, Pastor and Congregation, most cordially invite all strangers, and resorters, to participate in the services held each Sabbath, morning and evening. All who are not otherwise engaged, will be welcomed; with the assurance, that a pleasant time, will be had. The Sabbath school, is quite a factor, in the enjoyableness of each Sabbath service.

J. T. TOWNSEND, Pastor.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by CHARLEVOIX ABSTRACT, real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, July 15, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Ellis Ingersoll to F. W. Wilcox, n ½ ¼ and s ½ of s w ¼ 32-35-8, $600.

J. S. Dixon and wife to Sarah O'Neil, lot 4 of block 2 in Dixon's addition to Charlevoix, $200.

Peter Sklopenski and wife to Byron See, n ¾ of s w ¼ of s w ¼, 29-35-7, $10.

John S. Dixon and wife to E. W. Daniels, lot 1 block 16, Charlevoix, $150.

George Burnham and wife to Hannah A. Blum, n w ¼ of s w ¼ and n ½ of s ½ of s w ¼, 32-33-8, $800.

The Veteran, published at Lansing, Michigan, announces that after August 1, it will be published weekly, instead of semi-monthly as heretofore, while its subscription price will remain at $1.00 per year. The Veteran, as a paper earnestly devoted to the interests of the boys of '61 to '65, and their heirs, is a grand success, and every old soldier should take it. Address the Veteran Publishing Company, Lansing, Mich.

Catarrh is the seed of consumption, and unless taken in time is a very dangerous disease. Hall's Catarrh Cure never fails to cure. 75 cents. Sold by B. Wessel & Co.

Remember This

Hamilton's German Bitters are the best bitters made. They promote sleep and allay nervousness. They tone up and strengthen the system, without exciting the brain as do most other stimulants. They soothe to rest the jarring nerves, and calm the irritable and jaded system. They are prepared from the purest materials and are the best medicines you can use for relieving healthy and strength. Try them. 50 cents per bottle. Sold by C. B. Wessel & Co.

FOR SALE.

A Small Stock of

GROCERIES, CONFECTIONERY NOTIONS, ETC.,

Including Fixtures.

EXCELLENT LOCATION FOR BUSINESS.

I want to devote my whole time to jobbing, and to Cabinet and picture frame work.

587 O. T. WHEAT.

W. M. WAGAR. D. G. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobaccos, Cigars And Snuffs. Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE WE CANNOT CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount in a single instance.

It is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you will send 6 cts. for a disfiguring disease, ask your Druggist for it, and accept NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Dr. CHAPTER, Agt., Charlevoix. 41

$66 week at home. $66 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 591

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Plows, Harrows,

Horse Rakes,

And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:

The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE

We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.

May 29, 1884. STOCKMAN & BUSH.

A CITY-SUPER-SENSITIVE MAN.

He was good, he was brave, still was sadly afraid,
That woman prized only his rental;
Yet could wisdom be sought in a maid,
For the groom was, you see, sentimental.
But she was so charming, so willing and sweet,
The distingue girl in the city!
So in a plain, quiet fellow could never compete
With his rivals both handsome and witty.

He bore with his fears and met warfare long waged,
When in ecstasy, in the course of his wooing,
He heard he in fashion's proposed, was engaged,
Ere I let know what they were doing.
Two hours swiftly passed, a dream without break,
In cozy nook that won't bear repeating,
And as I assure her departure to take,
Both were struck with the "sense of the meeting."

He turned in pursuance of inspecting some toy,
But twinged with a sharp melancholy;
"To imagine my life could be crowned with such joy!
Oh, assure that a fool is my folly!
"Tis my wish that she mets, while my heart she begins—
Such a zeal demands a rich setting,
And her rapturous smiles are but feminine wiles,
As I'll find when too late for regretting."

And meanwhile she stood there adoring his garb,
And felt her poor heart beating faster,
At thought of her freedom now gone all to rack,
At the freshest her destiny's master.
A quick flash of feeling gave wording of tears,
But to weep would she thought, be unwomanly,
So she throbbed her fleur be right down her tears,
A summary frown quite for cadence.

Her kitt mish care for palatic beliefs,
In the poor plain textile fabrics reserved;
Make loves at have! So his last hopes were fetched
"Thank heaven her deceit I've detected!"
Her hurt to repeat, he hopefully cried,
And a left untold to discover,
That an accepted hopeless, her life had bereft
Of her super-sensitive lover.

She answered the blot whose heart she had wrecked,
That since he had failed to believe her,
So suspicious a man she could never respect,
Then took to her bed with a fever.
Roused with a spirit as brave it bear
Sank the ship to mid-ocean;
But restored, they were married early last year,
And heed to their courtship's commotion.

—St. Louis Republican.

At the Cream-Colored Cottage.

BY SARAH B. ROSS.

"How do you do, Mary? I have had it in my mind all the spring, ever since I heard you had bought a place in the country, to come down and stay all summer with you. I knew you would want some one to advise you about furnishing, and so on, and I knew I was just the one to do that, for you know I am."

Mrs. Holmes welcomed her effusive cousin cordially, although she secretly felt able to furnish her house herself, with no other aid than that of her daughters, but Cousin Martha had, ever since she had been a widow, been in the habit of living around among her relatives, and, indeed, keeping her tax upon every one who had ever invited her to their home, when the pleasure of her company became burdensome to her relations.

True, some women would have preferred taking up some branch of industry to scrapping around upon relatives for their living, but, happily or unhappily for herself, Martha Mason was not one of this kind. She felt that the world owed her a living, and until some lucky man chose her again for a wife, she meant that the world should pay its debt.

What a queer looking house this is, isn't it?" One of the old, old-fashioned gothics; it would have been quite a gem for its antiquity, if some one had not attempted to renovate it by painting it such a sickly cream color.

"I like it pretty well," returned Mrs. Holmes, who had the house painted herself. "And Belle and Clara think when the leaves of the ivy come out, the house will look very picturesque."

"As if their taste was anything. I should have it painted again this very spring, if I were you."

"Would you not like to go to your room, Mr. Martin?" asked Mrs. Holmes, who rather dreaded her cousin's sarcastic tongue, and wanted to be the first to tell the girls of their mother's arrival, and to talk them over a little before they met their cousin face to face.

"Perhaps I had better, but you must call me an hour before dinner, for I wish to see the girls some directions, for I cannot say that I exactly fancy their cooking.

And with a little derisive laugh the agreeable lady followed her large Saratoga trunk to her room, and Mrs. Holmes descended to the kitchen in the basement.

"Girls," said she, in a little fear of their ready, "Cousin Martha has come to spend the summer with us."

Without an invitation; that is just like her," cried Clara, in disgust.

"I shall not set on board at all if she stays here the summer she will make up her bed for all of us," was Belle's comment.

Girls," said Mrs. Holmes, "I desire, remember your cousin is a widow and has no home."

"And we are you a widow, mother, and it would be just as much right for you to expect her to support it as for her to expect you to support her."

"Well, girls, though I would tell you beforehand, and I never yet to treat her with respect at least. I insist see about the table now."

If mother was not so kind to her she would not dare come around as she and Clara, when her mother had left them.

"We will not mind it so much if she only set rationally meddling with our affairs," replied Belle. "She will have a great time with the boarders here."

"She will be after Mr. Jewett, won't she?" I wonder how mother will like that." And Clara sighed softly.

In the meantime Mrs. Mason occupied all the time of her gallant admirers, and paid no attention to the remarks of Mrs. Holmes, while the girls and half-cousins in the world donned sackcloth and ashes, while they toiled for her support.

The dinner was already on the table when Mrs. Mason came down, for Mrs. Holmes by some oversight had forgotten to call her until the last minute.

She was in her element when she found several boarders, engineers from the railroad building near by, at the table, one of whom, Mr. Jewett, a man of about 45 years, she began to make eyes at, notwithstanding she had heard that there was an engagement of marriage between him and her cousin, Mary.

For was not she, herself, better dressed than her cousin, and a lady? While Mrs. Holmes toiled for the bread she ate, besides being two years older than herself? Reason told Mrs. Mason she would win, if she but showed herself willing to engage in a second matrimonial scheme.

"How did you leave your brother's people?" inquired Mrs. Holmes, when her guest was seated amid a great flutter of ribbons and laces.

"Very nicely, indeed; it is one of the pleasantest places I know. Sister Lucy has a nice property, and they set the most luxurious table one could think of. Have the girls improved any in cooking since I was with you, Cousin Mary?"

"Oh, I don't know; my daughters are both very good cooks. I can not think what I should have done if my girls had not helped me as they have done."

"A mother's partiality," returned the pleasing Mrs. Mason, chuming with a smile at Mr. Jewett.

"I can speak of the girls' proficiency in cooking myself," said Mr. Jewett, smiling. "Having been here so long, I know what experts in the art they are."

Mrs. Mason smiled rather uneasily, one of her studied points being the art of making other people feel small, and she had hope Mr. Jewett would agree with her sentiments in regard to the girls.

When the dinner was finished, Mr. Jewett followed the ladies into the parlor, saying:

"I am going to drive five miles this afternoon to inspect a bridge, and I would like the company of you ladies, if agreeable to you both."

Mrs. Holmes gave him a reassuring smile and bow, and Mrs. Mason made him a very polite reply, in a very grandiloquent manner, and the gentleman then departed, after informing them that he would drive around for them at about o'clock.

Before the time appointed, Mrs. Mason had made another ostentatious toilet, and Mrs. Holmes dressed her daughters in the cutting room.

"What an elegant hat Mr. Jewett is, and how kind of him to plan that drive on the very first day of my visit, for, of course, he saw that I would be much in here."

"Mr. Jewett is a very kind man," replied Mrs. Holmes, while the girls looked at each other behind their elders' backs.

"And he thinks of all the proprieties, too," sighed their visitor. "One he thought, of course, that I would not accompany him alone at this very early stage of our acquaintance, and so invited you to act the part of chaperon for me."

Mrs. Holmes found that her thimble was missing at this moment, and Clara attempted to turn the subject by asking:

"How do you like our new house, Cousin Martha?"

"Quite well, if it was not where it is, and of such a hideous color, and so very, very old."

"Now, I think the color is very nice," was Clara's reply. "A very delicate color for this old gothic stone house. I should feel very proud of it, if it were only a little more out of the way of obnoxious visitors."

Mrs. Holmes gave her daughter a look, but their cousin went on calmly.

"I have been overlooking the upper part of the house, Mary, and find that the third story stairs, or fair there to any?"

"I believe not," replied Clara, who was at that moment thinking over a place for her meddling visitor's benefit.

"How old," said Cousin Martha, but at that moment the elderly man drove up, and the middle-aged three departed on their pleasure drive.

Then mother and girls gone the girls laughed at each other and laughed heartily.

"I feel re, Clara, she is worse than ever," said Belle.

"And she thinks Mr. Jewett is after her," cried Clara, with tears of laughter in her eyes.

"I thought I should die when she told mamma that Mr. Jewett asked her for a companion for his drive."

"Do you know what I should have done had I been in mamma's place dear?" asked Clara.

"No, to thing awful, I suppose; what would you do?"

"I should have told her distinctly to pack her trunk and I would send her to the depot in the morning."

"It would be the very best thing to do; but mamma won't say a thing, so we shall have to put up with her the whole living summer."

"Shell try her best to eat mamma out."

"And she will talk so about the cooking that all the boarders will leave."

"Now, Belle," said Clara, solemnly, "if you will promise not to say one word to mamma I have a plan by which I think we can make Madame Martha betake herself to her brother's, where they have everything so luxurious, and I will spend three times as able to [illegible] her as mamma is."

"I will, real heartily, but what your plan? Tell me."

"Mr. Jewett is a very kind man," replied Mrs. Holmes, while the girls looked at each other behind their elders' backs.

"And he thinks of all the proprieties, too," sighed their visitor. "One he thought, of course, that I would not accompany him alone at this very early stage of our acquaintance, and so invited you to act the part of chaperon for me."

Mrs. Holmes found that her thimble was missing at this moment, and Clara attempted to turn the subject by asking.

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

Then Persia's proud monarch smiling so bland
And seeming so pleased, drew from his hand
The king's signet ring, and gave to the Jew
A ring of great value, of the sky's deepest blue.
This ring now glows on the hand of the Jew,—
That hand which has ever been faithful and true.
Thus fortune, fickle goddess, doth ever
Our destiny shape, still changing forever.

And sometimes in anger we thoughtlessly blame,
The wondrous caprices of this fickle dame;
And say to ourselves "if we could but see
The face of this goddess, more fickle than we,
We would give all we have to know how she looks,
And deem she must be the witch of the brooks.
For she runs, and she laughs all the while,
And scatters her gifts with a radiant smile."

But let us return to Esther the queen—
Her charms are so pleasing, her wit is so keen,
And she rules in the court of Iran, the great,
And whether at feast or in measures of state,

Her hand is oft seen on the cold marble wall
Writing out her decrees, in that time-honored hall;
And he who sat on Persia's proud throne,
Is only the clay which she moulds to her own.

Hadassah once more bows 'fore her lord
And petitions again, in soft honeyed words;
To put far away from Persia's domain
The decrees of bad Haman, which still doth remain.
Then the king stretches forth to his loved queen,
The sceptre of gold, as she kneels all serene.
But she rises again, still fair as before,
Like a silvery wave which glides to the shore.

"If I, O king!" in tender accents spoke
The queen of love, and all her soul awoke.
"Have found sweet favor in thy noble breast,
List to my prayer and grant my just request.
Grant that those letters which bad Haman sent
Be all revoked, and all their bad intent.
For how can I this bloody vision see,
Which slays my kindred ever dear to me."

Thus spoke the queen and from her beauteous eyes
A teardrop mingled with a glad surprise,

As now the king, "let each and every deed
Be blotted out; thus let it be decreed."
Then smiled Hadassah, fairer than the morn
Just breaking from the east in summer born.
This the great crowning act of fairest dame,
Who could the fiery soul of Iran tame.

Then to the Jew the Persian king aloud,
In accents stern with lock and bearing proud
"Write to thy kindred as to thee it now may please,
From nearest land unto the distant seas;
In Iran's name and fix the royal seal
To my decree, before whom millions kneel."
"This is my will," he further boldly spoke,
"And no one dare my edict to revoke."

Then messengers were sent all o'er the land
To bear the edict—Iran's dread command.
And camels, mules, and fleetest coursers tread
The Persian plains, the new decree to spread.
And to the Jews he gave the further right,
To arm in self defence and meet the coming fight.
Thus then the Jews arose in numbers strong,
Against their foes who take the side of wrong.

Then Mordecai went forth in princely garments clad,
And crown of gold he wore upon his head.

Then Shu-Shan's stately palace rang with
And all the streets the joyful strains pro
Whilst fear fell on the Persians far and
To see the swellings of avenging tide—
A tide which swept the Persian hosts aw
Like daw before the onward march of d

O! wondrous change—from sorrowful to
As darkest night is turned to golden da
All joy—all life—all animation now,
For Mordecai wears a crown upon his bro
This the great edict o'er Persia's shining
And thousand voices shout the lond acclai
The Jews have conquered! Over all the Lie bleeding now the Mede and Persian

Hark! to those groans, in Shu-Shan's hall.
Lo! blinding tears in rapid torrents fall.
Five hundred men lie bleeding all around
And slaughter sends its incense from ground.
And silver waves of music float no more
In Shu-Shan's palace, stained with gore.
The Persian queen, the cause of this flood,
Which fiery rolls in vengeance red with
To be continued.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich. July 17, 1884.

Around the County.

South Arm.

Farmers are now busy in the hay field; now and then bringing down a load of bark.

The J. Raber is loading with lumber at Meech's mill at present.

The orangemen took dinner at the Eagle hotel on Saturday last.

Mrs. S. G. Isaman is seriously ill, medical aid being necessary three times a day.

L. Freeman, of Echo, lost a child with diphtheria last week.

Mrs. Freeman Wilson is recovering.

They "tripped the light fantastic toe," at P. L. Lmuway's on the twelfth.

Our photographic artist was kept busy on Saturday last.

A. B. Noyes, of Ironton, was in town Orangemen's day.

Plenty of steamers now a days. Five landed at our docks within three hours on Thursday last.

Those from South Arm that attended the temperance lecture given by Mr. Barnham on Sunday evening, report a very scathing description of the rumseller and his thoughts. He lectures again on Friday evening.

Meech's and Glenn's mills were laid up for repairs last week. By the way, that new whistle of Meech's is a dandy.

James Holben has a young American citizen to assist his independence by arriving July 4th.

Mrs. S. Farmer, of Boyne City, was a guest of Mrs. J. A. Keat this week.

Florence M. Smith landed at Gl[illegible] mill last week. Capt. Talbot and D. Himebaugh, with their wives are on board.

[illegible] machinery of all kinds are being brought in here every day, which shows we are getting "civilized."

Burgess.

A thorough canvass of the village of Hayes, it looks as though Cutler had quite a majority over the other candidates and republicans, and we can influence as many of the Indians as votes if not more, than either of the other parties.

Wm. Gibson a former resident of Hayes, but now at Vanderbilt, was in town visiting friends one day last week.

Ezra Fargason raised a hay barn last Thursday.

The Lewis boys have a sulky rake for their haying. They had the misfortune to loose a valuable mare last week that was worth $150.

Mr. Minier who has been quite sick with rheumatism is able to be around again.

Roy Kane, who had a severe attack of diphtheria, is gradually recovering under the treatment of Dr. Lewis.

Joel Weaver has moved into his new residence on the centre road.

A large crowd at maple grove school house last Sunday, at the services held there by the Rev. D. H. Pierce. Prayer meeting next Thursday evening at the Whitford school house.

Had it not been for the rain last week haying would have been nearly finished in Hayes.

Wheat has commenced to ripen and will be ready to cut in a week or ten days.

The road commissioner let a job of corduroy on centre road last Saturday. There would have had more bidders if he had stuck up some notices in the district where the job was.

Norwood.

[The following was received too late for last issue.]

The fourth, despite the rain, was very pleasantly spent by the most part of the village people of Norwood. The day was finished up with dancing in our town hall.

Mr. Geo. Ordway, and son Harry, spent the fourth in Norwood, the guests of Geo. Van Pelt and family.

Mr. Dorety and Mr. Cooper, of Elk Rapids with their ladies, Miss Walch and Mrs. Philips, were in town Sunday, guests of Willard Spaulding.

Master Geo. Ferguson, son of C. H. Ferguson, of Hyde Park, Ill., is in town visiting his aunt Mrs. Geo. Foote.

Miss Essie Buttars, of Charlevoix is in town, the guest of Miss Belle Meech.

Mrs. Crane Marchel has returned to her home, after a two weeks visit at her sister's, Mrs. Stover, of Old Mission.

Springvale.

Farmers have commenced haying.

The late rains have changed the appearance of crops.

Several parties have been looking for locations in this township the past week.

The school inspector, A. L. Spencer, of this township, is visiting the schools at present.

Mrs. M. E. Kelter has commenced a summer term of school in the "Hall" district.

J. E. Chew after a pleasant vacation of two weeks, has resumed teaching in district No. 2.

Quite a number of the young folks were married during the past week, names too numerous to mention.

The "path master" is busy working the roads now a days. Good roads, and plenty of them; is what is needed.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 43

WAR WITH HIGH PRICES.

A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 22, 1884.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv	.....	7 40am	7 15pm	.....
Richmond	2 30pm	10 30	9 55	.....
Winchester	3 51	11 22	11 36	.....
Ridgeville	4 11	11 57	11 21	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	6 40	2 22pm	1 30am	7 45am
Fort Wayne, lv	.....	2 45	2 50	8 05
Kendallville	.....	3 55	3 52	9 24
Sturgis	.....	5 13	5 14	10 51
Vicksburg	.....	6 11	6 13	11 57
Kalamazoo, ar	.....	6 42	6 52	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, lv	.....	7 00	7 10	1 30
G'd Rapids, ar	.....	9 00	9 25	3 55
G'd Rapids, lv	7 10am	11 00	10 25	5 00
D G H & M cros	7 30	11 18	10 45	5 20
Howard City	8 47	12 40am	12 01pm	6 36
Big Rapids	9 43	1 27	1 02	7 27
Reed City, ar	10 17	1 56	1 30	7 58
Reed City, lv	.....	.....	1 50	8 18
Cadillac, ar	11 25	3 07	3 00	9 30
Cadillac, lv	11 45	3 05	3 05	.....
Walton	12 47pm	3 37	3 37	.....
Traverse City, ar	.....	5 15	5 15	1 15pm
Kalkaska, lv	.....	4 35	4 35	.....
Mancelona	2 07	5 08	5 05	.....
Bellaire	2 36	5 42	5 40	.....
Petoskey, ar	3 05	6 10	6 10	.....
Harbor Springs	4 15	7 06	7 05	11 15
Mackinaw City	.....	9 00	9 00	.....

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 8	No. 4
Mackinaw City	2 30pm	7 05am	.....	.....
Harbor Springs	10 15	7 55	10 40pm	6 00am
Petoskey, lv	10 47	8 28	.....	7 30
Bayne Falls	11 21	9 02	.....	8 10
Mancelona	12 10am	9 55	.....	9 06
Kalkaska	12 45	10 30	.....	9 43
Traverse City, lv	1 25	11 00	.....	3 40pm
Walton	1 25	11 00	.....	10 30am
Cadillac, ar	2 25	11 58	.....	11 25
Cadillac, lv	2 35	12 00pm	6 00pm	3 30pm
Reed City, ar	3 39	1 10	7 06	4 30
Reed City, lv	.....	1 30	7 30	4 50
Big Rapids	4 07	1 57	7 50	5 12
Howard City	5 05	2 50	8 46	6 06
D G H & M cros	6 16	3 59	10 0s	7 23
G'd Rapids, ar	6 40	4 20	10 25	7 40
G'd Rapids, lv	7 00am	4 25	11 45	.....
Kalamazoo, ar	9 05	6 52	2 00	.....
Kalamazoo, lv	9 30	7 10	2 09	.....
Vicksburg	10 23	8 16	3 26	.....
Sturgis	11 23	9 16	4 26	.....
Kendallville	12 45pm	10 40	5 40	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	2 00	12 05am	6 50	3 50am
Fort Wayne, lv	2 15	3 33	.....	4 06
Ridgeville	3 11	4 53	.....	5 06
Winchester	3 30	5 05	.....	5 25
Richmond, ar	4 25	6 05	.....	6 15
Cincinnati, ar	7 45pm	9 30am	.....	12 20pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. Agt., Grand Rapids, Mich.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Five per cent interest, payable January and July. Will receive Deposits in this degree $10,000 in Real Estate Security.

Property held by law to protect our depositors. All State Savings Banks or other State Banks, offer no ability to depositors beyond amount of stock holders' liability, and that is often fictitious. National banks only secure their bills in circulation. Second, we believe it foolish, and pith our friends it is criminal.

REYNOLDS & BROWN.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm

S. G. ISAMAN,

South Arm, Mich.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.

Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,

AT LOW PRICES.

PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

J. MILO EATON

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FAR

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the

Best Insurance Companie

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN

GILBERT & MOULTON,

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.

House, Sign, and Fresco Paintin

GRAINING AND KALSOMINING,

Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

Buy your Stationery of O. B. WEED & C

Advance Lumber Compa

Are now prepared to do

CUSTOM SAWIN

Promptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of Hard and Soft Wood Lumber a Hemlock Timber.

GIVE US A TRIAL. ADVANCE LUMBER C

ADVANCE, M

D. SHERWOOD & CO.

Have just received a fine stock of

Ladies' French Kid Sho

Made in the Latest Styles.

Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds.

A Large Stock always on hand.

Men's Fine Walking Sho

LATEST STYLES.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

UMBER 54. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

E JOURNAL

ublished every Thursday morning,

HAS. J. STRANG.

ffice over T. D. Smith's grocery.

LEVOIX. MICHIGAN.

ED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, D CLASS MATTER.

siness Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

NAHAN & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Lemon Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
LEXSHANK. C. J. GRIER.

CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate ans Agents, Lake St., east of postoffice, Mich.

ALDRICH, Attorneys at Law, East Jordan, Mich.

E. SAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

SWHERRY, Attorneys at Law, and Circuit Commissioner. Office in bank building over Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich

D EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

N, KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, Office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne City.

. WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, U. S. Circuit Court Commissioner.

ARDETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

BANKS AND BANKERS.

K OF CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. ns and discounts at lowest rates. Exchanges and mortgages bought and sold, ction on all cities in Europe and United Steamship and railroad tickets sold to and from all parts of Europe. $300,000 to loan on mortgages. REYNOLDS & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., in town hall. Sunday school at close of service. Prayer meeting every Thursday at 7, in the school house.
C. F. VANAUKEN, pastor.

ROMAN EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.
J. T. DOUGHERTY, pastor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

LEVOIX HOOK AND READY FIRE ANY meet every Saturday night, at 7:30.
R. F. DISBEE, Secretary.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

FIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

D EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class and Carriages kept. Good Saddle a Specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

CARLSTEIN, M. D.
Office at the Ingleside.

OSS M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

EAVES, M. D. Office and residence four miles east of head of Charlevoix.

RESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

E & HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

L.—Baxter Post No. 132, meets second Saturday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

T.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets every Friday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

.—Round Lake Lodge No. 293, meets Wednesday evening, in their hall.

L.—Tyre Hines No. 457, meet Saturday on or after full moon in Odd Fellows' hall.

CH.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets Friday on or before full moon. Hall over

VETERINARY SURGEON.

RANBURY, V. S. Office at Bridge House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

OE DUBOIS, Charlevoix, Mich., will attend promptly to all work in the line of well digging, boring, pump repairing, well curbing building, and similar work. 46

[illegible] President. A. E. UPHOFF, Vice President.

[illegible]hants' & Farmers' Bank, OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

[illegible] banking business transacted. Money on approved paper at reasonable rates. Collections. Collections given careful attention and remittances made promptly.
G. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

elephone Order

llo there!
llo! What is it?
your mother got any rags, old r, or copper she would like to m of? If so, please pick them d save them, as WILKINSON
HEPARD of Charlevoix, Mich., round in a day or two and get 48

1872 | 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week

AND

WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

Also Tobacco and Cigars.

Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON, Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,

E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,

South Arm, Michigan.

A new house, situated west end of bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River tourists.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public, and headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,

P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,

East Jordan, Michigan.

This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a "stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,

J. J. STEVENS & SON, Proprietors,

Boyne City, Michigan.

House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

W. F. ORRELL, HOUSE DECORATOR,

Charlevoix, Mich.

PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.

ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.

Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

JOHN NICHOLLS,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

FOR SALE.

The place known as

THE BEATTY FARM

Near McGeagh's Mill.

For particulars inquire at the office of

J. MILO EATON.

FORSALE.

A Small Stock of

GROCERIES, CONFECTION'RY NOTIONS, ETC.,

Including Fixtures.

EXCELLENT LOCATION FOR BUSINESS.

I want to devote my whole time to jobbing, and to cabinet and picture frame work.

52tf O. I. WHEAT.

Fresh Fruits!

A Fine Stock just received

AT L. L. CARR'S.

GET YOUR

Photographs

At D. S. Way's.

O. W. SMITH,

ELECTRO-PLATER,

Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.

Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

HODGE & LITZAU,

Manufacturers and Dealers in

HARNESS, SADDLES

Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Ladies, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attention given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY

has purchased the

Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods

Lately owned by Fisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER

carries the largest and finest stock of

JEWELRY

Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best time-piece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

Millinery, Fancy, and Ladies' Furnishing Goods.

MISS L. SPAULDING

Has just received a

New and Elegant Stock of Spring Goods,

And cordially invites the Ladies of Charlevoix and Vicinity to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Dress and Cloak Making done in the best styles. Two Doors South of Postoffice.

MRS. M. DePUE, Milliner.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 49tf

Our Summer Guests.

At Bridge Street House.

Mrs. Stanton, Grand Rapids.
Dr. J. N. Fowler, wife and daughter, Grand Rapids.
Judge Lorraine and lady, Toledo, O.

At A. B. Upright's.

Mrs. B. E. Hoppin, Chicago.
Frank T. Simons and wife, Chicago,
Miss Emma C. Rosh, Chicago.
Mrs. M. F. Holmes, Chicago.
Mr. Rister, Owosso, Ill.

At Frank Shaubut's.

Joseph Steele, Chicago.
Mrs. Eddy and two children, Grand Rapids.
Mrs. B. F. Carse and son, Chicago.
Mrs. C. H. Baldwin and son, St. Paul.
Mrs. E. A. Campbell, Traverse City.
Mrs. and Miss Blenkiron, of Ionia.

At Tourists' Home, Bay Springs.

L. Eaton and family, St. Louis, Mo.
W. A. Drake, Hillsdale.
Misses Jennie and Maggie Maloney, and Mabel Chapman, Hillsdale.
Mrs. Mosher, Jackson.

At Fountain City House.

Jules Valle, wife, child and nurse, St. Louis, Mo.
H. A. Clover, wife, and son, St. Louis, Mo.
F. W. Hathaway, Chicago.
Miss Allyn Adams, and Miss Ida Ensy, of Terre Haute, Ind.
J. W. Edwards, Kalamazoo.
E. D. Culver, Lansing.
A. K. Dibble, North Adams.
R. W. Haire, Cincinnati, O.
Rev. T. J. Sheffield and wife, Piqua, O.
C. W. Aling, Chicago.
A. B. Curson and wife, Chicago.
J. E. Buschick, Chicago.
W. G. Reinhardt, Chicago.
N. Vanderyn, Jackson, Miss.

At Chicago Resort.

Mrs. M. E. Stone and three children, Chicago.
H. W. & Mrs. C. F. Gates, Chicago.
Mrs. S. H. Blatchford and family, Chicago.
Lauman Burr and wife, Bloomington, Ill.
Miss S. E. Gates, Chicago.
Miss Minnie Hutchins, Chicago.
Miss Lena Nelson, Chicago.
A. P. Goodsell, Chicago.
H. H. Jenshaw, Chicago.
Miss Anna S. Morse, St. Johnsbury, Vt.
Helen Robins, Muscatine, Iowa.
Mrs. R. C. Bradley and son, Chicago.
J. Lincoln, Chicago.
F. W. Moore, Chicago.
Alice Warren, Chicago.
Ida Moore, Chicago.
J. G. Davidson, Chicago.
A. E. Harmon, wife and 3 children, Chicago.
Mrs. R. G. Bogue and family, Chicago.
Mrs. D. S. Cook, three children and nurse, Chicago.
Mrs. J. L. Stockton, Chicago.
Mrs. C. H. Morse and family, Chicago.
A. M. Fuller, wife, and child, Chicago.
Mrs. A. C. Perchbel and child, Chicago.
Miss Tobie Fuller, Chicago.
S. J. Curtiss, wife and two children, Chicago.
James H. Moore, wife and child, Chicago.
C. C. Warren and wife, Hillsdale.

At Charlevoix Resort.

John West and family, Chicago.
F. D. Haskell and wife, Kalamazoo.
Geo. Winans and family, Kalamazoo.
A. P. Fiske, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Weimer, and family, Kalamazoo.
Prof. S. Brooks and family, Kalamazoo.
Allen Potter and family, Kalamazoo.
J. C. Knight and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Sears and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. C. L. Judd and family, East Saginaw.
H. B. Weir and family, Laporte, Ind.
A. B. Wood and family, Ann Arbor.
C. M. Allen and family, Kalamazoo.
S. A. Gibson and family, Kalamazoo.
Geo. Bardeen and family, Kalamazoo.
J. L. Sebring and family, Kalamazoo.
J. S. Estabrook and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. Heaton and daughter, Detroit.
E. Willby and family, Detroit.
Otto Marx, Toledo.
Chas. Graves, Toledo.
N. S. Waite, Toledo.
E. F. Walbridge, Toledo.
Prof. Olney and family, Ann Arbor.
F. J. Henry and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. Lhurvecht and daughter, Kalamazoo.
C. N. Holden and family, Chicago.
W. M. Holden and family, Chicago.
E. W. Bissell and family, Detroit.
D. R. Merrill and family, Kalamazoo.
Kendall Brooks and son, Kalamazoo.
Miss Lillian Wagner, St. Louis.
Mrs. C. A. Walch and sons, Detroit.
H. W. Compton and wife, Toledo.
Mrs. C. Wilson and family, East Saginaw.
Mrs. Wm. T. Dewing and daughter, Kalamazoo.
Dallas Boudeman and family, Kalamazoo.
Mrs. W. E. Wagner and daughter, St. Louis.
Mrs. W. A. Tarleton and son, New Orleans, Louisiana.
Mrs. A. M. Simmonds, St. Louis.
Mrs. J. D. Clement and son, Sheridan, N. Y.
Geo. V. Buchanan, Thinwell, Wis.
F. D. Wilcox and family, Kalamazoo.
A. E. Mather and family, Battle Creek.
E. S. Abbott and wife, Kalkaska.
Geo. Smiley and family, Kalamazoo.
B. P. Parmelee and family, Reading.
Mr. Moore and family, Toledo.
Prof. Hadlock and family.
Mrs. Richards and two daughters.
Henry Mahon and family, Ann Arbor.
Prof. Olcott, and family.
Mrs. Van Vleck, Ionia.
E. Woodiny and family.
Mr. Anson and family.
Dr. Barkes, Three Rivers.
D. F. McMullen and wife, Kalamazoo.
Mr. F. Crandell and daughter, Detroit.
Wm. King and family, Detroit.
J. C. Lawrence and 3 children, Ypsilanti.
R. S. Dickman, Cleveland, O.
C. L. Coffin, Minneapolis, Minn.
Jesse Wood, Ann Arbor.
E. N. Smith, Ann Arbor.
A. Owen and family, Grayville, O.
E. N. Scribner, Toledo.
D. A. Waterman and family, Detroit.
George Smiley and family, Kalamazoo.
Supt. Wells and wife, Kalamazoo.
A. H. Ewing, Chicago.
C. L. Judd, East Bay.
H. F. Haynes, Kalamazoo.
A. P. May, Kalamazoo.
H. Haskell and wife.
B. F. Jarvis.
J. L. Heaton, Detroit.
George F. Kibbler.
C. F. May, Detroit.
Miss Nellie E. May, Detroit.

Shipments.

The following are the clearances from the port of Charlevoix as reported from the custom house for the week ending Tuesday, July 22:

July 16—Schr. John Raber, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, F. J. Meech, to Chicago, 100 cords bark, Upright Emrey & Co., to Chicago.

16—Schr. Jessie Phillips, 180,000 feet hardwood lumber, Stoepel & Co., to Chicago.

16—Schr. J. A. Holmes, 70 cords wood, 70 cords bark, Steele & Newton, to Milwaukee.

17—Prop. John Ott, 400 tons pig iron, Pine Lake Iron Co., to Chicago.

18—Schr. Surprise, 80 cords wood, T. D. Smith to Milwaukee.

18—Schr. Snowdrop, 120,000 feet hardwood lumber, Pine Lake Lumber Co., to Detroit.

19—Little Mason, 60 cords bark, A. Carpenter, to Milwaukee.

19—Schr. Evening Star, 180,000 feet hardwood lumber, S. M. Co. to Sheboygan, Wis.

19—Schr. F. M. Smith, 60 cords wood, Upright Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

19—Schr. Comanche, 125 cords slabs, Stoepel & Co., to Detroit.

20—Schr. Lookout, 240 cords bark, Upright, Emrey & Co., to Chicago.

21—Schr. Morning Bird 45 cords wood, 80 cords bark, Upright, Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

21—Schr. Lucy Stephen, 140 cords wood, O. M. Nelson, to Milwaukee.

21—Schr. L. H. Coates, 130 cords wood, D. Ford, to Chicago.

21—Schr. Robert Howlett, 150 cords wood, W. S. Stripp, to Chicago.

21—Schr. Lapeltie, 133 cords wood, P. Thomas, to Chicago.

22—Schr. Hercules, 100 cords bark, A. Pros, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. Sea Gem, 98 cords bark, T. D. Smith, to Milwaukee.

22—Schr. Onward, 150 cords wood, Upright Emrey & Co., to Milwaukee.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported for the Journal by UPHOFF BROS., Real estate dealers.

The following is a list of transfers of real estate in Charlevoix county, for the week ending Tuesday evening, July 22, 1884, as recorded in the office of register of deeds:

Byron See and wife to est. of H. N. Ballard, n ½ of n w ¼, 31-33-8, $75.

Jesse F. Tinkley to Rosa T. Owen, 5 acres, lot No. 3, 27-34-6, $25.

Joseph D. Stearns and wife to James Toule, s ½ of n e ¼, 35-33-6, $1,000.

Jason Bolton and wife to Joseph Holton, n w fri. ¼ of s w fri ¼, 19-33-8, $1.

James Remmings and wife to Ellen A. Wheat lot 2 Blk 13, Charlevoix, $250.

Hartley L. Clifford to C. F. Van Auken, lot 10 in Clifford's addition to Charlevoix $100.

C. F. Van Auken and wife to John C. Nicholls, lot 10 in Clifford's addition to Charlevoix $125.

J. Milo Eaton and wife to A. L. Upright, e ½ of s ½, 7-33-7, $400.

William Clifford and wife to Samuel A. Gibson, w ½ of n e ¼, 26-34-7, $800.

Nature Cleanses

The system, if given an opportunity, but very few persons find time to give nature a chance and so the blood, which is the great drain for carrying away impurities, becomes so clogged with disease that unless some help is given it, the person will be afflicted by blood poisoning and suffer with pimples, boils, carbuncles, cancers, scrofula, &c., and often die without help. Save yourself from all this suffering and loss of time by using Parmelee's Blood Purifier which prevents all diseases in the system. Large bottles $1.00. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

The Household.

Dyspepsia, Indigestion and headache seem to take the place of the three graces in many households. How sad is the condition of such a family. The kidneys and liver often get deranged and perhaps the parents or even children may be suffering from Diabetes, Bright's disease, or some kindred disease. As a preventive and also a cure for all the diseased conditions of the human family no preparation equals Burmeler's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure. Only $1.00 for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Remember This.

Hamilton's German Bitters are the best bitters made. They promote sleep and allay nervousness. They tone up and strengthen the system, without exciting the brain as do most other stimulants. They soothe to rest the jarring nerves, and calm the irritable and jaded system. They are prepared from the purest materials and are the best medicines you can use for restoring health and strength. Try them. Seventy-five cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's Oriental balm. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion so soft, and brilliant, so surely removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co. 8-52

The Boston Advertiser (anti-Blaine rep) says: The only stroke of policy attempted in the letter is to divert attention from the discussion of the candidate and what concerns him, and to substitute therefor a debate on the tariff. The question as to the man is in fact the living question which to day interests the American people. It is not a narrow question, for, as it happens, the man stands for as much as the chief product of a certain growing influence in our political life; but, a narrow or not, it is the question, and Mr. Blaine's opponents, if well advised, will not second his motion to transfer pending discussion to the tariff, and without their consent and co operation the discussion cannot thus be transferred nor the real issues of the campaign be shelved.

Let history be repeated. The "old ticket" was once elected, and can be again; and when elected let us see that we are not defrauded of our rightful possessions.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

A FIRE broke out in a factory at Bradford, Pa. Mrs. Bebbey and her two children and a Swedish servant girl perished in the flames. A gentleman named Clark, of Denver, Colo., made a desperate attempt to rescue Mrs. Bebbey. Two women were badly injured in leaping from the burning building.

THE horse Sour Mash was driven twenty miles in 77:35 in Hampden Park, at Springfield, Mass. ... The Count of Errors of New Jersey has released two printers of Beckertown who were sentenced to long terms in State prison for criminal libel perpetrated by their employer.... A shipyard in Parker, Pa., says seven men were bribed by an unknown man using the Frank Gleason and Michael Mc-Cullough workrolled, and Richard Singer, William Piper, Charles Allick, William Kyntzuch, and John Schalk injured. Singer and Piper are hurt internally, and will probably die.

FOUR families of "assisted" immigrants from Ireland, and four from Germany, who arrived at New York the other day, will be sent back. ... The brick manufacturers of New York and New Jersey have agreed to close their yards for the season Sept. 20, thus greatly curtailing the production.

EDWARD YARD, JR., & Co., live merchants, of New York, have failed. The liabilities are estimated at $150,000. The value of the assests is not fully known.

J. J. Dewitt, formerly a practicing lawyer at St. Albans, Vt., has failed for $80,000.

THE WEST.

"BILLY" and "Cherley" Hamilton were hanged at Warrensburg, Mo., for the murder of Carl Stehle, a German. A sensatory circular, urging that precautions be taken to prevent and counteract the inroads of cholera and suggesting the cleansing of streets, alleys, etc., has been issued by the Illinois State Board of Health to cities, towns, and villages. ... Everett & Woodhill, private bankers at Cleveland, made an assignment. Their assets are reported to greatly exceed their liabilities, which amount to $150,000, and it is expected that the suspension will be only temporary.

THE Cincinnati Coroner has just returned a verdict on account of the deaths in the fires there some months ago. He finds that the fires were kindled by the officers of the law in the discharge of their duty in preserving the peace, which is anything but satisfactory to the Germans.

ARTHUR BRIGGS, a boy living in Quincy fire at the mission of San Jose, in California, the old church was saved by the use of 600 cartridges and gunpowder. D. E. Binford & Co., of the late Lenox & Binford Plow Works, have made an assignment. The liabilities are estimated at $50,000; assets are placed at $80,000. ... Barnett & Hall, wholesale boots and shoes, at Toledo, Ohio, have made an assignm nt, with liabilities of $100,000.

FREDERICK SHARPE, bankers at Indianapolis, closed their doors, owing to inability to realize, but claim that the assets are ample to pay all claims. The following-named mines in Leadville have recently passed the hundred-foot level, and have reached the following depths: Little Pittsburg, 300 feet; Morning Star, 300 feet; Ibex, 300 feet; Hibernia, 300 feet; Ocean Wave, 300 feet; Robert E. Lee, 300 feet; Little Chief, 300 feet; Fryer Hill, 300 feet; Ontario

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic Nominations.

For President—
GROVER CLEVELAND, of New York.

For Vice President—
THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, of Indiana.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention to nominate candidates for state officers, and for electors of President and Vice-President of the United States, and for the transaction of other business will be held in the City of Grand Rapids, in Powers' Opera House, on

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1884,

Commencing at 12 o'clock noon.

All voters of this state, irrespective of party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses, and a pure and economical administration of government, and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each 500 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of not less than 250 votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

JEROME EDDY, Chairman.
H. F. PENNINGTON, Secretary.
Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Notes and News.

The Knights of Labor in Connecticut will support Cleveland and Hendricks.

Blaine's letter of acceptance is out. It is very long, covering subjects enough for a message to congress.

"Cleveland and reform; Hendricks and revenge for the fraud of 1876." Democrats, how's that for a battle cry?

J. V. Johnson has sold the Gratiot Democrat to H. F. Berry. The form of the paper is changed to an eight-column folio.

The closing proceedings and platform of the democratic convention will be found on our inside pages; also portraits and sketches of the candidates.

Protection puts its thieving hand stealthily into the pocket of the workingmen, filches his hard earnings and gives them to the millionaire manufacturer, or miner, or sugar planter. Stop thief!

The Chicago Times says of Blaine's letter: "His favorite issue is the tariff, and there is no uncertainty or malignity in his position about that. He is in favor of a tariff chiefly for spoliation and incidentally for revenue."

The people who think they can scare George William Curtis by calling him names don't know their man. He has had too much experience with pro-slavery mobs to mind the weak flings of his present detractors.—Detroit Times.

Jackson Patriot: "Protection to American labor," as illustrated by republican legislation, means taxation of the American laborer for the benefit of the American capitalist. Protective tariffs are a device of capital to rob labor.

Hendricks' candidacy for the vice presidential office is spoken of as a "resurrection." If the amiable old gentleman can resurrect the popular majorities he received in various states in 1876, he will make Mr. Blaine tremble.—Detroit Times.

A great saving is effected by making wagons used on the farm with tires four inches wide. The wheels will not sink into the ground and the draft is consequently much lighter. English farm wagons are generally built in this way. On ordinary roads wide tires make the track better instead of cutting the ruts deeper, as narrow tires always do.

Mr. Blaine is in a queer position on the temperance question. Neal Dow gives him all the credit for Maine's prohibition laws—and Dow ought to know the facts— while his western organs like the Chicago Tribune denounce him daily to efforts to explain away his temperance record. Blaine has been too long in the field to ride two horses of that sort successfully.

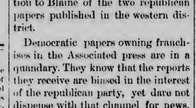
The bolt from Blaine in Brooklyn, N. Y., is reported steadily growing, and the split in the young men's republican club there has seriously alarmed the republican leaders. A partial enforcement of the civic the New York Sun as it leaves no doubt that a majority of Indiana Blaine would be voted down by a decisive majority. The club has hitherto contributed the main supply of the money for the Kings county campaign, but this year it will neither work nor supply money. Another trouble with the Brooklyn republicans is the strenuous opposition to Blaine of the two republican papers published in the western district.

Democratic papers owning franchises in the Associated press are in a quandary. They know that the reports they receive are biased in the interest of the republican party, yet dare not dispense with that channel for news. The solution of the problem is difficult, and will be so until the public regards the concern as suspiciously as journalists do. Then it will either die or mend its ways. What is wanted of it is not political work, but news. —Ypsilantian.

The nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks is received at Washington with marked enthusiasm by democrats and with manifestations of alarm by republicans. Washington is not a democratic town, especially when congress is not in session and only the office holders are there, yet there is a sprinkling of democrats in the city left over from the recent adjournment and a few stragglers who have come in from various parts of the country. With them the sentiment is very strong that the work of the convention is the best it could have been.

A man in office that lives up to the law and his oath of office is not the man the republican party wants in power. Such a man is Grover Cleveland. There is no veto he has passed but what he objected to on constitutional rights. If a corporation is granted a charter, as was the elevated railway company of New York, on the condition that the rate of fare could not be reduced unless the company declared a dividend of 12 per cent, no court would allow the legislature to reduce the fares, unless such dividend was declared, and the governor that would allow the passage of such a bill would have been set down as incompetent to perform the functions of his office. Had the bill passed, the supreme court would have declared it unconstitutional, and the state involved in litigation. Cleveland had sense enough to see this, and is charged by such monopoly-controlled papers as the Post and Tribune as laboring for the moneyed men of this country. People in our own state familiar with this organ will see the foolishness of such a statement.—Eaton Rapids Times.

CLEVELAND Agents wanted for Cleveland's Centennial edition of his life; written at his own home, with his sweetheart and children as assistants. In the renowned Bonfield's Largest, cheapest, handsomest, best. Elegantly illustrated. Costs more per copy to manufacture than the other lives that are sold for twice its price. Outsells all others ten to one. One of our agent made a profit of over $80 the first day. A harvest of gold will be realized by every worker. All men beginners succeed grandly. Terms free, and the most liberal ever offered. Save valuable time by sending 25 cents for postage, etc., for free outfit, which includes large canvassing book. Act quickly; a day at the start is worth a week at the finish.
Address H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine.



W. H. WAGAR. G. C. WAGAR.
Wagar Bros.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture the celebrated Cook Buggy, the best and lightest, and WARRANTED WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

I◆The CHAMPION MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

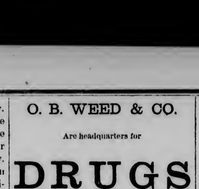
TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and all throat and lung troubles. Parties wishing the prescription will please address Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh, N. Y. 49

10 CENTS a month will pay for the JOURNAL during the campaign. Begin now.

O. B. WEED & CO.
Are headquarters for
DRUGS
CHEMICALS,
Patent Medicines, all Kinds.
Imported and Domestic Perfumery,
Toilet Articles,
AND FANCY GOODS.
None but Pure Medicines
Kept in stock.
Prescriptions filled by competent druggists and with fresh and pure drugs. Call and see us. We will use you well. Our store is in Bartholomew's new
Opera Block
NEW STORE,

M. V. DYER,
PROPRIETOR,
ADVANCE, MICH.
A FULL LINE OF
Groceries, Provisions,
And Fancy Dry Goods.
Store in connection with the Advance Lumber Co.'s mill. Goods will be sold at the
Lowest Cash Price,
For cash only or its equivalent; i. e., logs, wood, ties, tan bark, posts, &c. Please give us a call and
Examine Our Prices.
We guarantee satisfaction.
J. P. DYER, Agent.

JOSEPH HYLAND,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.



Boiler Maker,
Sheet-Iron Worker,
and manufacturer of
Hyland's Patent Fireman.
Dealer in all kinds of
SECOND-HAND MACHINERY.
Heavy blacksmithing of all kinds, and Repairing on Boilers promptly done.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
BOATS AND RIGS FOR FISHING PARTIES
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Electric Light
In the form of a FAIR, now located in Charlevoix. They have saved down high prices on kitchen utensils, toilet soaps, crockery, glassware, tinware, hosiery, neckties, hammocks, croquet sets, ladies' hand-bags, shopping baskets, hand mirrors, fans, picture frames, hat racks, table cutlery, umbrellas, shawl straps, novelty knappers, and fresh confectionery.
A good hat rack 25c, that pay the retail dealer 50c, which means the fresh butter 5c, splendid value 10c, tinsel 12c, ladies' hose 25c, gents' linen 25c, shoulder shawl straps 5c, silk handkerchiefs 25c, pearl shell buttons 5c, silks 10c, and a multitude of other useful articles too numerous to name, all of prices to be heard of prices at
THE FAIR,
J. J. Kanagy & Son,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
Extra copies of the JOURNAL for sale at Weed's drug store.

D. SHERWOOD & CO.
Have just received a fine stock of
Ladies' French Kid Shoes
Made in the Latest Styles.
Ladies' Fine Shoes, all Kinds
A Large Stock always on hand.
Men's Fine Walking Shoes
LATEST STYLES.

GILBERT & MOULTON,
EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN.
House, Sign, and Fresco Painting
GRAINING AND KALSOMINING.
Plain and Decorative Paper Hanging.

The Oldest Established Business on South Arm.
S. G. ISAMAN,
South Arm, Mich.
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
A Large and Well-Selected Stock Always on Hand.
Dry Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Provisions, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Drugs, Stationery, Notions, &c.,
AT LOW PRICES.
PRODUCE OF ALL KINDS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.
Give Me a Call. S. G. ISAMAN.

New Firm
COOPER & COOPER
Furniture
Charlevoix, Mich.

COME AND SEE US
Hurrah for Hard-Pan Prices!
E. M. Clark offers
$10,000
worth of
Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots, Shoes, Clothing, Crockery,
And Everything at Prices to suit the Times
Call and Examine Goods, which are the Cheapest in Northern Michigan,
E. M. Clark

THE JOURNAL.

...rlevoix, Mich., July 24, 1884.

Provision Market.

...ers to remember, as corrected every ...morning by UPRIGHT, EMREY & ...ed desires:

...per bbl, $4.50, $5.50, and $7.00.
...GAL, per cwt, $1.50@1.55.
...per cwt, $1.00.
...OATS, per bu, $1.25c, new.
...s, per lb, $1.00.
...ckens, per lb, 20@25c.
...per doz, 20c.
...per lb, 16@16c.
...ns, Shoulders, 12c.
...PORK, 10c; Dry Salt Side, 12; Beef, 9c.
...BEEF, per 7, 10c.
...SLOW.
...WHITE OIL, 20c.
...ERS' PRIDE is in good demand.

Local Items from the Market.

...ERS' PRIDE.
...ed steel, 12½-lbs; fresh pork, 12½
...ckwheat, sausage, 15c; hams, 15c; ...ns, 12c; ham-steaks, 8c.
...per, 25@30c.

Local News Brevities.

...and Miss Blenkiron, of Ionia, ...Charlevoix.

...dies institute in session at ...this week.

...ances this week show an in...of business.

...ar rigging and curtain fixtures ...D. Bartholomew's.

...ew warehouse 90 feet long is ...being finished at St. James.

...L. Newberry, of Petoskey, gave ...of sail yesterday morning.

...Jerry Vernor is at Charlevoix ...warm months.—Detroit Journal.

...kazoo colony at Charlevoix— ...good of 'em there.—Evening

...ery of excursionists from East ...were at the roller rink last

...ernants, cherries, raspberries, or ...fruit, taken on subscription at ...rates.

...to the north end of ...ge has been graded and a new ...laid.

...Wheat has traded his confec...business to James Hemmings ...and is

...Frank Kelly, of Troy, Iowa, ...sage for home on the Chan...last Saturday.

...Williams, light-keeper at St. ...ointed in the Bridge street ...last Saturday.

...Gallup, of St. James, will ...accept our thanks for favors ...last Sunday.

...mson, Green & Co.'s mill, on ...Lake burned Friday morning. ...,000; no insurance.

...ats to Beaver Island will find ...ing home of Mrs. Gibson an ...et place to get meals.

...Cahill and wife passed through ...visit last Saturday on their re...from Harbor point.

...Dr. Carlstein has moved home ...Chicago last Saturday, via Trav...ity and steamer Paxton.

...crowd people go to Charlevoix ...Sherrin-Williams paints. ...ale by L. D. Bartholomew's.

...Cook remembered us with a ...ess of large new potatoes and ...ons last Saturday. Thanks.

...or Richmond and Henry Leno...spending a few weeks with ...at Charlevoix.—Detroit Journal.

...E. Baldwin, photo. artist, has ...all his test lenses for the summer ...all make and sell views of the ...steam yacht Pauline, of Mt. ...ens, was in port Saturday night, ...departed for Chicago Sunday ...ng.

...citizens voted on Monday to ...the village to build a public hall, ...e lot, lockup, etc., the vote ...83 to 8.

...and Mrs. E. W. Bissell and ...Hugh and Miss Blanche are ...ing some weeks in Charlevoix ...Journal.

...Remember that we are now ...ed with poster type, and when ...want anything in that line come ...k over samples.

...Edward Olney, of the State ...ngers is reported to be steadily ...ving in health by his rest at ...ngs.—Free Press.

...Marks, of Detroit, and A. J. ...of Adrian, state and special ...s of the Home insurance com...are in town this week.

...A. Campbell, of Traverse ...ty, agent of the W. C. T. U. of ...district, is in town this week, ...ing at Frank Shanbart's.

...Hathaway, of Chicago, ar...on Monday, to spend the sum...Fred is successful as a ...and with Mr. Graves, ...with a catch of 40 trout on ...We shall look for a good ...the close of the season.

John Gaunt has recovered from his surgical operation sufficient to go home, but he comes down every day to allow Dr. Carlstein to dress the wound.

Dan. Way's photo. gallery is making some excellent pictures of the K. T. parade and the governor's reception. Their views show up the town in fine shape.

Sergeant Edward Israel, of Kalamazoo, who died May 27th, a victim of the Greely Arctic expedition, was a classmate and chum of Dr. S. C. Graves of Charlevoix.

☞California apricots, peaches, green gages, egg plums, quinces, foreign and domestic dried fruits. Call and get a can that will surprise your stomach. Upright, Emrey & Co.

Miss Nettie May, of Madison-ave., and Mr. Chas. F. May leave to-night for Charlevoix. Miss May will remain during the warm months. Mr. May returns next week.—Detroit Journal.

☞Upright, Emrey & Co., are away ahead on fancy groceries. Their luscious jumbles, chocolate, coffee cakes, Milwaukee butters, drop cookies, and Mackinac tarts are great,—try them.

Mrs. L. E. Allen has nearly recovered from her recent illness. Her mother, Mrs. Mills, of Aurora, Ohio, is here yet, and likes the place so well she may conclude to remain until Christmas.

Three hundred shares of the Spring Harbor and Boyne Falls railroad were sold at public auction by Deputy Sheriff Myers for $450. The firm comprising the Wayne County Savings bank purchased it.—Statesman.

R. N. Dickman, of Cleveland, Ohio, and C. L. Coffin and E. N. Smith, of Ann Arbor, arrived last Saturday with two canoes, and an outfit for fishing and camp life, to remain on our inland lakes for the next two months.

Cynthia E. Cleveland, attorney and counselor at law, lecturer, and politician, of Pierre, D. T., gave the JOURNAL a pleasant call Tuesday afternoon. She is an enthusiastic supporter of Cleveland and Hendricks, and believes that the ticket is just as certain of success as election day comes next November.

Prof. G. M. Clayburg, of the Chicago public schools, was on the Champion yesterday on his way to Charlevoix. While the professor was principal of the Ypsilanti public schools he often threatened to make the bulkhead fall but he cannot do it now. He has been sick all winter. —Elk Rapids Progress.

Sermon at M. E. church next Sabbath morning, by pastor. All strangers and resorters are invited. At night, Mrs. R. A. Campbell, of Traverse City, will present the interests of the woman's foreign missionary society. The work is taking on interesting features here, and the ladies especially and every body else are invited to be present.

B. F. Jervis, auditor of the T. & A. A. railroad, is in town this week, combining business with pleasure. He brings with him instructions from the general manager to look over our town and note its availability as a prospective terminus of the road. We understand he is greatly favorably impressed. Now is the time to produce our inducements.

☞Who has dried peaches spiced? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who has dried huckleberries at 15 cts. per lb. Upright, Emrey & Co. Where do telephone orders receive prompt attention? At Upright, Emrey & Co.'s. Who are our best grocers? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who keeps the fastest delivery wagon? Upright, Emrey & Co. Who have sell the cheapest? Upright, Emrey & Co.

Welcome to the Governor.

About noon Thursday word was received that Gov. Begole, on the way to his cottage at Bay View, would stop over in our village a few hours. Preparations were made to give him a royal welcome. The decorations for the Knights Templar excursion of the day previous were easily made to serve as a welcome to the governor, and our common council and citizens turned out en masse as an escort. Carriages were provided for a drive through the principal streets, and a reception given at the Fountain City House. At 5 o'clock tea was served and brief speeches made by Messrs. Bettars, Nicholls, Green, Craickshank, Enton, Mayne, Miller, Crouter, Aldrich, Smith, and McLeod, with a response by the governor. The latter expressed himself well pleased with the village, its pleasant surroundings, and especially the enthusiastic welcome given by our citizens.

M. E. Church.

M. E. church, Pastor and Congregation, most cordially invite all strangers, and resorters, to participate in the services held each Sabbath, morning and evening. All who are not otherwise engaged, will be welcomed; with the assurance, that a pleasant time, will be had. The Sabbath school, is quite a factor, in the enjoyableness of each Sabbath very

J. T. [illegible], Pastor.

Time Tables of Steamers.

Charlevoix and Boyne City.
Steamer QUEEN OF THE LAKES—Capt. F. L. Johnson.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.... 1.30 p. m
Leave Boyne	9.30 a. m.... 3.30 p. m

Charlevoix and East Jordan.
Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. John Mason.

Leave Charlevoix	6.30 a. m.... 2.00 p. m.
Arrive East Jordan	8.30 a. m.... 4.00 p. m.
Leave East Jordan	9.00 a. m.... 4.30 p. m.
Arrive Charlevoix	11.00 a. m.... 6.30 p. m.

Stopping at intermediate points.

East Jordan and Charlevoix.
Str. M. W. WRIGHT—Capt. J. J. Bennett.

LEAVE	A M	P M	ARRIVE	A M	P M
East Jordan	6:30	1:00	Charlevoix	8:45	3:15
Charlevoix	9:30	4:00	East Jordan	11:55	6:00

Stopping at intermediate points.

Boyne City and Charlevoix.
Steamer NELLIE BOOTH—Capt. Frank Cater.

Leave Boyne	9.30 a. m
Arrive Charlevoix	12.00 a. m
Leave Charlevoix	1.30 p. m
Arrive Boyne	4.00 p. m

Carrying the U. S. Mail.

The Beaver Island Route.
Steamer CLARA BELLE—Capt. A. H. Bennett

Leaving East Jordan Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and returning leave St. James Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday.

East Jordan, lv.	6.00am
Charlevoix	8.00am
Petoskey	10.00am
Harbor Springs	11.00am
Cross Village	2.00pm
St. James	5.00pm

St. James, lv.... 6.00am
Cross Village.... 7.00am
Harbor Springs 12.00pm
Petoskey..... 1.00pm
Charlevoix..... 4.00pm
East Jordan, ar. 6.00pm
Carrying the U. S. Mail.

HANNAH, LAY & COMPANY'S STEAMER LINE, SEASON OF 1884.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS,
CAPT. O. E. WILDUR.

GOING NORTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.		GOING SOUTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City	7.00am	St. Ignace	5.30am
Northport	9.30am	Mackinaw Island	7.00am
Charlevoix	12.00 m	Cross Village	10.00am
Petoskey	2.00pm	Harbor Springs	12.00pm
Harbor Springs	3.45pm	Petoskey	1.30pm
Cross Village	5.00pm	Charlevoix	3.30pm
Mackinaw Island	9.00pm	Northport	6.00pm
Arriving at St. Ignace	10.00pm	Arriving at Traverse City	8.30pm

T. S. FAXTON,
CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

GOING NORTH. Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.		GOING SOUTH. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.
Will Leave		Will Leave
Traverse City	7.00am	Harbor Springs	6.00am
Old Mission	9.30am	Petoskey	7.00am
Elk Rapids	10.00am	Charlevoix	8.30am
Torch Lake	11.30am	East Jordan (or Boyne)	10.00am
Norwood	12.30pm	Charlevoix (ar.
Charlevoix	2.00pm	turning)	11.30am
East Jordan (or Boyne)	3.30pm	Norwood	1.00pm
Charlevoix (re. turning)	5.00pm	Torch Lake	2.00pm
Petoskey	6.30pm	Elk Rapids	3.30pm
Arriving at Harbor Springs	7.00pm	Old Mission	5.30pm
		Arriving at Traverse City	6.00pm

GOOD CONNECTIONS
Will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R. Also on Monday mornings in the City of Traverse from Chicago and the City of Grand Rapids going north; and on Wednesday evenings between the T. S. Faxton going south and the City of Traverse to Chicago.

HANNAH, LAY & CO.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 22, 1884.
GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7.40am	7.15pm
Richmond	2.30pm	10.20	9.55
Winchester	3.04	11.02	10.38
Ridgeville	3.11	11.07	11.21
Fort Wayne, ar	6.40	2.20pm	1.50am	7.45am
Fort Wayne, lv		2.45	2.50	8.05
South Bend		5.05	5.52	9.24
Starke		5.53	7.14	10.51
Plymouth		6.13	7.33	11.12
Kalamazoo, ar		6.42	8.02	12.05pm
Kalamazoo, lv		6.47	8.07	12.10
Grand Rapids, ar		8.00	9.20	3.55
Grand Rapids, lv	7.30am	11.00	10.25	5.00
Big Rapids	9.30	11.10	10.40	5.20
Reed City	9.45	12.30pm	12.05am	6.45
Big Rapids	9.45	1.37	1.02	7.27
Howard City	10.12	1.56	1.20	7.46
Edmore		2.20	1.50	8.16
Carson City	11.25	3.06	2.33	9.00
Coalline, lv	12.05pm	3.37	3.05
Coalline, ar	12.47pm	3.57	3.55
Ransom City		4.20	4.37	1.15pm
Evart, lv	1.30pm	4.40	4.37
Rose City	1.42	5.02	4.59
Boyne Falls	3.06	6.02	6.30
Petoskey, ar	4.00	6.50	7.05
Harbor Springs	4.15	7.06	7.05	11.15
Mackinaw City		9.40	9.40

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 8	No. 4
Mackinaw City	9.30pm	7.05am
Harbor Springs	10.15	7.56	8.00pm	6.00am
Petoskey, lv	10.47	8.28		7.30
Boyne Falls	11.21	9.02		8.05
Maineelona	12.14am	9.58		9.09
Kalkaska	12.45	10.31		9.43
Traverse City, lv	1.25	11.00	3.40pm
Wallene	1.39	11.16		10.30am
Cadillac, ar	2.25	12.05pm		11.18
Cadillac, lv	2.35	12.06pm	6.00pm	3.30pm
Reed City	3.30	1.00	7.25
Big Rapids	3.39	1.09	7.36	4.19
Howard City	4.07	1.43	8.07	5.12
Edmore	4.26	2.01	8.47	6.08
Carson City	4.49	2.24	10.02	7.23
Grand Rapids, ar	6.50	4.10	10.25	7.40
Grand Rapids, lv	7.00am	4.25	11.15
Kalamazoo, ar	8.55	6.02	1.58
Kalamazoo, lv	9.00	6.07	2.06
Vicksburg	9.28	7.22	3.26
Starke	10.23	8.16	4.59
Kendallville	11.53	9.35	5.31
Fort Wayne, ar	12.41pm	10.50	6.40
Fort Wayne, lv	1.00	12.05am	6.50	5.35am
Ridgeville	2.11	2.23		7.26
Winchester	3.36	2.55		8.16
Richmond, ar	4.25	4.00		9.05
Cincinnati, ar	7.05pm	7.30am		12.50pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

HELLO! How Are You?
Of Interest to All.
HAVE YOUR GROCERIES, MEATS, FISH, AND VEGETABLES, DELIVERED
Free of Charge.
All orders by telephone or otherways, promptly attended to.
Having placed a Telephone in our market, we can receive and fill orders promptly with the least possible trouble to our patrons.
Ice Delivered
Every Morning.
Opposite Bridge street house, Charlevoix.
JEFFERIES & DECKER.

OLD NEWSPAPERS for SALE.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Offer a full and fresh line of Staple and Fancy Groceries
Fine Canned Goods, Richardson & Robbins' Potted Meats, Libby's Beef, Durkee's Salad Dressing, Fine Olive Oil, French Capers, Queen Olives, Canned Clams, Clam Chowder, Lobsters, Salmon, California Fruits, Fine Confectionery and Cigars, Dried Apricots, Cherries, Peaches, Raspberries, English Currants, Prunes, etc.

A Full Line of Dry Goods
Constantly in Stock.
Everything Fresh and at Lowest Prices.
J. L. HURD & CO.,
Old Stand of A. Fav.

NEW FIRM. NEW GOODS
F. G. HINES & CO.,
A Complete Stock of
DRUGS AND STATIONERY
Bridge Street, Carpenter Building.
A share of the Patronage of Charlevoix and Vicinity Respectfully solicited.
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded.
LIVING PRICES. POLITE ATTENTION

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the twenty-third day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Ira G. N. Tillapaugh, deceased, late of said county, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the 23d day of December next, and that such claims will be heard before said Court on Monday, the first day of December next, and on Monday, the first day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.
Dated June 23d, A. D. 1884.
32 JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for said county, held at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix on the 23d day of June, A. D. 1884.
Present, James A. Keat, Judge of Probate.
In the matter of the estate of Ira G. N. Tillapaugh, deceased.
On reading and filing the petition, duly verified of Reuben Wills, administrator, with the will annexed, of said estate praying for reasons therein stated that certain real estate may be sold at private sale, and that the several heirs at law of said deceased, and all persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be held in the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix on the 23d day of June, A. D. 1884, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.
And it is ordered, that said petitioner may be licensed to sell the premises described in said petition.
And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the several persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Journal, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, for four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.
A true copy. JAMES A. KEAT,
32 Judge of Probate.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Charlevoix, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the 23d day of June, A. D. 1884, six months from that date were allowed for creditors to present their claims against the estate of Benjamin Wallis, late of said county, deceased, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Probate Court, at the Probate office, in the village of Charlevoix, for examination and allowance, on or before the 23d day of January next, and that such claims will be heard before said Court, on Monday, the first day of September, and on Monday, the first day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days.
Dated June 23d, A. D. 1884.
32 JAMES A. KEAT, Judge of Probate.

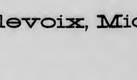
NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.
State of Michigan, County of Charlevoix, ss. In the matter of the estate of Charlotte Bowditch, deceased. Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned, administrator of the estate of said deceased, by the Hon. Judge of Probate, for the county of Charlevoix, on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1884, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the office of the judge of Probate, in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in said State, on Saturday, the 30th day of August, A. D. 1884, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, subject to all incumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of the death of said deceased, or at the time of sale, and also subject to the right of dower and the homestead rights of said deceased, the following described real estate, to wit: The south west quarter of section five (5) in township thirty-three north of range nine (9) west, containing one hundred and sixty acres of land, more or less, according to United States survey.
ALBERT N. BOWDISH,
35-39 Administrator.



WAR WITH HIGH PRICES.
A fall in the price of Hardware, at L. D. Bartholomew's.

SAVINGS BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.
Deposits of TEN CENTS AND UPWARD received. Five per cent interest, payable January and July. Withdrawals may be made in this department at any time. Savings Bank deposits are not subject to State, County, or Township taxes. All State Savings Banks or other State officers are required to examine into the affairs of this bank. Deposits are secured by first class stocks and bonds, and by personal security of stockholders. National banks are only secure when their bills are redeemed. Savings banks are for the benefit of depositors. Second, no other bank is authorized to do a savings bank business. Third, this bank is conducted by men who have had years of experience in the banking business, and that is a guarantee that it is safely and well conducted. Fourth, it is examined by the State Bank Examiner, and that is a guarantee that it is honestly conducted. Fifth, it is the only savings bank in Charlevoix county, and that is a guarantee that it is entitled to and will receive your patronage.
REYNOLDS & BROWN.

$66 a week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 494

HEADQUARTERS
FOR Plows, Harrows,
Horse Rakes,
And everything in the Agricultural Implement line.

Examine and be Convinced:
The No. 10 Champion Plow, "Best in the World." The Gale Plow. The Oliver Chilled Plow. The Gale Horse Rake. The Albion Mfg. Co.'s New Horse Rake. The Osborne No. 7 Mower, light and strong. The Buchanan Wagon.

IN HARDWARE
We do not imitate; we lead. We positively guarantee our GOODS and PRICES. We ask kindly for our proportion of your patronage.
May 20, 1884. [illegible]

LOVE'S RETROSPECT.

Sweet-hearted maiden, in my wealth of flow'rs
You are the rose
Whose fragrance makes sweet the vanishing hours
In life's dull prose.

I meet you by the arbor's covering
Of blushing bloom;
You give me a kiss, a caress, a token breathing
Its rich perfume.

I ask you for the priceless rose of love—
You smile assent,
Such ing pleasure is not in realms above
Than mine content.

I take your hand. I clasp your waist. Your kiss
Is ecstasy
The years roll on! but ne'er shall fade that bliss
From memory.

Sweet-hearted maiden, in the scent of flow'rs
The past appears;
I see you, and hear the dreary hours
And lapse of years.

PETTIGREW'S PREDICAMENT.

BY LILY M. CERRY.

Pettigrew is one of the best-hearted young fellows I ever knew. He comes to dine with me occasionally, and we have a good, long talk afterward. He likes me, I fancy, because, while sympathizing with him in all his fortunes, good or ill, I have never yet been foolish enough to fall in love with him.

The darkest days of all his life, he says, were those of the antenatal in which I first made his acquaintance—before, and also at the time that we roomed neighbors in the ell of that horrible down-town building, scarce better than a tenement. You see, I cannot wholly avoid exposing a certain Bohemianism of my own past life while touching upon my friend's battles and bitterness; nevertheless, that shall not deter me.

"The darkest days," says Pettigrew, with a sigh of thankfulness that they have been safely weathered, "were upon me when I found myself landed, that chilly November evening, supperless and penniless, in the dreary room I had rented during the afternoon of the old Irish janitress. You know, I believe, that I had come West the June preceding, secure upon the promise of a good position in a railroad office, a position which had turned out a mirage, I might say, leaving me in a sad predicament. A thousand miles away from the little New England town I had called home for twenty years, and where were the only people I knew or who knew me; with no relations or connections to write to for aid; with $81.17 in my pocket, and nothing to pawn. I stood thus alone in the great rushing Western city, and endeavored to consider the matter. Common sense introduced me to a cheap lodging-house and a morning paper with a column or two of advertisements for male help, the most of which I responded to in my most clerkly hand. The following week I was fortunate enough to obtain a situation in connection with the notion department of a 'Cheap-dollar' store, where the lower classes traded and the velvet smells abounded. I stayed at that place through all the hot summer weather, earning a salary just sufficient to pay my board. At the first of August the floor-walker got mad and had me discharged.

"I did some copying for a week or so, at 2 cents a page. Then I went on the stage, as a supernumerary, and learned how to carry a spear or a banner unsightly well. My healthy lungs availed me now; I could bellow out the bass part of the chorus of almost any light opera, once I had learned it, though I didn't know one note from another on paper, and had never taken a singing-lesson in my life.

"So off and on, along through August and September, I made enough to keep life and body together and sinew to my feet. Then came October, but nothing to act or sing in. I did some more copying, and lugged over into November, and handed one bitter night in the room where you first knew me. I was tired and hungry enough to have eaten anything. I remembered having read about some poor devil of a newspaper man who battled one night over an hour or two, not knowing whether to eat his throat or to sit down and write a funny paragraph, and who finally did the latter and was very successful the rest of his life. I lit the gas to warm the room and crawled into bed, trying to be thankful I had not to sleep in the gutter. There's nothing like comparing yourself with people worse off. Many a time I've gone along the street with an empty, gnawing stomach and made myself positively happy by pitying some poor cripple or blind beggar. And, mind you, all this time I had been watching out for a respectable situation of any work.

"Next morning I got up and said to my self, 'Pettigrew, this won't do. You've got to have breakfast, and that somewhere will you get it? That's the question.' It was pretty cold, but I dressed and went down into the street, where it was much warmer because of the sunlight. I turned into the heart of the city, pondering the dubious prospect of breaking my last, and casting wistful eyes upon such alluring signs as 'We give a piece of pie with every 15-cent meal.'

"I had walked but a few blocks, when a heavy hand fell upon my shoulder, and, turning, I beheld the familiar face of a fat lusso who had been a chorus comrade of mine in the last opera. Possessing a phenomenal voice, though one as uncultivated as my own, he had been engaged to go upon the road with the company, and I had not seen him for a month or more. I was glad to shake his pudgy hand and greet him with a 'How are you?' 'First-rate, you darling,' he replied. 'But it is no great joy traveling when you make so many one-night stands. We've had precious little beer but what we could snatch on the cars. And such gimps! Three hundred miles and the like; and even if we did get to my hotel in the morning, and thought we could take a nap, they'd call a rehearsal.'

"'Is that so?' said I. 'Well, at least you've had better luck than I.' 'How is that?' said he. 'Nothing,' said I, with a groan. I moved yesterday, and I've just got up. Haven't had any breakfast yet.' 'Neither have I,' said he. 'Come and take yours with me.'

"I needed no second invitation. The good soul ordered lavishly, and we had a substantial lay-out.

"'What are you doing now?' he asked, as we left the place, and were walking along the street. 'Nothing,' I said, frankly. 'I'd be glad to get hold of anything, for I'm hard up, and I don't know which way to turn.'

"He looked very sympathetic. 'I wish you were going with the company,' he said. 'But there's no use asking. I tried to get them to take my brother Jim; but got a good voice. But they wouldn't take another soul, they said. We start out again Sunday for the Northwest. Speaking of Jim, I shouldn't wonder if he could help you to something. He works at Z——s, the caterer, you know. He is sent out to private houses for evening parties mostly, and it's not hard work at all.'

"I swallowed the lump of pride that came into my throat at the notion of acting as waiter at an evening party, and accompanied him to see his brother. Jim was quite as good-natured and almost as fat as the basso. Their name, before I forget it, was Taylor.

"'Jim,' he announced, 'I have't the faintest idea. I believe there was some one sick of the regular force; and he must have fibbed endlessly as to my qualifications. However, they hired me, and I was sent that very night along with him and two others to a large ball.

"In his boundless good-nature he had hustled around and secured for me the requisite dress-suit and other necessities. Thus apparelled, I differed only from the male guests of the evening in the matter of gloves, the gentlemanly appearing bare-handed, according to fashion's latest decree.

"'Taylor, my good friend, had given me any amount of instruction as to my duties; it was of great importance that I carry myself as stiffly erect as possible and affect a broad English accent. For the rest, I strove against bewilderment at the beauty of the decorations and the radiance of the ladies' toilets, kept an eye upon Taylor, and asked directions at intervals.

"The fore part of the evening passed without mishap, and we attendants, though necessarily limited to the supper-room, heard easily the delightful music, and caught many a glimpse of flitting beauty.

"The programme of miscellaneous dances, which was later to be followed by the german, was yet in progress, when I came upon there some one to us a brief space of idleness. The company appeared to have quite forgotten the supper room.

"Impelled by curiosity, I ventured forth and down the wide passage to a long mirror near the entrance to the ball-room. I paused before this mirror, and regarded my anglicized austerity with mingled delight and amusement. Suddenly, however, I started and a superstitious chill crept up my spinal column. There were two reflections in the mirror—two images of myself. Two Pettigrews, and one was looking over the other's shoulder. I turned quickly and stood facing my other self in the flesh, who had just emerged from the ball-room.

"He stared at me in a sort of holy horror; glanced again in the mirror, then back at me. 'Jim!' he gasped. 'Twins, by George!' he ejaculated. Then I saw that he wore no gloves. Jim, apart from his stature, was unlike in face, form, and costume. 'Who are you?' he asked. Suddenly I remembered having caught sight of Jim and, lumping him with the people worse off, had uncompunctiously left him and almost as fat as the basso. Their name, before I forget it, was Taylor.

"'Jim,' he announced, 'I haven

HADASSAH.

BY OSCAR F. WISNER.

And Ha[illegible] sons have met a bloody fate
In that [illegible]our of horror and of hate.
For she [illegible] queen, had told it in the ear
Of Iran[illegible] sons of Human, too, I fear."
"Then i[illegible]ung," the king with bearing [illegible]
"On th[illegible] gallows, reaching to the cloud."
Then n[illegible]e upon the air of night
In Shu[illegible] hall, now filled with beauties, b[illegible]

Rejoici[illegible]ni the brilliant hall now glad,
And joy[illegible]antmut doffs her garments sad.
But wh[illegible]e is Vashti? where the stern cold
[illegible]e time,
Whose [illegible]eat Iran tried in vain to tame—
Where [illegible]she now? Alas! her place is filled
By one whose voice with honeyed accents thrilled,
As gliding through the hall of Shu-Shan fair,
She seemed like bird that carols on the air.

The Jews find rest in Persia's ancient days,
For loved the king Hadassah's pleasant ways,
And over all of Media, Persia too,
No name is heard like Mordecai, the Jew.
From lowest depths of degradation vile
When on his face was seen no happy smile,
Now side the king and next to him in power
Stood Mordecai, the Jew, in prosperous hour.

Night settles down, and all the silent skies
Of Persia's realms are filled with brilliant eyes,
And silence reigns in Shu-Shan's gilded halls,
And shadows strange now creep along its walls.
O glorious night, that watches for the day;
When all things leap along life's pulsing way.
Night! sable goddess, cautions o'er the sleep
Of Persia's monarch, captive at thy feet.

But yonder come the golden streaks of day,
In long bright lines, and upward take their way;
Whilst all the stars in twinkling splendor bright
Have hid their beams in floods of greater light.
And life again throughout the Persian realms
Is quickened as day the sombre night o'erwhelms.
Thus day and night follow each other's track
On nuffled feet and ever still come back.

And Iran's monarch, looking on the past,
Rejoices now at this great feast, his last.
His ancient enemy now lies asleep,
And Mordecai no more is seen to weep.
No restless nights in Shu-Shan's starry hall,
"No air drawn dagger" threatens now his fall;
But quiet reigns o'er Persia's distant plain
Both near and far around her wide domain.

And he who sat on Persia's gilded throne,
The greatest monarch of the world then known,
Taught a great lesson—lesson such as now
Might stamp itself on each one's thoughtful brow.
This the first lesson of the kind we read,
A lesson, too, which many a home might heed;

Untaught before—but needed every day,
As o'er life's pathway tread we its slippery way.

And she who would command the hollow bark
O'er bounding billows in the midnight dark,
Must learn to navigate the waters wide
Which gird her round when on unruffled tide.
And ventures not upon the stormy wave
Without a skillful hand and heart as brave,
Else mountain seas her little boat o'erwhelm,
Whilst she unsexed stands trembling at the helm.

We will not speculate, on theme like this,
Lest we, like others, too, our path should miss.
But live content, not daring to complain
Of heaven's decree, which ever is the same.
And when we undertake to alter heaven's decree,
And ask of God to bend a willing knee
To his frail mortals, made of senseless dust,
We then lose all of hope, and God, and trust.

Let each within his sphere still humble tread
The path which leads to chambers of the dead.
Let each pursue the course he deems the best,
And go through life as to a joyous feast.
And none usurp another's chosen way
Which leads him upward to a brighter day.
But all like stars, each having grades of light,
March cheerful round and gladden all the night.

* * * * * * *

No longer bloom the roses, round her towers,
Breathing sweet incense from ambrosial bowers;

The sun no longer flashes down his rays
On stately spire, as once in former days,
And stars no longer pour their smiles
Adown the sky to gladden Shu-Shan's
But dust and ashes, alone, of all remain
To greet the tourist on the Persian plain.

And this sad tale of Iran's fated queen,
Will oft be read and many a tear be
And many a Vashti, too, will tread the
And with her lord in hot dispute engage,
And many a happy home the scene of
Between the husband and once loving
Thus will be acted o'er in coming time.
As suns roll 'round on flaming our

And strife and angry words will cease
And send the clamor to the vaulted
Long as the years endure, and clouds
The same sad picture, looking still the Once happy homes deserted now and Uncheered by love their sorrows all These homes where peace once held reign,
Will oft repeat a mournful sad refrain.

We love this story told of Shu-Shan's
Sad tale of ancient Iran's festival.
No one can tell the fate of Vashti great
Nor that of him her once adored lord.
Both sleep the sleep that's found grave—
Peaceful they sleep,—the monarch slave.
And where the strains of music rose
No echo whispers e'en a last farewell.

THE END.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., July 24, 1884.

Around the County.

We want a live correspondent in every township or community in this county to make the JOURNAL an exponent of the business, resources, and advantages of the whole county. Everybody is interested in items of news, business or personal, that are of issue or designed to advertise our resources to the state at large, is legitimate. The condition of crops, large acreage or unusual yield of any particular crop or other product of the locality, and manufactures leading to develop the country, are of special interest. We want to make this department the most valuable in the JOURNAL. Write on only one side of the paper.

East Jordan.

[This was received too late for use last week.]

Sunday morning, 13th, the Clara Belle started with an excursion party, gotten up by the Catholic society. They were not lacking in point of numbers, (about 70) but in so soon as the most of them left Charlevoix, they discovered that they were awful par ticular about what they wanted to keep on their stomachs, and were so decidedly affected that a number came home by cars and stage.

About 50 people on Sunday morning left on the little steamer Reeves, for a ride to Bay Springs, and to take a look through the magnificent hotel at that place. All were very well pleased with the good dinner, and the courteous treatment which they received through Mr. Chapman, and arrived home in time to attend the excellent temperance lecture given in the evening at the school house, by Mr. Burnham, of Holly, Mich., who is sojourning a few days at East Jordan, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Stone.

Rev. Mr. Hollod near Elk Rapids, favored us with an interesting sermon last Sunday morning, and although the town looked like Goldsmith's "Deserted village," on account of the excursions, a large audience gathered to hear him and came away feeling well repaid.

East Jordan is more than well supplied at present with steamboats, no fewer than five running here. However, we can stand it if they can, and are only sorry that "trade" will not allow them to keep going and coming regularly.

The two Misses Steinman, of Grand Rapids, one of them well known in the southern part of the state, as a teacher of Germau, have been visiting at Mr. Cohen's.

Our school closed last Friday for the summer vacation. Mr. George Fust and Miss Alice Gleun as teachers have given the best of satisfaction.

The Good Templars are making arrangements for an entertainment.

On the 6th of June last a grocery stock was opened at the store of David Brown, the stock being furnished by Mr. Chrisman, who came here from Grand Rapids. The firm have not agreed all around, and to day (July 16) the Brown part of the firm closed the doors putting the keys in his pocket. The partnership will probably close by a receiver being appointed to day the Chrisman part of the firm a show.

South Arm.

Raspberries are numerous; berry-pickers ditto.

Mrs. S. G. Isaman is slowly recovering.

Mrs. J. Monroe, Jr., is quite ill.

As Mrs. Hawkes and Miss Cole were out driving recently, their horse became frightened in a wheelbarrow in the road, and became unmanageable. Both ladies were thrown out, but not seriously injured.

J. R. Vance was driving his two-year old colt recently. The harness broke, frightening the animal, and she ran a few rods, spilling Mr. V. out. Luckily he survived to tell the tale.

Mrs. Cummins sprained her ankle descending the steps at P. L. Lanway's store.

A. Butler and grand-daughter have returned to Wisconsin.

Mrs. J. N. Smith and son, of Petoskey, are visiting relatives here.

The minister (?) who advertised a basket meeting at the Baptist church did not appear. His whereabouts are unknown.

While Mr. Miles was drawing hay, the wagon reach broke, throwing him to the ground and breaking a rib. He is recovering.

Jas. Hastings, of Charlevoix, was in town this week.

School closed Tuesday. Miss Porter has admirably sustained her reputation as a teacher.

Miss Susie Hawks, of Boyne, visited here last week.

A happy band of our people attended the temperance lecture at East Jordan Friday evening. Notwithstanding the bad weather, a large and attentive audience was present.

Rev. Richard Tyndall has returned from his visit to Canada.

Rev. H. C. Seofield has traded his property in Echo, consisting of a sawmill, 200 acres of land, etc., for a farm in Wayne county.

Mrs. Henry Olney died last Sunday. She leaves three children, viz: James A. Keat, Mrs. Jerome Hill, and Master Bertie; also ten grandchildren, besides numerous friends and relatives to mourn her death. She was a consistent christian, and had been a member of the M. E. church for many years. Funeral on Monday at 10 o'clock, Rev. H. C. Scofield officiating.

Ironton.

The Pine Lake Iron Co.'s furnace, makes 60 to 65 tons of iron per day.

R. M. Cherrie made Ironton a short call last Friday; left Sunday evening for Chicago.

Superintendent Hunt returned from Chicago Friday. He will repair the broken walls of those kilns which have fallen down, and make business lively in Ironton.

Capt. George Thomnson has sold one-half of the North Star to C. G. Lewis, of Boyne. She has gone to Grand Haven to install the new crew, Hiram Thompson and Dennis Smith.

Foreman Scott has resigned his position at the furnace and leaves next week.

John Otis, of Muscelona, made Ironton a short call Saturday, returning Sunday evening.

Mr. T. C. Bird, who has been very sick with inflamation of the lungs, is recovering, under the management of Dr. Lewis.

No school this week on account of the teachers institute at Boyne.

Preaching at the school house last Sunday morning, by Rev. P. Blake, and evening by Rev. Mr. May.

J. G. Peterson has bought a new top buggy since his wife went visiting. Can't say who will be riding with him.

Mr. Morey has taken a contract to get the wood off one hundred and sixty acres near Stepp's dock for the Pine Lake Iron Co.

Look out for a Cleveland and Hendricks polo and flag at Ironton next week.

Burgess.

School has closed in district No. 4, on account of several severe cases of diphtheria.

James Bartlett addressed the greenback meeting held at Gibson school house, after which a Butler club was organized with the following officers: President, Oscar Tillotson; secretary, James H. Meyers; treasurer, Joseph Lewis.

Chauncy Howe and wife rejoice over the arrival of a baby girl.

The mother of Frank and Peter Kane, from Genesee county, is expected to arrive next week, on a visit.

Another saw mill, just below Whitford's, is talked of.

The hay crop is light, but of good quality.

James Bartlett, of Oberlin, O., is visiting with his brother-in-law, Geo. Willis.

There will be a Butler ratification meeting at the Murry school house Thursday evening. Good speakers are expected.

Mr. Minier has a raising Thursday.

Chas. D. Long, of Flint, is expected this week to visit his sister, Mrs. Edna Kane, and his brothers in Evangeline.

Henry Haulin has gone to Vander bilt on business.

Norwood.

L. J. Nash, wife, nurse, and three children, of Manitowoc, Wis., arrived by steamer Lawrence, Sunday the 20th, and will occupy the Adams house through the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Pearl, of Battle Creek, are in town, guests of their daughter, Mrs. P. McIntyre.

Clarence Gonld, of Detroit, is in town, the guest of Darley Meech.

E. R. Harris is building a residence on the Meech addition to Norwood. It looks magnificent.

C. H. Ferguson, wife, and two children, of Hyde Park, Ill., are in town, the guests of Mrs. Ferguson's sister, Mrs. Geo. Foote.

Mr. Ezra Meech, wife and daughter Jessie, arrived Sunday, the 20th, and will remain the summer, guests at F. J. Meech's.

Mrs. Vene Spaulding, of Elk Rapids, is in town visiting her son Willard.

Mr. Gniles and wife, of Cleveland, Ohio, is visiting at their nephew's, Frank Guiles.

What about that double wedding? Who knows when, where, and who too.

J. MILO EATON

DEALER IN

REAL ESTATE

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for Sale

IN THE MOST DESIRABLE PARTS OF CHARLEVOIX.

WILD LANDS AND IMPROVED FA

FOR SALE IN ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

Abstracts of Title Furnished on Short Notice.

Represents the Best Insurance Company

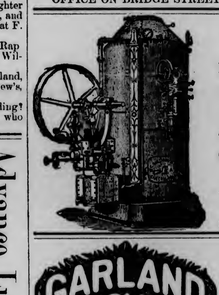
OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN



E. T. BROWN &

Threshing Engines,

Portable and Stati

Engine

SAW MILLS, THRESH MILL SUPPLIES

The Best Saw Mill in the for the Money.

(BARGAINS IN SECOND-HAND MACHINE

WRITE FOR PRICES AND CAT

West Bridge Street.

Grand Rapids, Mic

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

New Stor

and

NEW GOO

A Complete Stock of Hardware, Iron, Cu
Tinware, Fishing Tackle, Stoves, Implements
Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Bu
Wheelbarrows, Carts, Refrigerators, Doors
Sash, Paints and Brushes. The very best T
Job work done on short notice.

L. D. BARTHOLOMY

NEW GOO

I am pleased to say that my

Spring St

Is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the

LATE STYLES,

AND

Price to Correspond the Times.

GEO. W. M

Advance Lumber Company.

CUSTOM SAWING

Are now prepared to do

Hard and Soft Wood Lumber and Hemlock Timber.

Prompptly and on short notice. We have on hand a large quantity of ADVANCE LUMBER CO.

ADVANCE, MICH.

Gold

for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made for those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine. 4[illegible]

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from the first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine. 45[illegible]

GIVE US A TRIAL.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

MBER 55. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1884. $1.50 PER YEAR.

E JOURNAL
ublished every Thursday morning,
CHAS. J. STRANG.
ver T. D. Smith's grocery,
LEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
D AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

siness Directory.

ATTORNEYS.

ANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law, Rutter's Block, Charlevoix, Mich. [illegible]ons. C. J. GRIER.

CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate an Agents. Lake st., west of post-ce, Mich.

MARCH, Attorneys at Law, East a, Mich.

E MAINE, Attorney and Counselor, Office in Lemen's building, over Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

MERBERRY, Attorneys at Law, and ancery Commissioner. Office in bank [illegible]ntinues on Mitchell St. Petoskey, Mich

EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

S KEAT & MARTIN, Attorneys at Law, office opposite U. S. Hotel, Boyne

F WISNER, Attorney and Solicitor, A Circuit Court Commissioner.

ATT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

KS AND BANKERS.

of CHARLEVOIX.—Capital $50,000. and discounts at lowest rates. Exchanges and mortgages bought and sold. sold on all cities in Europe and United Township and railroad tickets sold to all parts of Europe. $100,000 to loan on mortgage. KETCHUM & BROWN.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. IDDINGS, pastor.

MOST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. IDDINGS, pastor.

RE DEPARTMENT.

HOOK AND LADDER AND READY FIRE COMPANY meet every Saturday night, at hall. R. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

OPATHIC PHARMACY.

FIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Tinctures, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

LIVERY STABLE.

EATON, Proprietor. Only first-class Horses and Carriages kept. Good Saddle Horses a specialty.

PHYSICIANS.

EINSTEIN, M. D.
Office at the Ingleside.

S. B. Physician and Surgeon. Office in Lyon's block, Charlevoix, Mich.

AVIS, M. D., Office and residence corner of Bank of Charlevoix.

TENTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

AL ESTATE AGENTS.

S. BARNIDA, Notary Public, Real Estate, and Insurance Ag't., Charlevoix.

CRET SOCIETIES.

Easter Post No. 119, meets second day in each month, at Odd Fellows'

Charlevoix Lodge No. 327, meets Saturday evening, at Odd Fellows' hall.

Canad Lodge No. 295, meets Wednesday evening, in their hall,

Star Rebecca Lodge No. 295, meets days on or before full moon. Hall over

TERINARY SURGEON.

MANCHUK, V. S. Office at Bridge House, Charlevoix.

WELL DIGGING.

ICHOLS, Charlevoix, Mich., will attempt to do well digging in the best manner, and at reasonable prices. Stone walling, pump repairing, well boring, and similar work. 45

ELLIS,
A. R. UPHOUSE,
Vice President.

ants & Farmers' Bank,
of CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
Banking business transacted. Money loaned upon approved paper at reasonable rates. Collections given careful attention. All business made promptly.
L. S. THOMAS, Cashier.

OHN NICHOLLS,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE

UMBER!

ALSO

ed Lumber, Oar Blades,

ACK TIMBERS, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

ER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

1872 1884

DR. G. W. CROUTER,

THE DRUGGIST.

Our Motto: P. P.
PURITY, POLITENESS.

We make it a point to sell only

Full Strength & Fresh Goods

Our Prices will always be as Low as

STRICTLY PURE DRUGS

Can be Sold.

Our Stock is the Largest in the County.

Board by the Day or Week
AND
WARM MEALS AT ALL HOURS.
Also Tobacco and Cigars.
Prices reasonable. W. S. JOHNSON,
Op. Bridge St. House, Charlevoix.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,
ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,
Charlevoix, Michigan.
This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

Eagle Hotel,
E. A. H. COLE, PROPRIETOR,
South Arm, Michigan.
A new house, situated west end of the bridge. Nearest Hotel to Jordan River. Horses and boats for guests. Headquarters for Intermediate Lake and Jordan River points.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public. Good headquarters for the Petoskey and Elk Rapids stages.

HULBERT HOUSE,
P. S. HULBERT, PROPRIETOR,
East Jordan, Michigan.
This house is centrally located. Good sidewalk from steam boat landing to house.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,
WM. J. WEIKEL, PROPRIETOR,
East Jordan, Michigan.
This house has been thoroughly renovated and put in first-class shape for the traveling and sporting public. Steamers landing within a "stones throw" of the house. Sample Rooms.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,
A. J. HALL, Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
This house is finely located on the Ingne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton, - - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

TOURISTS' HOME,
BAY SPRINGS, MICH.
Fifteen miles up Pine Lake from Charlevoix, is the best house for comfort, cleanliness, and health, in Michigan. Two commodious mineral springs, free to all guests. Fishing from the house daily, morning and evening, for the G. R. & I. railroad. Steamboats arrive and leave in front of the House six times a day, (Sunday excepted.) Rates two dollars per day. Special rates made for large parties, or long time, to suit the financial standing of all. Ladies and gentlemen are invited to try the House one full day at least, this season, and then report favorable their experience.
H. R. CHAPMAN, Proprietor.
A. R. CHAPMAN, Manager.

UNITED STATES HOTEL,
J. J. STEVENS & SON, Proprietors,
Boyne City, Michigan.
House thoroughly refitted and refurnished.

AGENTS wanted for the lives of all the Presidents of the United States. The largest, handsomest, and best book to sell. Over 1,000 pages, fine steel plates, and fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Any one can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLET BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 45[illegible]

PIMPLES.
I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple vegetable BALM that will remove TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES and MOTH-PATCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing a 3c. stamp, DR. VANDELF & CO., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

FOR SALE.
The place known as
THE BEATTY FARM
Near McGeagh's Mill.
For particulars inquire at the office of
J. MILO EATON.

GET YOUR
Photographs
At D. S. Way's.

O. W. SMITH,
ELECTRO-PLATER,
Manufacturing Jeweler and Lapidist.
Electro-plating in Gold and Silver. Any article of Jewelry made to order. AGATES AND JASPERS cut to order. 29

HODGE & LITZAU,
Manufacturers and Dealers in
HARNESS, SADDLES
Curry Combs, Brushes, Whips, Lashes, Lap Robes, Dusters, Etc. Special attending given to all work. Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. W. J. BRADLEY
has purchased the
Ladies' and Children's Furnishing Goods
Lately owned by Pisher & Inwood, and will be pleased to retain all the old customers, and gain as many more as possible. Call and see my stock

C. R. BELLINGER
carries the largest and finest stock of
JEWELRY,
Silverware, Watches, Clocks, and Optical Goods in Charlevoix county. Agent for the celebrated ROCKFORD WATCH, the best timepiece ever made. All goods left for repairs and not called for in six months are subject to sale for charges.

NEW GOODS.
I am pleased to say that my
Spring Stock
Is ready for inspection. Come and see them, and when you want a suit of clothes that are JUST IN STYLE, you will know where to find them. My stock is all of the
LATE STYLES,
AND
Price to Correspond With the Times.
GEO. W. MILLER.

W. F. ORRELL,
HOUSE DECORATOR,
Charlevoix, Mich.
PLAIN PAINTING, GRAINING, AND KALSOMINING.
ARTISTIC PAPER-HANGING.
Finishing Hardwood a Specialty

Buz On Skates.

Buz is unable to say how much longer the roller skate craze will consume the attention, the brains and the pockets of the people of this nation. Whether it will in a brief period of time take its place in that mysterious realm from whence bonrne no traveler returns, by the side of the great fifteen puzzle, or the Bidwell trust company, is a question of considerable moment, and is one which is agitating the minds of the people to an alarming extent. But whether its existence be long or short, whether this big thing on wheels runs itself into the ground in short order or continues for ages to distract public attention and warp people's perceptive powers and reasoning faculties, Buz wishes to be distinctly understood that no tongue, be it ever so persuasive, male or female, can prevail on him to put on a pair of roller skates.

He was prevailed upon once by allowing his sympathetic nature to be worked upon, and out of generosity to the cause and a desire to advance the science a pair was strapped on and well oiled. Buz had all confidence in the world that he would make a success of it, and buttered himself he would glide through the air with the greatest of ease, like the daring young man on the flying trapeze," he had always thought if a girl could stand on a piece of steel the thickness of a knitting needle and cut curley cues on the ice without coming in hard contact with frozen solidity, it could be no match at all to roll around on eight wheels. But alas how quickly are bright hopes blasted and fond anticipations shattered; how suddenly the heart yearns over blighted prospects and wint a keen sense of chagrin mortifies the hitherto benign countenance.

No sooner had Buz arisen from his seat than his left foot began to roll away toward the center of the floor, while his right persisted in going toward the corner, he soon got stretched out like a circus rider on two horses, when his left foot took a timely curve and brought up near the right, where a convenient bench saved a fall and assisted him to assume an attitude.

Too much oil must have been poured into the axles, for they run so easy that when Buz straightened up he rolled backward like a streak of lightning, expecting every minute to receive a severe concussion of the posterior extremity of the skull, but a friendly hand stayed his progress and progress and he lit out across the hall with every evidence that he would outstrip a Morgan or a Petoskey, but the rollers curved on him one to the right and the other to the left, bringing up at the middle of the hall in another circus position.

It was a pic nic for the boys and girls, but it was the breaking up of one to Buz. He soon struck a position, however, and again got under good headway, priding himself that he was getting the thing down fine, and consoling himself with anticipations of notoriety in the future, when he should be sent for to give exhibitions as a champion skater. He flew around the hall several times on a keen scoot, with coat off, wiping the perspiration from his neck and face, having never sweat so on a wood pile or in a harvest field in his life.

He thought best to stop and take a rest. He tried to slow up, but the wheels would'nt slow. Their velocity was greater than Buz's equilibrium and they went from under him quicker than seat. His heels flew into mid air, and he struck solid in a sitting posture, bounding like a rubber foot ball about two feet parallel with the floor, landing again in the same place. The sudden jar knocked his hat off, which flew some distance and was picked up by willing hands.

With feelings of regret mingled with mortification and anxiety Buz arose from his ungraceful position, unbuckled his skates and made weak attempts to make believe he was not hurt, but no individual can make a test in a limbered up leg by failing upon it and come forth unscathed. Buz had rather take his chances on being run through a threshing machine or carried through a grist mill with the patent roller process than to again put on the modern skate.—Rockford Register.

The Private Character of presidential aspirants must be judged by the esteem in which they are held at their homes. It has been demonstrated at the polls, and we have the concurrent testimony of all reputable republican newspapers in Buffalo, that Grover Cleveland possesses in an extraordinary degree the confidence and respect of the people of that city irrespective of party. The public acts of officials are just subjects for discussion and criticism, but as to their private lives when they are men of good repute, as both candidates are this year, the tittle tattle of scandal-mongers, the venamous falsehoods of the brothels, and the inventions of malignant partisans should be resolutely put down by all decent people. It is not mud-throwing to criticise Mr. Blaine for his conduct as speaker or secretary of state any more than it is vituperation to criticise Mr. Cleveland for his acts as governor. It is mud-throwing of the most contemptible kind to charge a man with offences against society which no one of character will testify to and which cannot be answered, whether true or false.—Chicago Herald.

An Interesting Record.

Who was speaker of the house when the worst jobs and the most vicious legislative measures known in modern times were rushed through congress?

James G. Blaine.

Who packed the house committees in the interest of the railroad land grant grabbers tariff monopolists?

James G. Blaine.

Who sold his influence as the third highest officer under our government for a block of stock in a railroad?

James G. Blaine.

Who sent a substitute to the front and remained behind to make a fortune out of government contracts?

James G. Blaine.

It is a very interesting record that the career of the republican candidate for president presents to the country. —Lansing Journal.

The New York Star (Kelly's organ) has the following: In Mr. Blaine's formal letter of acceptance, which we publish this morning, his friends and admirers will see a public pronouncement of extraordinary breadth and merit, while his opponents will discern in it only a crafty, demagogical harangue. Thus do things differ according to the spectacles through which we chance to look at them. It is easy to pick flaws in Mr. Blaine's statements, but Mr. Blaine is conspicuously astute. The bulk of his letter of acceptance is aimed straight at the workingmen of the country. On their votes depends the presidency, and James G. Blaine intends to win them —not to alienate them.

"Cleveland," shouts the republican party press, "is an unknown man, he has no legislative experience." Yet the grandest man the republicans ever elected president was not as well known as Cleveland. Lincoln's legislative experience was confined to one term in congress, during which he did nothing to distinguish himself. Yet when he became president he demonstrated an ability that was marvelous. Statesmen are born, not made. Cleveland has demonstrated that he has the genius of a reformer, and this genius is worth more than experience, as without it experience is of no avail.

An editor is a man who is liable to grammatical blunders, toothache, typographical errors and lapses of memory and usually he has ninety seven thousand people watching to catch him tripping. He is a man of sorrow, acquainted with grief and poverty and frequently liable to go ragged, hungry and dry for a very long period.

"Brick" Pomeroy has issued a circular stating that on or before the first week in August he will commence the publication of an illustrated news paper at New York, to be called the United States Democrat, and support Cleveland and Hendricks. Price for the campaign, 50 cts. Address M. M. Pomeroy, 171 Broadway, N. Y.

The Household.

Dyspepsia, indigestion and headache seem to take the place of the three graces in many households. How sad is the condition of such a family. The kidneys and liver often get deranged and perhaps the parents or even children may be suffering from Diabetes, Bright's disease, or some kindred disease. As a preventive and also a cure for all the diseased conditions of the human family no preparation equals Parmelee's Vegetable Pills for Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Kidney and Liver Cure. Only 50 cts for large bottles. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Remember This.

Hamilton's German Bitters are the best bitters made. They promote sleep and allay nervousness. They tone up and strengthen the system, without exciting the brain as do most other stimulants. They soothe to rest the jarring nerves, and calm the irritable and jaded system. They are prepared from the purest materials and are the best medicines you can use for restoring health and strength. Try them. 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

We Are Anxious

That every young lady should know what a delicate and harmless beautifier is to be found in Hamilton's Orlepti Kobo. It is absolutely harmless, and it makes the complexion soft, and brilliant, so surely removes all tan and freckles, that one needs only to give it a trial to be convinced of its merits. Only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cents. Sold by O. B. Weed & Co.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

THE EAST.

HENRY C. PEDDER, manager for Arnold, Constable & Co., of New York, has transferred his valuable New Jersey property to the firm, from whom he has long resigned, it is alleged, between $180,000 and $500,000. Herbert Seymour, the confidential bookkeeper of the company, is said to be a defaulter in the sum of $50,000.... Mrs. C. E. Browne, the mother of Artemus Ward, died recently at Waterford, Me., in her 78th year.... Five suspected cases of cholera in New York proved to be summer complaint among children.... A company has been formed to build and operate a public crematory, to be heated with natural gas, on the outskirts of Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE assignment of Tucker, Hammond & Co., jobbers of small wares, at Boston, is announced. Liabilities, $100,000.... The private bank of G. Hall, at Elmira, N. Y., patronized by business men, laborers and farmers, has failed. The deposits are reported at about $100,000.

SWEENEY, pitcher of the Providence Base Ball Club, refused to obey orders on the field, abused the manager, and was expelled. The visit of a certain Union club magnate is alleged to have prompted Sweeney's action.... Several large storehouses and factories were destroyed by fire at Gloucester, Mass. The losses are estimated at half a million dollars.... Jane Grey Swisshelm, the well-known abolitionist and advocate of woman's rights, died last week at her home in Swissdale, Pa., in her 68th year.... Grant & Ward's receiver has been empowered to sue all persons who borrowed money from the firm.

TWO PERSONS died recently at Arieta, Hamilton County, N. Y., and many other persons were taken sick, from eating ham obtained from a local butcher, who says it came from Thom & Co., of Chicago. An analysis of the ham shows that it contained trichinæ. It appears that the persons who died used the meat in a partly cooked state. A workman at Gloucester, Mass., discovered a spark in a mudflat of dynamite cartridges which he was unloading. Hurling the bucket from him, it struck a tree, and the explosion which followed shook houses for blocks around, and broke glass in windows.... D. Best, Sons & Co., agricultural implement manufacturers at Mount Joy, Pa., have failed for $10,000.

THE WEST.

THE village of Cedar Springs, Mich., was destroyed by fire, four persons losing their lives. A damage of $50,000 was done by flames at the saw-mill of John White, at Chesney, Mich. Four men lost their lives in a fire at Toledo.... A. J. & C. S. Harrison, the Indianapolis bankers, suspended last week, the firm applying for a receiver. Five of the men proposed declined to act, and the Sheriff was appointed. The assets and deposits are between $750,000 and $820,000, a large amount of which is fixed, and $40,000 entirely liquid.... Cotter, Beattie & Co., general merchandise and lumber manufacturers, of Ishpeming, Mich., are involved.... The commission firm of Harmon, Sprance & Co., of Chicago, has suspended. A shortage in errors amounting to 1,000,000 bushels is said to be the cause of the failure.

A REUTER'S (London) dispatch says that five horse-thieves, whose names are unknown, were hanged at Rocky Point, on the Missouri River, by a band of cowboys, organized for the purpose of cleaning out the thieves infesting that section. Thirty-two stolen horses were recovered. This makes a total of thirteen horse-thieves hanged and shot in the Judith and Musselshell districts within the past few weeks.

JUDGE REININGER, at Mason City, Iowa, has decided that the prohibition law of the State is constitutional. At Muscatine a similar decision has been rendered, but an appeal has been taken.... The owners of 50,000 head of cattle in Oklahoma have formed a pool with a capital of $1,000 from the residence of Col. Ray, one of the leading cattle men, and will employ one man and eight horses for every thousand head. By a boiler explosion at Mount Vernon, Ohio, two tramps sleeping in a blacksmith shop near the scene were killed and one named John Carey and the other unknown.... Some boys playing in a lumber-yard at Davenport unearthed a key containing several pounds of counterfeit 10-cent pieces, bearing the date of 1847. Many carrier pigeons liberated at Springfield, Ill., flew to Cleveland in about eight hours.

THE Rev. Dr. Henry Cosgrove, Vicar-General of the Diocese of Davenport, Iowa, who became its administrator on the death of Bishop McMullen, has been appointed to succeed that ecclesiastic as Bishop of the diocese. The Latin & Rand Powder Company attached the property of the St. Louis Steel Tube Company, and Hon. Ethan Hitchcock was appointed provisional receiver. It is stated that an extension of all that is needed by the company, as their assets are ample to meet all claims. The capital of the company is $5,000,000, and the bonded debt, $2,250,000.

Judge Blodgett has decided that the Chicago branch of Marshall Field & Co. of Montreal must pay internal-revenue taxes on what money it uses in business at Chicago, which decision will average $1,750,000 per month. He gave judgment in favor of the Government for $70,228.58, with interest at per cent for the past three years.... Frank Calvert, discovered husband of the actress of that name, of Rhode Island, died suddenly in Cincinnati last week. There are suspicions of foul play, and friends suggest that he died of a broken heart at Representative S. S. Cox's. Deputy Buckingham, Oldham and other mills formed a linseed oil pool last week at a meeting at Lake Minnetonka, Minn.

BY the explosion of a steam thrashing-machine near Litchfield, Ill., two men were killed and six others were seriously scalded.... A hail-storm three miles in width caused a damage of $50,000 to crops in the vicinity of Huron, Dak.... As a result of a blow in the breast from a bull, received some weeks ago, John McDonough, catcher of the Fort Wayne ball club, died at Mt. Clemens, Mich., of quick consumption.... Since Jan. 1 3,788,163 bushels of wheat were shipped from Milwaukee, against 952,787 for the corresponding period in 1883. There are only about 77,000 bushels at present in store.

A GENTLEMAN from Philadelphia has shown the secret-service officers in Chicago a $20 Treasury note made wholly with a pen. Its execution being so complete as to deceive a keen expert.... Wear, Boogher & Co., dry goods, St. Louis, have made an assignment. The liabilities are $620,000, and the assets greatly in excess of that sum.... The cigar manufacturing firm of Louis Cohn & Co., of Chicago, has failed. The liabilities exceed $50,000. The value of the assets has not been determined.... The Mississippi River Logging Company, at a meeting at Clinton, Iowa, resolved that it was the sense of the association that the mills close down Sept. 15, provided the Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, and Iowa mills suspend operations at the same time.... At Dayton, Ohio, Dodd's hub-and-spoke works, six frame dwellings, and a number of stables and sheds were destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $75,000.... There are 24,000 names on the pay-rolls of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Road.

THE SOUTH.

BOB HUNT and Dan Parker (both colored) were hanged at Greenville, Miss. The former killed Burrel Best (colored) at Deer Creek, May 17, 1881. Both confessed their guilt.... Columbus Nelson was hanged at Houma, La., in the presence of 2,000 spectators, for the murder of John Martin, in Terre Bonne Parish. The culprit remained firm to the last.... Sam Williams, a colored man, was executed at Waynesboro, Ga., for the murder of Chas. Rucker.

MARTINET, editor of the New Orleans Standard the organ of the colored Republicans of Louisiana, recently accused the Custom House officials of sending gangs to the polls to vote, and began Civil suits. Dupont, the Naval Officer of the New Orleans Fort, resented these statements, and meeting Martinet the other day, angry words were exchanged, which led to a shooting affair, Martinet succumbing. Both were considerably damaged. Some of the adherents of Martinet and Dupont renewed the row at a later hour, and considerable blood was spilt.

A RECEIVER has been appointed for Green's Bank, at Jackson, Miss., inability to secure a loan on ample security caused the trouble. The bank holds deposits of most of the Mississippi Sheriffs, and the failure will result in much embarrassment.

NEAR Chesterton, Md., two thousand men engaged in a riot at a negro camp-meeting, in which one person was killed, fatally injured, and a number of others seriously cut. A dispatch from Chesterton gives the following particulars of the bloody affair: "Excursions were run to the colored camp-meeting in Jarrell's Woods, near Worton Station, in this county, from several points on the Chesapeake Bay and the Delaware, in the latter State, came a crowd of men who had a fund with the negroes of this county. The latter's purses on the grounds had been drinking whisky all day, and were in a belligerent humor. Parties of the Millington men commenced hoth-treat the horse of a negro from this town and precipitated a row, which 2,000 people participated, which lasted nearly three quarters of an hour during which fully one thousand shots were fired. The mob became thoroughly infuriated and carried on regardless warfare. Being reinforced by the sheriff's posse, two hundred strong, charged through the woods into the center of the camp. The news soon had arrived by speed-train from Charlestown, and promptly seven hundred more, armed to the teeth, carrying eighteen of the ring-leaders.... William Ashley, of Millington, was found dying with a bullet through his body. Many others had been used freely, and nearly every man engaged was found bleeding profusely from wounds inflicted by the enemy. Many of the Millington party were also hurt, but not dangerously. About ten men were fatally wounded."

MORRIS OLIVER, one of Malone's Lieutenants at Warrenton, Va., stole a boy containing $11,000 from the residence of Col. C. P. Cooper and hid it in a hay-stack. Once it was found the next day.... The Z & H Gunpowder Company's Fertilizer Works, at Locust Point, near Baltimore, were entirely destroyed by fire. The insurance amounts to $85,000.

COL. E. W. COLE, of Nashville, Tenn., has purchased the greater portion of Look-out Mountain, and intends to lead capitalists at work on a railway from Chattanooga to the summit, after the model of the Mount Washington Road.

WASHINGTON.

THE President has issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas guarantee negotiations are committed to the several States, the General Government cannot interfere to prevent the violation of sanitary regulations, but the power to establish quarantine and other rules and regulations for the protection of the public health is vested in the several States and municipalities within their limits, and the action of the General Government is restricted to the execution of such rules and regulations established by the States and municipalities, and to the exclusion from the United States, with the exception of such cases as may be specially provided for by treaty or law, of persons and property liable to be affected by such rules and regulations; and

"Whereas, the Congress of the United States has provided that whenever it shall appear to the President that any State or municipality has established rules and regulations in the carrying out of the provisions of section 2478, and is enforcing the same, and that any vessel or other conveyance from a foreign port is about to enter a port within such State or municipality, which vessel or conveyance is liable to be affected by such rules and regulations, and that the same are being violated or are about to be violated, he may, in his discretion, withhold or revoke the clearance of such vessel or conveyance, and may prescribe the port to which such vessel or conveyance may proceed, and the time of her departure, and the regulations under which she may proceed; and

"Whereas, it appears that the State of Louisiana has established rules and regulations in the carrying out of the provisions of section 2478, and is enforcing the same, and that vessels and other conveyances from foreign ports are about to enter ports within said State, which vessels and conveyances are liable to be affected by such rules and regulations, and that the same are being violated or are about to be violated:

"Now, therefore, I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, do hereby declare and proclaim that the provisions of section 2478 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, whether in the case or on the part of vessels or persons arriving from foreign ports or coming from the State of Louisiana, shall be enforced in the manner and to the extent provided by the laws of the United States and the regulations established thereunder, and I command all officers of the United States to perform such duties as may be required of them in the premises, and to execute the provisions of section 2478 and the regulations established thereunder, and I command all officers of the United States to prevent the violation of the same, and to prevent vessels and persons from coming into the United States from the State of Louisiana, except in conformity with the regulations established thereunder.

"In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington, this 29th day of August, A. D. 1884, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and ninth.

"CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has called for the resignation of GEO. Longstreet, United States Marshal of the District of Georgia.

Attorney General Brewster complains of Longstreet's inefficiency and carelessness, and has recommended his removal. Mr. John E. Bryant, it is thought, will succeed Longstreet.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR received a message from Queen Victoria, in which she congratulates the United States on the rescue of Lieut. Greely and his surviving companions. The President returned a suitable reply thanking the Queen, and again expressing appreciation of the timely gift of the Alert. He informed the Queen that the survivors are doing well.

POLITICAL.

THE Kansas Democratic State Convention will meet at Topeka Aug. 20, to nominate candidates for State officer.... It is said that Senator Malone will endeavor to enjoin the Secretary of State in Virginia from issuing poll-books under the new apportionment, claiming that the measure failed to pass the Legislature by a two-thirds vote.

INDEPENDENT Republicans from several States gathered in New York on the 22d for a conference. George William Curtis called the meeting to order, and Charles R. Codman was chosen President. The latter called the nomination of Blaine in touch to American manhood. Thomas Bacon said the Independents had twice defeated the aspirations of Blaine within the party. A platform was adopted declaring that the abuses of the past cannot be corrected under the leadership of the Republican nominees, and it was unanimously decided to support Cleveland and Hendricks.

IN the Sixth Iowa District Convention at Ottumwa the Democrats nominated Gen. Weaver for Congress. The free-soiled convention, held at the same time, also nominated Weaver.

EUGENE KELLY, the New York Democratic banker, has been nominated by the New York Democratic Committee for Presidential elector-at-large, vice William Purcell, of Rochester, resigned.

GENERAL.

THE National Educational Association, which drew six thousand teachers to Madison, Wis., elected Prof. Louis Soldan, of St. Louis, President. A plea for the education of women in the South, made by Miss Clara Conway, of Memphis, attracted more attention than any paper presented at the session. Monsignor Capel delivered a brief address.... During the week there were 162 failures in the United States and twenty-three in Canada. The total in both countries the previous week was 198.... A London dispatch states that the eldest daughter of Matthew Arnold is engaged to be married to Frederick Whitridge, a New York lawyer.

A CORRESPONDENT of a London journal, who was sent to investigate the commercial resources of Jamaica, reports having been so badly clubbed by bandits that he lost his hearing, but he boasts that he killed his assailant.... The cholera scare is materially affecting European travel.

MARTINDA, with a vastly increased power of the boat, estimates the yield at 9,500,000 bushels.... The Clearing House exchanges last week—$826,755,112—were $12,940,477 less than reported the previous week, and when compared with the returns for the corresponding period in 1883 show a decrease of 22.6 per cent.

THE Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph Company has announced a reduction of rates to all important points, to take effect October 1. The tariff adopted is 25 cents for ten words—ground has been drinking whisky all day, and were in a belligerent humor for fight. One of the Millington men commenced hoth-treat the horse of a negro from this town and precipitated a row, which 2,000 people participated, which lasted nearly three quarters of an hour during which fully one thousand shots were fired. The mob became thoroughly infuriated and carried on regardless warfare. Being reinforced by the sheriff's posse, two hundred strong, charged through the woods into the center of the camp. The news soon had arrived by speed-train from Charlestown, and promptly seven hundred more, armed to the teeth, carrying eighteen of the ring-leaders.... William Ashley, of Millington, was found dying with a bullet through his body. Many others had been used freely, and nearly every man engaged was found bleeding profusely from wounds inflicted by the enemy. Many of the Millington party were also hurt, but not dangerously. About ten men were fatally wounded."

MORRIS OLIVER, one of Malone's Lieutenants at Warrenton, Va., stole a box containing $11,000 from the residence of Col. C. P. Cooper and hid it in a hay-stack. Once it was found the next day.... The Z & H Gunpowder Company's Fertilizer Works, at Locust Point, near Baltimore, were entirely destroyed by fire. The insurance amounts to $85,000.

COL. E. W. COLE, of Nashville, Tenn., has purchased the greater portion of Look-out Mountain, and intends to lead capitalists at work on a railway from Chattanooga to the summit, after the model of the Mount Washington Road.

WASHINGTON.

THE President has issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas guarantee negotiations are committed to the several States, the General Government cannot interfere to prevent the violation of sanitary regulations, but the power to establish quarantine and other rules and regulations for the protection of the public health is vested in the several States and municipalities within their limits, and the action of the General Government is restricted to the execution of such rules and regulations established by the States and municipalities, and to the exclusion from the United States, with the exception of such cases as may be specially provided for by treaty or law, of persons and property liable to be affected by such rules and regulations; and

"Whereas, the Congress of the United States has provided that whenever it shall appear to the President that any State or municipality has established rules and regulations in the carrying out of the provisions of section 2478, and is enforcing the same, and that any vessel or other conveyance from a foreign port is about to enter a port within such State or municipality, which vessel or conveyance is liable to be affected by such rules and regulations, and that the same are being violated or are about to be violated, he may, in his discretion, withhold or revoke the clearance of such vessel or conveyance, and may prescribe the port to which such vessel or conveyance may proceed, and the time of her departure, and the regulations under which she may proceed; and

"Whereas, it appears that the State of Louisiana has established rules and regulations in the carrying out of the provisions of section 2478, and is enforcing the same, and that vessels and other conveyances from foreign ports are about to enter ports within said State, which vessels and conveyances are liable to be affected by such rules and regulations, and that the same are being violated or are about to be violated:

"Now, therefore, I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, do hereby declare and proclaim that the provisions of section 2478 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, whether in the case or on the part of vessels or persons arriving from foreign ports or coming from the State of Louisiana, shall be enforced in the manner and to the extent provided by the laws of the United States and the regulations established thereunder, and I command all officers of the United States to perform such duties as may be required of them in the premises, and to execute the provisions of section 2478 and the regulations established thereunder, and I command all officers of the United States to prevent the violation of the same, and to prevent vessels and persons from coming into the United States from the State of Louisiana, except in conformity with the regulations established thereunder.

"In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington, this 29th day of August, A. D. 1884, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and ninth.

"CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has called for the resignation of GEO. Longstreet, United States Marshal of the District of Georgia.

Attorney General Brewster complains of Longstreet's inefficiency and carelessness, and has recommended his removal. Mr. John E. Bryant, it is thought, will succeed Longstreet.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR received a message from Queen Victoria, in which she congratulates the United States on the rescue of Lieut. Greely and his surviving companions. The President returned a suitable reply thanking the Queen, and again expressing appreciation of the timely gift of the Alert. He informed the Queen that the survivors are doing well.

POLITICAL.

THE Kansas Democratic State Convention will meet at Topeka Aug. 20, to nominate candidates for State officer.... It is said that Senator Malone will endeavor to enjoin the Secretary of State in Virginia from issuing poll-books under the new apportionment, claiming that the measure failed to pass the Legislature by a two-thirds vote.

INDEPENDENT Republicans from several States gathered in New York on the 22d for a conference. George William Curtis called the meeting to order, and Charles R. Codman was chosen President. The latter called the nomination of Blaine an insult to American manhood. Thomas Bacon said the Independents had twice defeated the aspirations of Blaine within the party. A platform was adopted declaring that the abuses of the past cannot be corrected under the leadership of the Republican nominees, and it was unanimously decided to support Cleveland and Hendricks.

IN the Sixth Iowa District Convention at Ottumwa the Democrats nominated Gen. Weaver for Congress. The free-soiled convention, held at the same time, also nominated Weaver.

EUGENE KELLY, the New York Democratic banker, has been nominated by the New York Democratic Committee for Presidential elector-at-large, vice William Purcell, of Rochester, resigned.

GENERAL.

THE National Educational Association, which drew six thousand teachers to Madison, Wis., elected Prof. Louis Soldan, of St. Louis, President. A plea for the education of women in the South, made by Miss Clara Conway, of Memphis, attracted more attention than any paper presented at the session. Monsignor Capel delivered a brief address.... During the week there were 162 failures in the United States and twenty-three in Canada. The total in both countries the previous week was 198.... A London dispatch states that the eldest daughter of Matthew Arnold is engaged to be married to Frederick Whitridge, a New York lawyer.

A CORRESPONDENT of a London journal, who was sent to investigate the commercial resources of Jamaica, reports having been so badly clubbed by bandits that he lost his hearing, but he boasts that he killed his assailant.... The cholera scare is materially affecting European travel.

MARTINDA, with a vastly increased power of the boat, estimates the yield at 9,500,000 bushels.... The Clearing House exchanges last week—$826,755,112—were $12,940,477 less than reported the previous week, and when compared with the returns for the corresponding period in 1883 show a decrease of 22.6 per cent.

THE Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph Company has announced a reduction of rates to all important points, to take effect October 1. The tariff adopted is 25 cents for ten words—about half the present Western Union charge.... John C. Ems, the well-known New York banker, has rented a furnished house in Quebec, and has been joined by his wife and three children.

ALEXANDER SULLIVAN, President of the Irish National League, has called a convention at Boston for Aug. 15, on which occasion addresses will be delivered by Thomas Sexton and John E. Redmond.

FOREIGN.

THERE was a great demonstration of the English Socialists and unemployed laborers in London to condemn the action of the House of Lords in rejecting the franchise bill.... The various divisions carried huge banners, and the meeting on approval of Mr. Gladstone's course in managing the Lords. The streets through which the procession marched on its way to Hyde Park were densely thronged. Agricultural laborers were loudly cheered. At Hyde Park the great meeting was addressed by several noted Radicals. Resolutions were adopted denouncing the House of Lords as a tool of the landlords, unpopular and lacking, and expressing warm approval of Mr. Gladstone's political course.... Philip Chatham, who was an inmate of the Dublin Jail in 1881, has just died, at the age of 97.... A fire at Wapping, England, destroyed $200,000 worth of dock property. Other arrests have been made in Dublin in connection with the dynamite plot.... Another scandal.... Dr. Oscar Henry Haskins, an eminent English surgeon, is dead.

THE cholera epidemic at Toulon and Marseilles shows no indication of abating, says a cable dispatch. A panic was created at Toulon by the arrival of 100 coffins ordered from Hyeres. In order to allay the excitement it was found necessary to cremate the victims. The Russian Governor at Tiflis ordered strict guard at the frontier, and was stationed at the entrance of the city, and the Spanish Government has established a strong cordon at the Pyrenees. Reviews of cholera are reported to have occurred at Paris, Vienna, and Madrid.

A CURIOUS Wapping docks, London, swept away property valued at $2,500,000. About 1,000 tons of pepper, nearly one-third of the entire stock in London, was destroyed.

IT is probable that the conference of the European powers on the Egyptian question will result in nothing. France refuses to agree to England's financial proposals. It is not likely that the conference will meet again, although Granville is empowered to call the members together at any time.

The steamer Gipsy and Lurline collided off Comoma, Spain, and both sank almost immediately. Fifty-six persons were landed, and it is believed that no lives were lost.

KING John of Abyssinia announces his purpose to abolish slavery and the slave trade in his dominions.... The cholera has appeared at Brignoles and other points in the south of France.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

THE French Academy of Medicine proposes an international congress to discuss the prevention and cure of cholera. Dr. Koch has urged that the congress meet in Berlin.... A Marseilles dispatch says: "The suspect here is becoming sombier. The steamer which arrives weekly from Algeria is suppressed. The line to Syria is stopped. The South American packets have ceased to call here. The evacuations offices and quays are deserted. There are many funerals during the night, the burials being performed by the aid of lanterns. The Mayor has interdicted the annual fair, and forbids the processions of Aug. 15."

AN organization under the name of the Miners Amalgamated Association is being perfected in the bituminous and anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania and Ohio. It is estimated that a membership of 100,000 has already been obtained. The organization will be extended to the West. The leaders claim it will be protective in character, and that strikes will be inaugurated as far as is consistent with the interests of the members.

IN the National Prohibition Convention at Pittsburgh, a Maryland delegate stated that the administration had sent the Commissioners of Pensions and Indian Affairs to enforce the murderous views of the political action. R. H. McDonald, of California; John P. St. John, of Kansas; and other were placed in nomination for President, but the overwhelming sentiment in favor of the latter caused him to be selected by acclamation as the candidate. William Daniel, of Maryland, was nominated for Vice President. The platform favors the abolition of internal revenue taxes on liquors and tobacco, and declares that the ballot should be placed in the hands of women for her protection....

Two Prohibition State Conventions were held in Indianapolis. One faction was opposed to the nomination of a State ticket, while the other placed B. S. Hodgkins in the field for Governor....

At the meeting of the new Democratic National Committee, at New York, the Hon. William H. Barnum, of Connecticut, was made chairman, and the Hon. F. O. Prince, of Massachusetts, Secretary.... The Democrats of West Virginia, in convention at Wheeling, nominated E. Willis Wilson for Governor, and indorsed the national ticket and platform.

A CYCLONE struck the mill-yard at Connellsville, Pa., has been destroyed by fire. The loaded was burned at bed, containing 2,000 barrels of whisky, was also burned and the bed in which was 47,000 barrels of the whisky $750,000. Both the burned and yards were fully insured. A number of those who rescued drunk of the whisky as it flowed from the warehouse, and got drunk.... An assignment has been made by Hand & Ellsworth, paper dealers in New York, whose liabilities are about $200,000.

BURNING a thunderstorm at Des Moines, Iowa, lightning fired four houses, which were entirely consumed, and a large dairy barn in the suburbs, causing a loss of $20,000. The storm was the heaviest known in the history of the city. The wholesale cigar house of Frederick Deutsch, in Chicago, has been closed by the sheriff. His assets are estimated at $80,000, and he has been doing a business of $450,000 per annum. Three men were killed on a farm near Rushville, Ind., by the explosion of a steam thrasher, and five others received serious injuries.

A LONDON dispatch says: "It is persistently asserted in Catholic circles that there is a great likelihood of Mary Anderson joining the Clementine nuns." The Irish rifle-team won the Elcho shield at Wimbledon, England.

THE Supreme Court of Virginia has decided that the act passed by the last Legislature of that State prohibiting the interference of School Superintendents in politics is unconstitutional.

It is the way of half the truth amid which we live, that the falsehood runs in and makes dull pulsations that are never hornsinto sound.—George Elliot.

THE MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$ 5 00	@ 6 85
HOGS	5 35	@ 6 25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 03	@ 1 03½
No. 3 Red	93	@ 93
No. 2 Chicago	1 01	@ 1 01½
No. 2 Red	1 00	@ 1 00½
CORN—Mixed Western	56	@ 56½
No. 2	57	@ 57½
OATS—Mixed Western	36	@ 41
White	40	@ 45
RYE	70	@ 72
BARLEY	65	@ 70
PORK—Mess, new	11 25	@ 11 50

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Shipping Steers	4 50	@ 5 80
Good to Choice Cows	2 50	@ 3 75
Common to Fair	1 50	@ 2 40
HOGS—Packing and Mixed	5 00	@ 5 40
WHEAT—No. 2 Red Winter	1 00	@ 1 00½
No. 2 Red Spring	1 00	@ 1 00½
CORN—No. 2	46	@ 46½
OATS—No. 2	30	@ 30½
RYE—No. 2	69	@ 69½
BARLEY—No. 2	62	@ 62½
PORK—Mess	11 00	@ 11 00
LARD	7 12½	@ 7 15
Dressed Hogs, per lb	4 90	@ 5 00
Live Hogs, per lb	4 50	@ 4 60

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	97	@ 97
CORN—No. 2	46	@ 46
OATS—No. 2	30	@ 30

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 2	91	@ 92
No. 2 Spring	91	@ 92
CORN—No. 2	45	@ 45½
OATS—No. 2	29	@ 29½
RYE—No. 1	65	@ 65½
BARLEY—No. 2	62	@ 62½

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2	94	@ 95
No. 2 Red	96	@ 97
CORN—No. 2	38	@ 38½
OATS—No. 2	28	@ 28½
RYE	65	@ 65½

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	96	@ 97
CORN—No. 2 Mixed	46	@ 46½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	30	@ 30½
RYE—No. 2	65	@ 65½
Hogs	5 00	@ 5 50

DETROIT.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1 00	@ 1 00
CORN—Mixed	46	@ 46
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	31	@ 31
RYE	65	@ 65
Hogs—Mess	5 00	@ 5 50

INDIANAPOLIS.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	91	@ 92
CORN—No. 2	46	@ 46½
OATS—No. 2	30	@ 30½

EAST LIBERTY.

CATTLE—Best	5 50	@ 6 00
Fair	4 75	@ 5 00
Common	3 50	@ 4 00
Hogs	5 00	@ 5 50
SHEEP	5 00	@ 5 50

RESCUED JUST IN TIME.

Lieut. Greeley and Six of His Men Found Off Cape Sabine, in Smith's Sound.

The Remainder of the Party Died of Cold and Starvation—Terrible Tales of Suffering.

The following dispatch from Commander Schley to the Secretary of the Navy tells the story of the rescue of Lieut. Greely and his six surviving comrades:

The Hon. William E. Chandler, Secretary of the Navy, Washington:

Thetis, Bear, and Loch Garry arrived here from West Greenland at noon to-day, and received from the Alert 18 men, 6 of whom were rescued by me at Cape Sabine, in Smith's Sound, the remainder having died. Lieut. A. W. Greely, U. S. A., and Sergt. Frederick W. Ralston, Private Charles W. Ellison, the only survivors of the last sledge party, were found in their sleeping-bags and tent by trust-like, a dead body being immediately outside. Their condition was pronounced by the surgeons of the Alert to be most critical, and that becoming imperative. Seventeen of the party had died from starvation at the point we reached, and were drowned while attempting to move from there. Twelve victims of the disaster were recovered by the Thetis and Bear. Lieutenan Emerick was drowned while attempting to cross a channel in the medicine case, and the crew of the Loch Garry, while engaged in recovering the bodies of the unfortunates, was nearly lost by winds and currents before they could be recovered. The names of the recovered, with dates of death, are as follows: Lieut. Edwards died Jan. 1, Doctor Pavy, March 9; Sergt. Linn, April 9; Sergt. Israel, April 19; Sergt. Jewell, April 21; Ellis, May 19; Sergt. Rice, June 6; Sergt. Henry, June 7. Private Schneider, whose name on the list of dead is not recovered, nor is the date of death of Lieut. Lockwood, Sergt. Brainard, Jasper, June 6; Associate surgeon Pavy, Sergeant Gardner, June 13, breaking through nearly ruined ice-floes. Lieut. Edwards died on each day.

I would respectfully suggest that the services of Lieut. Greely and party be placed in suitable recognition of their heroic devotion to duty, and their remarkable endurance. All the officers reached Lichfield Bay, Sept. 29, and all the men on the 30th, except Ellis, who died on the 29th. Lockwood and Brainard reached Baird Inlet Sept. 28 instead of Oct. 9, as reported. The Alert and Bear left Disco, Greenland, Sept. 30, and the Thetis and Loch Garry on Oct. 1. The Alert and Bear arrived at Portland, England, Oct. 21, and the Thetis and Loch Garry at Kirkwall, Scotland, Oct. 22. The Alert and Bear arrived at Portsmouth, England, Oct. 24, and the Thetis and Loch Garry at Aberdeen, Scotland, Oct. 25

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic Nominations.

For President—
GROVER CLEVELAND, of New York.

For Vice President—
THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, of Indiana.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention to nominate candidates for state officers, and for election of President and Vice-President of the United States, and for the transaction of other business will be held in the City of Grand Rapids, in Powers' Opera House, on commencing at 12 o'clock noon.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1884,

All voters of this state, irrespective of party associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for a reform of abuses, such a pure and economical administration of government, and all who favor a reduction of tariff taxation, and a reform of our tariff laws, are cordially invited to participate in sending delegates to this convention.

Each county is entitled to one delegate for each 500 votes cast for Governor at the last general election, and one for every fraction of a less than 250 votes. Every organized county is entitled to at least two delegates, and under the rule adopted a delegate must be a resident of the county he represents.

JEROME EDDY, Chairman.

H. E. PENNINGTON, Secretary.

Charlevoix county is entitled to two delegates.

Notes and News.

Niles has a Cleveland and Hendricks club with 300 names.

Gen. A. M. West declines to serve as candidate for vice president on the ticket with Gen. Butler.

The Cedar Springs Clipper gives a four column account of the fire in that village, footing up losses to the amount of $162,000.

It is stated that the Cleveland scandal finds no circulation and support in Buffalo, save in a characterless rag devoted to sensation and calumny. Respectable republican papers dare not print it, and while they apparently deprecate its circulation, they are doing all they can with it to defeat Mr. Cleveland.

